

Class PN1993

Book .M44

Copyright No.

COPYRIGHT DEPOSIT.

Scanned from the collections of
The Library of Congress

Packard Campus for Audio Visual Conservation www.loc.gov/avconservation

Motion Picture and Television Reading Room
www.loc.gov/rr/mopic

Recorded Sound Reference Center
www.loc.gov/rr/record

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

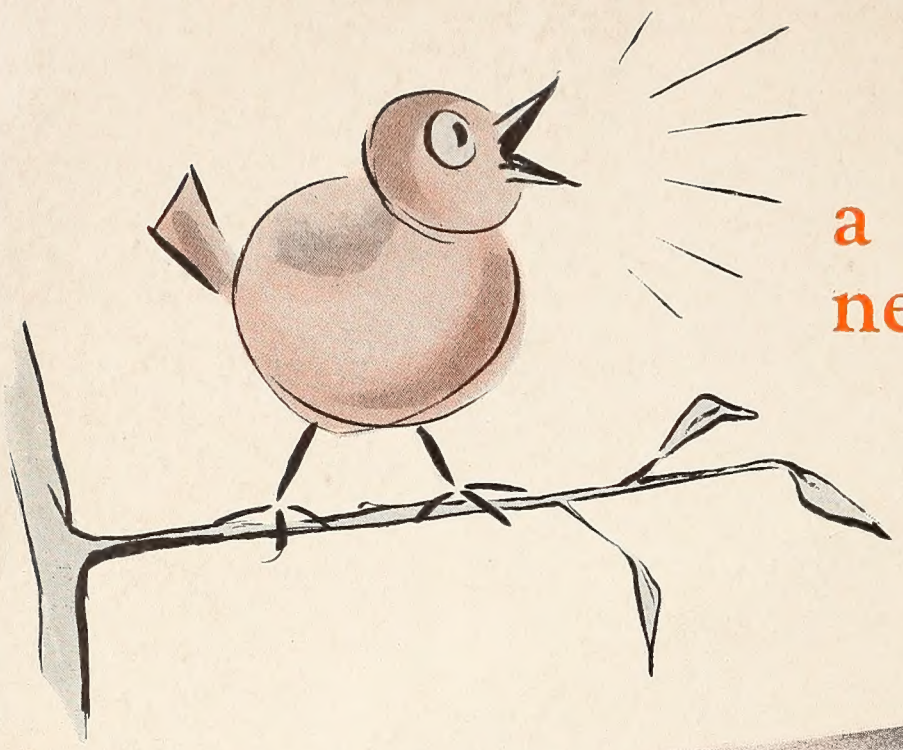
A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

ADVERTISING

".....advertising and sales are important for a good product even when times are easy, but infinitely more so when times are tough..."

from a letter by CARL LAEMMLE to Printers' Ink, a journal for advertisers.

LEADERSHIP



"Business is much more likely to follow where it is led than it is to be attracted by those who act as though they are about to desert it"

says HAROLD FRANKLIN, guest editor of this week's Managers' Round Table Club section, in the first of a series from leading showmen

Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office, at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Pub-

April 1, 1933

PN 1993
.M44

a cheerful new note—

In "Today We Live" the stellar honors are shared by Joan Crawford and Gary Cooper. Directed by Howard Hawks it is a picture of which M-G-M is justly proud!

★The above painting of Joan Crawford by William Cotton is the first of a series of caricatures of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stars by famous artists

The first of a series of STAR caricatures by celebrated artists reaching millions in the fan magazines.

For bright days ahead, M-G-M steps out in the fan magazines with a brand new idea in direct-to-your-public advertising. It's a cheerful, earful of ballyhoo about one of M-G-M's Springtime parade of hits! Here they come:

* BARRYMORES in "Rasputin and the Empress"
* GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE with Walter Huston
* LIONEL BARRYMORE in "Service" (title to be changed)
* HELEN HAYES CLARK GABLE in "The White Sister"
* JOAN CRAWFORD GARY COOPER in "Today We Live"
* JOHN BARRYMORE in "Reunion in Vienna" with Diana Wynyard
* HELL BELOW with ROBERT MONTGOMERY Walter Huston, Madge Evans, Jimmy Durante, Robert Young
* RAMON NOVARRO in "The Barbarian"
* MADE ON BROADWAY with ROBERT MONTGOMERY
* MARION DAVIES in "Peg O' My Heart"

APRIL 7th you'll get just what you've been

THIRSTING

for...from WARNER BROS.

With
Gene Raymond, Monroe Owsley, Frank McHugh.
Directed by Robert Florey
VITAGRAPH, INC., DISTRIBUTORS

M.P.B. 20/III/33

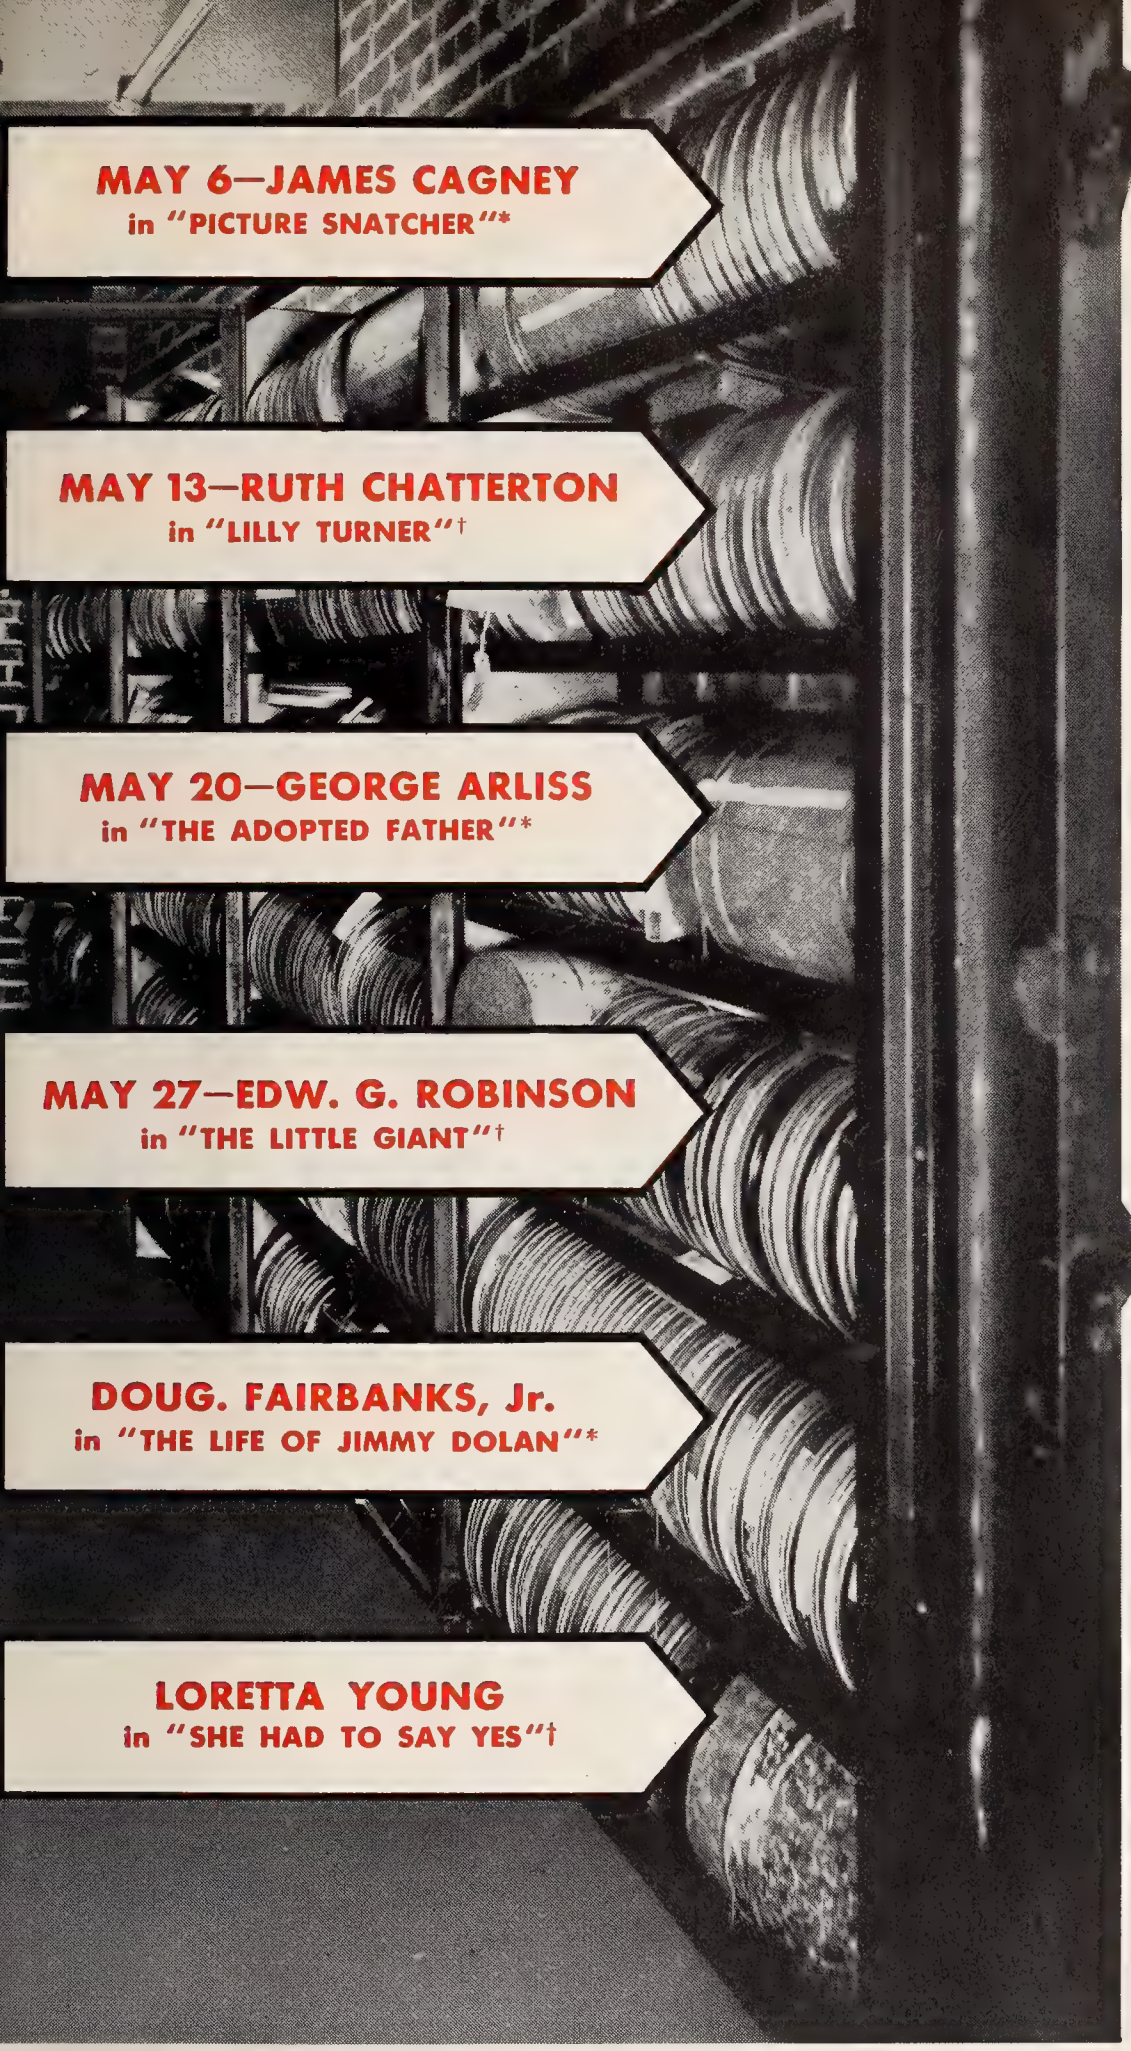
BETTE DAVIS in "EX-LADY"

She wanted to wear a wedding ring—on certain nights!

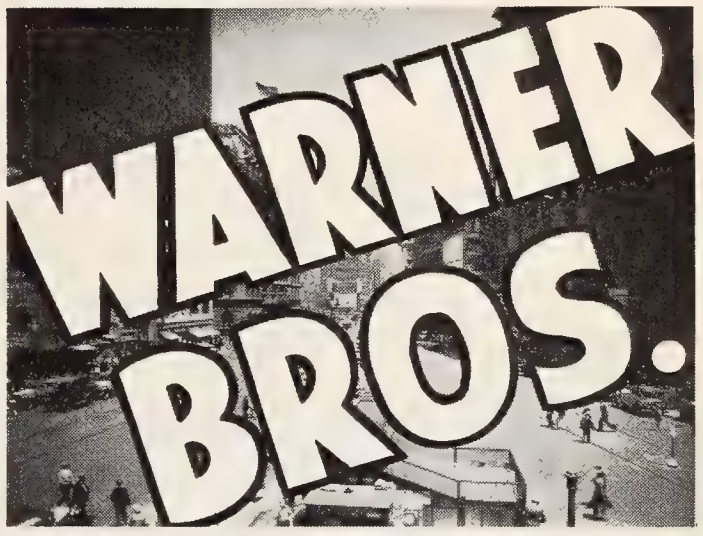
We frankly admit we are

HOARDING PICTURES

for your protection!



THIS VAULT



AT 321 WEST 44TH STREET GUARDS THE FUTURE OF YOUR THEATRE!

FAMOUS QUOTATIONS

"Warners are doing a better job than anyone else in the business."— Kann in M. P. Daily, Mar. 23

No wonder you can't see anything else on Broadway but

RADIO CITY, MAR. 30 . "The Keyhole"

PARAMOUNT, APR. 7 "The Mind Reader"

RIALTO, MAR. 31 . . . . . "Girl Missing"

STRAND, NOW . . . . . "42nd Street"

STRAND, APR. 6 . . . "Central Airport"

It contains enough completed pictures — and big enough pictures — to keep you operating at a profit for weeks to come!...With more consecutive big star names than even Warner Bros. have given you all season! . . . Ready now for immediate week-after-week release!

*A Warner Bros. Picture †A First National Picture Vitagraph, Inc., Distributors

• ROPE YOUR LOBBY
• GET EXTRA USHERS
• CALL THE RESERVES

for APRIL 15th
general release date of

★

CAVALCADE

PICTURE of the GENERATION

A
FOX
ACHIEVEMENT

★ blasted the road-show jinx in 53 American cities

★ compelled extended time at road-show prices in town after town

★ now roaring into its fourth month in New York at $1.65 top.

★ led February Box Office Champions on the road-show trade alone

★ millions of men and women have been saving to see it at popular prices

MAR 31 1933

©C1B 188137

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. III, No. 1 — April 1, 1933

CULLMANATION

THE Broadway scene of the motion picture, which in consequence makes it a national industry matter, is being considerably and conspicuously littered by the application of a fire-sale technique of dilettante showmanship at the old, the original Roxy theatre.

A great deal has been said and more could be said about the follies erected upon that site, some in brick and steel and some in what might loosely be called policy.

It has been observed that the best thing that could have happened to the industry would have been the closing of the theatre. An even better thing would have been a decision to let it sleep in the dreams of the builders. It is made increasingly clear every day that none of the many expedients of showmanship has been applied. Perhaps none of them could have succeeded. That, however, is scarcely to be accepted as justification for resort to policies and practises subversive of the interests of the motion picture, the institution by and with which the project must live, if it lives.

The old Roxy has been of late conspicuous. A considerable part of its advertising and publicity has been calculated to challenge attention by addressing itself to the new Roxy over at Radio City, instead of to the box office customers.

The most important result of this has been the frequent publication of the name of Mr. Howard S. Cullman, the receiver, in the daily press. That to be sure is an attainment in itself, although to some observers the immediate value to box office or investors in the theatre is not violently obvious.

There has been much talking to Albany and Washington about picture concerns which have declined to lease product to be subjected to what they consider a process of swift depreciation by the policy of the old Roxy. It may be observed that perhaps not deep-dyed conspiracy but plain commonsense might impel a majority of all producers and distributors to such a decision. The fame of attendance built on cut prices and tooth paste cartons travels far. Now it happens that a picture is to be evaluated by the consuming public's state of mind about it. The creation and support of that state of mind is the business of the picture distributor and its existence is his property, the essence of his property. The rest of it is just so many pounds of film in a can. The picture which plays the old Roxy has about it a large potential area of performance. The Roxy stands in the heart of the Broadway zone, which is the heart of the greatest single film territory in the United States. The picture branded with either fame or failure, or price or rating of any order, here is branded for the world.

The problems of the old Roxy are real enough, but they are not motion picture problems. Rather they are the sequels to a promotion, an operation in real estate and securities based upon it. This is not peculiar to the Roxy and Broadway, for a very larger proportion of the ills of the day are from burdens growing out of promotions and real estate. The picture industry cannot do anything about that. Its business is pictures for the consuming public.

The fortunes of the screen are not to be sacrificed to fire sale exhibition policies for the transient relief of the victims of yesterday's promotions.

△ △ △

IN ASSES' MILK

POPPAEA, the empress of Rome, had her beauty baths in a daily pool of asses' milk. That kept her sweet and pretty for Nero and Rome. It cost a great deal of labor, men and money, to say nothing about asses, but it was worth it. Mr. Cecil B. DeMille recently reminded us of this with his "The Sign of the Cross."

Out in Hollywood, in order to conduce to the efficiency of some of the sweet and pretty princesses of the screen, and some of the not so pretty princes, which is to say stars, master-producers, et al., there are on various lots various bungalows, lapis coloured swimming pools and the like. They cost a bit, but of course they are worth it, because they contribute to the intangible values of merry morale among the creative artists. Their moods are translated into screen moods.

Now here in New York and variously about the nation are a number of persons known as advertising and publicity men, and salesmen, all concerned with the business of creating a state of mind in the trade and with the public concerning these same wares. These persons and their morale are quite important, too. When the world looks glum to them, they do not precisely radiate optimism, nor write and think in terms of lure and glamour for sale at the box office. Right now with the stringent revisions of payroll in effect for the "eight week holiday" they think in terms of ham and eggs.

One of the week's choicest indiscretions has been in permitting the percolation of a story that an executive leader lost $2,200 in a poker game the other night. One of the hired hands, with a salary cut to a whisper, whose wife is expecting a baby next week, made some very ungentlemanly remarks, which we will not quote.

△ △ △

WRITING on the first day of the Spring of '33, what with the sleet and rain over Central Park, the news from Germany, the jittery market, the jittery state of certain western areas, the fussing about 3.2 and this and that, it is our grim pleasure to remind you that Mr. George Bowles, formerly of Broadway and movieland, has a cottage on the beach in Tahiti and goes over to the Blue Lagoon hotel for vermouth cassis every afternoon. Down there fifty dollars a month is a fortune and the girls wear hibiscus flowers over the left ear.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD — MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Roveistad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

as the camera shutter snapped preserving a swift moment of beautiful peril

Taunted, the great beast leaped, and Mr. Beatty, as lithe, whipped his chair in front of him. For an instant beast, chair and man were composed in that flow and pattern of line and curve which identify all graphic art—and in this creation, name the dramatic instruments of the motion picture. The subject represents an episode in "The Big Cage," produced by Universal from a story by Edward Anthony, with direction by Kurt Neumann. Cinematography is by George Robinson. Cast: Clyde Beatty, Andy Devine, Vince Barnett, Wallace Ford, Anita Page. Still photography by BERT SIX

WESTERNS ON WAY OUT AS PUBLIC TASTE CHANGES

Production Being Reduced 50 to 75 Per Cent; Several Companies Dropping "Horse Operas" Altogether Next Year

Reasons Cited Include Move Against Double Features, Money Limitations, Restriction of Action in Sound Films

The "horse-opera"—last shadowgraphic frontier of the Old West—is about to ride over the proverbial cliff into oblivion. A rapidly declining market for westerns is cutting down production of this type of feature 50 to 75 per cent in Hollywood, threatening to eliminate them completely from the releasing schedules of motion picture distributors.

Large and small distributors on both coasts currently agree that the market for westerns is narrowing daily. Several companies will abandon such production completely, while others plan curtailment. Numerous reasons are given, among them, the movement against showing double features; stringent money conditions which affected "poverty row," from which many series of westerns emanated; change in public taste; artificial stimulation of the western market; restricted action in pictures as a result of sound.

Recent experiences of some of Hollywood's leading "two-gun" men, for one thing, leads to the belief that film cowboys are about to doff their chaps and spurs. Three years hence they may take them out of the trunk again, but it is obvious that the market has been greatly curtailed, and independent and other producers of westerns are reducing the number accordingly.

Turning to Melodramas

From the production point of view, the last eight months have seen the most severe decline in the market of westerns that has been observed in years. As a result, independent producers on the wholesale are turning almost exclusively to other types of pictures, chiefly melodramas.

Such famous screen swashbucklers as Tom Mix, Tom Keene, Ken Maynard, Tim McCoy, Buck Jones, and others of the two-gun clan, are making efforts to adapt themselves to the new condition. Mix has gone back to circus life, declaring that he began his career with the circus, and would wind it up under the big tops. Tim McCoy will make a series of probably 16 for Columbia, but it may be his last series for that company. Irving Briskin, in charge of Columbia's western production in Hollywood, said no agreement had been reached with Buck Jones on financial phases of a new contract. He has completed his present contract.

From Columbia's headquarters in New York, Vice-president Jack Cohn attributed the decline to over-production of westerns. "There are far too many made," he said. Columbia is handling 16 in the current season and the same number probably will prevail during 1933-34.

Harry Thomas, of First Division Pictures, largest physical distributor of independent pictures, said the falling off of westerns is entirely due to a change in public taste. He said it is still too early to determine definitely how many westerns would be released by his company during the coming season. Sixteen were marketed this year.

Mayfair Pictures has not released any westerns, nor does the company contemplate making any.

An executive of Universal, which had been one of the most important factors in the western field, said that there was a certain amount of artificial stimulation of the western market about two years ago and that many had the mistaken thought that by making westerns the era of socalled "sophistication," which was spreading to youngsters from 12 to 16 years of age, could be combatted effectively. Universal will release six westerns in 1933-34, the same as this year.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum will abandon westerns completely, according to Merian C. Cooper, production executive. He said this decision was attributable to the general market decline of western features. RKO currently is releasing a series of six.

Warners, too, probably will end their western activities with the current series of six. First National does not produce westerns, nor does United Artists or Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. MGM has not released any westerns in two years. The last, starring Tim McCoy, was released in 1929-30.

No Fox Plans for New Year

Fox will release only four westerns this season, while no plans have been set for the new year. George O'Brien is starred in the current group, three of which already have been marketed.

Three of six starring Tom Tyler have been made available by Freuler Film Associates, which has not completed any plans for next season's releases.

Paramount is a participant in the western field through a group of socalled "modernized" Zane Grey westerns, two of which were released this season, with at least two more scheduled.

Educational-World Wide's entire series of eight western features, starring Ken Maynard, will be released this season. No plans have been made for next season.

For the first time in his long cowboy career, Columbia's Buck Jones appears currently in a role far removed from the corral and wide open spaces, in a setting of skyscrapers and night clubs, in "Child of Manhattan." In this, he plays an adventurer on Broadway, and later, in a Mexican border resort.

Because of unsettled conditions in production and the subsequent tightening of money, independent companies making westerns have not as yet formulated their programs for next season, but several leading producers indicate they will make few westerns, or none at all.

Trem Carr, Monogram's production executive declares there has been a "terrific decrease" in the market for westerns, which is affecting in a large way Monogram's plans for next season. The curtailed market, he said, will bring about a reduction in the production of westerns amounting to 50 or 75 per cent. Unless there is a revival in the market, which is not expected, his company will make no westerns next season. Monogram this season completed 10 westerns on a schedule calling for 16.

"Of course, this decline may be only seasonal, with a return in three years or so," he said.

Mr. Carr said the decline in popularity of westerns and serials was particularly noticeable in the South. In other days, Mr. Carr said, a producer of westerns could take from the South, alone, two-thirds or more of his production cost. If a picture cost $5,000, the producer was assured of getting $3,000 of it from that one territory. But the South has been most seriously hit by the depression, which also may be a big factor, Mr. Carr thinks.

The foreign market for westerns, Mr. Carr said, has dwindled to nothing. In England they are not wanted at all now.

Modernizing Westerns

A most interesting aspect, affecting not only westerns but other types of pictures, is given by Pell Mitchell, production manager of Larry Darmour studios. Mr. Mitchell believes the public taste has changed, and that the socalled "hicks," in the true sense of the word, have disappeared.

"For one thing, westerns must have a more romantic atmosphere," Mr. Mitchell pointed out. "The people are satiated with the old-time, stereotyped, rubber-stamped 'horse-operas.'"

Mr. Mitchell also attributes the decline of the western to the advent of sound. He declared sound has the tendency to slow up action, and pictures "lack the old-time zip and dash."

The Darmour studios are planning no westerns on their forthcoming program. The last one was "Vanishing Frontier," with Johnny Mack Brown, which was released by Paramount.

For Children's Matinees

Charles Hutchinson, long a producer of westerns and serials, is of the same opinion as Carr and Mitchell. He declared the market was so far off that his company had turned to the production of melodramas, and was making some inexpensive three-reel westerns for children's matinees on Saturday afternoons.

Kelly-Bischoff-Saal produced eight pictures starring Ken Maynard prior to Maynard's recent signing with Universal. KBS plans to make pictures as a unit with some other distribution outlet than Educational-World Wide, but no westerns are contemplated.

Allied Productions recently wound up a series of eight westerns starring Hoot Gibson. Because of the weak market, Allied has decided to make no more westerns for a while, and consequently has failed to renew its contract with Gibson.

Mascot Pictures has struck upon a unique solution. They are injecting into their western features and serials a bit of modern life and action, using airplanes instead of horses, in a chase of villains, and other such phases, in which they have met some success.

J. L. Wickland, production manager for Mascot, believes there will always be a demand for some westerns. "Perhaps some of the producers are suffering from over-production of westerns," he said. "We are modernizing them."

THIS WEEK - - - -

SING SING PROFITS

Toward "the boys inside" the thought of able, liberal penologist Lewis E. Lawes, famed warden of New York's Sing Sing, ever is directed. When Warner filmed the Lawes' book, "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing," the warden stipulated, Warner acquiesced, that a portion of profit accruing go not to the author, but to the financing of a Sing Sing gymnasium, drill hall. To Sing Sing's publicized football team will be added a basketball aggregation when the gym is ready next fall. For the moment to his former profession will turn an architect-prisoner to design the building. . . .

THE HITLER THUMB

Under the heavy thumb terminating the long arm of Germany's belligerent, Chaplin-mustached Nazi leader, Chancellor Hitler, has fallen Victor Trivas, director of the internationally-flavored "Hell on Earth," shortly to have Broadway exhibit under the sponsorship of newly formed Aeolian Pictures Corporation. With Herr Trivas on the Hitlerian proscribed list has gone also his picture. Two reasons, claims Aeolian: a Jew is importantly part of the picture, the film pleads against racial bigotry, militarism, narrow nationalism. . . .

PENNED LEGISLATOR

Many and many a day will E. D. Jordan have at his disposal in the near future to ruminate on the wisdom of utter scrupulousness in legislative practice, while with numbered alias, he frets two years in Alabama's state penitentiary. Off the beaten path trod onetime state senator Jordan when he solicited a bribe ($250) from Lee Castleberry, Gadsden, Ala., theatre manager, for passage of a bill permitting Gadsden Sabbath amusements. Convicted, Jordan's hope for a new trial went glimmering when the county circuit court at Montgomery said no. . . .

SWIMMING POOL

Unprecedented will be the purpose of the benefit program to occupy the stage of the Capitol theatre in New York on April 1, for which screen, stage, radio stars have voluntered talents. The purpose: a swimming pool for the White House, its occupant and the best interests of his physical wellbeing. . . .

UNFINISHED WORK

Forever unfinished must remain a practical work on the merchandising of motion pictures recently begun by Ira Glucksman, no veteran in years, yet splendidly well-schooled in exploitation problems. For several years young Mr. Glucksman authored special exploitation articles for Paramount's onetime house organ Publix Opinion. For the past several months a contributor to the Round Table Section of MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Mr. Glucksman's suggestions were welcomed by showmen over the country. Stricken suddenly last Thursday with appendicitis, Mr. Glucksman dropped his pen, hurried to Park East Hospital, shortly thereafter was dead. . . .

KAPLAN CONTEMPT

Net yet over are the legal woes which suddenly swooped down upon the bullet head of Sam Kaplan, coercion-convicted ex-president of New York Projectionists' Local 306. This week Justice John F. Carew of Supreme Court, lenient, gave Kaplan 10 days in which to purge himself of contempt of court for failure to obey a court order to return all property of the union now in his possession. Union counsel appears determined to thoroughly complete the Kaplan chastisement. . . .

RIVIERA PRODUCTION

To the sunny confines of Nice, on the French Riviera, has gone United Artists for additional foreign production. There, in association with French producer Bernard Deschamps, six French features will be made, the first to reach this country for release June 15, the others to follow expeditiously. Internationally United Artists will release the half-dozen, taking its place with the company's London, Hollywood offerings. . . .

In This Issue

Westerns on way out as public's interest wanes — Page 9
Exhibitors weigh idea of beer service as stimulus to business — Page 11
Kent fights equity receivership petition against Fox Film Corporation — Page 12
Hays presents five-plank program for solution of industry's problems — Page 15
Exhibitors deplore boycotting of German pictures — Page 16

FEATURES

Editorial — Page 7
The Camera Reports — Page 13
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum — Page 33

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me — Page 34
Showmen's Reviews — Page 22
Managers Round Table — Page 37
Meetings — Page 26
Short Features — Page 49
Technological — Page 28
Chicago — Page 49
The Release Chart — Page 43
Box Office Receipts — Page 30
Classified Advertising — Page 50

FROTH AND RECEIPTS

Sad, disconsolate these days are exhibitors of arid Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, while in equal measure is frothy jubilance pervading the spirits of exhibitors of legally damp Missouri's border cities. In the mind's eye of the first group flows a stream of potential patrons, bound from their theatres to those in Kansas City, Joplin, St. Joseph, St. Louis, where will flow streams of 3.2 happiness. Salt on the wound is the plan of the Frisco railroad to run a "beer special" from Oklahoma to Missouri. Mounting is the green of envy in the eyes of sere showmen when they envision bursting breweries, employing salaried thousands across a mythical state line. . . .

ELIMINATED PILLARS

Theatre patrons who, purchasing orchestra seats, no longer fear for strained necks, strained tempers if their seats are behind posts, have Henry Beaumont Herts to thank. This week Mr. Herts, 62, famed theatre architect, gave up his five-year fight with illness, died. It was in 1902 that Mr. Herts proved, in the New Amsterdam theatre in New York, the workability of his invention, the cantilever type of theatre balcony, obviating the necessity of the long-annoying supporting pillars in the orchestra. Numerous other theatres, the once famed Columbus Memorial Arch are among his monuments. . . .

UNION RETALIATION

Surprised, springing into disciplined action, Officer J. W. Creecy of the Portsmouth, Va., police force and R. C. Journee of the Portsmouth Detective Agency leaped from their seats in the Colony theatre one Saturday night recently to collar a man who had dropped a vial in the aisle beside his seat, then rising to leave, trod deliberately upon it, releasing something very like tear gas. Sentenced in police court to six months in jail, a fine of $200, was Orville I. Fleming, president of the Norfolk Central Labor Union, the vial smasher. Sometime ago the theatre went non-union. Three times has such an incident harried the Colony manager, N. Le Vine. Fleming's attorneys plan appeal. . . .

INFRINGEMENT ATONED

Deep down into his pocket this week dug Columbia Picture's Harry Cohn, there to find the $25,000 with which to pay Cinema Patents Corporation, following loss by Columbia of an infringement case appeal. Again has Columbia infringed, contends Cinema Patents, referring thereby to another infringement case now pending before Federal Judge Cosgrave. . . .

EXHIBITORS WEIGH IDEA OF BEER SERVICE AS A BUSINESS BOOSTER

Several Independents Plan to Establish Open-Air Theatres with Beer; Larger Circuits Doubt Advisability of Sale

With the legalization of beer on April 7, many independent exhibitors in and around the New York area have been considering the advisability of serving the 3.2 beverage in their theatres. Coming on the heels of many disturbing influences in the field of exhibition, including drastic reductions in admission scales, union labor difficulties and the undesirability, in many sections, of double-featuring as an aid to the box-office, the possibility that the added attraction of beer in theatres might help attendance and receipts is being considered. Some independent exhibitors feel there is a definite possibility that beer served in lounges will stimulate business where it is suffering from competition with the large circuits, Several are contemplating open-air theatres, with beer, music and dancing, besides the regular feature picture. Among the larger circuits, however, the preponderance of expressed opinion is that the service of beer would be impracticable.

Bureau Awaits Requests

The Bureau of Industrial Alcohol at Washington is watching with interest for the possibility that theatres may apply for licenses to sell beer. Action to be taken by the various states and municipalities will vary according to local opinion, Bureau officials say, but it is believed that in many places, with some modification, motion picture and legitimate theatres will be permitted licenses.

Some New York exhibitors, independent and circuit alike, are opposed to the idea of turning their houses into beer gardens or music halls. Beer and talking pictures do not go together, they say.

Late last week, Dr. Henry Moskowitz, executive director of the League of New York Theatres, obtained a ruling from Governor Lehman that beer would be permitted in theatres having facilities for cooking food. This applies only to legitimate theatres. In making his request to the Governor, Dr. Moskowitz said:

"I welcome the opportunity to add to our theatres the social tone which serves to make the European and English houses such pleasant places, and I expect, incidentally, that this will provide much needed revenue for the theatres."

Two New York motion picture exhibitors are planning extensive open-air theatre operation before the hot weather sets in. Jack Springer, of the Springer-Cocalis circuit, announced this week that he would open at least five of these houses on or before Decoration Day. The houses will feature pictures, vaudeville, music, and beer, if permissible under law. Each house will seat not less than 1,200. Vaudeville will start at 7 p. m. and continue until dark, at which time there will be a double feature screen program.

"I have served near-beer in my theatre lounges for some time," said Mr. Springer, "and have found it very successful. My patrons like the Continental atmosphere and it brings in extra revenue. In my opinion, there is no reason why this practice should not be universally successful in those localities where the sale of beer is legal."

Lee Ochs, another New York independent exhibitor with houses in the metropolitan area, likewise is planning to open four open-air theatres, with beer. Unlike the Springer venture, he will not feature vaudeville.

Fred Pabst, internationally-known Milwaukee brewer, approached on the feasibility of turning closed theatres into beer gardens, said that, generally speaking, theatres were not well adapted for such a purpose, though it would be impossible to judge the situation "en masse."

"Each proposition would require individual consideration," Mr. Pabst said, "and the same thing would apply to the establishment of bars in theatres."

"Why all this fuss?" asked Leo Brecher, owner of the Little Carnegie, an intimate foreign film theatre, with an atmosphere approaching the Continental. "Beer was never a particularly aristocratic drink before prohibition and I cannot see that the attitude toward it is going to be changed now. I would just as soon serve buttermilk. I most certainly do not wish to run the risk of turning my houses into saloons in the eyes of my patrons."

Howard S. Cullman, operating receiver for the Seventh Avenue Roxy theatre, said he felt beer in theatres might create considerable cause for dissatisfaction, both from those patrons who did not drink and from those who did.

The views of Harry Arthur, operator of the Poli-New England circuit, accorded with Mr. Cullman's.

"After the first few weeks the novelty of the thing will wear off and then where will the exhibitor be? The whole thing is best let alone."

Song writers and minnesingers are waiting anxiously for the legal sale of beer. Irving Berlin, dean of Tin Pan Alley, said last week that he could see the return of the sentimental ballads of pre-prohibition days.

BROUN SEES BOOM FOR AMUSEMENTS

Making a stab at prophecy for the future, despite his own remark that "the wiser ones have all replied, 'How do I know?'" to the query, "What's going to happen now?" Heywood Broun, in the New York World Telegram recently stabbed:

"I think a boom is coming, and I believe it will be a sharp one. It is my guess, specifically, that the theatre, which seems in such a disturbed situation at the moment, will have the liveliest spring and summer season which it has known in several years."

Hollywood a Myth, And Costly, Says George M. Cohan

George M. Cohan is through with Hollywood producers but not with talking pictures as such, the stage producer told Grace Davidson, feature writer of the Boston Post, last week.

Mr. Cohan, who was in Boston with his stage play, "Pigeons and People," declared that with $100,000 he could make in New York a good picture which in Hollywood would mean an outlay of half a million.

Indeed, America's "Yankee Doodle Boy"—and he's still that despite his 55th birthday last week—went on to predict that New York eventually will supplant Hollywood as the center of film production, with a number of small production units. As for Hollywood, he thinks all the companies together should make about 80 pictures a year instead of 800.

Calls Hollywood a Myth

Warming up to his subject, as he has a habit of doing, Mr. Cohan went in for straight talk about Hollywood.

"There was never a bigger myth than that built around Hollywood," he said. "There is no reason for Hollywood. The people who know anything about the business are unhappy out there, because they are subject to those who know nothing about it. I don't for a minute say that the talking pictures are the same as the theatre.

"Talking pictures are largely a matter of photography. They require the knowledge of technicians, and that they have. But the rest I know.

"I can hire a studio in New York for five cents, any number of them. Yes, I said for five cents. And, I can hire the most expert camera men, sound men, technicians. And, they will do their job and I'll do mine, and the result will be a good picture. But out in Hollywood this is impossible, because they give only the technicians a chance, because with them they can't interfere. The director is really superficial out there. It is a matter of story, acting and technicians.

Films "Not the Theatre"

"It is perfectly true that people fresh from the theatre have to unlearn a lot they know, begin anew in a new method of projection. For, after all, one must never forget that motion pictures are photography. It is not the theatre. But the technicians take care of that part of it. Practically, all the pictures made today are indoor shots. And they can be made right in the East and they will be made in the East soon.

"We must return to the theatre. We have gotten away from the theatre. The reason that 'Cavalcade' was a good play and is a good picture, so I am told, is because it is real theatre, a return to the theatre."

KENT FIGHTS EQUITY RECEIVERSHIP PETITION FILED AGAINST FOX FILM

Move Not Justified, Declares President; Plea Also Names Chase Securities Corporation and Four Fox Directors

BULLETIN

Representative Sirovich (Dem., New York) late Wednesday presented a resolution in the House calling for a Congressional investigation of motion picture receiverships by a committee of seven. The resolution asked for "an inquiry into motion picture receiverships on behalf of stockholders who are not informed as to what has been done with their money."

The Sirovich measure would effect an exhaustive inquiry into all branches and activities of the industry.

Opposition by the management of Fox Film Corporation was voiced Tuesday to a petition for the appointment of a receiver in equity, filed in U. S. district court, New York, by Benjamin Schellenberg of Brookline, Mass., owner of 200 shares of Class "A" common. Also named in the petition were Chase Securities Corp., and Matthew C. Brush, David K. E. Bruce, Otto E. Koegel and Murray W. Dodge, all directors of Fox Film.

The petition was filed by Martin C. Ansorge, attorney for Mr. Schellenberg, and Federal Judge Albert C. Coxe ordered the corporation to show cause Friday morning, March 31, why a receiver in equity should not be appointed.

Unjustified, Says Kent

On Tuesday night, Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox, issued a statement in which he deplored the action, questioned its good faith, and declared his intention of fighting it.

"There is no justification whatsoever for an application at this time and any effect that it can have on the situation can only be destructive," Mr. Kent said. "I was very sorry to learn that a stockholder had commenced an action against the corporation for a receiver without having first communicated with me as president or with any other officer or director, so that such stockholder could have been advised of the real situation and of the efforts being made to preserve the equity of stockholders."

The petition states funded debt of the defendant corporation and its subsidiaries amounts to $54,465,444, consisting of $30,000,000 five-year 6 per cent convertible gold debentures due April 1, 1936; two-year 6 per cent gold notes due April 1, 1933, of Fox Wesco Corp., amounting to $15,000,000, and $9,465,444 funded debt of subsidiaries which mature after 1932.

The petition alleges Fox will be unable to pay semi-annual interest of $900,000 due, April 1, on its gold debentures, and that Wesco will be unable to pay or refund the gold notes together with interest due and payable the same date.

The petition describes as "reckless and unwarranted" 1930 dividend payments of $10,102,240, and 1931 payments of $4,104,035. It also alleges the directors knew or should have known that $55,000,000 in obligations was due on or about April 15, 1931, which the company could not meet.

Zukor Not To Be Trustee

Adolph Zukor has informed creditors of Paramount Publix that he will not be a candidate for trustee in bankruptcy for the company, David Podell, his personal attorney, advised Federal Judge William Bondy Wednesday at a hearing of motions to vacate the equity receivership entered into last January.

Mr. Podell declared Mr. Zukor had reached this decision because he wanted to give all his time to duties as an official of the company rather than to be subjected to interruptions as a representative of the federal court. He will resume his official title of president of Paramount Publix.

Mr. Podell said Mr. Zukor was petitioned to be a candidate for trustee by "99 per cent of the creditors." The election of trustees is scheduled Monday in the office of Referee Henry K. Davis.

Answering charges Wednesday that Mr. Zukor was not qualified as a receiver and that his appointment was the result of "collusion," Mr. Podell said Mr. Zukor's sole interest in being named a receiver has been to protect the interests of the company and that he would have been willing to relinquish the post earlier had he not felt such action would have "lent color" to the charges.

Judge Bondy indicated he would deny motions to vacate the equity receivership, to displace Mr. Zukor and Charles D. Hilles as co-receivers, and that he would deny a motion to cite attorneys for Paramount Publix and the co-receivers for contempt of court for allegedly obtaining the equity receivership improperly.

Judge Bondy said his "present opinion" was that Mr. Zukor and Mr. Hilles should be retained until such time as they were in a position to turn over to a trustee in bankruptcy all assets of Paramount Publix.

As counsel in the action filed by Levy and Harris against the equity receivership, Samuel Zirn said his clients would contest the election of whatever trustee is named, contending that the post will be filled by "a handpicked bankers' representative, already decided on."

Ohio Receivership Lifted

In Columbus, Ohio, receivership of Paramount Distributing Corp. in Ohio, involving exchanges in Cincinnati and Columbus, and five Publix houses, was set aside at a hearing before Judge Benson W. Hough.

A motion was filed in U. S. district court at Cincinnati Saturday asking that service be stopped in the ancillary receivership action brought by Jack Silverman of New York, an RKO bondholder, against RKO Distributing Corp., RKO Pathe, KAO, B. F. Keith Corp., and Cinto Theatre Co. No decision was reached Monday, and the case was postponed until Tuesday, when the case was dismissed. The dismissal means that such proceedings are at an end against these companies and that all Ohio properties affected by the proceeding may now be operated in a normal manner.

Sirovich Asks Sweeping Inquiry Into All Activities of Industry, Including Receiverships; Says He Would Aid Stockholders

Under the Sirovich film inquiry proposal, a congressional committee, which would report next January, would be empowered to investigate all matters relating to production, distribution and exhibition; the financing, corporate setup, commercial operations, and banking of companies; receiverships, bankruptcies, theatre leases, agreements for recording, and "dissipation of assets" through "exorbitant and unearned salaries."

"Many motion and sonant picture corporations are asking for or are being placed in the hands of receivers or going into bankruptcy or being involved in equity proceedings due to existing conditions within the industry itself and to the financial operations of outside elements seeking control of the industry," Sirovich declared.

"Assets of corporations within the industry are being dissipated, dividends are being passed, stock values are being lowered and nothing is being done to protect the rights of the stockholders," he said.

"Not only are dividends and interest being passed or paid at futile rates, but extravagance continues in expenditures in the industry through exorbitant compensation paid to officials, players, directors and other employees of motion and sonant picture corporations. I am asking for an investigation in behalf of the stockholders."

Mr. Sirovich is chairman of the House tax committee and as such was last session in charge of copyright legislation, which was the cause of much controversy in both the committee and the House and in the industry.

Exchange to Drop Paramount Common

The New York Stock Exchange announced late Wednesday that removal of Paramount Publix common stock will be recommended. There are 3,240,515 shares listed. The exchange's committee on listings will vote on the recommendation.

Distributors To Fight Tax

Sales managers of large distributors met at the offices of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors this week to discuss ways and means of fighting a proposed Canadian sales tax of 12½ per cent. The legislation would apply to every dollar sent out of the Dominion by American companies, it is understood.

Regent's First Ready

"Wives Beware!" starring Adolphe Menjou, first release of the new Regent Pictures, will be ready next week. Various territories are now being signed from the new offices at 11 West 42d street, New York.

"Crooked Circle" Televised

A television broadcast of World Wide's mystery comedy, "The Crooked Circle," in full, was made Thursday night and Friday morning by the Don Lee Broadcasting System in Los Angeles.

THE CAMERA REPORTS

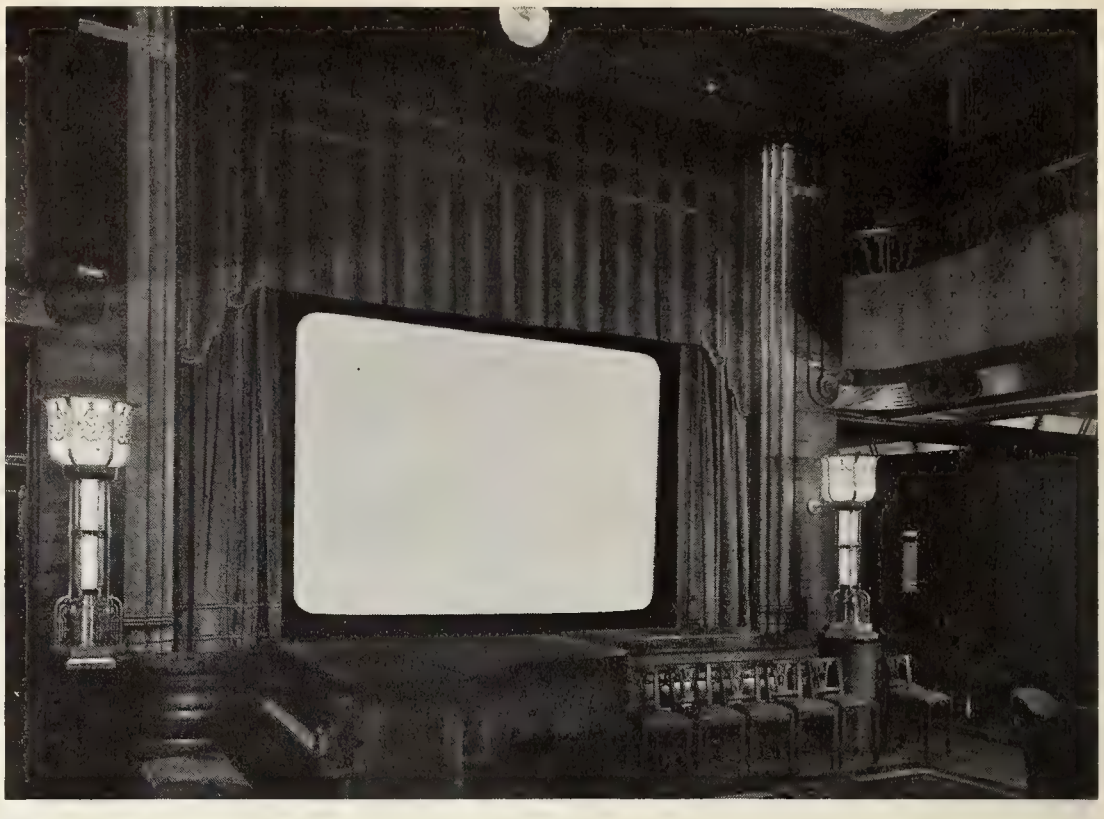
PRODUCER HONORED. As Merian C. Cooper, executive producer for RKO Radio, was presented a certificate of honor by the Women's Chamber of Commerce of New York in tribute to the technical achievement represented in "King Kong." With Mr. Cooper are Mrs. Queen W. Boardman, Mrs. Luellen T. Bussenius, Mrs. Estelle H. Brinsmade.

FROM THE CROW'S NEST. (Below) Getting a head-on view of Patricia Ellis aboard the ship on which is laid much of the action of Warner Brothers' "The Narrow Corner," in which she has the feminine lead opposite Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

CONTRACT RENEWED. Betty Furness in the role of hostess to New York newspaper folk, at an informal tea at her home in the metropolis following the renewal of her RKO Radio contract.

CITED. (Below) Marking further recognition of the ingenuity that has created Mickey Mouse. Henry Weiner, manager of United Artists in Cuba, is shown holding a diploma awarded Walt Disney by the National Academy of Arts and Letters in Havana. With him are officers of the academy, and representatives of the Cuban organization, plus U. A. employees.

WON CONTRACT. Theodore Newton, whom Warner signed after work in "The Adopted Father."



IN BASEBALL YARN. Preston Foster, cast in support of Joe E. Brown in Warners' "Elmer the Great."

NEW BEACH ATTIRE. A hint as to what the coming summer will offer in bathing apparel—suits made entirely of rubber. This model is displayed by Iris Lancaster, Educational player.

THEATRE BUILT INTO NEW OCEAN LINER. Forward view of the motion picture auditorium in the Queen of Bermuda, new Furness vessel plying between New York and Bermuda. The theatre was especially provided for in the plans, with wiring for Western Electric equipment done during construction.

SERIOUS. Making this new study of Joan Blondell, Warner star, quite unique. Her next—"Gold Diggers of 1933."

HUGE STUDIO RESTAURANT COMPLETED. Scores of players, executives and technicians of the Fox production plant attending to the inner man (aye, and woman!) in the Cafe de Paris, so-called because decorated and operated in the Parisian spirit. Many well known screen personalities are shown.

NOW FOR A BIT OF FUN. The Brents of Hollywood, readily recognizable as Ruth Chatterton and husband George, aboard the Europa, Warners' "Lilly Turner" completed.

HAYS OFFERS FIVE-PLANK PROGRAM TO SOLVE READJUSTMENT PROBLEMS

Urges Theatre Decentralizing for Greater Economy and Better Operation, Cooperative Distribution to Reduce Costs

Will H. Hays presented to the industry last Monday afternoon a five-plank program for organized solution on a cooperative scale of many of the problems of readjustment. A summarization follows:

1. Readjustment of much of the industry's theatre structure in order that decentralization of ownership and management might result in greater economy, more efficient operation and greater flexibility of entertainment program.

2. Large reduction in distribution costs, which may be effected by cooperative action through the integration of present distribution facilities.

3. Economies in the production of motion picture entertainment made possible by reduced cost of business administration and an increased flow of trained talent to the studios, which would bring the standard of salaries paid to the artistic personnel within the means of the industry to support.

4. Adjustment of the patent structure of the industry relating to the many process patents now necessary in the making of motion pictures.

5. Assuring the stability of motion picture entertainment as a major art by the enlargement of and greater emphasis upon the industry's program of self-regulation, in order that the screen may reflect the highest possible social standards.

Assembled in annual meeting at headquarters of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, on the twenty-first floor at 28 West 44th street, executive representatives of all the large motion picture companies, who comprise the directorate of the MPPDA, voted approval of the program, which was offered as "suggestions" by Mr. Hays, president. Mr. Hays told members what he believes should be done for industry rehabilitation.

Already, much of the industry's theatre structure has been decentralized, while "cooperative action through integration of present distribution facilities" was started some weeks ago when Fox took over physical distribution of Educational-World Wide. Since then similar deals have been variously reported under consideration.

In submitting his eleventh annual report, Mr. Hays presented a detailed review of the present status of motion picture entertainment. Later, he read to the directorate the solutions required for industry readjustment, which, it was said, are necessary "after the period of widespread deflation and unemployment in the United States."

The program will require a continuous process of organization and readjustment for three or four years, according to an official statement issued from MPPDA headquarters.

Plank three of Mr. Hays' program concerning a new salary scale for players has an important relation to the eight-week 25 and 50 per cent salary reduction order now in effect for all workers, including stars. Mr. Hays told the members that "an increased flow of trained talent to the studios would bring the standard of salaries paid to the artistic personnel within the means of the industry."

HAYS REELECTED AT ANNUAL MPPDA MEET

The directorate of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America reelected Will H. Hays president at the annual meeting Monday. Carl E. Milliken and Frederick L. Herron were renamed secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Directors reelected were: Merlin Hall Aylesworth, RKO; Robert H. Cochrane, Universal; Charles H. Christie, Christie Brothers Productions; E. W. Hammons, Educational-World Wide; Sidney R. Kent, Fox; B. B. Kahane, Radio Pictures; David Sarnoff, RKO; Joseph M. Schenck, United Artists; Nicholas M. Schenck, MGM; Harry M. and Albert Warner, Warner-First National; Adolph Zukor, Paramount; Sol Lesser; F. L. Herron, and Mr. Hays, chairman.

The board elected to membership Jesse L. Lasky Productions, Cecil B. DeMille Productions, Paramount Productions and Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp., and elected to the directorate Jack Cohn, Columbia; Cecil B. DeMille and Jesse L. Lasky.

D. W. Griffith and J. J. Murdock were retired.

Too Much of Everything: Hays

"The motion picture industry, like all other industries," Mr. Hays said, "was built upon a plane of prosperity, not upon a plane of depression. This enterprise has given the country the greatest entertainment structure in the world. There is a modern movie theatre at every crossroads in the land. That's the public gain.

"The question as to whether too many theatres have been built for the entertainment demands of the nation cannot be answered with an unequivocal 'yes' or 'no.' Much too many, no doubt, for the black plague of depression in 1932, and too few of the right type, very possibly, for the next four or five years of recovery.

"If the requirements of 1932 are to be the measure of American enterprise, let's admit it—there are too many theatres, too many factories, too many schools to keep up by hard-hit municipalities, too many men out of work, too much capital unemployed, in fact, too much of everything. But such a standard is unthinkable.

"Considering the fact that motion picture entertainment is the chief public recreation in this country, only time can tell the ultimate seating requirements for 125,000,000 movie lovers with money to spend for the necessary service of entertainment."

The decentralization of theatres now under way is already having a salutary effect, Mr. Hays declared, in the matter of economy, operation and flexibility of entertainment program.

Asks Greater Flow of Trained Talent to Studios to Balance Salaries; Patent Adjustment, Self-Regulation Also Urged

In the production of film entertainment the screen cannot effect the necessary economies by the mere technological processes of the factory, Mr. Hays said. "Film entertainment is made by men and women, not by machines," he explained. "The industry cannot afford to reduce the quality of pictures in order to meet lowering admission prices.

"The motion picture has become the greatest popular entertainment medium because the screen has presented the best possible values in entertainment at a cost which the majority of our people could afford to pay. Long term contracts with high-salaried personnel, temporary declines in theatre attendance, and the fact that no picture, however good, can hope to gross the income of normal years, have thrown some of the elements out of adjustment and called for reorganization in the industry.

"The fact is that the solutions to the problem of producing better pictures at lower cost already are becoming evident in the plans being made by existing factors in the industry.

"First is the improved business management which already has resulted in definite economies in picture production; and second is the splendid cooperative spirit shown by most of the creative, technical and business staffs of our studios.

"But above and beyond this is a third consideration. Fundamentally the level of salaries for the creative workers in the industry must be determined by the amount of talent available for the service of the screen. The best thought of the industry is now engaged in developing means and methods to insure the largest possible freedom of opportunity for talent in order that the number of skillful directors, technicians, artists and writers may be increased. Such a program will require the recognition of the leading educational institutions of the country of the fact that the screen has become an independent medium of expression, and that with essential talent to begin with, men and women can be trained for its service by our great colleges and universities, just as they are being trained today for science, for drama, for literature, for journalism."

Charged with Public Service

Only the maintenance of the highest possible social standards in the production of film entertainment can stabilize the industry, Mr. Hays emphasized.

"The stability of the motion picture as an entertainment art does not rest upon bricks or mortar or upon money or men," he said. "It is dependent upon public appeal and public confidence. The most elaborate structure of theatres, the best technical facilities for production, the largest capital reserve would not save the industry if it ever departed from its commitment to the public continuously to raise the social standards of the screen.

"The program of adjustment and rehabilitation now underway will adjust the capital risks undertaken in the industry in the matter of theatre operation. Economies can and are being effected in the production of pictures and the only limits to further progress in this respect are the limits of business management and efficiency. Salaries can and are being adjusted

(Continued on page 20)

BOYCOTT OF GERMAN PICTURES IS DEPLORED

Exhibitors and Other Leaders Denounce Sporadic Cases of Cancellations in Protest on Hitlerism as Foolish Move

Exhibitors and other motion picture leaders are generally opposed to any boycott of German film product in this country, despite the retaliatory measures against Jews in Germany, announced by the Hitler government on Monday, as its answer to "atrocity propaganda" being circulated in foreign countries.

Booking of German films in this country has come to practically a standstill, according to Tobis Forenfilms, Inc., with a resultant sudden demand for French product in the socalled art theatres.

An official of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America indicated this week that no complaints regarding German films had been received and none was expected. Yet, notwithstanding Secretary of State Hull's message on Monday that racial bickerings had ceased in Germany, there has been boycotting of German pictures by some exhibitors, through pressure brought by their patrons.

Reports of Hitlerite activities against Jews resulted in boycott in many places of "Maedchen in Uniform," brought to this country by John Krimsky and Gifford Cochran. Both declared such action indefensible and pointed out that the picture shows the failure of institutions and governments founded on the militaristic regime which Chancellor Hitler is said to be trying to restore.

Theatre Announces Boycott

At Brighton Beach, N. Y., a German picture, "Zwei Menschen," booked for the Tuxedo Theatre, was cancelled "in protest to Hitler's anti-semitic outrages." Red-letter corrections in the printed program for the week stated: "All German films will be boycotted at this theatre until Hitlerites cease their brutalities against the Jews."

In many instances scenes depicting Hitler operations have been cut out of newsreels. Thus far Universal is the only company which has eliminated Nazi scenes. It was understood that Paramount, Pathe, Fox Movietone and Hearst Metrotone were considering similar action, but none had received any complaints.

Loew's theatres in the metropolitan area have eliminated all scenes pertaining to Hitler activities in order to avoid possible demonstrations, according to David M. Loew, vice president. Bookings for German films in these houses are not likely for the time being, he said.

Herschel Stuart of RKO said he had observed little excitement over German newsreel clips in the circuit's houses, but that instances of hissing of shots of Hitlerites have been reported.

David E. Weshner of Warners said this week that the demonstrations had not been a serious problem of that circuit to date and that no eliminations had been ordered.

Major Fred L. Herron, M.P.P.D.A. foreign representative, reported that film activities in Germany appeared normal, but said concern was felt over terms of the new German quota law to be made public in June.

In Great Britain, extensive boycotts already have begun against German motion pictures. In both the United States and Britain, German film product expected to be the greatest sufferer will be that of Ufa. Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Ufa director, is a leading member of the Hitler cabinet.

Leo Brecher, distributor for all Ufa product in the United States, declared Monday that any form of boycott against any type of German product, whether it be merchandise or film, would be disastrous to the exhibitor or the merchant.

"This talk of boycott is ridiculous," said Mr. Brecher. "The public does not want it. It will harm Jews and Christians alike, whether they are German or not. Since the trouble in Ger-

INDUSTRY READY FOR SALARY ARBITRATION

Preliminary conferences between industry representatives and IATSE officials, preparatory to arbitrating the unions' salary dispute with studios, are to be held Thursday in New York. The Federated Studio Crafts refused to accept the 25-50 per cent wage reduction and the matter was referred to arbitration. Pat Casey will participate on behalf of the studios, and William C. Elliott and Joseph N. Weber will represent the IATSE and American Federation of Musicians,

Mass appeals of exhibitors for concerted rental reductions faded as distributors continued to ignore all but individual requests for relief.

Price, Waterhouse and the Academy's committee of workers outlined plans for auditing producers' books to determine whether any studios will be in a position to return cuts before the specified eight-week period, as agreed.

Twenty-five per cent pay cut for vaudeville players of Publix, RKO, Warner and Fox became effective this week, involving about 500 acts, and to terminate September 1. Action of the performers may aid in returning vaudeville.

The battle continued between exhibitors and unions in the field, over demands of theatre owners that wages be reduced as a result of depressing effects of the recent banking holiday. Cleveland houses are still dark. Negotiations are on in numerous cities, others are deadlocked, while some locals accepted reductions.

The large circuits, demanding lower pay for operators and stagehands, threatened wholesale closings as an alternative.

Billion Feet of Film Needed Annually by Soviet Films

As a result of the recent reorganization of the Soviet film industry and the consequent extensive production plans, raw film requirements of the Soviet Union are estimated, under the second five-year plan, to be 1,240,000,000 feet of raw stock annually for the coming five years, according to the motion picture division of the Department of Commerce, Washington.

Production capacity of existing raw film factories does not exceed 75,000,000 meters annually, it was stated.

N. M. Sales Law's Legality Studied

Distributors' attorneys have been sent from New York home office to Santa Fe, New Mexico, to make a detailed study of the constitutionality of the new law in that state which requires that distributors offer pictures simultaneously to independents and circuits and barring deals made outside the state. Details of the measure follow:

Section 3 specifies that all acts are illegal that interfere with a competitive exhibitor obtaining a share of pictures made by any producer. Penalties: $1,000 to $20,000 fine and imprisonment at hard labor not more than a year.

Section 4. Unlawful for anyone to buy more pictures than can and will be used in one year. Same provision to apply to seller. All pictures contracted for must be shown within six months of availability. All contracts must be filed with state corporation commission. Fine: $1,000 to $10,000.

Section 5. Producers or distributors must divide product between competitors, permitting each competitive exhibitor to select alternately from the product. It provides for waivers if competitor does not desire share of product. Penalty: $10,000 to $20,000 fine and year at hard labor.

Section 6. Announcements of pictures must be filed with corporation commission, pictures to be specified by name, title, star, star series or number, and classified by letters A, B, C, D, in relation to box-office value. Any changes must also be filed. After one exhibitor has bought his share of the pictures of any producer, it will be unlawful for the producer to sell the remainder to the competitor on a different playing arrangement or a lower price, for six months. Penalty: $1,000 to $20,000 fine.

Section 7. Contracts can be revoked by exhibitors before acceptance by producer, or within 20 days from date of contract.

Section 8. Secret refunds and selling methods prohibited. Penalty: $1,000 to $20,000 fine, and one year.

Section 9. Future contracts limited to one year, with provision for existing contracts of longer period to remain in force. All contracts and franchises now in force must be filed with affidavit they have not been changed since law becomes effective. Penalty: $1,000 to $10,000 fine.

Section 10. Exhibitors having pictures under contract barred from further buying until competitors have arranged for similar number.

Section 11. Producers or distributors showing own pictures barred from further buying until competitor has equal number under contract. Unlawful for any producer or distributor to refuse to sell competitive exhibitors at reasonable terms to place all competitors on equal basis. Penalty: $1,000 to $20,000.

Section 12. Refusal of producers or distributors to allow competitors to make alternative selections in the presence of each other to be accepted as prima facie evidence of intent to violate law. Penalty: $10,000 to $20,000 fine or one year.

Section 13. Selection of pictures by competitors must be made in the town where such competition exists. Contracts must be made in New Mexico unless all competitors agree otherwise in writing.

Section 14. Violators civilly liable for actual and punitive damages to person damaged, together with costs and attorney's fees.

Section 15. Anyone misrepresenting merit or box-office value of picture, if adjustment is not made, shall be liable for damages, both actual and punitive, including costs and attorney's fees.

Section 16. Adjustments and changes of contracts provided for, but must be openly arrived at and all competitors must be accorded same treatment. Not to apply to franchises in effect at time law was passed.

Section 17. Contracts covering competitive situations must be filed, and when new competitive situations are made, existing contracts must be filed and law applies from then on.

Section 18. All producers and distributors must appoint chairman of the corporation commission their true and lawful attorney upon whom may be served all lawful process in any action or legal process against it, in favor of a resident of New Mexico, and must agree that any such lawful process so served shall be of the same force as if served on the company.

Section 19. Requirement of Section 18 made prerequisite to the right of anyone to sell, lease or distribute motion pictures within the state. A fine of $1,000 is provided, and further, all pictures made or distributed by such person or company shall be barred from exhibiting within the state, until the provisions of Section 18 are complied with.

Section 20. Provides for trying of cases. Will wait until law is violated within state before starting action.

Section 21. All contracts, adjustments, etc., in competitive situations must be filed within 10 days after becoming operative or approved. Fee of $2, with copies provided for $2.

Section 22. Corporation commission to decide whether house is first or second run if any dispute.

Section 23. Provides that if any section or part of section be declared unconstitutional such decision will not affect remainder.

Section 24. Emergency clause, declaring action necessary for preservation of public peace, health and safety, and becomes a law immediately.

AMERICAN WRITERS ANSWER BRITONS' CRITICISMS OF HOLLYWOOD PRODUCT

Blame G. A. Atkinson's Comment in London Era That "America Is a Country of Barbarians" to False Patriotism

But Campbell Dixon of London Telegraph Urges Greater Imagination and Initiative on Part of Producers at Elstree

by FRED AYER

Mr. Fred Ayer, of the New York staff of MOTION PICTURE HERALD, writes this article on British critics of American motion pictures from the background of three-directioned experience as stage and screen actor, and journalist, in England as well as in these States. Among the most widely known plays in which he appeared on the London stage are "Five Star Final," "Desire Under the Elms" and "Salome." His screen performances included "Carnival" and "Innocents of Chicago," both British International productions. To these activities he found time to add the writing of special articles for the American daily press. THE EDITOR.

Growing censure of American motion pictures by British critics, pointed by the recent remark of G. A. Atkinson in The Era, London amusement trade magazine, that "America is a country of barbarians," is due to a multiplicity of facts, in the opinion of leaders of the screen writing fraternity of the daily press in the United States.

Several of the reasons given have no direct connection with the industry and are at variance with the preference that both the British exhibitor and public feel for American productions, despite the acknowledged improvement in the product of Elstree. Cited for example, is the Briton's reaction to the swing of the money market from London to New York, that commercial jealousy expressing itself in criticism of American pictures.

Another explanation given is that the British critic hopes to help improve the value of the native product in the eyes of his countrymen and abroad by pointing to real or fancied flaws in the American motion picture. Still another lies in the "Buy British" movement.

Critics and Critics

Mr. Atkinson is not alone in his derogation of American films, although for the most part other critics are not so consistently disparaging. Among those most closely approximating his severity of criticism are James Agate, theatrical critic who reviews films once a month in the Tatler; Cedric Belfrage, screen critic for the London Sunday Express and Paul Holt, who reviews pictures for the Daily Sketch. These three and Campbell Dixon of the London Daily Telegraph, rank among the highest in their profession in the British Isles.

When Mr. Atkinson said, "I do not believe America is capable of sustaining a civilization" and added that "the Negro may yet save America" he aroused considerable protest from American critics, as expressed to this writer. Nor does his comment fit in with that of Mr. Dixon.

Berating the British industry for its lack of initiative, Mr. Dixon recently said editorially in the London Telegraph:

"Our own producers, with one or two exceptions, are unimaginative and timorous. Perhaps they feel that they lack the requisite judgment and flair; anyway, they try to play safe. They engage players from the stage, many of whom are quite unsuited to the screen, just as they try to make films for modern people based on dated plays and forgotten novels, or formula stuff written in the studio on the principle that 'when all else fails, there is always Vienna!'

"How many times has a British producer used a great industry as a background, or a topical subject, or a national theme? The truth is that while the Americans are seizing on new ideas and subjects with an international appeal, such as a bank crash, or an Atlantic flight, or a war in China, our own film makers are playing about with ideas long since discarded even by a not very enterprising theatre.

"The British industry is no longer an orphan; on the contrary, it is one of the most prosperous in the world, and the public is beginning to judge its products by world standards. How many of them will stand the test?"

Richard Watts, Jr., writing in the New York Herald-Tribune, says of Mr. Dixon's comments that they are interesting not only because of their candor, but also because of their source.

Patriots First, Says Watts

"English screen critics are patriots first and critics next," Mr. Watts says. "With their fine worship of their national cinema there goes a scornful, patronizing contempt for the low tastes and morals indulged in by 'those awful' American pictures. To admit, as Mr. Dixon does, that perhaps his countrymen can learn something from barbarous Americans is almost revolutionary, and I am sure that his critical colleagues disapprove of him heartily."

Regina Crewe, motion picture critic for the New York American, says that without doubt the attitude of British critics has hurt the industry.

"British producers should be willing to stand or fall on the merit of their product rather than use bludgeons to intimidate or bribe their critics," Miss Crewe said. "Whether the answer be 'yes' or 'no' to Mr. Atkinson's query, 'Is America civilized?', there can be no doubt regarding the superiority of American motion pictures to British."

"British critics will remain wholly unimportant so long as they are 'yes men' for any reason whatsoever," Miss Crewe said. "This includes adherence to the stupid 'muddling through' policy which seems to distinguish British patriotism. Here, love of country scarcely enters into film criticism, and foreign pictures, including the British, receive criticism as just and honest as do our own films. Maybe all of the faults of British producers and product resolve themselves into one—lack of imagination, but there is also the handicap of precedent worship. Sometimes there seems to be a link between Britain and China with its ancestor fetish."

False Patriotism: Boehnel

William Boehnel, motion picture critic of the World-Telegram in New York, says he feels that Mr. Atkinson's tirade is the result of a slight overdose of false patriotism. "Certainly the attitude of the British public toward American pictures is not in keeping with Atkinson's remarks. I have seen many of our own films in London run for five and six weeks and it is not uncommon for a picture like 'Shanghai Express' to run for eight or ten. The British public demand our pictures, and it is my opinion that if their critics are trying to wipe out the American product through destructive criticism they will have a pretty hard time doing it. Atkinson is the worst offender; there are others, but he does a pretty consistent job of tearing into the American-made motion picture. All of this is petty jealousy. The English critics who indulge in the pastime of such destructive criticism are making fools of themselves."

Kate Cameron, film critic of the New York Daily News, feels that the chief reason for the British critics' crusade against the American film is their inherent prejudice against everything foreign.

"They are supremely jealous of anyone who can go one better than they can," says Miss Cameron, "but I do not think that their rabid criticisms can possibly do us any harm. Our films are making money at the box-offices of Great Britain, and until they begin to fall off, I do not think there is much cause for worry as to what the critics think of us or our product. Mr. Atkinson's remarks are either extremely malicious or he just doesn't know anything."

Sees "Note of Scorn"

Rose Pelswick, critic for the New York Journal, said, "I read Mr. Atkinson's criticisms regularly and there always seems to be the same note of scorn for American pictures. Just what Mr. Atkinson is trying to accomplish, I cannot imagine. American pictures are certainly far more acceptable to the British public than the product turnout at Elstree, but this gentleman is apparently under orders to attack every American picture from all possible angles. The whole thing boils itself down to jealousy, but after all, that is perfectly natural and if we were in the same position as Great Britain is today, our critics might adopt the same attitude."

COOPER GIVING FREE HAND TO HIS STAFF

New Chief Executive of RKO Production Says He'll Delegate Full Authority to Associates; 52 Features Set

Fifty-two feature pictures will be released by Radio-Keith-Orpheum in 1933-34. Except for the discontinuance of a series of six westerns, there will be no curtailment of the company's production activities next season. Radio Pictures, the production subsidiary, is ready to proceed with the new program.

B. B. Kahane, president of Radio Pictures, and Merian C. Cooper, recently appointed vice-president in charge of production, came east from Hollywood to describe the new feature properties to the executive board at a meeting last week at the home office.

Mr. Cooper returned Saturday morning with the management's approval to proceed with a new working plan which includes carte blanche for associate producers and directors.

Mr. Kahane said the entire program will cost between $9,000,000 and $11,000,000, or a picture average of $173,000 to $212,000. The company is prepared to produce the entire group, if necessary, but it will consider releasing outside product "on suitable deals."

Francis Lederer already has been set in one, Lionel Barrymore in one or two, Katharine Hepburn in four, John Barrymore in two or three, while others will star Leslie Howard, Richard Dix, and Wheeler and Woolsey. New contracts have not yet been signed with Ann Harding and Constance Bennett, but Mr. Kahane said he "hopes" agreements will be reached. Miss Bennett's contract calls for two more pictures.

In addition, negotiations are being conducted with KBS—Kelley-Bischoff-Saal—for a feature group. This unit has been releasing through Educational-World Wide.

"Ann Vickers," Sinclair Lewis' best seller, and another Cooper-Schoedsack "special" will highlight the new season's releases. A number of other properties have been obtained. The declining market in westerns prompted their discontinuance.

Fifty-six of the 62 features scheduled for the current season will be delivered.

"I believe there will not be very many independently made pictures on our new program," said Mr. Kahane. "The bulk will be produced in our studio under the supervision of Mr. Cooper and his staff of associate producers. We may arrange deals with outside producers, if they have the proper stories, personalities, and so on. We might arrange to release pictures as would be financed by outside producers, or we might even aid in the financing. But we have no definite intention of going out for independent productions."

Mr. Cooper said he will delegate complete authority and uninterrupted control of filming to the associate producers. "I don't intend to tell them how to make pictures," he said. "They know just as well as I." Mr. Cooper will exercise general and financial supervision.

"There are certain stars and players whose salaries should be cut," said Mr. Kahane. "A declining income from pictures justifies a decrease in salary. A number of stars were receiving $10,000 weekly a year ago, and are still getting the same, yet their pictures which formerly grossed $1,000,000, now gross only $600,000." He added that the studio policy is now in that direction in deals with stars and directors. In some cases a minimum is guaranteed.

Mr. Cooper's contract, for one year, was ratified by the directors of Radio Pictures at last week's meeting.

Greatest saving in Radio's studio has been made in pre-production, according to Mr. Kahane, who said that as a result of more careful planning, starting with the script, RKO is not shooting more than 400 feet beyond actual release length.

Advertising More Vital: Laemmle

With a declaration that he considers advertising and selling during the prevailing economic emergency as his "most important" personal task, Carl Laemmle, Universal president, in a communication to Printers' Ink, national publication, heartily endorsed the paper's advocacy of personal participation in advertising and selling programs by corporation presidents.

Mr. Laemmle said in part: "I consider advertising and selling so much more vital than ever today that I am devoting all of my time to them instead of just a part of it. . . . Advertising and sales are important for a good product even when times are easy, but infinitely more so when times are tough."

"Almost any one can advertise and sell successfully when the going is good," Mr. Laemmle said in the symposium, "but it takes super-thoughts and the infinite detail of driving salesmanship to do the job when times are tough and the people resist selling.

". . . I am calling on every drop of resourcefulness from my staff and myself to figure ways and means to advertise and to sell—and to make the sales stick!"

Thurston, British Author, Dies

E. Temple Thurston, English novelist and playwright, died in London recently at the age of 53. He was stricken three weeks ago while preparing a scenario of Eugene Sue's "The Wandering Jew." Among his most popular works was "Over the Hill," a screen success years ago.

Roach to Do English Film

Hal Roach sails this week for London, where he will produce "International Revue" for MGM. He will be gone about three months. The Roach studio on the Coast, having completed its 1932-33 schedule, closes this week. MGM will release approximately 40 short subjects during 1933-34.

Cullman Carries Product Plea to Attorney General

Charging that major and independent distributors insisted that the management of the old Roxy theatre increase its admission prices if it were to receive product, Howard S. Cullman, operating receiver for the house, conferred at Washington this week with Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., of New York, also is conducting an investigation.

Several distributors are reported to have held up certain product from showing at the Roxy because Mr. Cullman refused to raise the present top admission of 35 cents to 50 cents minimum. Many subsequent run houses charge higher admission than the first-run Roxy. Distributors are said to have objected also to Mr. Cullman's policy of admitting persons for bringing toothpaste cartons plus a 10 cent tax. They say that independent and circuit houses with prices higher than the old Roxy will not play pictures after a first-run there.

After his return from Washington Tuesday, Mr. Cullman said that any information pertaining to the conference would have to come from the attorney general himself.

Last week Mr. Cullman issued a statement in which he said that he did not believe in taking orders from distributors and circuits and stating that "if they want a fight, I'll give them one."

"It is not and will not be our policy to enter into any conspiracy to fix prices, which is entirely contrary to the Constitution. Furthermore," Mr. Cullman said, "the theory of the flag-waving 'Buy America' crowd, with one hand showing a spirit of patriotism, and with the other hand attempting to inflict a higher scale of prices on the suffering public than the public will bear, does not coincide with my ideas or those of my associates in any sense."

The New York attorney general's office views the case of the old Roxy as an involved matter calling for considerable analysis. A question to be determined is whether the complaints made by Mr. Cullman will, by law, fall under the jurisdiction of the Donnelly Act which deals with statewide monopoly.

Mr. Cullman said Saturday that unless the alleged boycott is lifted before the end of April, his theatre will be entirely without film.

"Fortunately we have enough of a choice of first run pictures for the next four weeks," he said, "but all attempts to get productions beyond the end of April have met with a virtual boycott. We are doing more business in actual dollars now than under the old system. We can run our business at a profit and will continue the present scale."

Stevenson Lecturing

Edward Stevenson, president of Visugraphic Pictures, Inc., has completed a course of five lectures on "Motion Pictures in Advertising" at New York University and is beginning a series of three lectures at the Graduate School at Princeton.

"Thank you Mr. Quigley for holding up this issue!"

ANNOUNCEMENT!

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE! Plenty of prints for simultaneous nationwide showing!

"ROOSEVELT THE MAN OF THE HOUR"

Accompanying Dialogue by CHARLES FRANCIS COE. Produced by INTERNATIONAL

The magic name ROOSEVELT sweeps the country . . . hearts are thrilled from Coast to Coast! To that vast public M - G - M brings a picture destined to find its place on every screen of the nation, certain to quicken pulses, sure to be cheered! Remember M - G - M's lightning-quick release of "40,000 Miles With Lindbergh"? Again today M - G - M gives you the picture of the hour, answering the nationwide patriotic fervor for "Roosevelt, The Man of the Hour."

COLORFUL ACCESSORIES READY! One-sheet, Three-sheet, complete campaign book.

The Nation Will Cheer It! It Will Cheer The Nation!

METRO - GOLDWYN - MAYER

Showmen!

WARNS OF 'DIRT ROAD'

(Continued from page 15)

to meet the standards of the times. There is no likelihood that creative effort will fail in the production of better and better entertainment.

"But the failure to maintain the clear promises that the industry has made to the public for the protection of American family standards in motion picture theatres would jeopardize any permanent investment in the motion picture industry.

"The motion picture screen is charged with public service. Its commercial success primarily is based upon its appeal to the general public—to men, women and children. The industry must accept the social responsibility that goes with a service of universal entertainment. In its own as well as in the public interest it has an educational task to perform through self-regulation, first to protect the screen from destructive trends in entertainment, and second to help raise the standard of public appreciation for pictures of the better kind.

Protests Suggestive Production

"Whatever claims there may be for the production of suggestive, sordid or vulgar pictures because of their allegedly sure-fire box-office appeal, the fact is that the general public today demands higher, not lower, social standards from the screen. The industry as a whole cannot and should not tolerate the individual practices of any producer which threaten to destroy public support for the whole industry.

"The results of public resentment cannot be weighed merely by the fact that political censorship in nation, state and community would place irresponsible and responsible producers alike under the thumb of incompetent dictatorship, and burden the industry with the expense and waste of bureaucratic control. It would make the screen a minor entertainment art.

"Producers, authors, writers and directors would be faced with a barrage of 'verbotens' in their creative efforts. The pictures that would be produced would have their dramatic and entertainment elements devitalized by the uncertainty and fear as to what is and is not permissible on the screen. Large portions of the public would desert motion picture entertainment and the industry would be stunted by lack of public support.

"The dirt road is the easiest road of entertainment adventure. But entertainment enterprise has benefited only to the extent that it has departed from it.

"It is clear that in the rehabilitation of the industry there must be no break in the dyke of self-regulation which would permit adventurous elements to set a lower rather than a higher tendency in motion picture entertainment, and that the continuous processes of education undertaken by the organized motion picture industry should be sharpened at every point as a factor in the program that is now developing."

Progress of the Screen in 1932

The artistic progress made by the motion picture screen in 1932, Mr. Hays declared in his report, is a marked tribute to the vitality of film entertainment. The achievement was all the greater, he pointed out, reviewed against the background of great industrial depression.

"It is a tribute to the creative power of the industry," Mr. Hays said, "that a greater number of outstanding pictures were released during the past year than during 1931, or in fact during some of the preceding and more fortunate years."

Mr. Hays referred specifically to such pictures as "Cavalcade," "Grand Hotel," "King Kong," "Strange Interlude," "A Bill of Divorcement," "Smilin' Through," "Silver Dollar," "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," "Farewell to Arms," "Secrets," "Forty-second Street," "The Animal Kingdom," "If I Had a Million," "Rasputin and the Empress," "Sign of the Cross," "Back Street" and many others.

"When the story of the present period comes to be written," he said, "there will be a glittering page for the record made by the massed forces of information, culture and entertainment. They have kept the faith during this, the greatest deflationary period in our history. The press of the nation has grown more, not less, important to the political and cultural life of the country. Huge networks of radio broadcasting send forth a service of music and speech, which has now become part of the daily convenience of the American home. Motion picture entertainment with its vast appeal to the millions was stepped up to the requirements of better entertainment."

Improved Social Content

Pictures improved during 1932 from the standpoint of social value as well as from dramatic and entertainment standpoints, Mr. Hays told the industry. He continued:

"Twelve national organizations interested in the social and entertainment merit of motion pictures have been reviewing photoplays during 1932. Seven of the organizations have endeavored to preview all releases." The following table is based on the endorsements of one or more of these committees, according to the Hays report:

Number of feature pictures previewed by seven committees....		476
Total number of pictures variously endorsed for family, adult or child entertainment	(86.7%)	413
Total number of pictures not endorsed	(13.3%)	63
Number of pictures produced by members of the Association on which no review reports were received		27

"Nevertheless this does not call for self-complacency," he warned.

"The resentment created by one bad picture is ten times as great as the articulate approval accorded ten good pictures. Public opinion is in a highly critical mood. It is looking with appraising eyes on government, on finance, on industry. It resents coarseness or vulgarity on the screen.

"We need to stimulate the constructive appreciation of good pictures, without forgetting the inevitably bad effects of poor pictures. The public is not interested in the details of Code regulation. Its final judgment must be based on whether the picture as a whole is wholesome or unwholesome in atmosphere. In no instance can observers of the letter of the Code excuse non-observance of the spirit of the Productive Code."

Sunday Shows Win in N. Y. at Johnstown, Gloversville

Exhibitors are winners in their fights for Sunday shows in two cities of New York state, Johnstown and Gloversville, after campaigns that brought lively happenings in both centers. Church representatives led the opposition.

At Johnstown the adopted ordinance calls for permission to operate theatres between 2 p. m. and 11 p. m. on Sundays. The Gloversville victory assures showings on Sunday nights. The campaign was initiated by the Central New York Theatres Corporation and the Schine interests.

Decision Sets Title Precedent

Superior Judge Thomas P. White in New York has issued a ruling which Felix M. Cunningham and Daniel T. O'Shea, of the RKO legal department, have declared of the utmost importance to picture producers, the decision seen as setting a precedent.

Judge White, sitting in the case of Earl Wayland Bowman, author, who was suing Radio for $113,000 for the use of the same title he had used in a magazine story years ago, took the decision out of the hands of a jury and ruled that no evidence had been presented to show that Mr. Bowman had suffered damages as a result of such use of the title.

The title, "High Stakes," was used first by Mr. Bowman in a short story in the American Magazine for September, 1920. Nine years later, Radio released a picture based on Willard Mack's play of the same name. Judge White, in dismissing the case, declared it was apparent to him there was no "secondary meaning" in Radio's use of the title, which would lead the public to recall Mr. Bowman's story. During the course of the trial, it was brought out that titles cannot be copyrighted, the registering of titles being merely an inter-industry proposition. Mr. Bowman indicated he would appeal the case.

Schenck Issues Denial That Thalberg Plans Resignation

Nicholas M. Schenck, president of MGM, has issued a statement in New York emphatically denying that Irving Thalberg is resigning from his executive post in charge of production. The statement follows:

"Several publications have within the last few days carried a story to the effect that Mr. Irving Thalberg has resigned his position with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation. This is untrue. Mr. Thalberg has not resigned nor has he any intention or desire to resign. His contract still has a number of years to run. He is now in Europe, convalescing from his recent illness. On his trip to Europe he is accompanied by Mr. Charles MacArthur, the well-known playwright, with whom he is preparing a number of scenarios to be used for pictures immediately upon his return from his vacation. These rumors of his resignation have reached Mr. Thalberg's ears and he has requested that I add his emphatic denial to that of my own."

Grainger Drops Suit; Fox Pays Him in Full

With settlement in full by Fox Film Corporation, James R. Grainger's suit against the company for $1,250 as half of his salary for the week ended March 11, has been dropped by his attorney, Saul Rogers.

Maryland's Censors Get Taste of Cut

Maryland's censors are trying to attune themselves to the prospect of an $8,237 reduction of the board's budget, to a total of $22,974, as recommended by Governor Albert C. Ritchie.

THE BIGGEST EXPLOITATION PICTURE of 1933!

Advertise it—

3 COLS × 190 LINES

3 COLS × 145 LINES

2 COLS × 145 LINES

Order these special mats from ADV'T DEPT. M-G-M 1540 Broadway, N. Y. C.

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS

This department deals with new product from the point of view of the exhibitor who is to purvey it to his own public

THE concept of this department is that the exhibitor is concerned not with any critic's idea of "how good?" or "how poor?" but rather with the question of precisely what the product is and what is to be done with it when and as it is played. The exhibitor, in general, is concerned with the special aspects of strength and of weakness in the product, its appeals and shortcomings, that he may adequately deal with it when he becomes its sponsor to his public. These "review" pages aim to aid the exhibitor as the retailer of the merchandise concerned. —THE EDITOR

Picture Snatcher

(Warner Bros.)

Comedy

"Picture Snatcher" marks up another sure-fire audience pleaser for Warner Bros. With Cagney at his best, this exciting comedy moves along with the speed of greased lightning. Against the motivating premise—sensational pictorial journalism — its romance, drama, thrills, have been endowed with a catchy novelty that gripped the interest of the preview audience. Typical of Cagney pictures, it is full of slambang action, seethes with slangy dialogue and rings in a host of surprising developments. In a couple of spots—where the sob-sister Allison and the gangster's moll arduously go on the make for Danny—it gets pretty hot. But even their elimination would have little effect on the underlying punch.

Danny, just out of stir, quits his gangster cronies and talks himself into a job on a lurid scandal sheet. In dramatic comic fashion he grabs a photo that every reporter in town has been after. Set with the managing editor and armed with a candid camera, Danny is on top of the world when Cupid takes a sock at him through Patricia, journalism school student, whose father, Casey, a cop, is the sworn foe of all gangsters, reformed or otherwise. Double-crossing Casey by getting a photo of a death house electrocution, Danny and McLean are in the doghouse for publishing it and the romance explodes as Pat's dad is demoted to the ranks.

A gangster's killing gives Danny his opportunity to stage a sensational comeback. He learns Jerry's hideaway and photographs a thrilling battle as the gangster is killed by a horde of cops. Danny gives credit to Casey for the tip-off and with the old man restored to his captaincy, Jimmy gets Patricia and a $100 a week job on the best paper in town.

Selling "Picture Snatcher" to more than satisfactory box office business shouldn't be such a difficult job. With three such glamorous angles as gangsters, newspaper reporters, and romance, putting a comedy touch to all advertising and exploitation should be the medium. The cast, with Cagney at the top, gives you plenty of names to work with and the title possesses an interest-creating ring. Lines in the dialogue provide splendid advertising copy. There is so much sensationalism in the show that every effort should be made to transmit that sensationalism to the campaign.

Adults of both sexes should get a real thrill out of "Picture Snatcher." Except for two sexy scenes mentioned it's also suitable for all but the youngest children.—McCARTHY, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Warner Bros. Based on a story by Danny Ahearn. Adaptation by Allen Rivkin and P. J. Wolfson. Dialogue by Ben Markson. Photography by Sol Polito. Art Director, Robert Haas. Film Editor, Bill Holmes. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Dialogue director, Wm. Keighley. Gowns by Orry-Kelly. Release date, May 6, 1933. Running time, 75 minutes.

CAST

Danny	James Cagney
McLean	Ralph Bellamy
Patricia	Patricia Ellis
Allison	Alice White
Jerry	Ralf Harolde
Casey	Robert Emmet O'Connor
Grover	Robert Barrat
The Fireman	George Pat Collins
Head Keeper	Arthur Vinton
Leo	Tom Wilson

Pleasure Cruise

(Fox)

Light Comedy

Audiences will find much to remind them of "The Guardsman." Light comedy in vein, the story which makes Andrew a fanatic victim of his jealousy is a yarn of misunderstood marital affections. The characters are English. Most of the action takes place aboard an ocean liner. Dialogue and situations provoke plenty of laughs. Yet the show is draggy in spots, this because the outcome was obvious at the beginning.

After establishing Andrew as a busted aristocrat, kitchen-canary husband of Shirley, eternally jealous of what she is doing in the city while he is at home, the show moves onto the boat. Shirley is on a pleasure cruise. Andrew has signed up as assistant to the ship's barber. Quickly exploding Murchison's ambitions with a fanciful story, he gets rid of one menace. Then, because of mistaken identity, he himself becomes the object of the emotional Mrs. Signus' affections. Orloff meanwhile has developed an undeniable yen for Shirley.

Orloff makes a date with Shirley to meet her in her cabin. Hearing, Andrew locks Orloff in his stateroom and spends the night with his own wife. She thinks Orloff was her companion, but after he finally convinces her that he was not, the show takes on an undignified atmosphere as Shirley goes about the boat trying to discover just whom she did entertain.

Shirley leaves the boat; Andrew gives Orloff her London address and a general meeting of the three follows in the Poole home, where, after a lot of fol-de-rol, Orloff bows out.

Probably the outstanding showmanship factor is the title. "Pleasure Cruise." It has a novel and timely sound that should engineer some appealing advertising and exploitation. Hitching a comedy twist to it; accentuating the glamour, romance and thrill of life and love of carefree freedom from domestic ties on the bounding main should find a receptive response from the stay-at-home.

Best approach would seem to be to accentuate the comedy angle. Go after the feminine contingent strongly. If you had any success with "The Guardsman" a hint that "Pleasure Cruise" is a deep sea version of the same romantic jealous husband angle may stimulate their curiosity.

The show is almost exclusively adult fare. Go after that class with plenty of energy. By circusing the idea of "Pleasure Cruise," stressing gayety, glamour and romance, using the cast names for all they are worth, and binding everything in a way that suggests comedy of a different sort, you may be able to catch the interest of many who otherwise would not be interested.—McCARTHY, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by Frank Tuttle. From the play by Austen Allen. Screen play by Guy Bolton. Photography, Ernest Palmer. Sound recorder, Alfred Bruzlin. Art director, Gordon Wiles. Wardrobe, William Lambert. Musical director, Louis de Francesco. Release date, March 24, 1933. Running time, 72 minutes.

CAST

Shirley Poole	Genevieve Tobin
Andrew Poole	Roland Young
Richard Orloff	Ralph Forbes
Mrs. Signus	Una O'Connor
Henry	Herbert Mundin
Judy	Minna Gombell
Murchison	Theodor Von Eltz
Alf	Frank Atkinson
Crum	Robert Greig
Rollins	Arthur Hoyt

Central Airport

(First National)

Romantic Drama

Centering about three persons—Jim, Jill and Neil—this dramatic romance of flying men and a flying woman, who live and love hazardously, more than satisfied its preview audience. It tells its story with bold, vivid strokes. Its romance is colorful and sometimes daring. Its drama is tense and emotion stirring. Moving with direct action, it utilizes just enough illusion to permit audiences to exercise their imaginations. It is climaxed by a spectacular ocean rescue scene and a sensational fog-shrouded landing that won spontaneous applause. While it is thrilling in its straight air sequences, the story surrounding the human factors is even more important from an entertainment point of view.

Convincing in realism, the story opens with Jim and his transport plane passengers lost in the mountains following a blizzard. The world awaits news of the plane and its human cargo. It sympathizes with Jim, who loses his job as a result of the unpreventable accident. Back home, he sees his brother Neil leave to take up a flying career. Rescuing the parachute jumping Jill from a tree, he joins her barnstorming circus when her partner is killed while stunting.

Partners by day and night all over the country, they arrive in Los Angeles, where Neil sees and falls in love with Jill. She wants marriage. Neil moves on with Jill. They fall in love, and when Jim finds them in what he thinks is a compromising position, Neil is socked and Jill berated before anyone learns the pair are married.

Jim turns aerial soldier of fortune. Neil gets a job as transport flyer.

Jim arrives in Havana. In the next hotel room to Jill, he hears her humming an old love song. He whistles the refrain. They meet again, are gloriously happy for a few minutes, then comes news that Neil has been forced down in the ocean by a tropical storm.

SIX HITS IN A ROW!

"TOPAZE", "OUR BETTERS"
"JASPER", "CHRISTOPHER STRONG", "KING KONG"
. . and now

Lionel BARRYMORE

Master character creator in the tidal drama of the rise and fall of a famous American family. . .

SWEEPINGS

From the novel by LESTER COHEN with ALAN DINEHART, GLORIA STUART, Eric Linden, William Gargan, Gregory Ratoff . . . Directed by John Cromwell

NOW AT RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL and it looks like a record week!

as we promised months ago
THE BIGGEST MONEY PICTURE OF THE YEAR!

KING KONG

COOPER-SCHOEDSACK PRODUCTION

BALTIMORE, Hippodrome, holds over second week first time in history . . . all records broken!

DETROIT, Greatest attendance since Labor Day!

WASHINGTON, two and one half times normal.

NEW YORK, After three weeks at Radio City opens on Broadway at Palace to season's high.

LOS ANGELES, Playing two-a-day. Grauman wires "cannot avoid a record run . . . every spectator a human twenty-four sheet."

Boston . . . Buffalo . . . Newark . . . Trenton Utica . . . New Haven and other key spots report same record business!

RKO Radio PICTURES

DAVID O. SELZNICK
Executive Producer

Jim takes off. The rescue is sensational. He runs into fog. His compass tells him the direction to Havana. The airplane offices broadcast a request for all autos to go to the airport and turn on full headlights. Jim brings his passengers down safely. [illegible] is restored to Jill. Jim takes up his soldier-of-fortuning again.

"Central Airport" is both a showmans' and patrons' picture. Laughs have been held down to necessary contrasting comedy. Yet it is so constructed that there is distinct novelty. Women should find much that is appealing in its love story. The men and boys should get a hefty sock out of its drama, adventure, excitement and spectacle.

For such an exciting picture, the title hardly seems to convey all the color of the story. Thus an interest stimulating campaign should be in order. Play up the elements mentioned. Stress the emotional interest. Ballyhoo of the most exciting nature should be an important part of every campaign. No one should overlook the importance of capitalizing on the box office draw of the three leads, Barthelmess, Sally Eilers and Tom Brown.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Warner-First National. Based on the story "Hawk's Mate" by Jack Moffitt. Screen play by Rian James and James Seymour. Directed by William A. Wellman. Art director, Jack Okey. Photography by Sid Hickox. Technical effects by Frank Jackman. Film editor, James Morley. Gowns by Orry-Kelly. Release date, April 15, 1933. Running time, 75 minutes.

CAST

Jim ..... Richard Barthelmess
Jill ..... Sally Eilers
Neil ..... Tom Brown
Girl in Wreck ..... Glenda Farrell
Swarthy Man ..... Harold Huber
Mr. Blaine ..... Grant Mitchell
Eddie ..... James Murray
Mrs. Blaine ..... Claire McDowell
Havana Manager ..... Willard Robertson
Amarillo Manager ..... Arthur Vinton
Man in Wreck ..... Charles Sellon

Elmer, the Great

(First National)

Comedy

With the baseball season dawning, "Elmer, the Great," comedy yarn of a swaggering, dumb, 67 home-run-hitting rookie phenom with the Chicago Cubs, looks like a happy spring tonic for anybody's box office. Not as spontaneous in its mirthmaking as Joe E. Brown's other baseball burlesque, "Fireman, Save My Child," it nevertheless generates plenty of laughs. Oddly, for a comedy, it contains a lot of human interest which should make it appealing to both men and women. As for the youngsters, it's right down their alley. Clean, full of action, wildly exciting at times, it rings in a nice little romance.

Starting a little slowly, Elmer is presented as a sterling athlete who would rather eat and sleep than enjoy Babe Ruth's fame. Once in the Cubs' training camp, the way he clouts star pitchers' offerings wins him the regular second baseman's spot. Great copy for sport writers; source of never ending laughs for the rest of the team, he proceeds to bat the Cubs into a pennant with 67 homeruns. He broadcasts over a phony radio "mike," talks familiarly to President Roosevelt and the First Lady. He is drawn into a mix-up with gamblers, gets into jail for fighting and prefers to stay there where he can eat and sleep in peace. After much pleading by an aroused populace, he arrives at Wrigley Field just in time to gum up the last game of the "serious" by stealing second with the bases full and then winning it in the ninth inning with a homerun that drives three mates in before him.

Glamourous comedy showmanship, supporting the baseball appeal, is the natural angle to follow, down-to-earth stuff that takes advantage of all the yarns sports writers concoct about the big league whizzes. Sell the whole show. Sell Brown. Sell the fact that it's based on a play written by Ring Lardner and George M. Cohan. Larder's baseball epics, particularly the old "You Know Me, Al," line, should have a place in every campaign. The men and boys will go for the baseball stuff. Intrigue the women with hints of Elmer's romance with Nellie and his love for his mother. Promise a world's "serious" of fun. Go after the sports writers, tieup with local ball clubs, professional and school. It should be a world's series box office feature.—McCarthy, Hallywood.

Produced and distributed by Warner-First National. Based on a play by Ring Lardner and George M. Cohan. Screen play by Tom Geraghty. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. Assistant director, Al Alborn. Photography by Arthur Todd. Art director, Robert Haas. Film editor, Thomas Pratt. Gowns by Orry-Kelly. Release date, April 29, 1933. Running time 70 minutes.

CAST

Elmer ..... Joe E. Brown
Nellie ..... Patricia Ellis
Healy High-Hips ..... Frank McHugh
Evelyn ..... Claire Dodd
Walker ..... Preston S. Foster
Whitey ..... Russell Hopton
Nick ..... Sterling Halloway
Mrs. Kane ..... Emma Dunn
Bull McWade ..... Charles Wilson
Sarah Crosby ..... Jessie Ralph
Still Man ..... Douglas Dumbrille
Abbott ..... Charles Delaney
Col. Moffitt ..... Berton Churchill
Jerry ..... J. Carroll Naish
Noonan ..... Gene Morgan

Robbers' Roost

(Fox)

Western

Where patrons derive an hour's entertainment from the enaction of lively stories of the days of yore when hard riding cowboys and quick shooting thieves made for melodrama and romance, this picture will do its share. Where in particular, George O'Brien, one of the foremost of the western stars, has his cinematic following, this picture will do better than its share. It is important in selling the picture to emphasize its authorship, the film having been adapted from a Zane Grey novel.

It is, in effect, mine-run western material, with its full quota of riding, shooting, stealing and splendidly picturesque western mountain scenery for background. Opposite O'Brien, and attractively capable, is Maureen O'Sullivan, who rides a horse admirably, is familiar with the procedure of a western heroine and serves well in the romantic termination with the hero which is the conclusion of all good western motion pictures.

Cut to the wholesome and time-honored pattern of the western feature, this picture has an Englishman as the ranch owner who is being robbed of his cattle by a gang headed by his foreman. His sister, who comes out from England to the Wooly West to annoy, aggravate and finally fall in love with O'Brien, is Miss O'Sullivan, who achieves for the occasion a fairly creditable English accent. O'Brien hits town, knocks the center out of an ace of hearts tossed to a saloon ceiling, and is enticed into the gang and its depredations.

Through the unconscious effort of Miss O'Sullivan, he reneges on his thieving pals, and after much excitement through the hills, succeeds practically single-handed in rooting the robbers from their roost, saving the cattle, and, incidentally, the girl. Injected for moments of excitement are two fast bits of action. One takes place when, at the taunting request of the girl, O'Brien leaps his horse over a deep mountain cleft to sweep up a white flower she desires; the other when he rides a bucking broncho at her order.

Make full use of the O'Brien name where that is of unusual value, appealing to the younger element of the population in all cases, and to the adults who hitherto have displayed a willingness to watch the cowboys.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by Louis King. From the story by Zane Grey. Screen play by Dudley Nichols. Photographed by George Schneiderman. Sound recorder, Bernard Fredericks. Release date, January 1, 1933. Running time, 64 minutes.

CAST

Jim Wall ..... George O'Brien
Helen ..... Maureen O'Sullivan
Brad ..... Walter McGrail
Aunt Ellen ..... Maude Eburne
Herrick ..... Reginald Owen
Hays ..... William Pawley
Prossie ..... Doris Lloyd
Happy Jack ..... Clifford Stanley
Briggs ..... Gilbert Holmes
Daniels ..... Frank Rice
Tulliver ..... Robert Greig

State Trooper

(Columbia)

Drama

"State Trooper" combines a fairly competent casting with an active story in such a manner as to make for fair entertainment, rather more suitable for exhibition in the smaller theatres of the neighborhood or the small community.

The title is one with which to entice the youngsters, boys especially. Lose no opportunity in going after that patronage, since the story is one which should stand them on their seats. There is ample room for exploitation of an attention-getting type, contacting the local forces of law and order and particularly the nearest arm of the state trooper organization. The method employed by a Broadway theatre showing the picture currently is to be recommended, since large numbers of passersby stopped, looked and perhaps paid. A squad of young men, dressed as colorful state troopers, mounted on motorcycles, rushed about the streets, or stood about the lobby exercising the motors of their "bikes" with a great deal of noise.

For the marquee there are no particularly startling names to offer; the cast is headed by Regis Toomey, personable and two-fisted, and Evalyn Knapp, attractive and fairly capable. Raymond Hatton, Mathew Betz and Edwin Maxwell do well in support. There is a large percentage of action, ranging from a runaway truck loaded with gasoline to the attempted bombing of an oil refinery at night from an airplane.

It all happens in highly expected fashion. There are no surprises, but it moves at a reasonably rapid pace. The sequences of the refinery's fire-fighting forces in action, dressed in asbestos suits, wielding chemical concoctions to combat oil fires, lends another bit of excitement. The picture makes its best appeal to boys and men, with comparatively little at hand with which to engage feminine attention. Action melodrama with an occasional kick, it may be made to draw fairly well at the lesser house.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Columbia. Directed by D. Ross Lederman. Story by Lambert Hillyer. Screen play by Stuart Anthony. Cameraman, Benjamin Kline. Sound engineer, George Cooper. Release date, February 10, 1933. Running time, 68 minutes.

CAST

Michael Rolph ..... Regis Toomey
Jane Brady ..... Evalyn Knapp
Estelle ..... Barbara Weeks
Carter ..... Haymond Hatton
Jarvis ..... Mathew Betz
W. J. Brady ..... Edwin Maxwell
Burman ..... Walter McGrail
Graber ..... Lew Kelley
Jimmy ..... Don Chapman
Morgan ..... Eddie Chandler

Baby Face

(Warner Bros.)

Sophisticated

This is a vivid and revealing picture. Decidedly sexy in atmosphere, it resorts to no subterfuges in driving home its intent of demonstrating how a clever country girl made the most profitable use of her bodily charms in gaining worldly success.

Neither drama nor romance, it bases its appeal for appreciation on the popular interpretation of a circumstance in modern life which many whisper about but nobody likes to acknowledge. Thus while "Baby Face" is anything but a family type picture, it presents that ring of realism that probably will win it more than ordinary favor with the folk who like to have their entertainment tinged with a little scandal. Likewise, it will have another element criticizing it. Undoubtedly it will create controversy.

Basically the story is direct to its point, well directed, and with Barbara Stanwyck appearing to better advantage than in her more recent pictures, it is well acted.

Quitting her home town, being nice to a brakeman in a box car gets Lily a free train ride to New York. In a big bank, she takes her bosses up the line. In turn she's mistress of the boss of the filing department; then a junior vice president and finally the president. Murder, suicide and terrible scandal ensue as the v. p. realizes the chief has taken Lily away from him.

Sent to Paris, Lily captivates the new bank president, Trenholm. A hard-hearted marriage of convenience ensues. Back in America, the bank crashes. Trenholm is indicted. Polly is going to skip out with her half million dollars, but experiences a change of heart and decides to use her loot to help her husband fight his case.

Presenting a picture of such a type to the favorable box office reactions of your patrons calls for expert showmanship. Undoubtedly in many spots, its exhibition will create bitter controversy. This fact alone indicates that it is a purely adult show. Thus a good straight from the shoulder advance campaign directed at them would seem to be the most logical procedure. Drive right home the fact that it tells the story of a girl who used men to climb the ladder, of a girl who had no remorse, but finally did awaken to a little sense of loyalty.

As the picture is bold, don't succumb to the temptation of white washing it. Handled in the right way—with proper respect for the likes and dislikes of all your steady patrons—"Baby Face" will more than likely show pleasing returns. If you can get by without kicking up a controversy as to the entertainment merits of the film story, by all means do so. Remember you're dealing with a woman who takes the initiative in every case. How the women among your patrons will accept that condition remains to be seen. Thus your main job will be selling "Baby Face" to them. Once the men get wind of what the yarn is all about, their instinctive curiosity will bring them.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Warner Bros. Based on a story by Mark Canfield. Screen play by Gene Markey and Kathryn Scola. Directed by Alfred E. Green. Photography by James Van Trees. Art director Anton Grot. Film editor, Howard Bretherton. Gowns by Orry-Kelly. Release date, April 22, 1933. Running time, 74 minutes.

CAST

Lily	Barbara Stanwyck
Trenholm	George Brent
Stevens	Donald Cook
Ann Carter	Margaret Lindsay
Sipple	Arthur Hohl
Jimmy McCoy	John Wayne
Carter	Henry Kolker
The Brakeman	James Murray
Nick Powers	Robert Barrat
Brody	Douglas Dumbrille
Chico	Theresa Harris
The Girl	Renee Whitney
Stolvich	Nat Pendleton
Cragg	Alphonse Etheir
Doorman	Harry Gribbon
Lutza	Arthur De Kuh

The New Deal

(MGM)

Drama

Chief appeal of this picture will be among your patrons who like their entertainment flavored with inspiration. The locale is London, the characters all English, but played by a Hollywood cast. Moving slowly at the start, with much dialogue and heavily British accented, the picture gave the preview audience a task in catching the immediate story drift. That concerns the depression on the centuries old Service store, and about it are built the reactions of Service and Benton and their families. Not until the last reel does much occur to stir audience enthusiasm. Then the film assumes an inspired, "what-have-we-to-worry-about" atmosphere that won a burst of applause even from the gallery gang.

As times get tough, Service is compelled to discharge his forty-year employee-friend, Benton. Then Benton disappears from the film for a long time. In the Service family the grown children, Michael and Caroline, finally come around to see things their father's way; while the wife, Isabel, elopes with another man.

The gigantic store is about to pass into the hands of a price cutting group. Service meets Benton in a little downtown cemetery and is startled to find that the Benton family is making a profitable go of a little pastry business. They return to Service's office and as Michael returns from Germany with some new ideas and Caroline attests her eternal faith, Service turns down the sale proposition. The rain stops. A rainbow appears. Enthusiasm surged. A new day for Service, Inc., based on faith, is dawning.

Ordinary means of creating patron interest are out. Introductory exploitation should focus upon the human interest element. Get over the idea that Lionel Barrymore, as a simple, middle-aged clerk, didn't quit when he lost his job. He picked up a new line and made himself and his family happy. Play up the peculiar woman angle. Isabel Service ran out when she was deprived of her luxuries. Mrs. Benton put her shoulder to the wheel. Straight type ads, personally written, look to be the most effective medium of accomplishing this thought. Stress the romance of faith in town or city, state and country. Drive home the idea that he is a timely, modern, inspirational lesson. Seldom has there been a picture that affords you a better opportunity for psychological contacts with newspapers and business houses. Create the impression among your patrons that it is their patriotic, civic and family duty to absorb the inspiring lesson that this picture teaches.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Announced as "Service." Previewed as "Yesterday's Rich." Probable final title "The New Deal." Directed by Clarence Brown. From the play, "Service," by C. L. Anthony. Screen play by Bess Meredyth. Added dialogue by H. M. Harwood. Photographed by Oliver T. Marsh. Release date, May 12, 1933. Running time, 80 minutes.

CAST

Benton	Lionel Barrymore
Service, Sr.	Lewis Stone
Michael	Phillips Holmes
Caroline	Elizabeth Allan
Isabel	Benita Hume
Geoffrey	Colin Clive
Mrs. Benton	Doris Lloyd
Willie	Douglas Walton
Elsie	Viva Tattersal
Bendicot	Lawrence Grant
Warton	Hallowell Hobbs
Gertie	Marion Clayton
Birkinshaw	Alec B. Francis
Mrs. Kentish	Rita Carlyle
Mrs. Munsey	Eily Maylon
Tressitt	George K. Arthur
Burton	Charles Irwin
Barker	Billy Bevan

Private Jones

(Universal)

Comedy-Drama

The indefatigable Lee Tracy, he of the crackling dialogue, forces through another sparkling performance, characterized once again by much dialogue which in any other hands would tend to slow the pace of the picture, but, as rendered by Tracy, serves to impart a lively, swinging vitality to the yarn.

The picture has the elements of good box office, the major ingredient being, of course, Tracy himself, and the reputation which he has developed for himself from the time he left the New York stage to move Hollywoodway. Lee Tracy, as Private Jones of the United States Expeditionary Forces, a soldier by draft and compulsion rather than from choice, a lad who cares little for regulation and less for fighting, unless it be fist-fighting resulting from unending quarreling with anyone available, who gives every impression of a "yellow streak," but comes through at the crucial moment.

Woven into the story is something of a philosophy of pacifism, Tracy at every opportunity questioning the why of fighting "to make the world safe for democracy," against men who "never did him any harm." But that philosophizing never becomes so dominant as to damage the story's pace, and in the ability of Tracy to handle it becomes an asset to the picture as a whole. The picture has moments of almost tragic seriousness, but it never becomes too serious, too wrapped in its drama, the comedy of Tracy always coming to the fore with a rush, the laughs never very far away.

Ably aiding and abetting Tracy are Frank McHugh, always good for a moment's amusement as the camp cook; Walter Catlett as the meek and mild entertainment officer in the canteen in France. Good names in support are those of Donald Cook, Gloria Stuart, Emma Dunn, Berton Churchill. When Tracy's mother dies suddenly, Tracy drops his efforts to evade the draft, and permits himself to be drawn. In France, lonely and disgusted, he is continuously in hot water through the disciplinary efforts of his superior, Cook. He spends most of his time under arrest peeling McHugh's potatoes as K. P. At the front, he continues his belligerant recalcitrance, but finally saves the life of Cook at the risk of his own.

Sell Tracy first in putting this picture over. It may be well not to emphasize too drastically the war as a part of it. Indicate rather that the war is merely a background for the comedy, the general headlong activity of Tracy. Indicate real entertainment of a lively nature, and it may be well to mention the names of other previous Tracy roles as a reminder. Tracy in a different setting this time, as a hard-to-please two-fisted soldier who does not want to fight wars but enjoys fighting personal battles. There is no reason why the youngsters should stay at home, and they probably will enjoy themselves.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Universal. Directed by Russell Mack. Story by Richard Schayer. Screen play by Prescott Chaplin and William N. Robson. Photographed by Charles Stumar. Release date, February 16, 1933. Running time, 89 minutes.

CAST

Bill Jones	Lee Tracy
Lieut. Gregg	Donald Cook
Mary	Gloria Stuart
Helen	Shirley Grey
Williams	Russell Gleason
Mrs. Jones	Emma Dunn
Spivey	Walter Catlett
Howard	Al Hill
Winthrop	Berton Churchill
Cook	Frank McHugh
Von Bergen	Hans Von Twardowski
Von Stach	William Von Brinker
Mrs. Winthrop	Ethel Clayton
Pete Smith	Richard Cramer

From Bethlehem to Jerusalem

(Vitaphone)

Travel Interest

One of the interesting and well executed E. M. Newman "World Adventure" series, this subject carries the audience over the desert country of the Near East from Bethlehem to Jerusalem, indicating with fidelity and interesting accompanying explanation those spots much concerned with the Bible's historical recordings and the founding of Christianity. The current activity of the inhabitants of the Holy Land becomes interesting by reason of the inevitable association with life of a distant past which went on in streets much today as they were in that earlier day.—Running time, 10 minutes.

Babes in the Wood

(United Artists)

Splendid

This subject must inevitably rank as one of the finest of the unquestionably splendid "Silly Symphonies" subjects in Technicolor, produced by Walt Disney of Mickey Mouse fame. Recounting the fairy tale of Hänsel and Gretel, the witch on the broomstick and the fatally enticing candy house, the subject, done with unusual color effectiveness, appeals alike to adults and children. For the youngsters, of course, it is a treat, while the adults enjoy it fully for its cleverness of execution. When an audience in a neighborhood house applauds vociferously at the conclusion of a short subject, that subject is an achievement.—Running time, 8 minutes.

Abe Lyman and Band

(Vitaphone)

Popular Music

The unquestioned radio popularity of Abe Lyman, energetic band leader, serves to make this number a definitely salable short subject, perhaps worthy of special billing. The aggregation renders numerous popular numbers in a rather effective style, with background scenic effects and detail aiding materially in rounding out the subject.—Running time, 10 minutes.

MEETINGS

A calendar of events and meeting dates of exhibitor and production associations and other non-commercial organizations in the industry.

EAST

APRIL

2—Film Forum, Inc: Regular meeting, at 66 West 12th Street, New York. President, Sidney Howard; Secretary, Margaret Larkin.

3—Associated Assistant Directors: Executive board meeting, at Room 506, 251 West 42nd Street, New York. President, Joseph Nadel; Secretary, Saul Harrison.

4—Allied Theatres of Michigan: Directors meeting, at 607 Fox Building, Detroit. President, Glenn A. Cross; Secretary, John E. Niebes.

5—MPTO of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan: Bi-monthly directors' meeting, at 536 West Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee. President, Fred S. Meyer; Secretary, W. L. Ainsworth.

Allied Theatres of Illinois: Board of directors meeting, at Room 411, Standard Oil Building, Chicago. President, Aaron Saperstein; Secretary, Harry Lasker.

6—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Regular meeting, at Hotel Congress, Chicago. President, Aaron Saperstein; Secretary, Harry Lasker.

7—MPTO of Western Pennsylvania: Directors meeting, at 425 Van Braam Street, Pittsburgh. President, William R. Wheat, Jr.; Secretary, Fred J. Herrington.

12—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Board of directors meeting, at Room 411, Standard Oil Building, Chicago. President, Aaron Saperstein; Secretary, Harry Lasker.

13—Allied Theatre Owners of New Jersey: Semi-monthly meeting, at 303 West 42nd Street, New York. President: Sidney Samuelson.

16mm Film Board of Trade: Semi-monthly meeting and luncheon, at Hotel Victoria, Seventh Avenue and 51st Street, New York. President, G. P. Foute; Secretary, A. D. V. Storey.

17—Associated Assistant Directors: Regular and board meetings, at Room 506, 251 West 42nd Street, New York. President, Joseph Nadel; Secretary, Saul Harrison.

18—Allied Theatres of Michigan: Semi-monthly directors' meeting, at 607 Fox Building, Detroit. President, Glenn A. Cross Secretary, John E. Niebes.

19—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Board of directors meeting, at Room 411, Standard Oil Building, Chicago. President, Aaron Saperstein; Secretary, Harry Lasker.

20—Lambs Club: Council meeting, at 130 West 44th Street, New York. Shepherd: Frank Crumit.

23—Film Forum, Inc.: Regular meeting, at 66 West 12th Street, New York. President, Sidney Howard; Secretary, Margaret Larkin.

24-28—Society of Motion Picture Engineers: Annual spring convention, at Pennsylvania Hotel, New York. President, Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith; Convention Chairman: W. C. Kunzman; Chairman of Arrangements: Herbert Griffin.

26—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Board of directors meeting, at Room 411, Standard Oil Building, Chicago. President, Aaron Saperstein; Secretary, Harry Lasker.

WEST

APRIL

3—International Alliance of Theatre Stage Employees: Monthly meeting, at 6472 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Lew C. G. Blix, business representative.

Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting of membership, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood.

Assistant Directors and Script Clerks Association: Semi-monthly meeting of membership, at 1605 North Cahuenga Boulevard, Hollywood. Richard L'Estrange, executive.

4—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Troupers, Inc.: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1642 El Centro Avenue, Hollywood. President, Joseph DeGrasse; Secretary, Adabelle Drive.

Assistance League: Monthly meeting of executive committee, at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

Motion Picture Relief Fund: Monthly meeting, at 5481 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Abraham Lehr.

5—Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles, President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

233 Club: Semi-monthly meeting, at 6735 Yucca Street, Hollywood. President, Otto K. Oleson; Secretary, Henry Otto.

Brotherhood of Studio Carpenters: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

6—Independent Motion Picture Producers Association: Monthly meeting, at 6001 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. President, M. H. Hoffman; Secretary, Nat Levine.

10—Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Llyod.

Masquers' Club: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1765 North Sycamore Avenue, Hollywood. Harlequin, Antonio Moreno.

11—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Sam W. B. Cohen.

Allied Theatre Owners of Southern California: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1584 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles. President, G. A. Metzger.

Assistance League: Board of directors' meeting, a' 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

11—International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

12—Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

Brotherhood of Studio Carpenters, Local 946: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

16—Troupers, Inc.: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1642 El Centro Avenue, Hollywood. President, Joseph DeGrasse; Secretary, Adabelle Driver.

17—Motion Picture Makeup Artists Association: Weekly meeting, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

17—Assistant Directors and Script Clerks' Association: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1605 North Cahuenga Boulevard, Hollywood. Richard L'Estrange, executive.

18—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Assistance League: Board of directors meeting, at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

19—Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

19—233 Club: Semi-monthly meeting, at 6735 Yucca Street, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

Brotherhood of Studio Carpenters, Local 946: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

20—United Scenic Artists of America, Local 235: Monthly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Vice-president, William B. Cullen.

21—International Alliance of Theatre Stage Employees: Meeting of board of directors, at 6472 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, Lew C. G. Blix.

24—Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

25—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy, Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Allied Theatre Owners of Southern California: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1584 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles. President, G. A. Metzger.

Assistance League: Board of directors meeting, at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

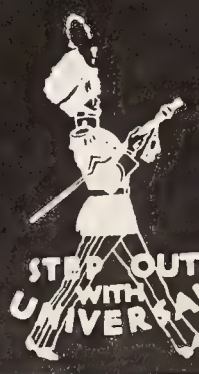
26—Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 1332 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

Brother of Studio Carpenters: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

Christie Files Schedule

Christie Film, in Los Angeles, has filed a schedule of assets and liabilities, following its recent bankruptcy petition. Assets, mostly in real estate, are listed at $972,985, while liabilities are $879,786.

Named Publix Manager



Fred J. Starr, formerly with Warner in Philadelphia, has been named city manager for Publix in Pittsfield, Mass.

Coming!

The Fighting President

The Timeliest Picture of All Time!

TECHNOLOGICAL

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 166.—(A) Tell us just what, if any, effect the projection of film in poor mechanical condition or smeared with oil and dirt will have on box office receipts. Don't exaggerate. Just reason the matter out. (B) Tell us just what mechanical faults, if any, including oil smear, you have found in films received from an exchange recently. Don't add anything. Just set it forth as nearly as possible "as is." In some cases it may be quite bad enough without exaggeration. (C) Tell us the importance of having the two reels on the rewinder in perfect alignment.

Answer to Question No. 159

Bluebook School Question No. 159 was: (A) Give us your idea of the damage likely to be inflicted upon film if its rewinding and repairing be entrusted to an usher or other well meaning but incompetent man. (B) Name all those various things which may inflict damage upon film during the process of projection. (C) Name the various possibilities for damage to film in the process of rewinding.

The following made creditable answers (though the answer selected for publication will convince you that deeper digging might have returned worth-while results): C. Rau and S. Evans, Lester Borst, Dale Danielson, G. E. Doe, Kenneth Dowling, P. W. Edwards, J. Wentworth, T. Van Vaulkenburg, Wilbur Ostrum, J. E. Raynor, H. Edwards, E. E. Parkinson, M. L. Tomlinson, D. L. Prindley and E. O. Olliver, G. C. Hendrie and B. T. Sampson, D. Holler and B. Eliers, T. McGruder, N. McGuire, L. Peterson, K. L. Knight and L. V. Smolley, S. Kay, P. L. Davis and T. Buckstone, D. N. Peters, D. Johnson and F. L. Lindsey, H. Anderson, M. S. O'Brien, D. L. Gaitsley, P. L. Algey and R. Dinmat, F. B. Gamble, J. M. McKinzie, T. R. MacAllen and D. E. Ellis, L. C. Deniels and T. Lewis and F. T. Welter, M. H. Sanders and T. L. Shelton, P. Lambert and S. G. Goss, D. U. Shelton and B. R. Thompson, J. Ahrenson, W. D. Lalley, S. Chestney and T. Lavery, G. M. Marxley, R. Titsey and L. G. Binn and F. Pulter, D. U. Tomms and P. L. Mangan, J. S. Bischoff and L. S. Marksley, L. U. Jumel and D. R. Jumel, J. D. Schneider and C. Cummings, A. Illks and B. R. Rouen, J. L. Richards and T. B. Cudmore, D. L. Solomon and P. Hadley, L. M. and R. Wright, A. Altmand and D. T. Holmes and P. Tapsley, C. L. Daniels, B. Diglah and O. Garling, H. D. Schofield, D. R. Donaldson and B. Sponn, L. Simmons and W. D. Adomson, D. L. Stanhope, A. Lomberg, B. M. May, H. Steele and T. Potter, H. D. Davis, H. D. Cylor, T. L. Banks and W. T. Smith, L. Peterson and D. Donahue, H. B. Jenkins, L. Evans and H. M. Evans, B. E. Danning, L. N. Daliels and M. R. Wining, L. G. Thompson and D. Lilley, T. Torr and L. Davis, B. R. Compton and T. Gaitsley, W. A. Andres, L. T. Chotes and B. L. Buckley, W. S. Andrus, L. Cranlo and G. Deckson, F. D. Prindley, D. Golding, T. H. Heins and G. Framann, G. Lombard and G. Breston, D. L. Stanhope, H. M. Evans, T. G. Sawyer, H. M. Evans, and F. D. Samuels.

I have selected the answer of T. Van-Vaulkenburg to Section A for publication for the reason that it is perhaps the most complete of any, though several others did very well indeed. Van Vaulkenburg says, "In general it may be said that film inspection and repairs in the theatre should only be entrusted to a competent projectionist for the reasons that (a) he has a direct personal interest in having the work well done, which no one else except the manager himself has, (b) he is presumabily capable of doing the work well, if not perfectly, (c) if trouble results he must blame himself.

"If film be inspected and repaired by an usher or other incompetent person we surely might expect to find weak, poorly made splices; film eliminations not replaced by proper length of blank, with resultant break in sound when using disc reproduction; edges of splices improperly scraped, with resultant occasional flashes of white light on the screen; cracked sprocket holes either given no attention at all or improperly 'notched'; changeover marks not eliminated; film cement not properly protected from moisture and evaporation, with result that splices pull apart in use; too much or too little film cement used, with resultant weak splice; mismatched sprocket holes; film rewound too loosely and then 'pulled down,' with resultant scratches in emulsion; film injured by handling with dirty or oily fingers; sound track not properly blocked at splices; injuries inflicted by rewinding too fast; injuries inflicted by improperly adjusted rewinder head and tail pieces; film injured by unnecessarily rough handling; film left unnecessarily exposed, which adds to fire hazard; possible mis-frames not cut out."

(B) I believe Rau and Evans did best on this one. They say, "The various things which may inflict damage on film during the process of projection are (1) worn, hooked or under-cut sprocket-teeth, (2) too much tension at aperture, (3) idlers set too close to film causing idler to ride film, (4) idlers set too far away from film causing film to jump sprocket and become marked and torn, (5) hardened emulsion deposit on film tracks thus scratching film, (6) sprockets out of line causing film to jump sprockets and thus become marked and torn, (7) upper or lower magazine out of line causing film edges to scrape against fire trap, (8) worn magazine valve rollers thus scratching film, (9) too tight takeup tension causing strain on film sprocket-holes, (10) too loose takeup tension causing lower reel to jerk film, (11) too tight feed reel tension causing strain on film sprocket-holes, (12) too loose feed reel tension causing film to be jerked downwards and broken, (13) poor reels causing damage to edges of film or allowing varying tension on film thus causing it to snap back and break, (14) poor film or poor splices, (15) too much oil used on projector so that film is covered with oil, (16) too intense heat on film thus shortening its life, (17) too high starting speed of projector motor, causing great strain of film sprocket-holes, (18) improper threading of film in projector so that too large loops cause film to scrape against mechanism, or film not set properly on sprockets so that idlers or sprocket-teeth damage film."

(C) We will let A. Altman, D. T. Holmes and P. Tapsley talk to us about this one. They say, "(1) Crooked reels, (2) parts of rewinder so mounted that reels on same are out of line with each other, (3) rewinding too fast, which is progressively harmful as faults 1 and 2 are increased; (4) too little tension on tail reel, with result that film is rewound too loosely and likely to be, or even must be pulled down; (5) too much braking tension on tail reel, which means unnecessary strain on film and possibly some minor injury; also wasted electric power, (6) permitting rewind motor to run after rewinding is completed, with result that tail piece slaps around, with probable resultant injury; (7) splice pulling apart in course of rewinding, with possibility of considerable film being run off loosely and perhaps injured; (8) pure carelessness in handling the reels."

COLUMBIA MAKES FILM HISTORY WITH HIT AFTER HIT—BIG B.O. PICTURES ON WAY KEEP UP TERRIFIC PACE!

'Africa' Proves Smash Hit Everywhere!

"So This Is Africa!" the Wheeler-Woolsey mirth provoker, is piling up huge grosses wherever it's shown.

Records that were hung up before the depression have fallen before the box office mastery of this laughter opus. Theatres needed the stimulation of business which the picture is giving, but even more the great public needed to laugh!

In Atlanta the Rialto Theatre couldn't hold all the people who wanted to see it the first week, and it was held over. That first week topped all grosses in many months—in spite of the terrific handicap imposed by the bank holiday.

At the Orpheum, Des Moines, the picture was originally set for four days, but business was so big it was held for a week. At the Orpheum, Salt Lake City, the run had to be extended four days to meet the demand. Big business is also reported from the Palace in Chicago, Keith's in Portland, Me., and E. M. Loew's in Hartford, Conn.

At Keith's Theatre in Washington the attendance figures were tremendously impressive, as was the case also at the New Theatre in Baltimore.

Reports from completed engagements are definite to the effect that "So This Is Africa!" is one of the biggest box office sensations of the past three years.

"Woman I Stole" A Hit

The Columbia Studios have produced another box-office winner in "The Woman I Stole" according to enthusiastic Hollywood reports. The film is a picturization of Joseph Hergesheimer's famous novel, "Tampico." This is a powerful dramatic story with situations that spell box office.

Jack Holt, in the top spot, has another opportunity for one of his virile characterizations. Fay Wray plays opposite him with Raquel Torres, Donald Cook, Noah Beery, Edwin Maxwell, Charles Browne, Ferdinand Muiner and Lee Phelps in important secondary roles. Irving Cummings directed.

"Night of Terror" Big

Columbia has arrayed a cast for the production of "Night of Terror" that is no less imposing than its star and author. Bela Lugosi, famous star of "Dracula," has another great role and is supported by a cast that includes Sally Blane, Tully Marshall, Wallace Ford, Mary Frey and George Meeker. The screen play was authored by Willard Mack, famous playwright, who is also directing the dialogue. Ben Stoloff is the director of this latest thriller.

Adv.

Crowds at RKO Palace Theatre, N. Y., that caused Variety to report, "For the first time in weeks the Palace is in the money."

"Below the Sea" Thriller

A hair-raising sub-sea, hand-to-hand combat between a diver and a monstrous octopus provides the thrilling climax to Columbia's "Below the Sea," from a screen play by Jo Swerling. Director Al Rogell is being widely praised for the drama and thrills he packed into the climatic sequence, which was filmed under seas in Technicolor. Ralph Bellamy and Fay Wray head the cast which includes Frederick Vogeding, Paul Page, Trevor Bland and Esther Howard.

"Trooper" Broadway Hit

"State Trooper," backed by an exceptional exploitation campaign, was Broadway's surprise hit this week, running the Mayfair gross up to the excellent. The theatre box-office has known no let-up since the opening Saturday morning.

Adv.

Menjou Murder Mystery

"The Circus Queen Murder," Columbia's latest contribution in the Anthony Abbott murder mystery cycle, has been completed and set for early release. Adolphe Menjou, following his great success in "Night Club Lady," again portrays the suave and polished Thatcher Colt. Greta Nissen has the leading feminine role with Donald Cook, Ruthelma Stevens, Dwight Frye and Harry Holman in featured parts. Roy William Neill directed. This exciting story was one of the most popular that has appeared in Liberty magazine.

Ann Carver's Profession

Columbia announces that "Ann Carver's Profession," a modern, timely and highly dramatic story, has gone into production with Fay Wray and Gene Raymond in the leads, and Eddie Buzzell directing. The story is by Robert Riskin. This up-to-the-minute picture is expected to start a new cycle, for it invades a hitherto untouched dramatic field.

Adv.

Wheeler-Woolsey laugh hit, "So This Is Africa," rushes good times along to hundreds of theatres right when they need it most.

"Mussolini" Bookings Pour In

Hailed by the press as an exceptionally effective and fascinating achievement, and proven by the extraordinary attendance records hung up to be the foremost box-office hit of the year, "Mussolini Speaks!" was held over for a second week at the Palace Theatre, New York. During the two weeks of this, its world premiere, it is estimated 175,000 persons saw the picture.

No picture in many months has anywhere near equalled this impressive display of box-office strength at the Palace.

On the strength of its showing Columbia reports that bookings have been pouring in from all over the country. Fourteen openings in important cities were set this week. They include a two-a-day engagement at the Tremont Theatre in Boston, beginning March 31st, and a popular price run at the Mosque Theatre in Newark, N. J., beginning March 30th. Others are Bijou Theatre, Springfield, Mass.; Capitol Theatre or Middlesex, Middletown, Conn.; Carroll Theatre, Waterbury, Conn.; Traco Theatre, Tom's River, N. J.; Palace-Strand Theatre, Stamford, Conn.; Harry Arthur Theatre, Meriden, Conn.; College Theatre, New Haven, Conn.; Colonial Theatre, Farrell, Pa.; Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa.; Roxian Theatre, McKee's Rocks, Pa.; Lyric Theatre, Endicott, N. Y.; and Grand Theatre, Bellingham, Wash.

Newspaper critics in New York hailed the picture as outstanding, timely and certain to draw large audiences. Brief excerpts follow:

"A great picture. Audience cheered time and again."—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

"Swell. Rounds of applause and handclaps. Mussolini a born camera subject."—N. Y. Sunday News.

"A fine show. Holds the screen and the audience. Fascinating—skillful—ever interesting."—N. Y. American.

"Should be interesting to persons of all nationalities. See it!"—N. Y. Daily News.

"A fine picture. Exciting pictorial record of accomplishment with the Premier a first rate actor."—N. Y. World-Telegram.

"Makes a profound impression on all."—N. Y. Morning Telegraph.

"A fascinating document of a tremendously fascinating personality. Enthusiastically applauded."—N. Y. Evening Journal.

"Stop, Look and Listen!"—N. Y. Sun.

"Interesting and instructive...cannot resist a surge of patriotic feeling."—N. Y. Times.

Adv.

THEATRE RECEIPTS

Theatre receipts for the calendar week ended March 25, 1933, showed a marked improvement over the previous week, ended March 18. The total for the more recent period was $1,117,502 from 107 theatres in 19 cities, which, compared with a total of $1,067,515 previously, indicates an increase of $49,987. The increase is the more significant since Cleveland is omitted in the current compilation, a strike there having closed all houses. No new "highs" and 11 new "lows" were recorded during the more recent week.

(Copyright, 1933: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to MOTION PICTURE HERALD expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Boston			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Fenway	1,800	30c-50c	"Mystery of the Wax Museum".. (W. B.) and "Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	9,500	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.).. and "Parachute Jumper" (W. B.)	8,500	.....
Keith's	3,500	30c-50c	"Parole Girl" (Col.)	18,500	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	13,000	High 12-5 "Frankenstein".....	27,000
							Low 3-9-33 "When Strangers Marry"..	12,000
Keith-Boston	2,900	25c-50c	"Sailor Be Good" (Radio).....	15,000	"Strange People" (Chesterfield)..	12,500	High 4-9-32 "Steady Company".....	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Topaze"	11,000
Loew's Orpheum	2,200	25c-50c	"Rasputin and the Empress".... (MGM)	16,000	"Fast Workers" (MGM)	11,000	High 1-24 "Hell's Angels".....	32,500
							Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight".....	9,500
Loew's State	3,700	25c-50c	"Rasputin and the Empress" .... (MGM)	17,500	"Fast Workers" (MGM)	13,500	High 6-18-32— "Hell Divers," "Possessed" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight".....	11,000
Metropolitan	4,350	35c-65c	"State Fair" (Fox).....	33,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.).....	30,000	High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 3-9-33 "King of the Jungle".....	26,500
Paramount	1,800	30c-50c	"Mystery of the Wax Museum".. (W. B.) and "Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	11,000	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.) .. and "Parachute Jumper" (W. B.)	9,000	.....
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-55c	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	9,800	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)....	14,700	High 3-28 "My Past".....	39,500
							Low 3-24-33 "Our Betters".....	9,800
Century	3,000	25c	"Hello, Everybody" (Para.) and "Parachute Jumper" (W. B.)	4,700	"Crime of the Century" (Para.) .. and "Private Jones" (U.)	5,800	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
							Low 3-24-33 "Hello, Everybody" and "Parachute Jumper"	4,700
Great Lakes	3,000	25c-40c	"42nd Street (W. B.)..... (2nd week)	11,800	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (1st week)	16,300	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hot Pepper".....	5,800
Hippodrome	2,100	25c	"Ladies They Talk About" (W.B.)	7,500	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) and.. "The Old Dark House" (U.)	7,000	High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-16-32 "New Morals for Old".....	4,200
Hollywood	300	25c	"Jungle Killer" (Century).....	1,100	"Eucharistic Congress" (Standard) and "Hearts of Humanity" (Standard)	800	.....
Lafayette	3,300	25c	"As the Devil Commands" (Col.) and "State Trooper" (Col.)	8,600	"Child of Manhattan" (Col.) and.. "Midnight Warning" (Mayfair)	6,400	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance".....	24,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hypnotized" and "Trailing the Killer"	5,100
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-68c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.).....	42,000	"Men Must Fight" (MGM).....	25,200	High 1-23-32 "Two Kinds of Women"..	67,000
							Low 12-22-32 "The Match King".....	20,000
McVickers	2,284	25c-50c	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)	9,500	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)..... (2nd week)	6,200	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell".....	38,170
							Low 2-10-33 "Hello, Everybody".....	5,500
Oriental	3,940	35c-68c	"The Big Cage" (U.).....	12,000	"State Fair" (Fox) ..... (3rd week)	8,000	High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
							Low 3-24-33 "The Big Cage".....	12,000
Palace	2,509	35c-75c	"The Great Jasper" (Radio).....	19,500	"Our Betters" (Radio)	20,000	High 4-2-32 "Cheaters at Play".....	33,000
							Low 12-15-32 "False Faces".....	14,000
Roosevelt	1,591	25c-50c	"Girl Missing" (W. B.).....	8,000	"Dangerously Yours" (Fox)	7,000	High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 3-3-33 "Luxury Liner".....	6,200
Denver
Aladdin	1,500	25c-40c	"Ladies They Talk About" (W.B.)	3,500	"No More Orchids" (Col.).....	3,200	.....
Denham	1,700	15c-25c	"The Ferguson Case" (F.N.).....	3,200	"Trailing the Killer" (World Wide)	2,400	.....
Denver	2,500	25c-50c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)..... (6 days)	6,000	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.)..	9,500	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Clear All Wires".....	6,000
Orpheum	2,600	25c-40c	"Child of Manhattan" (Col.).....	8,000	"Private Jones" (U.)	12,500	.....
Paramount	2,000	25c-40c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)..... (4 days)	1,400	"The Woman Accused" (Para.)..	4,500	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels".....	22,000
			"Whistling in the Dark" (MGM) (3 days)	1,600			Low 3-23-33 "Grand Slam" and "Whistling in the Dark"	3,600
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-40c	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	5,500	"Private Jones" (U.)	5,200	.....
Fisher	2,700	15c-40c	"The King's Vacation" (W. B.)..	4,200	"Secret of Madame Blanche".... (MGM)	3,100	.....
Fox	5,100	15c-40c	"Rome Express" (U.).....	6,500	"Broadway Bad" (Fox).....	7,400	.....
Michigan	4,000	25c-50c	"What! No Beer?" (MGM).....	10,400	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)..	12,600	.....
United Artists	2,000	25c-50c	"Sign of the Cross" (Para.).....	4,100	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U.A.).. (2nd week)	3,900	.....
Hollywood
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... ($2.00 premiere)	26,000	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)..... (2nd week-6 days)	5,500	High 2-7 "Little Caesar".....	30,000
							Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family".....	7,000
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-40c	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	3,000	"Private Jones" (U.)	2,750	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs".....	10,000
							Low 3-10-33 "Topaze"	2,500
Circle	2,800	25c-40c	"The Woman Accused" (Radio)...	5,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (2nd week)	5,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	13,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Sign of the Cross"..... (Second run)	2,500
Indiana	3,300	25c-40c	"Parachute Jumper" (W. B.).... (40c)	15,000	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.).. (9 days)	8,000	High 1-17 "Her Man"	25,000
							Low 3-3-33 "20,000 Years in Sing Sing"	5,000
Palace	2,800	25c-40c	"Fast Workers" (MGM)..... (2nd week)	4,500	"Fast Workers" (MGM) ..... (1st week)	4,000	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	22,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Clear All Wires".....	3,500

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Kansas City
Mainstreet	3,049	25c-40c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	5,500	"Our Betters" (Radio)	4,800	High 1-9-32 "Peach o' Reno"	25,500
							Low 3-7-33 "The Great Jasper"	4,000
							(Second week of straight film policy.)
Midland	4,000	25c	"Red Dust" (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,700	"Fast Workers" (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,500	High 1-5-33 "Strange Interlude"	30,000
							Low 12-8-32 "Man Against Woman"	6,000
Newman	2,000	25c-50c	"The Woman Accused" (Para.) (8 days and Sat. midnite show)	5,200	"King of the Jungle" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	5,000	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express"	25,000
							Low 3-14-33 "King of the Jungle"	5,000
Uptown	2,000	25c-40c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	3,000	"The Match King" (F. N.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	2,500	High 1-10 "Girl of the Golden West"	8,000
							Low 5-21-32 "Lena Rivers"	2,000
Los Angeles
Loew's State	2,416	25c-40c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	15,000	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) and "Broadway Bad" (Fox)	9,000	High 10-25 "Susan Lenox"	39,000
							Low 3-5-32 "The Silent Witness"	6,963
Paramount	3,596	25c-40c	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	11,500	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)	10,000	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor"	41,000
							Low 2-6-32 "Tomorrow and Tomorrow"	7,500
RKO	2,700	25c-55c	"Goona Goona" (First Div.) and "Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio)	9,000	"The Great Jasper" (Radio)	2,000	.....
W. B. Downtown	2,400	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	19,000	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.) (2nd week)	7,100	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	27,000
							Low 4-23-32 "Destry Rides Again"	6,200
W. B. Western	2,400	25c-45c	"Parachute Jumper" (W. B.)	5,300	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	3,100	.....
Minneapolis
Century	1,640	25c-40c	"Men Must Fight" (MGM)	4,000	"State Fair" (Fox) (return engagement)	4,500	.....
Lyric	1,238	25c-40c	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W. B.)	2,500	"Broadway Bad" (Fox)	2,000	High 5-30 "Kiki"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Men on Call"	1,200
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U.A.)	7,000	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	6,500	.....
State	2,300	25c-55c	"Employees' Entrance" (F.N.)	6,500	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.)	7,000	High 1-2-32 "Sooky"	10,000
							Low 3-10-33 "King of the Jungle"	3,500
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) and "The Woman Accused" (Para.)	9,500	"Frisco Jenny" (F. N.) and "Employees' Entrance" (F. N.)	9,500	High 1-10 "Just Imagine"	18,000
							Low 12-23 "The Guardsman" and "The Tip Off"	8,000
Imperial	1,914	15c-50c	"L'Ane de Buridan" (French)	1,800	"Don Juan de la Montagne" (French)	2,200	High 1-17 "Office Wife"	10,000
							Low 3-24-33 "L'Ane de Buridan"	1,800
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)	11,000	"Dangerously Yours" (Fox)	11,500	High 4-2-32 "Fireman, Save My Child"	16,500
							Low 7-18 "Stepping Out"	9,000
Palace	2,600	25c-75c	"Secret of Madame Blanche" (MGM)	10,500	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.)	12,000	High 4-2-32 "One Hour With You"	19,500
							Low 12-23-32 "Life Begins"	8,500
Princess	2,272	25c-60c	"Perfect Understanding" (U.A.) and "Nagana" (U.)	7,500	"Uptown New York" (World Wide) and "Hypnotized" (World Wide)	7,500	High 4-1 "City Lights"	22,500
							Low 12-23-32 "The Crusader" and "Hearts of Humanity"	6,000
New York
Astor	1,120	55c-$2.20	"The White Sister" (MGM)	14,559	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (12th week-6 days)	5,800	High 1-2-32 "Hell Divers"	24,216
							Low 3-26-33 "The White Sister"	14,559
Cameo	549	25c-75c	"Shame" (Amkino) (2nd week)	3,250	"Shame" (Amkino) (1st week)	4,750	.....
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.65	"Fast Workers" (MGM)	25,641	"Men Must Fight" (MGM)	27,900	High 1-9-32 "Mata Hari"	110,466
							Low 2-2-33 "Whistling in the Dark"	23,600
Gaiety	807	55c-$1.65	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (11th week)	8,900	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (10th week)	8,900	.....
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"Love in Morocco" (Gaumont-British)	7,800	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)	8,200	High 12-12 "Frankenstein"	53,800
							Low 3-10-33 "Racetrack"	7,100
Palace	2,500	25c-75c	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) (2nd week)	7,250	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) (1st week)	12,600	.....
Paramount	3,700	35c-99c	"Strictly Personal" (Para.)	43,600	"The Woman Accused" (Para.)	27,100	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie"	85,900
							Low 2-2-33 "Hello, Everybody"	15,600
Rialto	2,200	40c-85c	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	11,000	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.) (Second run)	12,000	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express"	64,600
							Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels"	4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-85c	"Secrets" (U. A.)	27,440	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.) (3rd week)	8,200	High 1-9-32 "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"	67,100
							Low 7-29-32 "Igloo"	8,000
RKO Music Hall	5,945	35c-$1.65	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	54,385	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	64,257	.....
RKO Roxy	3,700	35c-$1.65	"King Kong" (Radio) (3rd week)	27,956	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	32,330	.....
Roxy	6,200	25c-35c	"After the Ball" (Fox)	15,300	"Heritage of the Desert" (Para.)	15,500	High 1-1-32 "Delicious"	133,000
							Low 1-26-33 "Air Hostess"	9,100
Strand	3,000	25c-85c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	35,321	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (1st week)	41,778	High 1-17 "Little Caesar"	74,821
							Low 4-2-32 "The Missing Rembrandt"	8,012
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-40c	"Our Betters" (Radio)	3,200	"Woman Accused" (Para.)	1,800	High 2-7 "Illicit"	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "From Hell to Heaven"	1,350
Criterion	1,700	10c-55c	"The King's Vacation" (W. B.) (6 days)	4,000	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)	2,000	High 2-21 "Cimarron"	15,500
							Low 3-11-33 "Clear All Wires"	1,800
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Broadway Bad" (Fox) (4 days)	1,200	"The Death Kiss" (World Wide) (4 days)	600	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion"	7,200
			"When Strangers Marry" (Col.) (3 days)	1,100	"The Fourth Horseman" (U.) (3 days)	500	Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy"	900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-55c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	2,000	"Child of Manhattan" (Col.)	1,900	High 9-19 "Young As You Feel"	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "Employees' Entrance"	1,400

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	25c-40c	"Cohen and Kellys in Trouble".. (U.) and "Parole Girl" (Col.)	7,000	"Sailor Be Good" (Radio)..... (3 days) (25c-50c)	4,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 25,550
					"Our Betters" (Radio)..... (4 days)	4,000	Low 3-24-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" and "Parole Girl" 7,000
Paramount	2,900	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.).....	9,500	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.)..	9,500	High 4-23-32 "Tarzan, the Ape Man".. 13,750
							Low 5-21-32 "Wet Parade" and "It's Tough to Be Famous" 4,000
State	1,200	15c-25c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (3 days) (25c-50c)	3,000	"Employees' Entrance" (F. N.)... (4 days)	750	High 3-14 "Trader Horn" 10,000
			"From Heaven to Hell" (Para.) (5 days)	900	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)..... (3 days)	500	Low 2-10-33 "The Devil Is Driving" and "The Intruder" 1,000
World	2,500	25c-40c	"Lawyer Man" (W. B.) and.... "Face in the Sky" (Fox)	6,500	"Crime of the Century" (Para.).. and "Fast Life" (MGM)	6,250	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love"..... 16,000
							Low 11-28 "The Cisco Kid"..... 4,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	25c-50c	"Madame Butterfly" (Para.)..... (6 days)	2,200	"Tonight Is Ours" (Para.)..... (6 days)	2,000	High 12-17 "The Guardsman" 6,500
Boyd	2,400	40c-55c	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.) (6 days)	15,000	"King of the Jungle" (Para.).... (6 days)	10,000	Low 10-1-32 "Make Me a Star"..... 1,500
Earle	2,000	40c-65c	"The Great Jasper" (Radio)..... (6 days)	13,000	"Private Jones" (U.)..... (6 days)	17,000	High 1-5-33 "Breach of Promise"..... 29,000
							Low 7-23-32 "Miss Pinkerton"..... 12,500
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"After the Ball" (Fox)..... (6 days)	16,500	"Rome Express" (U.) ..... (6 days)	16,500	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back"..... 40,000
							Low 6-18-32 "Mystery Ranch"..... 15,000
Karlton	1,000	30c-50c	"Air Hostess" (Col.)..... (5 days)	2,500	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) ..... (6 days)	3,500	High 5-2 "City Lights" 8,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Air Hostess"..... 2,500
Keith's	2,000	15c-35c	"Jungle Bride" (Monogram)..... (6 days)	6,000	"State Trooper" (Col.) ..... (6 days)	6,500	High 1-30-32 "Arrowsmith" 27,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Jungle Bride"..... 6,000
Locust	1,400	55c-$1.10	"Cavalcade" (Fox) ..... (7th week-6 days)	7,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox) ..... (6th week-6 days)	7,500	.....
Stanley	3,700	40c-65c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (3rd week-6 days)	21,500	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (2nd week-6 days)	19,000	High 12-19 "Frankenstein" 31,000
							Low 7-25 "Rebound" 8,000
Stanton	1,700	30c-55c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) (6 days)	5,500	"Luxury Liner" (Para.)..... (6 days)	7,500	High 3-21 "Last Parade" 16,500
							Low 3-23-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" 5,500
Portland, Ore.
Broadway	1,912	25c-40c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM).....	7,000	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)....	6,500	High 1-10 "Min and Bill" 21,000
							Low 10-1-32 "The Crash" 2,800
Liberty	1,800	15c-25c	"Robbers' Roost" (Fox).....	2,000	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.).. (4th week)	3,300	.....
Oriental	2,040	25c-35c	"Nagana" (U.)	2,400	"Goona Goona" (First Div.).....	2,800	.....
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-55c	"Our Betters" (Radio)	4,500	"Great Jasper" (Radio).....	4,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 20,000
							Low 3-17-33 "Great Jasper"..... 4,000
United Artists	945	25c-40c	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.).....	5,000	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.)..	4,600	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels" 12,500
							Low 3-10-33 "Madame Butterfly" 1,600
San Francisco
Columbia	1,550	50c-$1.50	"Rasputin and the Empress" .... (MGM) (3rd week)	9,000	"Rasputin and the Empress"..... (MGM) (2nd week)	9,200	.....
Embassy	1,380	25c-50c	"As the Devil Commands" (Col.)	4,000	"Hound of the Baskervilles" (Ind.)	2,000	.....
Filmarte	1,400	25c-50c	"Russia at Work" (Foreign)....	1,750	"Rome Express" (U.) ..... (2nd week)	2,000	.....
Golden Gate	2,800	25c-65c	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	13,500	"Great Jasper" (Radio).....	12,800	High 2-9-33 "The Mummy" 25,500
							Low 6-11-32 "Lena Rivers" 7,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-75c	"Strange Interlude" (MGM).....	18,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (2nd week)	13,000	High 1-9-32 "The Champ" 35,600
							Low 8-12-32 "Devil and the Deep"..... 9,500
St. Francis	1,435	25c-50c	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) and "Broadway Bad" (Fox)	13,500	"Tonight Is Ours" (Para.) and.. "Fast Life" (MGM)	8,500	.....
United Artists	1,200	25c-50c	"Maedchen in Uniform" ..... (Krimsky & Cochran)	5,000	"Afraid to Talk" (U.).....	5,500	.....
Warfield	2,700	35c-90c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox).....	15,000	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)....	13,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" 28,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Woman Accused" 12,000
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-50c	"Maedchen in Uniform"..... (Krimsky & Cochran)	3,000	"Goona Goona" (First Div.).....	3,000	.....
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-55c	"Face in the Sky" (Fox) and.... "The Woman Accused" (Para.)	5,500	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.) and "Secret of Madame Blanche" (MGM)	5,000	High 7-30-32 "Million Dollar Legs".... 18,500
							Low 3-18-33 "From Hell to Heaven" and "Secret of Madame Blanche" 5,000
Liberty	2,000	10c-25c	"No More Orchids" (Col.).....	3,750	"Hypnotized" (World Wide).....	3,250	High 1-10 "The Lash" 11,500
							Low 11-11-32 "Amazon Head Hunters" 3,000
Music Box	950	25c-50c	"Private Jones" (U.)	4,250	"Topaze" (Radio).....	3,750	High 2-28 "City Lights" 14,000
							Low 11-25-32 "The Crooked Circle".... 3,000
Paramount	3,050	25c-55c	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.) (return engagement)	6,500	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)....	5,000	High 1-10 "Paid" 18,000
							Low 3-18-33 "King of the Jungle"..... 5,000
Rex	1,500	15c-25c	"Sailor Be Good" (Radio).....	4,000	.....		.....
Washington
Columbia	1,232	25c-40c	"The Jungle Killer" (Century)..	2,750	"Luxury Liner" (Para.).....	3,200	.....
Earle	2,323	25c-66c	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)....	18,000	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)..	23,000	.....
Fox	3,434	25c-66c	"Broadway Bad" (Fox).....	23,250	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)..	33,000	.....
Loew's Palace	2,363	35c-55c	"Rasputin and the Empress".... (MGM)	15,500	"Fast Workers" (MGM).....	9,500	.....
Metropolitan	1,600	25c-55c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (2nd week)	5,200	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (1st week)	7,500	.....
Rialto	1,900	25c-55c	"The Big Cage" (U.)..... (2nd week)	3,000	"The Big Cage" (U.) ..... (1st week)	4,800	.....
RKO Keith's	1,832	25c-55c	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	8,750	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)..... (8 days)	10,500	.....

Decentralization Termed Sales Aid

Independent theatre owners who have been away from the industry are returning due to decentralization, bankruptcies and receiverships, according to A. W. Smith, Jr., Warner distribution executive. Mr. Smith pointed out that these are among the men who created the industry and brought it to its peak years. "They have a real intimate knowledge of their situations and their audiences," Mr. Smith said, "and they live with their theatres.

"From all present indications, the buying of pictures for the new season will be done in the field by the men who actually operate the theatres," Mr. Smith added. "This should have a tendency to speed up the buying and the selling of the 1933-34 product of all companies."

Mr. Smith declared that his company has been building up a department for servicing specially selected accounts with full and complete campaigns for Warner features. Already, about 400 theatre owners, all of whom have been picked as being "showmen" of above the average, are receiving this service. "A special exploitation crew contacts theatres in strategically located cities and attempts to show these exhibitors the exploitation possibilities of the important pictures," he said. There is no charge for this service, he added.

"Elasticity of our feature release schedule, due, principally, to a policy of timeliness of subjects, will enable us to release the full complement of 60 features this season, and more if necessary." Six westerns are in addition, but the company probably will not produce westerns next season, in line with the trend.

Mr. Smith predicted that all theatres shortly will benefit from quality releases from all companies to be available in the next few months.

Majestic Holds Sales Convention

First annual convention of Majestic's franchise holders and branch managers was held at the Hotel Warwick in New York this week. Plans for the 1933-34 season were discussed; production costs determined and decision made to release at least 15 features in 1933-34. During the present season Majestic is releasing 15 features, six westerns produced by Jack Hoxie and five Equitable pictures.

Franchise holders who attended the convention included Herman Gluckman, president, New York; William D. Shapiro, executive vice-president, Boston and New Haven; A. Luchesse, Philadelphia and Washington; Jack Berkowitz, Albany, Buffalo and Detroit; B. N. Judell, Chicago, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and St. Louis; Morris Segal, Cincinnati and Cleveland; Joseph Simmonds, Los Angeles and San Francisco; J. Silverman and B. Clemmons, Dallas and Oklahoma; Nat Levine, Seattle and Portland, Ore.; T. A. Branon, Atlanta, Charlotte and New Orleans; C. C. McDermond, Salt Lake City, Denver and Kansas City; M. Wintroub, Omaha and Minneapolis; Oscar Hanson, Canada, and Phil Goldstone, producer.

JENKINS' COLYUM

Neligh, Nebraska

DEAR HERALD:

Far be it from us to fish for compliments. Our fishing has been mostly for trout and bass, but when we receive a compliment from a lady we never heard of before, that is something.

Miss Bess Whitehead Scott devoted her entire column in the Houston Post to this itinerant scribe, and wondered if we were as nice as our writing would indicate. Modesty forbids us from answering that question, but we might assure Miss Bess that writing is about the poorest thing we do.

We will bet our airdale pup, which is half bull and half skyoodle, that the next time we visit Texas we will put Houston on our visiting list in general and the Houston Post in particular, and we will invite Miss Bess to have dinner with us. If she has a husband we will want him included, for listen, Oscar, we never take Texas married ladies to dinner without their husbands. Oh, no, not us, their graveyards are growing fast enough as it is. We know those Longhorns. Miss Scott's article just goes to prove what we have always contended, that those Texas folks are the salt of the earth, and we are very fond of salt.

▽

Either Walter Winchell was mistaken in his broadcast remarks the other night or we have not been keeping up with the trend of events. We understood him to predict that the Hollywood studios would be closed within six months and the entire movie colony moved to New York. As Walt Mason used to say, "That's important if true." Being of a rationalistic turn of mind, we are giving it as our private opinion that there isn't a darn thing to it.

The Hollywood producers have made some very serious business blunders that have cost the industry untold millions, but we are giving them credit of having more business sense than to wreck all those studios and move down to New York and take the entire colony with them.

Prophecies don't amount to much unless they are based on reason and common sense, and if there would be any reason and common sense in the producers doing that, then we will subscribe to Einstein's theory of "Relativity" and swallow every word of the Mother Hubbard stories. Yes, sir, b'gosh, we would. We may have misunderstood Walter. He talks so fast that it makes everything rattle around in our gourd, and he is generally through before our think tank goes into action.

If the producers want to try a new location why not try Neligh, Nebraska. The Elkhorn river is handy where the stars could take a bath if they cared to; we have one mail each way a day; there are bootleggers enough to supply all the demands of the trade, and Greta Garbo could talk Swedish with Pete Johnson and Joe Krohn. This location has New York beat a mile, for down there they talk mostly St. Patrick's Day and Yiddish.

▽

We can't disabuse our mind of the conviction that Hollywood Herald is growing in importance to all branches of the industry with every issue. There is one thing, however, we'd like to call Wid Gunning's attention to. Towit: He sometimes uses words and phrases that would have given Webster a headache, towit again. He said, "The Theodores will provide the 'terpsichorean' entertainment." Now this may be clearly understood by well informed people, but to us folks who make up the common herd, he might have meant a clam bake, a dog fight or a weeny roast. If he had said that they would furnish the "shindig" we would have known what he was talking about. Tone 'er down a little Wid, tone 'er down. "Terpsichorean," for gosh sake, where'd that come from? The next thing we know he will be trying to run that "Technocracy" stuff in on us, and then we will fight.

▽

Columbia's press agent, in writing a story for their picture "Beneath the Seas," says they captured an octopus that measures sixteen feet from tip to tip and are holding it in a bathing tank and feeding it mussels and crabs. He also says they have a turtle that weighs 600 pounds.

It has always been our belief that Elmer Gailey of Wayne, Nebraska, and H. J. Longacre of Glenwood, Minnesota, held the belts for fish stories. Now this Hollywood guy shows up. The next thing we hear from out there they will have captured a whale and found Jonah inside of him.

▽

We're told about a onetime Broadway star being in destitute circumstances. Isn't there something about it that is a little out of plumb when a stage or screen star who has been drawing a princely salary for years should be in dire want?

If they will give us the salary that some of them draw for six months, they can have all the rest of the money in the world. Boy, wouldn't we go fishing then?

▽

We are just in receipt of a somewhat lengthy letter from Mr. G. R. Miller of the Legion theatre at Wynyard, Sask., in which he takes occasion to pan us for some remarks we made in this colyum recently with reference to the cancellation of the foreign debts. He says: "When you tackle international finance it is quite evident that you have not covered the subject like an April shower." We plead guilty to the indictment.

He also says when we confine ourself to theatres and theatre business we are 99 per cent correct. We most sincerely thank Mr. Miller for this compliment, but we believe he has our rating rather too high, for what we don't know about the theatre business would make a fair sized library.

This makes the third compliment we have received since we have been writing this colyum. One came from Miss Scott, as noted, and one from C. J. Hartman of Carnegie, Oklahoma. This gives the United States 50 per cent the best of it.

We would like to go to Wynyard sometime and meet Mr. Miller, for we will bet our last nickel that he's a mighty swell chap, just like all the other Canadian boys we have met.

▽

We tuned in on the radio the other night and heard a jazz orchestra playing "Those Henhouse Blues" and we have felt sorry for the hens ever since. If we were a rooster we'd take up a collection for 'em.

▽

First, for several weeks, our stomach went haywire with a high blood pressure, and after Doc got that tuned down to pretty nearly normal, North Dakota went on a rampage and sent us down a blizzard. Then came the bank holiday when the cashier wouldn't give us a pleasant look. But now the sun has come out, the robins are here, the ducks have started north, and April Shower is ra'rin' to go, so northern Iowa, northern Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota, look out for us, we'll be in to see you, and here's hopin'.

J. C. JENKINS
The HERALD's Vagabond Colyumnist

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

IN this, the exhibitor's own department, the theatremen of the nation serve one another with information on the box office performance of product for their mutual benefit. It is a service of the exhibitor for the exhibitor. Address all communications to—

What the Picture Did for Me
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Columbia

AMERICAN MADNESS: Walter Huston, Pat O'Brien—A fine picture. Played it during the bank holiday period, and a rather appropriate subject. Story of a bank run caused by dame rumor. In spite of the timeliness of the subject we only did average business. Played Mar. 15.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

AS THE DEVIL COMMANDS: Neil Hamilton, Mae Clark—A mercy murder, a large legacy, a girl, and a trial. All ends well and the audience went home happy. Business—the best we have had since the "holiday." Played Mar. 13.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

FORBIDDEN TRAIL: Buck Jones—An extra good western picture.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

STATE TROOPER: Regis Toomey, Evalyn Knapp—A fair program picture. Played it on family night and pleased all. Played Mar. 6.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND: Lee Tracy—The best all-round entertainment in a long time. If you can get them in it will please as near 100 per cent as any show produced this season. Wonderful story, wonderful acting and everything you could expect in a show. It's simply great. Played Mar. 9.—H. J. Eagan, American Theatre, Wautoma, Wis. Rural patronage.

First Division

THE BIG DRIVE: Got them in and they liked it. What more?—Walt Bradley, Moon Theatre, Neligh, Neb. General patronage.

First National

CABIN IN THE COTTON: Richard Barthelmess—In my opinion one of the best First National has produced. It comes as near pleasing everyone as it is possible. It drew 50% above average business and built up second night. It's a pleasure to run good clean high class pictures of this kind. Here's hoping First National will continue making this class of Product.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

CENTRAL PARK: Joan Blondell—A good action picture. Very exciting, also entertaining. Pleased them all.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

CENTRAL PARK: Joan Blondell—A real picture for any audience. Started off on Sunday to a fair crowd and increased next two days. Played Feb. 26. Running time, 55 minutes.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. Small town patronage.

EMPLOYEES ENTRANCE: Warren William, Loretta Young—Great entertainment. A little raw but I guess that is what they want because everyone liked it.—Walt Bradley, Moon Theatre, Neligh, Neb. General patronage.

FRISCO JENNY: Ruth Chatterton—Swell show. Who said not for Sunday? Good any day. Another Warner hit, with all capital letters. Chatterton wonderful. Running time, 69 minutes.—Walt Bradley, Moon Theatre, Neligh, Neb. General patronage.

GRAND SLAM: Paul Lukas, Loretta Young—A great little comedy. The more Warners I run the better they get. Boy, what they will be in August???? Even Dad Jenkins says this is a great show.—Walt Bradley, Moon Theatre, Neligh, Neb. General patronage.

GRAND SLAM: Loretta Young, Paul Lukas—An entertaining picture and a treat for bridge fans. Story and dialogue neatly blended. Young and Lukas share honors for a fine bit of acting. Plenty of laughs contributed by Frank McHugh and Glenda Farrell keeps the picture on an entertaining basis. Winsome Helen Vinson holds her own with a fine bit of acting. First National hits the spot as usual. Pleased all who saw it. Fair business against heavy odds. Played Mar. 20-21. Running time, 65 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

SILVER DOLLAR: Edward G. Robinson—"Silver Dollar" is a natural and should make money in any situation. Step on this one and you won't go wrong. Played Feb. 28. Running time, 78 minutes.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. Small town patronage.

THREE ON A MATCH: Joan Blondell—Good picture to a fair business. Not big, but will satisfy your patrons, and after all that is what you want. It looks like Warner-First National are right up to the top this year.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

TIGER SHARK: Edward G. Robinson—A mighty good picture. This star makes them all good.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL: Joe E. Brown—Good crowds each day. Joe E. Brown goes over big in this town. First National and Warner has certainly delivered a nice bunch of pictures this year. Running time, 72 minutes.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. Small town patronage.

Fox

AFTER THE BALL: Esther Ralston—This picture was too new to do me any good. I think I was about the first in the state to show it. It is fairly good for its kind, but did not draw largely because Louisiana banks are still closed. It is a foreign made picture and will not please in small towns. Played Mar. 15-16.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

BROADWAY BAD: Joan Blondell, Ricardo Cortez, Ginger Rogers—A program picture that seemed to please our patrons. Miss Blondell is exceptionally good. In fact think this is her best work. Played her Mar. 16-17.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

HOT PEPPER: I call it a lemon. If you enjoy listening to two marines fighting and quarreling, robbing and cheating each other for an hour and a half, then play it. In my opinion the poorest picture from Fox this year. I am no lily myself, but I can't go for the rough stuff in this picture. It has no place in a decent house. Had I seen it first, I would not have run it. This thing resembles "What Price Glory" like a hot dog looks like an Eskimo pie. See it before you run it.—S. H. Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

ME AND MY GAL: Joan Bennett, Spencer Tracy—Fair comedy drama, that neither pleased nor displeased. No extra business. The stars both do clever work. Would say a bit too much "wise" wise-cracking added to their parts. Played Mar. 17-18.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

ROBBERS' ROOST: George O'Brien, Maureen O'Sullivan—One of the best westerns it has ever been our pleasure to show. Miles and miles above average westerns. Tell your customers it's plenty good and you don't have to hide while they're going out.—J. A. Meredith, Garden Theatre, Sigourney, Iowa. General patronage.

STATE FAIR: Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers—Broke all box office records with this. Don't see how any town or theatre regardless of size can miss this one. Had four people in that had never been inside a theatre before. Especially adaptable to rural communities. Don't fail to play it if at all possible. Played Feb. 26-27.—H. R. Hisey, State Theatre, Nashville, Ill. General patronage.

TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell—These stars always draw a certain class of patronage and while the show is quite slow moving it pleases quite generally. Played Mar. 1.—H. J. Eagan, American Theatre, Wautoma, Wis. Rural patronage.

TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell—Entertaining, well acted drama. Pleased. Drew just a shade better business, but played during "Holiday," so test not a fair one. Played Mar. 12-13. Running time, 75 minutes.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

Majestic

THE CRUSADER: Evelyn Brent, H. B. Warner—The title of this is misleading. It should be "A Wife's Secret" or "A Woman With a Past" or some such title. A well made independent picture, nicely cast, photographed and good recording. Drawing power average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

Mayfair

HEART PUNCH: Lloyd Hughes, Marion Shilling—A good story of prize ring. Shilling and Hughes do fine work together. Producers must be practicing economy. Poor quality sound. Played Mar. 15-16.—Running time, 63 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

HELL'S HEADQUARTERS: Jack Mulhall—They had a fair cast and good idea here, but it didn't get anywhere. Played Mar 14-15.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

MGM

FAST LIFE: William Haines, Madge Evans, Cliff Edwards—Excellent comedy. Haines does not draw here, but since picture peased 100% we had a better crowd at night than at the matinee, which is very unusual with us. Cliff Edwards gets more laughs in my theatre than any other comedian and he is especially good in this one. In fact he steals the show. Played Mar. 19-20.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

GRAND HOTEL: All-star—A wonderful picture, but it went over the heads of the few we got in to see it. Only pleased one patron and that was a pass. Just not for small towns. Played Mar. 12. Running time, 120 minutes.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. Small town patronage.

THE OUTSIDER: Harold Huth, Joan Barry—Awnerts. Played Mar. 14-15. Running time, too much.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES: Laurel and Hardy. Did good business on this one. Played Feb. 23. Running time, 68 minutes.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. Small town patronage.

SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE: Irene Dunne—Mighty fine production for heavy fan fare. Irene Dunne does remarkable work in this. Story a little heavy for these depressive times, but much good comment. Business? Why bring that up? Played Mar. 14-15. Running time, 82 minutes.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

STRANGE INTERLUDE: Norma Shearer, Clark Gable—I can't say what the drawing power of this is, as we played it during the bank holiday. Didn't make much on it because of high film rental. It pleased about half the people who saw it. While it is a very artistic production, it is not a good small town picture. Those who liked "Grand Hotel" will like this. Played Mar. 12-13.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

WHAT! No Beer: Buster Keaton, Jimmy Durante—Business on this fine. Title a big sales point. Several customers did not like it, said it was very unfunny. However, it got money, so what? Ideal for German community and those made up of beer drinkers. Played Mar. 11.—H. R. Hisey, State Theatre, Nashville, Ill. General patronage.

Monogram

SELF-DEFENSE: Pauline Frederick—A mighty fine, entertaining picture. Star fine and cast very good. Will average up with any of these program pictures in giving satisfaction.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

STRANGE ADVENTURE. Regis Toomey, June Clyde—We ran this Friday and Saturday. Splendid picture and the best sound Monogram ever sent us. If they would put good sound on all their pictures, we could use more of them.—Amuzu Theatre, Inc., Inman, S. C. Small town patronage.

Paramount

THE CRIME OF THE CENTURY: Stuart Erwin, Wynne Gibson—The best murder mystery picture we have ever seen. However, it's in the program class. Played Mar. 14-15.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

A FAREWELL TO ARMS: Helen Hayes, Gary Cooper—My personal opinion is that this is a great picture, a great story and a great cast. This puts Gary Cooper right at the very top of film stars. My patrons were divided as to the entertainment value of the picture. Most of them kicked on the sad ending.

With a different ending this picture would do 50% more business in the small towns. We have had a lot of pictures lately in which a sad death occurs at the end of the picture, and completely spoils an evening's entertainment. People want to relax. They want to see their hero or heroine live, not die some horrible death. Just think what fine pictures the following would have been with pleasant endings: "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," "Madam Butterfly," "Life Begins," "The Sign of the Cross" and "One Way Passage," just to mention a few. Why not make two endings and give an exhibitor his choice. Played Feb. 26-28.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

HELLO EVERYBODY: Kate Smith, Sally Blane, Randolph Scott—Made for the small town. Kate Smith is the whole show. Our patrons liked it, but did not rave about it. Miss Smith sings several songs that fit in with the story. Clean and wholesome. Played Mar. 12-13.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

MADAME BUTTERFLY: Sylvia Sidney, Cary Grant—Splendid presentation of the old stage opera, with Sylvia Sidney doing the best work of her career. Cary Grant O. K. and Ruggles added his clever comedy bits. Played Mar. 19-20. Running time, 88 minutes.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

THE MYSTERIOUS RIDER: Kent Taylor—A good Zane Grey western. But where, oh where are the old western fans? No business on good western pictures any more. The farmers are all broke and they were the backbone of this class of picture.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small town patronage.

NIGHT AFTER NIGHT: George Raft—This picture compares favorably with the season's best. Plenty of action for the action fans and enough high class society element for the romantically inclined. Paramount gave Raft his chance and it is too bad that he should walk out at this stage of his career before he has had a chance to become really box office. Drawing power of this above average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

NO MAN OF HER OWN: Clark Gable, Carole Lombard—Here is good entertainment. Gable's best. Miss Lombard is a peach and Grant Mitchell adds the chuckles. It's program class. Not special. Played Mar. 9-10. D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

SHE DONE HIM WRONG: Mae West—I am over 40 and thoroughly enjoyed every minute of this picture. I think all adults got a great kick out of it and it did a very good business both nights. It has everything for an evening's entertainment. Kids may not like it. Played March 8-9.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

SHE DONE HIM WRONG: Mae West—Rather spicy but a darn fine show that pleased 100%. Had no kicks and did a nice business for midweek. Kept the kids out, thereby using an old gag that will produce extra business if not used too often. Played Mar. 1-2.—H. R. Hisey, State Theatre, Nashville, Ill. General patronage.

SIGN OF THE CROSS: Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert—Just what you would expect from DeMille. It's the biggest (not the greatest) picture produced in 1932. You can see the master hand in directing this spectacle. The cast is excellent, and a mint of money was spent in producing it. I would say that every adult in every community should see it, but unfortunately Paramount or DeMille had to put on another sad ending which completely kills the picture in the small town. I'll say it's a great picture, a great story, a great cast, and a great flop at the box office. I am no producer, and never made a dollar in the show business yet, but I'll bet every dime I can borrow, that if Paramount will change the ending on this picture it will do 50% more business in every situation, large or small.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

TROUBLE IN PARADISE: Miriam Hopkins, Herbert Marshall, Kay Francis—Pleasing, suitable modern sophisticated entertainment. A story of clever crooks who get away with it. Not very uplifting from a moral viewpoint, but done in a foreign locale in such a humorous vein that few will take exception to the nature of the story. Cleverly done and very amusing, especially to the more intelligent classes. Drawing power average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

RKO

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix—The only show RKO has made in a long time that is really entertaining. This is real good and had many good comments, although it drew no extra business. Played Mar. 8.—H. J Eagan, American Theatre, Wautoma, Wis. Rural patronage.

LUCKY DEVILS: Bill Boyd, Dorothy Wilson—If you run western or action pictures on Saturday, it will make you a fairly good show. Just a few good stunts with a light story. Played Mar. 11.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

THE MOST DANGEROUS GAME: Joel McCrea, Fay Wray—Very well made picture of its kind. Average business. Played Mar. 11-12.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

ROCKABYE: Constance Bennett—Not so hot in spite of a high priced star. It pleased about 50% and drew about 85% average business. Just a picture. Played March 10-11.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

SECRETS OF THE FRENCH POLICE: Gwili Andre, Frank Morgan—Clever detective story that pleased Friday and Saturday crowds. Played Mar. 10-11. Running time, 58 minutes.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

SPORT PARADE: Joel McCrea—No stars and the title did not help so it didn't draw film rental. It is a fair program picture. Played Feb. 28.—H. J. Eagan, American Theatre, Wautoma, Wis. Rural patronage.

THIRTEEN WOMEN: All star cast—A very good program picture. Played Mar. 7-8.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Tower

EXPOSURE: Lila Lee and all star cast—A splendid entertaining picture. This star always good. Rest of cast fine. Story better than average program pictures.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Universal

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy—Not so good as some of Tracy's previous pictures. However, will please and get additional business. Played Feb. 22-23.—H. R. Hisey, State Theatre, Nashville, Ill. General patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy—Another good pictue for Lee Tracy. He takes full advantage of the part ot a drafted soldier who did not want any part of the war, and who peeled potatoes most of the time he was in it. It is a good story, has plenty of comedy, and will please all who come to see it. Give it extra advertising. It deserves it. Played Mar. 12-13. Running time, 85 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy, Gloria Stuart—This is great entertainment for any theatre. The star as good as any of these. He has a style all his own and has a following. Balance of cast fine. Story good. Played Mar. 12-13.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

STRANGERS OF THE EVENING: Zasu Pitts, Lucien Littlefield—Good Saturday night mystery-comedy. Did not draw any extra business, but pleased the ones who came. Played Mar. 17-18.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

Warner

THE BIG STAMPEDE: John Wayne—One of the best westerns that we have ever run. John Wayne is a real he-man as a cowboy and he keeps the interest up all the way through. Should be good in any spot. Played Mar. 9. Running time, 55 minutes.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. Small town patronage.

BLESSED EVENT: Lee Tracy—What a picture! Every man, woman and child will be pleased with this one. Quite a number came back the second night to see it over again. This boy Tracy fits the part to a T. Step on it and date it an extra day or two and it will hold up. No business here, because there is no business, but boy, what a picture.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

FORTY-SECOND STREET: Ruby Keeler, Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels—Well we are back in the show business. At last we have a picture to offer the public that gives them real entertainment, and how they go for it. No musical made so far compares with this one. What a performance Baxter gives. Daniels also makes good, and Keeler wins the hearts of everyone. Here is a picture that proves that it does not take money to make a box office picture. This one did not cost Warner Brothers a great deal to make, but it is going to make up at the box office for a lot of the pictures that have failed to make good for us on the Warner program this year. Give this all the playing time it will stand in your town. Get behind it with all you have. It's the best show we have had in many, many months. Here is hoping that we don't have fifty of the same pattern in the next six months. Played Mar. 17-18-19. Running time, 50 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

I AM A FUGITIVE FROM A CHAIN GANG: Paul Muni—Certainly a great picture. Wonderful acting and gave 100% satisfaction to those that like this type of pictures. Played Mar. 19-20.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

FOR LEASE ON PERCENTAGE
Gayety Theatre, St. Louis, Mo.
SEATS 1,600 SOUND EQUIPMENT
$40,000 IMPROVEMENTS
L. M. CRAWFORD, Owner
321 E. William St. Wichita, Kansas

MYSTERY OF THE WAX MUSEUM: Lionel Atwill, Fay Wray—If you have a community that goes for thrill pictures this is a daisy. Color fine and several scenes that will make your hair curl. Personally, this type of subject is poison to me. Well directed and acted. Played Mar. 8-9.—H. R. Hisey, State Theatre, Nashville, Ill. General patronage.

ONE WAY PASSAGE: William Powell, Kay Francis, Aline MacMahon—A fine little picture with a "Grand Hotel" idea. All the action taking place on a boat. I enjoyed it more than I did the socalled special "Grand Hotel." The patrons also seemed to enjoy this one. Plenty of fine comments, but business was pretty bad owing to conditions. Give this one a little extra advertising. It has Aline MacMahon in it and as usual she gives a real performance. What a fine actress this girl is. Played Mar. 15-16. Running time, 67 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

A SUCCESSFUL CALAMITY: George Arliss—An excellent picture with a good story and cast. Just the right kind of a picture for times like these. Nothing could we more appreciate. I call it the best (not the greatest) picture Arliss ever made. Play it on family night or Sunday. It's clean, and that's saying a great deal nowadays. Played Mar. 1-2.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

World Wide

BETWEEN FIGHTING MEN: Ken Maynard—A good western with many laughs. Not enough action to suit the fans. Maynard does not get a chance to show his riding ability as he did in previous releases but will please all who go for this type of show. Played Mar. 17-18. Running time, 55 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

THE CROOKED CIRCLE: Zasu Pitts, Ben Lyon—A very funny comedy picture. The cast all good, but Pitts and Jimmy Gleason made the picture. Played Mar. 16-17.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

DYNAMITE RANCH: Ken Maynard—A very good western picture.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

FALSE FACES: Lowell Sherman, Lila Lee—As nice a little program picture as anyone would want to run. The big producers do not make them better than this one. The story is clever and the acting good. Pleased and drew average business. Played Mar. 17. Running time, 80 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small town patronage.

FALSE FACES: Lowell Sherman—Another of World Wide's big hits. A dig into our jeans although they attempted to expose the beauty racket, with Sherman as the fake plastic surgeon. It seemed to me as though he was in need of a major operation more than some of his patients. Nevertheless a few wisecracks here and there saved the picture. Average business. Played Mar. 11-12.—L. F. Bonaventure, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

HYPNOTIZED: Moran and Mack, Charlie Murray—We bought the Two Black Crows, and we certainly got them. Although Mack in the first reel went out to give the elephant a drink of water and never returned, we were satisfied that we got the Two Black Crows—namely, Mr. Moran and "Hypnotized." It was sold to us as a super and did we ever get "soup." Murray saved the picture to the utmost, as there was plenty of slapstick. Played Feb. 19-20.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

UPTOWN NEW YORK: Jack Oakie—A take-off on one of Vina Delmar's stories. The story of a young fellow who lets his ego get the best of him, and of course the girl comes to the rescue. A fair program picture which pleased the few that came out. Business average. Played Feb. 4.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

Short Features

Fox

HERE COMES THE CIRCUS: Magic Carpet—The best one of those we have run.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

ZANZIBAR: Magic Carpet—Our patrons do not care for this series.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

MGM

COLORFUL JAIPUR: Traveltalk—The best traveltalk we have ever run. These are excellent. Two reels.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

DESERT REGATTA: Sport Champion—Very good short showing boat racing.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

FISH HOOKY: Our Gang—very funny comedy.

—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

FOOTBALL FOOTWORK: Sport Champion—This came out of season, therefore not much interest shown.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

GIRL GRIEF: Charles Chase—The best comedy Chase has ever made. Even people who don't care for him will enjoy this one. It is full of pretty girls, and there are about two dozen cats which follow Charley everywhere he goes. Two reels.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

GIRL GRIEF: Charley Chase—A good slap stick comedy.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

HOLLYWOOD PREMIER: Colortone Revue—Lots of pretty girls, singing and dancing. Well received here and in fact we need more of these.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

HOOK AND LADDER: Our Gang—Very poor comedy. The "Gang" is washed up as far as our patrons are concerned. Running time, 18 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

MUSIC LESSONS: Flip the Frog cartoon—Not good. Not bad. If you need footage it's OK.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

MOSCOW: Traveltalk—A good filler.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

STRANGE INNERTUBE: Taxi Boys—This new series seem to be very good so far.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

THEIR FIRST MISTAKE: Laurel and Hardy—A good comedy. Kids and grown-ups both liked it. Two reels.—Alpha Lee Murphy, Ritz Theatre, Olney, Tex. Small town patronage.

TOWED IN A HOLE: Laurel and Hardy—A very funny comedy. Their comedies all are good and funny. Two reels.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Paramount

DOWN AMONG THE SUGAR CANE: Screen Song No. 2.—Here's a good musical and cartoon featuring Lillian Roth that is an addition to any program.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

STOPPING THE SHOW: Betty Boop—Fairly interesting.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

RKO

BRING 'EM BACK HALF SHOT: Aesop's Fable—Good take off on wild animal hunting pictures.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

IRON MINNIE: Masquers—Very good. These Masquer comedies don't go with our patrons. They don't grasp what it's all about. Two reels.—D. W. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

MICKEY'S APE MAN: Mickey McGuire—Good comedy, well received by the audience.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

United Artists

BUILDING A HOUSE and SPRING AND BIRDS: Cartoons—Great.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Universal

MORTON DOWNEY No. 1: Morton Downey, Ray and Henderson—Good novelty. The first I have run. It seemed to please.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

Warner Vitaphone

BABE O'MINE: A great novelty short. Swell, I'd say.—Walt Bradley, Moon Theatre, Neligh, Neb. General patronage.

HEY POP: Fatty Arbuckle—One of the best two-reel comedies we have played since Fatty quit making them. He is a funny fat man.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

LEASE BREAKER: Melody Master—A splendid one reel subject. In fact, we find all of the Vitaphone shorts finished and real entertaining.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

PICKING A WINNER: All star—Two reel brevity. A splendid two reel subject. Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

TRAVELERS...

ARTHUR W. KELLY, vice president of United Artists, returned from European and Asiatic survey.

GLORIA SWANSON, United Artists star, and MICHAEL FARMER, her husband, returned to Hollywood from New York and London.

ALINE MACMAHON, First National player, is due in New York from Burbank studios.

HARRY KALMINE, Warner circuit executive, returned to Pittsburgh, from New York.

E. M. NEWMAN sails for Europe Saturday for "World Adventures" material.

ARCHIE MAYO, director, arrived in New York from Coast.

RUTH CHATTERTON and GEORGE BRENT, her husband, sailed for Europe for three-months' vacation.

JOE E. BROWN arrived on Coast from Kansas City and New York.

MAURICE CHEVALIER, Paramount player, arrived in New York from Coast, en route to Paris.

ADRIENNE AMES, Paramount player, in New York from Hollywood.

RAMON NOVARRO, Metro star, sailed for Europe.

W. S. VAN DYKE, director, and MGM's "Eskimo" company returned to Los Angeles from Arctic.

MARY BOLAND, Paramount player, arrived in Hollywood, from New York.

ERNEST TRUEX, Fox player, in New York from Movietone City, returning to stage.

MIRIAM JORDAN, Fox player, returned to Hollywood, from New York.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN sailed for London.

RONALD COLMAN, Goldwyn player, is due in New York from Coast.

BERT FELDMAN, Warner-Witmark foreign representative, arrived in New York from London.

BETTE DAVIS and her husband, HARMON NELSON, were scheduled to return to Coast, from New York.

PHIL GOLDSTONE, Majestic production chief, was scheduled to return to Coast, from New York.

GEORGE RAFT, Paramount player, arrived in Hollywood, from New York.

ARTHUR LOEW and DAVE BLUM sailed for Europe.

MERIAN C. COOPER, RKO production executive, returned to Coast, from New York.

PAT CASEY arrived in New York from Coast for distributor conferences with union executives.

HAL ROACH in New York en route to Europe to make features for Metro.

HARRY COHN, Columbia president, in New York from Hollywood.

Raynor With First Division

W. E. Raynor, formerly with Educational, is taking over the First Division office at Albany, N. Y., in association with Harry H. Thomas, president of First Division Exchanges, Inc.

Freuler in Radio City Office

Freuler Film Associates, Inc., producing Monarch pictures, has taken larger quarters in the RKO Building at Radio City in New York.

Harvey Agency Moves

The Harvey Agency, specializing in motion picture advertising, has moved its New York office to 723 Seventh avenue.

Named Fox Casting Head

James Ryan has been named casting director at the Fox Western Avenue studio.

NEXT ISSUE
Better Theatres
SPRING
BUYERS NUMBER
April 8

containing The Equipment Index and Theatre Supply Dealers—the industry's theatre equipment directories issued twice yearly . . . among the other features of this number will be discussions of the relationship of production methods to motion picture exhibition, systematic and economical maintenance, the law involved in the leasing of sound equipment, theatre architecture in this country and abroad, economical modernization of reproduction equipment, a complete pictorial history of a remodeling project, in addition to F. H. Richardson's Comments and other departmental material.

BETTER THEATRES IS THE THEATRE MANAGER'S PUBLICATION ON DESIGN, MAINTENANCE AND OPERATION

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

By Showmen for Showmen

Beginning with this issue, the Managers' Round Table Club is delivered under the guest editorship of leader showmen from its world 'round membership. From week to week outstandingly practical performing showmen of the screen will occupy this page with discussions important to exhibition.

The real community of interest and cooperative spirit of motion picture showmen has made the Managers' Round Table Club one of the most important services of motion picture journalism in the service of exhibition. The pages of the club section belong most especially to its readers, and the Round Tablers shall find here a continuing welcome to ideas and enthusiasm for the spirit on which the club has been built and maintained.

Communications will continue to be handled by Gertrude Merriam, secretary of the Round Table, and Ed. G. Johnston continues in his post of associate editor dealing with contributions. Both have been with the Club from its founding.

The standing invitation to expression on this and all pages of the club section is here conveyed again. Among those who have this week joined the array of showmen to function as guest editors are:

Harry Arthur, New Haven
Frank Boucher, Hagerstown
Bunny Bryan, Chicago
Wallace Caldwell, Toledo
Charlie Carroll, New York
John W. Creamer, Kansas City
Ed Fay, Providence
Harold B. Franklin, New York
John J. Friedl, Minneapolis
William Goldman, Philadelphia
Fred G. Hinds, Whitewater
Earle Holden, Atlanta
Lou Metzger, San Diego
Fred S. Meyer, Milwaukee
F. D. Nance, Dallas
W. C. Quimby, Ft. Wayne
Thomas D. Soriero, Tucson
E. J. Sparks, Jacksonville
Howard Waugh, Memphis
R. B. Wilby, Atlanta
Charles Winchell, Minneapolis

THE SHOWMAN'S TURN

by HAROLD B. FRANKLIN

For several years the industry has been in the control of big business, with many executives who have no real love of the theatre and no understanding of its requirements.

They stubbornly refused to follow the advice of Showmen, hoping to build a great industrial business through financial strength that could be conducted by formula. This has resulted in the building of top-heavy, complicated structures, having only a remote contact with the creative end of the business . . . the only branch which really mattered.

It is pretty well conceded that good pictures can solve almost any problem in the industry. Only Showmen can create good pictures . . . .it cannot be accomplished by formula or by wholesale factory methods. Creative individual effort by those who have a real love of the theatre will show the way.

During these difficult times the industry is likely to free itself from destructive, costly production policies. Recent experiences indicate that bad pictures are a greater menace to the industry than is the depression itself.

The depression has accomplished what corporate management could not. It has very nearly succeeded in taking the industry away from promoters, and in all likelihood will give it back to Showmen, who should control it.

There are two distinct branches in the motion picture industry . . . one is Executive, which should concern itself with the financial and physical end of the business . . . the other is Showmanship, which must guide the creative end of the industry. Not until this distinction is fully recognized will the motion picture move forward.

Few industries have as ready a market for good product as the motion picture . . . the box office will support good pictures as readily today as during the "Prosperity" era.

It is up to the industry to arrange its affairs so that cre-

(Continued on page 39, column 1)

DICK KIRSCHBAUM'S LOBBY LAFFS!

Something will have to be done about this! It's a sad state of affairs when a couple of respectable muzzlers have to stoop to such a deed as portrayed by our own Dick Kirschbaum. 'Course, the exhibs and 'changes will fight it out if it takes all summer. Let's hope they get together right now!

JOSEPH GREENE BUSY WITH TWO THEATRES OUT IN MACOMB, ILL.

Since leaving the Rialto Theatre in Bushnell to take over general management of the Illinois and Royal Theatres in Macomb, Ill., Joseph J. Greene has been well occupied with the business of selling shows.

At the present time the running of almost a full page ad in the local newspaper is bringing in excellent results. It carried the head, "Coming Attractions at the Illinois and Royal Theatres" and large exchange mats are much in evidence. The greater space in the top portion was devoted to ads and reviews of next week's pictures at both theatres and the lower part plugged attractions for the following week. A small coupon in the upper left hand corner offered a 15 cent admission instead of a 30 cent rate when same is clipped out and presented at the box office.

We're certainly glad to get a line on Greene again and glad to hear that he is doing so nicely on the new job. His big ad splurge each week is producing results for him and he wants to pass the suggestion along. We believe we can take it for granted that space is not too expensive out his way; otherwise, the cost would be prohibitive in certain sections. Let's hear more from you, Joe, now that you're on the active list again.

EXTENSIVE CAMPAIGN WAGED BY TODDY AND MURRAY IN ATLANTA

The redoubtable Ted Toddy, hustling Columbia exploiter who plys his trade in the Southland, with the able cooperation of Manager Murray, of the Rialto Theatre, Atlanta, Ga., certainly pulled plenty of strings when exploiting "Bitter Tea of General Yen." A strong newspaper campaign, advance lobby display, Chinese exhibit, window stunts, parade, distribution of novelties, classified tie-up, and many other stunts, all contributing effectively to the general scheme.

Costumed telephone girls in store window, part of the Atlanta campaign.

Aside from plugging the Southern Premiere angle in the newspapers three weeks before opening date and use of a special, locally made trailer on the screen, a press party was given all Atlanta newspaper motion picture critics, newspaper editors and reviewers. Thirty-two were invited and all attended the preview at the theatre and following banquet at a local hotel. The guests were given little gifts and souvenirs of "Bitter Tea."

One week in advance of playdate the entire lobby was decorated in Chinese style, with lanterns, scrolls and vases. Incense was used and special art frames placed throughout.

The leasing of a store on one of Atlanta's main streets for housing a Chinese exhibit turned out to be an excellent publicity gag. Exhibits were secured from various families, societies and other local organizations. Two Chinese girls (see photo) and one Chinese boy were employed to serve tea and explain the articles on display. Chinese "lucky" coins were given out as souvenirs. Chinese girls also stood in a window and pulled a telephone stunt, consisting of calling people on the phones all day long and advising them of picture and playdate.

Without a doubt Toddy and Murray came through with flying colors with the campaign outlined above and we're sure there are many excellent suggestions advanced for the benefit of other Club members. The picture appears to offer many possibilities for exploitation and just as soon as we hear further from other points on the map, we'll shoot the information along.

Bridge Going Strong!

About one year ago this department called attention to publicity Director Floyd Bell's stunt of turning the Grand Lounge of the Metropolitan Theatre, Boston, into an emporium devoted to the playing of contract bridge. We are pleased to report that the idea won popular favor and that at this writing 15 to 30 tables of bridge are being played daily from 1 to 6 o'clock each afternoon except Sunday, bringing into the Metropolitan many an extra dollar.

"The Showman's Calendar"

APRIL

1st to 8th	National Baseball Week
8th	Battle of Appomattox—1865 Louisiana Admitted to Union—1812 Mary Pickford's Birthday Ponce de Leon Landed in Florida—1513
9th	Surrender of General Lee—1865 Palm Sunday
10th	George Arliss' Birthday William Booth's Birthday (Founder of Salvation Army)
11th	Charles Evans Hughes, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, Born—1862 First Day of Passover (Jewish Holiday)
12th	Henry Clay Born—1777 Baseball Season Open Today
13th	Thomas Jefferson (3rd Pres.) Born—1743 Maundy (Holy) Thursday
14th	Good Friday Assassination of Lincoln—1865 Lee Tracy's Birthday Webster's First Dictionary Published—1828

THE SHOWMAN GETS HIS TURN NOW, SAYS HAROLD B. FRANKLIN

(Continued from page 37)

ative talent can be given its fullest opportunity to express itself . . . when this is done, every problem that faces the industry will gradually disappear.

We cannot wait for patronage to come to our box office and be served. Some small percentage of box office weakness may be traced to a willingness to blame the depression. It is too easy to fall in line with a policy of least resistance.

Emulating Mohammed, who went to the mountain when he saw that the mountain wasn't coming his way, the Gimbel Brothers Department Stores recently inaugurated a go-getting business campaign, conceived by Kenneth Collins, one of America's aggressive advertising experts, and the result was breath-taking—suddenly the Gimbel Department Store became a beehive of activity.

Business is much more likely to follow where it is led than it is to be attracted by those who act as though they are about to desert it. Now is the time new methods must be tried, when new gates must be opened.

We must begin to plan now for the return of normality that will gradually begin with the Fall of 1933. We must go after business with initiative and resourcefulness. Such a policy encourages confidence and must have a stimulating effect on the box office.

At the Radio City Music Hall this week we will wind up the week somewhere between eighty-five and ninety thousand. Such a gross would not be possible unless management goes after business.

RESEMBLANCE STUNT TURNED OUT NICELY FOR FRANK BOUCHER

Prior to going back to his old post at the Maryland Theatre, Hagerstown, Md., Frank Boucher, then at the Capitol Theatre, Winchester, Va., ran a Resemblance gag in connection with a merchant-newspaper tie-up that materially helped put over "If I Had a Million."

Each ad in the cooperative section in the newspaper carried a cut of one of the several stars featured in the picture. The head on the section read:

"Do You Resemble Any of These Stars? Free Tickets to See 'If I Had a Million.'"

It was stated both in co-op and readers that anyone bearing resemblance to any of the stars might take their photo to the store featuring that particular star in ad and secure guest tickets.

It's almost needless to state that the above ad and accompanying publicity didn't cost Boucher a penny, which is entirely characteristic of his show-selling methods. By this time he's on the job at the Maryland in Hagerstown, from whence we'll give his fellow Round Tablers the next piece of news of what's doing in show-business at that point.

Auto or Picture?

Give-away of an automobile during the run of "Sign of a Cross" at the Broadway Theatre, Portland, Ore., had local film men somewhat up a tree to determine which was the greater attraction, auto or picture. A consensus appears to favor the auto.

THE JIG-SAW PUZZLE CRAZE!

No question about this being the present rage and most certainly a natural for theatres in many different ways. When purchased in large quantities at a low enough price, they can be distributed free to all patrons. Note that we say "all" patrons, because the grown-ups are nuttier over them than the kids.

Imprinted boxes or envelopes can carry your institutional plug or ad for special coming attractions.

Some companies are making them up in quantities with the pictures of the theatre as the puzzle. Ditto for photographs of any kind.

Paul Glase of Reading pasted a flock of one-sheets on to compo-board and cut them up into jig-saw puzzles; then, he put them in empty store windows with two kids on each puzzle and let them battle it out for free passes to the team completing their puzzle in the shortest space of time. The crowds that watched the teams working numbered many thousands.

A list of manufacturers of these puzzles is carried at Club headquarters. Drop us a line and tell us what your requirements are and we will see that you are taken care of.

PETE EGAN ROUNDED UP PLENTY OF SPACE ON "PANTHER WOMAN"

Right on the job with merchandising possibilities of "Panther Woman" when that picture was set for his house, Pete Egan, manager of the Palace Theatre, Calgary, Canada, rounded up a full page of publicity and advertising through tie-ups effected with a local newspaper and a number of merchants.

The top of the page carried a streamer head reading: "Calgary's Panther Woman Displays Exhibits." In the top center was a photo of Calgary's selection for the Panther Woman Contest and the caption stated that she would have charge of the merchant exhibits displayed at the Palace in connection with the showing of "Island of Lost Souls." In addition to several readers and a review, each ad plugged the picture.

ATTRACTIVE—!

This unusually effective display was turned out by the never-failing studio of Duke Wellington for the New York Paramount Theatre. We are sure that no one will deny the beauty of this piece of work, especially if one can visualize the finished job in colors.

Thanks to Lew Nathan, we were able to secure this photo for reproduction. Other art men should watch these Paramount displays carefully; they contain some swell ideas for real showmanship in paint, brush and originality.

SWANK NOW IN FULL CHARGE OF THEATRE; BUSY SELLING SHOWS

The last time we heard from M. M. Swank, of the Nova Theatre, Stockton, Kan., it was under the firm name of Swank and Dryden, Proprietors, but now it's 100 per cent Swank, he having purchased his partner's interest and struck out on his own. No, we'll hedge a bit on that, for it seems that Mrs. Swank also knows her way around a theatre and lends a most helping hand.

Going back a few weeks into his campaign on "Life Begins," we note that he followed suggestions set forth in the MOTION PICTURE HERALD some time ago and confined his advertising to simple, dignified newspaper ads and window cards. Reports from outside sources indicated that he would have a tough break on this film, but, on the contrary, his opening night doubled average and patrons were well pleased with the show.

Just to prove that page co-ops can be promoted in a town of approximately 1,500 population, when "Prosperity" came along he made a call on the editor of the local newspaper and sold him the co-op plan outlined in the M-G-M press sheet, of which most readers are familiar with by this time. The only flaw lay in the fact that the newspapers didn't run seven columns and another mat had to be revamped to suit the occasion. Swank made the layout himself and the editor went out and sold the ads. Guest tickets were furnished by the theatre and articles of merchandise by the several storekeepers for awards to those who properly assembled the scattered letters spelling the word "Prosperity" and submitted a short, snappy slogan to help restore good times.

The next time we hear from Proprietor Swank we'll no doubt be able to set down an account of his campaign on "Silver Dollar." Until then we'll sign off and wish this Round Tabler and Mrs. Swank lots of good luck in their new venture.

Twists on "Oliver Twist"

Six national advertising tie-ups have been arranged for exploitation of "Oliver Twist", a recent film release of Monogram Pictures. The advertisers include Hecker's (H. O.) Oatmeal; the Kaynee Company (makers of Oliver Twist Suits); the Viking Company (jig-saw puzzles); Grossett & Dunlap (special edition of Dickens book); the American Book Cover Co. (dust jacket for book) and the Dickens Fellowship Societies, whose branches in 24 cities will launch special ceremonial exercises in connection with local showings of the picture.

FLOWERS FOR EASTER

A lavish floral display should certainly be arranged for every theatre in cooperation with local florists for the week of Easter.

In addition to fresh flowers and plants, a generous supply of greens and ferns can be spotted around the lobby and foyers. Fresh cut flowers, especially those that are fragrant, should be placed in vases and bowls in the ladies lounge rooms during the week.

Generally the only cost involved on the part of the theatre is the making of a credit card or two to be placed with the plants. Otherwise you have nothing else to pay for, yet it gives your theatre a fine break at this particular time of the year.

WHY LOOK FOR NEW STUNT IF OLD WILL DO? SAYS ED RIVERS

Why look around for something new when you've got a dyed-in-the-wool gag in your files that works, queries Eddie Rivers, manager of the Granada Theatre, Lewiston, Idaho; if it hasn't been worked to death, put it over again. And so he used the same catchline for one of two co-ops promoted on "They Just Had to Get Married" that he used last year on another picture.

We're showing a reproduction of the second ad and the copy tells the story just as well as it could be set down in print. Incidentally, Eddie had his first standing line in quite some time as the result of his move.

The other full page featured his New Baby Contest and contained a dozen or more ads from local merchants, with the announcement that articles mentioned in the different ads would be donated to the first baby, boy or girl, born during or following the engagement of "They Just Had to Get Married." It was stipulated that the child must be born of parents residing within the limits of Lewiston or Clarkston and that the exact hour of birth must be certified by the attending physician as later than 12:30 P. M., the starting time of the picture. Decision of judges was final. All sorts of presents for baby and mother were listed among the ads. A good sized center portion of the page advertised the attraction.

Another stunt pulled by Rivers around Xmas season to combat the slump at that time of the year was a tie-up with the U. S. Government employment office for the sale of tickets and scrip books to aid the unemployed. The tickets were made good over a three-weeks period and sale of them yielded 50 per cent to the salesmen or saleswomen. This may sound like a heavy percentage to some, but the sales increased business to an extent during a period ordinarily at the very lowest ebb, that the deal turned out entirely satisfactory. In addition to the sale of several thousands of tickets, the move netted a tremendous amount of good will and considerable free newspaper space.

It certainly appears that Eddie hit a couple more home runs for the Granada and Rex. As he states, his year-old gag for "They Just Had to Get Married" fitted the picture like an old glove. The pre-Xmas slump gag was another good one and should be applicable for others to use at any time.

Thanks to this energetic member of our Club for shooting in this information. We'll be on the lookout for more. If he can go out and get business in a section practically dependent upon the price of wheat (and all of you know what that is) we know darn well that other Round Tablers, more fortunately situated, can do the same.

Fred Perry and Mickey Mouse

Over 4,000 children and about 500 adults turned out for a special matinee held for members of Fred Perry's Mickey Mouse Club at the Capitol Theatre, Binghamton, N. Y. One of the features of the matinee was a tie-up arranged with the local distributor of the Mickey Mouse slip-over shirt and the deal was a most satisfactory one to all concerned. Special stories and pictures made up the matinee program.

A FEW NOTES ABOUT RODNEY COLLIER AND HIS RIALTO THEATRE

Through the courtesy of Joe Weil, of the home office of Universal, we are able to report a few of the activities of Rodney Collier, manager of the Rialto Theatre, Washington, D. C.

When "Nagana" was shown the American Automobile Association in Washington selected the film as the honor picture for a party of 1,500 members of the Schoolboy Patrol. The youngsters marched in a body to the theatre and carried banners announcing that they were on their way to the Rialto to see the picture. Collier also created a flash front that featured both women and wild animal angles.

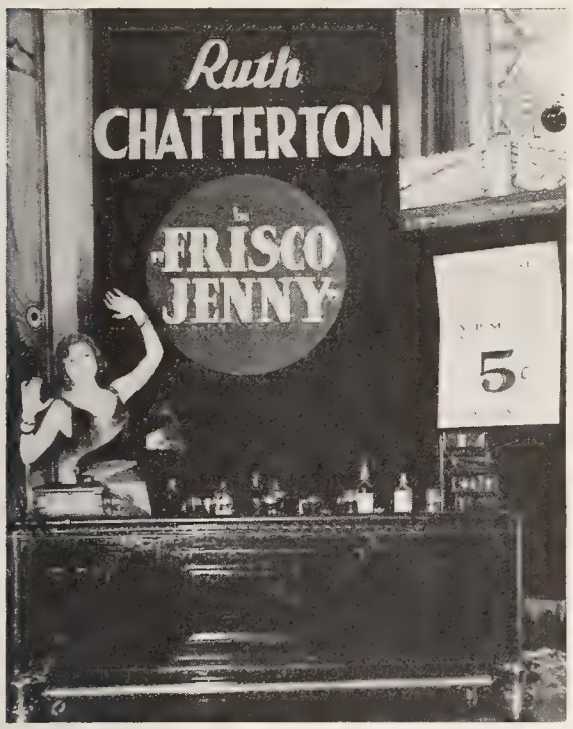
He used the much publicized accessories of married bliss—the ball and chain, rolling pins, etc., to wring laughs from patrons before they went in to see "They Just Had to Get Married." Unusually smart, flashy art and copy also contributed a good share toward getting people in the proper frame of mind.

Using the poster copy as a guide to the art work, Collier designed a most attractive front to play up the dramatic qualities of "Afraid to Talk." Displays at either side played up the head: "Stranger Than Fiction." One poster depicted four characters with handkerchiefs bound across their mouths; the other carried enlargements of Eric Linden and Sidney Fox. A title banner joined the two across entrance.

We're glad to get a line on Collier's work and hope he'll keep the Club posted on future box office activities, for we know his methods of selling shows will be just as interesting to others in this organization as it is to us. What say, Rodney?

CHAMBERLAIN SENT OUT NEAT BOOKLET TO AROUSE PATRONS

To stimulate a mailing list, Milton Chamberlain, manager of the Plaza Theatre, a New York City neighborhood house catering to select patronage, sent out a neat folder of good paper stock entitled, "An Intimate Chat. . . On an Intimate Playhouse. . ." The copy was essentially institutional and relieved here and there with small cuts and sketches of interior portions of the house. The last paragraph requested patrons to fill out the enclosed post-card in order to receive notice of weekly changes of attractions.



BIRTHDAY GREETINGS TO THESE MEMBERS!

Sam Abrams
A. Birk Binnard
Austin C. Bray
Charlie Brennan
Fahnley Bridges
Johnnie Burrell
Pierre Boulogne
Larry J. Carkey
H. Cavanagh
Joseph Dondis
Glen Downing
Stanley Foreman
George Foster
Emanuel Friedman
George A. Gookin
Bert Henson
C. A. Hussong
Charles L. Hyde
William E. Keating
R. T. Kemper
Phil Kielpinski
Raymond A. Kinery
Theodore K. Kraft
George W. Lake
Julius Lamm
Orville E. Lockrein
J. Howell Luter
John W. McGee
George A. Miller
E. P. Nelson
Roy Patience
Fred Perry
Burton L. Prince
C. Clifford Reed
Carl J. Rindcen
Harry A. Salisbury
N. H. Salyer
E. Samphyra
Dave Schiller
J. P. Schnitzer
I. J. Segall
C. H. Simpson
Henry Spiegal
J. E. Stribling, Jr.
E. W. Thomas
E. R. Toerpe
Walter Tooley
N. L. Tower
Emory Warner
S. D. Weinberg
Sam J. Wheeler
Leonard Workman
Jack Wright
Al Zimbalist

ARTIE BLOCK'S OLD-TIME BAR MADE BIG HIT WITH THE FANS

Now that the return of the old time bar appears a strong possibility, it's certainly not amiss to show you all a photo of an advance lobby display Artie Block, manager of the Boyd Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., arranged to exploit "Frisco Jenny."

As you can well observe, Artie constructed a replica of an old time thirst-quenching station, with an assortment of liquor bottles, a price list of pre-Volstead whiskey rates, a tin-horn phonograph and a blow-up of a full length picture of Ruth Chatterton. A black back-drop carried the name of the star and title in large white lettering. He also set up in the lobby a 22x24 still of Chatterton, mounted in an attractive frome, with copy reading: "I Am Frisco Jenny, Queen of the Barbary Coast!"

Since the display occasioned a great deal of comment from patrons as to the coming attraction Block accomplished his aim; hence, we are passing the stunt along with the thought that other Club members might wish to try out a similar idea.

HISEY TIED UP WITH LOCAL AUTO AGENCY AS PLUG FOR JOLSON

Taking advantage of Al Jolson's Chevrolet radio hour, H. F. Hisey, manager of the State Theatre, made a tie-up with the local auto dealer that materially helped sell "Hallelujah I'm A Bum".

He started his campaign by placing one-sheets, stills and banners in the auto showroom and timed his Friday show to open at 9 P. M., the same time as the Jolson radio program. The auto dealer arranged to have one of the new Chevvies parked in front of theatre entrance, equipped with radio and banners announcing that Jolson would open his new picture the following Sunday.

On Saturday a big parade of 35 passenger cars and trucks was staged, all carrying banners announcing opening of picture. Local and surrounding territory was well covered. Total cost to theatre for this tie-up amounted to only $2 for exchange advertising used in the auto dealer's window.

A nice little deal on the part of Hisey and at negligible expense to theatre.

AVERILL QUALIFIED AS DIPLOMAT WHEN FILM WAS CENSORED

Objections on the part of a couple of so-called reformers may have been responsible for starting a movement which caused cancellation of the presentation of a "Birth Mystery" picture by Ray Averill, manager of the Fox-Grand Theatre, Douglas, Ariz., but he reaped such a lot of good will as the result of the way he handled the matter that to our way of thinking he must have come out in black when all was said and done.

To boil down a full length two column story carried by a local newspaper on the controversy, a pastor and an associate objected to advance advertising on the picture and took up the matter with the city attorney, who, in due course of time, formed a committee to witness a special showing and report on whether or not the subject was fit for showing to the town's adult population. The committee saw and passed on the picture and gave Averill full permission to show it. The pastor then countered with a threat to appeal to the County Attorney and rather than have the matter pass through further litigation Averill decided to cancel the show. He drove to Tucson on the final day and obtained other attractions.

Throughout the newspaper story Averill was lauded by members of the committee for his prompt and fair disposition of the matter, at the same time stating that not one of the members saw anything in the film unfit for public showing. To our way of thinking he used excellent judgment and the kind that will pay him many times over in the long run. What say, Round Tablers?

With Schine Up-State!

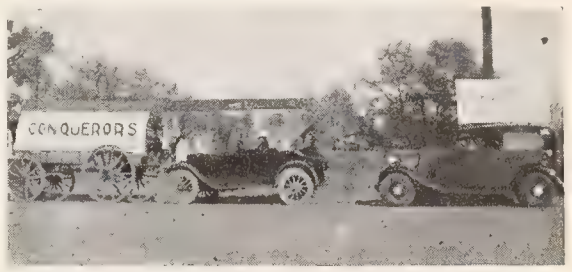
Newspaper tie-ups and give-aways have been producing excellent results in the many overseated towns in Divisional Chief Howard G. Carroll's territory around Rochester, N. Y., according to recent reports.

In Rochester Carroll effected a tie-up with a newspaper which featured pictures of Schine houses for identification by readers, for which guest tickets were awarded. The stunt is given credit as both a trade booster and publicizer of Schine properties in all neighborhoods.

In Geneva City, Clinton Young, manager of the New Geneva, put over an auto give-away but failed to jam the 5,000 patrons into his house on the night of the award. Schine's Regent had to take the overflow. Nearly half the population of the town turned out for the occasion.

Intermountain Elects!

Newly elected officers of the Intermountain Theatres Association, composed of exhibitors of Utah and Idaho, are C. F. Huish, Eureka, Utah, president; John J. Gillette, Tooele, Utah, vice-president, and Beverly S. Clendenin, of Salt Lake City, attorney and secretary.



The organization has been very active for the past year and is doing a lot of good work. Huish, the new president, is interested in showbusiness in four Utah cities.

New directors include Harry David, Publix, Salt Lake; I. H. Harris, Harris-Voeller, Burley, Colo.; Walter Mendenhall, Pinney Theatre, Boise, Idaho, and Paul De Mordaunt, De Mordaunt-Brennan Theatres, of Blackfoot and Rigby, Idaho. John Rugar of Park City is the new treasurer.

KEN TAYLOR'S IDEAS CONTINUE TO CLICK DOWN IN UVALDE, TEX.

Several weeks ago when recounting recent show-selling activities of Kenneth Taylor, in charge of the Strand and Ritz Theatres, Uvalde, Texas, we predicted that this new member of our organization would become an active contributor to this department and some additional evidence at hand practically bears out our contention that Ken is a live-wire showman.

One of the accompanying photos, though quite shallow for reproduction and therefore not very enlightening, shows the result of an idea that came to him when exploiting "Conquerors." What he attempted to do was to carry out the idea that the theme of the picture covered a period between the year 1800 and the present day. To depict this he arranged for a street bally of an old covered wagon, one of the earlier model autos and a brand new, spick and span '33 car which had just made its appearance on the market. Ken did the ballyhooing himself and onlookers paid tribute to his lung power by declaring that he could be heard four or five blocks away.

The other photo shows a truck bally he used on "Hold 'Em Jail," a football picture. If readers question the live pig held in the arms of the fellow dressed in football toggery, let us explain that footballs are made from pig-skin and sometimes called by that name; hence, the pig! The togs were borrowed from the local school squad.

SALESMEN WANTED

Immediate connection for right parties. Territories being established in all key centres on exclusive territorial basis. Proposition every exhibitor, large or small, is vitally interested in TODAY.

Interested only in salesmen of good standing—men with exhibitor following who know their field and can make good with responsible house offering profitable connection with a future. Give full details, past connections, experience and territory desired in first letter addressed to

BOX 286, MOTION PICTURE HERALD,
1790 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N. Y.

Immediate replies essential to closing territories at once. All communications strictly confidential.

WE WANT YOUR IDEAS, TOO; SIGN UP!

FRED WEIMAR

is the manager of the Bijou Theatre, Huron, S. D., and he's another recent addition to the Round Table Club. Weimar has been following Club activities for some time and his application for membership in this organization means that he will try to do his best to help keep this department filled with tips that will assist his fellow showmen. Along with the recent affiliation of many members of the Publix-Northwest Division, the Club is now well represented in that section of the country and we will anticipate many worthwhile suggestions from the Dakotas and other points N. W. Let's hear what you are doing to boost trade, Fred.

▽

N. RAY CARMICHAEL

operates the Colisseum Theatre out in Lamoni, Iowa, and we're also glad to record that he, too, has joined our organization. We take it that Ray is another independent owner-manager and will look forward to hearing from him again in the near future. Take a little time off at the first opportunity, Carmichael, and jot down an account of what you have been doing to sell shows out your way. Then shoot it into Club headquarters so we can pass the word along to your brother members. In the meantime, good luck.

▽

BYRON McELLIGOTT

also belongs to the Publix-Northwest gang and has charge of the Huron Theatre, Huron, S. D., where he keeps other fellows stepping in an effort to match his campaigns. We are mighty glad to list him among this week's batch of newly elected Round Tablers and feel sure he will also put a strong shoulder to the wheel. Mack is another one of those space-grabbing fellows, so don't be surprised when we come through with a yarn dealing with that subject. Welcome to the gang, Byron, and let's hear from you soon.

▽

KENNETH SIMONS

manages the Palace Theatre down in Asheville, N. C., and is a member of the Publix-Bamford organization. At this writing he also becomes a member of the Club and we want him to know he is a welcome addition to these ever-increasing ranks. Simons has been with his outfit for the past 18 months and prior to entering showbusiness was a student at Duke University. He's one of the answers to this industry's prayers for young and new blood and we'll be glad to pass along any ideas he has for furthering the merry clink-clink-clink at the box office window.

▽

MURRAY BRACKER

is located down in the most sea-going section of Brooklyn, N. Y., where he manages the Sheepshead Bay Theatre, so if we happen to sometime advise his fellow showmen that Murray is indulging in give-aways of fish or fishing tackle, don't be surprised. Anything can happen down in Sheepshead. At any rate, we want you all to know he has joined this great army of showmen and that we're mighty glad to list him among the newly elected members. Furthermore, we know he'll come through with a flock of good show-selling suggestions for his brother Round Tablers.

▽

KRIEGHBAUM BROTHERS

Charles F. and H. Lisle, are owner-managers of the Char-Bell Theatre, Rochester, Minn., and their names will be familiar to many who have followed the story of showbusiness during the past several years. They formed part of the independent brigade of theatre owners a decade ago and we note on their application for membership that they're still that way. We welcome the Brothers Krieghbaum to this organization and know that they'll do their very best to help keep Club pages filled with interesting show-selling information.

W. T. BRIGGS

hails from out in Adair, Iowa, where he owns and operates the Adair Theatre. He is another new member of our Club and we want all the rest of the gang to give him the glad hand. Okay, Briggs, and now that you're one of us, do your best to keep headquarters regularly posted on what you are doing these days to keep the wolf away from the theatre door. We're sure you have some ideas up your sleeves for the betterment of trade conditions and the other fellows will want to know your views on this very important subject.

▽

L. G. HERTL

manages the St. Clair Theatre out in St. Paul, Minn., and he's another one of the Publix-Northwest Division to join the ranks of the Round Table army. We also extend a cordial welcome to this new member and hope his name, too, will be numbered among the many enthusiastic contributors to this department. Like his brother managers on the circuit, he's one of a fast-stepping aggregation of showmen and we'll be checking up on his correspondence.

▽

RAY L. NILES

is one of the Publix Northwest Division gang and he holds forth at the Lawler Theatre, City of Rochester, Minn.—home of the Mayos. He is another new member of this organization and, like every other man in his division, is turning out a lot of work which we know the other fellows in this Club will want to hear about. Just as soon as he gets an opportunity we feel sure he'll come through with a batch of useful tips we can pass along the line.

▽

J. E. COURTER

hails from out in Gallatin, Md., where he operates and manages the Courter Theatre, an independent house. Courter is one of this week's crop of new Round Tablers and we want him to know that we're mighty glad to have him with us. He has plenty to do rounding up trade in and around his town and we feel sure he'll have some interesting show-selling information to pass along for the benefit of his fellow Club members.

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

Please enroll me in the Club and send me my framed certificate.

NAME _____

POSITION _____

THEATRE _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

DATE OF BIRTH _____

(Mail to Managers' Round Table Club, 1790 Broadway, New York)

WILLIAM CLAYBROOK

manages the Astor Theatre out in Duluth, Minn., and it's our pleasure to record that he is another one of the fellows in the Publix-Northwest Division to enroll in this organization. Pull your chair up to the Table, Bill, and tell the rest of the gang what you have been doing to boost box office trade. We know you've four changes a week to look after and that elaborate campaigns don't come under that sort of policy, but you must have a couple of good stunts up your sleeves for other Club members. Shoot them along.

▽

EUGENE FISHER

is another assistant manager to enroll among the many runners-up already listed in the Club and he has the job of helping Norbert Stepke operate the Rialto Theatre out in Cawker City, Kan. Although Eugene has been hanging around theatres in various capacities for the past nine years, he is only 19 years of age and his present post came about through a recent promotion following the departure of former Manager Paul E. Ryman. Between taking care of booking, advertising and projection, Fisher manages to keep pretty busy. We predict it won't be long before he'll be getting another promotion or managing a house of his own.

▽

G. W. YEATON

hails from over in Exeter, N. H., where he operates the Ioka Theatre, and he's another one of this week's crop of newly elected Club members. Since Yeaton operates independently and omitted classifying himself as manager on his application for membership, we'll assume that he both owns and manages his theatre. At any rate, we're glad to record his name among the long list of showmen already enrolled and trust he will do his full share to keep the ball rolling along. We'll tell you more about his activities in future issues.

▽

ROY PATIENCE

is the manager of the V. I. A. Theatre in Crescent City, Fla., and we're taking this opportunity to acknowledge his application for membership in the Round Table Club. It's not the best of taste, we fully realize, to make any play on a man's name, but what a name—Patience—for a fellow in showbusiness—a field where one sure requires that quality. Okay for that Roy, and now we'll exercise some of the same sort of stuff until until we get a line on what you're doing to sell shows down in your sunny clime. Shoot some dope along for the benefit of your brother Round Tablers.

▽

E. P. NELSON

also belongs to the Publix-Northwest division and we're listing him among this week's crop of new members as manager of the State theatre, Waseca, Minn. Welcome to the Club, Nelson, and now let's see what you can do to help along the good work. What was that last gag you used to increase box office receipts? Send along the dope on it so we can pass the word along to your fellow members of the Round Table Club. And maybe you've got some plans up your sleeve to combat the Lenten slump? Let's hear about that, too.

▽

DON MONROE

is located out in Lincoln, Neb., where he manages the State Theatre, an independently operated house. Don didn't state in his application for membership whether he was manager or owner-manager, so we'll credit him with both titles until we hear differently. He has been following Club pages for some time and now that he's one of the gang we'll be on watch to see that he contributes his share of the work necessary to keep this department up to mark. So that's the way it shapes up, Don; do your duty as a full-fledged Round Tabler and come through.

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finished or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1932, unless otherwise specified.

ALLIED PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cowboy Counsellor	Hoot Gibson-Sheila Manners	Oct. 15	63	Oct. 8
Eleventh Commandment	Marian Marsh-Theo. Von Eltz	Mar. 15,'33	64	Mar. 18,'33
Intruder, The	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Dec. 26	69	Jan. 14,'33
Iron Master, The	Lila Lee-Reginald Denny	Nov. 1	69	Dec. 10
Officer 13	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Nov. 26	67	Dec. 3
Parisian Romance, A	Lew Cody-Marian Shilling	Oct. 1	77	Sept. 17

Coming Feature Attractions

Anna Karenina
Beyond the Law
Boots of Destiny — Hoot Gibson
Cheaters
Davy Jones' Locker
Dude Bandit, The — Hoot Gibson-Gloria Shea
Midnight Alarm
Nesters, The — Monte Blue
Pullman Car
Red Kisses
Shriek in the Night, A — Ginger Rogers-Lyle Talbot — 70 — Mar. 25,'33
Silk Trimmed
Slightly Used
Sphinx, The
Three Castles
Valley of Adventure, The — Monte Blue
Without Children

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Hostess	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray-Thelma Todd	Jan. 15,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
As the Devil Commands	Alan Dinehart-Neil Hamilton-Mae Clarke	Dec. 24
Bitter Tea of General Yen	B. Stanwyck-Nils Asther	Jan. 6,'33	89	Nov. 26
California Trail, The	Buck Jones-Helen Mack	Mar. 24,'33
Child of Manhattan	John Boles-Nancy Carroll	Feb. 4,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Deception	Lee Carrillo-Barbara Weeks-Nat Pendleton	Nov. 4	67	Jan. 14,'33
End of the Trail, The	Tim McCoy-Luana Walters	Dec. 19	59½
Fighting for Justice	Tim McCoy-Joyce Compton	Dec. 28	60½
Forbidden Trail	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Nov. 18	71
Last Man, The	Chas. Bickford-C. Cummings	Aug. 31	71	Sept. 24
Man Against Woman	Jack Holt-Lillian Miles	Nov. 15	68	Dec. 10
Man of Action	Tim McCoy-Caryl Lincoln	Jan. 20,'33	57
Mussolini Speaks		Mar. 10,'33	76	Mar. 18,'33
Night Club Lady, The	Adolphe Menjou-Mayo Methot-Skeets Gallagher	Aug. 27	68	Sept. 3
No More Orchids	Carole Lombard-Lyle Talbot	Nov. 25	74	Nov. 19
Obey the Law	Leo Carrillo-Lois Wilson-Dickie Moore	Jan. 20,'33	69	Mar. 18,'33
Parole Girl	Mae Clarke-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 4,'33	67
Silent Men	Tim McCoy-Florence Britton	Mar. 3,'33
So This Is Africa	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey-Raquel Torres	Feb. 24,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Soldiers of the Storm	Regis Toomey-Anita Page	Apr. 4,'33
Speed Demon	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Joan Marsh	Nov. 5	65	Nov. 26
Sporting Age, This	Jack Holt-Evalyn Knapp	Sept. 15	67	Oct. 15
State Trooper	Regis Toomey-Evalyn Knapp	Feb. 10,'33	68
Sundown Rider, The	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Dec. 30	69
That's My Boy	R. Cromwell-Dorothy Jordan-Mae Marsh	Oct. 6	71	Dec. 3
Treason	Buck Jones-Shirley Grey	Feb. 10,'33	61½
Vanity Street	C. Bickford-Helen Chandler	Oct. 15	67	Oct. 29
Virtue	Carole Lombard-Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25	69	Nov. 5
Washington Merry-Go-Round	Lee Tracy-C. Cummings	Oct. 15	78	Oct. 1
Western Code, The	Tim McCoy-Nora Lane	Sept. 16
When Strangers Marry	Jack Holt-Lilian Bond	Mar. 20,'33
White Eagle	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Oct. 7	67	Oct. 1

Coming Feature Attractions

Below the Sea — Ralph Bellamy-Fay Wray
Circus Queen Murder, The — Adolphe Menjou-Greta Nissen-Donald Cook
Cougar's Trail, The — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Grass Valley — Buck Jones-Diane Sinclair
He Lived to Kill — Bela Lugosi-Sally Blane
King of the Wild Horses — Wm. Janney-Dorothy Appleby
Rules for Wives — Fay Wray-Gene Raymond
Rusty Rides Alone — Tim McCoy-Diane Sinclair
Thrill Hunter, The — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Unknown Valley — Buck Jones-Cecelia Parker
Whirlwind, The — Tim McCoy-Alice Dahl
Woman I Stole, The — Jack Holt-Raquel Torres-Fay Wray

EQUITABLE PICTURES
[Distributed through Majestic]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheating Blondes		Apr. 1,'33
Gold Diggers of Paris	Madge Bellamy-Gilbert Roland	Mar. 15,'33
What Price Decency?	Dorothy Burgess-Alan Hale-Walter Byron	Mar. 1,'33	60	Mar. 11,'33

FIRST DIVISION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Drive, The		Jan. 19,'33	91	Jan. 28,'33
Condemned to Death	Arthur Wontner	Oct. 10	78½	July 23
Geona Goona		Nov. 28	66	Aug. 27
Monte Carlo Madness	Sari Maritza	July 1	67	June 11
Ringer, The	Franklyn Dyall	Oct. 30	60	June 11

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blondie Johnson	Joan Blondell-Chester Morris	Feb. 25,'33	69	Feb. 4,'33
Cabin in the Cotton	Richard Barthelmess	Oct. 15	76	Sept. 10
Central Park	Joan Blondell	Dec. 10	55	Nov. 19
Crash, The	Ruth Chatterton	Oct. 8	58	Sept. 17
Employees Entrance	W. William-Loretta Young	Feb. 11,'33	75	Dec. 24
Frisco Jenny	Ruth Chatterton	Jan. 14,'33	76	Dec. 17
Grand Slam	Paul Lukas-Loretta Young	Mar. 18,'33	65	Jan. 14,'33
Life Begins	Loretta Young-Eric Linden	Oct. 1	72	Aug. 13
Match King, The	Warren William-Lili Damita	Dec. 31	79	Dec. 17
Mind Reader, The	Warren William	Apr. 1,'33	68	Feb. 25,'33
Silver Dollar	Edward G. Robinson	Dec. 24	78	Nov. 5
They Call It Sin	Loretta Young-Geo. Brent	Nov. 5	74	Sept. 3
Three on a Match	Blondell-William-Dvorak-Davis	Oct. 29	64	Oct. 1
Tiger Shark	Edward G. Robinson	Sept. 24	80	Aug. 27
20,000 Years in Sing Sing	Bette Davis-Spencer Tracy	Feb. 1,'33	81	Nov. 5
You Said a Mouthful	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 26	72	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Breadline — Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young
Captured — Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Central Airport — Richard Barthelmess — Apr. 15,'33
Elmer the Great — Joe E. Brown — April 29,'33 — 70
Gold Diggers of 1933 — W. William-Joan Blondell-Aline MacMahon-Dick Powell
Lilly Turner — Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent — May 13,'33
Little Giant, The — Edward G. Robinson — May 27,'33
She Had to Say Yes — Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
After the Ball	Esther Ralston-Basil Rathbone	Mar. 17,'33	69	Mar. 25,'33
Bondage	Dorothy Jordan-Alex. Kirkland	Mar. 31,'33
Broadway Bad	Joan Blondell-Ginger Rogers-Ricardo Cortez	Feb. 24,'33	59	Mar. 11,'33
Call Her Savage	Bow-Owsley-Todd-Roland	Nov. 27	88	Dec. 3
Cavalcade	Clive Brook-Diana Wynyard	Apr. 15,'33	110	Jan. 14,'33
Chandu, The Magician	Edmund Lowe-Bela Lugosi-Irene Ware	Sept. 16	74	Sept. 17
Dangerously Yours	Miriam Jordan-Warner Baxter	Feb. 3,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33
Down to Earth	Will Rogers-Irene Rich	Sept. 4	73	July 23
Face in the Sky	Spencer Tracy-Marian Nixon-Stuart Erwin	Jan. 22,'33	77	Feb. 4,'33
Golden West, The	Geo. O'Brien-Janet Chandler-Marion Burns	Oct. 30	74	Oct. 15
Handle with Care	Jas. Dunn-Boots Mallory	Dec. 25	75	Dec. 24
Hat Check Girl	Sally Eilers-Ben Lyon	Sept. 25	64	Sept. 24
Hot Pepper	Victor McLaglen-Edmund Lowe-Lupe Velez-El Brendel	Jan. 22,'33	76	Jan. 28,'33
Humanity	Boots Mallory-A. Kirkland	Mar. 3,'33	70
Infernal Machine	Genevieve Tobin-Chester Morris-Alexander Kirkland	Feb. 10,'33
Me and My Gal	Joan Bennett-Spencer Tracy	Dec. 4	78	Dec. 17
Pleasure Cruise	Genevieve Tobin-Roland Young	Mar. 24,'33	72
Rackety Rax	Victor McLaglen-Greta Nissen-Nell O'Day	Oct. 23	75	Oct. 29
Robbers Roost	George O'Brien-Maureen O'Sullivan	Jan. 1,'33
Sailor's Luck	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Mar. 10,'33	78	Mar. 25,'33
Second Hand Wife	Sally Eilers-Ralph Bellamy	Jan. 1,'33	64	Jan. 21,'33
Sherlock Holmes	Clive Brook-Miriam Jordan	Nov. 6	69	Nov. 26
Six Hours to Live	Warner Baxter-John Boles-Miriam Jordan	Oct. 16	80	Oct. 29
Smoke Lightning	George O'Brien-Nell O'Day	Feb. 17,'33
State Fair	Janet Gaynor-Will Rogers-Lew Ayres-Sally Eilers-Norman Foster-Frank Craven	Feb. 10,'33	100	Feb. 4,'33
Tess of the Storm Country	Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell	Nov. 20	75	Nov. 26
Too Busy to Work	Will Rogers-Marian Nixon	Nov. 13	70	Nov. 12
Wild Girl	Joan Bennett-Charles Farrell-Ralph Bellamy	Oct. 9	74	Oct. 8

Coming Feature Attractions

Adorable — Janet Gaynor-Henry Garat — May 12,'33
Five Cents a Glass — Marian Nixon-"Buddy" Rogers — May 19,'33
Giant Swing, The — Ricardo Cortez-Norman Foster
Hello, Sister — James Dunn-Boots Mallory — Apr. 14,'33
Hold Me Tight — James Dunn-Sally Eilers
I Loved You Wednesday — Warner Baxter-Elissa Landi — May 26,'33
Man-Eater — Marion Burns-Kane Richmond
My Lips Betray — Lilian Harvey-John Boles
Pilgrimage — Marian Nixon-Norman Foster
Power and the Glory, The — Colleen Moore-Spencer Tracy
Trick for Trick — Ralph Morgan-Victor Jory — Apr. 21,'33
Warrior's Husband, The — Elissa Landi-Ernest Truex-David Manners — May 5,'33
Zoo in Budapest — Gene Raymond-Loretta Young — Apr. 28,'33

FREULER FILM ASSOCIATES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Fighting Gentleman, The	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Josephine Dunn-N. Moorhead	Oct. 7	65	Oct. 15
Forty-Niners, The	Tom Tyler	Oct. 28	59
Gambling Sex	Ruth Hall-Grant Withers	Nov. 21	65
Penal Code, The	Regis Toomey-Helen Cohan	Dec. 23
Savage Girl, The	Rochelle Hudson-Walter Byron	Dec. 5
When a Man Rides Alone	Tom Tyler	Jan. 15,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Cat, The
Bulldog Edition
Deadwood Pass — Tom Tyler
East of Sudan
Easy Millions — Skeets Gallagher-Dorothy Burgess-Merna Kennedy
Green Paradise
Kiss of Araby — Maria Alba-Walter Byron
My Wandering Boy
Red Man's Country
Silent Army, The Sisters of the Follies

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

MAJESTIC

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Crusader, The	Evelyn Brent-H. B. Warner	Oct.	1	Oct. 8
Gold	Jack Hoxie-Alice Day	Sept.	15	Sept. 10
Hearts of Humanity	Jean Hersholt-Jackie Searl	Sept.	1	Sept. 24
Law and Lawless	Jack Hoxie-Hilda Morene	Nov.	30
Outlaw Justice	Jack Hoxie-Dorothy Gulliver	Oct.	1
Phantom Express, The	Sally Blane-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Sept.	15	Sept. 24
Public Be Damned, The	Pat O'Brien-Evelyn Brent	Apr.	1,'33
Unwritten Law, The	Greta Nissen-Skeets Gallagher	Nov.	15	Jan. 4,'33
Vampire Bat, The	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Jan.	21,'33	Jan. 28,'33
Via Pony Express	Jack Hoxie-Marceline Day	Feb.	0,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Curtain at Eight		May	1,'33
Free Love		June	1,'33
Gun Law	Jack Hoxie-Betty Boyd	Apr.	15,'33
Sing, Sinner, Sing	Paul Lukas-Leila Hyams	Apr.	15,'33
Trouble Buster	Jack Hoxie-Lane Chandler	May	15,'33
Woman in the Chair, The		May	15,'33

MAYFAIR PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Madness	Helen Chandler-Leon Waycoff	Apr.	1,'33
Behind Jury Doors	Helen Chandler-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Dec.	1
Heart Punch	Marion Shilling-L. Hughes	Oct.	15	Oct. 29
Her Mad Night	Irene Rich-Conway Tearle	Oct.	1	Oct. 29
Justice Takes a Holiday	Patricia O'Brien-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Malay Nights	John Mack Brown-D. Burgess-Ralph Ince	Nov.	1
Midnight Warning	William Boyd-Claudia Dell	Nov.	15
No Living Witness	Barbara Kent-Gilbert Roland	Sept.	15	Sept. 17
Revenge at Monte Carlo	June Collyer-Jose Crespo-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Sister to Judas	Claire Windsor-John Harron	Jan.	1,'33	Feb. 18,'33
Tangled Destinies	Lloyd Whitlock-Doris Hill	Sept.	1

Coming Feature Attractions

Her Resale Value	June Clyde-George Lewis	Apr.	15,'33

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clear All Wires	Lee Tracy-Benita Hume	Feb.	24,'33	Feb. 18,'33
Faithless	T. Bankhead-R. Montgomery	Oct.	15	Oct. 15
Fast Life	William Hains-Madge Evans	Dec.	16	Dec. 10
Fast Workers	John Gilbert-Mae Clarke	Mar.	10,'33	Mar. 25,'33
Flesh	Wallace Beery-Karen Morley-Ricardo Cortez	Dec.	9	Dec. 17
Gabriel Over the White House	Walter Huston-Karen Morley	Mar.	31,'33
Grand Hotel	Garbo-John Barrymore	Sept.	11	Apr. 18
Kongo	Walter Huston-Lupe Velez	Oct.	1	Nov. 26
Mask of Fu Manchu, The	Boris Karloff	Nov.	5	Dec. 10
Men Must Fight	Phillips Holmes-Diana Wynyard	Feb.	17,'33	Mar. 18,'33
Outsider, The	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	Jan.	28,'33	May 2,'31
Pack Up Your Troubles	Laurel & Hardy	Sept.	17	July 9
Payment Deferred	M. O'Sullivan-C. Laughton	Oct.	8	Sept. 24
Prosperity	Dressler-Moran	Nov.	18	Nov. 12
Rasputin and the Empress	Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore	Mar.	24,'33	Dec. 31
Secret of Madame Blanche, The	Irene Dunne-Phillips Holmes	Feb.	3,'33	Jan. 21,'33
Smilin' Through	Norma Shearer-Fredric March-Leslie Howard	Sept.	24	Oct. 22
Son Daughter	Helen Hayes-Ramon Novarro	Dec.	23	Jan. 7,'33
Strange Interlude	Norma Shearer-Clarke Gable	Dec.	30	Sept. 3
What! No Beer?	Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante	Feb.	10,'33	Feb. 11,'33
Whistling in the Dark	Ernest Truex-Una Merkel	Jan.	21,'33	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Barbarian, The	Ramon Novarro-Myrna Loy
Bombshell	Jean Harlow
Chaser, The	Lee Tracy-Madge Evans
Dancing Lady, The	Joan Crawford
Dinner at Eight	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Lionel Barrymore-Jean Harlow-Madge Evans-Karen Morley-Franchot Tone-Lee Tracy-Jean Hersholt
Eskimo
Hell Below	Robt. Montgomery-Jimmy Durante-Robt. Young-Walter Huston-Madge Evans	May	5,'33
Made on Broadway	R. Montgomery-Sally Eilers	May	19,'33
New Deal, The	Lewis Stone-Benita Hume-Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	7,'33
Peg O' My Heart	Marion Davies-Onslow Stevens	May	26,'33
Reunion in Vienna	John Barrymore-Diana Wynyard-Otto Kruger	Apr.	28,'33
Soviet	Clark Gable-Wallace Beery
Tarzan and His Mate	J. Weissmuller-M. O'Sullivan
Today We Live	Joan Crawford-Gary Cooper	Apr.	21,'33
When Ladies Meet	Ann Harding-Alice Brady-Robt. Montgomery
White Sister, The	Helen Hayes-Clark Gable	Apr.	14,'33	101	Mar. 25,'33

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Beauty	Alex. Kirkland-Esther Ralston	Apr.	1,'33
Breed of the Border	Bob Steele	Mar.	1,'33
Crashin' Broadway	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Diamond Trail, The	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Fighting Champ, The	Bob Steele	Dec.	15
From Broadway to Cheyenne	Rex Bell	Sept.	10
Girl from Calgary	Fifi D'Orsay	Sept.	24
Guilty or Not Guilty	Betty Compson-Tom Douglas	Nov.	15	7 reels
Hidden Valley	Bob Steele	Oct.	10	6 reels
Jungle Bride	Anita Page-Charles Starrett	Feb.	15,'33	63	Feb. 25,'33
Lucky Larrigan	Rex Bell-Helen Foster	Dec.	1
Man from Arizona, The	Rex Bell	Oct.	1	6 reels
Oliver Twist	Dickie Moore-Irving Pichel-Jackie Searle	Feb.	28,'33	80	Mar. 4,'33
Phantom Broadcast	Ralph Forbes-Vivienne Osborne	Mar.	15,'33
Self-Defense	Pauline Frederick	Dec.	15	68	Dec. 10
Strange Adventure	Regis Toomey-June Clyde	Nov.	20	7 reels
Thirteenth Guest	Ginger Rogers	Sept.	3	68	Aug. 13
West of Singapore	Betty Compson	Jan.	31,'33
Young Blood	Bob Steele	Nov.	5

Coming Feature Attractions

Casey Jones	All Star	Apr.	30,'33
Fighting Texans, The	Rex Bell	Apr.	30,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Broadcast, The	Stuart Erwin-Bing Crosby-Kate Smith-Leila Hyams-Mills Bros.-Boswell Sisters-Cab Calloway-Vincent Lopez-Arthur Tracy-Sharon Lynn	Oct.	28	80	Oct. 8
Billion Dollar Scandal	Carole Lombard-Robt. Armstrong	Jan.	6,'33	78	Dec. 31
Blonde Venus	Marlene Dietrich	Sept.	16	85	Sept. 10
Crime of the Century	Stuart Erwin-Wynne Gibson	Feb.	24,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Devil Is Driving, The	Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson	Dec.	9	70	Dec. 10
Evenings for Sale	Herb Marshall-Sari Maritza	Nov.	11	65	Nov. 5
Farewell to Arms, A	Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper	Jan.	6,'33	78	Dec. 10
From Hell to Heaven	Carole Lombard-Jack Oakie	Feb.	24,'33	70	Feb. 18,'33
He Learned About Women	Stuart Erwin-A. Skipworth	Nov.	4
Hello, Everybody	Kate Smith	Feb.	17,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Heritage of the Desert	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Sept.	30	59	Mar. 18,'33
Hot Saturday	Nancy Carroll-Cary Grant	Oct.	28	73	Oct. 22
If I Had a Million	Gary Cooper-Wynne Gibson-Geo. Raft-Richard Bennett-May Robson	Nov.		85	Nov. 12
Island of Lost Souls	Chas. Laughton-Richard Arlen-Irving Pichel-Leila Hyams	Dec.		70	Dec. 10
King of the Jungle	Frances Dee-Buster Crabbe	Mar.	10,'33	74	Mar. 4,'33
Lady's Profession, A	Alison Skipworth-Roland Young	Mar.	3,'33	72	Feb. 25,'33
Luxury Liner	Geo. Brent-Zita Johann-Frank Morgan	Feb.	3,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Madame Butterfly	Sylvia Sidney-Cary Grant	Dec.	30	88	Dec. 31
Madison Square Garden	Jack Oakie-Marian Nixon	Oct.	7	74	Oct. 8
Movie Crazy	Harold Lloyd-C. Cummings	Sept.	23	96	Sept. 24
Murders in the Zoo	Charlie Ruggles-Lionel Atwill	Mar.	31,'33	55	Mar. 11,'33
Mysterious Rider, The	Kent Taylor-Lona André	Jan.	20,'33
Night After Night	Geo. Raft-C. Cummings	Oct.	14	70	Oct. 8
Night of June 13	Clive Brook-Frances Dee-Gene Raymond	Sept.	23	72	Sept. 17
No Man of Her Own	Clark Gable-Carole Lombard	Dec.		76	Dec. 24
Phantom President, The	Geo. M. Cohan-Claudette Colbert-Jimmy Durante	Oct.	7	78	Sept. 24
Pick Up	Sylvia Sidney-George Raft	Mar.	24,'33	75	Mar. 25,'33
70,000 Witnesses	Phil Holmes-Dorothy Jordan	Sept.	2	72	Aug. 20
She Done Him Wrong	Mae West-Owen Moore	Jan.	27,'33	66	Feb. 18,'33
Sign of the Cross	Fredric March-Elissa Landi-Claudette Colbert	Feb.	10,'33	123	Dec. 10
Strictly Personal	Marjorie Rambeau-Eddie Quillan-D. Jordan	Mar.	17,'33	70	Mar. 4,'33
Tonight Is Ours	C. Colbert-Fredric March-Paul Cavanagh	Jan.	13,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Trouble in Paradise	Miriam Hopkins-H. Marshall-Kay Francis	Oct.	21	73	Oct. 29
Under Cover Man	Geo. Raft-Nancy Carroll	Dec.	2	74	Dec. 10
Under the Tonto Rim	Stuart Erwin-Verna Hillie	Apr.	7,'33
Wild Horse Mesa	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Nov.	25
Woman Accused, The	Cary Grant-Nancy Carroll-John Halliday-Lona Andre	Feb.	17,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

A Bedtime Story	Maurice Chevalier-Helen Twelvetrees	Apr.	21,'33
Cracked Ice	Four Marx Bros.
Dead on Arrival	James Dunn-Gloria Stuart
Disgraced	Claudette Colbert-Wm. Harrigan
Eagle and the Hawk, The	F. March-C. Grant-J. Oakie
I Love That Man	Nancy Carroll-Edmund Lowe	May	'33
International House	Peggy Hopkins Joyce
Song of Songs	Marlene Dietrich-Brian Aherne
Song of the Eagle	Chas. Bickford-Mary Brian-Richard Arlen	Apr.	28,'33
Story of Temple Drake, The	Miriam Hopkins-Jack LaRue	Apr.	28,'33
Sunset Pass	Randolph Scott-Kent Taylor	Apr.	28,'33
Supernatural	C. Lombard-Randolph Scott-V. Osborne
Terror Aboard	Neil Hamilton-Chas. Ruggles-Verree Teasdale	Apr.	14,'33

POWERS PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Limping Man, The	Franklin Dyall	Aug.	1	55	Aug. 27
Lucky Girl	Gene Gerrard-Molly Lamont	Sept.	1	69
Man Who Won, The	Henry Kendall-Heather Angel	Sept.	15	70	Mar. 4,'33
Woman Decides, The	Adrianne Allen-Owen Nares	Aug.	15	68

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Animal Kingdom	Leslie Howard-Ann Harding	Dec.	23	78	Dec. 10
Bill of Divorcement	Barrymore-Burke-Hepburn	Sept.	30	76	Sept. 10
Cheyenne Kid	Tom Keene	Jan.	20,'33	54½
Christopher Strong	K. Hepburn-Colin Clive-Billie Burke	Mar.	31,'33	72	Mar. 18,'33
Come on Danger	Tom Keene	Sept.	23	54
Conquerors, The	Ann Harding-Richard Dix	Nov.	18	80	Nov. 19
Goldie Gets Along	Lili Damita-Chas. Morton	Jan.	27,'33	68
Great Jasper, The	Richard Dix	Mar.	3,'33	76	Feb. 11,'33
Half-Naked Truth, The	Lee Tracy-Lupe Velez	Dec.	16	77	Jan. 7,'33
Hell's Highway	Richard Dix	Sept.	23	80	Aug. 20
Hold 'Em Jail	Edna May Oliver-Wheeler-Woolsey-Roscoe Ates	Sept.	2	74	June 25
King Kong	Fay Wray-Bruce Cabot	Apr.	7,'33	100	Feb. 25,'33
Little Orphan Annie	Mitzi Green-Buster Phelps	Nov.	4	70	Oct. 29
Lucky Devils	Bill Boyd-Bruce Cabot-William Gargan-D. Wilson	Feb.	3,'33	60	Dec. 31
Man Hunt	Junior Durkin-Mrs. Wallace Reid	Mar.	24,'33	68	Feb. 4,'33
(Reviewed under the title "A Successful Blunder")
Men Are Such Fools	Leo Carrillo-V. Osborne	Nov.	18	66
Men of America	Bill Boyd	Dec.	9	75	Nov. 12
Monkey's Paw, The	Ivan Simpson-Louise Carter	Jan.	13,'33	52	Oct. 1
Most Dangerous Game, The	Leslie Banks-Joel McCrea	Sept.	9	78	July 30
No Other Woman	Irene Dunne-Chas. Bickford	Jan.	6,'33	58	Jan. 21,'33
Our Betters	Constance Bennett	Mar.	17,'33	72	Mar. 4,'33
Past of Mary Holmes, The	Helen MacKellar-Eric Linden	Jan.	20,'33	62
Penguin Pool Murder	Edna May Oliver-Jas. Gleason	Dec.	30	75	Nov. 12
Phantom of Crestwood	Ricardo Cortez-Karen Morley	Oct.	14	77	Oct. 22
Renegades of the West	Tom Keene	Nov.	25	55
Rockabye	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrae	Nov.	25	75	Nov. 26
Sailor Be Good	Jack Oakie-Vivienne Osborne	Feb.	10,'33	68	Mar. 4,'33
Scarlet River	Tom Keene-D. Wilson	Mar.	10,'33	57	Jan. 21,'33
Secrets of the French Police	Gwili Andre-Frank Morgan	Dec.	2	58	Dec. 17
Son of the Border	Tom Keene-Julie Hayden			55
Sport Parade, The	Joel McCrae-Marian Marsh	Nov.	11	65	Dec. 24
Strange Justice	Marian Marsh-R. Denny	Oct.	7	74	Aug. 27
Theft of the Mona Lisa, The	Willy Forst-Trude von Molo (Reviewed—German Version)	Oct.	21	82	Apr. 9
Thirteen Women	Irene Dunne-Myrna Loy	Sept.	16	73	Sept. 8
Topaze	John Barrymore-Myrna Loy	Feb.	24,'33	78	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Ace, The	Chester Morris-Vivienne Osborne
Cross Fire	Tom Keene-Betty Furness
In the Red	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey
Maiden Cruise	Phil Harris-Helen Mack
Power Man	Bill Boyd
Silver Cord, The	Irene Dunne-Joel McCrea
Sweepings	Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	14,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Mins.	Reviewed
Armored Cruiser Potemkin		Kinematrade

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bachelor Mother	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray	Goldsmith	Jan. '5,'33	71	Jan. 21'33
Bal, Le	Andre Lefaur	Protex		80	Oct. 8
Blame the Woman	Adolphe Menjou-Benita Hume	Principal	Oct. 15	74	Nov. 5
Charlotte Lowenskold	Birgit Sergellius-Eric Barclay	Scandinavian
Contraband	Don Alvarade-Dorothy Sebastian	Hoffberg	Apr. 1,'33
Daring Daughters	Marian Marsh - Joan Marsh	Capital	Feb. '33	60
Devil's Playground, The		Principal	Jan. 1"33	54
Eternal Jew, The	M. B. Samuylow	Jewish Talking Pictures
Face on the Barroom Floor, The	B. Fletcher	Invincible		66	Oct. 22
Forgotten	June Clyde-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Invincible
Forgotten Men		Jewel Productions	Feb. '33
Fourteenth of July, The	Annabella - Georges Rigaud	Tobis-Rene Clair		85	Jan. 28,'33
Hotel Variety	Hal Skelly-Olive Borden	Screencraft		68
House of Death	N. P. Chmelioff	Amkino	Aug. 12	76	Aug. 27
In the Days of the Crusaders.	Alberto Pasquali	Monopole	Oct. 1	75	Oct. 15
Italy Speaks		Enrico Cutali			Feb. 25,'33
Jungle Gigolo		Principal	Feb. 15,'33	55
Jungle Killer	Carveth Wells	Century Productions	Dec.
Lady of the Night	Francesca Bertini	Portale Pics.	Mar. 9,'33
Love and Passion		Yugoslavian Pics.
Manhattan Tower	Mary Brian-Irene Rich-James Hall	Remington	Dec. 1	67	Nov. 19
Men and Jobs		Amkino	Jan. 1,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Moon Over Morocco	Rene Lefebvre-Rosine Derean	Protex	Jan. 21,'33	80	Feb. 25,'33
Out of Singapore	Noah Beery	Goldsmith Pics.		61	Sept. 24
Piri Knows All	Margit Dayka	Arkay Film
Pride of the Legion	Sally Blane-B. Kent	Mascot	Oct. 10	70	Oct. 29
Red Haired Alibi	Merna Kennedy	Capital	Oct. 21	75	Oct. 29
Reform Girl	Dorothy Peterson-Skeets Gallagher	Capital	Mar. '33	70
Secrets of Wu Sin, The	Grant Withers-Lois Wilson	Invincible		64
Shadow Laughs, The	Hal Skelly-Rose Hobart	Invincible		67
Shame	Vladimir Gardin	Amkino	Mar. 10,'33	75	Mar. 25,'33
Slightly Married	Evalyn Knapp-Walter Byron	Chesterfield	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Sniper, The		Amkino	Aug. 25	68	Sept. 3
Socko		Hoffberg		30
Soviets on Parade		Kinematrade
Speed Madness	Richard Talmadge-Nancy Drexel	Mercury		62	July 30
Thrill of Youth	June Clyde	Chesterfield	Aug. 15	63	Sept. 10
Virgins of Bali		Principal	Dec. 8	46	Dec. 17
With Williamson Beneath the Sea		Principal	Nov. 24	59	Dec. 3
Woman in Chains	Owen Nares	Invincible		69	Aug. 13

(Reviewed under title "The Impassive Footman"—Assoc. Radio British)

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Minutes	Reviewed
I Cover the Waterfront	Claudette Colbert - Ben Lyon - Ernest Terrence
Joe Palooka	Jimmy Durante
Masquerader, The	Ronald Colman-Elissa Landi		75	Feb. 25,'33
Secrets	Mary Pickford-Leslie Howard	Apr. 16,'33	90	Feb. 18,'33
Yes, Mr. Brown	Jack Buchanan			Mar. 18,'33

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Afraid to Talk (Reviewed under title "Merry Go Round")	Eric Linden-Sidney Fox	Nov. 17	76	Sept. 24
Air Mail	Pat O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Nov. 3	83	Oct. 8
All American, The	Richard Arlen-Gloria Stuart	Oct. 13	78	Sept. 24
Back Street	Irene Dunne-John Boles	Sept. 1	84	July 23
Be Mine Tonight	Jan Kiepura-Magda Schneider	Mar. 23,'33	78	Feb. 18,'33
Big Cage, The	Anita Page-Clyde Beatty	Mar. 3,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Cohens and Kellys in Trouble	Chas. Murray-Geo. Sidney	Mar. 23,'33	69
Destination Unknown	Pat. O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 16,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Flaming Guns	Tom Mix-Ruth Hall	Dec. 22	57
Fourth Horseman, The	Tim Mix	Sept. 29	57
Hidden Gold	Tim Mix	Nov. 3	56
Laughter in Hell	Pat O'Brien-Gloria Stuart	Jan. 12,'33	68	Jan. 7,'33
Lucky Dog	Charles "Chic" Sale	Apr. 6,'33
Mummy, The	Boris Karloff-Zita Johann	Dec. 22	78	Dec. 3
Nagana	Tala Birell-Melvyn Douglas	Jan. 26,'33	74	Jan. 7,'33
Okay America	Lew Ayres-Maureen O'Sullivan	Sept. 8	78	Aug. 20
Old Dark House, The	Boris Karloff-L. Bond	Oct. 20	74	July 16
Once in a Lifetime	Jack Oakie-Sidney Fox	Sept. 22	75	Aug. 27
Private Jones	Lee Tracy-Gloria Stuart	Feb. 16,'33	85
Rome Express	Esther Ralston-Conrad Veidt	Feb. 16,'33	87	Jan. 21,'33
Rustler's Roundup	Tom Mix-Diane Sinclair	Mar. 16,'33
Terror Trail, The	Tom Mix	Feb. 2,'33	57	Feb. 18,'33
They Just Had to Get Married	Summerville-Pitts	Jan. 5,'33	75	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Minutes	Reviewed
Black Pearl	Tala Birell
Kiss Before the Mirror	Nancy Carroll-Paul Lukas	Apr. 20,'33	67	Mar. 11,'33
Out All Night	Summerville-Pitts	Apr. 13,'33	72	Mar. 11,'33
Rebel, The	Vilma Banky-Luis Trenker
Road Back, The
S. O. S. Iceberg
When the Time Comes	Spencer Tracy

WARNER BROS.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big City Blues	Joan Blondell	Sept. 18	68	June 18
Big Stampede, The	John Wayne	Oct. 8	54	Feb. 11,'33
Blessed Event	Lee Tracy-Mary Brian	Sept. 10	84	Sept. 10
Forty-Second Street	Warner Baxter - Bebe Daniels - Geo. Brent	Mar. 11,'33	89	Mar. 18,'33
Girl Missing	Ben Lyon - Mary Brian - Peggy Shannon	Mar. 4,'33	69
Hard to Handle	James Cagney	Jan. 28,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Haunted Gold	John Wayne	Dec. 17	58
I Am A Fugitive from a Chain Gang	Paul Muni	Nov. 19	90	Oct. 22
Keyhole, The	Kay Francis-George Brent	Mar. 25,'33	69
King's Vacation, The	George Arliss	Feb. 25,'33	60	Jan. 28,'33
Ladies They Talk About	Barbara Stanwyck	Feb. 4,'33	64	Jan. 7,'33
Lawyer Man	Wm. Powell-Joan Blondell	Jan. 7,'33	72	Dec. 3
One Way Passage	Wm. Powell-Kay Francis	Oct. 22	69	July 30
Parachute Jumper	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	Jan. 28,'33	72	Dec. 31
Scarlet Dawn	D. Fairbanks, Jr. - Nancy Carroll	Nov. 12	58	Nov. 12
Successful Calamity, A	George Arliss	Sept. 17	72	Oct. 1
Telegraph Trail, The	John Wayne	Mar. 18,'33	55
Two Against the World	Constance Bennett	Sept. 3	71	July 30
Wax Museum, Mystery of the	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Feb. 18,'33	72	Jan. 7,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Minutes	Reviewed
Adopted Father, The	George Arliss-Bette Davis	May 20,'33
Baby Face	Barbara Stanwyck	Apr. 22,'33	74
Ex-Lady	Bette Davis	Apr. 8,'33	62	Feb. 18,'33
Life of Jimmy Dolan, The	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-Loretta Young		70
Man from Montelev, The	John Wayne-Ruth Hall
Mary Stevens, M.D.	Kay Francis-George Brent
Mayor of Hell, The	James Cagney
Narrow Corner, The	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Picture Snatcher	James Cagney	May 6,'33	75
Private Detective 62	William Powell
Silk Express	Neil Hamilton-Sheila Terry
Somewhere in Sonora	John Wayne
Untamed Africa		Apr. 8,'33
Voltaire	George Arliss-Dorothy Kenyon

WORLD WIDE

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Between Fighting Men	Ken Maynard	Oct. 16	62
Breach of Promise	Chester Morris-Mae Clarke	Oct. 23	67
Come On, Tarzan	Ken Maynard	Sept. 11	61
Constant Woman, The (Reviewed under the title "Auction in Souls")	Conrad Nagel-Leila Hyams	Mar. 18,'33	75	Mar. 3,'33
Crooked Circle, The	Ben Lyon-Irene Purcell	Sept. 25	70	Aug. 26
Death Kiss, The	Adrienne Ames-David Manners-John Wray	Jan. 8,'33	75	Dec. 24
Drum Taps	Ken Maynard	Jan. 29,'33	61
False Faces	Lowell Sherman-Lila Lee	Oct. 13	83	Dec. 3
Fargo Express	Ken Maynard	Nov. 20	62
Hypnotized	Moran and Mack	Dec. 25	70	Dec. 24
Phantom Thunderbolt	Ken Maynard	Mar. 5,'33	62
Racetrack	Leo Carrillo	Feb. 25,'33	78	Mar. 11,'33
Tombstone Canyon	Ken Maynard	Dec. 25	62
Trailing the Killer	(Special)	Dec. 4	68	Oct. 15
Uptown New York	Jack Oakie-Shirley Grey	Nov. 20	80	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Minutes	Reviewed
Lone Avenger, The	Ken Maynard	Apr. 9,'33
Study in Scarlet, A	Reginald Owen-June Clyde	Apr. 15,'33
Tarnished Youth	Jetta Goudal-Gilbert Roland

GERMAN

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Door Opens	Lily Rodlen-Curt Lucas	Protex	Feb. 4,'33	70
A Night In Paradise	Anny Ondra-Herman Thimig	Kinematrade
Barberina, The King's Dancer	Lil Dagover	Capital	Oct. 25	87	Nov. 18
Beautiful Maneuver Time	Ida Wuest	World's Trade
Captain of Koepenick, The	Max Adalbert	Kinematrade	Jan. 16,'33	93	Feb. 18,'33
Comradeship		Assoc. Cinemas	Nov. 8	78	Dec. 10
Cruiser Emden		World's Trade Exchange	Sept. 8	85	Oct. 1
David Golder	Harry Baur	Protex		80	Oct. 29
Don't Tell Me Who You Are	Liane Haid-Gustave Froelich	Interworld	Feb. 15,'33	91	Feb. 25,'33
Enchanted Escapade	Kaethe von Nagy	Protex	Dec. 7	83	Jan. 28,'33
Fire in the Opera	G. Froehlich - J. Nowatna	Capital	July 12	92	Aug. 6
Flower Lady of Lindenau	Renate Mueller	Protex	July 7	70	Aug. 6
Friederike	Mady Christians	Kinematrade	Feb. 25,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Gitta Discovers Her Heart	Gitta Alpar	Capital		91	Oct. 15
Gloria	Gustav Froehlich	Tobis	Oct. 27	87	Nov. 12
Hertha's Awakening	Toni Van Eyck	Protex	Mar. 10,'33	82	Mar. 25,'33
Herzblut	Renate Mueller	Cines-Pittaluga	Sept. 30	77	Oct. 15
His Majesty, King Ballyhoo	Hans Moser - Heinz Ruehmann	Capital	Nov. 15	86	Feb. 11,'33
Louise, Queen of Prussia	Henny Porten	Assoc. Cinemas	Oct. 4	92	Oct. 15
Love Is Love	Kaethe von Nagy	Ufa			June 11
Maedchen in Uniform	Hertha Thiele	John Krimsky - Gifford Cochran		110	Oct. 1
Man Without a Name, The	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 5	90	Dec. 17
1914		Capital	Sept. 3	73	Sept. 24
Party Does Not Answer, The	Dorothy Wieck	Capital	Nov. 29	76	Dec. 31
Ronny	Willy Fritsch-Kaethe von Nagy	Protex
Schubert's Dream of Spring	Alfred Laeutner	Capital		75	July 2
Song of Life	Albert Mog - Margot Ferra	Tobis	Mar. 24,'33	66
Spell of Tatra, The		Protex	Feb. 17,'33	65	Feb. 25,'33
Two Hearts That Beat as One	Lilian Harvey	Ufa-Protex	Sept. 8	80	Sept. 24
Victoria and Her Hussar		Kinematrade
Yerck	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 23	99	Dec. 10

OTHER PRODUCT

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Fires of Fate	Lester Matthews	British Int'l		72	Oct. 15
Flag Lieutenant, The	Henry Edwards-Anna Neagle	British and Dominions		85	Dec. 31
Flying Squad, The	Harold Huth	British Lion		79	Aug. 6
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-British		68	Feb. 25,'33
Green Spot Mystery, The	Jack Lloyd	Mutual, London		66	Sept. 3
Here's George	George Clarke	P.D.C.-British		64	Nov. 5
Jack's the Boy	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-Gainsborough	Aug. 15	61	Sept. 24
Josser on the River	Ernest Lotinga	British Int'l		71	Sept. 17
Leap Year	Tom Walls - Anne Grey	British and Dominions		89	Dec. 17
Lodger, The	Ivor Novello	Twickenham		84	Oct. 15
Looking on the Bright Side	Gracie Fields	Assoc. Radio-British		82	Oct. 15
Love Contract, The	Owen Nares	British and Dominions		82	Aug. 27
Love in Morocco (Reviewed under the title "Baroud")	Rex Ingram	Gaumont-British	Mar. 18,'33	67	Oct. 15
Love on Wheels	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-Gainsborough		87	Aug. 13
Maid of the Mountains, The	Harry Welchman - Nancy Brown	British Int'l		80
Man They Couldn't Arrest, The	Hugh Wakefield-Renee Clama	Gaumont-British	Mar. 11,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33
Marry Me	Renate Mueller-Geo. Robey	Gaumont-British		85
Mayor's Nest	Sydney Howard	British and Dominions		75	July 16
Private Wives	Claude Allister-Betty Astell	British Lion
Sally Bishop	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	British Lion		82	Dec. 10
Thark	Tom Walls - Ralph Lynn	British and Dominions		77	Aug. 27
There Goes the Bride	Jessie Matthews-Owen Nares	Gaumont-British		79	Mar. 11,'33
Wedding Rehearsal	Roland Young	London Film
White Face	John H. Roberts	Gainsborough-British		71	June 11

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1932 unless otherwise stated]

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 236	July 26	1 reel
C 237	Sept. 1	10	Sept. 24
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Crystal Gazabo	Nov. 7	1 reel
Lighthouse Keeping	Aug. 15	1 reel
Medicine Show	Feb. 7,'33	1 reel
Minstrel Show, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Prosperity Blues	Oct. 8
Seeing Stars	Sept. 12	8	Dec. 17
Snow Time	Nov. 30
Wedding Bells	Jan. 10,'33
Wooden Shoes	Feb. 25,'33	1 reel
LAMBS GAMBOLS
Hear 'Em and Weep
Ladies Not Allowed	Sept. 8	2 reels
Lambs All-Star Gambol	Dec. 20	21½
Mutual Man, The
Poor Fish, The (Tent.)
Shave It with Music	Sept. 30	19
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in Wildwest	Aug. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in India		1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Philippines	Nov. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among the Wide Open Faces	Oct. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among Dancing Nations	Dec. 23	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Wonders of the World	Dec. 13	1 reel
MICKEY MOUSE
Mickey in Arabia	July 20	7	Dec. 10
Musical Farmer	July 11
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Bad Genius, The	Dec. 1
Camping Out	Aug. 10
Fair Play	July 2
Flop House	Nov. 9
Great Bird Mystery	Oct. 20
Sassy Cats	Jan. 25,'33
Scrappy's Party	Feb. 13,'33
Wolf at the Door, The	Dec. 29
SILLY SYMPHONIES
China Plate		7	Dec. 3
SUNRISE COMEDIES
Campus Codes	Jan. 19,'33	21
College Gigolos	Jan. 3,'33	18½
His Vacation	Sept. 8
I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Store	Feb. 11,'33
Mind Doesn't Matter	Nov. 21	19½
Partners Two	Jan. 19,'33	22
The Curse of a Broken Heart	Feb. 4,'33	18
The Strange Case of Poison Ivy
WORLD OF SPORT
Horse Sense	Aug. 5
Rough Sport	Dec. 29
Throwing the Bull	Jan. 14,'33	11

EDUCATIONAL

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
A Fool About Women	Nov. 27	22
Artist's Muddles	Jan. 29,'33	20
Boy, Oh Boy!	Dec. 25	21
Feeling Rosy	Feb. 26,'33	21
For the Love of Ludwig	July 24	19	Nov. 12
Giddy Age, The	Sept. 25	21½	June 4
His Royal Shyness	Aug. 28	21	July 23
Loose Relations	Apr. 9'33
Sunkissed Sweeties	Oct. 30	22
What a Life
BABY BURLESKS
Glad Rags to Riches	Feb. 5,'33	11	Dec. 31
Kid' In' Hollywood		11
Kid's Last Fight, The	Mar. 26,'33	11	Dec. 3
Pie-Covered Wagon	Oct. 30	10	Dec. 31
Polly Tix in Washington
War Babies	Sept. 18	10	Aug. 6
BATTLE FOR LIFE
Battle of the Centuries	Oct. 2	9
Desert Demons	Nov. 27	9
Killers	Oct. 30	10
The Sea	Dec. 25	9
BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
An Oregon Camera Hunt	Sept. 11	9
Giants of the North	Mar. 26,'33
Our Bird Citizens	Oct. 9	8	Dec. 10
Our Noble Ancestors	Dec. 4	9
Pirates of the Deep	Feb. 26,'33
Stable Manners	Nov. 6	7
Wild Company	Jan. 1,'33	10
Woodland Pals	Jan. 29,'33	1 reel
BROADWAY GOSSIP
No. 1	Sept. 25	11
No. 2	Dec. 11	9	Dec. 31
No. 3	Feb. 5,'33	11
No. 4	Mar. 5,'33	11
No. 5	Apr. 30,'33
CAMERA ADVENTURES
Taming the Wildcat	Jan. 15,'33	8
The Forgotten Island	Sept. 4	10
The Iceless Arctic	Nov. 6	11
Two Hundred Fathoms Deep	Mar. 19,'33	8

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
DO YOU REMEMBER
Gaslit Nineties, The	Nov. 27	8	Jan. 7,'33
Highlights of the Past	Apr. 9,'33
Old New York	Sept. 11	10	Jan. 14,'33
Puffs and Bustles	Mar. 12,'33
When Dad Was a Boy	Jan. 22,'33	8
GLEASON'S SPORT FEATURETTES
A Hockey Hick	Dec. 11	19
Always Kickin'	Oct. 9	20
Off His Base	Sept. 18	20
GREAT HOKUM MYSTERY
Burned at the Steak	Oct. 16	18
Evil Eye Conquers, The	Jan. 8,'33	14
Hypnotizing for Love	Aug. 21	16	Sept. 17
In the Clutches of Death	Nov. 13	14
On the Brink of Disaster	Feb. 19,'33
HODGE-PODGE
Across America in Ten Minutes	Jan. 1,'33	11
Animal Fair, The	Jan. 15,'33	10
Bubble Blowers	Sept. 11	10
Down on the Farm	Dec. 18	10
Fury of the Storm	July 3	9	July 30
Little Thrills	Oct. 23	9
Out of the Ordinary	Mar. 12,'33
Skipping About the Universe	Feb. 12,'33	10
Traffic	Nov. 6	10
Women of Many Lands	Apr. 9,'33
Women's Work	Sept. 25	9	Mar. 11,'33
Wonder City, The	Nov. 20	9	Feb. 25,'33
MACK SENNETT COMEDIES
Alaska Love Andy Clyde	July 17	20
Neighbor Trouble Stone-Granger	Aug. 14	19
Young Onions Harvey-Granger	Sept. 18	19	Sept. 10
MERMAID COMEDIES
Big Flash, The Harry Langdon	Nov. 6	22	Oct. 15
Hitch Hiker, The Harry Langdon	Feb. 12,'33	21
Knight Duty Harry Langdon	Mar. 26,'33	22
Tired Feet Harry Langdon	Jan. 1,'33	22
Vest with a Tale, The Tom Howard	Dec. 4	22
MORAN AND MACK COMEDIES
A Pair of Socks
As the Crows Fly	Feb. 5,'33	19
Hot Hoofs	Apr. 16,'33
Two Black Crows in Africa	Mar. 5,'33	20
OPERALOGUES
Brahmin's Daughter, A	Jan. 8,'33	22
Canteen Girl, The
Idol of Seville	Aug. 28	21	July 30
Walpurgis Night	Oct. 30	20
SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS (Reinald Werrenrath)
California	Mar. 5,'33	10
Cornell	Dec. 18	9	Dec. 17
Georgia Tech	Apr. 2,'33
Michigan	Dec. 4	8
Yale	Oct. 9	10
TERRY-TOONS
Burlesque	Sept. 4	6
Cocky Cock Roach	July 10	6	July 16
College Spirit	Oct. 16	6
Down on the Levee	Mar. 5,'33	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Ape Girl	Aug. 7	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Birthday Party	Oct. 2	6	Dec. 3
Forty Thieves, The	Nov. 13	6
Hansel Und Gretel	Feb. 5,'33	6
Hollywood Diet	Dec. 11	6
Hook and Ladder No. 1	Oct. 30	7	Nov. 5
Ireland or Bust	Dec. 25	6
Jealous Lover	Jan. 8,'33	6
Oh! Susanna	Apr. 2,'33
Pirate Ship	Apr. 30,'33
Robin Hood	Jan. 22,'33	6
Romeo and Juliet	Apr. 16,'33
Sherman Was Right	Aug. 21	6
Southern Rhythm	Sept. 18	6
Spring Is Here	July 24	6	Aug. 13
Tale of a Shirt, The	Feb. 19,'33	6
Toyland	Nov. 27	6	Dec. 17
Who Killed Cock Robin?	Mar. 19,'33	6
THREE-REEL SPECIAL
Krakatoa	Apr. 2,'33	26
TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
A Drug on the Market	Jan. 22,'33	11
The Acid Test	Nov. 27	11
The Mouse Trapper	Sept. 11	12
TORCHY COMEDIES (Ray Cooke)
Torchy's Busy Day	Oct. 2	20
Torchy's Kitty Coup	Jan. 22,'33	21
Torchy's Loud Spooker	Apr. 23,'33
Torchy Rolls His Own	Nov. 20	21
Torchy Turns Turtle	Mar. 19,'33	21
VANITY COMEDIES
Hollywood Run-Around Monty Collins	Dec. 18	20	Mar. 25,'33
Honeymoon Beach Billy Bevan-Glenn Tryon	Oct. 23	21
Keyhole Katie Gale Seabrook-John T. Murray	Jan. 15,'33	20
Ship A-Hooey Glenn Tryon	Aug. 7	22
Techno-crazy Monty Collins-Billy Bevan	Mar. 12,'33	19

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Alpine Echoes	Aug. 14
2 Incredible India	Aug. 21	9
3 Big Game of the Sea	Aug. 28	8
4 The Tom-Tom Trail	Sept. 4	9
5 By-Ways of France	Sept. 11	9	Dec. 17
6 Manhattan Medley	Sept. 18	10
7 Rhineland Memories	Sept. 25	8
8 Fisherman's Fortune	Oct. 2	9
9 Zanzibar	Oct. 9	9
10 Belles of Bali	Oct. 16	8	Jan. 7,'33
11 Sailing a Square-Rigger	Oct. 23	10	Dec. 10
12 Venetian Holiday	Oct. 30	10	Nov. 12
13 Havana Ho!	Nov. 6	9
14 Paths in Palestine	Nov. 13	8
15 Ricksha Rhythm	Nov. 20
16 Pirate Isles	Nov. 27	9
17 From Kashmir to the Khyber	Dec. 4	9	Nov. 19
18 Silver Springs	Dec. 11
19 Desert Tripoli	Dec. 18
20 In the Guianas	Dec. 25	9
21 Mediterranean Memories	Jan. 1,'33
22 The Lure of the Orient	Jan. 8,'33	9
23 Here Comes the Circus	Jan. 15,'33
24 Sicilian Sunshine	Jan. 22,'33	10	Mar. 25,'33
25 Gorges of the Giants	Jan. 29,'33	9	Dec. 31
26 When in Rome	Feb. 5,'33
27 Berlin Medley	Feb. 12,'33	9	Nov. 26
28 Rhapsody of the Rails	Feb. 19,'33
29 Taking the Cure	Feb. 26,'33
30 Down From Vesuvius	Mar. 5,'33
31 Paris on Parade	Mar. 12,'33
32 Broadway by Day	Mar. 19,'33
33 The Iceberg Patrol
34 Mississippi Showboats
35 Sampans and Shadows
36 Boardwalks of New York
37 A Gondola Journey
38 Isles of the East Indies
39 Pagodas of Peiping

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLEY CHASE
Fallen Arches	Feb. 4,'33	19
Girl Grief	Oct. 8	20
Mr. Bride	Dec. 24	19
Now We'll Tell One	Nov. 19	19	Oct. 22
Tarzan in the Wrong		20
Young Ironsides	Sept. 3	20
COLORTONE MUSICAL REVUES
Hollywood Premiere	Jan. 7,'33	18
Over the Counter		18	Feb. 25,'33
Wild People	Feb. 4,'33	18
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Barbados and Trinidad	Sept. 24	9
Come Back to Erin		9	June 4
Cuba, Land of the Rhumba	Feb. 25,'33
Iceland	Jan. 14,'33	10	Feb. 11,'33
Leningrad	Dec. 17	9	Mar. 11,'33
Norway	Feb. 4,'33	9
Over the Seas to Borneo		9
Rio the Magnificent		9
Romantic Argentina	Aug. 27	9
World Dances, The		9
FLIP, THE FROG
Circus	Aug. 27
Cuckoo the Magician	Jan. 21,'33
Funny Face	Dec. 24	8
Music Lesson, The	Oct. 29	8
Nursemaid, The	Nov. 26	7
Office Boy, The	July 16
Room Runners	Aug. 13
LAUREL & HARDY
County Hospital	June 25	20	Apr. 23
Scram	Sept. 10	21	Oct. 15
Their First Mistake		21
Towed in a Hole	Dec. 31	21
Twice Two	Feb. 25,'33	21
ODDITIES
Chill and Chills	Sept. 10	9
Duck Hunter's Paradise	Dec. 31	10	Dec. 31
Microscopic Mysteries	Oct. 18	10
Sea Spiders	Aug. 13	9	Oct. 29
Toy Parade, The	Dec. 3	7	Dec. 17
Whispering Bill	Dec. 31	10
OUR GANG
A Lad An' A Lamp	Dec. 17	17
Birthday Blues	Nov. 12	20
Fish Hooky	Jan. 28,'33	19
Forgotten Babies	Mar. 11,'33	17
Free Wheeling	Oct. 1	20
Hook and Ladder	Aug. 27	18
Kid from Borneo, The	Apr. 15,'33	19
Mush and Milk	May 27,'33
Pooch	June 4	21	May 28
PITTS-TODD
Alum and Eve	Sept. 24	18	Aug. 13
Asleep in the Feet	Jan. 21,'33	19
Old Bull	June 4	20	May 7
Show Business	Aug. 20	20
Sneak Easily	Dec. 10	17
Soilers, The	Oct. 29	19
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Allez Oop	Mar. 11,'33
Auto Racing	Apr. 1,'33
Blocks and Tackles	Nov. 5	12	Mar. 11,'33
Bone Crushers	Feb. 8,'33	8
Chalk Up	Dec. 10	10	Jan. 7,'33
Desert Regatta	Sept. 17	10
Football Footwork		12
Motorcycle Mania	Jan. 28,'33	9
Old Spanish Custom	Oct. 15	10	Mar. 11,'33
Pigskin	Oct. 22	12	Dec. 10
Snow Birds	Aug. 20	10
Swing High	Dec. 10	10	Dec. 17
TAXI BOYS
Bring 'Em Back a Wife	Jan. 14,'33	20
Call Her Sausage
Farewell to Legs
Hot Spot	Oct. 22	18	Oct. 1
Strange Innertube	Sept. 22
Taxi Barons
Taxi For Two	Dec. 3	18
Thundering Taxis	June 24,'33	16
What Price Taxi	Aug. 13
Wreckety Wrecks	Feb. 18,'33	19	Mar. 25,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
HOLLYWOOD ON PARARE
No. 1	Aug. 26	10	Aug. 13
No. 2	Sept. 23	1 reel
No. 3	Oct. 21	1 reel

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
No. 4	Nov.	18..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5	Dec.	16..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6	Jan.	13,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 7	Feb.	10,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8	Mar.	10,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9	Apr.	7,'33... 1 reel	.....
ONE REEL ACTS
Be Like Me (Ethel Merman)	Feb.	18,'33... 1 reel	.....
Breaking Even (Tom Howard)	Sept.	30.....	.....
Hawaiian Fantasy (Vincent Lopez)	Jan.	20,'33... 1 reel	.....
Hollywood Beauty Hints	July	15.....	.....
Ireno (Ethel Merman)	July	1.....	.....
Let's Dance (Burns and Allen)	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Musical Doctor (Rudy Vallee)	Oct.	28.....10.....Oct. 1
Patents Pending (Burns and Allen)	Aug.	5.....	.....
Pro and Con (Tom Howard-Alan Brooks)	July	8.....	.....
Rhapsody in Black & Blue (Louis Armstrong)	Sept.	2.....	.....
Rookie, The (Tom Howard)	Dec.	23..... 1 reel	.....
Ten Dollars or Ten Days (Eddie Younger and His Mountaineers)	July	22.....	.....
Your Hat (Burns & Allen)	Nov.	25.....	.....
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL—NEW SERIES
No. 1—Mists of the Morning—Temple Bells of Indo-China—Famous Radio Personalities	Aug.	12..... 1 reel	.....
No. 2—Just Mentioning the Unmentionable — New England Sunsets—Famous Radio Personalities	Sept.	9..... 1 reel	.....
No. 3—Making Friends in the Desert—The Fall of the Year — Radio Star-Maker	Oct.	7..... 1 reel	.....
No. 4—Distinctive Hair for Distinctive Heads — The Blooming Desert — The Camels Are Coming	Nov.	4..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5—John Mongol Comes to Town—Have a Little Ski—Meet Your Favorite Radio Personalities	Dec.	4..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6—Land of Sun and Shine — La Rumba de Cuba—Big Shots of U.S. Navy	Dec.	30..... 1 reel	.....
No. 7—This Is Ducky — Music From the Ancients —Bringing You the News	Jan.	27,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8—Glass Making at the Corning Glass Works — "Going Back Home" — Costuming the Earl Carroll Vanities	Feb.	24,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9—A Drama of the Northland — Paramount Pictorial Presents Amelia Earhart	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10—	Apr.	21,'33... 1 reel	.....
SCREEN SONGS
Ain't She Sweet (Lillian Roth)	Feb.	3,'33.....
Aloha Oe (Royal Samoans)	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Dinah (Mills Bros.)	Jan.	13,'33... 1 reel	.....
Down Among the Sugar Cane (Lillian Roth)	Aug.	26.....
Just a Gigolo (Irene Bordoni)	Sept.	9.....
Peanut Vendor, The (Armida)	Apr.	28,'33.....
Popular Melodies (Arthur Jarrett)	Apr.	7,'33... 1 reel	.....
Reaching for the Moon	Feb.	24,'33... 1 reel	.....
Romantic Melodies (The Street Singer)	Oct.	21..... 1 reel	.....
Rudy Vallee Melodies (Rudy Vallee)	Aug.	5..... 1 reel	.....
School Days (Gus Edwards)	Sept.	30.....
Sing a Song (James Melton)	Dec.	2.....
Time on My Hands (Ethel Merman)	Dec.	23..... 7...Jan. 7,'33
When It's Sleepy Time Down South (Boswell Sisters)	Nov.	11..... 1 reel	.....
You Try Somebody Else (Ethel Merman)	July	29..... 10.....June 25
SCREEN SOUVENIRS — NEW SERIES
No. 1	Aug.	5..... 1 reel	.....
No. 2	Sept.	2..... 1 reel	.....
No. 3	Sept.	30.....10.....Oct. 15
No. 4	Oct.	28..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5	Nov.	25..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6	Dec.	23..... 1 reel	.....
No. 7	Jan.	20,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8	Feb.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10	Apr.	14,'33... 1 reel	.....
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly
SPORTS EYE VIEW
Aggravatin' Bear, The	Apr.	28,'33... 1 reel	.....
Building Winners	Aug.	19..... 1 reel	.....
Canine Thrills	Feb.	3,'33... 1 reel	.....
Catch 'Em Young	Dec.	9..... 1 reel	.....
Fighting Fins	Oct.	14.....10.....Oct. 15
Hot and Cold Thrills	Mar.	31,'33... 1 reel	.....
Over the Jumps	Jan.	6,'33... 1 reel	.....
Stuff on the Ball	Nov.	11..... 1 reel	.....
Water Jamboree	Sept.	16..... 1 reel	.....
Wonder Girl, The (Babe Didrickson)	Mar.	3,'33... 1 reel	.....
TALKARTOONS
Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle	Sept.	23.....
Betty Boop's Birthday Party	Apr.	21,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Bizzy Bee	Aug.	19..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Crazy Inventions	Jan.	27,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop for President	Nov.	4..... 7.....Oct. 1
Betty Boop's Ker-Choo	Jan.	6,'33... 7.....Dec. 10
Betty Boop Limited	July	1..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop, M.D.	Sept.	2..... 7.....Dec. 10
Betty Boop's Museum	Dec.	16..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Ups & Downs	Oct.	14..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Penthouse	Mar.	10,'33... 6....Feb. 25,'33
Is My Palm Read	Feb.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Kidnapping	July	1..... 1 reel	.....
Minding the Baby	Sept.	26..... 1 reel	.....
Snow-White	Mar.	31,'33... 1 reel	.....
Stopping the Show	Aug.	12.....	.....
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Blue of the Night (Bing Crosby)	Jan.	6,'33...20.....Sept. 10
Bring 'Em Back Sober (Sennett Star)	Nov.	18..... 2 reels	.....
Caliente Love (Sennett Star)	Mar.	10,'33... 2 reels	.....
Cook's Day Off, The (Sennett Star)		.....	.....
Courting Trouble (Charles Murray)	Oct.	28.....19.....Dec. 17
Dentist, The (Sennett Star)	Dec.	9.....20.....Dec. 9
Don't Play Bridge With Your Wife (Sennett Star)	Jan.	13,'33... 2 reels	.....
Druggist, The (Sennett Star)	Apr.	21,'33.....	.....
Doubling In the Quickies (Sennett Star)	Dec.	16..... 2 reels	.....
Easy On the Eyes (Sennett Star)	Feb.	17,'33... 2 reels	.....
False Impressions (Sennett Star)	Nov.	4..... 2 reels	.....
Fatal Glass of Beer (W. C. Fields)	Mar.	3,'33... 2 reels	.....
Harem, Scarem (Al St. John)	June	10..... 2 reels	.....
Hawkins and Watkins, Inc.	July	8.....22.....Sept. 3
His Perfect Day (Sennett Star)		.....	.....
Hollywood Double, A (Sennett Star)	Nov.	25..... 2 reels	.....
Honeymoon Bridge (Sennett Star)		.....	.....
Hubby's Vacation (Sennett Star)		.....	.....
Human Fish (Sennett Star)	Dec.	30..... 2 reels	.....
In the Bag (Sennett Star)		.....	.....
Lion and the House, The (Sennett Star)	Dec.	23.....18	.....
Ma's Pride and Joy (Donald Novis)	Oct.	14.....18.....Aug. 27
Morning After, The (Sennett Star)		.....	.....
Prosperity Pays (Tom Howard)	Nov.	4.....	.....
Singing Boxer, The	Jan.	27,'33.....	.....
Singing Plumber (Donald Novis)	Sept.	23.....	.....
Sweet Cookie (Sennett Star)	Apr.	14,'33... 2 reels	.....
Temporary Butler (Sennett Star)		.....	.....
Too Many Highballs (Sennett Star)	Feb.	10,'33... 2 reels	.....
Up Popped the Ghost	July	22.....	.....
Wrestlers, The (Sennett Star)	Jan.	20,'33.....	.....

POWERS PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Dream Flowers	Sept.	15..... 9	.....
Dual Control (Capt. James A. Mollison-Amy Johnson)	Sept.	1.....12	.....
It All Depends on You	Nov.	1..... 8	.....
Land of My Fathers		 9	.....
Land of the Shamrocks		.....10.....Apr. 2
Light of Love	Oct.	15..... 9	.....
Me and the Boy Friend	Oct.	1..... 8	.....
Mystery of Marriage, The		..... 18.....Apr. 2
Special Messengers		..... 9.....Mar. 20

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES (Re-Issues)
The Cure	Aug.	19.....20	.....
Easy Street	Sept.	30.....19½....Dec. 17
The Floorwalker	Dec.	23.....20½	.....
The Pawnshop	Mar.	17,'33.....	.....
The Rink	Nov.	11.....20	.....
The Vagabond	Feb.	3,'33...21	.....
CLARK AND McCULLOUGH SERIES
Druggist's Dilemma, The	May	5,'33...17	.....
Hocus Focus	Mar.	3,'33...20	.....
Ice Man's Ball	Aug.	12.....20.....Aug. 13
Jitters, The Butler	Dec.	30.....20½....Aug. 20
Millionaire Cat, The	Oct.	21.....21	.....
The Gay Nighties	June	23.....18.....Dec. 31
HARRY SWEET COMEDIES
Firehouse Honeymoon	Oct.	28.....18...Jan. 14,'33
Heave Two	Mar.	10,'33...20½	.....
Just a Pain in a Parlor	Aug.	26.....20	.....
Loops, My Dear	Jan.	6.'33...17	.....
Shakespeare With Tin Ears	June	30.....18½	.....
Thrown Out of Joint	May	12,'33...21	.....
HEADLINER SERIES
No. 1—Shampoo, the Magician (Roscoe Ates-Hugh Herbert)	Nov.	25.....17	.....
No. 2—Private Wives (Skeets Gallagher W. Catlett)	Jan.	27,'33...21	.....
No. 3—Hip, Zip, Hooray (Nat Carr)	Mar.	31,'33...18½	.....
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Abroad In Old Kentucky		.....	.....
Bride's Bereavement, The	Nov.	18..... 19	.....
Lost in the Limehouse	Apr.	7,'33...20½	.....
Through Thin and Thicket	Jan.	20,'33...17½	.....
Two Lips and Julips	Sept.	9.....20	.....
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Ape Man	Feb.	10,'33...18	.....
Mickey's Big Broadcast		.....	.....
Mickey's Busy Day	Sept.	2.....18.....Aug. 6
Mickey's Charity	Dec.	2.....18	.....
Mickey's Disguise		.....	.....
Mickey's Race	Apr.	14,'33...18	.....
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Art in the Raw	Feb.	24,'33...19	.....
Fish Feathers	Dec.	16.....18	.....
Golf Chump, The	Aug.	5.....20.....Aug. 13
Inferior Decorations		.....	.....
Merchant of Menace, The	Apr.	21,'33...19½	.....
Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath	Oct.	14.....20½	.....
PATHE NEWS
Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW
Released once a month
SPECIALS
So This Is Harris		28...Mar. 11,'33
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Barnyard Bunk	Sept.	16..... 6	.....
Happy Hoboes	Mar.	31,'33.....	.....
Jolly Fish	Aug.	19..... 6	.....
Magic Mummy	Feb.	7,'33... 7	.....
Panicky Pup	Feb.	24,'33... 7	.....
Pencil Mania	Dec.	9..... 7	.....
Piano Tooners	Nov.	11..... 7½	.....
Redskin Blues	July	23..... 7	.....
Spanish Twist A	Oct.	14..... 6	.....
Tight Rope Tricks	Jan.	6,'33... 7	.....

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ATLANTIC FILM
Playgrounds In the Sky		10.....Nov. 5
Sportsmen's Paradise		10.....July 30
CAESAR FILMS
Veneziana		1 reel	.....
CAPITAL
Isle of Isolation		10.....July 30
CENTRAL FILM
A Pilgrimage Through Palestine		10.....Dec. 3
Boston Common—and Proper		10...Jan. 7,'33
Hula		3 reels	.....
In Old New Orleans		.....May 28
Syria		.....May 21
F. M. S. CORP.
Newslaughs		7...Jan. 28,'33
FEATURETTES, INC.
A Night In the Jungle		10.....Apr. 30
Holy Men of India		10.....May 7
IDEAL
Evolution		28.....Sept. 3
MARY WARNER
Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation		8	.....
Berlin: Rhythm of a Metropolis		8	.....
Glimpses of Germany		8	.....
Green Heart of Germany, The		20	.....
Springtime on the Rhine		7	.....
The Mosel		8.....Oct. 15
Trier, Oldest City in Germany		6	.....
Vintagers' Festival in the Palatinate		10...Mar. 11,'33
Winter in the Bavarian Alps		1 reel	.....
Young Germany Goes Ski-ing		1 reel	.....
MASCOT
Technocracy		10...Jan. 7,'33
MASTER ART PRODUCTS
Melody Makers Series:
Sammy Fain		10.....Dec. 24
Benny Davis		9	.....
Cliff Friend		9	.....
Night of Romance		7	.....
PRINCIPAL
Cock-Eyed Animal World		35.....July 23
Get That Lion		29.....Aug. 27
Isle of Desire		3 reels	.....
Isle of Peril		32.....July 16
Isles of Love		1 reel	.....
Killing the Killer		11.....July 30
Mexico		43.....June 11
New Western Front		25	.....
Primitive		1 reel	.....
Tiger Hunt, The		20.....Dec. 31
UFA
Cod Liver Oil Preferred		22.....June 11
Last Pelicans In Europe		10.....May 7
Steel		10.....May 21
WARD PRODUCTIONS
Your Technocracy and Mine		9½.Feb. 11,'33

UNITED ARTISTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MICKEY MOUSE
1. Mickey's Nightmare	Aug.	5..... 7½....Oct. 8
2. Trader Mickey	Aug.	26..... 7	.....
3. The Whoopee Party	Sept.	16..... 7.....Nov. 12
4. Touchdown Mickey	Oct.	7..... 6½	.....
5. The Wayward Canary	Oct.	28..... 7¼	.....
6. The Klondike Kid	Nov.	18.....	.....
7. Mickey's Good Deed	Dec.	9..... 8	.....
8. Building a Building	Dec.	20..... 7	.....
9. The Mad Doctor	Jan.	20,'33... 6	.....
10. Mickey's Pal Pluto	Feb.	10,'33... 7	.....
11. The Mellerdrammer	Mar.	3,'33.....	.....
SILLY SYMPHONIES
1. Bears and Bees	July	15..... 6½	.....
2. Just Dogs	Aug.	12..... 7	.....
3. Flowers and Trees	Sept.	9..... 8.....Oct. 15
4. Bugs In Love	Sept.	21..... 7	.....
5. King Neptune	Oct.	7..... 7.....Oct. 29
6. Babes In the Wood	Dec.	2..... 8	.....
7. Santa's Workshop	Dec.	30..... 7.....Dec. 24
8. Birds In the Spring			.....

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Beau Best	May	8,'33
Busy Barber	Sept.	12	1 reel
Carnival Capers	Oct.	10	1 reel
Day Nurse	Aug.	1	1 reel
Going to Blazes	Apr.	10,'33	1 reel
Jungle Jumble, A	July	4	1 reel
Oswald, the Plumber	Jan.	30,'33	7
Shriek, The	Feb.	27,'33	7...Mar. 25,'33
Teacher's Pest	Dec.	19	7
Wild and Wooly	Nov.	21	1 reel
POOCH CARTOONS
Athlete, The	Aug.	29	8.....Sept. 10
Butcher Boy, The	Sept.	26	7.....Sept. 17
Cat and Dogs	Dec.	5	1 reel
Crowd Snores, The	Oct.	24	1 reel
Lumber Champ, The	Mar.	13,'33	1 reel
Merry Dog, The	Jan.	2,'33	1 reel
S. O. S. Icicle	Apr.	24,'33
Terrible Troubador, The	Feb.	13,'33	1 reel
Underdog, The	Nov.	7	1 reel
RADIO STAR REELS
Morton Downey—No. 1 With Vincent Lopez	Oct.	31	2 reels
The Street Singer Nick Kenny—No. 1	Nov.	14	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 2 With Brown and Henderson	Nov.	28	2 reels
Art Jarrett Nick Kenny—No. 2	Dec.	12	2 reels
Down Memory Lane Louis Sobol—No. 1 With Texas Guinan	Dec.	26	1 reel
Married or Single Nick Kenny—No. 3 With Little Jack Little	Jan.	16,'33	21
I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket Walter Winchell—No. 1 With Paul Whiteman	Jan.	30,'33	21...Feb. 11,'33
Morton Downey—No. 3 The Holdup With Joe Young	Feb.	14,'33	2 reels
Radio Murder Mystery Louis Sobol—No. 2	Mar.	6,'33	2 reels
SPECIAL
The Voice of the Vatican	Mar.	13,'33	10...Mar. 11,'33
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 20—Novelty	July	18	1 reel
No. 21—Novelty	Aug.	22	1 reel
No. 22—Novelty	Sept.	19	1 reel
No. 23—Novelty	Oct.	17	1 reel
No. 24—Novelty	Nov.	14	1 reel
No. 25—Novelty	Dec.	12	1 reel
No. 26—Novelty	Jan.	23,'33	1 reel
No. 27—Novelty	Mar.	20,'33	1 reel
No. 28—Novelty	Apr.	17,'33	1 reel
UNIVERSAL BREVITIES
Boo!	Dec.	26	1 reel
Dr. Jekyll's Hide	Sept.	26	9.....Oct. 1
Good Old Days, The	Nov.	21	1 reel
Greeks Had No Words for Them, The	Oct.	24	1 reel
Lizzie Strata	Jan.	23,'33	10
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1931-32 SEASON)
Around the Equator on Roller Skates	July	28	2 reels
Hollywood Kids	July	13	2 reels
Hollywood Handicap, A	Aug.	10	2 reels
(1932-33 SEASON)
Alias the Professor James Gleason	Mar.	8,'33	2 reels
Boys Will Be Boys Frank Albertson	Nov.	30	2 reels
Family Troubles Henry Armetta	Jan.	11,'33	21
Finishing Touch Skeets Gallagher June Clyde	Oct.	19	2 reels
Hesitating Love L. Fazenda-M. Prevost	Nov.	16	2 reels
Hunting Trouble Louise Fazenda	Feb.	8,'33	20...Mar. 11,'33
Kid Glove Kisses Slim Summerville	Sept.	21	2 reels
Lights Out James Gleason	Dec.	24	2 reels
My Operation Vince Barnett-June Clyde	Dec.	28	2 reels
Officer, Save My Child Slim Sumerville	Nov.	2	2 reels
Pick Me Up Marie Prevost	Apr.	5,'33	2 reels
Rockabye Cowboy James Gleason	Jan.	25,'33	2 reels
Room Mates Frank Albertson	Apr.	19,'33	2 reels
Should Crooners Marry? Frank Albertsen	Feb.	22,'33	2 reels
Trial of Vince Barnett Vince Barnett	Mar.	22,'33
Union Wages Louise Fazenda	Aug.	30	20.....Sept. 17
Who, Me Frank Albertsen	Sept.	7	2 reels
Yoo Hoo! James Gleason	Oct.	5	21.....Sept. 3

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ADVENTURES IN AFRICA		2 reels
BELIEVE IT OR NOT— ROBERT L. RIPLEY		1 reel
BIG V COMEDIES
No. 1—Sherlock's Home Jack Haley
No. 2—Here, Prince Joe Penner
No. 3—You Call It Madness Richy Craig, Jr.
No. 4—Hey, Pop Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 5—Then Came the Yawn Jack Haley
No. 6—The Run Around William Demarest
No. 7—Trouble Indemnity Codee and Orth
No. 8—The Build-Up Jack Haley
No. 9—Buzzin' Around Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 10—Wrongorilla Jack Haley
BOOTH TARKINGTON SERIES
No. 7—Hot Dog		1 reel
No. 8—Penrod's Bull Pen Billy Hayes-Dave Gorcey		1 reel
BROADWAY BREVITIES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—C'est Paris Technicolor Musical	Sept.	3	17
No. 2—Passing the Buck Alexander Gray	Sept.	24	18
No. 3—Tee for Two Technicolor Musical	Oct.	8	17.....Nov. 12
No. 4—Tip-Tap-Toe Hal Leroy-Mitzi-Mayfair	Oct.	22	19
No. 5—A Modern Cinderella Ruth Etting	Nov.	5	18
No. 6—Picking a Winner Technicolor Musical	Nov.	19	16.....Nov. 19
No. 7—The Red Shadow Al. Gray-Bernice Claire	Dec.	3	18
No. 8—Sky Symphony Stoopnagle & Budd	June	3,'33
No. 9—Poor Little Rich Boy Phil Baker	Dec.	24	18
No. 10—Hey, Hey, Westerner Technicolor Musical	Dec.	31	17.....Oct. 15
No. 11—That Goes Double Russ Columbo	June	17,'33
No. 12—Bygones Ruth Etting	Jan.	14,'33	18
No. 13—Pleasure Island Technicolor Musical	Feb.	25,'33	18
No. 14—Yours Sincerely Lanny Ross	Mar.	11,'33	19
No. 15—Speaking of Operations Pick & Pat	Jan.	28,'33	18
No. 16—Northern Exposure Technicolor Musical	Apr.	8,'33	16
No. 17—Nothing Ever Happens Musical	Mar.	25,'33
No. 18—World's Champ Jack Dempsey	July	11,'33
No. 19—The Way of All Freshmen Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Apr.	22,'33
No. 20—Along Came Ruth Ruth Etting	May	6,'33
No. 21—Fifi V. Segal-Chas. Judels	May	20,'33
HOW TO BREAK 90
BOBBY JONES
No. 1—Hand and Grip	Apr.	17,'33
No. 2—Position and Back Swing
No. 3—Hip Action
No. 4—Down Swing
No. 5—Impact
No. 6—Fine Points
LOONEY TUNES SERIES
No. 9—Bosko and Bruno		7	Dec. 10
No. 10—Bosko's Dog Race		8	July 8
No. 11—Bosko at the Beach		7	Nov. 5
No. 12—Bosko's Store		7
No. 13—Bosko the Lumberjack
LOONEY TUNES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Ride Him, Bosko
No. 2—Bosko the Drawback
No. 3—Bosko's Dizzy Date
No. 4—Bosko's Woodland Daze
No. 5—Bosko in Dutch
No. 6—Bosko in Person
No. 7—Bosko the Speed King
No. 8—Bosko's Knight Mare
MELODY MASTERS (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Music to My Ears Jack Denny and Band
No. 2—Municipal Band Wagon
No. 3—Smash Your Baggage Small's Paradise Band
No. 4—The Lease Breakers Aunt Jemima		9	Dec. 3
No. 5—The Yacht Party Roger Wolfe Kahn's Band
No. 6—Hot Competition The Continentals-Barris-Whiteman-Ted Husing
No. 7—Abe Lyman and Band
No. 8—"How's Tricks?" Jean Sargent-George Owen and Gang
No. 9—That's the Spirit Noble Sissle and Band
No. 10—The Alma Martyr Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians
MERRY MELODIES (New Series)
No. 1—You're Too Careless with Your Kisses		8	Dec. 17
No. 2—I Wish I Had Wings
No. 3—A Great Big Bunch of You
No. 4—Three's a Crowd
No. 5—Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives
No. 6—One Step Ahead of My Shadow
No. 7—Young and Healthy
No. 8—The Organ Grinder
No. 9—Wake Up the Gypsy in Me
THE NAGGERS SERIES MR. AND MRS. JACK NORWORTH
The Naggers' Anniversary		1 reel
The Naggers at the Opera		1 reel
The Naggers Go Ritzy		18	June 4
Movie Dumb		1 reel
Four Wheels—No Brakes		18	July 30
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The Primo Carnera		2 reels
Gypsy Caravan Martinelli		1 reel
Handy Guy, The Earl Sande		2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City		1 reel
Season's Greetings, The Christmas Special		5
Trip to Tibet, A		1 reel
ONE-REEL COMEDIES
Washington, The Man and the Capital Clarence Whitehill		18
Baby Face Victor Moore
Military Post, The Robert Guzman
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison
No Questions Asked Little Billy
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neill
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal		1 reel
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal		1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal		1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Moving In		2 reels
Rough Sailing		16
Stutterless Romance, A		1 reel
Where Men Are Men		2 reels
PEPPER POT (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 1
No. 2—Nickelette
No. 3—Contact
No. 4—If I'm Elected
No. 5—King Salmon
No. 6—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 2
No. 7—Babe O' Mine
No. 8—Dangerous Occupations
No. 9—Out of the Past
No. 10—Love Thy Neighbor
No. 11—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 3
No. 12—A Whale of a Yarn
No. 13—Africa Speaks—English
No. 14—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4
No. 15—Sea Devils
No. 16—Parades of Yesterday
No. 17—Breakwater
No. 18—Little White Lies
No. 19—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 5
No. 20—You're Killing Me
No. 21—Inklings
No. 22—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 6
No. 23—Around the World in 8 Minutes		8	Aug. 20
No. 24—Fishermen's Holiday
No. 25—Stuck, Stuck, Stucco
No. 26—Seeing Samoa
SPORT THRILLS SERIES TED HUSING
No. 1
No. 2
No. 3
No. 4—Old Time Sport Thrills
No. 5
No. 6—
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES (Donald Meek-John Hamilton)
No. 8—Murder in the Pullman		20	June 4
No. 9—The Side Show Mystery		29	June 11
No. 10—Campus Mystery, The
No. 11—Crane Poison Case, The
No. 12—Transatlantic Mystery, The		22	Sept. 19
TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
Freshman Love Ruth Etting
Old Lace Ruth Etting
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters		1 reel
No. 2—Southern India		9
No. 3—Road to Mandalay		1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean Byways		9
No. 5—Javanese Journeys		9
No. 6—Northern India		1 reel
No. 7—Oberammergau		1 reel
No. 8—South American Journeys		9	June 25
No. 9—Soviet Russia		1 reel
No. 10—Paris Glimpses		9	July 30
No. 11—Dear Old London		1 reel
No. 12—When in Rome		9	June 18
No. 13—Berlin Today		9	Oct. 29
WORLD ADVENTURES E. M. NEWMAN (New Series)
No. 1—Dancing Around the World		1 reel
No. 2—Transportations of the World		1 reel
No. 3—An Oriental Cocktail		10	Oct. 8
No. 4—Curious Customs of the World		1 reel
No. 5—From Bethlehem to Jerusalem		1 reel
No. 6—High Spots of the Far East		10	Sept. 10
No. 7—Main Streets		1 reel
No. 8—Beauty Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 9—Workers of the World		1 reel
No. 10—Wonder Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 11—Costumes of the World		1 reel
No. 12—Peculiar Ceremonies		1 reel
No. 13—Top of the World		1 reel

SERIALS

UNIVERSAL

(EACH SERIAL 12 EPISODES OF TWO REELS)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clancy of the Mounted Tom Tyler-Jacqueline Wells	Feb.	27,'33	20...Feb. 4,'33 (each)
Lost Special Frank Albertson	Dec.	5
Jungle Mystery Tom Tyler	Sept.	12	20 (each)
Phantom of the Air	May	22,'33

Motion Picture Herald
1790 Broadway, New York
Gentlemen:

Herewith please find my check covering subscription to the Herald. Some weeks ago I permitted my subscription to lapse, and thought I would not miss receiving same. However, I have been lost without it, so am anxiously awaiting my first issue, which I trust will be forthcoming next week.

Best wishes.

(Signed) George S. Otte
Court Theatre, Wheeling, W. Va.

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 53—Uncle Sam makes new money—Secretary Wallace defends bill to relieve agriculture—Preview of spring styles held in New York—Lloyd George leads fete at Carnarvon Castle—Tornado spreads death and ruin in Tennessee—New York's Irish hail Saint Patrick—British fliers perform for Fuad and children.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 54—Roosevelt signs beer bill—Rising Ohio River floods Cincinnati streets—Germans prepare auto thrill for Chicago World Fair—Hindenburg and Hitler honor war dead—Mrs. Roosevelt goes horseback riding—English airmen set new non-stop mark—Viennese girls welcome spring—Greeks down dictator.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 252—Brooklands holds first auto race—Mrs. Roosevelt takes to horseback riding—Bavarian children get skiing lessons—Dictator ousted in Greek election—Gay Paree gets dance feast—German Republic ends—Ohio River overflows—German "death car" coming to Chicago World Fair—President signs beer bill.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 253—Japan again hit by earthquake—Babe Ruth signs for $52,000—Viennese dancers visit Africa—MacDonald fights to avert European break—Kids entertain John D. at Ormond Beach, Fla.—Red Cross aids flood victims at Louisville, Ky.—George Bernard Shaw welcomed to United States.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 67—Crack motorcyclists perform at Hants, Eng.—Mrs. Roosevelt takes to saddle—France sends new envoy to America—Mrs. Moody opens Spring tennis campaign in Pasadena—Beer bill signed by Roosevelt—Flood hits Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio—Irene Bordoni gives Bert Lahr swimming lessons in Miami.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 68—Japan shaken anew by earthquake—Andrew W. Mellon returns to America—Hoover arrives at Palo Alto, Cal.—Yosuke Matsuoka arrives in New York—Government moves to establish "war" camps for unemployed—Ruth signs contract—Relief agencies aid marooned residents at Louisville, Ky.

PATHE NEWS—No. 68—President launches bill to relieve farmers and signs beer bill—Irish parade stirs Fifth Avenue in New York—Easter styles shown in New York—World's fate depends on Mussolini, MacDonald, Hitler, Stalin, and Roosevelt—Flood submerges towns in Cincinnati—Hurricane sweeps Tennessee—News flashes.

PATHE NEWS—No. 69—Hindenburg links Reich and Empire—Trojans in football training at Los Angeles—New York holds annual flower show—First Lady takes to bridle path—Roosevelt signs bill legalizing 3.2 beer and wine—Helen Wills Moody limbers up in Pasadena—Ohio River flood covers streets of Cincinnati—News flashes.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 130—President signs bill legalizing beer—New York Jewish war "vets" protest Nazi persecutions—Icestorm hits Chicago—Hoover returns to Palo Alto, Cal.—Ohio River on rampage—Mrs. Roosevelt goes horseback riding—Youngsters in baseball practice at Mamaroneck, N. Y.—Lion in Los Angeles' zoo gets bath—Quake hits Kamaishi, Japan.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 131—Mass meeting in New York denounces Nazis' intolerance—U. S. S. San Francisco launched at Mare Island, Cal.—Workmen dynamite 140-foot chimney in Chicago—Gallic fair held at Lyon, France—Congress committee hears U. S. labor camp plan—Japan's envoy arrives in New York.

Schwartz Opens Twentieth

A. H. Schwartz has opened the Baldwin, in Baldwin, Long Island, as the twentieth unit of his Century circuit. George Mathews is manager of the Baldwin. Another theatre is planned by Mr. Schwartz at Franklin Square, Long Island.

ON BROADWAY

Week of March 25

MAYFAIR
Holy Men of India..... Capital
Party-ing Around..... Universal
The Shriek..... Universal

PARAMOUNT
Caliente Love..... Paramount

RIALTO
Canine Thrills..... Paramount
Hawaiian Fantasy..... Paramount
Snow White..... Paramount
The Dentist..... Paramount

RIVOLI
Benny Davis..... Master Art Products
Mickey's Mellerdrammer.... United Artists
New England Sunset..... Paramount

RKO MUSIC HALL
The Last Mail..... RKO Radio
Shakespeare With Tin Ears. RKO Radio

RKO ROXY
Terrible Troubadour..... Universal
Too Many Lies..... Universal
Voice of the Vatican..... Universal

ROXY
Playful Pan..... Columbia
The Silent Enemy..... Industrial

STRAND
Sea Devils..... Vitaphone
Young and Healthy..... Vitaphone

Monarch Resumes Sales Talks

Monarch's regional sales meetings, recently suspended because of banking conditions, were resumed last week in New York and elsewhere. After the New York meetings, John R. Freuler, president, will leave for Hollywood to supervise production. S. M. Berger & Co. has concluded arrangements with Mr. Freuler to distribute 12 Monarch features in the Philippines.

Mannix, Selznick MGM Officers

Edward J. Mannix and David O. Selznick have been elected vice presidents of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation by the board of directors.

Edward Schnitzer to Columbia

Edward Schnitzer is now manager of Columbia's New York exchange. He was formerly with Fox and then with Educational-World Wide.

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

Well, the big noise along the Row last week was the shooting at union headquarters where Fred Oser, "rebel" operator, was killed by Ralph O'Hara of the local operators' union. O'Hara claimed he shot in self defense after being fired upon by Oser. O'Hara has been booked on a formal charge of first degree murder and Tom Maloy is under bond as a material witness.

▽

Balaban & Katz reopened the United Artists theatre last Friday after an extensive newspaper campaign on the feature picture, "Gabriel Over the White House."

▽

Simon Simansky of Saminsky & Miller circuit, is back at his desk following a three weeks' rest at Hot Springs.

▽

Irving Mack is another Film Row familiar who has been away for the past ten days, but Irving has been out in the bushes beating up trailer business.

▽

Phil Dunas has taken over his new duties as manager of the Columbia exchange. Dunas succeeded William Brumberg.

▽

Maurice Rubin of Michigan City, Ind., has purchased the Lake theatre from the receivers.

▽

Florence Paley has installed RCA High Fidelity equipment at the Haymarket theatre.

▽

Ben Fish of the United Artists home office was a visitor in Chicago last week conferring with Eddie Grossman.

▽

Irving Lipnick, manager of Warner Bros.' Jeffry theatre, has been transferred to the Orpheum. Gene Hobson has been named manager of the Jeffry.

▽

John Immerman, father of Walter Immerman, vice-president and general manager of Balaban & Katz, died Monday morning following a two weeks' illness.

▽

Charles Stern has taken over the Cinema Art theatre on Chicago Avenue, which he will operate with American films. Stern will drop the "Art" in the name of the novel playhouse. He owns the Williard and Auston theatres.

HOLQUIST

Trans Lux Reorganization And Merger Plan Reported

Plans have been completed for a reorganization of Trans Lux Daylight Picture Screen Corporation and for a merger with the News Projection Corporation, which will terminate litigation between the two over respective rights to operate stock ticker projection machines, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Under the plan, a new company will be formed to acquire the stock ticker projection business of the companies. The new company will have 1,600,000 shares of common stock, of which 1,000,000 will be issued to Trans Lux and 600,000 to News Projection.

Fagan Making Bridge Shorts

Willard Karn, Oswald Jacoby and George Reith, contract bridge experts, have been signed by Myron C. Fagan to make a series of 12 shorts on bridge, titled "The Big 3 of Contract." The subjects, in Photocolor, will be produced at the Photocolor Studios, Irvington-on-the-Hudson, New York. Mr. Fagan will direct.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

the great national medium for showmen

Ten cents per word, money-order or check with copy. Count initials, box number and address. Minimum insertion, $1. Four insertions for the price of three. Contract rates on application. No borders or cuts. Forms close Mondays at 5 P.M. Publisher reserves right to reject any copy. Address correspondence, copy and checks to MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Classified Dept., 1790 Broadway, New York City

REPAIR SERVICE

SPECIAL INDUCEMENT OFFER ON SIMPLEX repairs and parts. Also replacement parts for RCA sound equipment. Write for details and prices. THEATRE SUPPLY & SERVICE CO., 555 Eleventh Avenue, New York City.

USED EQUIPMENT

BARGAINS RECONDITIONED ARCTIC-NU-AIR blowers, noiseless drives. Write for prices. SOUTHERN FAN CO., Box 440, Atlanta, Ga.

UNUSUAL BARGAINS IN USED OPERA Chairs, Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Spotlights, Stereopticons, etc. Projection Machines Repaired. Send for catalogue H. MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

NEW DEAL HAS STARTED—HERE'S HOW: National Carbons, AC type, 60% discount. Specials other sizes. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

SELLING OUT COMPLETE THEATRE: FIRST come, first served—everything goes. BOX 274, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

ONE PAIR WEBER DE LUXE SIMPLEX SOUND heads—complete with G. E. motors. One pair Weber Motiograph de luxe sound heads, complete attachments and G. E. motors. Slightly used—Address E. E. S., INC., Buffalo, N. Y.

TRAILER SERVICE

DISTINCTIVE SOUND TRAILERS. HAND lettered; 6c ft. and 50c card; 24-hour service. KANSAS CITY FILM LABORATORIES, 2449 Charlotte, Kansas City, Mo.

SOUND TRAILERS—OUR PRICE OF 8c FT. IS a saving over 6c ft. 50c card. MISSOURI FILM LABORATORIES, 1704 Baltimore, Kansas City, Mo.

PRINTING SERVICE

1,000 3x8 COLORED THEATRE PROGRAMS, 75c. SUGAR RIVER PRINTING COMPANY, Albany, Wis.

250 LETTERHEADS AND 250 ENVELOPES, $1.49. WEBSTER'S PRESS, Farmland, Indiana.

1,000 BUSINESS CARDS 50c, postpaid. KROY PRESS, 328 N. Queen, York, Pa.

TRAINING SCHOOLS

LEARN MODERN THEATRE MANAGEMENT. Approved home-study training in Theatre Management, Advertising and Technics. Send for catalog. THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 315 Washington St., Elmira, New York.

THEATRES

FOR SALE OR LEASE, SEVERAL WORTHwhile propositions all over the country. If interested let us know your wants. BOX 128A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PROJECTIONISTS UNIONS

THE NEW NATIONAL PROJECTIONISTS' Union—Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union, National Executive Offices, 3546 Vincent North, Minneapolis, Minn.

FILMS

FOR SALE OR RENTAL, SILENT PICTURES of every description; perfect prints; low prices; also silent negatives for sale of Westerns, Melodramas, Comedies, etc. GOLDWITT FILM SALES CO., 729—7th Ave., New York City.

THEATRICAL BROKER

LICENSED SPECIALIST IN AMUSEMENT AND theatrical transactions of all kinds. Will represent theatre sales and purchases. RUDOLPH EISENBERG, 551 5th Avenue, New York City.

HELP WANTED

BRANCH MANAGERS WANTED IN EVERY State. Knowledge of projection helpful but not necessary. Business consists of theatre supplies. BOX 280, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT

EQUIPMENT AT CROWN'S BARGAIN COUNTER to meet your pocketbook: Simplex mechanism, $135; Powers, $40; Simplex machine complete, $175; Powers machine complete, $85; Reflectors resilvered, $5.00, work guaranteed; new reflectors at bargain prices. Pyrene charges. 75c; extinguisher charges, 35c. R. C. A. tubes 40% off list. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 311 West 44th St., New York City.

E-X-C-I-T-E-R L-A-M-P-S MATCHED WITH your sound track. Increase your sound quality, decrease operating cost. Western Electric, 75c; R. C. A., 85c; Pacent, 85c. Bulbs not giving entire satisfaction shall be replaced. Send in trial order. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES CORPORATION, 311 West 44th St., New York City.

POSITIONS WANTED

LIVE WIRE MANAGER—WIDE EXPERIENCE. Expert publicist. Community builder. Best references. Salary or percentage. HARRY L. MOLLER, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

BACKED BY 12 YEARS' EXPERIENCE AS manager and theatre operator. Will accept any offer anywhere. Can furnish references. BOX 129A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

AT LIBERTY—15 YEARS' EXPERIENCE—sound operator—start $15.00 a week. H. SWATEK, 18 W. 9th St., La Salle, Ill.

THEATRE POSTER ARTIST, SIGN PAINTER, young, experienced; some equipment. Salary $20. BOB SNYDER, Lock Haven, Pa.

THEATRES WANTED

WILL RENT, LEASE OR BUY WORTHWHILE theatre properties all over the country. State seating capacity, value and population. Also state condition of theatre, how equipped and what competition. BOX 122A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

TECHNICAL BOOKS

"RICHARDSON'S HAND BOOKS OF PROJECtion" in three volumes. Universally accredited as the best and most practical. Aaron Nadell's "Projection Sound Pictures." Complete information on sound equipment. Both text books complete for $12.80. QUIGLEY BOOKSHOP, 1790 Broadway, New York.

WANTED TO BUY

THREE HUNDRED SECOND-HAND THEATRE chairs wanted. Must be in good condition and comfortable style. Price must be very low. Will pay cash if suitable. BOX 131A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE

IF YOU WANT TO REPLACE ANY TYPE OF equipment with brand new material we will be glad to make an allowance on your old equipment and a better price on new equipment. Let us know what you need and what you want to exchange and we will send complete details on our proposition. EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE, c/o MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

ATTRACTIONS

FIRST CLASS STAGE AND RADIO TALENT booked direct on easy terms. Will increase your business. Name your proposition. Interested in small guarantee or percentage. BOX 123A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

CONFIRMED BY TIME

IT may have been fate that prompted the perfecting of the first Eastman motion picture film just when Edison's first projector demanded it.

But it was time's judgment of its merit that again and again confirmed Eastman film as a leader in the industry it helped to father.

Today it's Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative that points the way to new heights of accomplishment, in a new era of cinematography. Eastman Kodak Company (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors).

EASTMAN FILM

CANCEL THE DEER-HUNTING PRIVILEGES IN YOUR BALCONIES.....

...You'll Need EVERY SEAT In Your Theatre When You Play...

"PICK UP"
WITH SYLVIA SIDNEY • GEORGE RAFT

✦

"THE STORY OF TEMPLE DRAKE"

✦

MAURICE CHEVALIER
IN
"A Bedtime Story"

✦

"THE EAGLE AND THE HAWK"
WITH
FREDRIC MARCH • CARY GRANT
CAROLE LOMBARD • JACK OAKIE

✦

"INTERNATIONAL HOUSE"
WITH
PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE • W. C. FIELDS
BURNS & ALLEN • RUDY VALLEE • COL. STOOPNAGLE & BUDD • STUART ERWIN

Paramount Pictures

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

RESTORING SALARIES
RECEIPTS CLIMBING
LEADERS CONFERRING

In Two Sections—Section One

Vol. 111, No. 2 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office, at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Published Weekly by Quigley Publishing Co., Inc., at 1790 Broadway, New York. Subscription, $3.00 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. April 8, 1933

Play Ball! with these heavy sluggers for consistent home run entertainment that packs the stands

PLAYER	BATTING AVERAGE AT BAT	HITS
ANDY CLYDE	6 "SUNKISSED SWEETIES" "A FOOL ABOUT WOMEN" "BOY, OH BOY" "ARTIST'S MUDDLES" "FEELING ROSY" "LOOSE RELATIONS"	6
HARRY LANGDON MERMAID COMEDIES	4 "THE BIG FLASH" "TIRED FEET" "THE HITCH-HIKER" "KNIGHT DUTY"	4
MORAN AND MACK	3 "AS THE CROWS FLY" "TWO BLACK CROWS IN AFRICA" "A PAIR OF SOCKS"	3
TORCHY COMEDIES with RAY COOKE	4 "TORCHY'S BUSY DAY" "TORCHY ROLLS HIS OWN" "TORCHY'S KITTY COUP" "TORCHY TURNS TURTLE"	4
VANITY COMEDIES	4 "HONEYMOON BEACH" "HOLLYWOOD RUNAROUND" "KEYHOLE KATIE" "TECHNO-CRAZY"	4
BABY BURLESKS	4 "WAR BABIES" "PIE COVERED WAGON" "GLAD RAGS TO RICHES" "THE KID'S LAST FIGHT"	4
TERRY-TOONS	"THE TALE OF A SHIRT" "DOWN ON THE LEVEE" "WHO KILLED ROBIN"
BATTLE FOR LIFE
CAMERA ADVENTURES
DO YOU REMEMBER?
HODGE-PODGE	"ABOUT THE UNIVERSE" "WOMEN OF MANY LANDS"
	"CALIFORNIA" "GEORGIA TECH"

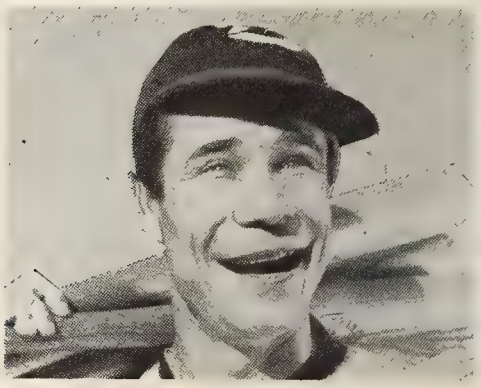
Educational Pictures
"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

DISTRIBUTED IN U. S. A. BY FOX FILM CORPORATION

featuring

THIS AD CAMPAIGN BROUGHT BIG MONEY!

It was used successfully in Boston and Chicago, the first two engagements of "White Sister" at popular prices. When you advertise the picture use the line "Enjoy it simultaneously with its $2 engagement at the Astor Theatre, N. Y."



Get these special mats from M-G-M Ad Dept. 1540 B'way, N. Y. C.

THESE DAYS OTHER COMPANIES ARE SURPRISED WHEN THEY DELIVER A HIT... WARNER BROS. ARE SURPRISED WHEN THEY DON'T

NO SURPRISES
PLANNED box-offic famous all-star produ
the industry is relyi seats filled for th

APR. 1—WARREN WILLIAM in "THE MIND READER"†

APR. 22—JOE E. BROWN
in "ELMER THE GREAT"†

P. S.—We haven't been surprised in months, thanks to—

"42nd STREET"—Held over in 95% of its engagements.

"HARD TO HANDLE"—Rated box-office champion in national exhibitor poll.

"KING'S VACATION"—Also named box-office champion by exhibitor vote.

"THE KEYHOLE"—"Drawing 'em big at Radio City, beating last week."—Variety

"GRAND SLAM"—"Making everybody happy at Keith's, Cincy."—Variety

"GIRL MISSING"—"Nice net at Earle, Washington."—Variety

LORETTA YOUNG
in "SHE HAD TO SAY YES"†

FAMOUS QUOTATIONS

"Just a few lines of appreciation far the best pictures of the year — produced by Warner Bros."— Mrs. I. Brotman, Avaloe Thea., Chicago, Ill.

ust CAREFULLY values — in Warners' ine-up . . . the pictures on to keep theatre
next two months!

APR. 8—BETTE DAVIS
in "EX-LADY"*

R. 29—JAMES CAGNEY
PICTURE SNATCHER"

ARBARA STANWYCK
in "BABY FACE"*

APR. 15—BARTHELMESS
in "CENTRAL AIRPORT"†

IAY 6—RUTH CHATTERTON
in "LILLY TURNER"†

MAY 13—GEORGE ARLISS in "THE WORKING MAN"*

MAY 20—ED. G. ROBINSON
in "THE LITTLE GIANT"†

MAY 27—DOUG. FAIRBANKS, Jr. in "THE LIFE OF JIMMY DOLAN"*

We told you America's pocketbook was "open for business." We kept the faith — and gave you the pictures. So now give credit where credit is due . . . .

THANKS A LOT TO WARNER BROS. FOR THESE HEADLINES —

Wait for Baby, in "GOLD DIGGERS OF 1933"

*A Warner Bros. Picture . . †A First National Picture . . Vitagraph, Inc., Distributors

GET YOURSELF THE CREAM

OF EASTER WEEK TRADE!

Let others scramble for the skim milk

Play the greatest picture show business has ever known on the fattest profit week in the calendar. But you'd better hurry and date it in . . . other exhibitors have the same smart idea!

PICTURE of the GENERATION

A FOX ACHIEVEMENT

APR -8 1933
©CIB 187132

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. III, No. 2 — April 8, 1933

"GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE," so enthusiastically rated by reviewers, is going to have a very good press. A merry time will be had by the commentators, most likely to the profit of the box office.

The first large calibre detonation came this week from Mr. Walter Lippmann, no less, the pungent intellectual daily philosopher of the New York Herald Tribune, who writes from Santa Monica, after seeing the picture, and who, not so much to our surprise, positively is not amused.

The acutely intelligent Mr. Lippmann in fact devotes a column to complaint that "the body politic is one kind of body that Hollywood has not learned about." He holds that "as a sample of what the movies can do for the political education of mankind, 'Gabriel' is not so promising. . . . The world of 'Gabriel' is the infantile world of irresistible wishes. More specifically, it is a dramatization of Mr. Hearst's editorials."

After summarizing the plot action of the picture, Mr. Lippmann epilogues: "So I say, long live the great lovers of the screen, the cute ones and the dark purple ones, the wistful ones and the man-eaters. They fill the vacant hours and they have no ax to grind except at the box office."

This is all a lot of fun, even if Mr. Lippmann does not find "Gabriel" quite satisfactory as a tract of political education. One might inquire if anyone expected it to be. Up to this time it had been our impression that "Gabriel" was just a motion picture.

One might suspect that the Tribune's profound editorial writer and political scholar is just a bit upset at finding his locale taken over for the moment as a movie location. He need be no more disturbed about that than by the editorial utterances of Mr. Hearst and his papers, in a competitive sense. Their audiences are far from identical. There is further the devastating possibility that Mr. Lippmann, who is so engaged in making sense out of politics, may be in fact considerably more in error than Mr. Hearst who makes verbal printed drama and movies out of the same raw, raw materials. In our opinion the average voter does not perceptibly outrate the average motion picture consumer.

Mr. Lippmann has clearly missed the point and purpose and nature of both the motion picture and Mr. William Randolph Hearst. Apparently none of Mr. Lippmann's newspaper experience has been in close contact with the Hearst editorial machinery or he would not be surprised about "irresistible wishes" or deal with them so lightly. He does not remember, for instance, that when Mr. Richard Harding Davis cabled for permission to come home from Cuba because "nothing was going to happen," he received from Mr. Hearst a cable: "You write stories, I will supply war."

If "Gabriel" is good motion picture entertainment, which it seems to be, politics may safely be left to the politicians, and Mr. Lippmann. The picture was not made for him anyway.

THE RASPBERRY MARKET

IN the days of '98 and the Alaskan gold rush raspberries brought twenty-five cents apiece, paid in "dust," at Nome. They were worth it, if one had both the appetite for raspberries and the "dust." Or in any event it did not matter very much because the gross could stand it. There came a time, however, when there was no longer such a market for raspberries at Nome. If this were an allegory, instead of a bit of history, we could do a handsome job of pointing to some contemporary raspberries that a certain great industry continues to buy despite the shortage of "dust." One handsome basket of such raspberries is a continued expenditure of large sums to tell one per cent of the population, in alleged national media, about part of the screen's product.

△ △ △

AGRICULTURAL NOTE

SOME current newspaper editorials have discussed a demand for motion pictures "firmly grounded in American soil." Let us hasten to make emphatic to certain producers that "soil" is not always synonymous with "dirt."

△ △ △

OVERWORKING THE AIR

IT is not entirely unreasonable for the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of St. Louis, eastern Missouri and southern Illinois to ask that screen stars stay off the air between 7 and 9 o'clock in the evening. That's only fair to the consumers who might get confused. Also there's a thought in the shrewd radio philosophy of Mr. Floyd Gibbons, who has occasionally remarked that there is no commercial sense in being so continually before the public that it can get fed up. It might be said that no one can amuse all the people all the time.

△ △ △

ADVICE TO MOTHERS

A RADICAL new notion is offered to club women by Mrs. Walter Ferguson, writing in the New York World Telegram, when she suggests that "to adjust the movie to suit the child instead of teaching the child to discriminate between good and bad pictures is to begin at the wrong end of the problem." Mrs. Ferguson does not incline to the notion of making this a perfect world for children by "trying to take everything and everybody in hand." She thinks mothers should raise their own.

△ △ △

The Connecticut trout season opens April 15. Persons desiring to see the editor on that date may wait, at their own risk, at the falls of the Silvermine River in Fairfield County.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD — MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

THIS WEEK - - - -

AIR COMPETITION

In part to "save the motion picture industry from destruction from within its own ranks," the MPTO of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois last week offered an "earnest prayer" via resolution that film stars cease broadcasting during evening hours of heaviest theatre attendance. Honored should be goggle-eyed Eddie Cantor, coffee comedian, by specific mention. From the other side of the fence comes this of National Broadcasting: its ablest air-fillers are proving the film theatre's best stage attractions. . . .

NAZI HAMMER

From the scenarist's typewriter to the benighted office of Hitler's Minister of Propaganda and Popular Enlightenment, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, must go all scripts of German films, last week reported English producer Victor Saville, returned to London from Berlin. Held are all screen yarns not militaristic, not pro-Nazi in implication at least. Seemingly a strange exception to this Nazi hammer is the product of Ufa. Obvious, however, becomes the reason when it is understood Ufa's head is Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, Hitler ally. . . .

BENEFIT RACKETEERS

Disgusted have become New York legitimate performers with unending demands on their time to partake of benefits for this, that, the other thing. Meetings "to do something" have resulted in the Actors' Benefit Association, to investigate benefit requests. Elected president was Broadwayite Eddie Dowling. If the Association approves a benefit, one-quarter of the receipts must go to theatrical charity. Thus it is hoped to terminate what has nearly become a new racket. . . .

FASCIST JUSTICE

Swiftly to jail last week marched three of five directors of Italy's Luce Institute, government agency which controls Italian production, distribution, charged with embezzlement of millions of lire and there to languish for five years. Anxious are Mussolini's officials to question Baron Alessandro Sardi, the Institute's president, when he returns to Rome from Chicago. . . .

LISTENERS

About a radio receiving set late last Saturday night, and into the early hours of Sunday a family grouped itself. Its head was Franklin Roosevelt, its residence the White House. At New York's Capitol theatre, commencing at midnight, some 150 "names" of screen, stage, radio fame, gathered in a huge benefit performance, its object a White House swimming pool and exercise for the President. Already approved by Congress, the pool will shortly be a reality rather than a dream of recent Hollywood-baiter George M. Cohan. . . .

PIONEERS REMEMBERED

Many and many a year ago the Freres (Brothers), Lumiere, from their Paris workshop, evolved mechanism then momentous, still important to the far-flung motion picture industry. Recently in Rotterdam, Holland, was opened the Theater Lumiere, specifically honoring the pioneering brothers of early cinematography. To S. den Hartogh, the theatre's manager, goes credit for thus memorializing a name well filling a page in the screen's history. . . .

FRESHMEN SELECT

Momentous is the result of a statistical compilation emanating from "The Dink," Princeton publication, which recently canvassed tiny-capped freshmen anent their screen preferences. Among men the winner was Walt Disney's famed Mickey Mouse, followed by Lionel Barrymore, Fredric March, George Arliss. Not Minny Mouse, but Norma Shearer led the preferred women. After her: Joan Crawford, Constance Cummings, Helen Hayes. . . .

In This Issue

Restoration of full salaries begins, with Columbia first to act; theatre receipts show decided upturn; industry leaders to confer in Hollywood — Page 9

Fox financial reorganization plan is launched as receivership move is dropped — Page 11

Benjamin De Casseres comments on screen possibilities of Broadway stage plays — Page 10

British exhibitors teach a lesson to American theatre owners on effective organization — page 15

FEATURES

Editorial — Page 7
The Camera Reports — Page 13
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum — Page 36
Asides and Interludes — Page 17

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me — Page 38
Showmen's Reviews — Page 23
Managers Round Table — Page 41
Short Features — Page 37
Technological — Page 53
Chicago — Page 37
The Release Chart — Page 47
Box Office Receipts — Page 30
Classified Advertising — Page 54

POLA'S MODESTY

Claiming the Folies Bergere no alma mater of hers, Pola Negri, in Paris filming Alexander Dumas' "The Queen's Necklace," balked, refused when was reached the scene requiring that she bare her breast to the test of red hot irons. Immodest, she contended, and the producers withheld royalties due her and her American agent, Edwin Miles Fadman. To the Paris court of appeals rushed the actress, seeking redress, records a U. P. dispatch. Strangely ironical is the situation of a Paris court deciding what is, what is not immodesty. . . .

NOVELISTS' SIDE LINE

Dear to the heart, helptul to the pocket of the American novelist has long been the "side lines" of his profession. On that theory last week famed novelist Will Irwin, speaking to the National Writers Club, threw a wet blanket, declared novelists will in future have to depend on their book sales for a living. The motion picture industry, most prolific "side line," is increasingly preparing its own material, said Writer Irwin. Equally, serial rights, magazine pay are declining. . . .

SCREEN DRAMATURGY

All-important to the production of competent motion pictures is a precise knowledge of screen dramaturgy, as a most vital adjunct to the scientific and technical superiority which, "unfortunately, does not guarantee the product." On this premise has Boris V. Morkovin, University of Southern California Ph. D. and Department of Cinematography head, instituted a course in "a precise scientific method in the production of motion pictures." To the course Professor Morkovin hopes to entice studio employees. Most important and difficult aspect of screen dramaturgy, declares he, is the building-up of the mounting line of emotional excitement, a term echoing much of the schoolroom, little of the studio. . . .

FRENCH TROUBLES

Not alone in breasting tides of business adversity are American producers, distributors, exhibitors, last week indicated Henri Diamant-Berger, French director, in New York from Paris. A combination of causes, notably 60 per cent loss in grosses, expensive product from America, unemployment, taxes have forced a negative cost revision by French producers. While that revision becomes actuality, French production is at a standstill. Closed is Paramount's Joinville studio, among others. For the independent in France M. Diamant-Berger sees a current opportunity. . . .

RESTORING PAY BEGINS; THEATRE RECEIPTS RISING

Columbia First To Lift Industry-wide Salary Reduction; Theatre Grosses Increase 40 Per Cent in a Week

Abandonment of the industry's emergency salary reduction order got under way this week and grosses at motion picture theatres continued improving, as leaders shifted to Hollywood the scene of their inter-company discussions on the many problems of readjustment.

Columbia abrogated the 25 and 50 per cent reduction in salaries, effective immediately, and it is believed that this action will precipitate similar moves by other large corporations before the expiration on April 30 of the prescribed eight weeks period. Mentioned as likely prospects for early return to the old wage scale are MGM, Warner, United Artists and RKO. Officials of these corporations, however, would not discuss the situation, although it was definitely indicated that the cut would not continue beyond the eight weeks.

In Hollywood, the Academy's emergency committee of workers met with producers throughout Tuesday night and out of the conference came the announcement that every company able to restore salaries to full 100 per cent, would do so, acting individually, before the eight-week date. Saturday noon was set as the deadline when the studios are to submit to the Academy workers all data on earnings, which will be the yardstick for proving ability or inability to pay.

May Act on Salary Situation

Some action on the salary situation may be taken when the industry leaders meet in Hollywood next week, although late Wednesday producers officially and vigorously denied reports in Hollywood that the executives were traveling westward to effect permanent salary reductions, possibly of 25 per cent.

Much of the speculation and worriment over conditions created by the recent banking situation appears to have vanished, and plans were well organized for effecting a solution of many problems on a cooperative scale.

Following a directors' meeting Tuesday at the offices of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, it was announced that chief executives of most of the large companies and Will H. Hays, president of the MPPDA, would attend the conferences on the Coast next week. Thereby another precedent was established, with business and financial leaders of New York and the production executives of Hollywood discussing intra-industry problems in one group.

"There is not a thing about the motion picture business that will not be discussed," according to an MPPDA executive. "The company heads will acquaint themselves with each other's problems—and there are plenty of them."

Besides salaries, it was indicated that negative costs, quantity of feature production, and further inter-changing of players are subjects which probably will come up. Financial matters are one of the most important subjects on the program, likewise the five-point program suggested last week by Mr. Hays, including decentralization, physical distribution integration, reduced administrative cost and an increased flow of talent to the studios, adjustment of the patent structure, and enlargement of the work of self-regulation of the industry.

Complete Representation

Among those to make the trip westward are M. H. Aylesworth, RKO president; R. H. Cochrane, vice-president of Universal; Harry Cohn, Columbia president; Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's; Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros.; Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount Publix; and Emanuel Cohen, studio head of Paramount, now in New York.

With B. B. Kahane and Merian C. Cooper on hand in Hollywood for RKO Radio; the Carl Laemmles for Universal; Louis B. Mayer, for MGM; Jack L. Warner and Darryl Zanuck, for Warners; Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, Winfield Sheehan for Fox, and Sidney R. Kent due there this week, the representation becomes complete.

The controversy between studio unions who are refusing to accept the 25 per cent salary cut and the producers, is in statu quo pending conferences in New York April 17 between officials of the IATSE, the American Federation of Musicians, and Pat Casey, chairman of the producers' committee. The unions have been paid at their regular scale. Conferences have been postponed several times the last fortnight.

Receipts Rapidly Increase

With the alleviation of the general business situation, the motion picture industry the last three weeks has begun to show definite signs of improvement. Key cities throughout the country are definitely staging a comeback at the box office, and in five of these cities grosses are higher than before the bank holiday. These five are Minneapolis, St. Paul, Denver, Portland, Ore., and Washington, while in Montreal, Philadelphia and Buffalo receipts are rising.

Grosses had shown a steady decline from January 14 until February 11, falling off approximately 16 per cent. From February 11 to the 18th, receipts rallied about 7 per cent and maintained a fairly even level for one week, after which a slight decrease was noted until March 4, when the nationwide bank holiday was instituted. During the following week grosses dropped 25 per cent. Between March 11 and March 18 there was little improvement, but on March 18 receipts jumped rapidly, increasing 40 per cent. The cities used for the eleven weeks' survey are Boston, Chicago, Hollywood, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Portland and San Francisco. [Chart on page 16]

While theatres in various territories are

Executives of Distributors Going to Coast for Conferences With Producers Representing All the Large Companies making progress with the unions in making wage reductions, Philadelphia officials of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners unit agreed this week that wholesale closing of theatres had been averted through the cooperation of exchanges to cooperate in rental adjustments. Such adjustments, however, are granted only in individual cases.

Akron Unions Accept Cut

Late last week stagehands in Akron accepted a 25 per cent cut in salaries and operators took a 27 per cent slash. In Cincinnati, independent exhibitors asked operators to accept cuts ranging from 10 to 40 per cent. The request is now under consideration. Eighty theatres in Cleveland reopened Friday as a result of an agreement reached Tuesday whereby operators and stagehands accept 25 per cent cuts until August 1. As musicians refused to accept the cut Loew's State and the RKO Palace will reopen with pictures only. Credit for ending the three-week moratorium goes to Mayor Ray Miller. In Memphis, all circuit houses and M. A. Lightman's group will be closed next week unless unions accept the 25 per cent cut. In anticipation of a settlement, closing of four Loew and RKO houses in Columbus has been postponed a week. On Saturday independent exhibitors in Hudson county, New Jersey, advised Operators' Local 386 that unless they get a 33 1-3 per cent cut, unaffiliated houses will go dark. Sixteen theatres would be affected.

Projectionists in Joplin, Mo., took a 23 per cent cut this week following threatened closure. Stagehands accepted a 10 per cent reduction. Theatres in the Kansas City territory are making progress with the unions in negotiating cuts, according to latest reports. Topeka, Wichita, Joplin and Springfield are among the cities where unions have agreed to demands for one-man-in-a-booth. Union leaders from Illinois and New York are in Kansas City seeking a solution for the labor difficulties there. A city-wide shutdown of theatres in Mansfield, Ohio, was averted last week when operators accepted a 20 per cent cut, effective until September 1. Voluntary wage reductions of from 12 to 15 per cent for a 12-week period were granted the Orpheum theatre in New Orleans this week.

After two weeks of controversy, union operators in Oklahoma City agreed to a 25 per cent cut, for 12 weeks.

As a result of President Roosevelt's request to Congress for a $2,000,000,000 bond issue to curtail farm debts, exhibitors in the farming areas are reported to have an optimistic outlook. Everywhere the tension has lessened and the industry is expected to benefit accordingly.

'A GOLD MINE FOR THE PRODUCER'

But Coward, Lunt and Fontanne Should Play in It, Says De Casseres of "Design for Living"

by BENJAMIN DE CASSERES

DESIGN FOR LIVING

The title of Noel Coward's new play, starring himself, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, is in reality a design for keeping the three of them alive for the rest of their lifetimes. It is a whirlwind hit. It bites, sizzles, cuts, chortles, plays loose-and-loose with the good old sex triangle, and finally goes out in a whirlwind of haw-haws! in which the woman, on a couch with her two lovers in their pajamas (her husband's) and bare feet, gives her heavy-headed husband the air.

Morality, conventions, your Aunt Hattie and Mrs. Grundy? Coward blows the whole thing over the mill-roof. It is a sex fable of the unimportance of love—as fine a piece of sophisticated and brash humbug as ever came out of a post-war brain.

First act is in Paris. Gilda (Miss Fontanne) is living with Otto (Lunt). While Otto is away she takes on Leo (Coward). Now, Otto and Leo are "dear friends." Leo and Gilda tell Otto what happened while he was away trying to sell a picture (this is all bohemian-arty stuff). Otto quits in a riotously dramatic and comic scene.

Second act: London. Here the situation is reversed. Gilda is living with Leo. Otto comes in on them. Another row. This is a corking act. An uproariously funny drinking scene between Lunt and Coward.

Third act: New York. Gilda is now married to a rich art dealer. She has given both Otto and Leo the air at the end of the second act.

Otto and Leo have become closer friends than ever. The bond is their common love for Gilda. They get into Gilda's house. Gilda's heart opens to them both as of yore —and in a terrific curtain in which the husband storms and rants at the shamelessness and immorality of their lives they all three give him the boot of ridicule.

There are at least a dozen amusing angles in this play. Smartness is squeezed to its last curlicue. Coward, Lunt and Fontanne are superb. If they can do this picture, it will be a gold mine for the producer. It is all pure Lubitsch.

Picture value (with the stage stars), 100 per cent.

WE THE PEOPLE

The films are getting ready to go beer and wine. That'll be fun. But will they ever go Communist or radical propagandist? I hope not. When pictures lose their primal quality, which is to amuse, to provide an escape, a howling, nonsensical, dramatic escape from the wear-and-tear of looking for rent and food money, then it will be time to junk the industry.

All of which is preliminary to saying that Elmer Rice has gone Communist haywire. He has, therefore (it's cause and effect), produced the play that gave me the most poignant pain not in the neck from which I have suffered this season.

"We the people," in 20 scenes, is slovenly, commonplace, bromidic, photographic, tabloid, and has nothing but dummy characters out of the old clothes-closet.

There is only one gleam of creational vitality in the play—the scene in which the Presidency of the United States is offered to a stuffed-shirt college President by a bunch of millionaires around bottles of "1812 cognac."

The rest is about strikes, poverty, park-bench necking, a court-room, soap-boxes and almost everything you don't want to think of centering around the declining fortunes of the Davis family.

I hope Hollywood has nothing to do with this mess. Isn't there enough gloom in the business already?

Picture value, minus zero.

GOOD WOMAN, POOR THING

This play by Dillard Long lacks pace. There is some good dialogue here and there, but the situations are somewhat moth-eaten.

Bill Smith is a bachelor. He lives in a large country house. Bill remains a bachelor because his boyhood tootsy, Lelia, married a swell Englishman because her dad was broke. After dad went to Congress things picked up—for dad.

So Lelia chucks the Englishman in a Paris law court and looks in on her Youthful Romance, Bill. She says Let's! And so they get married.

Now the snap in it Looms. Bill has had a Christine on his route. Lelia gives her twenty thousand to take the air. But Christine is a double-crossing plat. blonde. Makes date with Bill. Lelia discovers there is a hotel suite reserved.

So Lelia picks up a fellow just called John at Lake Placid. Lelia won't let him in the hotel room at night—she is just a good woman, poor thing!

And, anyhow, Christine lets go of Bill and remarries a former husband. Bill sasses it out with Lelia. Kiss-out.

Irene Purcell was Lelia. She was good in a play that might be regilded for the everyday country trade.

Picture value, 20 per cent.

BIG NIGHT

The Group Theatre's second production of the season was "Big Night," by Dawn Powell. It's a sort of lecherous, drunken "The Doll's House"; but it is done in an up-to-date manner, which means crudely and butcheringly.

The touching theme of the play is: Should a wife submit to some fellow who can throw her husband a big advertising account if the husband doesn't much care so long as he gets the account? I've been told this is one of the clauses in our post-war morality code. Knowing what I know myself, I think Nero was just a Boy Scout.

Ed Bonney throws a party in his apartment for Bert Schwartz, of Chicago, who has a lot of chain-store advertising to give out. Ed's wife Myra loathes this fellow Schwartz, who takes wives as bonuses for his advertising-account favors.

Well, there's a terrible souse party, a regular DeMille film orgy. Ed, the husband, says it's all right if Schwartz kisses her and embraces her—it means jack. Dirty Bert Schwartz doesn't remember anything after the kiss. Neither does Dirty Ed. Bonney, the husband.

Comes the morning. Ed. questions his wife. She lies; makes him believe that she and Schwartz were uh-uh. Then Schwartz gives Ed. his account. That satisfies Ed. But Myra, like Ibsen's Nora, clears out of the joint—for a Higher Life.

The play as a play is odoriferous and punky-junky.

Picture value, 25 per cent.

LATE ONE EVENING

Harry C. Bannister put on "Late One Evening," a play in 10 scenes, by A. and W. Carten, that probably made some Hollywood script-writer's desk before the first curtain went up on the thing. It gave 31 actors work, which is the best thing I can say about this stage play.

For the conventional type of picture that you can guess at while you snooze, "Late One Evening" contains all the usual things that made the Biograph famous.

He runs her down in a motor car. He is a rich, drunken, would-be novelist. She was about to marry a Duke or something. Love. Both give up their simoleons (cock-a-doodle-do!) and face life down thar where a man is a bum and a woman goes dowdy. He writes his best-seller (and you know what they are).

Then come enough scenes to fill out 12 reels of virgin film: infidelity, the Riviera, fluffs, fluffs, fluffs, cafés, prison, and everything except a picture of Marse Hitler speaking.

It's good "program stuff," as we used to say, for the 10-cent trade.

Picture value, 60 per cent.

Eastman Earnings $6,058,748 Last Year

Eastman Kodak's earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1932, totaled $6,058,748 after taxes and depreciation. This compares with $13,408,785 in the year ended Dec. 26, 1931. The 1932 profit equaled $2.52 a share on common against $5.78 in the preceding year.

Four quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent were declared in 1932 on preferred, two quarterly dividends of $1.25 and two of 75 cents on common.

STRENGTHENING OF FOX AWAITED FROM FINANCIAL REORGANIZATION

Receivership Petition Withdrawn; Kent Goes West To Arrange for More Product; Wesco Theatres Being Revised

The Fox financial machinery is being repaired. Plans for a complete overhauling of the corporation's finances soon will be announced by the management and its bank affiliates. Meanwhile, arrangements have been made for taking care of interest due on debentures; Sidney R. Kent, president, has gone to the Coast to arrange for more product for theatres; reorganization of the company's largest theatre subsidiary is under way, and "discontented" minority stockholders indicated confidence when they withdrew a receivership petition.

Martin C. Ansorge, attorney for Benjamin Shellenberg, stockholder of Brookline, Mass., called off the petition for a receiver when he appeared before Judge John C. Knox last Monday in federal court in New York. Admitting that the appointment of a receiver would interfere with and possibly disrupt plans for financial reorganization, Mr. Ansorge indicated that at a hastily called meeting last Thursday, Fox officials made "earnest representations that practical and constructive plans are now being developed for the continuation of the company upon a profitable basis." Present at the conference, which was held in Fox's headquarters on Tenth avenue, were Mr. Kent and Mr. Ansorge; a representative of General Theatres Equipment, Inc., holder of the majority stock of Fox Film, and the corporation's counsel, Richard E. Dwight, of Hughes, Schurman and Dwight.

Accounting Still Sought

The minority action for an accounting was continued, however. It named all officers, Chase Securities Corp., and the following Fox directors: Matthew C. Brush, David K. E. Bruce, Otto Koegel and Murray Dodge. The defendants have until April 17 to file an answer. Fox denied all allegations and informed Attorney Ansorge that negotiations are also in progress for reorganizing Wesco Corporation, largest theatre subsidiary, to preserve a substantial interest in Wesco or its subsidiaries for Fox Film Corporation. Stockholder Shellenberg's action stated that Wesco could not pay the principal of its gold notes, amounting to $15,000,000 and due last Saturday along with $900,000 in semi-annual interest on $30,000,000 of Fox Film gold debentures.

Interest payments on the debentures were made Saturday to minority holders, but the large holders are understood to have waived payment to conserve the company's cash resources. The banking interests are said to hold about 95 per cent of the 6 per cent notes. They are cooperating in efforts to reorganize the company.

According to the complaint, Chase Securities by successive steps has acquired control of the Fox company and the action names Chase for this reason.

The company already had passed through one readjustment early in 1930 as a result of the rapid expansion of the exhibiting division which led to an overextended financial condition. At that time control was acquired by General Theatres Equipment. With General going into receivership in March, 1932, control of Fox Film virtually passed into the hands of Chase banking interests which recently relinquished their operating control.

Interviewed as the Chief stopped over at Kansas City en route to California, Mr. Kent refused to discuss the corporation's reorganization plans, the existence of which have been variously reported along Broadway and in Wall Street. Nor could he estimate how long their completion would require. He expects to stay in Hollywood until April 15, and probably will bring back to New York at least a tentative outline of next season's product.

"No Receivership": Kent

The corporation's present position, according to Mr. Kent, does not permit of restoration of the 25-50 per cent salary cut before the conclusion of the eight-week period which all companies agreed to. However, the week's developments and a statement by Mr. Kent indicated that the corporation would not go through receivership. "Take it from me," he said, "there will be no receivership for Fox. Those who counted us out have made the wrong guess."

In the company's answer to the Shellenberg suit Friday it was declared that none of the present directorate of Fox Film Corporation was an officer, "agent or employee of Chase Securities Corporation," and that no member of the board was in any way affiliated with, or under the domination of, that corporation.

With the announcement Monday that Robert T. Kane, European director of Paramount operations, had resigned to take up a position with Fox Film, it was reported that Ike Blumenthal already had been selected to assume Mr. Kane's duties in Paris. Mr. Kane is expected in this country soon for conferences, after which he will return to Europe to take charge of production units he has been organizing the last six weeks.

Estimated savings to Educational by the physical distribution merger with Fox are supposed to be $20,000 weekly. The sales department of Educational is said to have turned over $4,000,000 in contracts to be serviced by Fox, which has lessened Fox's cost of distribution.

Attorneys for creditors of Fox West Coast, meeting in Los Angeles Tuesday night, elected the following trustees in bankruptcy under $50,000 bonds each: Charles Skouras, brother of Spyros and George Skouras; W. H. Moore, Jr., Los Angeles attorney, and Charles C. Irwin, western manager of S. W. Straus Co.

Wesco, parent corporation, is the largest creditor of West Coast Theatres, claiming $19,000,000. National Theatre Supply Company claims $300,000; Universal, $93,000; and Electrical Research Products, Inc., $105,000. Other creditors will be listed April 13.

Minority creditors of Fox Midwesco are fighting in Milwaukee for operation of 20 theatres. Subsidiaries specifically mentioned were Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises and Statewide Theatres. The minority group claims that J. J. Goetz, trustee in bankruptcy, should operate the 20 theatres solely for the benefit of creditors. Equipment out of some Midwesco houses is being sold "under the hammer."

Webb Syndicate Gets Full Control of Pathe Exchange

By a deal consummated this week a syndicate formed by Stuart W. Webb, president of Pathe Exchange, Inc., acquired the stock holdings in the corporation of Joseph P. Kennedy, Elisha Walker and Jeremiah Millbank and related groups. This gives the Webb administration complete control of the corporation. The transaction concerned was in the 8 per cent preferred stock, the preference A and the corporation's bonds.

"This may be taken to indicate," observed Mr. Webb, "that Pathe Exchange, Inc., is not necessarily, contrary to some opinion, in the process of liquidation."

In January of 1931 Pathe Exchange, Inc., sold to RKO various assets including the studios at Culver City, star contracts, feature negatives and Pathe News and Review.

Among the important assets retained by the corporation were the Pathe interest, some 49 per cent, in the Dupont Film Manufacturing Company, makers of Dupont raw stock, and the Pathe laboratories at Bound Brook, New Jersey, together with a considerable library of film negatives of assorted vintages.

Mr. Webb came into the Pathe organization in sequel to the participation of the late Guy C. Currier, Boston attorney and capitalist, in the operations of Joseph P. Kennedy in the affairs of FBO, the concern which was sold to the Radio Corporation of America and related interests as their ticket of entry into the motion picture industry as producers and distributors.

Pat Garyn Leaves National Screen

W. P. ("Pat") Garyn, one of the most widely known men in the industry, resigned this week as general manager of National Screen Service. Pat Garyn came into distribution and sales from the B. F. Keith Circuit. In 1918 he joined Fox as manager of the contract department and later was for three years assistant to Winfield Sheehan, then vice-president and general manager.

Mr. Garyn made his debut as advance man with a repertory company in the Middlewest. When J. J. Murdock placed him in theatre operation, Pat Garyn was selling tickets with a circus. In 1923 he joined Goldwyn Pictures as assistant to J. R. Grainger, general sales manager. When Goldwyn merged with Metro, Garyn moved over to MGM as central district sales manager. In 1925 he resigned to reenter exhibition. After disposing of a large circuit in northern New Jersey he joined National Screen Service. He has opened temporary offices at 342 Madison avenue, New York.

PARAMOUNT RECEIVER RULING IS AWAITED

Appeals Judges Take Under Advisement Show Cause Order Against Company and Zukor and Hilles; The RKO Situation

The United States court of appeals in New York will determine the status of the Paramount Publix receivership probably before the end of this week. The naming of a trustee has been postponed pending the court's decision.

Judges Martin T. Manton, Harrie B. Chase and Learned Hand, sitting in the court of appeals, in New York, took under advisement Monday an order obtained last week by six bondholders calling on Paramount and Receivers Adolph Zukor and Charles D. Hilles to show cause why they should not be restrained from any further action in the receivership.

The court informed Godfrey Goldmark, attorney for the corporation, and Greenville W. Clark, of receivers' counsel, that they should postpone for a week the April 3 creditors' meeting for electing a trustee.

The petitioning bondholders also asked the circuit court to restrain Judge Bondy from taking any further steps in the Paramount receivership, and to provide the petitioners, represented by House, Holthusen and McCloskey, attorneys, with a transcript of testimony taken in Judge Bondy's chambers.

Victor House, for the bondholders, charged that Film Productions Corp., holding company created last year, secured titles to 23 negatives in connection with a $13,000,000 loan made to Paramount by 12 large banks, and that under the present voluntary bankruptcy the banks have preferential claims. Attorney Clark, of Root, Clark and Buckner, counsel for the receivers, told the court that the Film Productions transaction might be construed to be preferential to the bankers and that it might be set aside. Mr. Clark, arguing against delay, said "business chaos" in Paramount's 350 subsidiaries might result. He said it was "urgently necessary to put someone in power immediately to conduct this vast business."

Late Wednesday an appeal of the recent decision of Federal Judge John G. Patterson confirming the jurisdiction of Federal Judge William Bondy in proceeding with the Paramount equity receivership was filed by Saul E. Rogers, attorney for the minority stockholders.

Mrs. Maurice Goodman and Max Nathan are the principal complaining bondholders. Saul Rogers, former Fox Film attorney, represents another group, including Sumal Operating Co., Adele S. Goodman, Relmar Holding Co., and Milton and Irving L. Ernst as executors of the estate of Augusta Ernst.

Seek An Investigation

The bondholder-petitioners asked the circuit court to order a complete investigation of the Paramount Publix receivership situation, charging that the district court in New York acted without authority and without considering the validity of objections originally voiced to the receivership, allegedly created through collusive action of Paramount and the Broadway Twentieth Corp., which requested the receivership. Samuel Zirn, counsel for a number of minority bondholders, originally objected:

"At the time the petition was instituted there was an involuntary petition before the court and there also was a proceeding pending before Justice Lydon in supreme court. Yet a friendly proceeding for the benefit of bankers and not of the bondholders was begun and receivers were appointed."

On March 14, Judge Bondy permitted Ralph Kohn, as Paramount treasurer, to file a petition in bankruptcy. As a result, the current bondholding-demand that action be stayed in both the equity and voluntary bankruptcy cases.

A motion filed by another group of Paramount minority stockholders seeking dismissal of the voluntary petition in bankruptcy filed by the company was denied Wednesday by Judge Bondy. Louis Boehm, attorney, acted for the minority group.

Among those mentioned for the Paramount trusteeship are Charles D. Hilles, present co-receiver with Mr. Zukor; Joseph P. Kennedy, who has been in motion picture, but not political, retirement since he disposed of Pathe to the Radio interests, in 1930; and Frank C. Walker, treasurer of the national Democratic committee, and an affiliate of the Comerford theatre interests.

Both Mr. Zukor and Irving Trust officials have said that they would not be trustee candidates. Mr. Zukor was to leave Thursday for the Coast to survey Paramount production. Emanuel Cohen, in charge of production, was to return with Mr. Zukor.

Irving Trust executives believe that trusteeship of Paramount might interfere with their activities as trustee of the Publix circuit subsidiary, and, therefore, Irving Trust has asked the federal court to relieve Referee Davis in New York of the customary procedure of requesting creditors to vote for Irving Trust.

David Podell, Mr. Zukor's personal attorney, told the circuit court Monday that "the trustees in bankruptcy will not be the same as the receivers."

The trustee in bankruptcy supersedes the equity receivers as the federal court's representatives in the administration of the bankrupt and conservation of assets.

Stock Unlisted; New Transfer Agent

Common stock of Paramount Publix was stricken from the New York Stock Exchange on the morning of March 31.

Coincidentally, Empire Trust Company, transfer agent for Paramount Publix common stock, notified the Exchange that transfers would be made without charge up to March 31, but thereafter, Empire would continue to perform such services for such stockholders as may desire, only for a fee of $1.00 for each transfer. The Chemical Bank hereafter will charge 30 cents for each registration. Both fees are to be paid by the stockholder when certificates are presented to the transfer agent. This arrangement follows notification sent both to Empire Trust and Chemical, by the Paramount receivers, that they no longer can be responsible for charges of their services in transferring and registering stock certificates.

Following the sudden resignation 10 days ago of Leo Spitz, executive without title at the home office, duties formerly handled by Mr. Spitz were delegated to Sam Dembow and other New York officials. Differences over policy were said to have caused the split. Mr. Spitz returned immediately to his law practice in Chicago, where for years he was counsel for Balaban and Katz.

Gillham Heads Advertising Council

Formation of a new home office advertising and publicity council was announced Monday by George Schaefer, vice-president of Paramount Pictures Distributing, with Robert Gillham in charge. Among the council members is John C. Flinn as special exploitation director.

Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente, in New York last week, denied judgments aggregating $91,800, asked of Publix by Milton Feld and David Chatkin, former executives, who sued alleging breach of contract. Evans and Wood, counsel for the theatre men, said an appeal would be filed.

Judge Caffey will hold a hearing Friday to determine what costs will be awarded Paramount for defending the recent conspiracy suit brought and lost by the Quittner theatre interests of New York State.

James Roosevelt, son of the President, this week was elected to the directorial board of Metropolitan Buildings, Inc., Boston, at a reorganization meeting, which followed resignation of the entire board chosen by Paramount Publix interests. Herman Mintz, managing director since 1925, was elected president, and Charles W. Hubbard, treasurer. The new board will operate the Metropolitan and Wilbur theatres and buildings.

In Indianapolis, five theatres formerly operated by Publix-FitzPatrick-McElroy, Inc., were sold this week to the newly formed Theatrical Managers Corp., including V. U. Young, Gary, Ind.; C. J. Wolf, Wheeling, W. Va.; Pierre Goodrich and Leslie Colvin, both of Indianapolis.

Leases on the Paramount theatre at Hamilton, Ohio, and on the Paramount at Middletown, were terminated last week by Albert E. Reubens, trustee in bankruptcy for Publix Ohio Theatres. Both houses will revert to the Taft estate at Cincinnati, operating through Midland Construction Co.

The Situation at RKO

Conclusion of referee's hearings on Orpheum Circuit's bankruptcy and an application filed with Judge Bondy for formation of a new theatre corporation to acquire certain Orpheum obligations, were the principal developments in the RKO receivership.

Harold B. Franklin, who operates RKO's theatres, is conferring with M. H. Aylesworth, president, regarding his contract, which expires this week.

Hearings on the Orpheum bankruptcy were held in New York before Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn, who adjourned the session without examining officers of the corporation, or of its affiliates.

Stadium Theatres Corp. will be launched—if Judge Bondy grants permission—as a holding company for certain obligations of Orpheum, which are said to be owed to RKO, and not to Keith-Albee-Orpheum. About $2,400,000 is involved.

Albert H. Jewell, trust officer for the U. S. National Bank in Denver, was appointed receiver Monday for the Denver Orpheum. This dissolved the pool between RKO and the Huffman interests, temporarily operating five houses. Huffman may operate the Orpheum for the receiver.

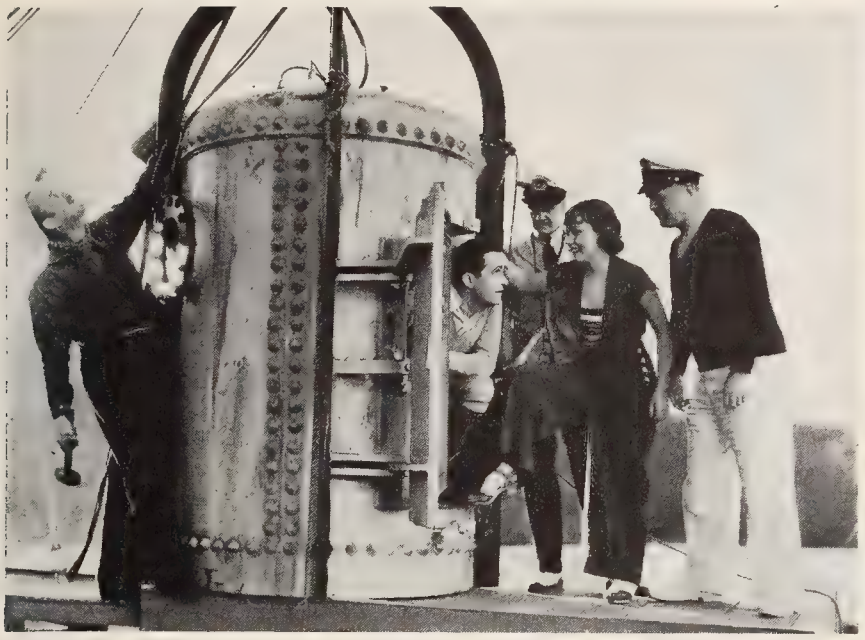
Karl Hoblitzelle took over operation of his (Texas) Interstate Amusement circuit from RKO. Interstate Circuit, Inc., of New Orleans, a new company, will operate.

RKO's Hippodrome in Cleveland, a 3,800 seater, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy Tuesday, listing liabilities at $406,575, and assets of $221,000. The lease runs until 1947, but, according to Ulmer, Berne and Gordon, the management does not contemplate reopening immediately.

In St. Louis, Circuit Judge Henry Hamilton is expected to decide at an early date whether the receivership of St. Louis Amusement Co., operating about 20 neighborhood and suburban theatres, shall be terminated. Roy F. Britton and Henri Chouteau were named temporary receivers in November, 1931. Counsel for Warners and Skouras Brothers Enterprises, Inc., which control about 92 per cent of the outstanding stock of St. Louis Amusement, have contended the receivership is unnecessary.

Powers Pictures in Receivership

Federal Judge William Bondy in New York Monday appointed Irving Trust Company receiver in bankruptcy of Powers Pictures, Inc.



U. S. Studies Cullman Charges

Department of Justice investigators conferred this week with executives of large corporations in New York in connection with the petition of Howard S. Cullman, receiver operator of the Seventh Avenue Roxy theatre, which accuses distributors of discrimination on product. Fox's "Infernal Machine," a new picture, will open at the theatre on Friday.

Simmons on the Air

Buddy Cantor, broadcaster on film topics over WRNY, New York, will interview Michael L. Simmons of Monogram Saturday at 10:45 p. m. over the air on the selection and preparation of story material for the screen.

THE CAMERA REPORTS

BOUND DOWN. Paul Page tenders Fay Wray an invitation for an unusual ride, beneath the sea, in the Columbia picture of the same title, as Paul Kelly and Trevor Bland look on. Walking home should be difficult.

THE G.B.S. The gentleman at the left being none other than George Bernard Shaw, visiting the MGM studio and there lunching at the invitation of Marian Davies. Louis B. Mayer is beside her, Clark Gable behind the mustache.

SURPRISED. The little fellow on the pedestal cannot believe his eyes (or maybe he is just embarrassed) to see usually ingenuous Gloria Stuart as a Viennese sophisticate in Universal's "The Kiss Before the Mirror."

A PROFILE. Belonging to Dorothea Wieck, brilliant German star of "Maedchen in Uniform," arrived to exercise her acknowledged talents for Paramount.

CHARMING. Is Margaret Lindsay, English actress, late of "Cavalcade," who has earned a long term Warner contract and a part with George Arliss.

JUST PALS. And there is no buzz of Hollywood scandal as Joan Crawford strolls the MGM studio sidewalk with young Jackie Cooper, whom she calls her favorite leading man. What a "date" for a small boy!

CAUGHT. In a distinctly undignified position was Warner director William Wellman when the still cameraman "snuk" up on him for this silhouette effect. He is either much amazed or tensely gripped by a scene of his own devising in Richard Barthelmess' latest, "Breadline."

LITTLE GIANT. (Above) Which is doubtless Edward G. Robinson's conception of newly arrived "Edward Junior" and incidentally the title of his next Warner film. "Mother" was Gladys Lloyd of the stage.

NO WARNING. (Below) A moment after the shutter snapped, the horse reared sharply, throwing Marlene Dietrich heavily, causing a slight concussion, during filming of Paramount's "Song of Songs."

CHEATING. Efficient but highly unethical is the method of handling those blankety-blank jig-saw puzzles devised by Mark Sandrich, Radio director, and June Brewster, comedy player in "Maiden Cruise." It appears that pretty Miss June remembered to put on all her jewelry, but somehow she forgot to remember her dress.

CALM BEAUTY. Distinguishes the features of the veteran Betty Blythe, here seen in a modern coiffure, as in Fox's "Pilgrimage."

BRITISH EXHIBITORS GIVE LESSON IN ORGANIZING TO GET TAX RELIEF

Trailers Shown in 3,600 Theatres; Tax Payments of Last Year Also Placed Before Chancellor of the Exchequer

by BERNARD CHARMAN

London Correspondent

More than $23,000 has been spent by the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association, according to an official, in organizing its fight for entertainment tax relief in the budget to be introduced in Parliament this spring by Chancellor Neville of the Exchequer.

Under the association's trailer plan, now in operation, audiences are being regaled by a fresh effort each week, each trailer consisting of 300 to 400 feet of entertainment, to which is attached the appeal that to press for tax relief is in the interests of the public.

As there are 3,600 theatres in membership with the CEA, representing within a fraction of 100 per cent of the halls operative in Great Britain, there is no fear that any section of the cinema public will be overlooked. Even infrequent patrons should see at least one of the six films which comprise the group. Millions of blanks have been circulated to the theatres, on which managers are obtaining signatures.

Tax Statements Used

But beyond this campaign, each member of the CEA is being pressed for a return of his tax payments in the past year, in order that a true indication of the extent of the burden may be placed before the chancellor.

When a similar appeal was made to exhibitors last year, only about 1,200—one-third of the membership—replied. The chancellor then made the obvious retort that it was only reasonable to assume that the other two-thirds were not feeling any hardship. The true explanation, of course, was that the exhibitor feared the figures would become public and the renter would have a watertight indication of the strength of his theatre.

W. R. Fuller, general secretary of the CEA, and George Archibald, until lately editor of the Cinematograph Times (organ of the association), got through a colossal amount of work in order to get the campaign going.

Not only did they prepare twenty rough scenarios for the Gaumont-British studio to work on, but they fixed the purchase of raw stock, the printing of the positives (more than 1,100,000 feet of film was printed) and a host of other tasks.

To the indefatigable workers at the CEA headquarters the members owe a great debt, whether the campaign is successful or unsuccessful. They also owe thanks to the Gaumont-British studios who produced the trailers free of cost, the renting firms distributing them, the motor transport companies carrying them free of cost, and the Kodak company who supplied raw stock at a special rate.

A declaration of a new British color process in London brought unanimous agreement of technical experts that better results were shown than had ever before been seen. The process, known as the Spicer-Dufay system, is the result of many years of research, and is considered to yield not only more natural tones, but a greater range.

▽

Film Percentage Rises

Figures issued by the Board of Trade reveal the important part played in England by British production today. The figures show the percentage of British film included in the full quantity available for distribution during the last five years. The percentages are:

1928	13.6
1929	11.5
1930	14.7
1931	16.7
1932	22.0

With greater facilities for production than ever, British studios probably will easily top the 1932 figure this year. Not only has Gaumont-British added considerably to its total floor area, but at least one new independent studio has been put into operation, while others have been restored to activity.

▽

Croydon Vote Significant

Of wide significance are the results of a popular poll in the town of Croydon as to whether the local council should appeal to Parliament for powers to license Sunday opening within its jurisdiction with a decisive affirmative verdict, 34,617 to 24,386.

Croydon's decision will hasten the cause in all parts of England, and help toward the ultimate state of sanity when every man's actions will be governed by his own healthy desires and not by the puritanical restrictions of the "thou-shalt-nots."

In seven short weeks an organization, christened the "Sunday Films Association," was built up with 60,000 enrolled, the sympathies of the Bishop of Croydon, leader of ecclesiastical thought in the neighborhood, were enlisted on the ethical side of the case, meetings were held, talkie trailers prepared and plugged in all the local theatres, and all the other usual legitimate electioneering tactics were employed to the full.

Croydon's privilege has not been granted unconditionally. Under the guidance of the Bishop, a plan has been propounded whereby films to be played on Sunday shall first be viewed and approved by a committee, consisting of two representatives of the churches, two local exhibitors and four local councilmen. In addition, substantial sums must be paid to charity. Hours of opening, too, will be restricted. Anyway, it's the principle that counts.

▽

Record Tax Move

As if cankers Sunday opening and entertainments tax were not sufficient, a new bogey is confronting the exhibitor.

The phonograph interests have decided that the performance of records in public places such as picture theatres is an infringement of their rights, and threaten to put all the non-synchronous devices out of action. Exhibitors reply that they have already paid for performing rights, by reason of their fees to the Performing Rights Society.

Sam Katz Starts New Corporation For Production

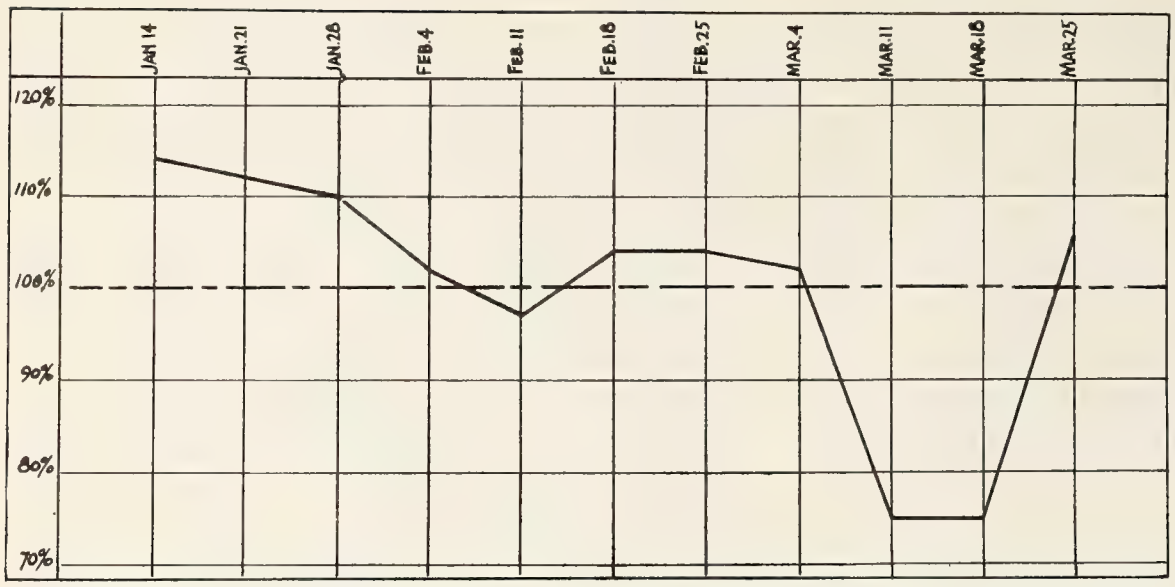
Active production plans for the new Sam Katz enterprise, Producing Artists Pictures, Inc., got underway this week with the signing, as anticipated, of the Four Marx brothers on a contract which provides for one picture a year over a period of years on a partnership basis.

Associated with Mr. Katz are Sam Harris and Max Gordon, New York stage producers, and Marcus Heiman, former president of the Orpheum Circuit.

The corporation will own no studios, but will lease space as required. In line with the plans of the organization, which will work at first on a cooperative basis, with writers, actors, directors and executives on a royalty basis exclusively, the corporation also plans to release its product through one of the large distributing organizations.

The first Marx comedy will go into production early this summer and will be ready for fall release. Producing Artists Pictures has established New York offices at 730 Fifth Ave., with headquarters on the Coast.

Wilson Mizner, Scenarist, Dies



Wilson Mizner, playwright, Hollywood wit, scenarist, died in Los Angeles Monday after a career that ranged from mining for gold in Alaska to promoting real estate in Florida.

He started traveling early. Born in Benicia, Cal., May 19, 1876, he was taken to Guatemala at 13, studying there for three years. Santa Clara College in California occupied him from 1892 to 1894. Then began far-flung roving which included barking for museums, writing plays, managing the great Stanley Ketchel, innumerable voyaging across the Atlantic just for the ride, and the operating of a New York hotel.

Among the plays which Mr. Mizner wrote, alone or in collaboration, following his divorce from the wealthy widow of millionaire Charles T. Yerkes, were "The Only Law," with G. Bronson Howard; "The Deep Purple," and "The Greyhound," with Paul Armstrong.

Williams in Hollywood On Distribution Plan

J. D. Williams is in Hollywood discussing with directors, writers and players his distribution plan by which the theatre owners would underwrite the costs of a number of productions, paying a part of the cost in advance, in proportion to the ratio of rental their theatres should pay.

The sharp rise in theatre receipts in the week ending March 25, the first full week following the national bank holiday, is shown in the chart, based on Motion Picture Herald's listing of box office grosses and comparing the relative business done in eleven cities during the eleven-week period from January 14, 1933, to March 25, 1933. The total average weekly gross in the eleven cities for the eleven weeks is taken as 100 per cent. The cities are Boston, Chicago, Hollywood, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Portland, and San Francisco.

SMPE to Discuss Industry Economy

Economy in motion picture production and exhibition will be the keynote of the semi-annual spring meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, to be held at the Pennsylvania Hotel, April 24 to April 28, 1933, according to O. M. Glunt, chairman of the papers committee. "The industry has undergone so many changes that we have attempted to broaden the program and to present papers of broad and popular interest, in addition to the strictly engineering papers," said Mr. Glunt.

The first day's program includes a luncheon for members and friends. Speeches by industry leaders will be featured. The Tuesday morning session will be devoted to economy trends in sound production.

The semi-annual banquet will be held Wednesday evening, 7:00 P. M., at the Hotel Pennsylvania. There will be no speeches; precedent will be broken in that dancing and entertainment will be featured. Papers that have been promised for the meeting include:

"National Standardization in America," Dr. P. G. Agnew; "High Power, High Efficiency Incandescent Lamps," E. W. Beggs and M. W. Palmer; "Personality and the Voice," Mrs. I. L. Bradley; "Application of Motion Picture Developments to Other Fields," O. H. Caldwell; "Recording Equipment," Don Canady; "Volume Range in Film Recording," H. C. Silent; "The Morgana Color Process," J. A. Dubray; "Carbon Arc Projection," A. C. Downes; "History of S.M.P.E. Standardization," L. A. Jones; "Photoplay Appreciation in the Nation's Schools," William Lewin; "Cine Kodak Special," Tuttle, Wittel and Stoider; "16 Mm High-Speed Non-Intermittent Camera," F. E. Tuttle.

"Wave Form Analysis of Variable Width Records," Sandvik, Hall and Streiffert; a paper by Terry Ramsaye; "Eye Strain Avoidance," F. H. Richardson: "Eye Fatigue," Peter Snell; "Projection Screens Committee Report," S. K. Wolf; "The Diffraction Effect of Microphone Mountings," W. C. Jones; a paper by M. C. Batsel; "Sound Recording and Reproducing Using 16 Mm Film," J. O. Baker; "Use of Test Film for Projection Equipment," J. O. Baker; "Some Factors in Photographic Sensitivity," S. E. Sheppard; "Recent Developments in Electrolytic Silver Recovery," K. C. D. Hickman; "Audiphone and 'Out of the Silence,'" Chas. W. Barrell; "Military Training and Historical Films," F. A. Hoorn, U. S. Signal Corps; a paper by W. W. Wood.

Others will be: "The Sound Film Program of the U. S. Department of Agriculture," R. Evans; "Parallax-Panaramagram (With Demonstration)," Dr. H. E. Ives; "Hill and Dale Recording (With Demonstration)," H. A. Frederick; "Methods of Measuring Flutter in Film Propulsion (With Demonstration," T. E. Shea and W. A. MacNair; "Direction Effect in Processing," J. Crabtree; a paper by W. S. Short; "Method of Measuring Photographic Aberration," W. Herriott; "Variable Width Recording," D. D. Foster; "New Automatic Printer," J. A. Dubray; "New AC Projection Lamp," Mr. Ashcraft; "Prismatic Method of Compressing Pictures," Dr. Newcomer; "History of Cartooning," Earl Theisen; "RCA-Victor High Fidelity Film Recording Equipment," Sidney Read, Jr.

Shaw Reel Delayed As New Shots of Liner Are Taken

The shipment of newsreel negatives of Fox Movietone News, Pathe News and Paramount Sound News was peculiarly delayed last week from San Francisco following the arrival of George Bernard Shaw aboard the Empress of Britain. Special arrangements had been made for rushing the shots east by the Railway Express Agency's air division, using a United Air Lines express plane.

First the liner lost an anchor in the bay. Heaving to under full illumination, the ship presented a spectacle which called for new shots. Shortly thereafter the old frigate "Constitution" passed the liner and the opportunity for a pictorial contrast of the two ships caused more delay as new shots were taken. The film finally took off, on another plane, and arrived on schedule time in New York.

Foremco Pictures Formed

Walter Reade, Joseph Plunkett and others have formed Foremco Pictures Corporation to handle American distribution of "M," German talking picture, which opened Friday night at the Mayfair, New York.

Rally of Faiths at Radio Music Hall Marks Holy Hour

New York went to church last Sunday morning in Radio Corporation's Music Hall amid the towers of Radio City. Catholics, Jews and Protestants of various beliefs gathered as one for "The Holy Year Inaugural Holy Hour," in celebration of the Holy Year decreed by Pope Pius XI, which began the previous day at the Basilica of St. Peter's in Rome.

In a setting of solemn simplicity, Patrick Cardinal Hayes spoke the keynote—the words of Pope Pius: "We shall cease not to raise our voice for truth, justice and humanity," and of President Roosevelt's Biblical quotation: "Where there is no vision the people perish."

More than 6,500 persons crowded Radio's big motion picture theatre on Sixth avenue at 50th street, and additional thousands heard the messages of Cardinal Hayes, Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Alfred Emanuel Smith and Rabbi Alexander Lyons, over an international radio hookup, and from loudspeakers erected in side streets adjacent to Radio City.

The complete program:

Organ Prelude.....Pietro Yon
Honorary Organist of the Vatican
"Praise Ye the Father," Papal March.....Gounod
Paulist Choristers, the Choir of Temple Emanu-El, Radio City Music Hall Chorus, the Mediaevalists, Radio City Music Hall Orch.—Conductor, Father Finn Presiding.....Grover A. Whalen
Invocation...His Eminence Patrick Cardinal Hayes
The Opening of Holy Year in Rome...John Young Radio Description
Solo: "Panis Angelicus," Franck..John McCormack
Cello Obbligato, Alfred Wallenstein, First Cellist, Philharmonic Orch.—Edwin Schneider at the Piano
Address.....Dr. Alexander Lyons
Eighth Avenue Temple, Brooklyn
Grand Chorus: "Gallia".....Gounod
Paulist Choristers, the Choir of Temple Emanu-El, Radio City Music Hall Chorus, the Mediaevalists, Soloists; Anne Wolcott, Soprano; John Finnegan, Tenor
Address.....Dr. S. Parkes Cadman
Former President, Federal Council of Churches
Solo: "Agnus Dei," Bizet.....Giovanni Martinelli
Orchestra with Cello Obbligato
"Largo: New World Symphony," Dvorák.....
.....Radio City Music Hall Orchestra
Conductor, Erno Rapee
Address.....Alfred E. Smith
The Star-Spangled Banner.....
.....Choirs, Orchestra, Organs and Audience

Leaders in church and state and persons prominent in the professions and in business and in the motion picture industry, shared the theatre's huge stage with the speakers. President Roosevelt sent Postmaster General James A. Farley. Others who occupied seats of honor were: Major Edward Bowes, vice-president of Loew's; Mayor John P. O'Brien, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee, Bishop John J. Dunn, Monsignor Michael L. Lavelle, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, John F. Curry, John H. McCooey, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, James Gerard, Henry Morgenthau, Louis Wiley.

A committee of 125 participated in the arrangements. Among them were Frank C. Walker, national Democratic treasurer and an executive of the Comerford Circuit; Harold B. Franklin, president of RKO Theatres; Merlin Hall Aylesworth, president of RKO and NBC; William S. Paley, president of Columbia Broadcasting; J. J. McCarthy, motion picture roadshow director, who had charge of press relations for the Holy Hour; Major Edward Bowes, of Loew's and MGM, and William A. Brady, Daniel Frohman, Arthur Hopkins, and others well known in screen and stage affairs.

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

It is rather late for an earthquake anecdote, but not too late for this one. While the recent disturbance was at its height in southern California, John Barrymore recalled an experience in the San Francisco quake of 1906. An idler then, according to News-Week, he was forced out of his hotel early in the morning and was promptly collared by General Funston, who had taken charge of the situation. Wiring his sister Ethel in New York, he asked for funds to get out of town. Ethel turned to her uncle, John Drew, who advised: "Leave him where he is. It took a convulsion of nature to get him out of bed before noon, and the United States Army to put him to work."

▽

Jesse L. Lasky, producing features for Fox, is looking for "the worst woman in the world." If she's pretty enough and photographs like a million, she'll have a chance to have her sins forgotten in "The Worst Woman in Paris"—thanks to Mr. Lasky. "She should be admirable in her wickedness, noble in her shame and have the poise of a crouching tigress," says Lasky. "But alas, there are no such women in Hollywood"—says Fox publicity.

▽

Sign of the Times: A large chocolate cake in the lobby of Loew's Midland in Kansas City reminded patrons of the fifth anniversary of the talking motion picture business. The feature attraction was "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum."

▽

Philosopher Herschel Stuart, executive of Mr. Franklin's RKO theatre circuit, remarks that many of us are back to the wages of 1922, and, as a result, we are learning that the coffee in cafeterias is really better than in hotels. Some of us learned that fifteen years ago.

▽

Some few weeks ago, Krimsky and Cochrane screened the German all-feminine "Maedchen in Uniform." Paramount saw it and cabled its Berlin representative to send over the featured player, young Dorothea Wieck. While waiting, the company promised the trade great things from the delicate and subtly beautiful fraulein. Ordinarily the build-up begins amid a lot of fanfare and trumpeteering with the arrival on the pier.

Miss Wieck arrived at the docks of New York harbor bright and early last Friday morning, but not a single representative of Paramount was on hand to greet her. New York's hard-boiled ship reporters called it a "boner," and the Telegram's Marguerite Young quoted Paramount executive George Putnam as saying "somebody ought to be boiled in oil" for the oversight.

Miss Wieck is reported to have actually blushed when the news cameramen asked her to pose for the usual ship-railing-show-your-legs shot. "Ach, Gentlemen!" she is said to have replied, "How could I do that. When the time comes that I have got to show my limbs to be an actress—I'M THROUGH!" The ship reporters were flabbergasted.

Later, Miss Wieck was settled comfortably at the Algonquin, surrounded by flowers which Mr. Putnam assured her came from "the very head boss"—probably the receiver.

PHILANTHROPIC-LIKE

B. B. Kahane, president of Radio Pictures, was discussing story possibilities for the 1933-34 feature lineup. "We did take a peek at 'Dinner At Eight'," he said, "but they wanted $110,000 for it. . . . So we let Metro have it."

QUICK, A BROMO

The readiness of theatre managers in New Orleans to accept checks disturbed a press agent. Discussing the idea with a box office treasurer, the press agent said, "All right, suppose we do give out tickets for checks . . . and suppose the checks bounce . . . THEN where are we?" "Banks are closed," said the triumphant treasurer, "so how CAN the checks bounce?"

PUBLISHER Joe Brandt is offering $500 to anyone who can answer the Question: "What Is Wrong With This Industry?"

Remedies are sought for 33 problems, ranging from "immoral films" to "poster bootlegging," and including film mutilation, what to do about it; bicycling, lack of exploitation by exhibitors, and exclusive runs—which are practically washed up anyway.

Some "outstanding thinker of constructive genius" who solves these 33 weighty problems will be paid $15.01½ per remedy. All of which is splendid, but we are quite certain that there are at least a dozen gentlemen holding forth in the canyons of Wall Street and in the towers of Broadway, who will pay considerably more for a solution to only one problem: How to Bolster Box Office Receipts.

▽

Headline in Maurice Kann's newsy MOTION PICTURE DAILY: "ROXY TAKING BATHS." Apparently he's not washed up!

▽

The management of a Broadway first run in Longacre Square seeks the services of an alert and aggressive press agent, who will work tirelessly from nine in the morning till midnight. Only a real go-getter is eligible, one capable of staging high-powered stunts, tieups, contests and whatnot. These must be effected at no cost to the theatre, for he will have no budget to work with. The remuneration is $15 a week—Evidently looking for the original Horatio Alger and an authentic combination of the late Harry Reichenbach, Nat Rothstein and Mr. Rockefeller's Ivy Lee.

▽

Not to be outdone by competitor Harry Thomas' "Love Potion," which went out with sexy "Goona Goona," Bennie Zeidman will give exhibitors booking his new "Samarang" small packages of "Fu Fu Dust"—which Zeidman calls "the powder of passion of the tropics."

"Samarang" was filmed in the wilds of some place or other, and reveals the usual native nudity. Bennie's campaign, however, will be conducted along lines more modest than Harry's "Goona Goona" exploitation, for Mr. Zeidman is arranging for the manufacture of "Samarang" brassieres, which Mr. Thomas evidently overlooked.

"Fu Fu Dust" may be all right for passion in the tropics, but it is a poor imitation for gold dust, which is considerably more important to exhibitors in these times.

▽

Samuel Goldwyn's Soviet find of a year ago, Miss Anna Sten, now speaks English perfectly—thanks to Mr. Goldwyn.

▽

Fox Movietone people are trying to fathom the deep, dark mystery of why a home office sleuth suddenly popped into Movietone headquarters the other day and ordered executives and workers to sign their names on blank paper, under which all were told to again record their signatures in printed form. Chandu stuff.

The success of every expedition into the frozen north depends upon the preparation which precedes it. Universal's "SOS Iceberg" company, led by Dr. Arnold Fanck, is returning after six months in Greenland. "Uncle" Carl Laemmle sponsored the expedition, which carried 432 bottles of old Black and White Scotch Whiskey; 588 bottles of Jamaica Rum; 98 bottles of Cognac, and 12 bottles of Sandelman Port Wine.

"The success of the expedition," says Universal, "is due to the painstaking way in which every danger was anticipated and provided for."

▽

Blame Hal Horne for many of those puns and gags pulled by funnymen Jack Osterman, Milton Berle and Jack Benny. Hal's official business between 9 and 5:30 is writing advertising copy for United Artists, but during his weak moments he jots down material to be passed on to the public.

▽

As we go to press, teams of big brewery hosses are racing down Broadway to the Bond Building, where burly German truckmen will roll full kegs and halves into the New York Motion Picture Club. The town's film folk will gather there Thursday evening to celebrate the return of foamy, frothy, golden brew—one-half as strong as they're used to. Manager George Morris says they'll assemble at nine, although the beer will positively not be tapped until the legal hour of midnight—but that's what George says.

▽

"Salvation will not be found by continuous conferences"—Benito Mussolini.

▽

"Poverty row" used to embrace only a small part of Hollywood. It's bigger now.

▽

Shades were raised on yesteryear when a quartet of gambling gentry set up last week a three-card monty game, played with the usual stooges who are seen "winning" heavily as a come-on for the gullible public. It seems that the Times Square district still is a comparatively fertile field for "sucker" games, but there are only a few spots left where such tricks might be staged safely away from Police Commissioner Thomas Patrick Mulrooney's ordinarily alert sleuths. Evidently one such haven is the sidewalk in front of Paramount's New York exchange, only a stone's throw from Times Square, on 44th Street, where the sharpsters did their stuff unmolested. They did not stay long, however. The condition of some people in the picture business probably discouraged them.

▽

Seven hundred and fifty applications for beer permits filed in Los Angeles does not necessarily indicate the extent of the town's thirst, but it does give a slight idea.

And in New York, it seems that saloons are not supposed to come back, but other dispensaries will be in operation. A rose by another name.

▽

Advertising catchline used by Fox's Plaza in Kansas City: "Goodbye Depression! Hello Boom!" What optimism, —— or did they mean Boom Boom?

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

A favorite topic among the serious minds of business used to be, "What does the banker think of advertising?" Now, according to Advertising Age, advertising men are able to tell exactly what they think of bankers.

Wacke Dies; Gave Coney Island Its First Film House

Death of Herman Wacke, at 74, this week, removed the man who brought the first motion picture theatre to Coney Island's boardwalk. The Trocadero opened in conjunction with a beer garden in the Hotel Trocadero, at Oceanic Walk and Bowery, in 1898. Among the patrons were Mary Pickford, Marie Dressler, Norma Talmadge and Flora Finch, there to see their own motion pictures and to make personal appearances. So, too, Mr. Wacke introduced the silver-coated screen to Coney.

Charlie Chaplin starred in a vaudeville bit one summer at the Trocadero. Irving Berlin played and sang there for board and keep.

When Mr. Wacke purchased the projector and screen he could get only foreign pictures, but that changed when Biograph and Vitagraph heard of his venture. Indeed, Miss Dressler's comedy hit of the day, "Tilly's Tomato Surprise," was made at Coney Island at his invitation. In those times such was the status of development of the new entertainment device that showings could be started only at night, and that meant as late as 9:30 p. m. sometimes during the summer.

Mr. Wacke's next step was acquisition of the Olympic theatre in Brooklyn, where he initiated weekly changes of picture and vaudeville programs. When the enterprise did not succeed he turned to the liquor business and hotel investments.

Exhibitors Form New Association In North Dakota

An exhibitors' association of North Dakota was formed recently at a meeting of approximately 40 exhibitors at the Piller theatre in Valley City, N. D., operated by John Piller. It was decided that on May 5 every member theatre will contribute its entire night's receipts to the association. The organization is to be known as the North Dakota Theatre Owners Association.

Officers were elected as follows: John Piller, president; R. C. Harper, vice president; Anton Gillis, second vice president; Guy Troyer, secretary; Gus Wingreene, treasurer; William Boom, auditor. The board of directors includes Frank Wetzstein, Claude Hanson, John Kennelly, F. G. Aamoth, H. J. Peterson, Al Cooper. The next meeting of the association will be held June 4, at Mandan, N. D.

Gaumont Incorporates in U. S.

Gaumont-British Corp., Ltd., has incorporated in the United States with offices at 226 West 42nd St., New York. Maurice Ostrer is president and Arthur Lee, resident manager of the corporation, has been named executive vice-president.

TRAVELERS...

Norman Moray, Vitaphone sales executive, arrived in New Orleans this week on a tour of Warner branches.

Hal Roach sailed from New York for London, where he will produce a feature for MGM release.

Monroe Owsley, Warner player, is in New York for a vacation.

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey left Los Angeles on the S. S. Mariposa for a trip around the world.

Edward Sutherland, Paramount director, arrived in New York from Hollywood to shoot scenes for "International House."

Jack Cohn returned to New York from a vacation at White Sulphur Springs.

Anna May Wong will sail for Europe April 16.

Al Lewin, associate MGM producer, returned to Hollywood after a ten-week vacation in Europe.

Sidney R. Kent, Fox president, is in Hollywood.

B. B. Kahane, RKO Radio Pictures president, arrived in Hollywood from New York.

Dick Powell, Warner player, left Hollywood to fill master-of-ceremonies engagements in St. Louis, Pittsburgh and at the RKO Roxy in New York.

Robert MacGowan left Hollywood for New York, en route for London, where he will meet Hal Roach.

Ruth Chatterton and George Brent arrived in Paris on a three months' vacation.

George Dillon, of Filmchoice, is on a trip through New England to complete negotiations for distribution of "Maedchen in Uniform."

Dudley Murphy arrived in New York from the coast to start direction on "Emperor Jones," Krimsky-Cochran production. He also plans to produce three pictures independently.

Jack Alicoate, publisher and editor of Film Daily, is in Florida again for a vacation with his family.

Henri Diamant-Berger, French director, arrived in New York from Paris.

George Brown sails Saturday on a cruise.

Ben Kalmenson, Warner branch manager in Pittsburgh, was in New York for conferences with A. W. Smith.

Pathe Debentures Reduced by $479,500

Cost of sales and rentals of Pathe Exchange, Inc., plus general, legal and administrative expenses, exceeded income from the operated properties by $114,651.81 in the year ended Dec. 31, 1932, according to the annual report. Most of the loss resulted from the cost of conducting litigation, and the operation of the Bound Brook laboratory on a decreasing volume of business, Stuart W. Webb, president, told the stockholders.

The principal amount of the 7 per cent debentures due May 1, 1937, was reduced by $479,500, leaving $2,249,500 outstanding from the original issue of $6,000,000, sold in 1927. A further reduction in bonds outstanding reduced the net amount of debentures outstanding to $2,192,000. The company owns $1,696,549.81 in notes of Radio-Keith-Orpheum. Earnings of Dupont Film Manufacturing Company, in which Pathe holds 4,900 shares of capital stock (49 per cent of the total outstanding), continued to be in excess of dividends paid in 1932.

The balance sheet showed a contingent reserve of $500,000 for possible loss on leases. Cash in banks and on hand was listed at $429,287.35.

Paramount Gives Gillham and Flinn Ad Council Posts

An advertising and publicity council was formed this week at Paramount with Robert Gillham as its executive. Mr. Gillham, who formerly had charge of the Paramount account for the Lord and Thomas Advertising Agency, succeeds Arthur Mayer, who resigned Saturday to take over the operation of the Rialto theatre, New York.

John C. Flinn, formerly of Pathe, joins the Paramount organization and the advertising council as special exploitation director; James A. Clark is advertising sales manager; Bill Danziger, in charge of fan and trade paper advertising; Rodney Bush, press books, and Al Wilkie, publicity director. Al Deane, foreign publicity. Mr. Flinn went to the Coast Wednesday to start work on the next season announcement book.

The council will map out all advertising, exploitation and publicity under Mr. Gillham.

Luescher in Charge Of NBC Stars

Mark Luescher, formerly with RKO, and later in charge of publicity and exploitation at the old Roxy, joined National Broadcasting Company this week in charge of special exploitation of radio acts. Mr. Luescher, who specialized in national exploitation for the late E. F. Albee, will have complete charge of publicity, for those artists of the company whose acts are booked for personal appearances, concert work or screen.

"Heretofore there has been no adequate build-up for radio artists who are booked into motion picture houses," Mr. Luescher said. "We are going to give theatre men something with which to sell radio acts." This exploitation will take the form of press books and other publicity angles, he added. Among those artists whose outside activities Mr. Luescher will supervise are Paul Whiteman, Rudy Vallee, Walter Damrosch, Nathaniel Shilkret, Erno Rapee, Donald Novis, Russ Columbo and Jessica Dragonette.

Wurtzel Picks Staff for Fox Western Avenue Studio

Personnel of the staff of Sol M. Wurtzel at the Fox Western Avenue studio in Hollywood, reopened for production of 20 English and Spanish pictures, follows:

John Stone, associate producer, also in charge of foreign productions; Jesse Lasky, Jr., and R. L. Hough, assistants to Wurtzel; Robert M. Yost, business manager of the story department; Eugene Ford, supervisor of foreign productions; Max Golden, business manager; Sam Wurtzel, business manager of foreign productions; Barney Wolf, manager of the film editing department; Louis Moore, research and technical advisor.

The story department writers include Dudley Nichols, Harold Lipsitz, Arthur Kober, Charlotte Miller, Marguerite Roberts, Irene Lee, Hugh Cummings and Stuart Anthony. The Spanish scripts are being written by Gregorio Martinez Sierra, Jose Lopez Rubio and Paul Perez.

WARNING!

TO

BEER DRINKERS!

Beer makes you happy
....and it brings back prosperity.....BUT–

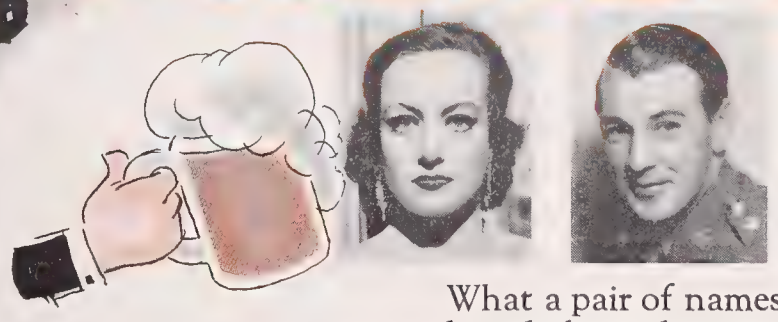
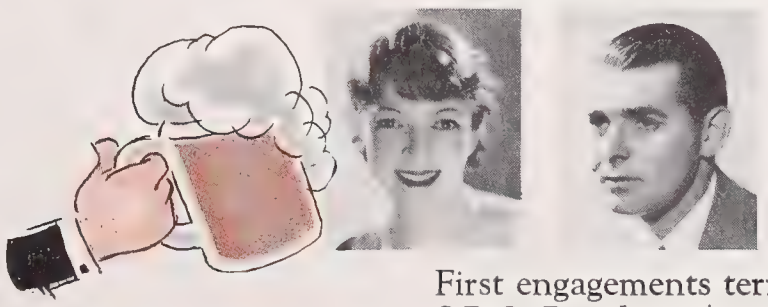
Flow on to next page, please!



HERE'S ANOTHER WAY OF GETTING THE SAME EFFECT!

That merry glow...that million dollar feeling... that new joy in life... you'll get it NOW when you see what M-G-M is serving you!



"HERE'S HOW!"

Joan CRAWFORD
Gary COOPER
in "Today We Live"

What a pair of names! What a romance! All the good things you've heard about this one are just the half of it!

Helen HAYES
Clark GABLE
in "The White Sister"

First engagements terrific! Advertise it "playing simultaneously with its S.R.O. Broadway $2 engagement at the Astor, N.Y."

BARRYMORES
in "Rasputin and The Empress"

Just like "Strange Interlude" this $2 Road-show hit is cleaning up at popular prices wherever it plays, big city or small town!

(stagger on, please)

"HOW I LOVE A GLASS OF BEER!"

M-G-M's "ERA OF GOOD FEELING" continues:

JOHN BARRYMORE in

"Reunion in Vienna" with DIANA WYNYARD

The biggest romantic stage hit of years becomes another M-G-M screen delight. You'll be glad we won the battle for picture rights!

MARION DAVIES in

"Peg O' My Heart"

Not since "Smilin' Through" so many heart-throbs! Not in years has Marion Davies had a role so just right for the mass audience!

CLARENCE BROWN'S production

LOOKING FORWARD

with LIONEL BARRYMORE—LEWIS STONE

Just previewed in New York! It confirms all the Coast critical raves! Lionel Barrymore's masterpiece! Soul-stabbing entertainment!

THE DEVIL'S BROTHER

with LAUREL & HARDY and DENNIS KING

A Big, Spectacular, Feature-length Hal Roach–M-G-M hit! Different from anything Laurel-Hardy have ever appeared in. And their FUNNIEST!

RAMON NOVARRO in

"The Barbarian"

Just as "The Pagan" swept the country with its songs and romance, so will "The Barbarian." It's got everything and more than "Pagan."

Happy Days! The flow of good things from M-G-M continues! "Gabriel Over The White House" thrills the nation! The industry watches with eager expectancy the coming of "Hell Below." M-G-M's arctic expedition has returned with the amazing production of "Eskimo." "Night Flight" goes into production, a giant attraction. Just a hint of the great showmanship things brewing at M-G-M. Year in and year out it's the same! Happy days, gentlemen!

FOAMING OVER WITH GOOD THINGS!

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

That Happy Feeling!

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS

This department deals with new product from the point of view of the exhibitor who is to purvey it to his own public

The Devil's Brother

(MGM)

Comedy with Music

Laughter and music are the entertainment elements upon which this lengthy screen operetta depends for popularity. The locale is the Italian countryside. Characters appear in costumes of the early 19th century. The story alternates in being exciting and dull. Practically all the action is confined to a little inn and its courtyard. A vivacious romance between the Fra-Marquis and Lady Pamela is the chief supporting feature to the comedy and music. The Laurel and Hardy comedy kept the preview audience in hearty laughter. Dennis King's singing also pleased them, but the story seemed too intricate and choppy for them to catch its real drift.

Stanilo and Olivero turn bandits after they have been held up, and choose for their first victim no one by Fra Diavolo himself. Instead of hanging them as Stanilo gums up the execution of Olivero, Fra makes them his personal servants.

Fra has seen Lady Pamela and all her jewels. They will be a sweet haul for him. With his two servants, dressing himself in handsome costume and calling himself a Marquis, he proceeds to the inn where the Lord and Lady are staying. In five or six farcically funny ways the loutish pair play hob with his plans to grab the Lady's gems.

After much wandering, the story finally has the Marquis stealing the jewels, but missing the money hidden in the Lady's petticoat. He makes torrid love to get it. Fra is in a spot because of the bungling of his two aids, but he manages to slip a pendant into the lieutenant's pocket, and that gives him a chance to concentrate on the 500,000 francs.

He gets it, but Stanilo and Olivero, seeking the reward for the bandit's capture, bungle as usual. The lieutenant surrounds the inn with his soldiers, and there is lots of comedy and excitement.

Selling the howlingly funny Laurel and Hardy comedy and the Dennis King singing appears to be the best method of arousing enthusiasm. Go lightly as possible on the fact that it is a costume picture and that the time is over a hundred years ago. Use names rather than story. Laurel and Hardy, Dennis King and Thelma Todd should top everything else. For catchlines, ideas based on something that suggests that the fun-making pair turned bandits with uproarious results to themselves, the bandit prince and everyone they came in contact with, should prove stimulating.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Produced and directed by Hal Roach. Charles Rogers Co-directory. Adaptation by Jeannie MacPherson. Photographed by Art Lloyd and Hap Depew. Release date, to be determined. Running time, 90 minutes.

Cast

Fra Diavolo / Marquis De San Marco ..... Dennis King
Lady Pamela ..... Thelma Todd
Lord Rocburg ..... James Finlayson
Zerlina ..... Lucille Brown
Lorenzo ..... Arthur Pierson
Matteo ..... Henry Armetta
Francesco ..... Matt McHugh
Lieutenant ..... Lane Chandler
Rita ..... Nina Quatero
Allesandro ..... Wilfred Lucas
Woodchopper ..... James C. Morton
Stanilo ..... Stan Laurel
Olivero ..... Oliver Hardy

The Keyhole

(Warner)

Drama

The marital and extra-marital complication once more has its fling, in this instance characterized by a smartness and sophistication generally common to and expected of a leading performance by the svelte and lovely Kay Francis. Miss Francis again renders a performance of the type expected of her. She is a smooth, finished actress, definitely requiring settings of elegance and richness, with which she is surrounded in "The Keyhole."

There are comedic moments, for which chief credit must go to the slangy, belligerent and completely enjoyable Allen Jenkins, who, aided and abetted—and fleeced—by Glenda Farrell, brings many a laugh. Opposite Miss Francis plays George Brent, personable and no doubt attractive to the feminine contingent of the motion picture public, as the private detective who falls in love with the woman he is paid to shadow and then rescues her from a rather trying situation.

The fact that the picture was adapted from an Alice Duer Miller story, "The Adventuress," may have some positive effect on the attendance. It may be mentioned that in one particular the producers somewhat overdid the sumptuousness of the settings in which they enveloped Miss Francis. The home which she enters early in the picture is of such palace-like spaciousness, of such extraordinary vastness, that it evoked several unmistakable snickers from a New York audience. By and large, however, the picture should have a definite appeal, especially for the women, by reason of the presence of Brent and Miss Francis, both of whom should be given unlimited marquee space.

The story has Miss Francis married to wealthy Henry Kolker, but also still married, though she is unaware of it, to a rather unscrupulous former dancing partner, played with sufficient heaviness by Monroe Owsley. The suspicious husband hires Brent and his assistant, Jenkins, to shadow Miss Francis to Havana, where she has gone to rid herself of the blackmailing Owsley. Brent falls for his victim and succeeds at the concluding moment in freeing her of both former and present husbands.

There is sufficient in the title to intrigue the interest, and much may well be made of it in advertising. Throwaways of some sort which utilize the keyhole idea in their construction should prove good selling material, while the glamorous Miss Francis and the handsome Brent will stand much exploitation. Naturally, this is adult entertainment, but it is, of its kind, good entertainment.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Warner. Directed by Michael Curtiz. Based on the story "The Adventuress" by Alice Duer Miller. Screen play by Robert Presnell. Photographed by Barney McGill. Film director, Ray Curtis. Dialogue director, Arthur Greville Collins. Release date, March 25, 1933. Running time, 69 minutes.

CAST

Anne Brooks ..... Kay Francis
Neil Davis ..... George Brent
Dot ..... Glenda Farrell
Hank Wales ..... Allen Jenkins
Maurice LeBrun ..... Monroe Owsley
Portia Brooks ..... Helen Ware
Schuyler Brooks ..... Henry Kolker

Made on Broadway

(MGM)

Comedy

A breezy, laugh-provoking light comedy, modern and semi-realistic in theme, the show captured the interest of the preview audience. Considered better than average program entertainment, the show has the stuff that should go over with the rank and file of theatre goers. It moves at a rapid pace, and while in spots the plot became a trifle involved, no one should have any difficulty in understanding what it's all about.

Jeff is a big-shot, free-lance publicity agent. He has all sorts of accounts on his list, from politicians down to his ex-wife. He rescues her from suicide and figures he can use her in some of his grand schemes, but the tables are turned on him when, after careful coaching as to how the rescue was made, Mona pulls a fast one by claiming she really saved Jeff from drowning.

The story moves on with much comedy to a point where Mona is a reigning queen of Broadway's night life, made so by Jeff's imagination-stirring publicity. He's sort of falling in love with her, but Mona has other ideas for herself. Here things become a little complicated but anyway Mona kills Ramon after he has made several passes at her. When Mona is acquitted, she is the talk of the town, due to Jeff's ballyhoo but now she doesn't need him any more. Off on an ocean voyage to forget his debacle, he figures that his ex-wife is his best pal after all.

The picture offers plenty of ideas for business building. The title is timely and catchy. The cast offers two good box office names in Montgomery and Sally Eilers. The theme of the story—its big-shot press agent, the glamorous character of Mona, who outshot a sharpshooter, and the fun and excitement that is characteristic of the whole thing should be the media for intriguing patrons. Try to get over a line that suggests that the girl he saved sank him.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Directed by Harry Beaumont. Screen play by Courtenay Terrett, based on his original story, "Public Relations." Recording director, Douglas Shearer. Art director, Cedric Gibbons. Gowns by Adrian. Photographed by Norbert Brodine. Film editor, William S. Gray. Release date, May 19, 1933. Running time, 68 minutes.

CAST

Jeff ..... Robert Montgomery
Mona ..... Sally Eilers
Claire ..... Madge Evans
Terwilliger ..... Eugene Pallette
Mayor Starling ..... C. Henry Gordon
Adele ..... Jean Parker
Ramon ..... Ivan Lebedeff
Mayor's Secretary ..... David Newell
Mr. Lepedis ..... Vince Barnett
Schultz ..... Joseph Cawthorn

Cross Fire

(Radio)

Comedy Drama

This picture looks like a throwback to the early days when moving pictures, first and last, had to move, when producers tossed in every colorful idea they could think of, whether it fitted into the script or not, as long as it made for excitement. They've got everything there but the Indians and the United States Cavalry. Against the typical theatrical western story background they've rung in a bit of the World

TO BRING BACK TO THE LOVE

inspired their courage

in a world gone mad!

NOEL COWARD'S

CAVALCADE

PICTURE OF THE GENERATION

with
DIANA WYNYARD
CLIVE BROOK
HERBERT MUNDIN
cast of 2500—31 leading roles

FOX OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT!

Now—at popular prices—see for yourself why thousands the country over hail "Cavalcade" as the greatest picture ever made!

Gasp at its dramatic, eye-filling spectacle! Thrill as you are carried on the wings of romance—in "Cavalcade's" three romances.

One tender, loyal, enduring. Another destined for but a few swift moments of glorious ecstasy. The third [illegible], born amidst the maddest years this world has ever known.

You will gain new faith in love [illegible], win new courage [illegible], and cherish memories that will linger in your heart forever.

You must see it, say the critics!

"The finest photoplay that has yet been made."—New York Herald Tribune.

"Greater even than 'Birth of a Nation'."—Los Angeles Examiner (Louella Parsons)

"One of the screen wonders of the age."—Chicago Tribune.

• By all means see "Cavalcade".

• BEGINNING TOMORROW—POPULAR PRICES •

Each ad. 4 cols. x 14½ in.

[illegible]'s to COURAGE!

[illegible] that made this Picture!

[illegible] it is sure to give you!

NOEL COWARD'S

CAVALCADE

PICTURE OF THE GE[illegible]

with
DIANA WYNYARD
CLIVE BROOK
HERBERT MUNDIN
cast of 2500—31 leading roles!

Thrill to the beauty of their loves!
Romance that grew deeper with temptation . . . stronger with suffering . . . that stood unconquered in a crumbling world!

Biggest hit in 20 years! Tender, [illegible] thrilling. HERE'S TO "CAVALCADE"!

It takes daring in times like these to produc[illegible] so spectacular as "CAVALCADE". But rece[illegible] that ACTION gets results. So Fox Films goes in[illegible] "Cavalcade"! More than the romantic story of a g[illegible] a picture of great courage. Before the eyes of a gallant w[illegible] the whole world crumbled—but her love stood steadfast and serene through all the chaos of a world gone mad!

And courage it will give you! You'll be entertained grandly, of course. But more than that, you'll leave the theatre with your head high, your spine tingling. Feeling that ALL'S RIGHT WITH A WORLD THAT CAN PRODUCE AND ADVERTISE A PICTURE SUCH AS "CAVALCADE"!

Hailed by critics from coast to coast!

"The finest photoplay that has yet been made."—New York Herald Tribune.

"Greater even than 'Birth of a Nation'."—Los Angeles Examiner (Louella Parsons).

FOX OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT!

▸ BEGINNING TOMORROW—POPULAR PRICES

MILLIONS MOVIES

FOX blankets the country with these smash newspaper ads!

Again FOX shatters precedent. A nationwide newspaper campaign. Timed to coincide with local showings. Told in big space . . . in terms of ringing showmanship. Heralding the picture that broke the road-show-price jinx in 53 towns . . . the picture millions await at popular prices. The greatest advance send-off any picture ever had. You'll welcome back all your old customers . . . and get acquainted with a host of new ones!

AVALCADE

by Noel Coward

PICTURE of the GENERATION

A FOX ACHIEVEMENT

National Release APRIL 15th

War, a dash of hectic Parisian atmosphere, a burlesque prize fight, gangster menace. This plus the expected dirty work at the cross roads, strong man-brave woman romance, murders, double crossing and downright knavery had the preview audience both laughing at and with the picture.

There's about two cents worth of real story. That hops from one thing to another with startling rapidity and apparently little regard as to what has gone before or what is to come. They leave their situations up in the air, expecting the audience to figure out for itself just how it came about. But the preview crowd seemed to enjoy it. They laughed and clapped, hissed and booed and in other ways gave ample evidence that they were having a good time.

Tom is a mine superintendent who has to go to war. That explains everything from the camouflaged transports to Pershing's triumphant parade. While he's gone, Bert, his assistant and supposed to be chum, turns double crosser and puts the works on Tom's four old-timer friends. A trumped up murder charge drives the old boys to the hills, where they make merry looting the ore-laden mine trucks. Tom comes back, cleans up the mess and marries the girl.

The comedy sequences provided by Edgar Kennedy are the legitimate entertainment highlights. His prize fight scene, where he almost kayoes his foe with the first punch and then has to carry him for 10 rounds, is one continued laugh. So is his stunt of chasing the gangsters over the bad lands in a decrepit taxicab.

Played up as laugh-provoking burlesque on the heroics of the exciting westerns, it may be productive of box offices better than if labeled as a straight western. Whether it was intended or not, "Cross Fire" is a comedy. As such it should surely amuse the adults, for there is plenty, intended and unintended, to laugh at. The children should have a grand time, which suggests that its best spot on your bookings is Saturday afternoon.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by RKO Radio. Associate producer, David Lewis. Director, Otto Brower. Original story and continuity by Harold Shumate. Additional dialogue by Tom McNamara. Photographer, Nick Musuraca. Art director, Carrol Clark. Recordist, Hugh McDowell. Editor, Frederic Knudtsen. Release date, June 30, 1933. Running time, 55 minutes.

CAST

Tom Allen ..... Tom Keene
Patricia Plummer ..... Betty Furness
Ed Wimpy ..... Edgar Kennedy
Bert King ..... Eddie Phillips
(Th' Ol' Timers)
Dan'l Plummer ..... Lafe McKee
Jonathan Wheeler ..... Charles French
Doc. Stiles ..... Nick Cogley
Judge Wilson ..... Jules Cowles
Charles Rudolph ..... Tom Brower
Sheriff Wells ..... Murdock McQuarrie
Kreuger ..... Stanley Blystone

Girl Missing

(Warner)

Drama

Injection of good touches of humor from time to time has much to do with imparting some degree of entertainment to this rather ordinary yarn of blackmail, extortion plots, and two stranded chorus girls turned detective for what might be in it. For the one there develops a rich financial reward; for the other a fortune by marriage.

Chief credit for the pace maintained, for the comic moments, must go to Glenda Farrell, as the very hard-boiled member of the stranded pair. In addition to Miss Farrell, the most acceptable cast names are those of Ben Lyon, Mary Brian, Peggy Shannon, Lyle Talbot and Guy Kibbee. Kibbee, incidentally, plays only a minor role.

Miss Farrell and Miss Brian, left with a Palm Beach hotel bill and little hope by the disappointed Kibbee, are astounded to learn of the marriage of Miss Shannon, an ex-chorus pal, to Lyon, wealthy and handsome. When Miss Shannon snubs them, Miss Farrell's desire for revenge waxes strong. A chance meeting with Talbot, whom they remembered as once friendly with Miss Shannon, takes on new significance, when on the honeymoon of the couple in a lonely hotel, Miss Shannon is "kidnapped" and a racketter is found murdered.

Attempting to collect the large reward offered by Lyon, the two girls, following the dictates of the ready wits of Miss Farrell, try to tip off Lyon to their suspicions, but instead become involved with the law. Eventually they prove their case, and receive their rewards.

The angle of the chorus girls turned detectives, solving a murder, a supposed kidnapping and an extortion plot, offers opportunity for bright selling lines. Indicate that the picture is amusing, entertaining and fairly lively, use the better cast names for what they are worth to the individual exhibitor, and do not be afraid to attack the selling of the picture to a certain extent from the laugh angle. Many of the lines in the dialogue would be beyond juvenile appreciation, and in any case there is little in the picture for them to enjoy.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Warner. Directed by Robert Florey. Story and adaptation by Carl Erickson and Don Mullaly. Photographed by Arthur Todd. Film editor, Ralph Dawson. Release date, March 4, 1933. Running time, 69 minutes.

CAST

Henry Gibson ..... Ben Lyon
Kay Curtis ..... Glenda Farrell
June Dale ..... Mary Brian
Daisy ..... Peggy Shannon
Raymond Fox ..... Lyle Talbot
Kenneth Van Dusen ..... Guy Kibbee
Jim Hendricks ..... Harold Huber
Inspector ..... Edward Ellis
Alvin Bradford ..... Ferdinand Gottschalk
Mrs. Bradford ..... Helen Ware
Crawford ..... George Pat Collins
Julie ..... Louise Beavers

Gabriel Over the White House

(MGM)

Drama

Challenging and timely is MGM'S motion picture from the anonymous novel of the same title, which recently stirred some little controversy in the highways and byways as well as on Washington's Capitol Hill.

The producers have taken full advantage of the opportunity to present a telling picture of a conception of governmental activity, of executive authority, at a time when the theme itself still is a matter of high interest, and therefore a self-evident campaign indicator. There has been fashioned a production of dynamic power and rushing pace with unmistakable entertainment value, while the controversial character is no less definite. These controversial features may in themselves be made a definite part of the selling motif, fostering press comment as well as the intra-community discussions which make for attendance.

The story treats of long-hallowed material, the government of the United States, its politics, and, most particularly, the office of the presidency. To the president's chair is elected Walter Huston, politician in every sense of the word, whose cabinet is like himself, to whom anything is "Okay" if it is "all right with the boys." He emerges from a motor crash an apostle of action. In swift succession he fires his cabinet, demands dictatorial authority nullifying Congress, meets the ominous throng of unemployed and offers it a civilian army of conservation employment opportunity, wars on a gangster leader who bombs the White House, causes his last stronghold to be blown up by armored tanks and the gang to be mowed down by a firing squad in the shadow of the Statue of Liberty. As a last grand gesture he calls together representatives of all the powers, overawes them with a tremendous display of naval air strength and thus forces them to sign a worldwide peace insurance treaty. As his signature, the last, is scrawled upon the document, he dies of heart disease.

Besides the livesome theme, the exhibitor has for sale several marquee names. There is Huston, and patrons will find his convincing portrayal ranking among his best. And there are Karen Morley, Franchot Tone, C. Henry Gordon, David Landau, and Dickie Moore, all contributing well. As in casting, so, too, in plot and construction there is no false step, although the sad ending raises a problem for each exhibitor to handle according to his community.

Selling the picture demands the same sharp, incisive treatment as is reflected in the production itself. Whatever parallels are drawn between the central character and the incumbent of the White House should widen drawing power, though it would be well to remember the danger of too many liberties in that direction. The picture is definitely of sensational caliber and must be sold as that.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Directed by Gregory LaCava. Based on the anonymous novel "Gabriel Over the White House." Screen play by Carey Wilson. Additional dialogue by Bertram Bloch. Photographer, Bert Glennon. Film editor, Basil Wrangell. Release date, March 31, 1933. Running time, 87 minutes.

CAST

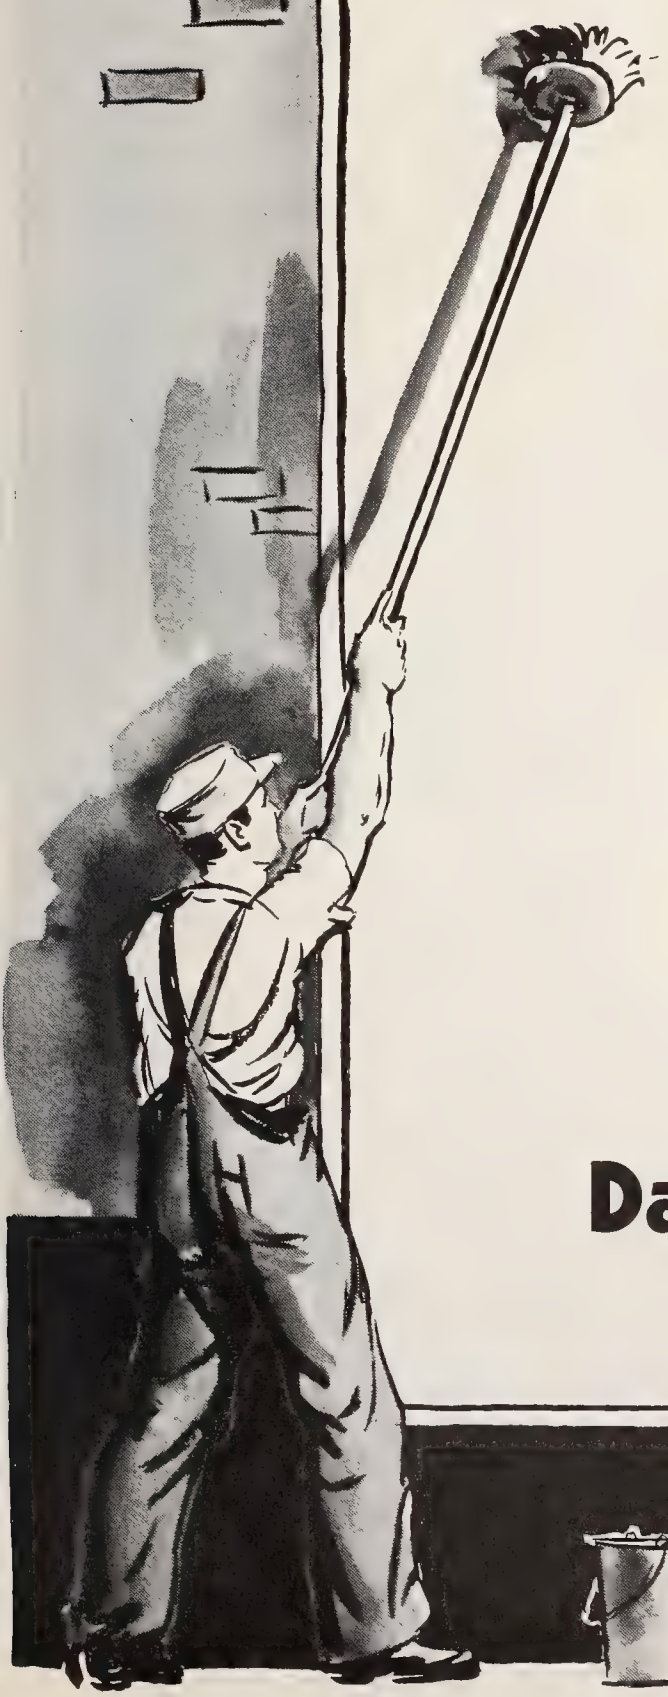
Hon. Judson Hammond ..... Walter Huston
Pendola Molloy ..... Karen Morley
Hartley Beekman ..... Franchot Tone
Jasper Brooks ..... Arthur Byron
Jimmy Vetter ..... Dickie Moore
Nick Diamond ..... C. Henry Gordon
John Bronson ..... David Landau
Dr. Eastman ..... Samuel Hinds
Borell ..... William Pawley
Alice Bronson ..... Jean Parker
Nurse ..... Claire Dubrey

The Adopted Father

(Warner Bros.)

Comedy

It's grand entertainment, vibrant, emotion-stirring, with Arliss at his sparkling best, and a real and inspiring story, splendidly acted, expertly directed, well put together, with tempo increasing as the plot develops. And it's clean, wholesome, smart, novel yet familiar in theme. It received the most spontaneous and enthusiastic applause this writer ever heard in a motion picture theatre. That audience reaction should be your tip-off.



Tired of the egotistical bombasts of his conceited nephew, Reeves, a great shoe manufacturer, takes himself off on a fishing trip. In a quiet Maine harbor, he gets mixed up with a yacht load of young wastrels. Two of them, Jenny and Tommy, turn out to be the lively children of Lawton, his late business rival.

Without learning his identity the youngsters take a liking to this simple old man. He loves them because they are the children of his old sweetheart, whom Lawton married. Back in New York, he has himself appointed the children's guardian. They think they are responsible for the trustees' action. Life for them will be great with only this old codger to consider.

Then the worm turns. There's great glee for the audience as the old man turns into an ironhanded autocrat. Jenny and Tommy realize they had better toe the scratch as their adopted father explains the condition of the Lawton business to them. Tommy goes to work in the Lawton factory. Jenny gets a job in the Reeves plant. Pettison, the manager, is fired, and with the old man at his elbow, Tommy takes the driver's seat. Business zooms. It collapses for Benjamin and the Reeves product. Great satisfaction for Arliss. Benny is learning a lesson, too. Jenny and Benny fall in love. But the Lawton outfit are so effectively developing the Reeves' business principles that Benny thinks there's a spy in his organization. When the fired Pettison shows up in the Reeves plant looking for a job, he sees Jenny. Of course, he reveals her identity to Benny, but she has gone. Benny goes to the Lawton plant looking for Jenny. He meets Tommy and together they go to the Lawton home, where all is revealed. Reeves has done his work for the three youngsters. There is nothing left but a merger of the two firms and marriage for Jenny and Benny.

It is ideal entertainment for every type of patron and for every theatre. It will still have the power to do turn-'em-away business even down to the third and fourth run theatres. Audiences should be ready made because of Arliss. Talk about it as great entertainment. The trite-sounding title will make it necessary to sell the show. Talk about Arliss, Bette Davis, Hardie Albright (he's great) in the most enthusiastic manner you can conceive. Get ex-

REPEAT SHOWING BEATS FIRST RUN AVERAGE!

It happened at the Century Theatre, Minneapolis . . . and in these times! You can do it, too. The bigger your first run, the better the build-up for your repeat trade. For you just can't squeeze this one dry.

STATE FAIR

Date it in again for extra profits

One of the FOX CAVALCADE OF HITS

cited about it yourself.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Warner Bros. Based on a story by Edgar Franklin. Screen play by Charles Kenyon and Maude T. Howell. Directed by John Adolfi. Photography by Sol Polito. Film editor, Owen Marks. Art director, Jack Okey. Gowns by Orry-Kelly. Release date, May 20, 1933. Running time, 73 minutes.

CAST

Reeves.....George Arliss
Jenny.....Bette Davis
Benjamin Burnett.....Hardie Albright
Tommy.....Theodore Newton
Pettison.....Gordon Westcott
Henry Davidson.....J. Farrell MacDonald
Haslitt.....Charles Evans
Judge Larson.....Frederick Burton
The Secretary.....Pat Wing
Briggs.....Edward Van Sloan
The Stenographer.....Claire McDowell
Tommy's bridge partner.....Harold Minjir
Mrs. Price.....Ruthelma Stevens
The Maid.....Gertrude Sutton
The Butler.....Edward Cooper
Hammersmith.....Douglas Dumbrille

Phantom Broadcast

(Monogram)

Melodrama

This is an intensely interesting melodrama. Novel and modern in conception, convincingly acted and directed so that it takes full advantage of all its emotion-stirring power, it is continuously full of human interest, and uses the personality of a nationally famous radio star as background.

The picture moves along with guarded tempo, pausing to permit its developments to register, with understandable action instead of over-dialogue, with logical plot unfoldment in simple, powerful fashion. Yet there is an element of unfathomable suspense.

Murdock, to all intents and purposes in the preliminary build-up, is the handsome crooner about whom the feminine world is all a-flutter. Wilder is his hunchbacked manager. Maestro's gangsters set out to chisel in on the lucrative Wilder-Murdock contract. Elsa, the feminine lure, fails to trick Murdock. Rather she falls in love with him. An attempt is made to machine-gun Wilder. Sandy's ruse saves him.

With Murdock becoming more and more conceited, it develops that he only goes through the motions, that Wilder really is the singer. Wilder discovers Laura. Murdock wants her, and assaults Wilder when he objects. Elsa kills Murdock. Wilder, bent on the same mission, notes Laura's vanity case in the dead man's hand. He takes it, calls the police and confesses the killing, to shield Laura. She enters, convinces Wilder that she did not kill the man, and both flee.

The scene shifts to the broadcasting studio, where Wilder is sitting at his piano and starts to sing on schedule time. The listening world does not know what to make of this strange situation—a dead man singing. Maestro thinks Elsa has double crossed him. She and Lefty rush to the studio. So do Laura and Brooks, her sweetheart. They arrive as Wilder sings his last notes and dies.

"Phantom Broadcast" is a show that any theatre, big or little, can proudly offer its patrons. There is so much vivid, appealing, new and different entertainment in it that creating a patron-drawing campaign should be easy. It's both a man's and woman's picture.

Get behind this picture with all the convincing showmanship at your command to have a big opening day audience and the news should spread.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Monogram. Supervised by Trem Carr. Produced by W. T. Lackey. Directed by Phil Rosen. Screen play, adaptation and continuity by Tristram Tupper. Photographed by Gill Warrington. Recorded by John A. Stransky, Jr. Release date, March 15, 1933. Running time, 68 minutes.

CAST

Norman Wilder.....Ralph Forbes
Elsa Evans.....Vivienne Osborne
Grant Murdock.....Arnold Gray
Laura Hamilton.....Gail Patrick
Sandy Higgins.....Big Boy Williams
Dr. Robt. Brooks.....Paul Page
Nancy.....Pauline Garon
Broadcast Mgr.....Harland Tucker
Joe Maestro.....Rockliffe Fellowes
Artist.....George Nash
Beth.....Mary McLaren
Lefty.....Carl Miller
Model.....Althea Henley
Police Lieut.....George Hayes

Kadetten
The Cadet

(Film Exchange, Inc.)

Comedy-Drama

A charm almost indefinable yet probably due to the freshness of youth in cast and locale, and the "something about a uniform" that is glamorous, supported by the engaging music traditional in German productions, make likable this picture of cadet school life despite halting action and over-dialogue. The conversations have been made universally understood by superimposed translations, though there appears again the shortcoming of too literal Anglicizing. Nevertheless the train of events is easily followed as a result.

Franz prefers composing music to studying "squads east," but his colonel-father insists that he become an army man. At a military ball gossip concerning his young and beloved stepmother and the equitation instructor is fed to him by the captain's valet and inadvertently by another student. In the middle of the night he goes a.w.o.l. to the captain's home to settle the matter. The captain is killed. Franz is accused of murder. Then the trial. Franz refuses to answer questions, keeps his stepmother's secret. The valet, by the judge advocate's questioning, finally is cornered and confesses. And the stepmother explains that the relations with the captain were merely a flirtation which the captain tried to continue after her marriage. The trial scene took on strength through the handling of the questionings.

While the names will have no significance except to the patrons quite familiar with German productions, the picture on its own through its story development and background should have its appeal.—Rovelstad, New York.

Produced by Heros Film, Germany. U. S. distributors, The Film Exchange, Inc. American owners, Manheimer and Hertzig. Directed by George Jacoby. Music arrangements by Peter Kreuder. Cameraman, Edward Hoesch. From the book by Peter Murr. Release date to be determined. Running time, 80 minutes.

CAST

The Cadet.....Frans Fiedler
His Father.....Albert Basserman
His Stepmother.....Trude von Molo

M

(Foremco Pictures)

Drama

Highly unusual, brilliantly executed, "M" strikes a new high note in German production. It is doubly unfortunate, therefore, that there are several inherent factors which may be handicaps for the American exhibitor.

There is initially, of course, the fact that the picture is German, employing German dialogue throughout. It is true that the sequence of the story is understandable, by reason of the expertness of its dramatic action, and that superimposed subtitles translate certain important bits of dialogue. Yet, from the standpoint of the American patron having no working knowledge of the German language, at least 50 per cent more such subtitles would be desirable.

Furthermore, the picture deals with a sordid theme, a pathological case of extreme distastefulness which is not in any measure disguised. It will be, for that reason, in a sense difficult to sell, because it will be necessary to indicate something of the theme, while at the same time pointing to the fact that the picture is most definitely worth attention. Women, especially mothers, are apt to be somewhat horrified by the subject. Again, it is rather to be expected that the picture is of the type more readily appreciated by the class, rather than the mass audience, since it contains little of that element of humor, even by contrast, or occasional lightness, which often seems necessary to entertain the larger body of patronage.

The story concerns the activity of a young man afflicted with an uncontrollable tendency toward murdering small girls. Brilliantly, by suggestion and the use of that technique which suggests mass psychology, in which the German producers have long indicated proficiency, is implied the terror of a city, the ceaseless, burning activity of the entire police force. With sharp intensity has effective use been made of his habit of whistling the opening bars of a "Peer Gynt" air while engaged in his terrifying criminal activity. Finally the underworld rallies to uncover the man who is making their haunts too hot to hold them. Through the eyes of the city's beggars, they track him, corner him in an office building, drag him into a kangaroo court, there try him. The police break in, the law takes its course, and a mother's cry concludes the picture: "But that will not bring back our children . . . ."

Interest never lags, a consistently rapid pace being characteristic, but it is stark, tragic stuff, and must be handled accordingly. Surely Peter Lorre, in the role of the murderer, will be remembered for the brilliance of his performance, the realistic portrayal of a man beset by a terrible affliction. That performance must become a strong selling point. The cast is uniformly good, Gerhard Bienert, as the underworld chief, being especially fine. The names are unknown, of course, but the concentration belongs on the theme, the production as a whole. The fact that the picture enjoyed a long European success is a point worth attention. By no means should this be shown to children.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced by Nero Film. Distributed by Foremco Pictures Corporation. Directed by Fritz Lang. Story by Thea von Harbou. English titles by Wolfe Kaufmann. New York release date, March 31, 1933. Running time, 96 minutes.

CAST

The Murderer.....Peter Lorre
The Mother.....Ellen Widmann
The Child.....Inge Landgut
The Safe-Breaker.....Gustaf Grundgens
The Burglar.....Fritz Gnass
The Card Sharper.....Fritz Odemar
The Pickpocket.....Paul Kemp
The Confidence Trickster.....Theo Lincoln
The President of Police.....Ernst Stahl-Nachbaur
The Minister.....Franz Stein
Supt. Lohman.....Otto Wernicke
Supt. Groeber.....Theodor Loos
The Blind Beggar.....Georg John
Counsel for the Defense.....Rudolf Blumner
The Watchman.....Karl Platen
The Criminal Chief.....Gerhard Bienert
The Landlady.....Rosa Valetti
A Lady of the Town.....Hertha von Walther

Pooch the Lumber Champ

(Universal)

Good Cartoon

Pooch the Pup, as a lumberjack, fells trees with the buzz of his snores until the wolf foreman, snapping his big whip, chases him out of sight. Mr. Wolf captures Pup's sweetheart, and with the aid of the trees of the forest, he rescues her. Dancing trees, in caricatures of noted players, add to the amusement, especially for the youngsters.—Running time, 7 minutes.

Berlin:
The Rhythm of a Metropolis

(Mary Warner)

Interesting

Smartly kaleidoscopic in technique, achieveing a rapid pace, this German-made subject presents an interesting impressionistic impression of the modern Berlin, a teeming, hurrying metropolis. Superimposed subtitles in English replace the customary accompanying dialogue explanation, and thereby the subject loses in effectiveness. The musical background, however, in keeping with the tempo, compensates to a certain extent. The current interest in the political activity of Germany, centering in Berlin, should enhance interest.—Running time, 8 minutes.

Microscopic Mysteries

(MGM)

Interesting

Interesting and somewhat unusual is the picturization, in this number of the "Oddities" series, of the activities and battles of insect life, caught under the penetrating eye of the magnifying lens. The subject should have a definite interest for anyone.—Running time, 10 minutes.

GIANT FOOTPRINTS THUNDERING A REBORN SHOWMANSHIP!

Pittsburgh . . .
Chicago . . . Philadelphia . .
Cincinnati . . St. Louis . . .
Minneapolis . . St. Paul . .
Toronto and more than 100 EASTER WEEK DATES that will make Variety's
Box-office reports sizzle with good news!

BUFFALO
"King Kong shows possibility of getting $10,000, Big!" Variety Mch. 28th

DETROIT
"King Kong at Downtown started to big week . . . maybe $9,000, Oke!" Variety Mch. 28th

NEW HAVEN
"Off to nice start . . . looks set for $7,300 . . . last week $5,500." Variety Mch. 28th

BOSTON
"Filled Keith's to overflowing . . . whooping it up for what may be banner week . . . should gross $22,500 which is Jim Dandy Plus." Variety Mch. 28th

NEWARK
"King Kong, Newark, $17,000, very Hey Hey! is king here without question . . . should run Proctor's gross up to real heights." Variety Mch. 28th

NEW YORK
"Though held three weeks at RKO Roxy (Radio City) is dragging more than usual currency here (Palace on Broadway) $12,000 or better." Variety Mch. 28th

WASHINGTON
"Everything's King Kong this week . . . the ape man is aiming at house record . . . a beautiful $16,000." Variety Mch. 28th

BALTIMORE
"King Kong of Balto at WOW 17 G . . . it's socko from the 1st bell . . . will give Hippodrome highest mark . . . a terrific $17,000 . . . hottest thing that has hit this town." Variety Mch. 21st

WITH FAY WRAY..
ROBERT ARMSTRONG
BRUCE CABOT . . . .

FROM AN IDEA CONCEIVED AND EXECUTED BY MERIAN C. COOPER

COOPER-SCHOEDSACK PRODUCTION

RKO Radio PICTURES

DAVID O. SELZNICK, Executive Producer

THEATRE RECEIPTS

A continued gain in theatre receipts was recorded for the calendar week ended April 1, 1933, when 107 houses in 19 key cities aggregated a gross of $1,164,355, an increase of $46,853 over the previous calendar week, ended March 25, when 107 theatres in 19 cities reported a total of $1,117,502. No new high individual theatre records were established during the more recent period, while three new "lows" were noted.

(Copyright, 1933: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to MOTION PICTURE HERALD expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Boston			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Fenway	1,800	30c-50c	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.).. and "Humanity" (Fox)	9,500	"Mystery of the Wax Museum".. (W. B.) and "Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	9,500	.....
Keith's	3,500	30c-50c	"King Kong" (Radio)	19,500	"Parole Girl" (Col.)	18,500	High 12-5 "Frankenstein".....	27,000
Keith-Boston ..	2,900	25c-50c	"The Constant Woman" ..... (World Wide)	15,500	"Sailor Be Good" (Radio).....	15,000	Low 3-9-33 "When Strangers Marry"..	12,000
Loew's Orpheum	2,200	25c-50c	"Rasputin and the Empress"..... (MGM) (2nd week)	14,500	"Rasputin and the Empress".... (MGM) (1st week)	16,000	High 4-9-32 "Steady Company".....	26,000
Loew's State ...	3,700	25c-50c	"The White Sister" (MGM).....	17,000	"Rasputin and the Empress" .... (MGM)	17,500	Low 3-9-33 "Topaze"	11,000
Metropolitan ...	4,350	35c-65c	"Pick Up" (Para.).....	30,000	"State Fair" (Fox).....	33,000	High 1-24 "Hell's Angels".....	32,500
Paramount	1,800	30c-50c	"A Lady's Profession" (Par.).... and "Humanity" (Fox)	10,000	"Mystery of the Wax Museum".. (W. B.) and "Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	11,000	Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight".....	9,500
							High 6-18-32— "Hell Divers," "Possessed" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight".....	11,000
							High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 3-9-33 "King of the Jungle".....	26,500
							.....
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-55c	"Pick Up" (Para.).....	12,200	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	9,800	High 3-28 "My Past".....	39,500
Century	3,000	25c	"Hard to Handle" (W. B.) and.. "Afraid to Talk" (U.)	7,600	"Hello, Everybody" (Para.) and "Parachute Jumper" (W. B.)	4,700	Low 3-24-33 "Our Betters".....	9,800
Great Lakes ...	3,000	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio).....	14,100	"42nd Street (W. B.)..... (2nd week)	11,800	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
Hippodrome	2,100	25c	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.).. and "No Other Woman" (Radio)	7,000	"Ladies They Talk About" (W.B.)	7,500	Low 3-24-33 "Hello, Everybody" and "Parachute Jumper"	4,700
Hollywood	300	25c	"Jungle Killer" (Century)..... (2nd week-9 days)	800	"Jungle Killer" (Century)..... (1st week)	1,100	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hot Pepper".....	5,800
							High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-16-32 "New Morals for Old".....	4,200
							.....
Lafayette	3,300	25c	"When Strangers Marry" (Col.).. and "Smoke Lightning" (Fox)	7,200	"As the Devil Commands" (Col.) and "State Trooper" (Col.)	8,600	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance".....	24,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hypnotized" and "Trailing the Killer"	5,100
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-68c	"Pick Up" (Para.).....	37,000	"The Keyhole" (W. B.).....	42,000	High 1-23-32 "Two Kinds of Women"..	67,000
McVickers	2,284	25c-50c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM).....	9,000	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)	9,500	Low 12-22-32 "The Match King".....	20,000
Oriental	3,940	35c-68c	"The White Sister" (MGM).....	22,750	"The Big Cage" (U.).....	12,000	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell".....	38,170
							Low 2-10-33 "Hello, Everybody".....	5,500
							High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
							Low 3-24-33 "The Big Cage".....	12,000
Palace	2,509	35c-75c	"Rome Express" (U.).....	20,000	"The Great Jasper" (Radio).....	19,500	High 4-2-32 "Cheaters at Play".....	33,000
Roosevelt	1,591	25c-50c	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.).....	8,850	"Girl Missing" (W. B.).....	8,000	Low 12-15-32 "False Faces".....	14,000
							High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 3-3-33 "Luxury Liner".....	6,200
Denver
Aladdin	1,500	25c-40c	"State Fair" (Fox).....	4,500	"Ladies They Talk About" (W.B.)	3,500	.....
Broadway	1,800	25c-50c	"The Big Cage" (U.).....	3,500	.....		.....
Denham	1,700	15c-25c	"They Just Had to Get Married" (U.)	4,250	"The Ferguson Case" (F.N.).....	3,200	.....
Denver	2,500	25c-50c	"Rasputin and the Empress"..... (MGM) (8 days)	14,000	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)..... (6 days)	6,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Clear All Wires".....	6,000
Orpheum	2,600	25c-40c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox).....	6,500	"Child of Manhattan" (Col.).....	8,000	.....
Paramount	2,000	25c-40c	"The Kid from Spain" (U.A.)....	7,000	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)..... (4 days)	1,400	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels".....	22,000
					"Whistling in the Dark" (MGM) (3 days)	1,600	Low 3-23-33 "Grand Slam" and "Whistling in the Dark"	3,000
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio).....	8,500	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	5,500	.....
Fisher	2,700	15c-40c	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)....	5,400	"The King's Vacation" (W. B.)..	4,200	.....
Fox	5,100	15c-40c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox).....	6,300	"Rome Express" (U.).....	6,500	.....
Michigan	4,000	25c-50c	"Pick Up" (Para.).....	15,400	"What! No Beer?" (MGM).....	10,400	.....
United Artists..	2,000	25c-50c	"Sign of the Cross" (Para.)..... (2nd week)	3,800	"Sign of the Cross" (Para.)..... (1st week)	4,100	.....
Hollywood
Grauman's Chinese	2,500	55c-$1.10	"King Kong" (Radio) ..... (6 days) ($3.30 premiere)	14,600	.....		High 7-31 "Trader Horn"	36,000
							Low 10-31 "Yellow Ticket"	9,000
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (2nd week)	17,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (1st week) ($2.00 premiere)	26,000	High 2-7 "Little Caesar".....	30,000
							Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family".....	7,000
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-40c	"The Great Jasper" (Radio).....	3,000	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	3,000	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs".....	10,000
							Low 3-10-33 "Topaze"	2,500
Circle	2,800	25c-40c	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)..	5,000	"The Woman Accused" (Para.)...	5,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	13,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Sign of the Cross"..... (Second run)	2,500
Indiana	3,300	25c-40c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.).....	8,000	"Parachute Jumper" (W. B.).... (40c) (5 days)	15,000	High 1-17 "Her Man"	25,000
							Low 3-3-33 "20,000 Years in Sing Sing"	5,000
Palace	2,800	25c-40c	"Rasputin and the Empress"..... (MGM)	6,500	"Fast Workers" (MGM)..... (2nd week)	4,500	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	22,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Clear All Wires".....	3,500

"LAUGHTER INTENSE... BREAKS ALL BOUNDS" says- MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Here they are again...the gay love birds...Slim and Zasu, trying to find a little peace on their honeymoon . . . and mother-in-law tagging along to see that everything goes all right!

SLIM ZASU

SUMMERVILLE-PITTS

With Laura Hope Crews, Shirley Grey, Alexander Carr, Mae Busch. Story by Tim Whelan. Screenplay by William Anthony McGuire. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Sam Taylor. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

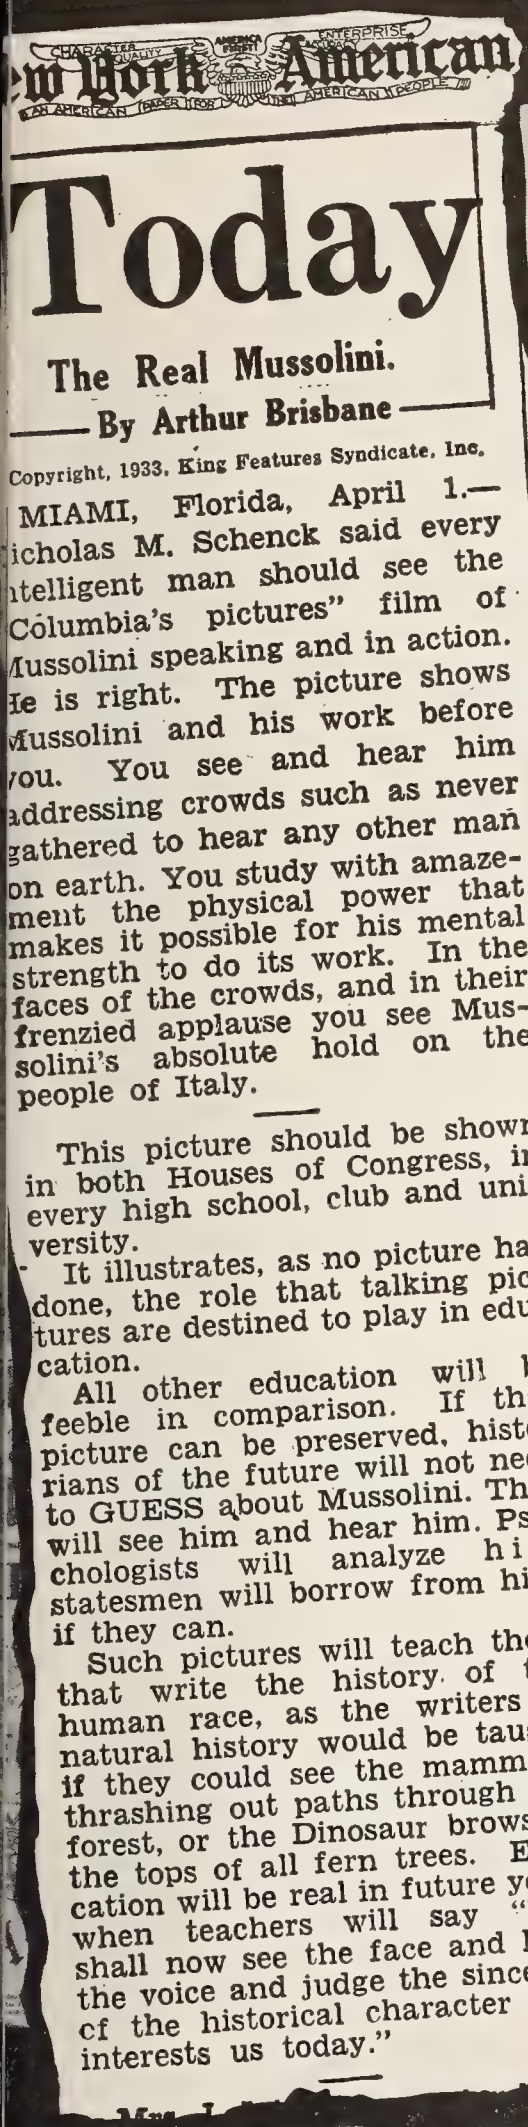
OUT ALL NIGHT

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week: Picture	Current Week: Gross	Previous Week: Picture	Previous Week: Gross	High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Kansas City
Mainstreet	3,049	25c-40c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	5,000	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	5,500	High 1-9-32 "Peach o' Reno" 25,500 Low 3-7-33 "The Great Jasper" 4,000 (Second week of straight film policy.)
Midland	4,000	25c	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U.A.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	8,000	"Red Dust" (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,700	High 1-5-33 "Strange Interlude" 30,000 Low 12-8-32 "Man Against Woman" 6,000
Newman	2,000	25c-50c	"Hard to Handle" (W.B.) (8 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,000	"The Woman Accused" (Para.) (8 days and Sat. midnite show)	5,200	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express" 25,000 Low 3-14-33 "King of the Jungle" 5,000
Uptown	2,000	25c-40c	"The King's Vacation" (W.B.)	4,000	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	3,000	High 1-10 "Girl of the Golden West" 8,000 Low 5-21-32 "Lena Rivers" 2,000
Los Angeles
Loew's State	2,416	25c-40c	"The Big Drive" (First Div.)	11,800	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	15,000	High 10-25 "Susan Lenox" 39,000 Low 3-5-32 "The Silent Witness" 6,963
Paramount	3,596	25c-40c	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	13,000	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	11,500	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor" 41,000 Low 2-6-32 "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" 7,500
RKO	2,700	25c-55c	"Goona Goona" (First Div.) and "Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio) (2nd week)	5,600	"Goona Goona" (First Div.) and "Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio) (1st week)	9,000
W. B. Downtown	2,400	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	15,750	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (1st week)	19,000	High 2-7 "Little Caesar" 27,000 Low 4-23-32 "Destry Rides Again" 6,200
W. B. Western	2,400	25c-45c	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	6,300	"Parachute Jumper" (W. B.)	5,300
Minneapolis
Century	1,640	25c-40c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	4,000	"Men Must Fight" (MGM)	4,000
Lyric	1,238	25c-40c	"20,000 Years in Sing Sing" (F.N.)	3,000	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W. B.)	2,500	High 5-30 "Kiki" 4,000 Low 1-24 "Men on Call" 1,200
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"Our Betters" (Radio)	6,000	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U.A.)	7,000
State	2,300	25c-55c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	7,000	"Employees' Entrance" (F.N.)	6,500	High 1-2-32 "Sooky" 10,000 Low 3-10-33 "King of the Jungle" 3,500
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"Topaze" (Radio) and "Lucky Devils" (Radio)	11,000	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) and "The Woman Accused" (Para.)	9,500	High 1-10 "Just Imagine" 18,000 Low 12-23 "The Guardsman" and "The Tip Off" 8,000
Imperial	1,914	15c-50c	"Violette Imperiales" (French)	1,800	"L'Ane de Buridan" (French)	1,800	High 1-17 "Office Wife" 10,000 Low 3-31-33 "Violette Imperiales" 1,800
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Hot Pepper" (Fox)	13,000	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)	11,000	High 4-2-32 "Fireman, Save My Child" 16,500 Low 7-18 "Stepping Out" 9,000
Palace	2,600	25c-75c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	12,500	"Secret of Madame Blanche" (MGM)	10,500	High 4-2-32 "One Hour With You" 19,500 Low 12-23-32 "Life Begins" 8,500
Princess	2,272	25c-60c	"Flag Lieutenant" (British) and "It's a King" (British)	8,000	"Perfect Understanding" (U.A.) and "Nagana" (U.)	7,500	High 4-1 "City Lights" 22,500 Low 12-23-32 "The Crusader" and "Hearts of Humanity" 6,000
New York
Astor	1,120	55c-$2.20	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week)	14,257	"The White Sister" (MGM) (1st week)	14,559	High 1-2-32 "Hell Divers" 24,216 Low 3-26-33 "The White Sister" 14,559
Cameo	549	25c-75c	"Voodoo" (Principal) and "Song of Life" (Tobis)	2,300	"Shame" (Amkino) (2nd week)	3,250
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.65	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	41,301	"Fast Workers" (MGM)	25,641	High 1-9-32 "Mata Hari" 110,466 Low 2-2-33 "Whistling in the Dark" 23,600
Gaiety	807	55c-$1.65	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (12th weeks-11 days)	13,500	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (11th week)	8,900
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"State Trooper" (Col.)	8,800	"Love in Morocco" (Gaumont-British)	7,800	High 12-12 "Frankenstein" 53,800 Low 3-10-33 "Racetrack" 7,100
Palace	2,500	25c-75c	"King Kong" (Radio)	13,500	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) (2nd week)	7,250
Paramount	3,700	35c-99c	"Pick Up" (Para.)	34,600	"Strictly Personal" (Para.)	43,600	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie" 85,900 Low 2-2-33 "Hello, Everybody" 15,600
Rialto	2,200	40c-65c	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	13,500	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	11,000	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express" 64,600 Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels" 4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-85c	"Secrets" (U. A.) (2nd week)	21,200	"Secrets" (U. A.) (1st week)	27,440	High 1-9-32 "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" 67,100 Low 7-29-32 "Igloo" 8,000
RKO Music Hall	5,945	35c-$1.65	"Sweepings" (Radio)	88,811	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	54,385
RKO Roxy	3,700	35c-$1.65	"Private Jones" (U.)	27,697	"King Kong" (Radio) (3rd week)	27,956
Roxy	6,200	25c-55c	"Daring Daughters" (Tower)	16,200	"After the Ball" (Fox)	15,300	High 1-1-32 "Delicious" 133,000 Low 1-26-33 "Air Hostess" 9,100
Strand	3,000	25c-85c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	24,589	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	35,321	High 1-17 "Little Caesar" 74,821 Low 4-2-32 "The Missing Rembrandt" 8,912
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-40c	"The Great Jasper" (Radio)	3,100	"Our Betters" (Radio)	3,200	High 2-7 "Illicit" 11,000 Low 3-11-33 "From Hell to Heaven" 1,350
Criterion	1,700	10c-55c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	5,600	"The King's Vacation" (W. B.) (6 days)	4,000	High 2-21 "Cimarron" 15,500 Low 3-11-33 "Clear All Wires" 1,800
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) (3 days)	1,000	"Broadway Bad" (Fox) (4 days)	1,200	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion" 7,200 Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy" 900
			"Infernal Machine" (Fox) (4 days)	1,000	"When Strangers Marry" (Col.) (3 days)	1,100
Mid-West	1,500	10c-55c	"Private Jones" (U.)	3,200	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	2,000	High 9-19 "Young As You Feel" 11,000 Low 3-11-33 "Employees' Entrance" 1,400

THANK YOU MR. ARTHUR BRISBANE

(EDITOR HEARST NEWSPAPERS)



FOR TELLING 14,000,000 READERS IN HUNDREDS OF NEWSPAPERS WHAT WE HAVE BEEN TRYING TO GET ACROSS TO THOUSANDS OF EXHIBITORS!

* * *

THANK YOU MR. NICHOLAS SCHENCK

(Pres. Loew's, Inc., and M. G. M.)

FOR RECOMMENDING A WORTHY PICTURE EVEN THOUGH IT IS A COMPETITOR'S PRODUCT!

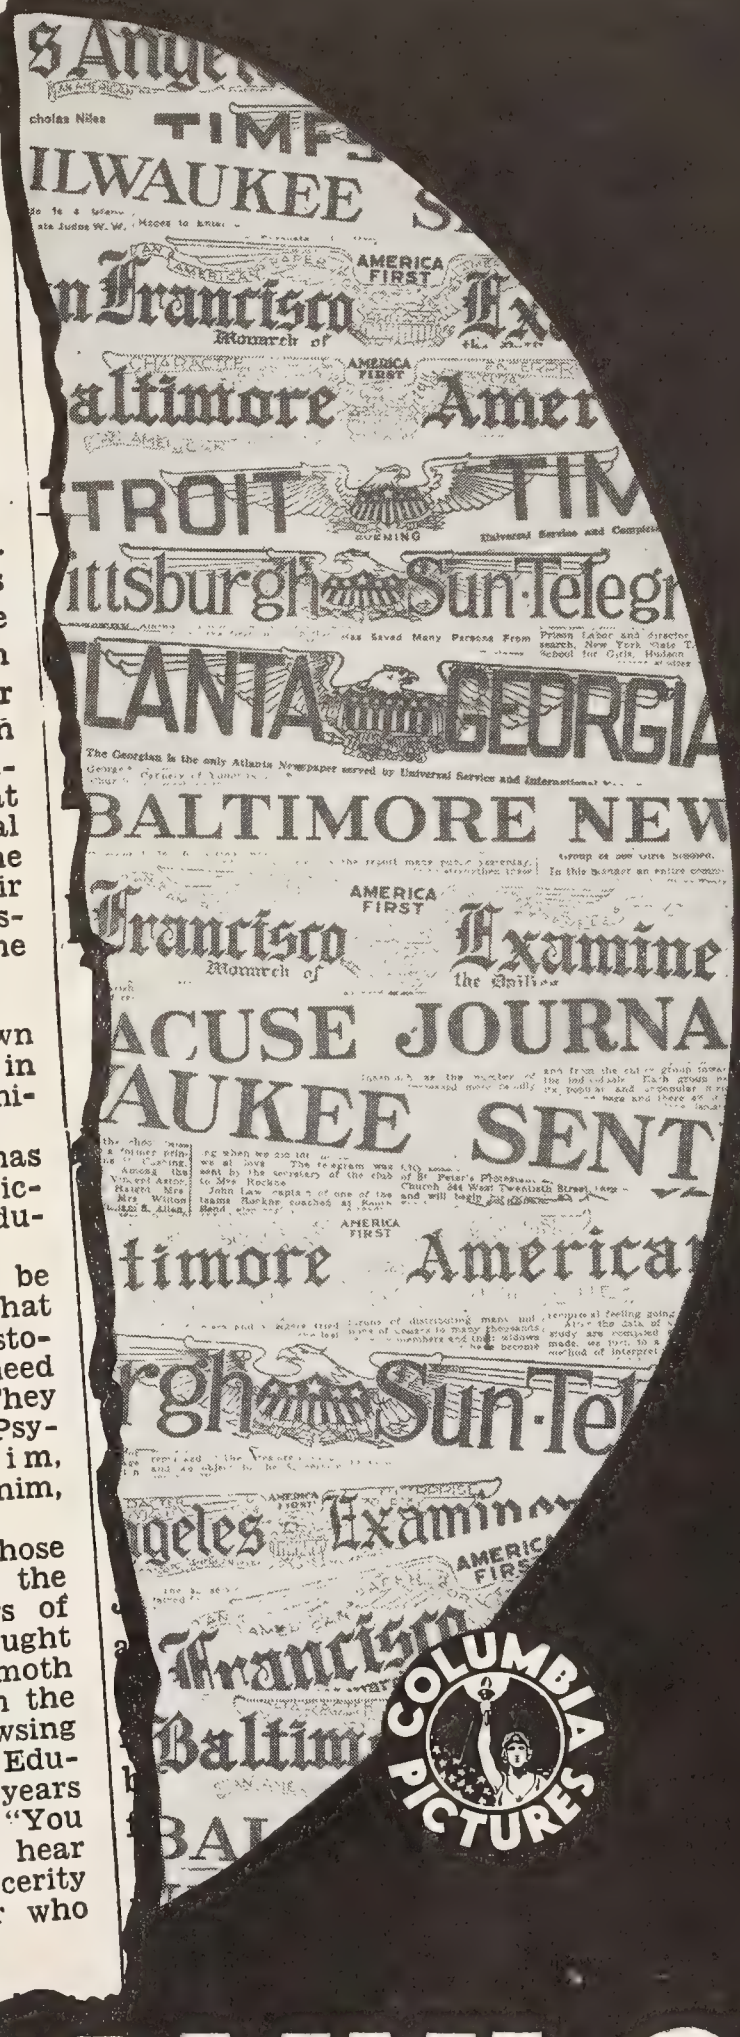
New York American

Today

The Real Mussolini.

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.



MIAMI, Florida, April 1.—Nicholas M. Schenck said every intelligent man should see the Columbia's pictures" film of Mussolini speaking and in action. He is right. The picture shows Mussolini and his work before you. You see and hear him addressing crowds such as never gathered to hear any other man on earth. You study with amazement the physical power that makes it possible for his mental strength to do its work. In the faces of the crowds, and in their frenzied applause you see Mussolini's absolute hold on the people of Italy.

This picture should be shown in both Houses of Congress, in every high school, club and university.

It illustrates, as no picture has done, the role that talking pictures are destined to play in education.

All other education will be feeble in comparison. If that picture can be preserved, historians of the future will not need to GUESS about Mussolini. They will see him and hear him. Psychologists will analyze him, statesmen will borrow from him, if they can.

Such pictures will teach those that write the history of the human race, as the writers of natural history would be taught if they could see the mammoth thrashing out paths through the forest, or the Dinosaur browsing the tops of all fern trees. Education will be real in future years when teachers will say "You shall now see the face and hear the voice and judge the sincerity of the historical character who interests us today."

MUSSOLINI SPEAKS!

Dramatically Described by LOWELL THOMAS

A COLUMBIA Special PRODUCTION

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	25c-40c	"The Big Cage" (U.) and "Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio) (20c-40c)	7,250	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) and "Parole Girl" (Col.)	7,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron" Low 3-24-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" and "Parole Girl"	25,550 7,000
Paramount	2,900	25c-50c	"The Woman Accused" (Para.)	7,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	9,500	High 4-23-32 "Tarzan, the Ape Man" Low 5-21-32 "Wet Parade" and "It's Tough to Be Famous"	13,750 4,000
State	1,200	15c-25c	"Secret of Madame Blanche" (MGM) (3 days) "Blondie Johnson" (F. N.) (3 days)	500 600	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3 days) (25c-50c) "From Heaven to Hell" (Para.) (5 days)	3,000 900	High 3-14 "Trader Horn" Low 2-10-33 "The Devil Is Driving" and "The Intruder"	10,000 1,000
World	2,500	25c-40c	"Hello, Everybody" (Para.) and "Hard to Handle" (W. B.)	5,500	"Lawyer Man" (W. B.) and "Face in the Sky" (Fox)	6,500	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love" Low 11-28 "The Cisco Kid"	16,000 4,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	25c-50c	"Son-Daughter" (MGM) (6 days)	2,100	"Madame Butterfly" (Para.) (6 days)	2,200	High 12-17 "The Guardsman" Low 10-1-32 "Make Me a Star"	6,500 1,500
Boyd	2,400	40c-55c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) (6 days)	11,500	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.) (6 days)	15,000	.....
Earle	2,000	40c-65c	"What! No Beer!" (MGM) (6 days)	15,000	"The Great Jasper" (Radio) (6 days)	13,000	High 1-5-33 "Breach of Promise" Low 7-23-32 "Miss Pinkerton"	29,000 12,500
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox) (6 days)	17,000	"After the Ball" (Fox) (6 days)	16,500	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back" Low 6-18-32 "Mystery Ranch"	40,000 15,000
Karlton	1,000	30c-50c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM) (6 days)	4,200	"Air Hostess" (Col.) (5 days)	2,500	High 5-2 "City Lights" Low 3-23-33 "Air Hostess"	8,000 2,500
Keith's	2,000	15c-35c	"Manhattan Tower" (Remington) (6 days)	7,500	"Jungle Bride" (Monogram) (6 days)	6,000	High 1-30-32 "Arrowsmith" Low 3-23-33 "Jungle Bride"	27,000 6,000
Stanley	3,700	40c-55c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (4th week-6 days)	14,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week-6 days)	21,500	High 12-19 "Frankenstein" Low 7-25 "Rebound"	31,000 8,000
Stanton	1,700	30c-55c	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) (6 days)	6,000	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) (6 days)	5,500	High 3-21 "Last Parade" Low 3-23-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble"	16,500 5,500
Portland, Ore.
Broadway	1,912	25c-40c	"The Woman Accused" (Para.)	6,700	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)	7,000	High 1-10 "Min and Bill" Low 10-1-32 "The Crash"	21,000 2,800
Liberty	1,800	15c-25c	"Luxury Liner" (Para.)	2,000	"Robbers' Roost" (Fox)	2,000	.....
Oriental	2,040	25c-35c	"The Big Drive" (First Div.)	2,500	"Nagana" (U.)	2,400	.....
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-55c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	4,600	"Our Betters" (Radio)	4,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron" Low 3-17-33 "Great Jasper"	20,000 4,000
United Artists	945	25c-40c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	7,500	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	5,000	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels" Low 3-10-33 "Madame Butterfly"	12,500 1,600
San Francisco
Embassy	1,380	25c-50c	"Nagana" (U.) (9 days)	3,500	"As the Devil Commands" (Col.)	4,000	.....
Filmarte	1,400	25c-50c	"Man Without a Name" (Foreign)	1,600	"Russia at Work" (Foreign)	1,750	.....
Golden Gate	2,800	25c-65c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	14,500	"Our Betters" (Radio)	13,500	High 2-9-33 "The Mummy" Low 6-11-32 "Lena Rivers"	25,500 7,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-75c	"The King's Vacation" (W.B.)	9,500	"Strange Interlude" (MGM)	18,000	High 1-9-32 "The Champ" Low 3-31-33 "The King's Vacation"	35,600 9,50
St. Francis	1,435	25c-50c	"Hello, Everybody" (Para.) and "Humanity" (Fox)	6,000	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) and "Broadway Bad" (Fox)	13,500	.....
United Artists	1,200	25c-50c	"Secrets" (U.A.)	10,500	"Maedchen in Uniform" (Krimsky & Cochran)	5,000	.....
Warfield	2,700	35c-90c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)	14,000	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	15,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" Low 3-9-33 "Woman Accused"	28,000 12,000
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-50c	"The Big Drive" (First Div.)	5,000	"Maedchen in Uniform" (Krimsky & Cochran)	3,000	.....
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-55c	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) and "A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	6,000	"Face in the Sky" (Fox) and "The Woman Accused" (Para.)	5,500	High 7-30-32 "Million Dollar Legs" Low 3-18-33 "From Hell to Heaven" and "Secret of Madame Blanche"	18,500 5,000
Liberty	2,000	10c-25c	"Deception" (Col.) and "The Intruder" (Allied)	3,750	"No More Orchids" (Col.)	3,750	High 1-10 "The Lash" Low 11-11-32 "Amazon Head Hunters"	11,500 3,000
Music Box	950	25c-50c	"Perfect Understanding" (U.A.) (6 days)	3,250	"Private Jones" (U.)	4,250	High 2-28 "City Lights" Low 11-25-32 "The Crooked Circle"	14,000 3,000
Paramount	3,050	25c-55c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	5,000	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.) (return engagement)	6,500	High 1-10 "Paid" Low 4-1-33 "Grand Slam"	18,000 5,000
Rex	1,500	15c-25c	"Lucky Devils" (Radio)	2,750	"Sailor Be Good" (Radio)	4,000	.....
Washington
Columbia	1,232	25c-40c	"Smoke Lightning" (Fox)	3,200	"The Jungle Killer" (Century)	2,750	.....
Earle	2,323	25c-66c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	18,500	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)	18,000	.....
Fox	3,434	25c-66c	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	22,000	"Broadway Bad" (Fox)	23,250	.....
Loew's Palace	2,363	35c-55c	"Pick Up" (Para.)	12,500	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	15,500	.....
Metropolitan	1,600	25c-55c	"Sign of the Cross" (Para.)	8,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	5,200	.....
Rialto	1,900	25c-55c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) (8 days)	5,200	"The Big Cage" (U.) (2nd week)	3,000	.....
RKO Keith's	1,832	25c-55c	"King Kong" (Radio)	16,500	"Our Betters" (Radio)	8,750	.....

The CRITICS SAY:-

IT'S A MONEY MAKER HAS EVERYTHING
FIRST-RATE
EXCELLENT
A WINNER

!

"A SHRIEK in the NIGHT"

Featuring

GINGER ROGERS—LYLE TALBOT

WITH

ARTHUR HOYT, PURNELL PRATT, HARVEY CLARK, LILLIAN HARMER, MAURICE BLACK, LOUISE BEAVER, CLARENCE WILSON

M. P. HERALD:	Put your personal endorsement on it—guaranteeing that anyone who is not satisfied with what you say about it will have his money cheerfully refunded. Worthy of a spot in the bookings of any Exhibitor. Has everything the fans want.
VARIETY:	"Shriek" can stand on its own feet as first-rate mystery with plenty of comedy. Will stack up with major studio product.
HOLLYWOOD HERALD:	Here is an excellent mystery melodrama. The whole thing clicks as entertainment. The M. H. Hoffman organization can take a bow on "A Shriek in the Night."
HOLLYWOOD SCREEN WORLD:	Excellent program picture. Interesting murder mystery. Lots of good comedy. A money maker!
THE LOWDOWN:	A-1 murder mystery. Good comedy and suspense that holds to the end of the picture.
HOLLYWOOD FILMOGRAPH:	It holds you all the way. M. H. Hoffman produced another winner. Cast is far above average. Can play any theatre and send cash customers home satisfied.

ALLIED PICTURES CORP. THE HOFFMANS

NOW BOOKING THRU

ALLIED EXCHANGES

EVERYWHERE

JENKINS' COLYUM

Neligh, Neb.

DEAR HERALD:

It's a common fault of ours that when we throw a bouquet it quite frequently has a brick in it. That's why we are not given to this exercise. Recently we throw a bouquet that we supposed were American Beauty roses only to have the lady write and ask us where we got the dog-fennel.

Right now we are in the mood to throw another bouquet. We have just read Mr. Terry Ramsaye's editorial in the March 18 issue of the HERALD under the caption, "Little Old Hometown Becomes Biggest Place in America," and if this bouquet turn out to be a bunch of Russian thistles it will be because our botanical and floral education was acquired in Bill Smith's sheep pasture.

Mr. Ramsaye's editorial should be thoroughly digested by everyone in the motion picture business, from the boys at the mahogany desks down in New York clear down the line to include the gatekeepers and powder monkeys in the studios in Hollywood.

All during the campaign we heard a lot of windjamming about the "Forgotten Man," and Mr. Ramsaye's editorial brings this guy to the fore in such a way that he can't very well be forgotten much longer if this . . . business is to succeed as it is entitled to.

If the producers would care to know the real reason for the growing indifference of the public for picture entertainment, let them go out of the larger cities and into the smaller communities and get the public's reaction to such pictures as "Tonight Is Ours" and they will get a slant on this business that they can get in no other way.

Maybe we are radical. So was Patrick Henry. Maybe we are a quack doctor. We have known of a lot of others. Maybe we don't know a queen full from a bobtail flush, and maybe our eight years' experience traveling in thousands of communities and meeting thousands of exhibitors hasn't taught us anything about this business, maybe it hasn't; if not, then there is something wrong with our head and we should have a guardian. At least we have our opinions.

▽

How would you like to get out and buck 33 inches of snow that has covered eastern Nebraska and western Iowa for the past week? We wouldn't like it, that's the reason why we haven't done it. It has been the worst blockade of snow we have known in years, and we've seen alotta snow. If this keeps up much longer we are going to put wings on April Shower.

▽

Now comes a statement that the Marwari Association has asked the chief secretary of the government of Bengal, India, to have all pictures examined before showing, for fear of the bad effect their display of lawlessness, passion and criminal cunning might have on their youth. Gee whiz, those Indians over there ought to stand for 'em if we do.

▽

While we have been snowed in we got out our trout rod and put it together and whipped it around to see if it was still pliable, and it worked so nicely that we broke forth:

Wait till the sun shines, baby,
And the clouds go drifting by,
Then we'll go down to the trout stream, maybe,
You and I.
We'll try a Royal Coachman
On those trout so shy,
Wait till the sun shines, baby,
By and by.

▽

And just then the weather man broadcast more snow for tonight. OHMYGOSH.

▽

Speaking of New York. We have never seen New York, for two very good reasons. One reason is because of the lack of sufficient finances and the other reason doesn't matter. We have before us pictures of several of New York's buildings. The Woolworth Building. The Chrysler Building. The Empire State Building. The Waldorf-Astoria, not to mention Radio City, and we understand that a large proportion of the office windows in these buildings are decorated with the sign, "For Rent."

Hollywood has had a number of Neros in her orchestra and they have been pretty good fiddlers, too. They have this fact to console 'em, that when the debris is cleared away there will be erected a better structure on a surer foundation, because Experience teaches a lesson that even a mullethead could understand and some wise people couldn't get out of books.

Producers have been shooting at the moon ever since sound came in and their ammunition is about exhausted. Hollywood has a lot of very excellent people producing pictures, but a few rotten apples will in time rot the whole barrel. It's better to sort them out. The broadcasting of scandal and divorce cases is not whetting the public appetite for picture entertainment a particle. Let's have less of it.

We realize that this is pretty plain talk, but we are not a "yes man" and we never stutter adambit, and when we see a black cat we know it isn't a white bulldog. To get at what we have been trying to tell you, go back and read Mr. Ramsaye's editorial on commonsense in the business and it will do you good. It was built for that purpose.

P. S.—The weatherman was right. It has been snowing all day and our wife won't let us use some of our choice expressions in the house, so what's the use? No runs. No hits, but plenty of errors.

(COLONEL) J. C. JENKINS
The HERALD's Vagabond Colyumnist

MGM Writ Halts New Mexico Law

MGM has won a temporary injunction in U. S. district court at Santa Fe restraining the state of New Mexico from proceeding under its newly enacted law making compulsory simultaneous offering of pictures to all competetive exhibitors. Judge Neblett signed the temporary injunction, which MGM will seek to have made permanent.

Zeidman to Make Italian Picture Featuring Mussolini

Rights to "The March of Two Worlds" have been purchased by B. F. Zeidman for picturization, and, it is said, will feature Benito Mussolini as a dramatic character.

"The March of Two Worlds" will portray historical events for the sake of their bearing on the history of the country itself rather than on the life of Mussolini, it is announced. The story was written by Amelio Colantoni, Italian author and newspaper man, and Edward Patterson, formerly with West Coast Theatres. The authors will leave shortly for Italy to complete the details and make arrangements for the company to follow. Fox may release it.

Ryan Is Fox Casting Director

James Ryan has been named casting director for Fox. Duncan Kramer is art director.

SIGNED . . .

Columbia

Hal Skelly signed for series of pictures. . . . Frank Capra to direct "Madame La Guimp." . . . Sally Blane, Tully Marshall, and Wallace Ford added to "He Lived to Kill," Ben Stoloff to direct. . . . Ferdinand Munier, Lee Phelps and Edwin Maxwell join "Tampico." . . . Mary Carr and Viola Dana sign for "The Strange Case of Poison Ivy." . . . Barbara Weeks, Dorothy Burgess and Rockliffe Fellows assigned to "Rusty Rides Alone." . . . Arthur Wanzer, Henry Wadsworth and Dewey Robinson engaged for "Soldiers of the Storm." . . . Erick Hecking signed for "The Octopus." . . . George Rosner in "The Circus Queen Murder." . . . Gene Raymond and Fay Wray assigned to "Rules for Wives." . . . Lambert Hillyer to direct "Grass Valley." . . .

▽

Fox

Emile Chautard, Paul McAllister and Sarah Padden join "Pilgrimage." . . . Raoul Roulien to star in English pictures. . . . Sally Eilers renews contract. . . . "Husbands Cost Money" title changed to "Hold Me Tight." . . . Rita Kaufman made head of costume department. . . . Sterling Holloway added to "Adorable."

▽

MGM

Johnny Weissmuller and Muriel Evans given new contracts. . . . Lee Tracy in "The Chasers," Jack Conway to direct. . . . Clark Gable and Jean Harlow to co-star in "Nora," Sam Wood to direct. . . .

▽

Paramount

Willard Robertson signed for "Supernatural." . . . Baby Rose and James Wang added to "International House." . . . Kenneth Howell, Crauford Kent and Paul Cremonesi join "The Eagle and the Hawk." . . . Buster Crabbe given new contract. . . . James Dunn succeeds Ricardo Cortez in "Dead on Arrival." . . . Ralph Rainger and Rolfe Sedan engaged for "The Song of Songs." . . . George Raft in "The Trumpet Blows." . . .

▽

RKO Radio

Russell Birdwell to direct "Flying Circus." . . . Bill Boyd in "Emergency Call." . . . Helen Mack, Greta Nissen and Phil Harris assigned to "Maiden Cruise." . . . Archie Marshek appointed technical assistant and Shirley Burden appointed story assistant to Merian C. Cooper. . . . Lowell Sherman to direct "Morning Glory. . . . Anita Louise added to "Double Heart Finesse." . . . Francis Lederer assigned to "Troubadour." . . . Richard Dix in "Birds of Prey" and "Ad Man." . . . Helen Mack signed for "Jamboree." . . . Norman Foster engaged for "Careless." . . .

▽

Universal

Ken Maynard in "King of the Arena." . . . Robert Wyler signed to direct "The Forgotten Boy" and "Bagdad on the Hudson." . . . Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts assigned to "Alaska Bound." . . . June Knight in "Women, Inc."

▽

Warner-First National

Margaret Lindsay and Philip Faversham added to "Fellow Prisoners." . . . Bette Davis in "Easy to Love." . . . Glenda Farrell, Lyle Talbot and Kay Francis join "Mary Stevens, M. D.". . .

Goetz on Consolidated Board

Addition of Harry M. Goetz as a director of Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., completed the personnel of the board last week, with the re-election of R. C. Dearstyne, J. D. Eagan, M. Taylor and M. H. Lavenstein. Herbert J. Yates, president, reported the company's earnings as "running at a satisfactory rate."

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 55—Ramsay MacDonald speaks at Geneva—Manchuria celebrates separation from China—Shaw visits United States—Hoover returns to California—Pictures of convention of beauty culturists—Japan coast swept by quake and tidal wave—John D. enjoys children's fair at Ormond Beach, Fla.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 56—MacDonald and Mussolini meet in Rome—Germany army hails leaders—Roosevelt names farm loan boss—Liner capsizes at pier at Seattle—"Dorigen" wins British classic—Circus elephants practice at Peru, Ind.—Ice-breakers open navigation on St. Lawrence River—Girl, 25, admitted to high court.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 254—Coast Guard patrol clears ice in North Atlantic—Mussolini greets MacDonald in Rome—Circus giants in a rehearsal at Peru, Ind.—German playmates hail Roosevelt—25,000 chicks hatched daily at Peoria.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 255—New York woman's entry wins British Grand National—1933 for northern points—Roosevelt made member of summer girl takes to lace—Circus leaves Florida National Press Club—Pictures of strange pets.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 69—Veterans gather in Geneva for an end to war—New Yorker wins $102,000 in Grand National sweepstakes—MacDonald and Mussolini meet in Rome for peace conference.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 70—Children hold fashion parade in Florida—President accepts National Press Club membership—75-year-old men play ball at St. Petersburg, Fla.—Six die in plane crash.

PATHE NEWS—No. 70—Beer plants rush work—Girl at Reading, Pa., is champion pretzel bender—Labor secretary pleads for labor army—Shaw arrives in San Francisco—Liner capsizes at Seattle—Babe Ruth signs contract at St. Petersburg, Fla.

PATHE NEWS—No. 71—MacDonald and Mussolini work for world peace at Rome—Coast Guard patrol breaks giant icebergs in Atlantic—Chicago World Fair nears opening—Darkies stage free-for-all at Miami—Hitler becomes dictator of Germany—News flashes.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 132—Mussolini launches peace plan with MacDonald in Rome—Japanese tots seen as animated dolls in pageant at Wilmington, Cal.—Chicago World Fair nears completion—Blind man builds two-story home.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 133—Tornado rages at Little Rock, Ark.—Cincinnati opens new Union Terminal Station—New water sport at Long Beach, Cal.—Train wreck at Wyoming, Del., kills two—Trojans start football.

Warner, RCA in London Deal

Warner Brothers First National Productions, Ltd., has concluded a recording contract with RCA Photophone, Ltd., London, giving to the Warner subsidiary use of a complete RCA Photophone sound truck for mobile sound recording work.

ON BROADWAY

Week of April 1

MAYFAIR

Scrappy's Party.....Columbia

PARAMOUNT

Betty Boop's Birthday Party. Paramount
The Plumber and the Lady.. Paramount

RIALTO

Aloha Oe.....Paramount
Easy on the Eyes.....Paramount
Screen Souvenirs.....Paramount

RIVOLI

Benny Davis.....Master Art Products
Mickey's Mellerdrammer...United Artists
New England Sunset.....Paramount

RKO MUSIC HALL

Hot and Cold Thrills.....Paramount

RKO ROXY

Hip, Zip, Hooray!.....RKO Radio
The Beer Parade.....Columbia

ROXY

Matto Grosso.....Principal
Mickey Steps Out.....Columbia

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

Al Steffes will join the local ranks of exhibitors around Easter time if negotiations which he has started are completed. The former Allied president is dickering for the Playhouse theatre on Michigan avenue which, according to current reports, he will open under the name of the World theatre. The dope has it that Al plans to show foreign pictures exclusively.

▽

Joe Goldberg, wellknown in Chicago and for many years in charge of projection for Publix, has opened his own theatre supply store and projector and sound equipment repairing service at 823 South Wabash.

▽

Si Greiver has acquired distribution in this territory for "Sucker Money."

▽

Local playhouses, like other institutions, are starting to brush up for World's Fair visitors. Charles Stern has redecorated and made a number of improvements at the Cinema and Austin theatres while Aaron Courshon has made the Drake resplendent with new carpets and draperies from Decorative Arts Company.

▽

J. J. Clarke has opened offices at 1018 South Wabash avenue, from where he is handling "The Big Drive" for Illinois and Indiana.

▽

Henry Bambara will open the Lil theatre Easter Day in Forest Park. RCA High Fidelity sound equipment has been installed.

▽

Steve Montgomery is a new addition to the sales staff at United Artists.

HOLQUIST

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

IN this, the exhibitor's own department, the theatremen of the nation serve one another with information on the box office performance of product for their mutual benefit. It is a service of the exhibitor for the exhibitor. Address all communications to—

What the Picture Did for Me
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Columbia

HELLO TROUBLE: Buck Jones—A good western. —Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

THAT'S MY BOY: Richard Cromwell—Very good football picture. Everyone liked it 100 per cent. Drew fair. Running time, 71 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND: Lee Tracy —This is one of the finest pictures we have run in a long time. With a plot centering about Washington, it seems almost prophetic in present day politics. It is timely, has an absorbing romance, rises to historical greatness in spots. Excellent shots of the Capitol, the first I ever saw of the actual setting of the Declaration of Independence. Tracy and Constance Cummings and also the supporting cast do excellent work. Advertise this one widely, as it will please everyone, and it is a real special in every sense.—G. C. Moore, American Theatre, Harlowton, Mont. Small town patronage.

First National

CABIN IN THE COTTON: Richard Barthelmess—A good, clean picture packed with entertainment. Played Nov. 26-27.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

CABIN IN THE COTTON: Richard Barthelmess—Certainly a fine picture. If this fails to please just as well fill the show shop up with hay and quit.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

EMPLOYEES ENTRANCE: Warren William, Loretta Young—A very nice little program picture. Will please the younger people very much and there will be no kicks from the older ones. Drew average business for us. Played Mar. 22-23. Running time, 75 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

FRISCO JENNY: Ruth Chatterton—The picture is O. K. of the kind. Acting was good. My folks do not care for Ruth.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

FRISCO JENNY: Ruth Chatterton—At last we have Chatterton in a picture that gives her a chance to do something, and she turns in a finished performance, but it came too late for us. Chatterton is dead here as far as the patrons are concerned. I think "The Crash" finished this fine star. This one drew very poor for us on our two best days of the week. Put a little extra advertising behind the picture and you may get them in. Played Mar. 19-20. Running time, 76 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

LIFE BEGINS: Loretta Young, Eric Linden—A picture that got them out, which is a miracle in these times. Came in for a lot of criticism but was generally liked. Young and Linden fine, but Glenda Farrell almost steals the show. Played Dec. 17-18.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

THE MATCH KING: Warren William, Lili Damita—Good picture but did not mean a thing to our patrons. Very poor business.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

SCARLET DAWN: Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.—Fine Russian revolt picture. Fairbanks, Jr., is well liked by our patrons. Good business. Played Feb. 19-20. Running time, 58 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

SILVER DOLLAR: Edward G. Robinson—This picture did not draw for me but most of the patrons liked it. The ladies did not care so much for it.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

SIT TIGHT: Joe E. Brown—Went big. Pleased all. Good sound. Played Sunday to a good business. Can't go wrong on this one.—William Thatcher, Royal Theatre, Salina, Kan. General patronage.

THREE ON A MATCH: Joan Blondell, Ann Dvorak—Excellent. Dvorak fine. I consider it one of the best shows of the year. Played Jan. 7-8.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

Fox

CONGORILLA: Taken by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson—The best of the Johnson pictures. Great entertainment for the kiddies and enjoyed by adult patronage as well. Particularly interesting here, as the Johnsons were here in person soon after his return from the cruise on the Snark.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

DOWN TO EARTH: Will Rogers—Rogers a favorite here and many thought this his best picture. The kind of show you do not have to apologize for.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

DOWN TO EARTH: Will Rogers—This picture is certainly in keeping with the times. A very fine picture, but it didn't draw them in. Running time, 73 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

THE FIRST YEAR: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell —Fox chose a poor play for these popular players. They do good work with nothing to work on. When Fox has all California in its background, why use stage settings instead of real ones? Have noticed this in several Fox pictures lately, and it gives an aspect of cheapness and inferiority to their product. The picture drew the first day, but it is not up to standard Gaynor pictures; not the special a Gaynor usually is.—G. C. Moore, American Theatre, Harlowton, Mont. Small town patronage.

THE GOLDEN WEST: George O'Brien, Janet Chandler—This picture is good and it went over great. —W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

THE GOLDEN WEST: George O'Brien—A truly wonderful picture that should please anywhere. Really much better than the "Covered Wagon." Historical, comedy drama and action. A picture for the masses. Fine direction and produced on a big scale. A picture for the children as well as the adults. Tell them you have a real show and watch them smile when they come out.—Guy W. Johnson, Johnson Theatre, Bowman, N. D. General patronage.

THE GOLDEN WEST: George O'Brien—A Zane Grey story, almost epic in form, of the early West, excellent and above ordinary westerns. Worth advertising more than a western, as it contains those excellent shots of buffalo herds and wagon trains and the building of the first railroad. The Indian dance is authentic. It drew well, as Zane Greys always do.—G. C. Moore, American Theatre, Harlowton, Mont. Small town patronage.

HANDLE WITH CARE: James Dunn, Boots Mallory—Here is the ideal Saturday picture. Made to order for family trade, and the kids eat it up. Wish they would make more like this one so we could mix them up with westerns for Saturday programs. Go after business on this picture. It's clean and it's good. Played Mar. 11. Running time, 77 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

HOT PEPPER: Lupe Velez, Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe—Made a little money. Nothing big but will please.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

ME AND MY GAL: Spencer Tracy, Joan Bennett—A good Saturday show. Pleased.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

REBECCA OF SUNNYBROOK FARM: Marion Nixon, Ralph Bellamy—We set this one in for a benefit sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club. This boosted the crowd a bit and the picture was praised right and left. Played Mar. 14-15.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Oregon. Small town patronage.

ROBBERS' ROOST: George O'Brien, Maureen O'Sullivan—The best western we have had in a long time and more generally liked. Played Mar. 17-18. —Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Oregon. Small town patronage.

SAILOR'S LUCK: James Dunn, Sally Eilers—Plenty of action in "Sailor's Luck" and everyone seemed to get a great kick out of it. A little off color in spots, but seemed to go by unnoticed. Sally is cute. Played Mar. 15-16. Running time, 81 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

SECOND HAND WIFE: Sally Eilers, Ralph Bellamy—Had very small crowd. The women liked the picture very well. Stressed the Kathleen Norris authorship but somehow it didn't quite click.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Oregon. Played Mar. 12-13. Small town patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor—A great picture for the small towns. Bad roads made me lose money but the picture is O. K.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

STATE FAIR: Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers—A great picture from any angle. It has everything that makes for entertainment but so far this year with just one or two exceptions Fox is not maintaining the standard of box office pictures. Contrary to what has been said that pictures were to be much better this season, we have not found it so. Too many of mediocre quality and too few that are outstanding.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell—Gaynor always gets the money and this is an excellent picture. Get behind it.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell—This picture pleased. The whole family liked it. The monkey stole the show.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

TOO BUSY TO WORK: Will Rogers—An excellent Rogers picture. Especially pleased his following.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

Freuler

GAMBLING SEX: Ruth Hall, Grant Withers—This is the type of production that makes it hard to sell independents. Stay clear of this one. Played Mar. 5. Running time, 65 minutes.—T. Johnson, Van der Vaart Theatre, Sheboygan, Wis. General patronage.

Mayfair

BEHIND JURY DOORS: William Collier, Jr., Helen Chandler—Poor picture. No drawing power. Use it on double bill. Played Feb. 21-22. Running time, 67 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

HER MAD NIGHT: Irene Rich, Conway Tearle—A good crime and trial. No draw at box office. Pleased the ladies. Can play it up with the ladies. Sound good. Running time, 70 minutes.—William Thatcher, Royal Theatre, Salina, Kan. General patronage.

TRAPPED IN TIA JUANA: Edwina Booth—Very clean little picture. Pleased all. Not bad for Sunday show. Put a good two reel comedy with it and news and you'll have a very good show. The recording on this no so good. Running time, 60 minutes.—William Thatcher, Royal Theatre, Salina, Kan. General patronage.

MGM

FAST LIFE: William Haines—Although this is a Haines picture, Cliff Edwards steals the picture, and it's a wow. Just the kind people want—a good laugh and plenty of thrills. Give us pictures like this and we won't have to lock our theatres for lack of patronage.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

FAST LIFE: William Haines, Madge Evans—A dandy, fast action picture. The young folks liked it fine. Did a fair business.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

FLESH: Wallace Beery, Karen Morley—Picture well acted. An awful flop at the box office.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

FLESH: Wallace Beery—One of Beery's best performances, which I played during a two day snow and wind storm and did not make film rental and express. Those who came liked it.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

GRAND HOTEL: Greta Garbo, John Barrymore—Wonderful acting but did not go over. Very few liked it and the second night not many came. It is not a small town picture. Played Feb. 4-5.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

PAYMENT DEFERRED: Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Sullivan—Gross receipts were $9.75 in one night. That was too much for that picture. Patrons did not all stay to see the finish.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

RED DUST: Clark Gable, Jean Harlow—Just a fair picture. Photography very poor, too much fog and dark scenes. This boy Gable talks entirely too fast. Needs someone to slow him down. I never would have guessed it to be a special. And they will try to make you feel you are not even in picture show business unless you play it. So go on and play it and have it over with.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

THE SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE: Irene Dunne—Excellent if you like sob stuff. Miss Dunne is a wonderful actress and lives up to her reputation in this. The picture has class and Miss Dunne sings several songs. She has a splendid voice. Played Mar. 23-24.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

THE SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE: Irene Dunne—A mother-love type story and very good. Irene Dunne gives a wonderful performance. Good for Sunday. Played Mar. 5-6.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

SMILIN' THROUGH: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Leslie Howard—Here is a wonderful picture, superbly acted by a brilliant cast. Everyone was enthusiastic in his praise. Played Feb. 12, 1933. Running time, 100 minutes.—T. Johnson, Van der Vaart Theatre, Sheboygan, Wis. General patronage.

SMILIN' THROUGH: Norma Shearer, Leslie Howard, Fredric March—The ninth wonder of the world. A picture that no one took the trouble to hunt me up and tell me they did not like it. Think it one of the best features I ever exhibited. A number came twice. Norma Shearer in her best performance. March and Howard good. Played Jan. 28-29.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

Monogram

THE DIAMOND TRAIL: Rex Bell—Terrible. The acting was so artificial it was a pity even to show to children. No drawing power. Running time, 62 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

FROM BROADWAY TO CHEYENNE: Rex Bell—The best Rex Bell to date. He has many fans in our town.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. General patronage.

KLONDIKE: Thelma Todd—This picture went over very well on Friday and Saturday.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

LUCKY LARRIGAN: Rex Bell—Very good western. Seemed to please. Not very much action. Put a good comedy and news with it and you will have a good show. Played Mar. 11-12. Running time, 60 minutes.—William Thatcher, Royal Theatre, Salina, Kan. General patronage.

OLIVER TWIST: Dickie Moore, Irving Pichel, William Boyd—This is a very excellent picture in every way. It follows the story very closely, and it is very well acted by Dickie Moore, Irving Pichel and William Boyd. You simply can't go wrong on this immortal Dickens classic. Played Mar. 19. Running time, 80 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. General patronage.

Paramount

THE BIG BROADCAST: All star—The best picture for a long time. It pleased all and they still talk about it. Any radio fan will certainly enjoy this picture. Only objection was the song by Kate Smith should have been the Moon song. Stuart Erwin plays his part fine and his attempt to take Bing Crosby's place in the last song made a good ending, which sent them out laughing. A 100 per cent picture, I would say. Played Mar. 11-12. Running time, 90 minutes.—W. T. Bigges, Adair Theatre, Adair, Iowa. General patronage.

BILLION DOLLAR SCANDAL: Carole Lombard, Robert Armstrong—An excellent Saturday show. Plenty of action and well done.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Ia. General patronage.

BLONDE VENUS: Marlene Dietrich—Much better picture than we expected. People liked it. Business just fair.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

CRIME OF THE CENTURY: Stuart Erwin—Made a big mistake by only playing this picture one night. Best mystery picture for a long time, and held interest all the way. Played Mar. 8.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

THE DEVIL IS DRIVING: Edmund Lowe—An unusual picture based on hot cars. Pleased Saturday night crowd.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

THE DEVIL IS DRIVING: Edmund Lowe, Wynne Gibson—This picture has plenty of action and is based on a new racket of hot cars. A good Friday-Saturday picture if your fans like action, and most of them do.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

FROM HELL TO HEAVEN: Carole Lombard, David Manners, Jack Oakie—A very good program picture. Entertaining. Some comedy. Miss Lombard has very little to do. Title means nothing. Played Mar. 18.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

HELLO EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—A nice picture that did not get any money. We do not know why. Just did not click. Those that saw it enjoyed it.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

HELLO EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—Here's one that was made to order for the reformers, only they went to a neighboring town see "She Done Him Wrong" when we were showing this, and as a result it was the biggest box office flop we've had, but the picture is good, and the recording and photography excellent.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

HOT SATURDAY: Nancy Carroll—Have read many adverse comments on this, but don't be fooled; it's plenty good, and Nancy Carroll had lost all her prestige here, but they liked her in this.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

HOT SATURDAY: Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant—Should pay them for their time. A mighty weak sister. Oh, why do they do it? Seven thousand feet of good film wasted. If you don't have to play it, don't do it. It would only encourage more worthless things like it. I'll bet they won't pass another "Hot Saturday" soon. This is the kind that makes the patrons want their coin back and they should get it.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

HUCKLEBERRY FINN: Mitzi Green, Junior Durkin—A very good picture for children worth repeating on. Did good business on it. Played Feb. 21-22. Running time, 80 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

NIGHT AFTER NIGHT: George Raft, Mae West, Alison Skipworth—Mae West, with her small bit, saved this from being a very mediocre picture. The title did not mean a thing, and it is a hard picture to advertise and get it to the public. No business at all on it. Make no mistake, this Mae West is going places in the cinema. She has a definite "It" that is not seen on the screen with any other actress.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

NIGHT OF JUNE 13: Clive Brook, Frances Dee—Good picture. Was liked by most everyone. Played Feb. 10-11.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

THE PHANTOM PRESIDENT: George M. Cohan, Claudette Colbert, Jimmy Durante—To those exhibitors who are late in showing this one, desire to say you need not be afraid of the entertainment value because the election is over, as this is by far one of the best pictures made for the screen, and to Mr. Geo. M. Cohan, for goodness sake make more. What about "45 Minutes From Broadway," old—not modernized. Just make it as the original. What about Fay Templeton? Hope she is amongst the living. George, you sure put it over.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

THE PHANTOM PRESIDENT: Jimmy Durante, George M. Cohan, Claudette Colbert—A different type comedy which is good, but should have shown it last fall. Played Mar. 26-27. Running time, 75 minutes.—W. T. Bigges, Adair Theatre, Adair, Iowa. General patronage.

70,000 WITNESSES: Phillips Holmes—A good entertainment. It did extra business.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

SIGN OF THE CROSS: Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert—An excellent production that every one should see. Your church people should patronize this. We could not get them.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

SIGN OF THE CROSS: Fredric March, Elissa Landi—A very remarkable picture from the standpoint of direction, acting, and spectacular scenes, but patrons, especially the church going, said it was too gruesome, and none of the ministers came to see it. Expected it would draw extra business but only the regulars came. Played Mar. 12-13-14.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

SIGN OF THE CROSS: Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert—From a production viewpoint this is the biggest picture released for several years. My opinion is, it will not do the business, nor please as well as former DeMille productions. However, I would advise all exhibitors to run it simply because it will show that some producers are still spending some extra money on production. Played Mar. 17-18. Running time, 135 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

THE WOMAN ACCUSED: Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant—Paramount is coming along with one good picture after another. Would class this one as exceptionally good. Good acting. Good story, but very little business. Since the banks all died, nothing will pull them in. Mar. 20-21. Running time, 72 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

RKO

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding, Leslie Howard—Excellent high class picture. Pleased.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding, Leslie Howard—A sophisticated picture that is all dialogue and one that is cleverly put together, but one that has been done in the same theme in eight or ten pictures that we have run this year. Just a change in cast, and that is all. The same old cycle. Ann Harding does nice work in it, but it is the type that does not hit, outside of just a number of people in the small towns. The promised big improvement in pictures has not materialized with us so far this year. There have been very few that were outstanding pictures in the contracts that we have. Played Mar. 19-20.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Leslie Howard, Ann Harding—The fellow that gave this a star of merit must have been dreaming. I haven't seen a one who saw the picture that can figure it out yet. Just a lot of conversation about a fellow who lived with one girl and married another and then went back to the one he first lived with. If you call this entertainment, then I am nuts. Lay off this lemon.—Guy W. Johnson, Johnson Theatre, Marmarth, N. D. General patronage.

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix, Ann Harding—A wonderful production. Only one drawback: there was no call for showing them have a baby. The producer could have gotten around this nicely without going into detail. They want to remember they are making pictures for children as well as adults.—Guy W. Johnson, Johnson Theatre, Marmarth, N. D. General patronage.

HELL'S HIGHWAY: Richard Dix—It didn't get over. Dix should watch his step and refuse to monkey his time away in little two-by-twice vehicles like this. Not in a class with "I Am a Fugitive." Nay, nay, Pauline, it hasn't the kick to it.—Ned Pedigo, De Luxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

HOLD 'EM JAIL: Wheeler and Woolsey—A mighty fine comedy; I believe the best these two boys ever appeared in, but for some unknown reason I failed to take in film rental.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mitzi Green, Buster Phelps—People liked it here. Brought out a gob of kids. Didn't know there were so many. Did better than average business. Mitzi Green has plenty of talent. Some day watch out.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

LUCKY DEVILS: Bill Boyd— Very thrilling of Hollywood's stunt men, but why must they repeatedly talk about having babies? We still have a few parents who do not like to have their small children hear this.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

OUR BETTERS: Constance Bennett—Our glamorous Connie in a swell cigarette advertising picture although they forget to mention the brand. Nebraska now has a bill preventing pictures to be shown where women smoke, and if we have to look at many like this, only hope it passes. What's the matter with some of our best actresses, don't they know what to do with their hands? Why not knit, and be different. And such a story! Anyway, Connie is through here and she probably will be wherever this is shown.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

PENGUIN POOL MURDER: Edna May Oliver—A comedy murder picture with Edna May Oliver and James Gleason a riot.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

PENGUIN POOL MURDER: Edna May Oliver, James Gleason—Just fair, some comedy. It will get by but they won't rave about it. The regular run of the mill and it takes more than that to get them out these days.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

ROCKABYE: Constance Bennett—A very pleasing show for midweek.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

ROCKABYE: Constance Bennett—Another lemon from RKO. When they quit making pictures for Hollywood and cater to the general public and give us entertainment, then we will all prosper. They may like this smut in Hollywood, but not here and I have been in business 19 years. Not fit for children or clear-minded adults. Boys, lay off this one. This is what leaves a bad taste and they stay home in future and listen to the radio. We need good comedy, musical shows and action pictures. Leave out the smut and sex stuff.—Guy W. Johnson, Johnson Theatre, Marmarth, N. D. General patronage.

ROCKABYE: Constance Bennett—This picture proved very popular and drew an above the average crowd. Several people remarked that they had never liked Constance Bennett until this picture came along. Played Mar. 19-20.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

SECRETS OF THE FRENCH POLICE: Gwili Andre, Frank Morgan—Well made. No drawing power. May get by.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

THE SPORT PARADE: Joel McCrea, Marion Marsh—A rough Saturday night picture.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

A WOMAN COMMANDS: Pola Negri—My audience didn't like this one and I didn't blame them. They don't want this foreign stuff.—William Thatcher, Royal Theatre, Salina, Kan. General patronage.

Tiffany

HOTEL CONTINENTAL: Peggy Shannon, Theodore Von Eltz—This pleased all. Some said it was as good as the "Grand Hotel." Running time, 70 minutes.—William Thatcher, Royal Theatre, Salina, Kan. General patronage.

STRANGERS OF THE EVENING: Zasu Pitts, Eugene Pallette—This is a very good little picture. Pleased about 100%. But oh, why do they do this, featured Zasu Pitts as headliner on all of the advertisements, and she don't show up in the picture till the fourth reel. She's not much in the picture. Why do they do this? The sound is fine.—William Thatcher, Royal Theatre, Salina, Kan. General patronage.

Tower

EXPOSURE: Walter Byron, Lila Lee—This independent production compares favorably with most of the big ones. Good business on Sunday. Pleased the ladies especially. Played Mar. 19. Running time, 70 minutes.—T. Johnson, Van der Vaart Theatre, Sheboygan, Wis. General patronage.

RED HAIRED ALIBI: Merna Kennedy—We did good business with this one on Sunday. Pleased everybody. Played Feb. 26. Running time, 68 minutes.—T. Johnson, Van der Vaart Theatre, Sheboygan, Wis. General patronage.

United Artists

THE KID FROM SPAIN: Eddie Cantor—A knockout. Pleased everyone and if you can not get them with this, better lock up. Just double your advertising and go after it.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

MR. ROBINSON CRUSOE: Douglas Fairbanks—Did fair business. Not much of a story to it. Children liked the action in it. Running time, 72 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

Universal

BE MINE TONIGHT: Jan Klepura, Magda Schnelder—Screened this after our regular show. If you can figure some way of selling this to your public, buy it. Beautiful scenery in Switzerland mountains, wonderful orchestra, musical background, masterful direction, and this fellow has the most wonderful voice I have ever heard. Light story. Some comedy. You will be doing a good deed by showing even though you make nothing. Universal, I'm sure, will meet you half way on the price. I bought it after screening and intend working through the various clubs to put it over. Clean as a hound's tooth and different from anything we have ever had. It's a marvelous production. Played Mar. 22.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

IGLOO: Native cast—Here is a picture that has to be advertised through the schools. It is completely educational in appeal as it shows the struggle of the life of the far-northern natives to live. A slight romantic interest is interwoven through the customs and scenic wonders; hunting walrus, polar bears especially, appeals to children. Establish contact with school superintendent, send press books directly to teachers to pass around, give passes to teachers for the show. It got every school child and many adults in a town where there is little money. Without the school help, this picture would flop; with it, it goes over.—G. C. Moore, American Theatre, Harlowton, Mont. Small town patronage.

THE MUMMY: Boris Karloff, Zita Johann—The worst box office flop for some time. It is well produced but these pictures will not do any business for us.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

OKAY AMERICA: Lew Ayres—Here is an excellent picture, a credit to the industry. While there is a gangster angle to it, it so nearly parallels our own history that it sends patrons out interested and talking about it for days, and gives them something to think about besides. There is a patriotic appeal to the picture that is remarkable. Scenes with the president well and artistically directed. We were proud of the picture. Ayres does splendid work. If given good roles, this actor can do them, but he has suffered from having poor plays. He is popular here. This picture is worth extra advertising.—G. C. Moore, American Theatre, Harlowton, Mont. Small town patronage.

ONCE IN A LIFETIME: Jack Oakie—The name is appropriate, for never again will these stars ever make another picture with as small an amount of entertainment in it. Pity Carl Laemmle allows his company to sell such.—J. M. Ensor, Crescent Theatre, Little Rock, Ark. General patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy, Gloria Stuart—A mighty fine offering for week-end showing in small towns. It is good entertainment and there is no doubt of it, Lee Tracy is out in front.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

ROME EXPRESS: Esther Ralston, Conrad Veidt—Poor recording with foreign accents made this my worst picture in six months. Ralston was good and well liked—too bad she cannot get a break in American-made pictures. Twenty per cent of my patrons walked out so I gave them passes to my next attraction. Played Mar. 26-27.—D. B. White, Ritz Theatre, Fernandina, Fla. Small town patronage.

THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED: Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville—I hope that Universal keeps this team of Pitts and Summerville together and gives us a few more as good as this one. These two get together like ducks and water. This is as fine a feature length comedy as you have ever run. Step on it and get some business. It's sure to please if you can get them to turn out. Played Mar. 24-25-26. Running time, 75 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

Warner

BLESSED EVENT: Lee Tracy—Step on the advertising, for this is one that will make them forget the depression. A laugh a minute for 84 minutes. Some came twice.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

GIRL MISSING: Ben Lyon, Mary Brian—One of the best program pictures I have shown this season. Will stand for a two-a-day showing nicely. Well acted and well directed. Will hold interest throughout. Played Mar. 11. Running time, 68 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

HARD TO HANDLE: James Cagney—Jimmy seemed miscast in this. His chatter too fast to record good. Not a bad picture. Pleased.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

I AM A FUGITIVE FROM A CHAIN GANG: Paul Muni—A good performance and it went over nicely for me.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

I AM A FUGITIVE FROM A CHAIN GANG: Paul Muni—Play this one on account of the publicity this case received. Muni is great. Personally I did not like the picture, but it is a good picture. More popular with men than with women. Some said it was as good as a sermon. Played Mar. 25-26.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

THE KING'S VACATION: George Arliss—George Arliss runs true to form by giving us the cleanest picture you ever looked at. Ask all your "bellyachers" to come out and see this one and maybe they will be satisfied for once in their lives. Good for any audience. Played Mar. 9-10. Running time, 72 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

LADIES THEY TALK ABOUT: Barbara Stanwyck—Title means nothing. Is a good penitentiary story, holds interest, and if they don't watch out Lillian Roth will steal the picture sometime.—D. E. Ditton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

LAWYER MAN: William Powell, Joan Blondell—Picture is good but did not draw at all. Powell not liked here.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

ONE WAY PASSAGE: William Powell, Kay Francis—This was a very pleasing picture. Nothing big but it kept the natives guessing. Comedy relief good. Better than just another picture thing.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

PARACHUTE JUMPER: Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.—Plenty of action. Makes a great Saturday show. No kicks. Much comment.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

SCARLET DAWN: Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Nancy Carroll—This is a dud. Not one person said they liked it, but oh, the number who told me they did not. Acting good but it takes more than acting to get them out in these times.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

World Wide

THE DEATH KISS: Adrienne Ames, David Manners—Another fine little program picture from World Wide. We ran it on our cheap admission night and it drew average business and pleased better than some of the big producers' pictures that we have been running on this night at same admission. Played Mar. 21. Running time, 75 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

THE LAST MILE: Preston Foster—You can play this one strong. Wonderful picture. Great acting. This one gets under the skin. We did a very good business. Don't be afraid to boost this picture. Nuff sed. Played Mar. 7-8. Running time, 69 minutes.—William Thatcher, Royal Theatre, Salina, Kan. General patronage.

Short Features

Columbia

CAMPING OUT: Scrappy—Can't get enough of these to suit the patrons. Very good. Running time, 6 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

Educational

MATA HARI: Harry Gribbon—This not so good. Why do they make such comedies. Just a waste of film. My audience did not fall for this one. Running time, 20 minutes.—William Thatcher, Royal Theatre, Salina, Kan. General patronage.

HOLLYWOOD RUN-ROUND: An excellent slapstick comedy.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

MGM

ALUM AND EVE: Zasu Pitts, Thelma Todd—Just fair.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

HOOK AND LADDER: Our Gang—Two reels of wasted film, not a laugh, not even a snicker. And the worst recording and worst photography.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

TOY PARADE: Oddity—not much.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

YOUNG IRONSIDES: Charley Chase — Good comedy.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

Paramount

BETTY BOOP BIZZY BEE: Not much. Poorest one we have run.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

CATCH 'EM YOUNG: A sport reel that will please anywhere.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

STOPPING THE SHOW: Betty Boop—Extra good. One reel.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

RKO

ART IN THE RAW: Edgar Kennedy—Not much. Might have been all right if they had left Kennedy out of it.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

FARMERETTE: Fables—Snappy and some peppy songs, and great music in it. Better liked than the feature we had with it. Running time, 6 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

Universal

RADIO THRILL SERIES: Morton Downey, Vincent Lopez—This was the third we have played and was better than the others, but not as good as we expected. Recording nothing to yell about.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

Warner Vitaphone

BIG HOUSE PARTY: Melody Masters—Very good. This type of short goes well. Running time, 8 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

QUEEN IN THE PARLOR: Merrie Melodies—Very entertaining. Running time, 6 minutes.—Alyce Cornell, Galewood Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

SMASH YOUR BAGGAGE: An excellent band act with Small's Paradise Band. Give it billing.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

TEA FOR TWO: An excellent colored musical with plenty of comedy, girls and plenty of good music. Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

TIP TAP TOE: Broadway Brevities, Hal Leroy and Mitzi Mayfair—Good short. Lots of entertainment. One very clever dancer. About the best ever. Running time, 19 minutes.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

Serials

Midwest

LAST OF THE MOHICANS: An excellent serial. Boosted by the women's clubs. Has plenty of action and is a drawing card.—Charles Niles, Niles Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

PROTECTING A PROFESSION

By EDWIN SEDGWICK CHITTENDEN COPPOCK

Managing Director, Staten Island Paramount

If the 20,000 or more theatre executives in this country could meet together and discuss their future, their ideas and the devices for the furtherance of this business, I believe that any layman fortunate enough to see these men in action would acknowledge that the operation and management of a motion picture theatre today is not a job but a profession. Like any honorable profession, this one carries with it the right to dignified cognizance by the business world. The great portion of the glamour and illusion of the theatre comes from the general lack of understanding of the complexities of its operations, which I will try herewith to explain.

It has occurred to me that possibly some of us belittled ourselves during the period when we were so dominated by the home offices of the theatre chains. Almost every move that we made in the operation of a theatre had been set down for us in some book of rules. Whenever policy decisions were to be made it was necessary to refer to a superior, who, of course, passed it on to his superior, with the result that a decision sometimes was given too late.

If the thouands of men operating theatres under the supervision of chain executives did not allow themselves to function as automatons but profited by the mistakes and likewise by the intelligent moves of their superiors, they are ready now in this period of greatest opportunity to exercise judicious initiative.

True enough, it is difficult to keep up a constant high-pressure supervision of your business when your salary has been cut to the bone as is true of practically every executive within the motion picture industry today. If you react to that cut and to the emergency situations that confront us today in an unthinking manner, berating those in authority, you are doing the very thing that takes from you any vestige of pride in our own ability or past performances, and you reduce your part in an honorable profession to an insignificant job, shabbily done.

Now as never before have you the opportunity to prove that you are a member of a thinking profession and not merely a job slave.

Protect your profession and your daily bread and butter by dismissing from your mind the idea that you are licked, that the business is "on the rocks," and that there is no future. You and I know that amusement has become a necessity and that to provide organized amusement for 20

(Continued on following page)

SHOWMEN WELCOME GUEST EDITORS

Wide response to last week's announcement that the editorial page of this department henceforth will be conducted under a policy of guest editorship fully reflects the enthusiastic reception of the idea by Club members. Last issue we listed more than twenty showmen who will contribute forthcoming editorials. The standing invitation to expression on this and all other pages of the Club section is hereby conveyed again. A dozen additional guest editors this week include:

H. M. Addison, Cleveland
E. C. Beatty, Detroit
Floyd Bell, Boston
Bert Henson, Troy
Fred Hinds, Whitewater, Wis.
H. E. Jameyson, Wichita
Sidney Larschan, Brooklyn
Lester Martin, Nevada, Ia.
George Skouras, New York City
Morris Rosenthal, Wilmington
Jack Hobby, Forest Hills, L. I.
Joseph M. Seider, New York City

KEEPING UP WITH THE TIMES!

By GUY JONES

An Appropriate Title, We Should Say!

PLATH HAS CORKING DEAL WITH PRINTER TO PUBLISH PAPER

Another instance of how the motion picture theatre may be used as a backbone for a publication and attendant revenue through selling of ads is evidenced in a recent issue of "Moviette", an eight-page tab-sized weekly promoted by Hugo Plath, manager of the Ritz-Weslaco, Capitol and Mercedes Theatres, Weslaco, Texas.

With the exception of a column headed "From Shop To Shop With Dot", a well known and accepted form of publicizing advertiser's shops and means of sopping up new ads, the remainder of the newsette is devoted to motion picture news and local advertisements. Plath made the deal with a local printing establishment and all it's cost him is time to gather up copy enough to fill the pages and expenses attached to distribution. And if any of you don't think he's getting SOME publicity for his theatres and attractions, you just ought to get an eyeful of the issue we have at hand, which is Number 38 of Volume 1.

Looks like a great gag, fellows, if you're so situated to make headway with a proposition of this sort. People are interested in news of the theatre, as has been demonstrated by similar publications many times before. And think over the possibilities attached to such a medium for expression of theatre policies, good will and publicity . . . it's practically without bounds, providing good judgment is used in make-up. At any rate, Club congratulations to Plath for a good job done.

WE SHOULD PROTECT OUR PROFESSION, SAYS E. S. COPPOCK

(Continued from preceding page)

million people requires executive manpower. If in the years past you have lamented the fact that your own ideas were never recognized and put into practice, now is your opportunity to prove your ability to meet emergencies in this profession.

Today when not even two-thirds of the theatres in America are in operation, there are hundreds of capable showmen out of work. If you are so fortunate as to be operating a theatre that is open and you are not putting your whole heart and soul and all your brain power in its operation, you are not only filling a place that should be occupied by one of those thousands out of work, but you are also preventing yourself from making progress in this profession, and in the eyes of the community you are losing "face" along with the profession that you represent.

No longer can this industry be tolerant of a man who indulges whims and fancies. No longer does the best spender occupy the best job.

Today we are faced with the opposition of radio, by the fact that people are not spending a great deal of money, and by the fact that we no longer have the "novelty" of the talking screen to offer. It is about time we took off our tuxedos and started to do some cool, calculating thinking. We have a profession, and this is when your professional skill is called upon. There is a tremendous investment in real estate and equipment that must be amortized. Not only must this investment in property be protected, but your own investment and the welfare of you and your family.

A few years ago a district manager told me that if the average theatre manager spent as much time protecting his profession and building toward a successful theatre, as he did in worrying about personalities, increases in salary and grudges, this industry could survive almost any business disaster and would provide higher salaries and more respected positions for us all. If we all could follow the course suggested by that man, it would mean the elimination of a lot of worthless manpower with consequently better jobs for conscientious, thinking executives who realized that they were members of a profession that could last and return their investment in time and effort only through the genuineness of their efforts.

LEWELLEN REVAMPED EASTER EGG GAG TO PARK TREASURE HUNT

Instead of waiting until Easter to hold the traditional Egg Hunt, W. C. Lewellen, manager of the Fox-Egyptian Theatre, revamped the idea into a Treasure Hunt and used the gag in connection with his campaign on "Central Park."

Instead of using the usual eggs he sacked-up a lot of candy, toy watches, balloons, noise-makers (left over from last New Year's celebration), passes, discount tickets, rings and, as Lewellen states, practically everything except his good-looking cashier. Did the kiddies go out and dig for them? You should ask!

"The Showman's Calendar"

APRIL

14th	Good Friday Assassination of Lincoln—1865 Lee Tracy's Birthday Webster's First Dictionary Published—1828
23rd to 30th	National Better Homes Week—Sponsored by Better Homes in America, 1653 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C.
24th	First Newspaper Issued in America—1704 U. S.-Mexican War—1846
25th	War with Spain—1898
26th	Confederate Memorial Day Slavery Abolished in U. S.—1865 First Shot Fired in War Between U. S. and Germany—1917
27th	Ulysses S. Grant (18th Pres.) Born—1822 Samuel F. Morse (Inventor of Morse Code Telegraph) Born, Charlestown, Mass.—1791
28th	James Monroe (5th Pres.) Born—1758
30th to May 6th	National Boys' Week
30th	Daylight Saving Time Begins

NO COST STYLE SHOW WILL PEP UP SPRING GROSS; HERE'S HOW!

Act Now If You Plan To Hold a Fashion Show; We Believe the Following Has Everything for a Successful Campaign

In Springtime human fancy also turns to thoughts other than those rendered immortal by Tennyson . . . new clothing, for instance, new hats, shoes and a lot of other gadgets intensely interesting to women. The pocketbook, if any, has a decided tendency to loosen its clasp (and there's still quite a bit of coin around these United States) and people scan the ads and do a lot of window shopping. What better place than the theatre to present the latest fashions?

It Would Be Well To Contact Your Local Merchants Now on Their Plans To Splurge on New Styles in Women's Wear

SPRING is a favorable time to put on a style show at almost any theatre.

If it is to pay dividends at the box-office, two important points must be remembered:

1. It should cost the theatre little, if anything in cash outlay.
2. It should be planned well in advance and thoroughly executed.

This manual summarizes the most workable methods used by exhibitors to make their style shows pay handsomely. Because these methods have done the trick for others, there is no reason why the spring style show can't pep your grosses during some week in early April before Easter.

Setting the Date

It is of utmost importance to select the most advantageous dates for your style show. This depends upon:

1. The week when merchants in your particular town plan to make their introductory splurge on new spring styles. It will be easiest to get them to participate during that week.
2. The theatre's bookings. It is a waste of effort and money to stage a style show during the run of your biggest box-office hits, or percentage pictures, which would draw crowds without the special attraction.

Likewise, the booking must be considered as to type. A style show hardly goes with a western, murder mystery, horror film or gangster picture. The best kind of picture to run is good program film directed at the female trade and containing sequences showing well dressed women.

Incidentally, this offers co-operating merchants a chance to display and advertise feminine attire similar to that worn by players in the picture and also presents good opportunities to use stills, mats and catchlines from the picture in their co-op ads.

One Merchant or Several

Style shows can be tied in successfully with one merchant or a group of them.

When one merchant is sponsor, he is generally the owner of the town's biggest establishment, such as the department store or large dress shop.

Where a group of merchants are tied-in, it is usually best, but not necessary, that they be in non-competing lines. Such a group might include a gown shop, milliner, shoe store, jeweler, florist, etc.

The advantage of working with a group is that the show can be made more varied and the publicity greater.

Merchants to Approach

Where you wish to tie-in a group of merchants, at least the following types should be approached. The list names the more common possibilities and what they can contribute:

1. Department Store: Anything connected with styles.
2. Gown Shop: Various types of dresses, gowns and other feminine apparel.
3. Jeweler: Appropriate jewels to wear with different types of latest fashions.
4. Hairdresser: Latest styles of make-up and hairdressing to go with different types of latest fashions.
5. Florist: Stage decorations and flowers appropriate for various occasions.
6. Shoe Store: Shoes to be worn on different occasions.
7. Novelty Shop: Handbags, gloves, vanity cases, etc., for different occasions.
8. Sports Shop: Tennis rackets, golf clubs, bathing novelties, sleds, ice-skates, etc.
9. Luggage Shop: Different types of bags and luggage.
10. Furniture Store: Newest types of furniture for stage settings.
11. Dancing schools, Music Teachers, Dramatic Clubs: Amateur talent.
12. Newspaper Co-operative ads, publicity stories, etc.
13. Photographer: Pictures of participants.
14. Kiddie Shop: Kid Styles.

Selling Arguments

Before approaching merchants to ask them to participate, be prepared with arguments to convince them that they will benefit by the tie-up. Here are some good ones:

1. The theatre is supplying the auditorium and putting on the show in a professional manner, besides giving lobby and trailer mention.
2. The greater part of the audience is composed of women, whom the merchants are anxious to reach.
3. The women see the merchandise amid attractive surroundings: comfortable seats, lighting effects, showmanly background, glamour of the theatre.
4. The women are in a receptive mood when sales resistance is at its lowest. They are in a mood to be entertained and pay strict attention to what is happening on the stage.
5. Present in the theatre will be many women who have come to see only the picture and who would not visit the merchants' stores. They will see the merchandise under the most favorable conditions and will be attracted by it.

What Theatre Should Get

In return for putting on the style show, the theatre should get at no cost:

Co-operative newspaper ads, heralds, window displays, mailing pieces, art work and a trailer not only announcing the style show but plugging the theatre's current picture attractions.

At first glance this might seem one-sided, but actually it is fair. The theatre is giving use of its stage, the manager is building a special show and the merchants are cashing in on the attention-value and glamour of anything connected with the movies.

Newspaper as Co-Sponsor

It is a good idea to bring in the local newspaper as co-sponsor. Because the merchants' co-op ads mean extra linage for it, the paper will be glad to help make the fashion show a success.

A good slant to use for publicity stories, especially this year, is that the style show is helping to boom spring business in town.

That slant, however, should not be the only one. Other stories and photos can be made newsy around the glamour of the show, oddities in the fashions to be shown, local people participating on the stage, and other similar angles that will present themselves as plans develop.

If the paper has no photographer of its own, then tie-in the local commercial photographer. He will be glad to supply pictures without charge provided he is allowed lobby or trailer credit, and he can most likely sell prints to participants. Feed the paper all the pictures the traffic will bear.

Responsibility for Merchandise

Before signing any contract with merchants for a fashion show tie-up, make certain that neither you nor the theatre is responsible for the wearing apparel, jewelry or other merchandise brought to the theatre.

Assure each merchant that you will undertake to give his merchandise the best of care and will provide the best possible place for its safekeeping, but that you cannot be responsible for anything lost, destroyed or stolen.

Responsible parties should be the merchants or their representatives. This is very important. Otherwise the theatre may have to pay for lost or damaged merchandise or become involved in expensive lawsuits over it.

Recruiting Models

In most instances the participating stores will be unable to supply professional models. Amateurs will have to be substituted. They can be recruited from among college co-eds, local debs, high school girls or women's clubs.

The advantage in getting professional models is that they have better stage presence. However, the amateurs will attract extra business because their parents, relatives and friends will turn out to see them perform.

It is not necessary to pay the amateurs. They will be glad to participate for the fun of wearing latest styles and appearing on the stage.

Staging the Show

Experience of showmen with the fashion

(Continued on following page)

A NEVER-FAILING BOX OFFICE BET!

(Continued from preceding page)

show reveals several good rules to follow in staging it.

1. The show should be dignified. Horseplay of any kind will spoil the impression of beauty and grandeur which should be put across to the audience. This does not mean that humor is necessarily undesirable. It is the horseplay type of humor that should be barred.

2. Stage effects should be in season with styles displayed. The manager who once ran a spring style show on a set showing a snowstorm was almost laughed out of town. No girl wears a tennis frock in a blizzard.

3. Music is always helpful to get adequate atmosphere. If the theatre has no orchestra, then it should be promoted or supplied by the participating merchants. Look out for union regulations in this.

4. Merchandise should be shown in some logical order. For example, it would be inadvisable to start the show with evening gowns and conclude it with kitchen aprons.

5. Mere display of clothing by the models becomes boring and monotonous to the audience. The appearance of the mannikins should be interspersed with entertainment, or better still, woven into a little revue or playlet. Entertainment can be obtained without cost by tying up with a local dancing or dramatics school, which will be anxious to have its pupils appear on the stage in exchange for the publicity.

A good example of how a fashion show can be turned from a mere display of goods into excellent entertainment is furnished by a description of an "Easter Dream," kid Easter Fashion Show staged last year by Manager George Daransoll at the Feeley, Hazleton, Pa. Although this was a kid show, the principles are essentially the same.

The description, reproduced from "Publix Opinion," former Publix house organ, follows:

> Introduction—Oleo Drop. Full organ with "Who's Your Little Whoosis," fading out as Daransoll appears attired in new spring topcoat, hat and cane and takes his position center, immediately followed by two models similarly attired and bearing placards with names of the two participating stores. They come from right and left, stopping on either side of Daransoll, bowing and helping him off with topcoat, etc., bow again, and leave him to sell the show.
>
> After Daransoll's greeting, etc., he turns the show over to acting master of ceremonies, the stage is cleared and the curtain rises showing a little girl in a boudoir setting (blue lights and lavender spot) yawning and preparing to retire. She undresses behind a screen, emerges in pajamas, and kneels alongside her bed to pray. At conclusion of her prayers she says: "God bless all the rest and please bring me some new Easter Clothes." Then she crawls into bed, presumably going into a dream as the title implies.
>
> Models emerge alternately from right and left, making a complete turn center and exit slowly to opposite side. Spotlight colors vary with each color combination of dress. Outstanding outfits are explained as to type, materials and usages by the master of ceremonies who is stationed next to the proscenium arch. Organist supplies incidental music during promenading.
>
> Scene 1 ends with the last model making her exit, lights slowly up fading from blue to amber, the little girl slowly rising from bed, stretching and humming a song while dressing. She makes a graceful exit, explaining she is going to attend her girl friend's lawn party.
>
> An intermission follows, during which a sister team does a song and dance number followed by an encore.
>
> Part 2 opens with slowly rising curtain disclosing a lawn party (grass mats, wicker furniture, exterior scene drops, bridge tables and chairs, potted palms, etc.) with models entering singly displaying sports suits, frocks, beach pajamas, etc., and carrying sport accessories such as tennis racquets, golf clubs, etc. Every third model does either a song or dance to break up monotony. Modelling is also interspersed with specialty numbers, chorus steps, etc.
>
> When all models find seats informally, the little hostess steps forward and goes into a special arrangement of "Toodle Oo, So Long, Good-Bye" backed up by the entire ensemble, both hands extended over their heads, smiling and waving good-bye. Then curtain and chorus by entire ensemble.

The middle-western manager who put on a men's fashion show had his audience in stitches. But he was careful that this burlesque ran a week after his dignified style revue, and not at the same time.*

SOUTTAR'S FEATURE!

When F. C. Souttar, manager of the Fox-Lincoln Theatre, Belleville, Ill., held his style show he created additional interest by featuring hairdressing styles on Tuesday night. Fifty attractive girls who acted as models in the regular show on this occasion displayed the latest styles in coiffure. Incidentally, this stunt was good for the promotion of a double truck of newspaper ads from beauty shops, hairdressers and drug stores.

Kid Angle

Some theatres, as shown by Daransoll's revue, have been successful in running kid fashion shows. Others have worked in a kid number. It is a good idea to work the kid number into the revue, if possible, because the youngsters look cute and will attract parents, relatives and friends. The drawback to the kid slant is that the youngsters cannot be kept up very late, especially during school periods.

Give-aways

Give-aways are not recommended in conjunction with fashion shows. However, there are exceptions to every rule. Some local condition may make them desirable.

If you find that a give-away would prove an important extra attraction, be sure it is handled with dignity.

A good way is to offer the awards to persons in the audience who write the best style letter on what they saw among the fashions. These would be valuable to the participating merchants because such letters would give them a good line on the wares proving most attractive. At the same time, the letters might make an interesting fashion story for the newspaper.

Variation

1. In some towns, theatres have run their style show somewhat differently by making it a cross between a fashion revue and a popularity contest.

A group of stores participate, each having one of the models as a representative. The models are called by the name of the store, for example, "Miss Jones Brothers," "Miss Parkview Gown Shop," "Miss Rollins Beauty Parlor," etc. The audience is asked to vote for its favorite model, the one getting the most votes being given an award. Sometimes merchants give out coupons good for a specified number of votes, according to the size of customers' purchases.

For several days before the show, every participating merchant runs ads in the local paper. These ads all plug the style show and the theatre's attraction as well as the store's products.

There have been instances where this stunt put the theatre in ads on every inside page of the paper. This is tremendous publicity. No one looking at the paper, even casually, could fail to have impressed upon him the name of the theatre and current film.

It is obvious, however, that this idea is not nearly as dignified or interesting to the audience as the regular style show.

2. A few big city theatres have offered style shows not as stage attractions but as special entertainment in their spacious lounges. The Metropolitan in Boston has been especially active along this line.

The tie-up in this instance will often extend over a period of weeks. On one afternoon of the week, say on Friday at three o'clock, the mannikins parade in the lounge. No attempt is made to plan this in the usual manner of weaving the fashion parade into a tableau, musical revue or playlet. The merchant, of course, gives the theatre co-op advertising in the metropolitan press.

The object of this arrangement is to draw afternoon women shoppers to the matinee and to get the no cost ads.

Underwear Revues

Some theatres have staged style shows of women's underthings. As a general policy, these are not recommended. While your average American sees no harm in a woman appearing in public clad only in a scanty bathing suit, he or she just naturally feels that a lady wearing unmentionables outside her boudoir isn't conducting herself with appropriate modesty and propriety at all, even if considered good box office bait. But use your own judgment!

Seasonal Revues

Style shows need not be limited to spring. Styles for women change emphatically at least four times a year with the seasons: fall, winter, spring and summer. This gives the theatre an opportunity for four fashion shows there.

In addition, it is possible to build fashion shows around some particular aspect of fashion, notably a sports wear revue for late spring, a bathing beauty revue for early summer, a fur revue for late spring and a winter sports revue for early winter.

The principles of running these other style revues are essentially the same.

It is well to keep in mind the good will angle. Many a manager has entrenched himself more strongly in his community by tying in his show with some urgent charity move.

personalities

CLIFF BOYD
recently in charge of the RKO Albee Theatre, Cincinnati, is again under the I. Libson flag and at the helm of the Bijou, local subsequent run house.

JOSEPH STICKLER
manager of Keith's Theatre, in Cincinnati, until that house was closed for remodeling, was recently appointed manager of Gift's, another Libson house in the downtown section of the city.

JOHN MANUEL
in charge of Warner's Majestic Theatre, Mansfield, Ohio, until that house recently closed, has been appointed manager of Warner's State, Lima.

MRS. CATHERINE LAWLER who is said to have her own ideas on theatre operation, is in line to give a demonstration of same as the result of taking over the Regent Theatre in the residential district of San Francisco.

RICHARD V. KIRSH
former manager of the Astor Theatre, Reading, Pa., is now in charge of the Circle Theatre in Philadelphia, according to information from Albert Sindlinger, present manager of the Astor.

HARRY P. FRANKLIN
formerly in charge of Warner's Theatre, San Francisco, is now assistant at the California, same city. Joe Enos continues as skipper.

MRS. MORTON TURNER
has leased and completely redecorated the Rex Theatre, Terre Haute, Ind., a house formerly operated by Harry Bennett and closed several months ago after a series of labor troubles.

THOMAS DI LORENZO
formerly manager of the Cove Theatre, Glen Cove, L. I., N. Y., and recently in charge of the Skouras house in Forest Hills, N. Y., has taken a half interest with Jack Fink in the Glen Theatre, Glen Cove.

WILLIAM WAGNER
has succeeded L. M. Garman as manager of the Plaza Theatre, Kansas Theatre, Kansas City.

JOHN CREAMER
formerly in charge of the Fox Theatre at Salina, Kas., has been appointed to C. Wilson's post at the Waldo Theatre, Kansas City.

PHILLIP HILL
is the new manager of the Fox Theatre at Fredonia, Kansas, succeeding Arthur La Salle.

HORT ULRICH
has been transferred from the Fox-Midwest force in Kansas City to the Fox Theatre at Salina, Kas.

C. WILSON has been assigned managership of the Fox Theatre, Springfield, Mo.

FLOYD FITZSIMMONS
former member of the Publix advertising department and recently engaged in special exploitation work, has been appointed manager of the Levoy Theatre in Millville, N. J.

LOUIS SOLOMON
is pinch-hitting for Sigurd Wexo at the RKO Dyker Theatre, Brooklyn, while the latter is ill.

MAURICE BAUM
has assumed management of the Clifton Theatre, Huntington, Pa. Baum formerly owned the Cathaum and Nittany theatres at State College, Pa.

R. H. OUELETTE
has been appointed manager of the Dixie Theatre, Brookville, Miss., operating it for A. H. Hawkins, owner.

R. D. PAGE
is skippering the new Paramount Theatre at Mt. Pleasant, Tenn., and owns the Franklin Theatre at Franklin, Tenn.

HENRY J. STALLINGS has succeeded Scott Ferebee as manager of the Carolina Theatre at Waynesville, N. C.

FRANK X. MERKLEY has installed new equipment in his Rialto Theatre, Campbellsville, Ky.

JOHNNY MALOY AND G. H. MALOY are the new skippers of the Arlington Theatre, Arlington, Ga.

EVERETT DILLEY
has again taken over the management of the Grand, Northfield, Minn.

W. K. McNATT
has assumed management of the Burntex Theatre, Burnet, Tex.

J. S. FONNER
has reopened the Crystal Theatre at Wilmerding, Pa.

LOUIS CHARNINSKY has succeeded Art Wareham as manager of the Wareham Theatre at Manhattan, Kan.

EDWARD AUGER
assistant sales manager of RCA, Camden, N. J., was a recent visitor in Kansas City, conferring with Don Davis, local district sales manager.

J. O. ALLEN has leased his Plaza Theatre, Iola, Kan., to the Dickinson theatre circuit. Dickinson has now sixteen theatres in his circuit.

WILLIAM LEWIS
is back again at the helm of the Aztec Theatre, San Antonio, trading jobs with Roy Slentz, Old Mill, Dallas.

BERT HENSON
formerly publicity man for RKO in Cleveland, has succeeded Harry Block as manager of Proctor's Theatre, Troy, N. Y.

ADNA M. AVERY
recently associated with Publix in Omaha and Nebraska, has leased and reopened the Rivoli Theatre, Blackwell, Okla.

WANTED

BRANCH MANAGERS

In every state to represent a reliable theatre supply house. A knowledge of projection matters will be helpful but is not necessary.

Must be free to give proposition exclusive time and if your qualities meet our demands, terms will be made satisfactorily. State everything in first letter and if interested only in drawing account or straight salary do not answer.

Box 287
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 BROADWAY NEW YORK

ED BURGAN
Kansas City, Kan., has leased the Gene Gauntier Theatre from Dick Liggett, owner of the theatre. Burgan has installed sound.

WILLIAM HIGHLEY
has taken over the management of the Wonderland Theatre with a policy of pictures and stage show.

ROBERT SMITH
in charge of the Pantages Theatre, L. A., until that house was closed a few weeks ago, has been assigned to Carl Narath's post at the Criterion, Santa Monica.

TERRY McDANIEL
has been appointed manager of the Fox-Colorado Theatre in Pasadena, Calif., succeeding Walter Kofeldt, who recently tendered his resignation.

HAROLD MARTZ
is the new assistant manager and treasurer of the RKO Royal Theatre, New York City, replacing Ben Schenker, resigned. Martz was formerly with the RKO Palace.

MARVIN PARK
formerly at the RKO Orpheum Theatre, Minneapolis, has been named manager of the RKO Albee, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JACK GROSS
until recently city manager for RKO at Fort Wayne, Ind., has taken Marvin Park's old post at the Orpheum, Minneapolis.

LARRY SHEAD
is the new manager of the Garden Theatre, Warner house in Paterson, N. J., with Harry Ellis assisting.

EDWARD L. REED continues as manager of the Paramount Theatre, Providence, following reversion of the house from Publix to National Realty.

AL GILLIS
is in charge of John Hamrick's Rex Theatre, Seattle, which recently went over to five act vaude-film policy at 15 and 25 cents.

LEO JONES
has taken a 15-year lease on the Strand Theatre, Defiance, Ohio. The house was formerly operated by Frank Miller and E. F. Stanley.

DONALD W. ROSS
manager of Loew's Regent Theatre, Harrisburg, Pa., recently suffered a fracture of the skull in a fall. He is getting along all right, according to reports.

JOHN R. STEVENS
formerly in charge of the Court Street Theatre, Buffalo, has been made manager of the Riviera, Tonawanda, N. Y. Stanley Weber, who held the assistant's post at the Riviera, is working in a similar capacity at the Century, Buffalo.

JACK COVICH
formerly of Chicago, Los Angeles and other points west, is the new manager of the Capitol Theatre, Oklahoma City.

LEO LAU
has taken over operation of the New Lemay Theatre, Luxemburg, Mo.

MEYER YELK
is in charge of the reopened Newberry Theatre, Chicago.

MacLEVY CASHING IN ON "BUY AMERICAN" MOVEMENT IN QUEENS

Further proof that Monty MacLevy has in a short space of time become an important factor in civic activities of various communities served by the theatre circuit he manages from his headquarters at St. Albans, Long Island, N. Y., is evidenced in newspaper publicity following "Buy American" and "Shop at Home" movement.

At the start of his campaign one of the leading newspapers on the Island supported the move with a lead editorial headed "A Timely Project," which gave Monty credit for instituting an outlined merchandising scheme and urged citizens in the community to lend their support. This same paper and another one followed up with front page stories a few days later.

Briefly, the campaign is based upon a method of cooperative merchandising between theatre and merchants which should be familiar to all Club members by this time. Customers of the cooperating merchants receive tickets as a basis for selection of promoted articles representing a value of about $200, designated for giveaway at the theatre every Wednesday night.

The "Buy American" movement is being sponsored by one of the largest newspaper organizations in this country and MacLevy was quick to take full advantage of the possibilities it offered to ram home the same slogan in his community. Aside from the theory that consistent drumming of the slogan into people's heads will help sell local merchandise, there is provided the additional incentive of the psychology of getting something for nothing. O.K. Monty.

Special Exploitation

A. R. Boyd, manager of the Fox and Locust Theatres, Philadelphia, recently engaged the services of Ella F. Waters, prominent lecturer on theatrical subjects, in connection with his exploitation campaign on "Cavalcade." Mrs. Waters is widely known in the city and in contact with all the important women's organizations in Philly.

Clothing Matinee

Harry Sefton, manager of the Fox-Orpheum Theatre, Wichita, Kas., recently added to good will enjoyed by his theatre by tying up with the local Federation of Women's Clubs for a clothing matinee. Articles of clothing were donated in lieu of regular admission.

SPRING IS HERE!

1—Cleaning and relamping of marquee and upright signs.
2—Brighten up the backings of your frames and displays with cool colored cards, etc.
3—Summer uniforms for the staff should be looked over, cleaned and made ready for the change.
4—Wash down, or mop up with plenty of clean, fresh water the cement floors of your auditorium. Much dust and dirt accumulates during the winter which won't be cleaned through the usual hair brush sweeping.
5—Wipe off with a damp cloth all the bulbs under the marquee.
6—Clean up your changeable attraction letters. Dirt cuts down the visibility of these letters.
7—Inspect your lobby and front with a view of brightening it up for the summer months.
8—Arrange for greens of all kinds from your local florist for the lobby and foyers, as well as the mezzanine and lounge rooms. It leaves a decidedly cooling effect when the patrons come in contact with them.
9—Winter sometimes plays havoc with the outside frames and display boards. A little touching up or a coat of shellac will not only preserve, but will also freshen them up considerably.
10—Check up on your chairs and see that they are tightened and repaired where necessary.
11—Inspect your carpets carefully, and sew the spots or seams that are beginning to open up.
12—Give the frames of your outside billboards a coat of paint. A dirty, sloppy frame won't help attract attention to your one or three sheets.
13—Inspect the roofs. Kids make a practice of throwing bottles and other rubbish to the roofs to prove their prowess. Get such stuff off now or it will sink into the tar and roofing material when the weather turns warm.

Egan Goes Jig-Saw, Too!

Pete Egan, manager of the Palace Theatre, Calgary, Canada, has also succumbed to the lure of the jig-saw puzzle according to a tear sheet we have at hand featuring a full page co-op on "Hello Everybody." Scattered among the several ads were pieces of a head mat of a player. Readers were invited to assemble same and present the completed puzzle to listed merchants for passes to the show.

O'Neill's Timely Herald

When A. J. O'Neill, manager of the Roth-Lyons Theatre, Madison, N. J., recently prepared issues of a program-herald he had no intention of reprinting the recommendation made Congress by the Chief Executive for immediate modification of the Volstead Act. However, "What No Beer" was due and the message so timely that the message went out on the back cover to theatre patrons in the community.

VARIETY OF STUNTS USED BY SOLOMON IN A RECENT CAMPAIGN

Special newspaper tie-ups, a stage wedding and various other exploitation featured the campaign made on "Strange Interlude" by S. S. Solomon, city manager for Publix in Youngstown, Ohio, when the picture played the Paramount Theatre in that city. The importance of the film as an outstanding attraction was emphasized in all phases of the campaign.

Columns of free space, cuts, etc., were obtained by a newspaper tie-up based on what comic strip published in the paper was most popular. Hundreds of answers were received by the editor assigned to the task and awards of money and guest tickets to the picture were given to best 200-word replies. Another tie-up made with the same newspaper called "Secret Thoughts," in which readers told what their thoughts would be in situations illustrated by stills from the picture, also netted the Paramount many inches of free space.

A number of local merchants clubbed together and made possible the donation of many useful gifts to the couple taking part in the stage wedding, which was handled in the usual fashion. Both bride and groom were local residents and the mayor and a justice of the peace officiated at the ceremony. To top it all off, the well known restaurant supplied a wedding supper for the bridal party. The newspaper supported the event with a number of good-sized stories.

Other activities included regular screen trailer and talking record, used respectively two weeks and one week in advance; use of shadow box in foyer; two 40 by 60's in art; four one-sheets; eight road-show litho cards; nine burgees; a six by four display in lobby, with two oil paintings, stills, etc.; two banner frames and still board, and four other oil paintings.

New Set-Up in Miami

Changes among the E. J. Sparks houses in Miami are as follows: Ernest Morrison is district manager with headquarters in Miami; Vernon D. Hunter is Miami city manager and also in charge of the Paramount; Al Weiss, who migrated northward several months ago again heads the corps at the Olympia, his old stamping ground; Bob Swanson is skipper of the Rex, which used to be known as the Hippodrome; Gus Grist is manager of the Sparks house at the Beach and also handles newspaper ad work for all houses; Walter Early is in charge of the Roxy; Manager Boon has been given the assignment at Coral Gables, and Manager Luter is at the helm of the Rosetta.

Club Index for Month of MARCH

Herewith we list the many items of exploitation, etc., which appeared on the Club pages during the month of March. By keeping this issue close at hand you can refer to it whenever necessary as a means of locating some particular form of show-selling. We hope our members and readers are finding this service useful. The Club would welcome suggestions to improve it.

Item	Issue	Page
Atmospheric Fronts	18th	46
Buy American Stunts.	4th	66
	18th	46
Displays	11th	40
	11th	43
	11th	44
	18th	48
Exchange Mats	4th	68
	11th	42
Feature Campaigns	4th	66
	4th	70
	11th	44
	11th	45
	18th	50
	25th	46
Fronts	18th	50
House Organs	18th	47
Jig Saw Puzzles	18th	47
Merchant Tie-Up	11th	43
	11th	45
Novelty Gags	18th	46
	18th	47
	25th	42
Poster Work	18th	50
Premieres	11th	46
	18th	48
Revues	25th	44
Special Stories
Managers' File	4th	71
Easter Egg Hunt	25th	43
Street Ballys	4th	70
	11th	40
	25th	42
	25th	46
Window Displays	4th	67
	18th	47
	25th	46

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finished or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1932, unless otherwise specified.

ALLIED PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cowboy Counsellor	Hoot Gibson-Sheila Manners	Oct. 15	63	Oct. 8
Eleventh Commandment	Marian Marsh-Theo. Von Eltz	Mar. 15,'33	64	Mar. 18,'33
Intruder, The	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Dec. 26	69	Jan. 14,'33
Iron Master, The	Lila Lee-Reginald Denny	Nov. 1	69	Dec. 10
Officer 13	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Nov. 26	67	Dec. 3
Parisian Romance, A	Lew Cody-Marian Shilling	Oct. 1	77	Sept. 17

Coming Feature Attractions

Anna Karenina
Beyond the Law
Boots of Destiny — Hoot Gibson
Cheaters
Davy Jones' Locker
Dude Bandit, The — Hoot Gibson-Gloria Shea
Midnight Alarm
Nesters, The — Monte Blue
Pullman Car
Red Kisses
Shriek in the Night, A — Ginger Rogers-Lyle Talbot — 70 — Mar. 25,'33
Silk Trimmed
Slightly Used
Sphinx, The
Three Castles
Valley of Adventure, The — Monte Blue
Without Children

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Hostess	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray-Thelma Todd	Jan. 15,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
As the Devil Commands	Alan Dinehart-Nell Hamilton-Mae Clarke	Dec. 24
Bitter Tea of General Yen	B. Stanwyck-Nils Asther	Jan. 6,'33	89	Nov. 26
California Trail, The	Buck Jones-Helen Mack	Mar. 24,'33
Child of Manhattan	John Boles-Nancy Carroll	Feb. 4,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Deception	Lee Carrillo-Barbara Weeks-Nat Pendleton	Nov. 4	67	Jan. 14,'33
End of the Trail, The	Tim McCoy-Luana Walters	Dec. 19	59½
Fighting for Justice	Tim McCoy-Joyce Compton	Dec. 28	60½
Forbidden Trail	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Nov. 18	71
Last Man, The	Chas. Bickford-C. Cummings	Aug. 31	71	Sept. 24
Man Against Woman	Jack Holt-Lillian Miles	Nov. 15	68	Dec. 10
Man of Action	Tim McCoy-Caryl Lincoln	Jan. 20,'33	57
Mussolini Speaks		Mar. 10,'33	76	Mar. 18,'33
Night Club Lady, The	Adolphe Menjou-Mayo Methot-Skeets Gallagher	Aug. 27	68	Sept. 3
No More Orchids	Carole Lombard-Lyle Talbot	Nov. 25	74	Nov. 19
Obey the Law	Leo Carrillo-Lois Wilson-Dickie Moore	Jan. 20,'33	69	Mar. 18,'33
Parole Girl	Mae Clarke-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 4,'33	67
Silent Men	Tim McCoy-Florence Britton	Mar. 3,'33
So This Is Africa	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey-Raquel Torres	Feb. 24,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Soldiers of the Storm	Regis Toomey-Anita Page	Apr. 4,'33
Speed Demon	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Joan Marsh	Nov. 5	65	Nov. 26
State Trooper	Regis Toomey-Evalyn Knapp	Feb. 10,'33	68	Apr. 1,'33
Sundown Rider, The	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Dec. 30	69
That's My Boy	R. Cromwell-Dorothy Jordan-Mae Marsh	Oct. 6	71	Dec. 3
Treason	Buck Jones-Shirley Grey	Feb. 10,'33	61½
Vanity Street	C. Bickford-Helen Chandler	Oct. 15	67	Oct. 29
Virtue	Carole Lombard-Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25	69	Nov. 5
Washington Merry-Go-Round	Lee Tracy-C. Cummings	Oct. 15	76	Oct. 1
When Strangers Marry	Jack Holt-Lillian Bond	Mar. 20,'33
White Eagle	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Oct. 7	67	Oct. 1

Coming Feature Attractions

Ann Carver's Profession — Fay Wray-Gene Raymond
Below the Sea — Ralph Bellamy-Fay Wray
Circus Queen Murder, The — Adolphe Menjou-Greta Nissen-Donald Cook
Cocktail Hour — Bebe Daniels-Sidney Blackmer
Cougar's Trail, The — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Grass Valley — Buck Jones-Diane Sinclair
He Lived to Kill — Bela Lugosi-Sally Blane
King of the Wild Horses — Wm. Janney-Dorothy Appleby
Rusty Rides Alone — Tim McCoy-Diane Sinclair
Thrill Hunter, The — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Unknown Valley — Buck Jones-Cecelia Parker — May 5,'33
Whirlwind, The — Tim McCoy-Alice Dahl — Apr. 14,'33
Woman I Stole, The — Jack Holt-Raquel Torres-Fay Wray

CHESTERFIELD

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten	June Clyde-Lee Kohlmar	Feb. 15,'33	65
King Murder, The	Conway Tearle	Sept. 15	64
Love Is Like That	Rochelle Hudson-John Warburton	Mar. 15,'33	65
Secrets of Wu Sin	Lois Wilson-Grant Withers	Dec. 15	65
Slightly Married	Evalyn Knapp-Walter Byron	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Strange People	Hale Hamilton-Gloria Shea-John Darrow	Jan. 15,'33	65
Thrill of Youth	June Clyde-Allan Vincent	Aug. 15	62	Sept. 10
Women Won't Tell	Sarah Padden-Gloria Shea	Nov. 15	67

EQUITABLE PICTURES
[Distributed through Majestic]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheating Blondes	Thelma Todd-Rolfe Harolde	Apr. 1,'33
Gold Diggers of Paris	Madge Bellamy-Gilbert Roland	Mar. 15,'33
What Price Decency?	Dorothy Burgess-Alan Hale-Walter Byron	Mar. 1,'33	60	Mar. 11,'33

FIRST DIVISION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Drive, The		Jan. 19,'33	91	Jan. 28,'33
Condemned to Death	Arthur Wontner	Oct. 10	78½	July 23
Geona Goona		Nov. 28	66	Aug. 27
Monte Carlo Madness	Sari Maritza	July 1	67	June 11
Ringer, The	Franklyn Dyall	Oct. 30	60	June 11

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blondie Johnson	Joan Blondell-Chester Morris	Feb. 25,'33	69	Feb. 4,'33
Cabin in the Cotton	Richard Barthelmess	Oct. 15	76	Sept. 10
Central Park	Joan Blondell	Dec. 10	55	Nov. 19
Employees Entrance	W. William-Loretta Young	Feb. 11,'33	75	Dec. 24
Frisco Jenny	Ruth Chatterton	Jan. 14,'33	76	Dec. 17
Grand Slam	Paul Lukas-Loretta Young	Mar. 18,'33	65	Jan. 14,'33
Life Begins	Loretta Young-Eric Linden	Oct. 1	72	Aug. 13
Match King, The	Warren William-Lili Damita	Dec. 31	79	Dec. 17
Mind Reader, The	Warren William	Apr. 1,'33	68	Feb. 25,'33
Silver Dollar	Edward G. Robinson	Dec. 24	78	Nov. 5
They Call It Sin	Loretta Young-Geo. Brent	Nov. 5	74	Sept. 3
Three on a Match	Blondell-William-Dvorak-Davis	Oct. 29	64	Oct. 1
20,000 Years in Sing Sing	Bette Davis-Spencer Tracy	Feb. 1,'33	81	Nov. 5
You Said a Mouthful	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 26	72	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Breadline — Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young
Captured — Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Central Airport — Richard Barthelmess — Apr. 15,'33 — 75 — Apr. 1,'33
Elmer the Great — Joe E. Brown — April 29,'33 — 70 — Apr. 1,'33
Gold Diggers of 1933 — W. William-Joan Blondell-Aline MacMahon-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell
Goodbye Again — W. William-Joan Blondell
Lilly Turner — Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent — May 13,'33
Little Giant, The — Edward G. Robinson — May 27,'33
She Had to Say Yes — Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
After the Ball	Esther Ralston-Basil Rathbone	Mar. 17,'33	69	Mar. 25,'33
Bondage	Dorothy Jordan-Alex. Kirkland	Mar. 31,'33
Broadway Bad	Jean Blondell-Ginger Rogers-Ricardo Cortez	Feb. 24,'33	59	Mar. 11,'33
Call Her Savage	Bow-Owsley-Todd-Roland	Nov. 27	88	Dec. 3
Cavalcade	Clive Brook-Diana Wynyard	Apr. 15,'33	110	Jan. 14,'33
Dangerously Yours	Miriam Jordan-Warner Baxter	Feb. 3,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33
Face in the Sky	Spencer Tracy-Marian Nixon-Stuart Erwin	Jan. 22,'33	77	Feb. 4,'33
Golden West, The	Geo. O'Brien-Janet Chandler-Marion Burns	Oct. 30	74	Oct. 15
Handle with Care	Jas. Dunn-Boots Mallory	Dec. 25	75	Dec. 24
Hot Pepper	Victor McLaglen-Edmund Lowe-Lupe Velez-El Brendel	Jan. 22,'33	76	Jan. 28,'33
Humanity	Boots Mallory-A. Kirkland	Mar. 3,'33	70
Infernal Machine	Genevieve Tobin-Chester Morris-Alexander Kirkland	Feb. 10,'33
Me and My Gal	Joan Bennett-Spencer Tracy	Dec. 4	78	Dec. 17
Pleasure Cruise	Genevieve Tobin-Roland Young	Mar. 24,'33	72	Apr. 1,'33
Rackety Rax	Victor McLaglen-Greta Nissen-Neil O'Day	Oct. 23	75	Oct. 29
Robbers Roost	George O'Brien-Maureen O'Sullivan	Jan. 1,'33	64	Apr. 1,'33
Sailor's Luck	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Mar. 10,'33	78	Mar. 25,'33
Second Hand Wife	Sally Eilers-Ralph Bellamy	Jan. 1,'33	64	Jan. 21,'33
Sherlock Holmes	Clive Brook-Miriam Jordan	Nov. 6	69	Nov. 26
Six Hours to Live	Warner Baxter-John Boles-Miriam Jordan	Oct. 18	80	Oct. 29
Smoke Lightning	George O'Brien-Neil O'Day	Feb. 17,'33
State Fair	Janet Gaynor-Will Rogers-Lew Ayres-Sally Eilers-Norman Foster-Frank Craven	Feb. 10,'33	100	Feb. 4,'33
Tess of the Storm Country	Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell	Nov. 20	75	Nov. 26
Too Busy to Work	Will Rogers-Marian Nixon	Nov. 13	70	Nov. 12
Wild Girl	Joan Bennett-Charles Farrell-Ralph Bellamy	Oct. 9	74	Oct. 8

Coming Feature Attractions

Adorable — Janet Gaynor-Henry Garat — May 12,'33
Five Cents a Glass — Marian Nixon-"Buddy" Rogers — May 19,'33
Giant Swing, The — Ricardo Cortez-Norman Foster
Hold Me Tight — James Dunn-Sally Eilers — June 2,'33
Hello, Sister — James Dunn-Boots Mallory — Apr. 14,'33
I Loved You Wednesday — Warner Baxter-Elissa Landi — May 26,'33
It's Great to Be Alive — Edna May Oliver-Herbert Mundin
Man-Eater — Marion Burns-Kane Richmond
My Lips Betray — Lillian Harvey-John Boles
Pilgrimage — Marian Nixon-Norman Foster
Power and the Glory, The — Colleen Moore-Spencer Tracy
Trick for Trick — Ralph Morgan-Victor Jory — Apr. 21,'33
Warrior's Husband, The — Elissa Landi-Ernest Truex-David Manners — May 5,'33
Zoo in Budapest — Gene Raymond-Loretta Young — Apr. 28,'33

FREULER FILM ASSOCIATES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Fighting Gentleman, The	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Josephine Dunn-N. Moorhead	Oct. 7	65	Oct. 15
Forty-Niners, The	Tom Tyler	Oct. 28	59
Gambling Sex	Ruth Hall-Grant Withers	Nov. 21	65
Penal Code, The	Regis Toomey-Helen Cohan	Dec. 23
Savage Girl, The	Rochelle Hudson-Walter Byron	Dec. 5
When a Man Rides Alone	Tom Tyler	Jan. 15,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Cat, The
Bulldog Edition

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Deadwood Pass	Tom Tyler
East of Sudan
Easy Millions	Skeets Gallagher-Dorothy Burgess-Merna Kennedy
Green Paradise
Kiss of Araby	Maria Alba-Walter Byron
My Wandering Boy
Red Man's Country
Silent Army, The Sisters of the Follies

MAJESTIC

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Crusader, The	Evelyn Brent-H. B. Warner	Oct. 1	72	Oct. 8
Gold	Jack Hoxie-Alice Day	Sept. 15	53
Hearts of Humanity	Jean Hersholt-Jackie Searl	Sept. 1	70	Sept. 24
Law and Lawless	Jack Hoxie-Hilda Morene	Nov. 30	62
Outlaw Justice	Jack Hoxie-Dorothy Gulliver	Oct. 1	61
Phantom Express, The	Sally Blane-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Sept. 15	70	Sept. 24
Public Be Damned, The	Pat O'Brien-Evelyn Brent	Apr. 1,'33
Unwritten Law, The	Greta Nissen-Skeets Gallagher	Nov. 15	70	Jan. 4,'33
Vampire Bat, The	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Jan. 21,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Via Pony Express	Jack Hoxie-Marcelline Day	Feb. 6,'33	62

Coming Feature Attractions

Curtain at Eight		May	1,'33
Free Love		June	1,'33
Gun Law	Jack Hoxie-Betty Boyd	Apr.	15,'33
Sing, Sinner, Sing	Paul Lukas-Leila Hyams	Apr.	15,'33
Trouble Buster	Jack Hoxie-Lane Chandler	May	15,'33
Woman in the Chair, The		May	15,'33

MAYFAIR PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Madness	Helen Chandler-Leon Waycoff	Apr.	1,'33
Behind Jury Doors	Helen Chandler-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Dec.	1 hr. 7
Heart Punch	Marion Shilling-L. Hughes	Oct.	15 64	Oct. 29
Her Mad Night	Irene Rich-Conway Tearle	Oct.	1 hr. 7	Oct. 29
Justice Takes a Holiday	Patricia O'Brien-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Malay Nights	John Mack Brown-D. Burgess-Ralph Ince	Nov.	1
Midnight Warning	William Boyd-Claudia Dell	Nov.	15
No Living Witness	Barbara Kent-Gilbert Roland	Sept.	15 65	Sept. 17
Revenge at Monte Carlo	June Collyer-Jose Crespo-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Sister to Judas	Claire Windsor-John Harron	Jan.	1,'33 75	Feb. 18,'33
Tangled Destinies	Lloyd Whitlock-Doris Hill	Sept.	1

Coming Feature Attractions

Her Resale Value	June Clyde-George Lewis	Apr.	15,'33

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clear All Wires	Lee Tracy-Benita Hume	Feb.	24,'33	Feb. 18,'33
Faithless	T. Bankhead-R. Montgomery	Oct.	15 74	Oct. 15
Fast Life	William Haines-Madge Evans	Dec.	16 75	Dec. 10
Fast Workers	John Gilbert-Mae Clarke	Mar.	10,'33 66	Mar. 25,'33
Flesh	Wallace Beery-Karen Morley-Ricardo Cortez	Dec.	9 75	Dec. 17
Gabriel Over the White House	Walter Huston-Karen Morley	Mar.	31,'33 87
Kongo	Walter Huston-Lupe Velez	Oct.	1 86	Nov. 26
Looking Forward	Lewis Stone-Benita Hume-Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	7,'33 80	Apr. 1,'33
	(Reviewed under the title "The New Deal")
Mask of Fu Manchu, The	Boris Karloff	Nov.	5 67	Dec. 10
Men Must Fight	Phillips Holmes-Diana Wynyard	Feb.	17,'33 72	Mar. 18,'33
Outsider, The	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	Jan.	28,'33 90	May 2,'33
Payment Deferred	M. O'Sullivan-C. Laughton	Oct.	8 78	Sept. 24
Prosperity	Dressler-Moran	Nov.	18 76	Nov. 12
Rasputin and the Empress	Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore	Mar.	24,'33 127	Dec. 31
Secret of Madame Blanche, The	Irene Dunne-Phillips Holmes	Feb.	3,'33 78	Jan. 21,'33
Son Daughter	Helen Hayes-Ramon Novarro	Dec.	25 79	Jan. 7,'33
Strange Interlude	Norma Shearer-Clarke Gable	Dec.	30 112	Sept. 3
What! No Beer?	Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante	Feb.	10,'33 78	Feb. 11,'33
Whistling in the Dark	Ernest Truex-Una Merkel	Jan.	21,'33 78	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Accidents Wanted	Lee Tracy-Madge Evans
Barbarian, The	Ramon Novarro-Myrna Loy
Bombshell	Jean Harlow
Devil's Brother, The	Laurel and Hardy-Dennis King-Thelma Todd		90
Dinner at Eight	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Lionel Barrymore-Jean Harlow-Madge Evans-Karen Morley-Franchot Tone-Lee Tracy-Jean Hersholt
Eskimo
Hell Below	Robt. Montgomery-Jimmy Durante-Robt. Young-Walter Huston-Madge Evans	May	5,'33
Made on Broadway	R. Montgomery-Sally Eilers	May	19,'33 68
Peg O' My Heart	Marion Davies-Onslow Stevens	May	26,'33
Reunion in Vienna	John Barrymore-Diana Wynyard-Otto Kruger	Apr.	28,'33
Tarzan and His Mate	J. Weissmuller-M. O'Sullivan
Today We Live	Joan Crawford-Gary Cooper	Apr.	21,'33
When Ladies Meet	Ann Harding-Alice Brady-Robt. Montgomery
White Sister, The	Helen Hayes-Clark Gable	Apr.	14,'33 101	Mar. 25,'33

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Beauty	Alex. Kirkland-Esther Ralston	Apr.	1,'33
Breed of the Border	Bob Steele	Mar.	1,'33
Crashin' Broadway	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Diamond Trail, The	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Fighting Champ	Bob Steele	Dec.	15
Guilty or Not Guilty	Betty Compson-Tom Douglas	Nov.	15 7 reels
Hidden Valley	Bob Steele	Oct.	10 6 reels
Jungle Bride	Anita Page-Charles Starrett	Feb.	15,'33 63	Feb. 25,'33
Lucky Larrigan	Rex Bell-Helen Foster	Dec.	1
Man from Arizona, The	Rex Bell	Oct.	1 6 reels
Oliver Twist	Dickie Moore-Irving Pichel-Jackie Searle	Feb.	28,'33 80	Mar. 4,'33
Phantom Broadcast	Ralph Forbes-Vivienne Osborne	Mar.	15,'33 68
Self-Defense	Pauline Frederick	Dec.	15 68	Dec. 10
Strange Adventure	Regis Toomey-June Clyde	Nov.	20 7 reels
West of Singapore	Betty Compson	Jan.	31,'33 68
Young Blood	Bob Steele	Nov.	5

Coming Feature Attractions

Casey Jones	All Star	Apr.	30,'33
Fighting Texans, The	Rex Bell	Apr.	30,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Broadcast, The	Stuart Erwin-Bing Crosby-Kate Smith - Leila Hyams - Mills Bros. - Boswell Sisters - Cab Calloway - Vincent Lopez - Arthur Tracy - Sharon Lynn	Oct. 28	80	Oct. 8
Billion Dollar Scandal	Carole Lombard-Robt. Armstrong	Jan. 6,'33	78	Dec. 31
Crime of the Century	Stuart Erwin-Wynne Gibson	Feb. 24,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Devil Is Driving, The	Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson	Dec. 9	70	Dec. 10
Evenings for Sale	Herb Marshall-Sari Maritza	Nov. 11	65	Nov. 5
Farewell to Arms, A	Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper	Jan. 6,'33	78	Dec. 19
From Hell to Heaven	Carole Lombard-Jack Oakie	Feb. 24,'33	70	Feb. 18,'33
He Learned About Women	Stuart Erwin-A. Skipworth	Nov.	4
Hello, Everybody	Kate Smith	Feb. 17,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Hot Saturday	Nancy Carroll-Cary Grant	Oct. 28	73	Oct. 22
If I Had a Million	Gary Cooper - Wynne Gibson - Geo. Raft - Richard Bennett-May Robson	Nov.	95	Nov. 12
Island of Lost Souls	Chas. Laughton-Richard Arlen-Irving Pichel-Leila Hyams	Dec.	70	Dec. 10
King of the Jungle	Frances Dee-Buster Crabbe	Mar.	10,'33 74	Mar. 4,'33
Lady's Profession, A	Alison Skipworth-Roland Young	Mar.	3,'33 72	Feb. 25,'33
Luxury Liner	Geo. Brent-Zita Johann-Frank Morgan	Feb.	3,'33 70	Jan. 28,'33
Madame Butterfly	Sylvia Sidney-Cary Grant	Dec.	30 88	Dec. 31
Madison Square Garden	Jack Oakie-Marian Nixon	Oct.	7 74	Oct. 8
Murders in the Zoo	Charlie Ruggles-Lionel Atwill	Mar.	31,'33 55	Mar. 11,'33
Mysterious Rider, The	Kent Taylor-Lona André	Jan.	20,'33
Night After Night	Geo. Raft-C. Cummings	Oct.	14 70	Oct. 8
No Man of Her Own	Clark Gable-Carole Lombard	Dec.	76	Dec. 24
Phantom President, The	Geo. M. Cohan-Claudette Colbert-Jimmy Durante	Oct.	7 78	Sept. 24
Pick Up	Sylvia Sidney-George Raft	Mar.	24,'33 75	Mar. 25,'33
She Done Him Wrong	Mae West-Owen Moore	Jan.	27,'33 66	Feb. 18,'33
Sign of the Cross	Fredric March-Elissa Landi-Claudette Colbert	Feb.	10,'33 123	Dec. 10
Strictly Personal	Marjorie Rambeau-Eddie Quillan-D. Jordan	Mar.	17,'33 70	Mar. 4,'33
Tonight Is Ours	C. Colbert-Fredric March-Paul Cavanagh	Jan.	13,'33 76	Jan. 7,'33
Trouble in Paradise	Miriam Hopkins-H. Marshall-Kay Francis	Oct.	21 73	Oct. 29
Under Cover Man	Geo. Raft-Nancy Carroll	Dec.	2 74	Dec. 10
Under the Tonto Rim	Stuart Erwin-Verna Hillie	Apr.	7,'33
Wild Horse Mesa	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Nov.	25
Woman Accused, The	Cary Grant-Nancy Carroll-John Halliday-Lona Andre	Feb.	17,'33 73	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

A Bedtime Story	Maurice Chevalier-Helen Twelvetrees	Apr.	21,'33
College Humor	Bing Crosby-Jack Oakie
Cracked Ice	Four Marx Bros.
Dead on Arrival	James Dunn-Gloria Stuart
Disgraced	Claudette Colbert-Wm. Harrigan
Eagle and the Hawk, The	F. March-C. Grant-J. Oakie
I Love That Man	Nancy Carroll-Edmund Lowe	May	'33
International House	Peggy Hopkins Joyce
Jennie Gerhardt	Sylvia Sidney-Donald Cook
Song of Songs	Marlene Dietrich-Brian Aherne
Song of the Eagle	Chas. Bickford-Mary Brian-Richard Arlen	Apr.	28,'33
Story of Temple Drake, The	Miriam Hopkins-Jack LaRue	Apr.	28,'33
Sunset Pass	Randolph Scott-Tom Keene
Supernatural	C. Lombard-Randolph Scott-V. Osborne
Suspended Sentence	Wynne Gibson-Edmund Lowe
Terror Aboard	Neil Hamilton-Chas. Ruggles-Verree Teasdale	Apr.	14,'33

POWERS PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Limping Man, The	Franklin Dyall	Aug. 1	55	Aug. 27
Lucky Girl	Gene Gerrard-Molly Lamont	Sept. 1	69
Man Who Won, The	Henry Kendall-Heather Angel	Sept. 15	70	Mar. 4,'33
Woman Decides, The	Adrianne Allen-Owen Nares	Aug. 15	68

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Animal Kingdom	Leslie Howard-Ann Harding	Dec. 23	78	Dec. 10
Cheyenne Kid	Tom Keene	Jan. 20,'33	54½
Christopher Strong	K. Hepburn-Colin Clive-Billie Burke	Mar. 31,'33	72	Mar. 18,'33
Conquerors, The	Ann Harding-Richard Dix	Nov. 18	80	Nov. 19
Goldie Gets Along	Lili Damita-Chas. Morton	Jan. 27,'33	68
Great Jasper, The	Richard Dix	Mar. 3,'33	76	Feb. 11,'33
Half-Naked Truth, The	Lee Tracy-Lupe Velez	Dec. 16	77	Jan. 7,'33
King Kong	Fay Wray-Bruce Cabot	Apr. 7,'33	100	Feb. 25,'33
Little Orphan Annie	Mitzi Green-Buster Phelps	Nov. 4	70	Oct. 29
Lucky Devils	Bill Boyd-Bruce Cabot-William Gargan-D. Wilson	Feb. 3,'33	60	Dec. 31
Man Hunt	Junior Durkin-Mrs. Wallace Reid	Mar. 24,'33	68	Feb. 4,'33
	(Reviewed under the title "A Successful Blunder")
Men Are Such Fools	Leo Carrillo-V. Osborne	Nov. 18	66
Men of America	Bill Boyd	Dec. 9	75	Nov. 12
Monkey's Paw, The	Ivan Simpson-Louise Carter	Jan. 13,'33	52	Oct. 1
No Other Woman	Irene Dunne-Chas. Bickford	Jan. 6,'33	58	Jan. 21,'33
Our Betters	Constance Bennett	Mar. 17,'33	72	Mar. 4,'33
Past of Mary Holmes, The	Helen MacKellar-Erle Linden	Jan. 20,'33	62
Penguin Pool Murder	Edna May Oliver-Jas. Gleason	Dec. 30	75	Nov. 12
Phantom of Crestwood	Ricardo Cortez-Karen Morley	Oct. 14	77	Oct. 22
Renegades of the West	Tom Keene	Nov. 25	55
Rockabye	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrae	Nov. 25	75	Nov. 26
Sailor Be Good	Jack Oakie-Vivienne Osborne	Feb. 10,'33	68	Mar. 4,'33
Scarlet River	Tom Keene-D. Wilson	Mar. 10,'33	57	Jan. 21,'33
Secrets of the French Police	Gwili Andre-Frank Morgan	Dec. 2	58	Dec. 17
Son of the Border	Tom Keene-Julie Hayden		55
Sport Parade, The	Joel McCrae-Marian Marsh	Nov. 11	65	Dec. 24
Strange Justice	Marian Marsh-R. Denny	Oct. 7	74	Aug. 27
Theft of the Mona Lisa, The	Willy Forst-Trude von Molo (Reviewed—German Version)	Oct. 21	82	Apr. 9
Topaze	John Barrymore-Myrna Loy	Feb. 24,'33	78	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Ace, The	Chester Morris-Vivienne Osborne
Cross Fire	Tom Keene-Betty Furness	June 30,'33	55
In the Red	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey
Maiden Cruise	Phil Harris-Helen Mack
Power Man	Bill Boyd
Rafter Romance	Joel McCrea-Dorothy Jordan
Silver Cord, The	Irene Dunne-Joel McCrea
Sweepings	Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	14,'33 80	Mar. 18,'33

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Mins.	Reviewed
Armored Cruiser Potemkin		Kinematrade

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bachelor Mother	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray	Goldsmith	Jan. '5,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Bal, Le	Andre Lefaur	Protex		80	Oct. 8
Blame the Woman	Adolphe Menjou-Benita Hume	Principal	Oct. 15	74	Nov. 5
Charlotte Lowenskeld	Birgit Sergellius-Erle Barclay	Scandinavian
Contraband	Don Alvarado-Dorothy Sebastian	Hoffberg	Apr. 1,'33
Daring Daughters	Marian Marsh - Joan Marsh	Capital	Feb. '33	60
Devil's Playground, The		Principal	Jan. 1"33	54
Eternal Jew, The	M. B. Samuylow	Jewish Talking Pictures
Face on the Barroom Floor, The	B. Fletcher	Invincible		66	Oct. 22
Forgotten Men		Jewel Productions	Feb. '33
Fourteenth of July, The	Annabella - Georges Rigaud	Tobis-Rene Clair		85	Jan. 28,'33
Hotel Variety	Hal Skelly-Olive Borden	Screencraft		68
House of Death	N. P. Chmelloff	Amkino	Aug. 12	76	Aug. 27
In the Days of the Crusaders	Alberto Pasquali	Monopole	Oct. 1	75	Oct. 15
Italy Speaks		Enrico Cutali			Feb. 25,'33
Jungle Gigolo		Principal	Feb. 15,'33	55
Jungle Killer	Carveth Wells	Century Productions	Dec.
Lady of the Night	Francesca Bertini	Portale Pics.	Mar. 9,'33
Love and Passion		Yugoslavian Pics.
Manhattan Tower	Mary Brian-Irene Rich-James Hall	Remington	Dec. 1	67	Nov. 19
Men and Jobs		Amkino	Jan. 1,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Moon Over Morocco	Rene Lefebvre-Rosine Derean	Protex	Jan. 21,'33	80	Feb. 25,'33
Out of Singapore	Noah Beery	Goldsmith Pics.		61	Sept. 24
Piri Knows All	Margit Dayka	Arkay Film
Pride of the Legion	Sally Blane-B. Kent	Mascot	Oct. 10	70	Oct. 29
Red Haired Alibi	Merna Kennedy	Capital	Oct. 21	75	Oct. 29
Reform Girl	Dorothy Peterson-Skeets Gallagher	Capital	Mar. '33	70
Shadow Laughs, The	Hal Skelly-Rose Hobart	Invincible		67
Shame	Vladimir Gardin	Amkino	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Sniper, The		Amkino	Aug. 25	68	Sept. 3
Soeko		Hoffberg		30
Soviets on Parade		Kinematrade
Virgins of Bali		Principal	Dec. 8	46	Dec. 17
With Williamson Beneath the Sea		Principal	Nov. 24	59	Dec. 3
Woman in Chains	Owen Nares (Reviewed under title "The Impassive Footman"— Assoc. Radio British)	Invincible		69	Aug. 13

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cynara	Ronald Colman-Kay Francis	Dec. 24	80	Nov. 5
Hallelujah, I'm a Bum	Al Jolson	Feb. 3,'33	82	Feb. 18,'33
Kid from Spain, The	Eddie Canter	Nov. 17	90	Nov. 5
Magic Night	Jack Buchanan	Nov. 5	76	Nov. 12
Rain	Joan Crawford	Oct. 22	85	Sept. 17
Perfect Understanding	Gloria Swanson	Mar. 11,33	84	Mar. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
I Cover the Waterfront	Claudette Colbert - Ben Lyon - Ernest Terrence
Joe Palooka	Jimmy Durante
Masquerader, The	Ronald Colman-Elissa Landi		75	Feb. 25,'33
Secrets	Mary Pickford-Leslie Howard	Apr. 16,'33	90	Feb. 18,'33
Yes, Mr. Brown	Jack Buchanan			Mar. 18,'33

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Afraid to Talk (Reviewed under title "Merry Go Round")	Eric Linden-Sidney Fox	Nov. 17	76	Sept. 24
Air Mail	Pat O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Nov. 3	83	Oct. 8
All American, The	Richard Arlen-Gloria Stuart	Oct. 13	78	Sept. 24
Be Mine Tonight	Jan Kiepura-Magda Schneider	Mar. 23,'33	78	Feb. 18,'33
Big Cage, The	Anita Page-Clyde Beatty	Mar. 3,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Cohens and Kellys in Trouble	Chas. Murray-Geo. Sidney	Mar. 23,'33	69
Destination Unknown	Pat. O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 16,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Flaming Guns	Tom Mix-Ruth Hall	Dec. 22	57
Hidden Gold	Tim Mix	Nov. 3	56
Laughter in Hell	Pat O'Brien-Gloria Stuart	Jan. 12,'33	68	Jan. 7,'33
Mummy, The	Boris Karloff-Zita Johann	Dec. 22	78	Dec. 3
Nagana	Tala Birell-Melvyn Douglas	Jan. 26,'33	74	Jan. 7,'33
Old Dark House, The	Boris Karloff-L. Bond	Oct. 20	74	July 16
Private Jones	Lee Tracy-Gloria Stuart	Feb. 16,'33	89	Apr. 1,'33
Rome Express	Esther Ralston-Conrad Veidt	Feb. 16,'33	87	Jan. 21,'33
Rustler's Roundup	Tom Mix-Diane Sinclair	Mar. 16,'33
Terror Trail, The	Tom Mix	Feb. 2,'33	57	Feb. 18,'33
They Just Had to Get Married	Summerville-Pitts	Jan. 5,'33	75	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Pearl	Tala Birell
King of the Arena	Ken Maynard
Kiss Before the Mirror	Nancy Carroll-Paul Lukas	Apr. 20,'33	67	Mar. 11,'33
Lucky Dog	Charles "Chic" Sale
Out All Night	Summerville-Pitts	Apr. 13,'33	72	Mar. 11,'33
Rebel, The	Vilma Banky-Luis Trenker
Road Back, The
S. O. S. Iceberg
When the Time Comes	Spencer Tracy

WARNER BROS.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Stampede, The	John Wayne	Oct. 8	54	Feb. 11,'33
Ex-Lady	Bette Davis	Apr. 8,'33	62	Feb. 18,'33
Forty-Second Street	Warner Baxter - Bebe Daniels - Geo. Brent	Mar. 11,'33	89	Mar. 18,'33
Girl Missing	Ben Lyon - Mary Brian - Peggy Shannon	Mar. 4,'33	69
Hard to Handle	James Cagney	Jan. 28,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Haunted Gold	John Wayne	Dec. 17	58
I Am A Fugitive from a Chain Gang	Paul Muni	Nov. 19	90	Oct. 22
Keyhole, The	Kay Francis-George Brent	Mar. 25,'33	69
King's Vacation, The	George Arliss	Feb. 25,'33	60	Jan. 28,'33
Ladies They Talk About	Barbara Stanwyck	Feb. 4,'33	64	Jan. 7,'33
Lawyer Man	Wm. Powell-Joan Blondell	Jan. 7,'33	72	Dec. 3
One Way Passage	Wm. Powell-Kay Francis	Oct. 22	69	July 30
Parachute Jumper	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	Jan. 28,'33	72	Dec. 31
Scarlet Dawn	D. Fairbanks, Jr. - Nancy Carroll	Nov. 12	58	Nov. 12
Telegraph Trail, The	John Wayne	Mar. 18,'33	55
Untamed Africa		Apr. 8,'33
Two Against the World	Constance Bennett	Sept. 3	71	July 30
Wax Museum, Mystery of the	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Feb. 18,'33	72	Jan. 7,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Adopted Father, The	George Arliss-Bette Davis	May 20,'33	73
Baby Face	Barbara Stanwyck	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Life of Jimmy Dolan, The	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-Loretta Young		70
Man from Monterey, The	John Wayne-Ruth Hall
Mary Stevens, M.D.	Kay Francis-George Brent
Mayor of Hell, The	James Cagney
Narrow Corner, The	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Picture Snatcher	James Cagney	May 6,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Private Detective 62	William Powell
Silk Express	Neil Hamilton-Sheila Terry
Somewhere in Sonora	John Wayne
Voltaire	George Arliss-Dorothy Kenyon

WORLD WIDE

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Between Fighting Men	Ken Maynard	Oct. 16	62
Breach of Promise	Chester Morris-Mae Clarke	Oct. 23	67
Constant Woman, The (Reviewed under the title "Auction in Souls")	Conrad Nagel-Leila Hyams	Mar. 18,'33	75	Mar. 3,'33
Death Kiss, The	Adrienne Ames-David Manners-John Wray	Jan. 8,'33	75	Dec. 24
Drum Taps	Ken Maynard	Jan. 29,'33	61
False Faces	Lowell Sherman-Lila Lee	Oct. 13	83	Dec. 3
Fargo Express	Ken Maynard	Nov. 20	62
Hypnotized	Moran and Mack	Dec. 25	70	Dec. 24
Lone Avenger, The	Ken Maynard	Apr. 9,'33
Phantom Thunderbolt	Ken Maynard	Mar. 5,'33	62
Racetrack	Leo Carrillo	Feb. 25,'33	78	Mar. 11,'33
Study in Scarlet, A	Reginald Owen-June Clyde	Apr. 2,'33
Tombstone Canyon	Ken Maynard	Dec. 25	62
Trailing the Killer	(Special)	Dec. 4	68	Oct. 15
Uptown New York	Jack Oakie-Shirley Grey	Nov. 20	80	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Tarnished Youth	Jetta Goudal-Gilbert Roland

GERMAN

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Door Opens	Lily Rodlen-Curt Lucas	Protex	Feb. 4,'33	70
A Night In Paradise	Anny Ondra-Herman Thimig	Kinematrade
Barberina, The King's Dancer	Lil Dagover	Capital	Oct. 25	87	Nov. 12
Beautiful Maneuver Time	Ida Wuest	World's Trade
Captain of Koepenick, The	Max Adalbert	Kinematrade	Jan. 16,'33	83	Feb. 18,'33
Comradeship		Assoc. Cinemas	Nov. 8	78	Dec. 10
Cruiser Emden		World's Trade Exchange	Sept. 8	85	Oct. 1
David Golder	Harry Baur	Protex		80	Oct. 29
Don't Tell Me Who You Are	Liane Haid-Gustave Froelich	Interworld	Feb. 15,'33	91	Feb. 25,'33
Enchanted Escapade	Kaethe von Nagy	Protex	Dec. 7	83	Jan. 28,'33
Friederike	Mady Christians	Kinematrade	Feb. 25,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Gitta Discovers Her Heart	Gitta Alpar	Capital		91	Oct. 15
Gloria	Gustav Froehlich	Tobis	Oct. 27	87	Nov. 12
Hertha's Awakening	Toni Van Eyck	Protex	Mar. 10,'33	82	Mar. 25,'33
Herzblut	Renate Mueller	Cines-Pittaluga	Sept. 30	77	Oct. 15
His Majesty, King Ballyhoo	Hans Moser - Heinz Ruehmann	Capital	Nov. 15	86	Feb. 11,'33
Louise, Queen of Prussia	Henny Porten	Assoc. Cinemas	Oct. 4	92	Oct. 15
Love Is Love	Kaethe von Nagy	Ufa			June 11
M	Peter Lorre	Foremco	Mar. 31,'33	96
Maedchen in Uniform	Hertha Thiele	John Krimsky - Gifford Cochran		110	Oct. 1
Man Without a Name, The	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 5	90	Dec. 17
1914		Capital	Sept. 3	73	Sept. 24
Party Does Not Answer, The	Dorothy Wieck	Capital	Nov. 29	76	Dec. 31
Ronny	Willy Fritsch-Kaethe von Nagy	Protex
Schubert's Dream of Spring	Alfred Laeutner	Capital		75	July 2
Song of Life	Albert Mog - Margot Ferra	Tobis	Mar. 24,'33	66
Spell of Tatra, The		Protex	Feb. 17,'33	65	Feb. 25,'33
Two Hearts That Beat as One	Lilian Harvey	Ufa-Protex	Sept. 8	80	Sept. 24
Upright Sinner, The	Max Pallenberg-Dolly Haas	European Films, Kinematrade	Mar. 28,'33	78
Victoria and Her Hussar
Yorck	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 23	99	Dec. 10

OTHER PRODUCT

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Counsel's Opinion	Henry Kendall	London Film		71
Fires of Fate	Lester Matthews	British Int'l		72	Oct. 15
Flag Lieutenant, The	Henry Edwards-Anna Neagle	British and Dominions		85	Dec. 31
Flying Squad, The	Harold Huth	British Lion		79	Aug. 6
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-British		68	Feb. 25,'33
Green Spot Mystery, The	Jack Lloyd	Mutual, London		66	Sept. 3
Here's George	George Clarke	P.D.C.-British		64	Nov. 5
Jack's the Boy	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-Gainsborough	Aug. 15	61	Sept. 24
Jesser on the River	Ernest Lotinga	British Int'l		71	Sept. 17
Leap Year	Tom Walls - Anne Grey	British and Dominions		89	Dec. 17
Lodger, The	Ivor Novello	Twickenham		84	Oct. 15
Looking on the Bright Side	Gracie Fields	Assoc. Radio-British		82	Oct. 15
Love Contract, The	Owen Nares	British and Dominions		82	Aug. 27
Love In Morocco (Reviewed under the title "Baroud")	Rex Ingram	Gaumont-British	Mar. 18,'33	67	Oct. 15
Love on Wheels	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-Gainsborough		87	Aug. 13
Maid of the Mountains, The	Harry Welchman - Nancy Brown	British Int'l		80
Man They Couldn't Arrest, The	Hugh Wakefield-Renee Clama	Gaumont-British	Mar. 11,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33
Marry Me	Renate Mueller-Geo. Robey	Gaumont-British		85
Mayor's Nest	Sydney Howard	British and Dominions		75	July 16
Private Wives	Claude Allister-Betty Astell	British Lion
Sally Bishop	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	British Lion		82	Dec. 10
Thark	Tom Walls - Ralph Lynn	British and Dominions		77	Aug. 27
There Goes the Bride	Jessie Matthews-Owen Nares	Gaumont-British		79	Mar. 11,'33
Wedding Rehearsal	Reland Young	London Film
White Face	John H. Roberts	Gainsborough-British		71	June 11

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1932 unless otherwise stated]

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 238	July 26	1 reel
C 237	Sept. 1	10	Sept. 24
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Crystal Gazabo	Nov. 7	1 reel
Lighthouse Keeping	Aug. 15	1 reel
Medicine Show	Feb. 7,'33	1 reel
Minstrel Show, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Prosperity Blues	Oct. 8
Seeing Stars	Sept. 12	8	Dec. 17
Snow Time	Nov. 30
Wedding Bells	Jan. 10,'33
Wooden Shoes	Feb. 25,'33	1 reel
LAMBS GAMBOLS
Hear 'Em and Weep
Ladies Not Allowed	Sept. 8	2 reels
Lambs All-Star Gambol	Dec. 20	21½
Mutual Man, The
Poor Fish, The (Tent.)
Shave It with Music	Sept. 30	19
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury In Wildwest	Aug. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury In India		1 reel
Laughing with Medbury In Philippines	Nov. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among the Wide Open Faces	Oct. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among Dancing Nations	Dec. 23	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury In Wonders of the World	Dec. 13	1 reel
MICKEY MOUSE
Mickey in Arabia	July 20	7	Dec. 10
Musical Farmer	July 11
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Bad Genius, The	Dec. 1
Beer Parade, The
Camping Out	Aug. 10
Fair Play	July 2
Flop House	Nov. 9
Great Bird Mystery	Oct. 20
Sassy Cats	Jan. 25,'33
Scrappy's Party	Feb. 13,'33
Wolf at the Door, The	Dec. 29
SILLY SYMPHONIES
China Plate		7	Dec. 3
SUNRISE COMEDIES
Campus Codes	Jan. 19,'33	21
College Gigolos	Jan. 3,'33	18½
His Vacation	Sept. 8
I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Store	Feb. 11,'33
Mind Doesn't Matter	Nov. 21	19½
Partners Two	Jan. 19,'33	22
The Curse of a Broken Heart	Feb. 4,'33	18
The Strange Case of Poison Ivy
WORLD OF SPORT
Horse Sense	Aug. 5
Rough Sport	Dec. 29
Throwing the Bull	Jan. 14,'33	11

EDUCATIONAL

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
A Fool About Women	Nov. 27	22
Artist's Muddles	Jan. 29,'33	20
Boy, Oh Boy!	Dec. 25	21
Feeling Rosy	Feb. 26,'33	21
For the Love of Ludwig	July 24	19	Nov. 12
Giddy Age, The	Sept. 25	21½	June 4
His Royal Shyness	Aug. 28	21	July 23
Loose Relations	Apr. 9'33
She Dunked Him Wrong
Sunkissed Sweeties	Oct. 30	22
What a Life
BABY BURLESKS
Glad Rags to Riches	Feb. 5,'33	11	Dec. 31
Kid' In' Hollywood		11
Kid's Last Fight, The	Mar. 26,'33	11	Dec. 3
Pie-Covered Wagon	Oct. 30	10	Dec. 31
Polly Tix in Washington
War Babies	Sept. 18	10	Aug. 6
BATTLE FOR LIFE
Battle of the Centuries	Oct. 2	9
Desert Demons	Nov. 27	9
Killers	Oct. 30	10
The Sea	Dec. 25	9
BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
An Oregon Camera Hunt	Sept. 11	9
Giants of the North	Mar. 26,'33
Our Bird Citizens	Oct. 9	8	Dec. 10
Our Noble Ancestors	Dec. 4	9
Pirates of the Deep	Feb. 26,'33
Stable Manners	Nov. 6	7
Wild Company	Jan. 1,'33	10
Woodland Pals	Jan. 28,'33	1 reel
BROADWAY GOSSIP
No. 1	Sept. 25	11
No. 2	Dec. 11	9	Dec. 31
No. 3	Feb. 5,'33	11
No. 4	Mar. 5,'33	11
No. 5	Apr. 30,'33
CAMERA ADVENTURES
Taming the Wildcat	Jan. 15,'33	8
The Forgotten Island	Sept. 4	10
The Iceless Arctic	Nov. 6	11
Two Hundred Fathoms Deep	Mar. 19,'33	8
DO YOU REMEMBER
Gaslit Nineties, The	Nov. 27	8	Jan. 7,'33
Highlights of the Past	Apr. 9,'33
Old New York	Sept. 11	10	Jan. 14,'33
Puffs and Bustles	Mar. 12,'33	7
When Dad Was a Boy	Jan. 22,'33	8
GLEASON'S SPORT FEATURETTES
A Hockey Hick	Dec. 11	19
Always Kickin'	Oct. 9	20
Off His Base	Sept. 18	20
GREAT HOKUM MYSTERY
Burned at the Steak	Oct. 16	18
Evil Eye Conquers, The	Jan. 8,'33	14
Hypnotizing for Love	Aug. 21	16	Sept. 17
In the Clutches of Death	Nov. 13	14
On the Brink of Disaster	Feb. 19,'33
HODGE-PODGE
Across America in Ten Minutes	Jan. 1,'33	11
Animal Fair, The	Jan. 15,'33	10
Bubble Blowers	Sept. 11	10
Down on the Farm	Dec. 18	10
Fury of the Storm	July 3	9	July 30
Little Thrills	Oct. 23	9
Skipping About the Universe	Feb. 12,'33	10
Traffic	Nov. 6	10
Women of Many Lands	Apr. 9,'33
Women's Work	Sept. 25	9	Mar. 11,'33
Wonder City, The	Nov. 20	9	Feb. 25,'33
MACK SENNETT COMEDIES
Alaska Love Andy Clyde	July 17	20
Neighbor Trouble Stone-Granger	Aug. 14	19
Young Onions Harvey-Granger	Sept. 18	19	Sept. 10
MERMAID COMEDIES
All Aboard Harry Langdon
Big Flash, The Harry Langdon	Nov. 6	22	Oct. 15
Hitch Hiker, The Harry Langdon	Feb. 12,'33	21
Knight Duty Harry Langdon	Mar. 26,'33	22
Tired Feet Harry Langdon	Jan. 1,'33	22
Vest with a Tale, The Tom Howard	Dec. 4	22
MORAN AND MACK COMEDIES
A Pair of Socks
As the Crows Fly	Feb. 5,'33	19
Hot Hoofs	Apr. 16,'33
Two Black Crows In Africa	Mar. 5,'33	20
OPERALOGUES
Brahmin's Daughter, A	Jan. 8,'33	22
Canteen Girl, The
Idol of Seville	Aug. 28	21	July 30
Walpurgis Night	Oct. 30	20
SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS (Reinald Werrenrath)
California	Mar. 5,'33	10
Cornell	Dec. 18	9	Dec. 17
Georgia Tech	Apr. 2,'33	9
Michigan	Dec. 4	8
Yale	Oct. 9	10
TERRY-TOONS
Burlesque	Sept. 4	6
Cocky Cock Roach	July 10	6	July 16
College Spirit	Oct. 16	6
Down on the Levee	Mar. 5,'33	8
Farmer Al Falfa's Ape Girl	Aug. 7	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Birthday Party	Oct. 2	6	Dec. 3
Forty Thieves, The	Nov. 13	6
Hansel Und Gretel	Feb. 5,'33	6
Hollywood Diet	Dec. 11	6
Hook and Ladder No. 1	Oct. 30	7	Nov. 5
Ireland or Bust	Dec. 25	6
Jealous Lover	Jan. 8,'33	6
Oh! Susanna	Apr. 2,'33	6
Pirate Ship	Apr. 30,'33
Robin Hood	Jan. 22,'33	6
Romeo and Juliet	Apr. 16,'33
Sherman Was Right	Aug. 21	6
Southern Rhythm	Sept. 18	6
Spring Is Here	July 24	6	Aug. 13
Tale of a Shirt, The	Feb. 19,'33	6
Toyland	Nov. 27	6	Dec. 17
Who Killed Cock Robin?	Mar. 19,'33	6
THREE-REEL SPECIAL
Krakatoa	Apr. 2,'33	26
TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
A Drug on the Market	Jan. 22,'33	11
The Acid Test	Nov. 27	11
The Mouse Trapper	Sept. 11	12
TORCHY COMEDIES (Ray Cooke)
Torchy's Big Lead (Tent.)
Torchy's Busy Day	Oct. 2	20
Torchy's Kitty Coup	Jan. 22,'33	21
Torchy's Loud Spooker	Apr. 23,'33
Torchy Rolls His Own	Nov. 20	21
Torchy Turns Turtle	Mar. 19,'33	21
VANITY COMEDIES
Hollywood Run-Around Monty Collins	Dec. 18	20	Mar. 25,'33
Honeymoon Beach Billy Bevan-Glenn Tryon	Oct. 23	21
Keyhole Katie Gale Seabrook-John T. Murray	Jan. 15,'33	20
Ship A-Hooey Glenn Tryon	Aug. 7	22
Techno-crazy Monty Collins-Billy Bevan	Mar. 12,'33	19

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Alpine Echoes	Aug. 14
2 Incredible India	Aug. 21	9
3 Big Game of the Sea	Aug. 28	8
4 The Tom-Tom Trail	Sept. 4	9
5 By-Ways of France	Sept. 11	9	Dec. 17
6 Manhattan Medley	Sept. 18	10
7 Rhineland Memories	Sept. 25	8
8 Fisherman's Fortune	Oct. 2	9
9 Zanzibar	Oct. 9	9
10 Belles of Bali	Oct. 16	8	Jan. 7,'33
11 Sailing a Square-Rigger	Oct. 23	10	Dec. 10
12 Venetian Holiday	Oct. 30	10	Nov. 12
13 Havana Ho!	Nov. 6	9
14 Paths in Palestine	Nov. 13	8
15 Ricksha Rhythm	Nov. 20
16 Pirate Isles	Nov. 27	9
17 From Kashmir to the Khyber	Dec. 4	9	Nov. 19
18 Silver Springs	Dec. 11
19 Desert Tripoli	Dec. 18
20 In the Guianas	Dec. 25	9
21 Mediterranean Memories	Jan. 1,'33
22 The Lure of the Orient	Jan. 8,'33	9
23 Here Comes the Circus	Jan. 15,'33
24 Sicilian Sunshine	Jan. 22,'33	10	Mar. 25,'33
25 Gorges of the Giants	Jan. 29,'33	9	Dec. 31
26 When in Rome	Feb. 5,'33
27 Berlin Medley	Feb. 12,'33	9	Nov. 26
28 Rhapsody of the Rails	Feb. 19,'33
29 Taking the Cure	Feb. 26,'33
30 Down From Vesuvius	Mar. 5,'33
31 Paris on Parade	Mar. 12,'33
32 Broadway by Day	Mar. 19,'33
33 The Iceberg Patrol
34 Mississippi Showboats
35 Sampans and Shadows
36 Boardwalks of New York
37 A Gondola Journey
38 Isles of the East Indies
39 Pagodas of Peiping

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLEY CHASE
Fallen Arches	Feb. 4,'33	19
Girl Grief	Oct. 8	20
Mr. Bride	Dec. 24	19
Now We'll Tell One	Nov. 19	19	Oct. 22
Tarzan in the Wrong		20
Young Ironsides	Sept. 3	20
COLORTONE MUSICAL REVUES
Hollywood Premiere	Jan. 7,'33	18
Over the Counter		18	Feb. 25,'33
Wild People	Feb. 4,'33	18
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Barbados and Trinidad	Sept. 24	9
Come Back to Erin		9	June 4
Cuba, Land of the Rhumba	Feb. 25,'33
Iceland	Jan. 14,'33	10	Feb. 11,'33
Leningrad	Dec. 17	9	Mar. 11,'33
Norway	Feb. 4,'33	9
Over the Seas to Borneo		9
Rio the Magnificent		9
Romantic Argentina	Aug. 27	9
World Dances, The		9
FLIP, THE FROG
Circus	Aug. 27
Cuckoo the Magician	Jan. 21,'33
Funny Face	Dec. 24	8
Music Lesson, The	Oct. 29	8
Nursemaid, The	Nov. 26	7
Office Boy, The	July 16
Room Runners	Aug. 13
LAUREL & HARDY
County Hospital	June 25	20	Apr. 23
Scram	Sept. 10	21	Oct. 15
Their First Mistake		21
Towed in a Hole	Dec. 31	21
Twice Two	Feb. 25,'33	21
ODDITIES
Chill and Chills	Sept. 10	9
Duck Hunter's Paradise	Dec. 31	10	Dec. 31
Microscopic Mysteries	Oct. 18	10
Sea Spiders	Aug. 13	9	Oct. 29
Toy Parade, The	Dec. 3	7	Dec. 17
Whispering Bill	Dec. 31	10
OUR GANG
A Lad An' A Lamp	Dec. 17	17
Birthday Blues	Nov. 12	20
Fish Hooky	Jan. 28,'33	19
Forgotten Babies	Mar. 11,'33	17
Free Wheeling	Oct. 1	20
Hook and Ladder	Aug. 27	18
Kid from Borneo, The	Apr. 15,'33	19
Mush and Milk	May 27,'33
Pooch	June 4	21	May 28
PITTS-TODD
Alum and Eve	Sept. 24	18	Aug. 13
Asleep in the Feet	Jan. 21,'33	19
Old Bull	June 4	20	May 7
Show Business	Aug. 20	20
Sneak Easily	Dec. 10	17
Soilers, The	Oct. 29	19
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Allez Oop	Mar. 11,'33
Auto Racing	Apr. 1,'33
Blocks and Tackles	Nov. 5	12	Mar. 11,'33
Bone Crushers	Feb. 8,'33	8
Chalk Up	Dec. 10	10	Jan. 7,'33
Desert Regatta	Sept. 17	10
Football Footwork		12
Motorcycle Mania	Jan. 28,'33	9
Old Spanish Custom	Oct. 15	10	Mar. 11,'33
Pigskin	Oct. 22	12	Dec. 10
Snow Birds	Aug. 20	10
Swing High	Dec. 10	10	Dec. 17
TAXI BOYS
Bring 'Em Back a Wife	Jan. 14,'33	20
Call Her Sausage
Farewell to Legs
Hot Spot	Oct. 22	18	Oct. 1
Strange Innertube	Sept. 22
Taxi Barons
Taxi For Two	Dec. 3	18
Thundering Taxis	June 24,'33	16
What Price Taxi	Aug. 13
Wreckety Wrecks	Feb. 18,'33	19	Mar. 25,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
HOLLYWOOD ON PARADE
No. 1	Aug. 26	10	Aug. 13
No. 2	Sept. 23	1 reel
No. 3	Oct. 21	1 reel

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
No. 4	Nov.	18	1 reel
No. 5	Dec.	16	1 reel
No. 6	Jan.	13,'33	1 reel
No. 7	Feb.	10,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Mar.	10,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Apr.	7,'33	1 reel
No. 10	May	5,'33	1 reel
ONE REEL ACTS
Be Like Me (Ethel Merman)	Feb.	18,'33	1 reel
Breaking Even (Tom Howard)	Sept.	30
Hawaiian Fantasy (Vincent Lopez)	Jan.	20,'33	1 reel
Hollywood Beauty Hints	July	15
Ireno (Ethel Merman)	July	1
Let's Dance (Burns and Allen)	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
Moonlight Fantasy (Vincent Lopez)	Apr.	14,'33	1 reel
Musical Doctor (Rudy Vallee)	Oct.	28	10 Oct. 1
Patents Pending (Burns and Allen)	Aug.	5
Pro and Con (Tom Howard-Alan Brooks)	July	8
Rhapsody in Black & Blue (Louis Armstrong)	Sept.	2
Rookie, The (Tom Howard)	Dec.	25	1 reel
Ten Dollars or Ten Days (Eddie Younger and His Mountaineers)	July	22
Walking the Baby (Burns & Allen)	May	12,'33	1 reel
Your Hat (Burns & Allen)	Nov.	25
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL—NEW SERIES
No. 1—Mists of the Morning—Temple Bells of Indo-China—Famous Radio Personalities	Aug.	12	1 reel
No. 2—Just Mentioning the Unmentionable — New England Sunsets—Famous Radio Personalities	Sept.	9	1 reel
No. 3—Making Friends in the Desert—The Fall of the Year — Radio Star-Maker	Oct.	7	1 reel
No. 4—Distinctive Hair for Distinctive Heads — The Blooming Desert — The Camels Are Coming	Nov.	4	1 reel
No. 5—John Mongol Comes to Town—Have a Little Ski—Meet Your Favorite Radio Personalities	Dec.	4	1 reel
No. 6—Land of Sun and Shine — La Rumba de Cuba—Big Shots of U.S. Navy	Dec.	30	1 reel
No. 7—This Is Ducky — Music From the Ancients —Bringing You the News	Jan.	27,'33	1 reel
No. 8—Glass Making at the Corning Glass Works — "Going Back Home" — Costuming the Earl Carroll Vanities	Feb.	24,'33	1 reel
No. 9—A Drama of the Northland — Paramount Pictorial Presents Amelia Earhart	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
No. 10—Birth of the Year — Laboratory Sleuth — Three X Sisters	Apr.	21,'33	1 reel
SCREEN SONGS
Ain't She Sweet (Lillian Roth)	Feb.	3,'33
Aloha Oe (Royal Samoans)	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
Dinah (Mills Bros.)	Jan.	13,'33	1 reel
Down Among the Sugar Cane (Lillian Roth)	Aug.	26
Just a Gigolo (Irene Bordoni)	Sept.	9
Peanut Vendor, The (Armida)	Apr.	28,'33
Popular Melodies (Arthur Jarrett)	Apr.	7,'33	1 reel
Reaching for the Moon	Feb.	24,'33	1 reel
Romantic Melodies (The Street Singer)	Oct.	21	1 reel
Rudy Vallee Melodies (Rudy Vallee)	Aug.	5	1 reel
School Days (Gus Edwards)	Sept.	30
Sing a Song (James Melton)	Dec.	2
Time on My Hands (Ethel Merman)	Dec.	23	7 Jan. 7,'33
When It's Sleepy Time Down South (Boswell Sisters)	Nov.	11	1 reel
You Try Somebody Else (Ethel Merman)	July	29	10 June 25
SCREEN SOUVENIRS — NEW SERIES
No. 1	Aug.	5	1 reel
No. 2	Sept.	2	1 reel
No. 3	Sept.	30	10 Oct. 15
No. 4	Oct.	28	1 reel
No. 5	Nov.	25	1 reel
No. 6	Dec.	23	1 reel
No. 7	Jan.	20,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Feb.	17,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
No. 10	Apr.	14,'33	1 reel
No. 11	May	12,'33
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly
SPORTS EYE VIEW
Aggravatin' Bear, The	Apr.	28,'33	1 reel
Building Winners	Aug.	19	1 reel
Canine Thrills	Feb.	3,'33	1 reel
Catch 'Em Young	Dec.	9	1 reel
Fighting Fins	Oct.	14	10 Oct. 15
Hot and Cold Thrills	Mar.	31,'33	1 reel
Jabs and Jolts	May	26,'33	1 reel
Over the Jumps	Jan.	6,'33	1 reel
Stuff on the Ball	Nov.	11	1 reel
Water Jamboree	Sept.	16	1 reel
Wonder Girl, The (Babe Didrickson)	Mar.	3,'33	1 reel
TALKARTOONS
Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle	Sept.	23
Betty Boop's Birthday Party	Apr.	21,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Bizzy Bee	Aug.	19	1 reel
Betty Boop's Crazy Inventions	Jan.	27,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop for President	Nov.	4	7 Oct. 1
Betty Boop's Ker-Choo	Jan.	6,'33	7 Dec. 16
Betty Boop Limited	July	1	1 reel
Betty Boop, M.D.	Sept.	2	7 Dec. 16
Betty Boop's May Party	May	12,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Museum	Dec.	16	1 reel
Betty Boop's Ups & Downs	Oct.	14	1 reel
Betty Boop's Penthouse	Mar.	10,'33	6 Feb. 25,'33
Is My Palm Read	Feb.	17,'33	1 reel
Kidnapping	July	1	1 reel
Minding the Baby	Sept.	26	1 reel
Snow-White	Mar.	31,'33	1 reel
Stopping the Show	Aug.	12
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Blue of the Night (Bing Crosby)	Jan.	6,'33	20 Sept. 16
Bring 'Em Back Sober (Sennett Star)	Nov.	18	2 reels
Caliente Love (Sennett Star)	Mar.	10,'33	2 reels
Cook's Day Off, The (Sennett Star)
Courting Trouble (Charles Murray)	Oct.	28	19 Dec. 17
Dentist, The (Sennett Star)	Dec.	9	20 Dec. 8
Don't Play Bridge With Your Wife (Sennett Star)	Jan.	13,'33	2 reels
Druggist, The (Sennett Star)	Apr.	21,'33
Doubling in the Quickies (Sennett Star)	Dec.	16	2 reels
Easy On the Eyes (Sennett Star)	Feb.	17,'33	2 reels
False Impressions (Sennett Star)	Nov.	4	2 reels
Fatal Glass of Beer (W. C. Fields)	Mar.	3,'33	2 reels
Harem, Scarem (Al St. John)	June	10	2 reels
Hawkins and Watkins, Inc.	July	8	22 Sept. 9
His Perfect Day (Sennett Star)
Hollywood Double, A (Sennett Star)	Nov.	25	2 reels
Honeymoon Bridge (Sennett Star)
Hubby's Vacation (Sennett Star)
Human Fish (Sennett Star)	Dec.	30	2 reels
In the Bag (Sennett Star)
Lion and the House, The (Sennett Star)	Dec.	23	18
Ma's Pride and Joy (Donald Novis)	Oct.	14	18 Aug. 27
Morning After, The (Sennett Star)
Pharmacist, The (Sennett Star)	Apr.	21,'33	2 reels
Plumber and the Lady, The (Sennett Star)	Mar.	31,'33	2 reels
Prosperity Pays (Tom Howard)	Nov.	4
Sing, Bing, Sing (Bing Crosby)	Mar.	24,'33	2 reels
Singing Boxer, The	Jan.	27,'33
Singing Plumber (Donald Novis)	Sept.	23
Sweet Cookie (Sennett Star)	Apr.	14,'33	2 reels
Temporary Butler (Sennett Star)
Too Many Highballs (Sennett Star)	Feb.	10,'33	2 reels
Uncle Joke (Sennett Star)	May	5,'33	2 reels
Up Popped the Ghost	July	22
Wrestlers, The (Sennett Star)	Jan.	20,'33

POWERS PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Dream Flowers	Sept.	15	9
Dual Control (Capt. James A. Mollison-Amy Johnson)	Sept.	1	12
It All Depends on You	Nov.	1	8
Land of My Fathers			9
Land of the Shamrocks			10 Apr. 2
Light of Love	Oct.	15	9
Me and the Boy Friend	Oct.	1	8
Mystery of Marriage, The			18 Apr. 2
Special Messengers			9 Mar. 20

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES (Re-Issues)
The Cure	Aug.	19	20
Easy Street	Sept.	30	19½ Dec. 17
The Floorwalker	Dec.	23	20½
The Pawnshop	Mar.	17,'33
The Rink	Nov.	11	20
The Vagabond	Feb.	3,'33	21
CLARK AND McCULLOUGH SERIES
Druggist's Dilemma, The	May	5,'33	17
Hocus Focus	Mar.	3,'33	20
Ice Man's Ball	Aug.	12	20 Aug. 13
Jitters, The Butler	Dec.	30	20½ Aug. 20
Millionaire Cat, The	Oct.	21	21
The Gay Nighties	June	23	18 Dec. 31
HARRY SWEET COMEDIES
Firehouse Honeymoon	Oct.	28	18 Jan. 14,'33
Heave Two	Mar.	10,'33	20½
Just a Pain in a Parlor	Aug.	26	20
Loops, My Dear	Jan.	6,'33	17
Shakespeare With Tin Ears	June	30	18½
Thrown Out of Joint	May	12,'33	21
HEADLINER SERIES
No. 1—Shampoo, the Magician (Roscoe Ates-Hugh Herbert)	Nov.	25	17
No. 2—Private Wives (Skeets Gallagher W. Catlett)	Jan.	27,'33	21
No. 3—Hip, Zip, Hooray (Nat Carr)	Mar.	31,'33	18½
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Abroad In Old Kentucky
Bride's Bereavement, The	Nov.	18	19
Lost In the Limehouse	Apr.	7,'33	20½
Through Thin and Thicket	Jan.	20,'33	17½
Two Lips and Julips	Sept.	9	20
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Ape Man	Feb.	10,'33	18
Mickey's Big Broadcast
Mickey's Busy Day	Sept.	2	18 Aug. 6
Mickey's Charity	Dec.	2	18
Mickey's Disguise
Mickey's Race	Apr.	14,'33	18
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Art in the Raw	Feb.	24,'33	19
Fish Feathers	Dec.	16	18
Golf Chump, The	Aug.	5	20 Aug. 13
Inferior Decorations
Merchant of Menace, The	Apr.	21,'33	19½
Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath	Oct.	14	20½
PATHE NEWS
Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW
Released once a month
SPECIALS
So This Is Harris		28	Mar. 11,'33
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Barnyard Bunk	Sept.	16	6
Happy Hoboes	Mar.	31,'33
Jolly Fish	Aug.	19	6
Magic Mummy	Feb.	7,'33	7
Panicky Pup	Feb.	24,'33	7
Pencil Mania	Dec.	9	7
Piano Tooners	Nov.	11	7½
Redskin Blues	July	23	7
Spanish Twist, A	Oct.	14	6
Tight Rope Tricks	Jan.	6,'33	7

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ATLANTIC FILM
Playgrounds in the Sky		10	Nov. 5
Sportsmen's Paradise		10	July 30
CAESAR FILMS
Veneziana		1 reel
CAPITAL
Isle of Isolation		10	July 30
CENTRAL FILM
A Pilgrimage Through Palestine		10	Dec. 9
Boston Common—and Proper		10	Jan. 7,'33
Hula		3 reels
In Old New Orleans			May 28
Syria			May 21
F. M. S. CORP.
Newslaughs		7	Jan. 28,'33
FEATURETTES, INC.
A Night in the Jungle		10	Apr. 30
Holy Men of India		10	May 7
IDEAL
Evolution		28	Sept. 9
INDUSTRIAL
The Silent Enemy		30
MARY WARNER
Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation		8
Berlin: Rhythm of a Metropolis		8
Glimpses of Germany		8
Green Heart of Germany, The		20
Springtime on the Rhine		7
The Mosel		8	Oct. 15
Trier, Oldest City in Germany		6
Vintagers' Festival in the Palatinate		10	Mar. 11,'33
Winter in the Bavarian Alps		1 reel
Young Germany Goes Ski-ing		1 reel
MASCOT
Technocracy		10	Jan. 7,'33
MASTER ART PRODUCTS
Melody Makers Series:
Sammy Fain		10	Dec. 24
Benny Davis		9
Cliff Friend		9
Night of Romance		7
PRINCIPAL
Cock-Eyed Animal World		35	July 29
Get That Lion		29	Aug. 27
Isle of Desire		3 reels
Isle of Peril		32	July 16
Isles of Love		1 reel
Killing the Killer		11	July 30
Matto Grosso		24
Mexico		43	June 11
New Western Front		25
Primitive		1 reel
Tiger Hunt, The		20	Dec. 31
Voodoo		36
UFA
Cod Liver Oil Preferred		22	June 11
Last Pelicans in Europe		10	May 7
Steel		10	May 21
WARD PRODUCTIONS
Your Technocracy and Mine		9½	Feb. 11,'33

UNITED ARTISTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MICKEY MOUSE
1. Mickey's Nightmare	Aug.	8	7½ Oct. 8
2. Trader Mickey	Aug.	26	7
3. The Whoopee Party	Sept.	16	7 Nov. 12
4. Touchdown Mickey	Oct.	7	6½
5. The Wayward Canary	Oct.	28	7¼
6. The Klondike Kid	Nov.	18
7. Mickey's Good Deed	Dec.	9	8
8. Building a Building	Dec.	20	7
9. The Mad Doctor	Jan.	20,'33	8
10. Mickey's Pal Pluto	Feb.	10,'33	7
11. The Mellerdrammer	Mar.	3,'33
SILLY SYMPHONIES
1. Bears and Bees	July	15	6½
2. Just Dogs	Aug.	12	7
3. Flowers and Trees	Sept.	9	8 Oct. 15
4. Bugs In Love	Sept.	21	7
5. King Neptune	Oct.	7	7 Oct. 29
6. Babes In the Wood	Dec.	2	8 Apr. 1,'33
7. Santa's Workshop	Dec.	30	7 Dec. 24
8. Birds In the Spring

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Beau Best	May 8,'33	1 reel
Busy Barber	Sept. 12	1 reel
Carnival Capers	Oct. 10	1 reel
Day Nurse	Aug. 1	1 reel
Going to Blazes	Apr. 10,'33	1 reel
Jungle Jumble, A	July 4	1 reel
Oswald, the Plumber	Jan. 30,'33	7
Shriek, The	Feb. 27,'33	7	Mar. 25,'33
Teacher's Pest	Dec. 19	7
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 21	1 reel
POOCH CARTOONS
Athlete, The	Aug. 29	8	Sept. 10
Butcher Boy, The	Sept. 26	7	Sept. 17
Cat and Dogs	Dec. 5	1 reel
Crowd Snores, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Lumber Champ, The	Mar. 13,'33	7
Merry Dog, The	Jan. 2,'33	1 reel
S. O. S. Icicle	Apr. 24,'33
Terrible Troubador, The	Feb. 13,'33	1 reel
Underdog, The	Nov. 7	1 reel
RADIO STAR REELS
Morton Downey—No. 1 With Vincent Lopez	Oct. 31	2 reels
The Street Singer Nick Kenny—No. 1	Nov. 14	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 2 With Brown and Henderson	Nov. 28	2 reels
Art Jarrett Nick Kenny—No. 2	Dec. 12	2 reels
Down Memory Lane Louis Sobol—No. 1 With Texas Guinan	Dec. 26	1 reel
Married or Single Nick Kenny—No. 3 With Little Jack Little	Jan. 16,'33	21
I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket Walter Winchell—No. 1 With Paul Whiteman	Jan. 30,'33	21	Feb. 11,'33
Morton Downey—No. 3 The Holdup With Joe Young	Feb. 14,'33	2 reels
Radio Murder Mystery Louis Sobol—No. 2	Mar. 6,'33	2 reels
SPECIAL
The Voice of the Vatican	Mar. 13,'33	10	Mar. 11,'33
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 20—Novelty	July 18	1 reel
No. 21—Novelty	Aug. 22	1 reel
No. 22—Novelty	Sept. 19	1 reel
No. 23—Novelty	Oct. 17	1 reel
No. 24—Novelty	Nov. 14	1 reel
No. 25—Novelty	Dec. 12	1 reel
No. 26—Novelty	Jan. 23,'33	1 reel
No. 27—Novelty	Mar. 20,'33	1 reel
No. 28—Novelty	Apr. 17,'33	1 reel
UNIVERSAL BREVITIES
Boo!	Dec. 26	1 reel
Dr. Jekyll's Hide	Sept. 26	9	Oct. 1
Good Old Days, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Greeks Had No Words for Them, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Lizzie Strata	Jan. 23,'33	10
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1931-32 SEASON)
Around the Equator on Roller Skates	July 28	2 reels
Hollywood Kids	July 13	2 reels
Hollywood Handicap, A	Aug. 10	2 reels
(1932-33 SEASON)
A Quient Night Bert Roach	21
Alias the Professor James Gleason	Mar. 8,'33	2 reels
Boys Will Be Boys Frank Albertson	Nov. 30	2 reels
Family Troubles Henry Armetta	Jan. 11,'33	21
Finishing Touch Skeets Gallagher June Clyde	Oct. 19	2 reels
Hesitating Love L. Fazenda-M. Prevost	Nov. 16	2 reels
Hunting Trouble Louise Fazenda	Feb. 8,'33	20	Mar. 11,'33
Kid Glove Kisses Slim Summerville	Sept. 21	2 reels
Lights Out James Gleason	Dec. 24	2 reels
Mister Mugg James Gleason	May 10,'33	21
My Operation Vince Barnett-June Clyde	Dec. 28	2 reels
Officer, Save My Child Slim Sumerville	Nov. 2	2 reels
Pick Me Up Marie Prevost	Apr. 5,'33	19
Rockabye Cowboy James Gleason	Jan. 25,'33	2 reels
Room Mates Frank Albertson	Apr. 19,'33	20
Should Crooners Marry?	Feb. 22,'33	2 reels
Frank Albertson
Trial of Vince Barnett Vince Barnett	Mar. 22,'33
Union Wages Louise Fazenda	Aug. 30	20	Sept. 17
Who, Me Frank Albertson	Sept. 7	2 reels
Yoo Hoo! James Gleason	Oct. 5	21	Sept. 3

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
ADVENTURES IN AFRICA		2 reels
BELIEVE IT OR NOT— ROBERT L. RIPLEY		1 reel
BIG V COMEDIES
No. 1—Sherlock's Home Jack Haley
No. 2—Here, Prince Joe Penner
No. 3—You Call It Madness Richy Craig, Jr.
No. 4—Hey, Pop Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 5—Then Came the Yawn Jack Haley
No. 6—The Run Around William Demarest
No. 7—Trouble Indemnity Codee and Orth
No. 8—The Build-Up Jack Haley
No. 9—Buzzin' Around Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 10—Wrongorilla Jack Haley
BOOTH TARKINGTON SERIES
No. 7—Hot Dog		1 reel
No. 8—Penrod's Bull Pen Billy Hayes-Dave Gorcey		1 reel
BROADWAY BREVITIES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—C'est Paris Technicolor Musical	Sept. 3	17
No. 2—Passing the Buck Alexander Gray	Sept. 24	18
No. 3—Tee for Two Technicolor Musical	Oct. 8	17	Nov. 12
No. 4—Tip-Tap-Toe Hal Leroy-Mitzi-Mayfair	Oct. 22	19
No. 5—A Modern Cinderella Ruth Etting	Nov. 5	18
No. 6—Picking a Winner Technicolor Musical	Nov. 19	16	Nov. 19
No. 7—The Red Shadow Al. Gray-Bernice Claire	Dec. 3	18
No. 8—Sky Symphony Stoopnagle & Budd	June 3,'33
No. 9—Poor Little Rich Boy Phil Baker	Dec. 24	18
No. 10—Hey, Hey, Westerner Technicolor Musical	Dec. 31	17	Oct. 15
No. 11—That Goes Double Russ Columbo	June 17,'33
No. 12—Bygones Ruth Etting	Jan. 14,'33	18
No. 13—Pleasure Island Technicolor Musical	Feb. 25,'33	18
No. 14—Yours Sincerely Lanny Ross	Mar. 11,'33	19
No. 15—Speaking of Operations Pick & Pat	Jan. 28,'33	18
No. 16—Northern Exposure Technicolor Musical	Apr. 8,'33	16
No. 17—Nothing Ever Happens Musical	Mar. 25,'33
No. 18—World's Champ Jack Dempsey	July 11,'33
No. 19—The Way of All Freshmen Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Apr. 22,'33
No. 20—Along Came Ruth Ruth Etting	May 6,'33
No. 21—Fifi V. Segal-Chas. Judels	May 20,'33
HOW TO BREAK 90 BOBBY JONES
No. 1—Hands and Grip	May 27,'33
No. 2—Position and Back Swing
No. 3—Hip Action
No. 4—Down Swing
No. 5—Impact
No. 6—Fine Points
LOONEY TUNES SERIES
No. 9—Bosko and Bruno		7	Dec. 10
No. 10—Bosko's Dog Race		8	July 8
No. 11—Bosko at the Beach		7	Nov. 5
No. 12—Bosko's Store		7
No. 13—Bosko the Lumberjack
LOONEY TUNES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Ride Him, Bosko
No. 2—Bosko the Drawback
No. 3—Bosko's Dizzy Date
No. 4—Bosko's Woodland Daze
No. 5—Bosko in Dutch
No. 6—Bosko in Person
No. 7—Bosko the Speed King
No. 8—Bosko's Knight Mare
MELODY MASTERS (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Music to My Ears Jack Denny and Band
No. 2—Municipal Band Wagon
No. 3—Smash Your Baggage Small's Paradise Band
No. 4—The Lease Breakers Aunt Jemima		9	Dec. 3
No. 5—The Yacht Party Roger Wolfe Kahn's Band
No. 6—Hot Competition The Continentals-Barris-Whiteman-Ted Husing
No. 7—Abe Lyman and Band		10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 8—"How's Tricks?" Jean Sargent-George Owen and Gang
No. 9—That's the Spirit Noble Sissle and Band
No. 10—The Alma Martyr Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians
MERRY MELODIES (New Series)
No. 1—You're Too Careless with Your Kisses		8	Dec. 17
No. 2—I Wish I Had Wings
No. 3—A Great Big Bunch of You
No. 4—Three's a Crowd
No. 5—Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives
No. 6—One Step Ahead of My Shadow
No. 7—Young and Healthy
No. 8—The Organ Grinder
No. 9—Wake Up the Gypsy in Me
THE NAGGERS SERIES MR. AND MRS. JACK NORWORTH
The Naggers' Anniversary		1 reel
The Naggers at the Opera		1 reel
The Naggers Go Ritzy		18	June 4
Movie Dumb		1 reel
Four Wheels—No Brakes		18	July 30
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The Primo Carnera		2 reels
Gypsy Caravan Martinelli		1 reel
Handy Guy, The Earl Sande		2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City		1 reel
Season's Greetings, The Christmas Special		5
Trip to Tibet, A		1 reel
ONE-REEL COMEDIES
Washington, The Man and the Capital Clarence Whitehill		18
Baby Face Victor Moore
Military Post, The Robert Guzman
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison
No Questions Asked Little Billy
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neill
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal		1 reel
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal		1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal		1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Moving In		2 reels
Rough Sailing		16
Stutterless Romance, A		1 reel
Where Men Are Men		2 reels
PEPPER POT (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 1
No. 2—Nickelette
No. 3—Contact
No. 4—If I'm Elected
No. 5—King Salmon
No. 6—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 2
No. 7—Babe O' Mine
No. 8—Dangerous Occupations
No. 9—Out of the Past
No. 10—Love Thy Neighbor
No. 11—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 3
No. 12—A Whale of a Yarn
No. 13—Africa Speaks—English
No. 14—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4
No. 15—Sea Devils
No. 16—Parades of Yesterday
No. 17—Breakwater
No. 18—Little White Lies
No. 19—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 5
No. 20—You're Killing Me
No. 21—Inklings
No. 22—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 6
No. 23—Around the World in 8 Minutes		8	Aug. 20
No. 24—Fishermen's Holiday
No. 25—Stuck, Stuck, Stucco
No. 26—Seeing Samoa
SPORT THRILLS SERIES TED HUSING
No. 1
No. 2
No. 3
No. 4—Old Time Sport Thrills
No. 5
No. 6—
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES (Donald Meek-John Hamilton)
No. 8—Murder in the Pullman		20	June 4
No. 9—The Side Show Mystery		20	June 11
No. 10—Campus Mystery, The
No. 11—Crane Poison Case, The
No. 12—Transatlantic Mystery, The		22	Sept. 19
TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
Freshman Love Ruth Etting
Old Lace Ruth Etting
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters		1 reel
No. 2—Southern India		9
No. 3—Road to Mandalay		1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean Byways		9
No. 5—Javanese Journeys		9
No. 6—Northern India		1 reel
No. 7—Oberammergau		1 reel
No. 8—South American Journeys		9	June 25
No. 9—Soviet Russia		1 reel
No. 10—Paris Glimpses		9	July 30
No. 11—Dear Old London		1 reel
No. 12—When In Rome		9	June 18
No. 13—Berlin Today		9	Oct. 29
WORLD ADVENTURES E. M. NEWMAN (New Series)
No. 1—Dancing Around the World		1 reel
No. 2—Transportations of the World		1 reel
No. 3—An Oriental Cocktail		10	Oct. 8
No. 4—Curious Customs of the World		1 reel
No. 5—From Bethlehem to Jerusalem		10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 6—High Spots of the Far East		10	Sept. 10
No. 7—Main Streets		1 reel
No. 8—Beauty Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 9—Workers of the World		1 reel
No. 10—Wonder Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 11—Costumes of the World		1 reel
No. 12—Peculiar Ceremonies		1 reel
No. 13—Top of the World		1 reel

SERIALS

UNIVERSAL

(EACH SERIAL 12 EPISODES OF TWO REELS)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Clancy of the Mounted Tom Tyler-Jacqueline Wells	Feb. 27,'33	20 (each)	Feb. 4,'33
Lost Special Frank Albertson	Dec. 5
Jungle Mystery Tom Tyler	Sept. 12	20 (each)
Phantom of the Air Tom Tyler-Gloria Shea	May 22,'33

TECHNOLOGICAL

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 167.—(A) Explain, in full detail, just what constitutes proper rewinding of film. Watch your step! (B) What amount of tension should be applied to the reel upon which the film is being rewound. I don't mean tension in ounces or pounds, but what the effect should be. (C) Explain, in full detail, how the rewinder elements should be mounted.

Answer to Question No. 160

Bluebook School Question No. 160, which was: (A) Set forth your views as to in what condition the projectionist has the right to expect to receive films from an exchange. (B) Name those various things which may happen in case the film sprocket holes be improperly matched in the process of film splicing. (C) By what faulty adjustment will deposit of emulsion on the tension shoes be increased? (D) Tell us just what test you have made of your aperture film tension, and what you have done or would do if it be found too heavy.

The following made acceptable answers: S. Evans and C. Rau, G. E. Doe, T. Van Vaulkenburg, Dale Danielson, Kenneth Dowling, J. Wentworth, W. Ostrum, E. E. Parkinson, W. Broadbent, H. Edwards, W. R. Lemke, L. N. Trazler, Nic Granby, H. D. Schofield, H. D. and L. B. Palmer, J. Williams and O. Allbright, M. D. Oleson and J. B. Nalley, P. R. Fox, G. H. Spencer, D. L. Monehan and L. B. Bryant, A. L. Dodson, K. Griener, M. H. Lonberger, D. R. Peters and D. Holler, M. U. Sampson, K. L. Knight and M. Henderson, B. Olmsby and C. L. Cyrus, H. Grant, A. Wythe and W. T. Granger, D. U. Granger, T. Turk, H. D. Tyler, F. Ferguson and D. Lalley, L. M. Richards, D. Singleton and J. B. Buckley, T. McGruder, B. L. Banning and L. Jones, F. Harlor and G. Harrison, J. H. Rathburn and D. Little, D. Kurts and D. Howard, H. Pilson and D. L. Danielson, F. L. Granby, T. M. Vinson, L. G. Gregeson and J. Hendershot, M. R. Rathburn, H. Rogers, D. Emmerson, R. Schuler and M. R. Davidson, B. L. Blinkendorfer, J. Lansing and R. D. Oberleigh, D. D. Davis and L. Thomas, L. D. Rubin and M. Gregg, G. Patterson, H. R. Baldwin, R. Wheeler, R. Simms and O. L. Davis, D. and H. B. Coates, G. Tinlin, A. R. Roseley, R. L. Mitchel, R. O. Tanner, D. D. Davis and L. Thomas, D. Breaston and D. Haber, L. Hutch and D. Goldberg, D. K. Ormie and B. Jones, L. D. Simmons, E. L. Richardson, M. Henderson, F. F. Franks, M. Spencer and D. T. Arlen, F. L. Granby, D. L. Sinklow, N. McGuire, F. B. Klar and T. H. Morton, U. L. Tipton, A. Wells and R. Wells, L. Grant and R. Geddings, K. L. Hess, J. L., F. Hanson.

We will listen to two answers to this one. First, G. E. Doe says: "With the remark that what the projectionist has the right to expect and what he may receive are two very different propositions, he has the right to expect film free from oil and as clean as is possible considering the class of service—meaning the age of the film. Price of service has nothing to do with it.

"Strained sprocket holes cannot be remedied, but broken ones may be notched or removed. Poor splices can be remade. In disc sound films the cut-outs may be replaced with blank or replacement scene, the latter by preference, of course. In short, the projectionist has the right to expect to receive films well packed, with proper protecting band and in as good physical condition as it is possible for the exchange to put it by careful inspection, repair and cleaning."

H. Edwards says: "It seems to me this question may be answered very simply. The projectionist certainly has the right to expect film entirely free from any fault or weakness which will increase fire hazard in any degree. He has the right to expect film on substantial reels which are in good condition, the film tightly wound and protected by a proper, well secured protecting band, with suitable markings. He has the right to expect film, regardless of class of service, to be free from oil, and at least reasonably free from dirt. If the service is first-run he has the right to expect the film emulsion to be sufficiently hard or well treated (not waxed) to pass through his projectors without deposit on the tension shoes if his tensions be not excessive in amount. He certainly has the right to expect the sound track to be in approximately perfect condition and clean, since if it be either dirty or otherwise faulty it will be impossible to have perfect sound reproduction and projection."

(B) We will listen to T. VanVaulkenburg on this one. He says: "Mismatched sprocket holes set up one very serious situation immediately, the dimensions of the holes being diminished. Both holes may be affected equally, or one considerably and the other not much. Naturally this may cause (a) the hole or holes to grip the sprocket tooth or teeth. If both teeth, then the film may be carried around and wrap up on the sprocket, losing the loop and probably tearing the film in two. If only one hole grips, it may be that the film will be pulled sidewise, "climb" the sprocket and have sprocket tooth indentations imprinted in the picture area for a considerable distance. Under the condition named, a tendency to wrap around the sprocket is greater if the sprocket teeth be rather badly hooked or undercut. (b) Mismatched sprocket holes will, if the mismatching be unequal, tend to pull the film out of its natural straight line, whereupon when such a splice goes past the aperture there will be side movement of the picture upon the screen. Mismatched sprocket holes may, due to one of the aforenamed causes, be the underlying cause of a fire."

(C) Evans and Rau, Danielson, Van Vaulkenburg, Doe, Wentworth, Dowling, Ostrum, Edwards and many others replied correctly as follows: Tendency toward such deposit will be increased by excessive pressure on the tension shoes at the projector aperture.

(D) Many also answered this one correctly. Dowling says: "As my motors are of constant speed I was unable to make the gate-tension test described on page 637, Vol. 2, of the Bluebook. I loosened the gate tension (tension screw, as I am using Powers Projectors) until the picture started jumping. I then tightened the screw until the jumping stopped, plus a half-turn to eliminate unsteadiness that would be probably invisible from the booth. Incidentally field glasses were used during the adjustment. However, I have been unable to find or devise a test for sound-gate tension, but as emulsion forms on the picture gate before the sound gate on my projectors, and the sound is OK, the tension must be all right."

Dale Danielson answers thusly: "Gate tension should be kept as loose as possible and still prevent film overshooting at 10 feet over projection speed, i.e. with projectors running at 100 feet per minute the image should just begin to crawl upon the screen. If a speed in excess of 100 feet per minute is needed to produce this effect, then tension is too tight and should be loosened accordingly. In an old booklet issued by Eastman Kodak Co. (1924) it is stated that gate tension should not exceed 16 oz., 8 oz., on each half of the film. That is, with a scale attached to a section of the film and held in place at the aperture, the film should, when pulling on the scales, just start to move when your scale reads 16 oz. I believe, however, slightly heavier tension might be necessary for a modern high speed projector. In my case I am using Simplex heads with W.E. sound. By adjusting my motor controls carefully and with the aid of a watch with a second hand (if you have no speed indicator), set projectors to a speed of 100 feet per minute. Tension not being correct, it is necessary to painstakingly bend tension shoe springs, trying as best one can to hold tension the same on both sides."

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

the great national medium for showmen

Ten cents per word, money-order or check with copy. Count initials, box number and address. Minimum insertion, $1. Four insertions for the price of three. Contract rates on application. No borders or cuts. Forms close Mondays at 5 P.M. Publisher reserves right to reject any copy. Address correspondence, copy and checks to MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Classified Dept., 1790 Broadway, New York City

REPAIR SERVICE

PROJECTORS, TICKET MACHINES AND OTHER theatre and sound equipment requiring parts and repairs can now be given prompt attention at reasonable cost. BOX 121A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

USED EQUIPMENT

BARGAINS RECONDITIONED ARCTIC-NU-AIR blowers, noiseless drives. Write for prices. SOUTHERN FAN CO., Box 440, Atlanta, Ga.

UNUSUAL BARGAINS IN USED OPERA Chairs, Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Spotlights, Stereopticons, etc. Projection Machines Repaired. Send for catalogue H. MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

HIGH GRADE LENSES, ALL SIZES; SELL OR trade. Cheap. BOX 288, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

SACRIFICING COMPLETE RECORDING STUDIO —Mitchell, Bell Howell Cameras; Amplifiers; Mikes; Recording Heads; Glowlamps, etc. BOX 289, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

WILL TRADE HOLCOMBE AND HOKE POPcorn peanut machine for good pair Motiograph sound heads. WENDELL WERNER, Tell City, Ind.

TRAILER SERVICE

SPECIAL SOUND TRAILERS MADE TO MEET your present budget. Send us copy and we will quote prices. BOX 130A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PRINTING SERVICE

250 LETTERHEADS AND 250 ENVELOPES, $1.49. WEBSTER'S PRESS, Farmland, Indiana.

NEW EQUIPMENT

VENTILATING, AIR WASHING, REFRIGERATing Systems now within reach. Fit present blowers. Details ready. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

THEATRES

FOR SALE OR LEASE, SEVERAL WORTHwhile propositions all over the country. If interested let us know your wants. BOX 128A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

BEST THEATRE OPPORTUNITY IN AMERICA, Georgia City. Population 8,000. Drawing population, 50,000. No competition. Long lease. Alone worth sale price of $25,000. Half cash. Offer bonded cash. Guarantee 25 to 40 per cent on investment for first year's capable showman attention. BOX 290, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PROJECTIONISTS UNIONS

THE NEW NATIONAL PROJECTIONISTS' Union—Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union, National Executive Offices, 3546 Vincent North, Minneapolis, Minn.

FILMS

FEATURES—SHORTS. SEND FOR LIST. WRITE GAROFALO, 3922—104th St., Corona. N. Y.

THEATRICAL BROKER

LICENSED SPECIALIST IN AMUSEMENT AND theatrical transactions of all kinds. Will represent theatre sales and purchases. RUDOLPH EISENBERG, 551 5th Avenue, New York City.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT

E-X-C-I-T-E-R L-A-M-P-S MATCHED WITH your sound track. Increase your sound quality, decrease operating cost. Western Electric, 75c; R. C. A., 85c; Pacent, 85c. Bulbs not giving entire satisfaction shall be replaced. Send in trial order. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES CORPORATION, 311 West 44th St., New York City.

ENTERTAINERS MATERIAL

MONOLOGUES, DIALOGUES, SPECIALLY written. Dollar each. TIZZARD, 801-A Willoughby Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

POSITIONS WANTED

BACKED BY 12 YEARS' EXPERIENCE AS manager and theatre operator. Will accept any offer anywhere. Can furnish references. BOX 129A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

MARRIED MAN, EXPERIENCED SOUND PROjectionist and capable of servicing equipment. Will go anywhere and accept any reasonable offer. Best references furnished. BOX 132A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

THEATRES WANTED

WILL RENT, LEASE OR BUY WORTHWHILE theatre properties all over the country. State seating capacity, value and population. Also state condition of theatre, how equipped and what competition. BOX 122A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

TECHNICAL BOOKS

"RICHARDSON'S HAND BOOKS OF PROJECtion" in three volumes. Universally accredited as the best and most practical. Aaron Nadell's "Projection Sound Pictures." Complete information on sound equipment. Both text books complete for $12.80. QUIGLEY BOOKSHOP, 1790 Broadway, New York.

"EFFECTIVE THEATRE ADVERTISING"— Fourteen booklets on how to increase box-office receipts—cover every phase of theatre advertising. Now $6.00, postpaid. THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, Elmira, N. Y.

WANTED TO BUY

THREE HUNDRED SECOND-HAND THEATRE chairs wanted. Must be in good condition and comfortable style. Price must be very low. Will pay cash if suitable. BOX 131A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE

IF YOU WANT TO REPLACE ANY TYPE OF equipment with brand new material we will be glad to make an allowance on your old equipment and a better price on new equipment. Let us know what you need and what you want to exchange and we will send complete details on our proposition. EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE, c/o MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

ATTRACTIONS

FIRST CLASS STAGE AND RADIO TALENT booked direct on easy terms. Will increase your business. Name your proposition. Interested in small guarantee or percentage. BOX 123A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

CONFIRMED BY TIME

IT may have been fate that prompted the perfecting of the first Eastman motion picture film just when Edison's first projector demanded it.

But it was time's judgment of its merit that again and again confirmed Eastman film as a leader in the industry it helped to father.

Today it's Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative that points the way to new heights of accomplishment, in a new era of cinematography. Eastman Kodak Company (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors).

EASTMAN FILM

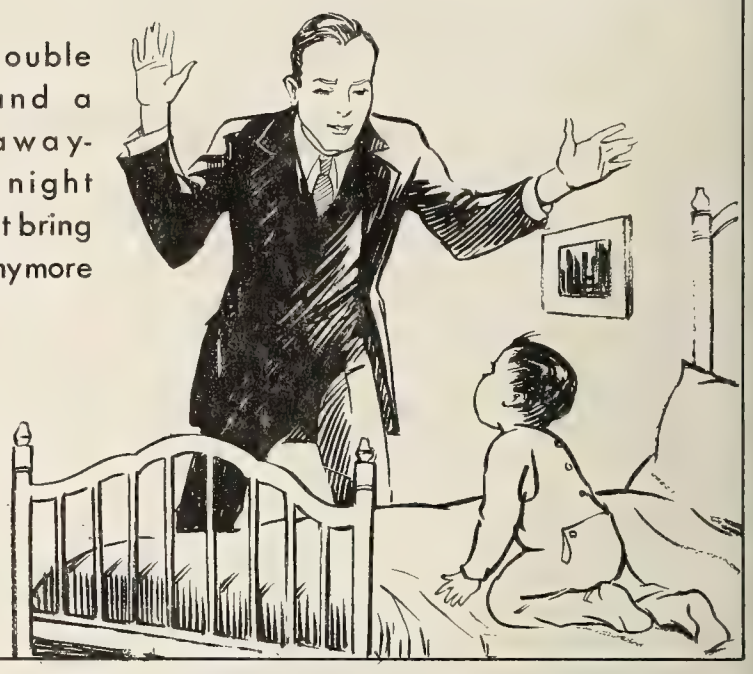
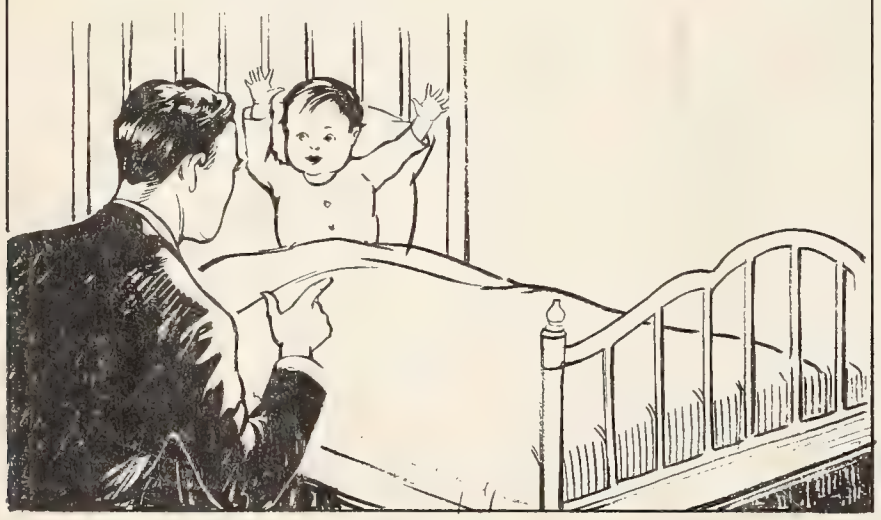
AN EXHIBITOR TELLS



A BEDTIME STORY TO HIS SON

THE TIME: WINTER—1939



Well, son, the Spring of 1933 found things pretty bad for your old pop . . . . . .

Even double bills and a give-away-car-a-night wouldn't bring 'em in anymore

And then—PARAMOUNT made a picture starring Chevalier and a little boy just like you . . . .

And doggone! Mons. Chevalier and Mons. Le Baby in "A Bedtime Story" herded gobs and gobs of fresh money into 10,000 box-offices . . . and we all lived happily ever after!

MAURICE

CHEVALIER

in "A Bedtime Story"

with HELEN TWELVETREES

ADRIENNE AMES • EDWARD EVERETT HORTON • BABY LEROY

A Paramount Picture

Directed by NORMAN TAUROG

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
MAY 1933
MUSICAL DIVISION

Better Theatres

WITH WHICH IS COMBINED "THE SHOWMAN"

BUYERS NUMBER
Spring & Summer
1933 production and theatre vision sound equipment methods today law of sound equipment leases remodeling: a pictorial history

The Equipment Index • • Supply Dealers

BRIGHT LIGHTS AREN'T ENOUGH THESE DAYS

Below: CRESTWOOD, No. 1807, one of the most popular Alexander Smith Carpet patterns for theatre use.

Left: The Empire, Charleston, W. Va., is one of thousands of theatres equipped with Alexander Smith Carpet.

It takes more than bright lights outside to get paying audiences inside these days. The most for the money—not merely good programs but comfortable, attractive surroundings—is what the public is demanding and they are going where they know they get it. That's why, week in and week out, the most attractive theatres are getting the most business.

Alexander Smith long-wearing carpets—richly colored, luxurious looking, soft-under-foot, will go a long way towards adding to the attractiveness of your house. And, at present prices, the chances are they will cost you a good deal less than you are figuring on.

Why not have our representative call and show you just how little Alexander Smith Carpets do cost? Among his samples you will find patterns for every type of theatre and grades for every budget. Write W. & J. Sloane, 577 Fifth Avenue, New York, wholesale selling agents.

ALEXANDER SMITH CARPET

Used by the Majority of the Country's Outstanding Theatres

DON'T WORK WITH SHACKLED HANDS

Own and operate your theatre with a free hand

Break loose and go places with RCA Victor Photophone

What's your choice? Will you try to pack them in with sound as out of date as a nickel thriller—and fail? And from time to time lay out good American money on an old horse—trick it out with gadgets and call it modern?

Or—will you join the big parade to RCA Victor Photophone High Fidelity? Will you take the cue from exhibitors from Broadway to Main Street and equip your house with the finest, the most accurate sound reproduction ever achieved? Use the new RCA Victor idea—own your own equipment outright—add to your capital assets and your inventory—increase your borrowing power.

With the RCA Victor outright sale policy your money does a job that sticks.

Where can you match the RCA Victor Photophone set-up? Brand new equipment . . . best performance in the world. Outright sale, no strings. And easy to buy, with initial payment, terms and trade-in taken care of as you like.

Will you mark time, and take it . . . on the chin? Or will you break loose and march forward with RCA Victor Photophone and take it . . . in the pocket? Get full details from RCA Victor Photophone today by mailing convenient coupon. There's nothing to lose—everything to gain.

RCA VICTOR COMPANY, INC.,
Photophone Division,
Camden, N. J., U. S. A.

Please send us the complete story of RCA Victor Photophone High Fidelity Sound Equipment.

Company.....

Attention of.....

Address.....

City..... State.....

PHOTOPHONE DIVISION

RCA Victor Company, Inc.

(A Radio Corporation of America Subsidiary)
CAMDEN, N. J.

APR -8 1933

Better Theatres

April 8, 1933
Vol. III, No. 2

A section of Motion Picture Herald devoted to the designing, construction, equipping and operation of the motion picture theatre

GEORGE SCHUTZ, Editor

C. B. O'NEILL, Advertising Manager

RAY GALLO, Eastern Advertising Manager

GENERAL FEATURES

Production Methods and the Theatre: By Ben Schlanger 8
Remodeling a Theatre: A Pictorial History 11
Sound Equipment Leases: By Leo T. Parker 14
Story-Teller of a New World: Photomontage by Irving Browning, with a note by Terry Ramsaye 16-17
Constants in Modern Theatre Design: By Armand D. Carroll 17
A Theatre Architect Visits Europe: By S. Charles Lee 18

DEPARTMENTS

Modern Projection (19)
Sound Equipment Today—and Its Market: By Aaron Nadell 19
F. H. Richardson's Comments 22
Projection Mart: Equipment News and Comment 26
Planning the Theatre (58)
New Theatre Projects (62)

BUYERS NUMBER DEPARTMENTS

The Equipment Index 27
Theatre Supply Dealers 54

MISCELLANEOUS

Editorials 7
Whom May You Legally Eject: By M. Marvin Berger 15
Equipment Affairs: Equipment News and Comment 57
Index to Advertisers 63
Where to Buy It 64
Better Theatres Catalog Bureau 65
New Inventions 66

QUIGLEY PUBLISHING COMPANY, 1790 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

MARTIN QUIGLEY, Publisher and Editor-in-Chief

COLVIN W. BROWN, Vice-Pres. and Gen. Mgr.

CHICAGO: 407 South Dearborn Street

HOLLYWOOD: Pacific States Life Bldg.

LONDON: 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware

CABLE ADDRESS: Quigpubco

NEW YORK TEL.: Circle 7-3100

Better Theatres (with which is incorporated The Showman) is published every fourth week as Section Two of Motion Picture Herald: Terry Ramsaye, editor. Member of Audit Bureau of Circulations. All editorial and general business correspondence should be addressed to the New York office. All contents copyrighted 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company and except for properly accredited quotations, nothing appearing herein may be reproduced without written permission. Every precaution is taken to ensure the safety of unsolicited manuscripts and photographs submitted, but the publishers herewith deny all responsibility for them in case of mutilation or loss. Branch office managers: E. S. Clifford, Chicago; Leo Meehan, Hollywood. London representative: W. H. Mooring. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac (published annually) and The Chicagoan.

A NATIONAL ASSET

. . . . Confidence of the American Business Man in Home Products of Established Merit

THE confidence of the American theatre owner in National Projector Carbons has been earned by the quality of the product and the cooperation of the manufacturer to guarantee satisfactory performance.

Continuous recognition and support of American scientific research and industrial development will maintain established home industries and assure future developments and progress.

Sold exclusively through distributors and dealers. National Carbon Company will gladly cooperate with the producer, exhibitor, machine manufacturer or projectionist on any problem involving light.

NATIONAL

PROJECTOR CARBONS

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, INC.

Carbon Sales Division, Cleveland, Ohio

Unit of Union Carbide UCC and Carbon Corporation

Branch Sales Offices:

New York Pittsburgh Chicago San Francisco

An Organization, A Plan, A Reason and A Story of Success

ORGANIZATION: In Chicago in 1931 a group of wideawake independent theatre supply dealers met and formed the INDEPENDENT THEATRE SUPPLY DEALERS ASSOCIATION.

PLAN: Group co-operation to guarantee distribution through the members of our association of high-standard equipment and supplies.

REASON: To help manufacturers of leading equipment get a nation-wide outlet for their products, through independent supply houses of recognized reputation and to supply the demand that the best products procurable be available through independent stores.

SUCCESS: Two years of operation by the Association, prove conclusively the value of this new deal. It gave the association big-scale buying power, recognition by the leading manufacturers and country-wide approval of the Association, its members and its principles.

BUY from one of our members listed below and get

HIGH QUALITY — TRUSTWORTHY SERVICE — PERSONAL INTEREST

Enterprising Theatre Supply Houses "Allied" for Buying, But Independently Operated INDEPENDENT THEATRE SUPPLY DEALERS ASSOCIATION

J. E. ROBIN,
President

L. G. DOLLIVER,
Vice-President

H. C. DUSMAN,
Secretary-Treasurer

BALTIMORE, MD.
J. F. Dusman, 213 N. Calvert Street
BOSTON, MASS.
Capitol Theatre Supply Co., 28-30 Piedmont Street
BUFFALO, N. Y.
United Projector & Film Corp., 228 Franklin Street
CHICAGO, ILL.
Guercio & Barthel T. Equipt., 1018 S. Wabash Avenue
CLEVELAND, OHIO
Oliver Moving Pic. Supply Co., 2209 Payne Avenue
DENVER, COLO.
Graham Bros. Theatre Equipt., 546 Lincoln Street
DES MOINES, IA.
Des Moines Theatre Supply Co., 1121 High Street
DETROIT, MICH.
McArthur Theatre Equipt. Co., 2501 Cass Avenue
LOS ANGELES, CALIF.
Breck Photoplay Supply Co., 1909 S. Vermont Avenue

THEATRE SUPPLY INDEPENDENT DEALERS ASSN.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.
The Ray Smith Company, 635 N. 7th Street
NEW YORK, N. Y.
Amusement Supply Company, 345 W. 44th Street
Capitol Motion Picture Supply Corp., 630 Ninth Avenue
Crown Motion Pic. Supply Co., 311 W. 44th Street
OMAHA, NEBR.
Quality Theatre Supply Co., 1518 Davenport Avenue
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Clem Rizzo Theatre Supplies, 255 N. 13th Street
PITTSBURGH, PA.
Superior Motion Picture S. Co., 86 Van Braam Street
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.
Walter G. Preddey T. Supplies, 187 Golden Gate Ave.
Western Theatrical Equipt. Co., 146 Leavenworth Street
SEATTLE, WASH.
B. F. Shearer Company, 2318 Second Avenue
ST. LOUIS, MO.
Exhibitors Supply Co., 3238 Olive Street

Communicate with the Association Through the Secretary

HENRY C. DUSMAN
213 No. Calvert Street
Baltimore, Md.

MANUFACTURERS! NON-MEMBER DEALERS!
You Are Invited to Our THIRD NATIONAL CONVENTION
Stevens Hotel, Chicago
July 28 to 31
Manufacturers' Exhibit Spaces Available

WATCH FOR OUR ADVERTISING SECTION IN "BETTER THEATRES" SOON

Better Theatres

April 8, 1933

Observations

¶ During the past half-year the whole field of sound reproduction equipment has undergone considerable readjustment to new conditions. Technically there have been radical improvements, while changes as important have taken place in the market for equipment and parts. In addition to these physical changes, there have been revaluations in maintenance methods, which include the time-honored question of the service charge. Mr. Aaron Nadell, writing for this issue the second of his three articles on these developments, has included, inescapably, this matter of the service charge in his discussion.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on his observation that, regardless of the method, some adequate form of maintenance must be adopted, and to this extent some sort of "service charge" cannot be eliminated. Sound reproduction, with its allied acoustical problems, is too delicate technically, and too fundamental commercially to have anything less than the most expert supervision. If such supervision and the maintenance of the equipment in perfect condition can be purchased at no less than a high price, that price must be paid.

What has brought readjustments in these charges is not only the reduction in receipts due to economic conditions. They are as well, if not more, the result of the refinement of sound reproduction machinery and the extension of necessary technical knowledge among projectionists. The new conditions are thus not those of a passing economic emergency. They are permanent developments of our growing experience with sound, to be met and taken advantage of wherever readjustment to them means a better, more constructive way of doing things in the motion picture theatre business.

But readjustment cannot mean the elimination of whatever charge is necessary to keep the equipment capable of doing all that the fully effective exhibition of modern motion picture entertainment demands.

¶ Because the demands of present economic conditions are likely to assert themselves more impressively, it is natural for the theatre operator, in studying his receipts, to be open-eared to plans which seem to offer a chance to reduce his projection costs. Reports from the front-line have convincingly indicated that all too often such plans have been adopted without close, informed analysis, and that the show has seriously suffered as a result. This is the sort of thing that must be avoided if the motion picture is not to lose appeal and prestige. When absolutely necessary, overhead cuts must be made—there is no alternative. But the last place to make them is the projection room, and in that department there is always that inflexible minimum beyond which it is not wise to go.

The selection of methods in accordance with new necessities and new advantages should be carefully, advisedly made. It may be found that money saved in the cost of maintenance is more than lost by money spent in excessive prices for supplies purchased without the advice of one who knows the equipment and the market. The cost of new equipment, or that of modernizing older equipment, might prove less in the long run than that of keeping the old. It might be possible to form a group of local theatres, pro-rating the cost of employing a service engineer. We know of many differing situations involving adjustments in the cost of equipment maintenance, and each one has required a different treatment. The shrewd theatre operator will study his own situation with a full knowledge of the possibilities that are open to him before adopting a new maintenance method.

¶ On this page in the March 11th issue we digressed a little from the matters that usually occupy our attention and offered a few suggestions concerning the building of programs suited to children. In response we have received a communication from the Lenox Little Theatre in New York City, kindly letting us know that the management gives careful attention to the youngsters' entertainment interests. A recent program was included, and in this we noted the listing of "sponsors for the children's matinees." A smart idea, we should say. And of course we could not help being impressed by the inclusion in the list of the name of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.—G. S.

PRODUCTION METHODS AND THE THEATRE

By BEN SCHLANGER

An original study by an architect of studio technique and its relationship to fundamental problems of the theatre

ENORMOUS SUMS of money were expended in making drastic changes in production studios as well as in theatres to make the motion picture audible. Not even the expenditure of such large sums of money could prevent the introduction of such a vital change. If the introduction of still another vital change would have a tonic effect on the art of the motion picture, would such seeming barriers as poorly adapted theatres and necessary changes in equipment stand in the way? Sound was costly to everyone concerned in the industry, but its arrival was inevitable. Its effect was easily discernible by the public—the public is quick to grasp and support that which is obviously better. Now the screen, the medium of motion picture presentation is sorely in need of a revaluation, and a more effective presentation and delivery of the action portrayed on it.

To effectively change the shape of the screen and to enlarge it to a size befitting the auditorium in which it is exhibited is undoubtedly an inevitable and necessary step. But this step would be quite a costly one, and perhaps its realization will be deferred by present economic conditions. There is an in-between step, which if properly adopted, can in itself probably revolutionize motion picture presentation. The differently shaped and enlarged screen would more logically and more effectively succeed this in-between step. In other words, a sort of house-cleaning is firstly in order. Probably the revaluation about to be discussed here should have come about even before the advent of sound, because, in essence it deals with the photographic problem—the basic problem of the motion picture.

The motion picture screen is being ineffectively used. It is not portraying the full force of which the motion picture is capable. The reason for this is two-fold, and traceable to both the production and reproduction phases of the art. Firstly, an appreciable area of the screen is being ineffectively used and even wasted by present practices of placing the main focal action or interest only within a limited portion of the screen. Secondly, theatre auditoriums are unsuitably built to accommodate proper vision of a more advantageously used screen. To be able to utilize the entire area of the screen in an unlimited manner can add almost as much, if not as much, to the motion picture as did sound. Such effective use of the screen is not entirely unknown or unappreciated; nor is it entirely without precedence, as is shown in a few recent good films made both in Europe and in this country. Unfortunately, however, this screen technique is not sufficiently wide spread. This consideration of the screen is certainly deserving of more immediate attention, since such a vital improvement is inevitable for the motion picture. It requires immediate attention in as much as the screen is the combined problem of the production and exhibition phases of the motion picture, and because theatre auditoriums of today must be built, not only to house today's inadequate screen, but also in anticipation of the screen of the very near future.

Although it may be assumed to be more likely that the methods of production would affect the methods of reproduction rather than vice versa, it is of no consequence to find out which element will set the pace. Rather, it is important that both the problems of production and reproduction be considered at one time as they might affect one another. The rate of progress made in the motion picture art is definitely slackened by the peculiar and definite division of the industry into those who produce and those who exhibit motion pictures. Occasionally a superior story and excellent acting may produce a good picture; and less occasionally a theatre suitable for properly viewing a motion picture may be found. Assuming two motion pictures of unequal merit,—in both of which the story and acting are equally good, the difference in merit of one from the other is traceable to the relative effectiveness of their methods of presentation both in production and in exhibition. The story and the acting in any one picture are purely problems of production. But, on the other hand, presentation is equally an exhibition as well as a production problem. The screen, as the final medium of presentation, definitely enters into the scope of both production and exhibition, and it is the screen which should be the joint problem of producer and exhibitor. For example, the design of motion picture auditoriums should permit unlimited and comfortable vision of any or all portions of the screen that the producer may find most advantageous for heightening the effect of a particular scene. And, on the other hand, the producer should insist on comfortable and unlimited vision of the entire screen in motion picture auditoriums. Unfortunately, however, motion picture presentation as yet has not been benefited any by any such mutual study.

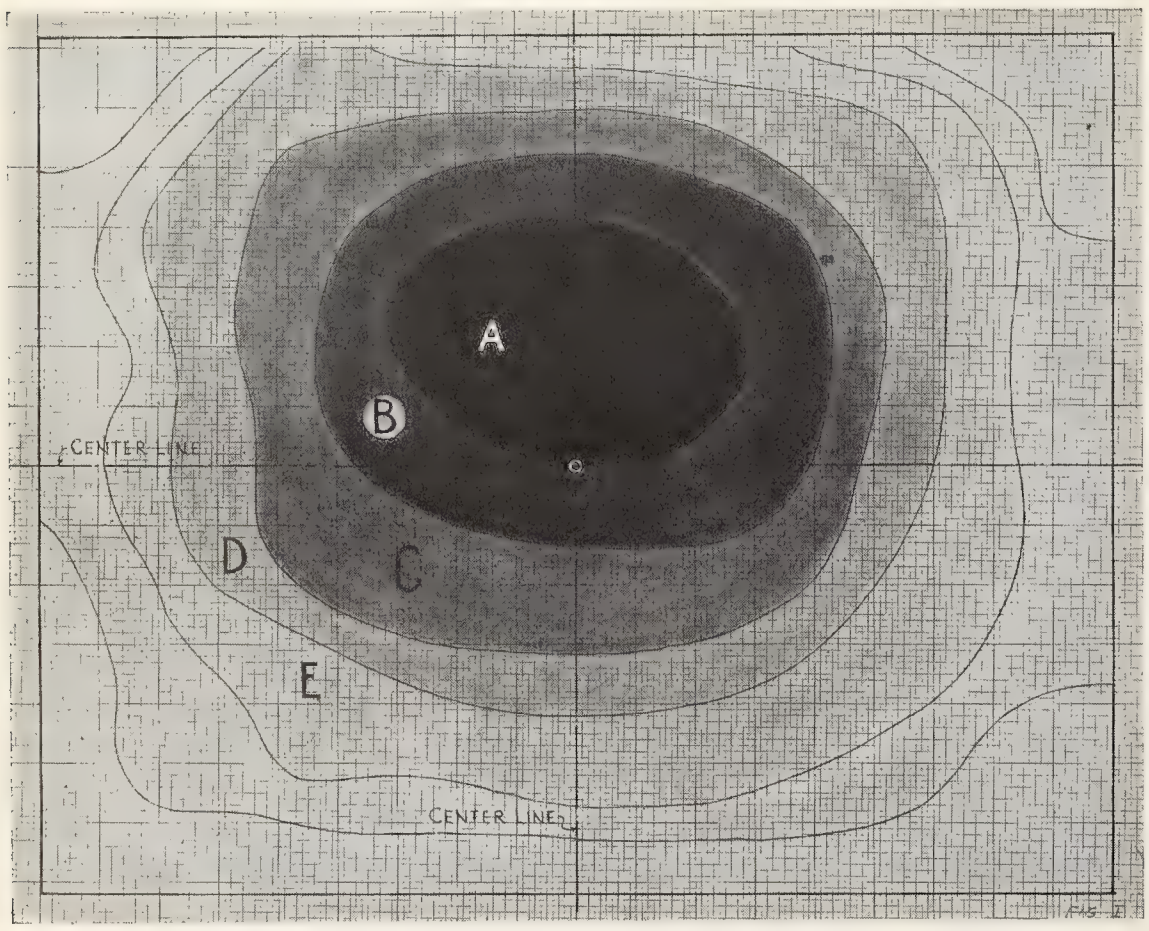

Figure 1.—Descriptive diagram of most utilized screen areas. See text.

Figure 2.—Reproduction of scene with focal action area outlined and separated from background area.—AUTHOR.

IN THE CASE of production, there is much that can be done to improve presentation by revaluing the areas of the screen usable for photographic composition, as will be later shown in detail. In the case of exhibition, even more improvement is needed, since proper vision requirements are lacking in theatres even now, under present conditions.. And should a greater use of the complete screen area be introduced and become more wide spread, vision would then be impaired to an annoying degree. If the relationship between the problems of exhibition and production is not adjusted now or in the very near future, it is quite evident that such neglect will be one of the greatest stumbling blocks in slackening the development of the motion picture into the great art it could be. The combination alone of a very good story and very good acting in a motion picture has little advantage over the legitimate performance, with the exception, of course, of close-up shots and the fact that it can be seen in many places at the same time. It is the particular screen technique, especially as applied to backgrounds in the motion picture, that distinguishes it as an art apart from the art of the legitimate theatre. It is the contention of this writer that the present predominant use of a very limited area of the entire screen for depicting main focal action (see Fig. 1), to a great extent stifles the possibility of obtaining more effective screen technique and backgrounds and, until this is changed, the motion picture is truly merely in a sense imitating the legitimate performance. The advantage of the motion picture over the legitimate theatre lies in the addition of this screen background and technique to the previously assumed good acting and good story content.

FIGURE 1 represents the screen shape now in standard use. On this representative screen has been plotted and superimposed the various limited areas within which occurs the chief action or chief point of interest of some 120 scenes. These scenes were picked at random from about 20 current films, an average of 6 scenes per film, representing in all six of the major American producing companies. In the case of European productions, it may be, and later studies will perhaps show, that a slightly different result might be obtained. However, it may be that the findings in this particular study represent closely enough the conditions of this problem in most all motion picture productions to date. The use of some 20 additional films other than those actually used in the diagram might show a slight variation in the final result, but the variation would be too slight to in any way change the conclusions formed from these studies.

Quite generally it has been commonly assumed by those concerned in the motion picture industry that most of the action or story depicted in motion pictures takes place at a point which is about dead center of the screen. This assumption proves true in the diagram only in respect to the width of the screen; but as to the height, it can be seen by referring to Fig. 1, that a greater part of the action takes place above the lower half of the screen. This reveals, amongst other things, that the frequent allocation of the chief action at such a high point on the screen is a great detriment in obtaining comfortable vision of such portions of the screen from the front half of the orchestra level of most present-day theatres. Theatres should be corrected to permit vision of this and all other portions of the screen. This diagram was developed partly to ascertain just how centrally the main action happened to be placed on the screen, and also for the purpose of ascertaining how much and what parts of the total screen area were infrequently used. Figure 1 discloses that approximately only 58% of the total area of the screen was devoted to portrayal of important action. The remaining area, constituting 42% of the total screen area, in almost all of the scenes used, was devoted to meaningless and ineffectively presented backgrounds. These backgrounds so used are rendered ineffective, split in half as they are, by the central position of the main action on the screen, while the full force and intent of the scene is diminished. In this way, is disregarded the essential characteristic which distinguishes the movie from the legitimate performance.

Figure 3.—Reproductions of two scenes, in each of which the area of focal interest is located within the limited portion of the screen coming within a comfortable range of vision in present theatre structures (see text).—AUTHOR.

A detailed description of the methods used in making this diagram is necessary to appreciate the value of the findings. Each scene that was used was analyzed as to the portion of the screen used for main focal interest and as to the portion used for background. (See Figure 2, showing the area analysis of a typical scene.) The portion of the screen used to depict the main focal interest of a scene was transposed on to the diagram representing the screen, in the same relative position as on the original scene. This area of focal interest was then shaded in with a very light tone of ink. Using this process uniformly throughout, the main focal areas of 120 different scenes were each superimposed on the diagram. Thus the portion of the screen which was used most frequently in these 120 scenes was found by selecting and outlining the darkest area (area A) (See Figure 1) By the same process the portions of the screen used in various lesser degrees were also determined. Figure 1 shows areas A, B, C, D as definitely separated from one another, but actually the lines of demarcation were not quite so sharp.

The diagram discloses that there is a definite portion at the bottom of the screen which is used very little. It also discloses that an appreciable portion at the extreme sides is also not used very frequently. As a result, the corners of the screen are practically not used at all. These unused portions of the screen, it so happens, are not within the range of even fairly comfortable or unobstructed vision in present day theatre structures. Vision of the bottom portion of the screen is obstructed in a theatre by preceding heads due to poorly arranged floor slopes. Images appearing on the sides of the screen appear distorted to those spectators sitting in the opposite extreme side seats too commonly found in most present theatres. Considerable complaint would very likely be forthcoming from the motion picture patron, if the main action on the screen were more generally located in the areas at present unused. It so happens that Area A and the lower halves of Areas B and C in Figure 1 are the only areas that actually are comfortably visible to the patron in most present theatres. The upper halves of Areas B and C, holding important action as shown on Figure 1, on the other hand, can only be seen with considerable visual and physical discomfort from orchestra seats in present theatres. There seems to be a relationship between the findings of Figure 1 and the visual conditions of the average present theatre, since the nature of the film as an art is about, for the present, on a par with the ability of theatre structures to properly exhibit the film.

Figure 4.—PRODUCTION: A scene wherein the action is placed centrally as to screen width, causing a split and ineffective background. REPRODUCTION: Man's head is out of comfortable range of vision in present theatres (see text).—AUTHOR.

It might be expected that such disposition of the areas of the screen used in depicting main action as disclosed in Figure 1, would rather be found in analyzing a like number of paintings or still photographs of an age that is already past. To find the screen so used at this time in such an important and recent art as the motion picture is a great disappointment at least to this writer. In a later development of these studies, diagrams similar to Figure 1 shall be developed, based on cinema productions of five and ten years ago, and also on recent European productions. These additional studies will assist in ascertaining whether there have been any changes due to the element of time or other influence.

Areas A and B in Figure 1 are located in the same relative position with respect to the entire screen, as is the prescribed focal point usually found in a good still-picture composition, a principle which is applied in picture composition to obtain a static rather than a directional or mobile effect. To apply this principle to motion picture photography is contradictory to the very purpose and nature of the motion picture. Motion pictures should not be a succession of still pictures of static composition, obtained by the constantly changing position of the camera, to keep the action in the focal areas concentrated in the center of the screen. Motion pictures would be far more effective if the action moved and revealed the background instead of covering and dividing it as it commonly does now. (See Figure 6, showing some scenes where the background is featured to advantage. Such scenes are too infrequently found, however, in most of the productions presented today.

Figure 5.—REPRODUCTION: Two scenes in which the area of focal action is out of comfortable range of vision in present theatres. The heads at the extreme sides appear distorted to spectators sitting in poor side seats (see text). PRODUCTION: Corners where the heads appear are highly valuable action areas. This is not a common photographic composition in motion pictures.—AUTHOR.

Figure 3 shows two scenes, having the focal action in a position located around the dead center of the screen. An occasional scene of this type may be effectively used, but the predominating use of such a composition throughout a film is not to be desired. The scenes shown in Figure 6, illustrate a more varied and more forceful use of the total screen area. Figures 4 and 5 illustrate scenes where the focal action is concentrated on the extreme high portions of the screen. Figure 5 illustrates the utilization of even the two top corners of the screen. Theatres should be designed to enable spectators to more comfortably see these top portions of the screen, portions that may be used most effectively in motion picture composition. Figure 1 discloses that a greater part of the lowest areas of the screen are scantily utilized. The use of these portions also add to the effectiveness of the composition.

IF THE SCREEN were utilized to most successfully express the motion picture, a diagram developed in the same manner as was Figure 1, would result in practically an even tone and intensity, in contrast to the dark center and graded tones of Figure 1. Every bit of the screen surface would be employed to a more or less similar degree, even up to the extreme edges and corners. Obstructed and distorted vision of the screen would become an even greater annoyance to the spectator in the poorly planned theatre, than poor acoustics is now. The addition of sound to the picture rendered many theatre structures obsolete in various degrees. Advancement of such an art as the motion picture should not be deferred to protect real estate investments. And so the obsolescence of theatre structures due to new screen requirements must be judged in the same light.

A constant mutual study should be given to the problems of production and reproduction, not only to avoid obsolescence of structures and equipment, but also to cooperate to the extent of bettering the art more efficiently and without so much waste of divided efforts.

Better motion pictures containing more than merely a good story and good acting will create better theatres; and, on the other hand, an appreciation shown by the exhibitor of the total problems of motion picture presentation which may be variously voiced to the producer will encourage better pictures.

The problem of vision in exhibition is

(Continued on page 61)

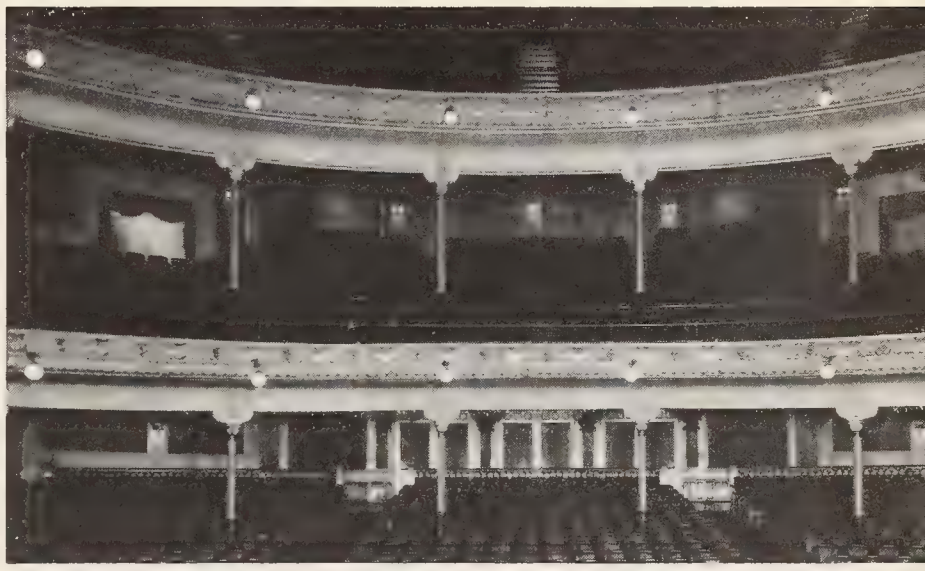
Figure 6.—PRODUCTION: Group of scenes showing effective placing of action in all parts of the image (screen) area. REPRODUCTION: Present theatre structures afford only uncomfortable distorted and obstructed vision of many of these areas.—AUTHOR.

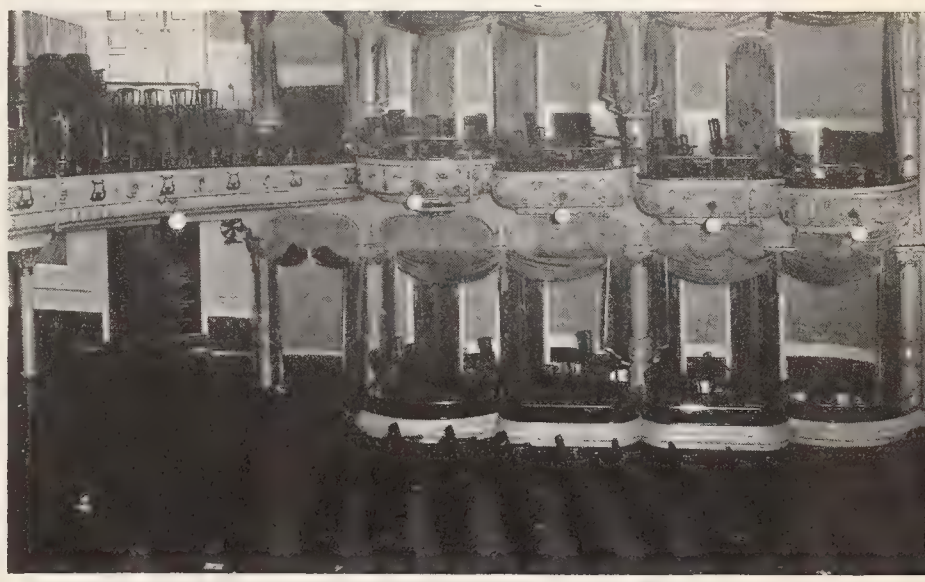
REMODELING A THEATRE: A Pictorial History

The complete modernization of one of the famous old theatres of the South is represented in the remodeling of the Grand Theatre in Atlanta, Ga. The house was first opened in 1893 and operated for years as that city's dramatic center. Although later taken over by the Loew circuit for the presentation of vaudeville and motion pictures, it has been operated for many years without substantial physical change. Last summer Loew's undertook to remake the structure from marquee to dressing rooms, and pictured on this and the following two pages, with few omissions, is a pictorial account of what the project meant and what it achieved.



The theatre is housed in an office building—one of Atlanta's landmarks—but for the new theatre, little was left but the original walls. New foundations were made, a new proscenium wall was built, and the stage was reduced. The seating capacity of the new house, 2,400, is approximately that of the former theatre. For the theatre portion alone, including equipment, the project represents an investment of $500,000.

The outer lobby, so called, which also forms entrance to the office building by elevators and stairs, has been remodeled to include walls of Golden Vein St. Genevieve marble enriched in various intricate motifs of decoration in aluminum. All doors and work surrounding are of aluminum panelled with bevelled edge French plate glass. In this lobby, as in the vestibule, is a floor of rubber matting. Entry from this outer lobby is through an inner lobby of large dimensions. Its walls, lined in Circassian walnut, display motifs of walnut, satin wood and ebony. (Continued on following page)



THOMAS W. LAMB
Architect

Photos by courtesy of Loew's, Inc.

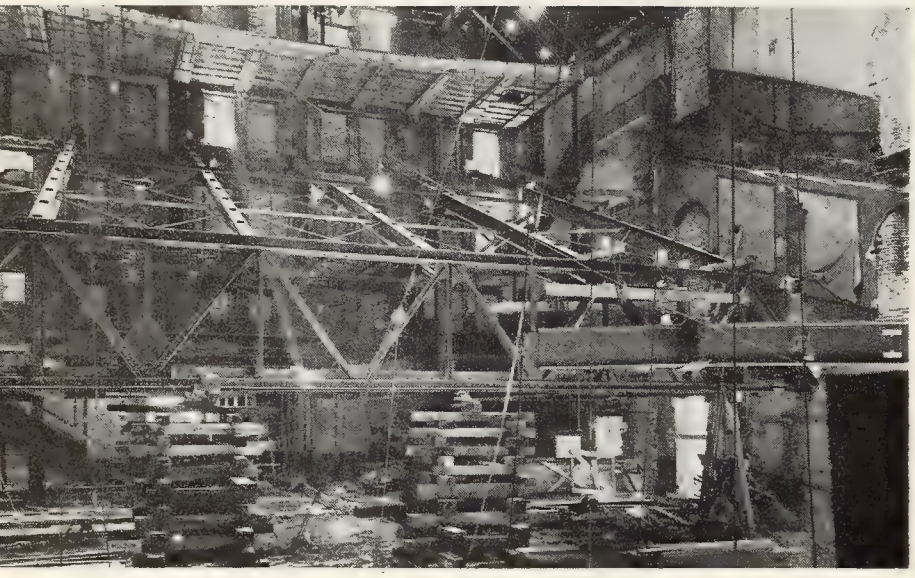
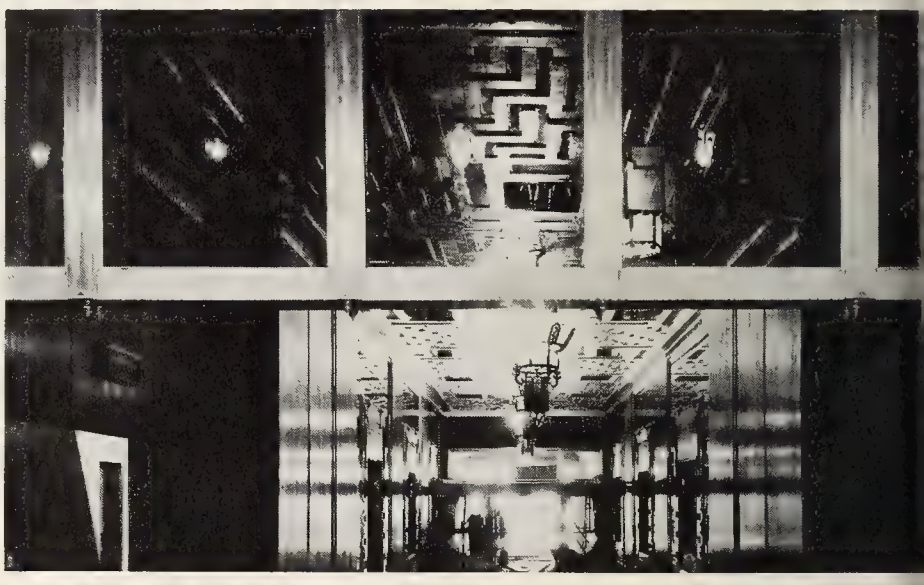
The original auditorium (below), looking toward the rear. This two balcony scheme employed wood construction with supporting pillars of cast iron. Seating took little consideration of sight lines or comfort.

Another view of the auditorium (below), showing the "kitchen chairs" in section of the balcony and in boxes. Ornamental features consisted in pressed metal, laid on and painted. Construction elements of wood.

Original main foyer (below), typical of the Southern Colonial style of the theatre. The door treatment was of cast iron, while the floor was of marble tiles, which, however, became so worn that it later was carpeted.

The entrance lobby (below), an arcade necessitated by the form of the entire building, part of which was (and is) used for offices. Since no modern code was followed, this deep approach represented a fire hazard.





After the work of demolition had got well under way (above). This looks through the auditorium from the first balcony level, showing the circular beams and iron pillars which supported the upper floors.

Reconstruction of the auditorium at the balcony level (above). This picture was taken after the side walls had been treated in decorative plaster and during the course of reseating. Compare with others.

Another view of the auditorium (above), during demolition and after reconstruction had started. This view looks toward the rear, showing the suspension of steel skeleton for the construction of a single balcony.

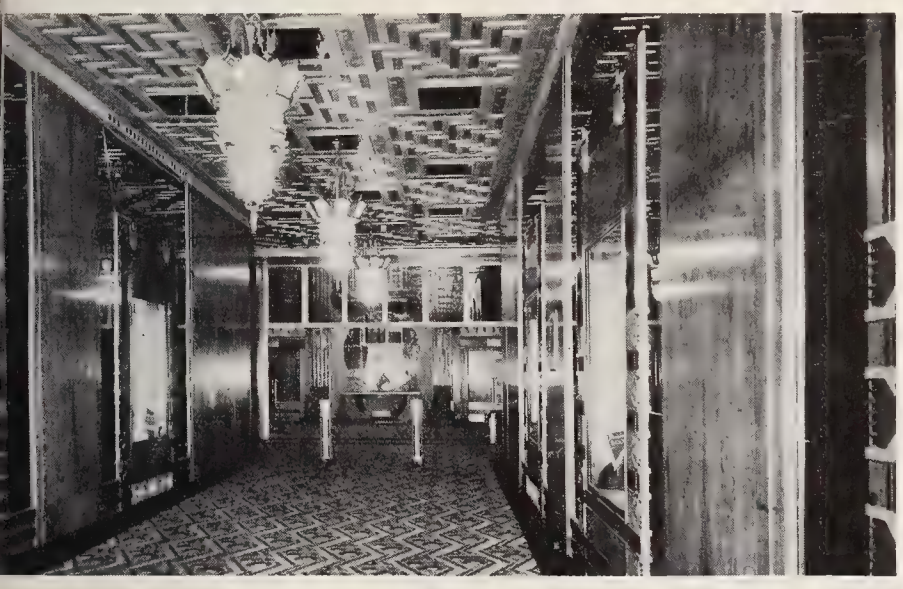
Looking down the entrance lobby (arcade) during reconstruction (above). This view is similar to that of the fourth picture on previous page. With modern metal forms and lighting, the former dimness was eliminated.

Reconstruction at the balcony (above). The walls proved strong enough, to support cantilever construction, thereby eliminating all posts. The wooden structure is scaffolding erected to increase workmen's speed.

(Continued from preceding page) Gold mirrors, gold ceiling interspersed with mirrors of Mediterranean blue, lighting fixtures of bronze are other features. The floor is carpeted solid in soft Bundhar Wilton carpet, in exotic design of gold with ruby and emerald colorings bound by a border of black. The main foyer has two staircases of Breche Rose marble enhanced by wrought iron railings of intricate design. Walls are lined in Circassian walnut, trimmed in ebony, teakwood and amarinth. Upper walls are lined in silk damask of Mediterranean blue, gold and silver, surrounding mirrors of blue and gold. Gazing balls form terminals for columns of Circassian walnut, teakwood and ebony. Lighting fixtures are of bronze with chrome inserts and enclosed within rose tubing and carved plate glass panels.

In the auditorium the walls of the orchestra are lined in Circassian walnut and ebony. Plaster treatment is used at the side walls of the balcony and on the ceiling. The draperies are of cinnamon crushed plush, with coverings on the seats to match. Retiring rooms have been provided on the first and second mezzanine promenades. The walls of the principal mezzanine floor are lined in emerald green velvet striped with silk ivory cords treated in a manner of the Empire era of France. The cosmetic room adjoining is treated in Modern, with furniture characteristic of the style.

The theatre begins to take on its new dress (left). This is the main foyer in the course of the hanging of new modern lighting fixtures, and the affixing of metal ornamentation. Compare with first picture shown.



The new auditorium (right), looking toward the rear with house lights on. Comparison with the second picture shown indicates the transformation made by means of modern architectural implements and practices.

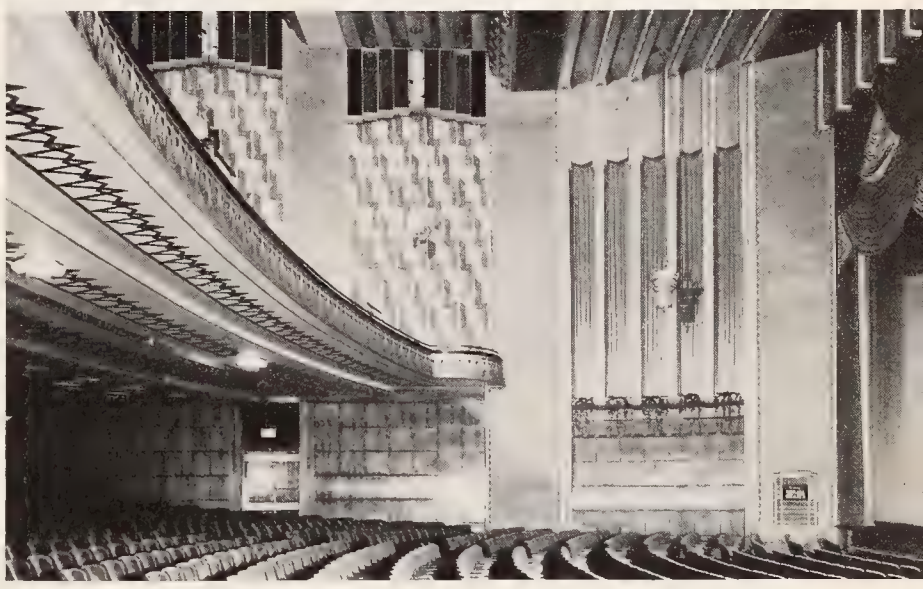
Equipment is new throughout and includes air conditioning facilities not possessed by the original house. Air conditioning is of the plenum, water chamber, down diffusion type, and supplies the foyers and lounges as well as the auditorium. Refrigeration equipment is by Wittenmeier. The new seating is by American Seating Company. Simplex projectors and Western Electric sound apparatus have been newly installed, while the projection room is further equipped with a new set of Brenkert spots.

The ventilation and air conditioning installation follows the most modern practices for the largest theatres in spite of the nature of this project. The toilet rooms and projection room are provided with individual exhaust fans so that there is no return air from these sources. The projection room is also provided with an exhaust fan which quickly gets rid of any smoke or gases due to a film fire and prevents it from returning to the air washer. The air washer is capable of handling 75,000 cubic feet of air per minute at a velocity of 500 feet per minute.

The completed entrance lobby (below), viewed from the vestibule, now forming an integral part of the entire theatre portion of the building. The materials are wood panels, decorative plaster, metal and carpet.



The main foyer as completed (below). The double staircases lead to a mezzanine level. They are of marble with wrought iron railings. The walls are lined with walnut trimmed with ebony, teakwood and amarinth.

The remodeled auditorium at the proscenium arch (below), a view inviting comparison with the third picture shown. Between wood panels are fabric patterns, while the boxes have given way to organ chambers.

The mezzanine promenade (below), a modern addition to the lounge and traffic facilities of the theatre which the original house did not have. This level was built into area beneath the rear of the single balcony.

The new projection room (below), with Simplex projectors, Western Electric sound apparatus, Brenkert spots, modern electrical boards and safety devices. However, the angle of projection remains about 23 degrees.

SOUND EQUIPMENT LEASES

1.—Licenses and Patent Factors

By LEO T. PARKER

A legal analysis of the contracts by which the majority of motion picture theatres have been equipped for sound

CONSIDERABLE discussion has arisen with respect to the rights and liabilities of theatre owners under the usual ten-year period lease contracts licensing the right, with many provisions, to utilize sound reproducing equipment.

It is well established law that any reasonable provision in a license contract of this nature is enforceable.

However, there are many complications and apparently ambiguous clauses which require extensive analysis in order to interpret these contracts.

I

Obligations Under Licenses

Care of Product

For instance, in the early days of the industry it was essential to use motor-generators and batteries because practically all of the equipment was operated with direct current and with disc turntables and other assembly parts, many of which are at present obsolete. Moreover, a complete revolution has occurred in the construction, since many changes have been made from the early battery operation to the present electric current operation. Therefore, the question often is presented whether the theatre owner is liable for loss or damage to equipment which presently is in his care but which is not being utilized or has been replaced with more modern equipment.

A theatre owner never is liable as an insurer of goods left in his care unless he makes himself so by the terms of a contract with the owner. Nor is a theatre owner ordinarily liable for loss of or injury to the goods due to an act of God or of the public enemy, nor for losses due to inherent defects in the goods, or other causes not due to negligence on his part.

However, he is required to exercise ordinary care in the custody of the equipment, by which is meant that degree of care which ordinarily prudent owners of similar businesses are accustomed to exercise in regard to equipment under like circumstances. Where such equipment is lost, stolen or damaged, the theatre owner may be liable unless he can prove that the damages were due to no negligence on his part.

Moreover, a theatre owner may automatically convert his usual liability under the "ordinary care" rule to that of an insurer, if he disobeys positive instructions given in the contract by the owner or licensor as to where and how equipment shall be kept.

A review of the higher court cases in which theatre owners have been held not liable for loss or injury to equipment discloses that the courts consider a theatre owner ordinarily careful who (1) employs competent workmen, (2) maintains the theatre clean and free from rubbish or other waste materials, (3) abides by the state and municipal laws, (4) equips the theatre with modern fire preventive water sprinkler systems and burglar alarms, (5) keeps the passageways clear, and (6) provides for efficient ventilation and heating.

In view of this fact it is advisable for theatre owners to demand the licensor to take possession of obsolete or other equipment which the latter has replaced by modern devices.

Obligation to Pay Service

ANOTHER important point is where the equipment has been paid for in full and the only remaining obligation on the part of the theatre owner is to return the equipment at the end of the lease period and to pay for the service, which in many instances is $25 per month for a single call of the service expert. In other words, many theatre owners are uncertain regarding the obligation of an exhibitor in the event he refuses to accept and pay the agreed service rates.

The answer to this question simply is this: If the contract between the licensor and the theatre owner is valid, the theatre owner is liable for failure to fulfill the obligations. Therefore, if the terms of the license contract do not violate interstate, state or city laws and regulations, and the licensor has fully performed his obligations assumed under the contract, refusal on the part of the theatre owner to accept and pay monthly service may subject him to suit for the full amount of the service charges specified under the terms of the contract. Moreover, if the refusal of the theatre owner to accept the service results in damage to the licensor, the theatre owner may be liable for such damages. In a situation of this nature it is doubtful that the licensor may legally refuse to permit the theatre owner to utilize the equipment, although such would be the case if the contract clearly specified this remedy.

Generally speaking, an action of replevin lies only to obtain possession by the owner of goods unlawfully in the hands of another. For this reason, although considerable discussion has arisen with respect to the right of a licensor to replevin equipment for failure of a theatre owner to accept and pay service charges, it is believed that the only legal remedy is suit by the licensor against the theatre owner for breach of contract. However, the fact that a theatre owner breaches the contract gives the licensor the right to withdraw all its benefits arising from operation and fulfillment of the contract.

For example, almost all contracts of this nature contain a clause, as follows:

"Upon termination or expiration of this contract or license by lapse of time or otherwise, the Exhibitor shall surrender the Equipment to Company in good order and condition, reasonable wear and tear due to proper use thereof in the manner and place and for the purposes set forth in this agreement only excepted. The Company may repossess the Equipment and may, for the purpose of reducing the same to possession, enter the Theatre or any other premises where said Equipment may be and without any legal proceedings whatever possess and remove said Equipment, and the Exhibitor agrees to co-operate in such removal. If this license shall be terminated by default, or if the Exhibitor permits any default hereunder to occur, whether or not Company shall exercise the option to terminate this agreement, Company shall thereupon have the right without notice and without any legal proceedings whatever to take immediate possession of said Equipment, or any part thereof, and for that purpose may pursue the same wherever it or any part thereof may be found.

"In the event the Exhibitor defaults in payments or otherwise breaches the provisions of this agreement, the Company shall also have the right to enter said premises and to render the Equipment inoperative by whatever means may, in the opinion of the Company, be necessary or expedient. The Exhibitor expressly agrees that in any of such events no claim will be made for damage on account of such action or otherwise, and the Exhibitor further agrees that it will hold and save harmless Company and its agents from and against any and all claims for damages by any parties whomsoever on account of such action."

A clause of this nature in the contract simply means that in event of breach by the exhibitor, the company may enter the theatre premises and take away the equipment —or in any manner, as by removing the optical systems, render the equipment incapable of being operated. Moreover, the exhibitor is bound to co-operate with the company's agents, otherwise he may be liable.

Another clause commonly inserted in the contract is, as follows:

"In the event of failure of the Exhibitor to make any of the payments, naturally it would be difficult to prove the exact damage to Company resulting from such default. Therefore, in case this agreement shall be terminated by Company by reason of any such default, the Exhibitor shall pay to Company, not as a penalty but as agreed or liquidated damages, all sums accrued to Company hereunder to and including the date when Company removes the Equipment or renders it inoperative, and in addition thereto twenty (20%) percent. of all sums which the Exhibitor agreed to pay but failed to do so."

The validity of this clause is doubtful in some instances, because the courts invariably hold a contract clause void which requires a person who breaches a contract to pay to the other party a penalty. Obviously, if the company may prove that breach of the contract by the exhibitor resulted in the company's suffering damages to the extent of the mentioned 20%, it would render the clause valid.

The distinction between "penalty" and "liquidated damages" is that the former invalidates the contract clause for the reason that the courts have consistently held that no person may be penalized for breach of a contract. This is true because the other party to the contract has adequate remedy against a person who breaches it, as by suit for damages. The amount of damages recoverable may equal the actual loss sustained by the party willing but unable to fulfill the terms of the contract.

For the reason that the courts are in accord with the principle of having litigants compromise any difficulties outside the court rooms, the law is established that contracting parties may estimate or liquidate the amount of damages payable by a person who breaches the contract. This is called liquidated damages and a clause requiring payment of a reasonable amount of liquidated damages does not invalidate the contract, providing the complaining party may show with reasonable certainty that the amount specified as liquidated damages actually equals the pecuniary loss resulting from the breach.

Validity of License Contract

THERE ARE many conditions which result in a license agreement being invalid thereby relieving the theatre owner from further obligation.

The law is well settled that any seller who enters another state for the express purpose of transacting interstate business therein is subject to the taxation and other laws of that particular state. Failure to conform with such laws results in the contracts being void. The latest higher court case involving this point of the law is Mennen Company v. Stanley (153 Atl. 590).

Also, it is important to know that various states have enacted laws by which corporations and firms from other states that transact intrastate business are prohibited from filing suit against citizens of the state unless certain requirements are fulfilled, such as obtaining a permit to transact business, and file certain papers with the Secretary of State. However, this rule is not applicable to firms which transact interstate business.

For illustration, in a recent case—General Talking Pictures Corporation v. Shea (49 S. W. [2d] 359)—it was alleged that on the fourth day of February, 1929, the General Talking Pictures Corporation leased and delivered to a theatre owner property consisting of two Phonofilm sound reproduction boxes, two preliminary amplifiers and fader control, one "B" amplifier and power supply unit, one set of loud speakers, and tubes necessary to installation in the theatre. The theatre is located in the state of Arkansas, and the General Talking Pictures Corporation is located in New York.

In other words, the lease of the talking picture machine in question was entered into between the parties in the State of New York on a rental basis covering a term of ten years with an agreement on the part of the General Talking Pictures Corporation to ship and install the same in the theatre in the State of Arkansas and, after

(Continued on page 59)

WHOM MAY YOU LEGALLY EJECT?

By M. MARVIN BERGER

Member New York Bar

"CAN I REFUSE admission to anyone I please? Once having admitted a man, can I ask him to leave the theatre even though he has created no disturbance?"

These questions are contained in a letter received from the manager of an upstate New York theatre, who was faced with these problems last Summer.

A number of women patrons had been complaining about men sitting in the theatre in their shirt sleeves, with the result that this manager had instructed his staff not to admit any man in shirt sleeves and to request any man removing his coat in the theatre to put it on again.

A man who had been asked to put on his coat, refused to do so and when requested to leave, demanded to see the manager. Upon his admission being returned to him and upon being given a choice of leaving quietly or being made to leave, the patron left, threatening to bring suit for being expelled. Suit was never brought, but the manager requests an explanation of his rights in the matter.

In New York and generally throughout the other States, it is held by the courts that the fact that a theatre is licensed by the city authorities and is planned for the entertainment of the public, does not make it a public institution.

The owner of a theatre is still a private individual conducting a private business and is in complete control of house and audience. He may exclude or admit whomever he chooses, excluding one because he is objectionable to the patrons of his theatre, or denying admission to another because his dress or personal appearance may distract the attention of the audience, or refusing another because of his objectionable conduct on a previous occasion.

The only exception to this rule is that by statute in many States he may not exclude an individual upon the sole ground of race, creed or color.

An individual who has been permitted to purchase a ticket is considered in the eyes of the law to have made a contract with you. By the terms of the contract, in return for the price of admission you give him permission to enter the theatre and watch the performance. If you decide to revoke your permission, the ticket holder can be made to leave, and in that case he is entitled to a return of the money he paid for the ticket.

If upon request, the patron refuses to leave, he may be removed by the use of a reasonable amount of force. By returning the price of the admission, you free yourself from all liability and only in a case where unnecessary or unreasonable force is used in the ejectment of a patron, or where he is insulted, may liability arise.

In getting an individual to leave the theatre with a minimum amount of unpleasantness, tact and good common sense are essential. The manager, or in any event someone with more than ordinary authority, should handle the matter.

As a preliminary it is always advisable to request the patron to step into the manager's office, thus avoiding a possible disturbance in the audience.

Bodily removal should be resorted to only when all other means fail, and if it becomes necessary, it should be employed, as is the practice in a number of circuits, not by an employee of the theatre but by an outside police officer.

CINEMA

CONSTANTS IN MODERN THEATRE DESIGN

By ARMAND D. CARROLL

Summarizing those basic elements which distinguish the new motion picture theatre architecture and make its patterns alive

NOVELTY and the spectacular seem to have a greater influence in theatre design today than ever before. The architect in planning a theatre today should achieve the most flexible scheme possible, to permit any type of entertainment.

The sight lines and acoustics are of extreme importance and the architect should bear in mind certain engineering facts—for instance, that an oval-shaped roof is the most perfect for acoustics. This has been definitely determined by acoustical experts. An acoustical expert should also be consulted in regard to certain architectural features, even though the ideal form and shape of the room have been decided upon. Many auditoriums of proper proportion and shape have been ruined acoustically by small, unimportant architectural features that formed deadly "sound spots." A short consultation in regard to these features or as to the proper treatment would have eliminated this complaint and saved later trouble and expense.

Probably one of the most important features that a theatre architect should strive for today is to create the effect of intimacy in the auditorium. The "new" theatre which in its design embodies a large proscenium "moulding" or frame, immediately defeats the idea of intimacy in design between the stage or screen and the audience. It seems to form a definite wall or barrier, separating the stage from the auditorium.

One of the most successful examples of creating this intimate effect has been obtained in the Rockefeller Center Music Hall. The side wall balconies or ramps leading from the stage to the first row in the lower balcony form a secondary "stage," or dancing strip, for the chorus or principal performers. The reason for the effectiveness of this arrangement is obvious. It brings the performers closer to the audience, adds another feature for effective lighting schemes, offers producers more opportunity to present large spectacles and, in the wide house, makes the side wall seats more desirable.

Any schemes or tricks that the designer can evolve to bring the audience closer to the stage, in more intimate contact with the performers, should be fully developed into sound architectural and decorative motifs.

With the great wealth of building and decorative materials at his command, such as concrete, steel, structural glass, metal alloys and modern wall covering materials, the present day theatre designer has been able to originate a distinctive style of architecture. With these modern materials to work with, the architecture should be spirited, live and direct, the color restrained and metallic, with detail reduced to a minimum, but graceful and exquisite, and the result a building united in a symphony of form, rhythm and color.

With such materials, why should a modern theatre building be a copy of one of antiquity? This would be appropriate only when similar conditions are to be satisfied and only in rare cases would a Greek temple, for instance, meet modern requirements. On the other hand, a radical and conscious departure from tradition would not lead to the goal sought.

An attempt to produce illusion is contrary to the spirit of architectural design in its serious aspect. This refers in particular to the so-called Spanish and Italian "outdoor effects," which are not in accordance with accepted standards. The New Theatre should also be devoid of applied ornamentation and costly trimmings. The one focal point should be the stage or screen.

The designer will depend entirely upon form, color and lighting for his effects. With these as a medium, emotions and color effects can be expressed momentarily. The designer will know the visible effects of color combinations and also their effect on varied color surfaces.

Other points to be desired may be summed up generally as follows:

1. Continuity of line (such as we find in the stream line of an automobile, the modern steam ship or in the long, unbroken lines in apparel fashions).

2. Contrast in colors or materials and contrast in light and shade created through definite angular mouldings and broken planes.

These features should be frank and honest interpretations, avoiding any imitation in materials.

story-teller of a new world

PHOTOMONTAGE BY IRVING BROWNING

● At left—the motion picture and all its world, pictorially in a nut-shell!

One is not sure whether the nut is Mr. George Schutz, editor of Better Theatres, who thought of it, or Mr. Irving Browning, photographer extraordinary and master of montage, who committed it. Mr. Schutz thinks like that, and Mr. Browning sees like that. But in its studied symbolism it does tell things factual about this business of ours—a something that cannot be played on a piccolo or written into words.

There are, of course, stories that pictures only can tell, and one of them is the concept of what it is all about, if anything, or perhaps everything.

We are reminded in this pictorial pattern of what this motion picture industry really is—an expression through and by mechanism, by and for the masses. We are told here again in discreet pictorial tones that this business is rather more a service to the wishes of the millions than it is an enterprise of stocks and bonds and tangibles of real estate and such. What this montage-ensemble on the opposite page says and infers about those master-minds who thought that the motion picture was evolved for the service of super-corporations, super-circuits and supermen would be really profane if it were spelled out in words!

In this set of inferences drawn by the camera's recording of light and shade we have a map of where the motion picture is going, and how it gets there and whom it gets there for.

The poets sing for the reviewers of the literary supplements. The novelists write for the circulating library and the minority who have enough imagination to make their own pictures out of words. The costly, expensive and wasteful stage serves the metropolitan few, and the Opera is but a withered flower of a medieval art that died.

But the motion picture, encompassing all of the powers of all the older arts, brings to the millions invitation to excursions into the land of heart's desire—it is the prayer wheel of the wish.—TERRY RAMSAYE.

A THEATRE ARCHITECT VISITS EUROPE

By S. CHARLES LEE

And now off to Vienna and Berlin — a report with which we reluctantly conclude this sparkling series

VARIOUS GERMAN dialects are spoken throughout Austria. Not that this makes any difference to me, because I can recite the one German poem that I know in my own dialect and they can either understand it or not without adding the least to my discomfort. The important thing is that German is the basic language, and the written German constitutes their newspapers and advertisements.

The first thing the traveler wants to do in Austria, if he comes by way of Italy, is eat. After guzzling spaghetti in all its various forms for a few weeks in Italy, some good old-fashioned cooking without olive oil is the order of the day. It is needless to mention coffee—good coffee on the Continent is harder to get than good liquor in America. It seems that everyone has his own way of spoiling coffee. It's a league, and they must compare recipes, because no one could make coffee that badly without help. The Austrians, having been isolated during the war, must have revolted and now they alone make coffee that is drinkable.

To capitalize on this, Austria has many coffee houses built in a very reserved style with spacious, heavily upholstered side booths. It is customary to enter a coffee house about noon and select the booth best fitted to your purpose. The waiter, instead of bringing you a menu, brings all kinds of newspapers and magazines, and you can get periodicals printed in any language. The waiter then moves away and never bothers you for an order. You call him when you feel like eating and order what you like, usually without a menu. The waiter brings the food and does not leave a check or collect for anything except the pastry, which you pay for as you take it. When you are through reading and eating, which usually is about 3 o'clock, you call the waiter and he asks you what you ate, then charges accordingly. Never does the waiter approach without being called, and you can sit all day and night if you care to, play cards, in general, make yourself at home. These coffee houses get all of the matinee business.

Opera is very popular in Austria, and the motion picture is probably next. As Maurice Chevalier's "Love Me Tonight" was advertised extensively, I decided to see the performance. Approaching the theatre I was greeted by a marquee carrying no advertising except the name of the theatre. I walked into a large center foyer, which was about 60 feet wide and 100 feet long. In the center of this lobby were two branch lobbies, each about 60 feet wide, extending either side. In the centre of this Maltese cross plan was the box office. I was shown a plan of the theatre made in different colors. Each color represented a different-priced seat, and the price varied directly as to sightline. Side seats were less expensive than center seats, and the price changed on a grading scale. Likewise the price was lower near the screen. I selected the seats I wanted for the second show, to start at 9 o'clock.

I waited by the box office until nine. Nine-ten came around and no people came out. I waited until 9:15 and continually peered into the dark foyers that seemed to lead from either side of the entrance foyer. At 9:20 I began to investigate the back part of this foyer and found a pair of doors. Going through them I found myself out on another street and there was the theatre on the other side of this street! They should have had a green line so that a New Yorker could find his way around. I crossed the street and entered the lobby, where I was obliged to check my hat and coat at 5c per item. I then entered the auditorium and found myself looking into 4,000 eyes. The reason for this is that you enter the auditorium alongside the screen and find yourself facing seats.

I was directed to my seat without a tip. It was just as well that I was 20 minutes late, because the advertisements were still being shown on the screen. There was a

(Continued on page 60)

To the left is the author in his more usual role of architect, designer of many an extraordinary theatre, once more returned to his Los Angeles headquarters from the travels which this publication has been permitted to turn into instructive entertainment for an industry.

MODERN PROJECTION

PROJECTION • SOUND REPRODUCTION • ACOUSTICS

SOUND EQUIPMENT TODAY— AND ITS MARKET

By AARON NADELL

The second of three articles on technical and commercial developments of recent months in the field of sound

IN THE CONFUSED and tangled picture of sound, among the new opportunities, new possibilities, (yes, and new chances for mistakes) which have interested exhibitors during recent months, the question of the "service charge" seems to stand out. Mention of it arouses interest immediately. Possibility of reducing service charges, or of eliminating them altogether, seems to appeal to exhibitors more strongly than any other change now open to them.

It is an attitude, as will be seen, not altogether justified by the facts.

Service charges do not exist in a vacuum. They do not exist without reason. They can be called by some other name, but cannot be abolished. A fixed service charge can often be eliminated. Total service costs can, very often, be reduced. Some form of service charge must always remain.

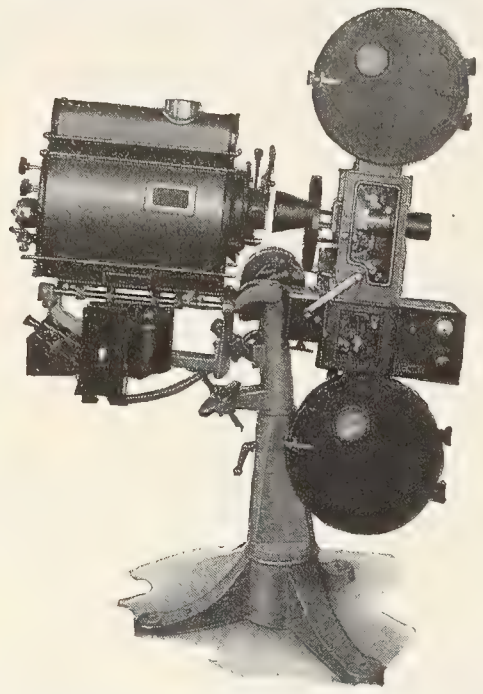
All equipment needs maintenance and attention. Someone must perform that labor, therefore someone must be paid for it. It may be the projectionist. It may be a sound technician hired for the purpose. It may be the service engineer of the manufacturer of the equipment. It may be a company of consulting engineers organized to render just that service. But the work must be done—and done competently—or the show will break down. The real opportunity offered by present conditions is the opportunity (in those locations where it seems advisable) to reduce the total amount paid for maintenance labor through the method of calling the service charge by some other name. The actual problem of the exhibitor is merely how he can arrange to have this work—by whatever name it is called—done most satisfactorily and at the least possible cost.

Service and Equipment

Although there is no direct or necessary connection, commercial practices of the past and present link maintenance labor charges very closely with the cost of maintenance parts and repairs. The reason for this seems to be that both have almost always been taken care of by the same personnel. But since practice relates the two problems in this way, it follows that the cost of one will be influenced by the steps taken with regard to the other, and obviously both will have to be taken into account whenever either is considered.

If, for example, the necessary service work is to be performed by the projectionist, he will be the logical man in most cases to select the type and make of parts and replacements to be used in such work. If the maintenance work is entrusted to a representative of the manufacturer of the sound system, then that manufacturer will most often sell or recommend the necessary supplies. If sound service is in the care of a salaried technician, that man will also be the logical person to perform the functions of sound purchasing agent.

IT IS, OF COURSE, in no way essential that the two functions of sound service and sound purchasing be performed by the same man. In many theatres today the projectionist takes care of the necessary maintenance work, and the manager does the buying. But in such cases the manager is nevertheless influenced in his purchasing decisions by the advice of his projectionist. It is possible in many communities to have the servicing done by a firm of engineering consultants and still leave the purchasing in the hands of the manager or the projectionist. But under this arrangement also the recommendation of the men who actually do the service work carries the heaviest weight. It is obvious that the method of obtaining parts will always have an important bearing upon whatever arrangements are made to secure performance of the necessary service work. These are not two separate problems, but related and interlocked problems.



Economies are possible in connection with service work. Economies are also possible in connection with the purchase of parts. The practical question to be decided is which arrangement, covering both of these factors, will result in the greatest net saving, consistent with a good standard of quality and a high margin of safety for the show.

Service Methods and New Equipment

Installation of modern equipment, or modernizing of old, may or may not be desirable, according to circumstances. That is a question to be considered more fully later in this discussion. At the present moment, interest in the question of modern or modernized equipment may be confined to the fact that that consideration also, as well as the matter of purchase of routine supplies, has an important bearing upon whatever decision may be made on the subject of service methods.

It is, for example, logical to suppose that the latest and simplest types of apparatus may require less servicing than the earlier, and in some ways more cumbersome models. Practically all the newer equipment operates directly from a power line and requires neither batteries nor motor-generators. In many cases, the projector drive mechanism has been greatly simplified. Amplifiers are more compact, with fewer switching arrangements and less intricate wiring between panels. For any given power the equipment in general is smaller as well as simpler. And the benefits, not only of the latest improvements of the laboratory, but also of some years of experience with sound equipment in practical

SUPERIOR PROJECTOR

NEW MODEL 'U'
—AT 1933 PRICES—

The OUTSTANDING PROJECTOR for Durability, Low Cost of Maintenance, Operating Performance, Screen and Sound Results.

Universally adapted to all types of Sound Reproducer equipment, and without special adapters.

Rear Shutter, Double Bearing Movement, Improved Framing Device, and other refinements.

The Most Practical, Economical and Efficient Projector on the market today.

We invite correspondence from Reliable Dealers who are interested in a Proposition.

SPECIALISTS IN PROJECTION EQUIPMENT FOR OVER 12 YEARS

COXSACKIE HOLDING CORP.
Coxsackie Send for Details New York

IF your sound system is NOT equipped with

PROJEX SOUND LENSES

find out WHY

You are entitled to receive the quality made possible by this new formula

SLIT IMAGE PERFECTLY CORRECTED
—no distortion

DUST AND FOOLPROOF CASING
—permanence insured

NARROW SLIT
—reproduces high frequencies

Projection Optics Co., Inc., Rochester, N. Y.

theatre operation have been built into it. It is naturally to be expected that such apparatus will require a minimum of attention and repairs.

Regardless, however, of improvement in design, replacing present equipment with a newer type carries with it the same result, so far as service is concerned, as trading in an old car. The sound system that has been in use for some years will in many cases be approaching the point where extensive repairs to the wearable parts become unavoidable. Many theatres have already made such repairs. Some of the first to be installed are now coming close to a time when a second cycle of expensive replacement will be in order. Seen from the point of view of the service question, the installation of new equipment has the advantage of postponing the possible necessity for extensive overhauling to a period several years in the future. Moveover much of the new, highly simplified equipment should never need the very thoroughgoing overhauling required periodically by some of the earliest models.

FROM THE POINT of view of service, then, the newer equipment is likely to need less attention than the earlier types (only experience can confirm what is now no more than a probability), while installing it defers, at least, if it does not altogether avoid, the call for expensive repair work made necessary by years of wear.

There is, however, the other side of the picture. It is likely enough that the later models will need less servicing than the earlier models even later on. But for the immediate future, the apparatus is new. Whatever flaws it may have—of the kind that can only be revealed by the strain of long-continued operation under practical projection room conditions—remain to be discovered. The proper methods of dealing with them remain to be discovered. For the time being, servicing the newer equipment may call for greater initiative and broader training than servicing the old. The use of the manufacturer's own service staff, enjoying the support of the laboratory in which the apparatus was designed, or the use of a sound technician of a high degree of competence may, for some while to come, be of much greater importance in the case of new equipment than of that with which everyone concerned has had ample time to become thoroughly familiar.

Those recent developments which offer new opportunities to the exhibitor with respect to service work are then to be considered in the light of three interrelated questions:

1. Necessary maintenance work must be done. What is the most satisfactory and economical method of providing it?
2. Maintenance and replacement supplies must be bought. What is the most economical and satisfactory method of purchasing them?
3. New or modernized equipment may be desirable. How does that possibility react with the two previous considerations?

The practical courses open to the exhibitor are (a) service by the manufacturer of the equipment, (b) service by a salaried technician, (c) service by the projectionist, (d) service by consultants.

These possibilities, as will be seen, are not mutually exclusive. The manufacturer of the equipment may, and in many cases will, offer more than one kind of service, sometimes at a very considerable variation in rate. Most often it is the projectionist who takes over that portion of the work which the manufacturer abandons. Or again, service by the projectionist by no means excludes use of engineering consultants for special problems. Some of the many interlocking possibilities may become clearer when each method is described in greater detail below.

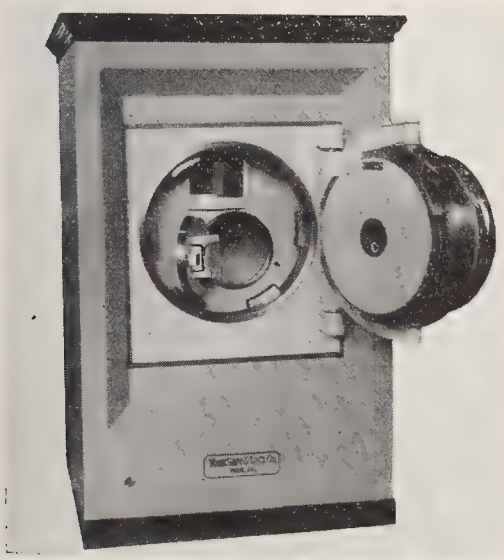
Service by the manufacturer has been a very common practice in the past, and often under a fixed contractual arrangement. According to the most common form of such contracts, all service responsibility rests with the manufacturer of the equipment who also furnishes (and bills the theatre for) whatever supplies may be needed, and whose shops do the necessary repair work. Other theatres, serviced by the manufacturer of the equipment under very similar conditions, interpret their contract to harmonize with the purchase of some of their supplies from other sources.

Still other theatres operate under an arrangement that permits them to call upon the manufacturer's service department whenever they wish, based on an established service charge for each service visit, but without any fixed number of service calls and without any obligatory periodical service fee.

A more recent arrangement is a modification of the first method described, under which both the periodical service and all necessary parts and repairs are furnished by the manufacturer at a single fee, very little larger than the service charge alone.

Projectionist as Service Man

No matter what service arrangements are made the projectionist always has a large share in the responsibility. In many cases it will be advantageous to let him have all of it. No additional service fee is required. The projectionist in many theatres does a large part of the actual work of making repairs. In all theatres he will do the greater part of the work of routine inspection. His opinion as to how well apparatus and supplies have performed in actual service must under any arrangement be an important factor in guiding the activities of the actual purchasing agent. No one else can do these things as well as the projectionist. He is the man who lives with the equipment, who sees it and hears it every minute it is in operation.



In many theatres today the projectionist adds to these responsibilities full power of decision, or at least a veto power, in the purchase of supplies. In many he undertakes full responsibility for detailed inspection and routine repairs and in addition, recommends steps of modernization or other modifications of the equipment. He does these things whether the theatre uses a manufacturer's service or not, whether it retains a sound engineer or not. The present trend seems to be to allot larger and larger portions of service responsibility to the projectionist, as fast as he seems willing and able to absorb them.

Projectionist responsibility for service affords the maximum concentration of all responsibility for operation and operating economy. When the man who operates a machine also keeps it in good order, buys the supplies it needs and recommends what changes should be made in it from time to time, there can be no possible question of where credit belongs when things go well or where the blame belongs when things go badly.

If, however, the projectionist, as is sometimes the case, is unwilling or perhaps unable to take full responsibility, it is still possible to combine the benefits of service by the projectionist with the benefits of a partial use of some other means of service. A fairly large group of theatres can leave routine service problems in the projectionist's hands and retain a very small staff of engineers to deal with unusual cases. In many theatres the projectionist is responsible for the normal routine of service work, but the manufacturer's service engineer is called in to help in matters of exceptional difficulty. Where the projectionist has an important voice in the choice of supplies, it is still a common practice to limit his responsibility to that of naming acceptable makes and types of apparatus —out of the list furnished by him as suitable for use the manager or his representative then selects that make or type which can be obtained at the lowest price. The tendency seems to be to confine maintenance responsibility to the projectionist, sometimes entirely, but most often upon terms that will give him special engineering help in special problems, and that will cause him to share with the manager the responsibility for economical purchasing.

[In his concluding article in this series, to appear in the May 6th issue, Mr. Nadell will discuss methods available today for modernization of the projection-sound facilities, and the factors determining cost.]

Safe recently developed by the York Safe and Lock Company, designed primarily as a protection against the daylight holdup. It is fitted with a revolving type depository unit and receiving compartment. By rotating this revolving drum about 180°, the bag falls into the compartment below. There is no direct opening from outside to inside of compartment.

GET OUT AND STAY OUT OF THE RED

Sound-wise exhibitors are pulling themselves out of the red by eliminating excessive weekly payments and service charges by the installation of Le ROY sound equipment.

Yes, Mr. Exhibitor, Le ROY engineers long ago visualized the present exacting requirements for reproduction of high fidelity and wide range recordings. Consequently, it has never been necessary to revise the design to keep pace with the improvements in sound recordings. Le ROY is always several jumps ahead. The simplicity and ruggedness of Le ROY equipment makes replacement of parts practically unnecessary.

The money saved by the use of our equipment will soon liquidate the investment. Absolute satisfaction guaranteed.

Le ROY MASTER MODEL SOUND HEADS for Simplex, Powers, Kaplan, and Superior Projectors. Also complete sound equipment for Holmes Portable.

THERE IS A DISTRIBUTOR OF OUR EQUIPMENT IN YOUR TERRITORY.

LE ROY SOUND EQUIPMENT CORP.

421 LYELL AVENUE, ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

P. S.—Mr. Sound-wise Exhibitor, may we ask that you write us for a reproduction of an ad that one of our distributors ran in THE REEL JOURNAL? . . .It's entertaining and enlightening.

"Use NORIS Carbons for better Performance"

A NEW CARBON
for the "New Deal"

NORIS has perfected a specially built NEGATIVE for their

HI-LO and HI-INTENSITY PROJECTION CARBONS

—featuring—

- UNSURPASSED LIGHT
- LONGER BURNING HOURS
- LESS AMPERAGE REQUIRED
- AND LOWER COST

A sample of this new Carbon will be sent on request

NORIS CARBON COMPANY, Inc.
160 FIFTH AVENUE
Mohawk Building New York, N. Y.

MATERIEL CINEMATOGRAPHIQUE ETABLISSEMENTS ANDRÉ DEBRIE PARIS

The SILENT SUPER PARVO CAMERA Has Arrived

CAMERAS · PRINTERS · DEVELOPING MACHINES · LABORATORY EQUIPMENT
PORTABLE SOUND PROJECTORS · · · EDITING MACHINES

ANDRE DEBRIE INC.
115 WEST 45th STREET · · NEW YORK

F. H. RICHARDSON'S COMMENT

• • AND ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES •

THE PROBLEM OF SCREEN ILLUMINATION

A SOUTHERN Illinois exhibitor (who requests that his name and location not be published, writes, "I have for years found your writings interesting and highly valuable, and from your advice I have been able to check up on many things and not only improve my shows (I own three of them), but also reduce expenses quite a lot. I have always had the feeling that you were one upon whose advice we might depend in the sense that the advice is always honestly given. You have made mistakes, but always you have admitted them and not tried to side-step. Also, we fellows out in the sticks feel that your advice is never tinctured with commercialism, as is the case with so very many.

"And now may I ask your advice: We exhibitors in this section have for many years met at a little dinner once each three months. There is no organization. We just meet, eat and talk over our various problems. The last dinner was yesterday, and there was considerable talk of screen illumination. Some believed a certain degree of illumination was best. Others had other views. It was finally suggested by one that we ask your opinion as to just what screen brightness is best, and I was delegated to write you on the subject. Will you therefore advise me?"

First of all, may I be permitted to thank this good friend most sincerely for his words of appreciation. And now to the question:

It is indeed a big—perhaps the most difficult single question that could be asked, and a very important one too The matter is right now in process of investigation by the Projection Practice Committee of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers. I head a committee charged with the task of making measurements of screen illumination in theatres of various classes, and observations as to what seems to give best general results. It is a big job and will take time. What the final outcome will be remains to be determined. Meanwhile we may discuss some of the many problems involved, which discussion may be of some help to our Illinois friends, as well as to other exhibitors, managers and projectionists.

In the first place let it be clearly understood that any standard of screen illumination which might be set up cannot possibly be made to apply to all parts of auditoriums, especially wide ones, so long as metallic-surfaced or other narrow-angle screens be used. All such screens have fade-away in more or less pronounced form, and a screen brightness which would provide comfortable viewing in the center of the house would be progressively too low at varying distances on either side of the center. Incidentally it would seem time that the industry come to an understanding of the fact that, save in very narrow, deep auditoriums, only a screen surface of high powers of diffusion can give best results to the entire audience.

The best screen illumination is that which provides the clearest vision with greatest eye comfort for the greatest number of theatre patrons. There can be little question but that the greatest eye comfort will be provided by a screen of high diffusion powers. Illuminated to a value which will make all photographic detail contained in the film photograph visible to the eyes of audiences, viewed as a whole, and no more.

Viewed as a whole, however, contains a catch, because of the fact that there is a very decided difference in keenness of vision in different individuals, which fact seldom is taken into account by theatre patrons. Patrons entering a motion picture theatre usually come into a dimly lighted auditorium out of a much greater degree of illumination. They face a bright screen, or a screen on which are bright points. The result of that combination is that they are temporarily rendered almost totally blind to everything except the screen. They grope around and seat themselves in the first seats available. Even with ushers available, the average person seldom selects seats to the best advantage. The net result is that very often those of keen vision are found down front, while those able to see less well are farther back, perhaps in the rear rows of seats.

This condition, which is one the exhibitor is and probably always will be powerless to control, makes it impossible to lay down any hard and fast rule for screen illumination which will be universally satisfactory, even were there no other complications. Unfortunately, however, there are others aplenty, to most of which I have time after time directed the attention of exhibitors, managers and projectionists, as well as the Society of Motion Picture Engineers.

First of all, there is nothing even faintly approaching uniformity of printing density in the productions released, which condition forces projectionists either to be continually altering light values (not a practical thing to do), or having the screen intermittently either flooded with light or too dimly lighted.

Naturally, in order to successfully lay down any standard of screen illumination it is first necessary that producers adopt and maintain some universally applied standard of printing density. That is a fact too obvious to admit of argument. The Projection Practice Committee of the S. M. P. E. is now endeavoring to secure action by producers along this line.

Secondly, there is the auditorium illumination factor to consider. Given a print of standard density the screen illumination which would be best in one theatre might be too high or too low in another, by reason of differences in auditorium illumination.

In considering this it must be remembered that the whole screen image is made up of contrasting shades of light. With that fact in mind it is not difficult to understand that any light reaching the screen other than that coming from the projection lens and falling upon areas thereof will in the very nature of things decrease the contrast values of the light shades contained upon those areas. Such extraneous light will not appreciably increase the illumination of bright spaces in the screen image, but will certainly tend to turn the darker shades into lighter ones, and thus reduce the contrast. This is so obvious that no supporting argument seems necess. We also surely must realize that with contrast reduced, the beauty of the picture also is reduced, and its smaller photographic detail made less visible.

And now I will spring what is, so far as I know, a new one (I am not certain I am right in this and would like to hear from the optical gentlemen): In the eye an image is formed of the screen image. If light other than the light from the screen enters the eye it of course will be spread over the screen image and all parts thereof. The question is, would or would not this light reduce contrasts the same as would extraneous light flooding the screen image on the screen. It seems to me it must be so, yet apparently it is not so. Just what is the answer?

Returning for a moment to the main question under consideration: Were we to illuminate a screen with 15-foot-candle (screen center, of course—with our present projection optical systems there is no such thing as even illumination all over a screen, nor can there be except at the expense of huge light loss), it still would be quite possible to illuminate the auditorium to a point where the screen image would only appear as a faintly defined object having little or no photographic detail. It then is very evident that screen and auditorium illumination are interdependent, and before any standard of screen illumination can possibly be set up which will be right for any individual theatre, all details of auditorium illumination must be known—including the exact value of extraneous light reaching the screen surface. Some problem, what? Any standard of screen illumination fixed with intent to be applied in all theatres, would, and in the very nature of things, could be nothing more than a compromise.

But we have not yet set forth all the difficulties to be encountered in such an attempt. There is the item of viewing distance. As viewing distance is increased, screen brightness must also be increased (picture size remaining constant) if visibility is to remain unaltered. This too presents another problem by reason of the fact that viewed with relation to viewing distance, increase in picture size acts much the same as does increase in illumination, though exactly how far this holds true is not, so far as I know, yet exactly determined.

Still another item of importance is glare spots. Largely by reason of 20 years of my preaching, their number now is materially decreased, but we still have managers and exhibitors who apparently have no conception of the highly injurious effect of such spots of light, or of the fact that they work steadily but effectively against the box office by inducing more or less heavy eye strain, as well as by reducing the beauty of the screen image.

To answer your question completely, Illinois, would require at least a year of hard work and entail a cost of many thousands of dollars. Even then it is extremely doubtful if an answer could be given which would enable exhibitors, managers and projectionists to determine the exact screen illumination best for their theatre. This is for several reasons, one of which is the varying reflection powers of individual screens, including powers of diffusion. It is not the light incident upon the screen which counts, Illinois, but the amount of light the surface will reflect, and that is no constant factor by reason of the fact that the reflection power of a screen today may be very, very much higher than it will be after an extended period of use, plus perhaps a cleaning or two. Coming down to brass tacks, leaving out everything except such information as it is possible to set forth at this time with confidence, we of the Projection Practice Committee are just now starting a work which we hope will supply a foundation from which a real start on this problem may be made. It is going to take a lot of time, however.

Broadly, about all that may now be said is, avoid glare spots of light as you would avoid a rattlesnake. See to it that no point of white light is visible from any point in your seating space when looking at the screen. If you detect such a spot, big or little, cover that point the very first thing you do. Don't imagine that because it does not seem to affect your own eyes, it will not affect the eyes of others. Eyes differ widely in this respect. A white frosted globe of indirect lighting fixture is such a spot, if it be visible to the audience as it looks at the screen. It may be a very bad one.

Secondly, see to it that as little light as possible from any point other than the projection lens reaches the screen surface, or any point close to it. Thirdly, keep the auditorium illumination as low as practicable near the screen. You may use considerable illumination further back, always provided no direct rays from the light be permitted to reach the screen.

Having done this, proceed as follows: From some production select a reel having as nearly as possible average density throughout its length. By this is meant that the reel should have no very light or very dense scenes, and that its printing should be, as nearly as you can judge, of average density. Project this reel, having invited as many people as you think proper to be present at the experiment, using the maximum screen illumination possible with your equipment. Then, having first made all adjustments necessary to secure normal results (this may possibly involve change of carbon diameters), project it again with somewhat reduced amperage. Repeat this process until the picture looks dull, or until some of the photographic detail is lost, making careful notes of amperage and results each time.

It then is up to you, in collaboration with your guests (if you think it best to invite guests), to decide which light value seems to be best in your theatre—remembering, however, that each week your screen will have slightly lower reflection values, which means that to maintain what you have established in screen illumination, your amperage must be occasionally increased a trifle.

It has been suggested by competent projectionists that it would be better to use a newsreel for making the foregoing test. Personally I doubt that, but the idea is presented for your consideration. In such a reel you would probably have all manner of bright and dark scenes and very likely a wide diversity of density of printing.

There, Illinois, that is the best I am able to offer at this time. It is far from perfect, but we hope some more effective way of handling such things will be evolved later.

A VERY CLEVER PROJECTION STUNT

THROUGH THE courtesy of the management, I was permitted to view a performance of the musical comedy entitled "Flying Colors," in the course of which a very clever projection stunt is pulled off. Having been told of this and assured that the projection room was so small that the projectionist had to stand outside, I very naturally rubbered around, but I was unable to locate anything except the usual way-back-up-yonder projection cubbyhole found in legitimate theatres—and still occasionally in motion picture theatres. Investigation disclosed that this whatchamuhcallit contained nothing but an assortment of spots.

The show started, and for considerable time nothing out of the ordinary happened. By and by, however, motion appeared on a screen, and a glance back disclosed a lens. At intermission we proceeded to investigate.

Just back of the rear row of main floor seats, beside the center aisle, we discovered a "projection room" approximately 2 feet, 6 inches wide, perhaps 5 feet long, and maybe 5 feet, 6 inches high. Inside this was one of the Simplex-Acme projectors, threaded with a small footage of non-flam film. The upper section of the operating side of the "room" was arranged to slide down and the projectionist, Brother O'Keeff, stood upon the outside. He had to! The whole thing was able to get past the authorities because of the very small footage of non-flam film used. I don't know how much, but it could not be in excess of 300 feet.

It seems the producer was stuck! He wanted to realize a certain effect that could only be achieved with approximately level projection. Finally the projection department of Loew's was appealed to for aid, whereupon Lester Isaacs, director of projection for the Loew circuit, got busy.

At one point in the stage proceedings the whole company came on, danced, sang, etc., and then piled on a farm wagon parked in the stage center. They were going for a hay-ride. Now the wagon itself could not be shown, since it is customary—in fact, quite fashionable—to have the wheels rotating, and these wheels were of the non-rotatable variety. So Mr. Isaacs made a projector aperture mask which blocked out the body of the wagon, leaving the faces of the riders visible when the motion picture of a road (taken from the front of a moving auto) was projected on a screen in front of the wagon. By golly, the illusion was great! The party seemed to be actually riding along a road.

Both the management and Lester Isaacs are entitled to plenty of credit for pulling what was, under those conditions, a new and most effective projection stunt. We thank the management for bringing it to our attention, and for the privilege of seeing it in operation.

A WELL PLEASED PROJECTIONIST

B. RABO, projectionist of the La Vista theatre in Hollis, Okla., hands us the following bouquet:

"Dear Dad of Projection: I certainly do keep up with the BETTER THEATRES and oh, boy, am I for it! I see where a number of projectionists are gasping for projection breath by reason of the fact that friend boss will not supply needed repair and replacement parts, which is (deleted) tough. I was once situated like that, but my troubles are now over, for I have a boss who will get anything needed to keep projection right up to the top top-notch, without a bit of argument over it. Isn't that nice?

"We are now on the fifth month without a stop other than when the power went flooey on us. Friend Boss, Mr. Watt Long, is tickled a brilliant pink to have things run so smoothly. 'Tight' managers might, with profit to their box offices, reform to the extent of permitting the projection equipment to be kept in first class condition. It means a much better show, and a better show means more money rolling across the box office window shelf into the cash drawer. Give the projectionist a chance and the money thus thrown into the projection equipment replacement pool will return very soon, leading other dollars by the hand."

Correct, Brother Rabo. Your manager has acted wisely and what you say is entirely correct.

VIBRATION ABSORPTION

IF YOU HAVE a motor-generator or other equipment which communicates vibration to the floor, where it may appear in the form of sound, you may absorb it by setting the machine on (a) thick cork, (b) thick, soft rubber, (c) perfex, (d) coil springs.

The first three may be obtained through your supply dealer. If you wish springs, which I myself hold to be best since they do the trick well and thoroughly and last indefinitely, I will be glad to supply you with an address where they may be had from a manufacturer who has had considerable experience in making springs for exactly that purpose.

Four coil springs 6 inches long, 3 inches outside diameter, made of 5/16-inch round steel, will absorb all the vibration of an 800-pound machine and be capable of carrying a much heavier one. These springs are ground flat on each end.

REAR PROJECTION AND SOUND

MERLE BURDETT of the Lyric Theatre in Casey, Ill., asks, "A situation has arisen which has me puzzled. Am passing it along to you in the hope that you will set me straight. The question is: Is it possible to put on rear projection, using sound-on-film? If so, how is it done?"

Yes, Friend Burdett, it can and is being done, but only by means of special sound equipment. You see, the film must itself be reversed in the projector, therefore the sound gate aperture must be on the opposite side from that used in standard equipment.

DUE CREDIT TO A GOOD MAN

IT SEEMS to me only right and just that men who have worked hard and accomplished much should have the "spot" occasionally turned in their general direction. They should publicly be given due credit for their work. I therefore take much very real pleasure in grabbing the spotlight with both hands and swinging it around until its beam rests full upon P. A. McGuire of the International Projector Corporation.

Mac, as we who enjoy his friendship affectionately address him, has been, is and we hope for many years yet will be, a very live-wire. He is one of those high tension guys who has done most excellent work for the International, and in doing that he also has managed to work much benefit to projection, and therefore to the men engaged in that work. How so, do you ask? Well, Mac has, as you doubtless all have noted, very often used the advertising space purchased by his company to spread the gospel of better projection, by which act both his company and the men using its equipment were benefited. And don't let them tell you different!

Mac has always been very active. He has worked very hard. One thing he did which had large value was evolving the "Better Projection Pays" slogan. He dug that up all by his lonesome. It still has much value.

For a long while McGuire was head, front and most of the body of an organization known as the Projection Advisory Council, from active work in which he now tells me he is about to retire. It is now to be used, I am told, for an entirely different purpose than that for which it was originally intended.

HOW TO READ METERS

GRATON L. KING of the Strand theatre in Windsor, Vt., wants to know how to read electric meters and thus be able to check up on the electric guy who does it and see that he gets all that is coming to him—maybe a brickbat!

Look on the meter face. There you should find printed the kind of units registered, which may be kilowatt hours or some other electrical unit.

There will be several dials. They read from left to right, thus: If there be four dials and the hand of the left one stands at 7, or between 7 and 8, then the indication would be that 70,000 of whatever units the meter registers have been used, plus whatever the other dials read. If the next hand stands at 7, the next at 5 and the last at 8, it would mean that 70,000, plus 7,000 plus 500, plus 8 or a total of 77,508 of whatever units the register records have been used.

Remember, though, no count is made until a hand has reached a number. For example, if any hand stands between 5 and 6, the count is 5 until the hand is squarely on 6, which may be determined by consulting the hand of the next lower dial.

In this I am assuming what is usually the case; namely, that the right-hand dial registers units up to ten, the next left hundreds, the next thousands, the next tens of thousands, etc. On some meters the dials are marked with the sums they represent, as above. On some meters they are not. That is the trouble, Friend King. There are so darned many different meters!

TRIBUTE DESERVED BY A GREAT WORK

YOU, I AND all of us well know of the really splendid work the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company has done in years past and gone in developing American lens making. Recently at a dinner in Washington, Dr. Arthur Louis Day, director of the Geophysical Laboratory, Carnegie Institution, talked at some length upon the achievements of the Bausch & Lomb Company, in the course of which a number of rather startling facts were set forth.

For example, during the late World War, when the whole stock of optical glass, most of which we had previously been obtaining from abroad, was shut off, and the stock on hand almost entirely gone, we, ourselves, jumped into the war and immediately required an immense number of lenses for the use of the army. No one in this country either knew how to make the many varieties of glass required, or where to get the necessary ingredients. It was a terrible situation, but Bausch & Lomb performed almost a miracle, for they learned how to produce something like 16 varieties of the glass required and saved us from what looked pretty much like a very bad situation.

In the course of his remarks the doctor said, "Optical glass manufacture is inherently a secret industry, regarding which at the time of the war almost no authentic information had been printed. In France it was a government monopoly. In England practically so. In Germany the industry was virtually concentrated in a single firm whose secrets were its own. Optical glass formula was never permitted to be known even in the plant in which it was made."

Yet in the face of these discouraging facts optical glass was produced to the extent of about 650,000 pounds, and it compared favorably with the best European product. All that is, of course, now historic, but unquestionably the work accomplished in perfecting optical glasses did very much to enable the production of improved lenses for the motion picture industry.

Bausch & Lomb has always been a leader in optical instrument production in the Western Hemisphere. Their plant in Rochester is enormous in size. In that plant I have seen enormous masses of molten glass handled like so much putty—masses weighing many tons. I have seen rows upon rows of machines grinding lenses automatically and with almost inconceivable accuracy. The motion picture industry owes much to the firm of Bausch & Lomb.

HOW MANY HOLES IN A SCREEN?

EVERY LITTLE while some department fan asks what proportion of the reflection surface is eliminated in the process of perforating screens, how many perforations there are per square inch, and what the diameter of each perforation is.

There are so many different makes of screens in use, and each screen manufacturer varies different types of his product so widely, that it would be a task of considerable magnitude to give a detailed, complete answer to the various questions. And even were I to do all the work incident to the compilation of a complete answer, it very soon would be neither complete nor correct, for the reason that not only do new screen makers come in and others drop out, but also the manufacturers alter their product, or introduce different types occasionally.

For example, right now there is almost ready for introduction to the market by one of our oldest, most reliable screen manufacturers, a new type screen which the maker claims will present a solid reflection surface, and at the same time have as much as 80% of open space for the passage of sound. This screen is described, in detail, elsewhere in this department.

And now as to the questions: The amount of reflection surface removed by perforation (average of all screens), is very close to 9%—probably a trifle higher if anything, but certainly not in excess of 10%. The number of perforations per square inch varies from 24 to 48 in different makes and types of screen, averaging perhaps 30 per square inch. Perforation diameters vary somewhat, but .05- to .06-inch will be approximately correct.

PROJECTION INTEREST IN THE FAR EAST

M. RANGASWAMY, whose letterhead sets forth the fact that he is chief projectionist of Globe Theatres, Ltd., Rangoon, India, writes, "I am very much interested in studying all I can about projection. Shall be obliged if you will let me know the titles of the various books you have written, where they may be obtained and the prices. I now have the third and fourth volumes of your books and now am especially desirous of studying sound."

I have invited Friend Rangaswamy to give us data concerning projection, theatres, projection working conditions and equipment now in use in India. We shall doubtless hear from him in due time.

As to sound books, there are only two of those which I have examined that I can recommend; namely, Aaron Nadell's book, and Volume 3 of my own Bluebook. Mr. Nadell's book is excellent and low in price. It is an honest work written by a man who not only knows what he writes about, but also (exceedingly important) knows how to set his knowledge forth in form understandable to the projectionist.

Projectionists will do well to look before they leap in the matter of purchasing sound books, so-called "trouble-shooting" manuals, etc. Some books are excellent—that is to say, excellent for engineers, but of very little value to projectionists for the reason that they are only partially understandable to any other than specially trained engineers.

AN OPINION FROM NEW ZEALAND

FROM THAT grand little country far away across wide seas comes a letter from one E. K. Brown, who frankly declares himself to be an engineer, which statement I accept as fact. Mr. Brown writes in to say that the "Bluebook School," the Bluebooks and my department are all flapdoodle, baloney and hocus-pocus.

After perusing Friend Brown's letter I am properly squelched and wonder how in the world I've managed to fool you all these years, including, by the way, a number of New Zealand men. Mr. Brown believes the HERALD should print not to exceed three pages of technical matter each week, which same should be written by engineers (presumably dropping poor me into the well deserved ash can!).

Oh, well, every man has an inalienable right to his own opinion, but for Mr. Brown's information let it be said that every trade paper yet published in this country (and there have been many) has tried that stunt and found it did not work. All such have died from lack of readers, for the very simple reason that save for a very few exceptions, neither projectionists, nor theatre managers nor exhibitors are technical men. Aside from an occasional article they don't want and won't read abstruse technical articles. To them esoteric formulae mean just exactly nothing at all, nor will the great mass of them take the trouble to look up the meaning. Instead they want readable information, suggestions, etc., and they want it in plain, understandable form.

Mr. Brown raises strenuous objection because I approved an answer in the HERALD's "Bluebook School" in which the statement was made that in producing power from electricity nothing but pressure (voltage) is used. Mr. Brown declares this to be an outrageous mis-statement of fact. He says "work is done and power is expanded, but nothing is consumed." He then proceeds to set forth certain figures in proof, and declares that power is converted into heat. He proves nothing is really consumed.

Mr. Brown is correct, of course. Admitted nothing is actually consumed, he is himself in error because of the fact that he has not grasped the true meaning of the question. The question was meant to bring out the fact that power production by electricity was merely a matter of applying or using pressure, that volume was merely the medium through which pressure (voltage) acts. If I had gone through a long rigamarole of words and made things very plain in accordance with Mr. Brown's views, many of the men would have looked at the question and wondered what I was talking about. As the question reads, I think they all understood exactly what was meant. I repeat: in the production of power through electric current only pressure (voltage) is consumed, with the notation that whether it is actually consumed or not is immaterial. It is converted into power, less some loss due to friction. Nothing else is "converted," hence within the meaning of the question the statement that voltage alone is "consumed" is quite correct, though scientifically minded engineers might object, as Friend Brown has done.

A NEW TYPE SOUND SCREEN

A. L. RAVEN, or as I now know him, "Raven, the Screen Man," is always up to some mischief. He has been in the screen business for a matter of 15 years, and to give him due credit, he has devoted a large portion of that time to very real study of the subject of motion picture screens and reflection surfaces. The "mischief" he is now up to, takes the form of something entirely new in a screen body.

I have just examined the new product and must say it looks very good indeed. It takes the form of sheet metal, Duralumin, by name, a non-corrosive, non-resonant metal. After preparation it may be stretched into a perfectly flat sheet of any desired dimensions. The metal is very light. Without the coating its weight is approximately 11 ounces to 4 square feet.

The new product is not perforated, but is, by means of steel dies, pressed into rather flat corrugations, which is, in one form, vertical and in another form horizontal. The amount of sound opening is determined by the surface character of the die, and Raven advises me a sufficient number of dies have been prepared to enable the company to provide any amount of opening, up to 80% of the total, desired by exhibitors.

The surface of the screen will be coated with a suitable light reflecting compound. But here is the thing that interests me: When the screen becomes soiled through accumulations of dust, etc., it may either be washed by the theatre staff, or better yet, it may be recoated with a thin white paint or alabastine, which recoating may be done a great many times before there will be any appreciable effect in the reduction of sound opening areas.

EXAMINATIONS AND THE UNION

ED WARENTJEN of St. Louis, Mo., asks publication of the following: "Regarding your statement in the January 4th issue, favoring examinations for projectionists, and your talk to men seeking to learn the profession, I would like to say that I have been a projectionist and moving picture machine operator for a total of 20 years. Quite an old-timer, Mr. Richardson, yes? I have cranked many an Edison, Lubin, Powers, et al, here and in surrounding towns.

"Now that things have changed so much and everything is new, I agree that it may be well to license projectionists, examinations to be on Western Electric, RCA and independent apparatus. The cranking days are over and the projectionist must know his business.

"But, F. H., what good are examinations when the union has the labor market tied up tight and solid and no one but a blood relation of some member thereof can possibly get in? I understand you are a member of the I. A. I ask you, is such a condition American and right?"

Mr. Warentjen writes more, but his last query is the gist of it all, and I shall attempt to answer him, as he feels no doubt exactly as do many others outside the union and wishing to get in.

In the first place, I do not believe any union restricts acceptance of new members to "blood relations," though it is only human and natural for men in the business to wish to give "their own" a chance to follow in their footsteps if they wish to. Right or wrong, that is how you will find it in just about every walk of life. No use quarreling with it any more than with the rain, I guess.

And now let us examine this whole matter of unions restricting the labor market to the needs of each case. Let us look at it in the cold light and reason and common sense. To do so let us take a case entirely removed from projection and the theatre. Let us also remember that this is written just as much for the employer as for the one who wants to enter the projection field. It most emphatically is not intended as a defense of union proceedure, but only as a reasoning out of the matter.

In the first place, it may be conceded that flooding the labor market in any field requiring knowledge, skill and energy means lowering of wages, and finally, a lowering of everything connected with that which is required to produce maximum results in the labor to be performed. That is a proposition too self-evident to be disputed, except by those who know little or nothing of such things. It is a one-plus-one-equals-two problem. Granting its truth we also automatically grant the proposition that for best results in work the labor supply must be restricted to actual needs, plus some emergency surplus. And that is the situation every wisely governed union seeks to maintain within its field. It must have sufficient man-power, but nothing appreciably more, if a healthy condition is to be maintained both for employer and employee.

Now let us consider a case in point: John Jones, a young man, wishes to take up railroading as his work. He waits his chance, finally securing a job as engine wiper—about as disagreeable, lowly a position as it would be possible to find. At this he works until he becomes a fireman.

Firing an engine is very hard work, and he must fill that position anywhere from five to seven years before promotion to engineer finally comes. John Jones then has served a total apprenticeship of perhaps ten years, all of it very hard. He has, we will assume, meanwhile married, established a home and perhaps raised a family. Should he lose his job he will be compelled to tear up his home, sever the associations and friendships of all his life and go to some distant point to secure a job at his chosen work, which is, in fact, all the kind of work he is trained for. Do you then believe the company for which he has worked so long, and let us assume faithfully, should have the right to discharge him except for very good reasons—very good ones indeed? Do you believe the union (Brotherhood) should admit a great surplus of men, each one of which is very naturally seeking the job of John Jones or some other member? Do you believe that?

Well, if you do, Friend Warentjen, I do most emphatically not.

[Further comments by F. H. Richardson on page 61.]

PROJECTION MART

Equipment News and Comment

LENS RESURFACING

● A service consisting in the resurfacing of projection lenses and reflectors has been established by G. O. Hansen & Brothers Optical Company of Chicago. The concern announces that it is prepared to give 24-hour service.

FILM CEMENT

An effort to produce a film cement which would meet varying climatic conditions has resulted in a cement recently put on the market by Rosco Laboratories of Brooklyn, N. Y. The company manufactures a number of projection room accessories in addition to this newer product, among them being lamp cleaner, film lacquer for sound track, lacquer thinner and fire extinguisher liquid.

BALLAST RHEOSTATS

● Ballast rheostats designed to sell at a reduced price for such equipment, have been marketed by the Metropolitan Electric Manufacturing Company of Long Island City, N. Y. The frame is constructed of pressed metal, arc welded throughout. The resistance elements are fastened between horizontal support braces of ebony asbestos. The resistance elements are made of a special alloy round wire, spirally wound.

The control unit of the rheostats consists of an ebony asbestos panel. Upon this panel are mounted the studs for fastening the incoming and outgoing cables, these studs being equipped with large sized wing nuts for easy hand operation. Below these studs are mounted the requisite number of step knife switches.

PHOTOCELL FOR METERS

● A photoelectric cell which requires no battery or other source of voltage has been developed by the G-M Laboratories of Chicago (Visitron). This cell, the latest of a full line of photocells, is designed for use with current indicating meters, for making light intensity measurements, and with sensitive electro-magnetic relays without vacuum tube amplification.

The disc in the cell is mounted in a metal case 2¼ inches in diameter and 7/16-inch thick. This case is hermetically sealed. Terminal studs for electrical con nections and mechanical mounting project from the rear to facilitate use in assemblies, instruments or experimental work.

BY WAY OF NEWS

● J. R. McDonough has been elected executive vice president of the Radio Corporation of America. He was previously assistant to the president, David Sarnoff. In a move looking toward the consolidation of RCA Victor and the RCA Radiotron Company, Elmer T. Cunningham, president of Radiotron, has been elected president of RCA Victor.

The Scott-Ballantyne Company of Omaha, manufacturers of air conditioning systems, has established headquarters and a showroom on the mezzanine floor of the Redick Tower Building in that city.

The General Seating Company of Chicago, has removed to the Manchester Building, 2035-49 Charleston Street, taking the entire third floor. The company manufactures theatre chairs and liquid cement.

Joe Goldberg, former projection executive with Paramount Publix, has opened a theatre supply store and repair shop for projection equipment at 823 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

THE EQUIPMENT INDEX

A COMPLETE CATALOG OF ARTICLES OF THEATRE EQUIPMENT AND THEIR MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS, ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY BY PRODUCT

Accounting Systems

BOOKKEEPING systems taking into consideration specific requirements of the theatre have been developed to care for the operation of motion picture houses. These may be had either in loose leaf form or in solid book form covering an entire year's operation. These systems are designed to cover fully receipts and disbursements, film used, tickets sold, etc., and enable the exhibitor to check with promptness and accuracy his daily, weekly business or the business for the year. Prices range from $1.50 to $7.50.

Easy Method Ledger System, Seymour, Indiana.
The National Theatre Supply Company, 92-96 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.
Chauncey B. Wolf, 345 St. Paul Place, Balitmore, Md.

▲

Acoustical Products and Engineering

PROPER acoustics is today a subject of outstanding importance in motion picture theatres. The introduction of sound films has necessitated the establishment of a more exact standard of acoustics than was necessary when motion picture theatres simply had the acoustical problem involved in orchestral and incidental music, because speech demands a more exact acoustical condition than music. In addition, the use of sound films made possible a range of volume never before possible, and made it necessary as well to reproduce carefully every shade and inflection of the human voice.

An auditorium that is faulty in acoustical properties is incapable of being used with any degree of satisfaction for sound films. Due also to the limitations of the recording and reproducing apparatus it is essential that the acoustical properties of the theatre in which sound films are reproduced shall aid in the quality of the reproduction rather than introduce added distortion and confusion. The problem of acoustics in auditoriums has been reduced to a science, and proper acoustics may be provided in new theatres or in existing theatres. Extensive research has produced types of interior finish which combine the desirable acoustical characteristics with excellent decorative possibilities.

The problem of acoustics in theatres has resulted in special consideration of them by certain manufacturers who have established special departments, headed by experts, to cooperate with theatre owners and architects in the acoustical treatment of theatre buildings.

The Celotex Company, 919 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
General Insulating & Manufacturing Company, Alexandria, Ind.
The Housing Company, 40 Central Street, Boston, Mass.
The Insulite Company, 1212 Builders Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.
Johns-Manville Corporation, 292 Madison Avenue, New York City.
Macoustic Engineering Company, Ninth and Euclid Avenues, Cleveland, O.
National Rug Mills, Inc., 2494 S. Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Union Fibre Sales, Inc., Winona, Minn.
United States Gypsum Company, 300 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Universal Gypsum & Lime Company, 105 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
Western Felt Works, 4029-4133 Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Weyerhaeuser Forest Products, Merchants National Bank Building, St. Paul, Minn.
The Wood Conversion Company, 360 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Adapters, Mazda

THE Mazda lamp adapter is a device for converting a projector using the carbon arc to the use of Mazda projection lamps. It can be installed in any carbon arc housing by fastening it to the lower carbon jaw. It will operate for both pictures and stereoptican slides. The device consists of a bracket, an adjustable arm and reflector located behind the lamp. Prices range from $10 up.

Best Devices Company, Film Building, Cleveland, O.
Monarch Theatre Supply Company, 154 E. Calhoun Avenue, Memphis, Tenn.

▲

Addressing and Duplicating Machines

IN machines of this type for the automatic addressing of house organs, programs, special promotional letters and other literature, as well as sales letters, there are two methods employed in making stencils. One is known as the typewriteable address card system which may be prepared on a typewriter, and the other is the embossing of names and addresses on metal plates. Exhibitors will find that addressing machines may be purchased on time, and will be given demonstrations without cost or obligation.

The Addressograph Company, E. 40th Street and Kelley Avenue, Cleveland, O.
Elliott Addressing Machine Company, 117 Leonard Street, New York City.
Rapid Addressing Machine Company, 117 Leonard St., New York City.

▲

Admission Signs

Refer to SIGNS, DIRECTIONAL

▲

Advertising Novelties

THE thing to be accomplished through the use of advertising novelties, of one type or another is the chief consideration in their selection. Among the popular novelties, however, which have been used by theatres for stimulating matinee business, building up juvenile performances or bolstering business on week nights are balloons, thermometers on which are imprinted pictures of stars, buttons, badges, pennants, confections, toys, etc. A popular children's matinee stunt can be obtained by giving away a variety of novelty toys. These can be had in boxes containing 100 toys ranging in value from 5c to 15c at a cost of $3.00.

American Book Cover Company, 225 West 34th Street, New York City.
Belle Art Mfg. Company, 30 West 32nd Street, New York City.
Brazel Novelty Manufacturing Company, 4005 Apple Street, Cincinnati, O.
Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, Theatre Premium Coupon Department, 105 Hudson Street, Jersey City, New Jersey.
Economy Novelty & Printing Company, 340 W. 39th Street, New York City.
Gemsco, 692 Broadway, New York City.
Henkel Edgelite Corporation, 900 No. Franklin Street, Chicago, Illinois.
The Hoo-Ray Game Company, 710 Cooper Bldg., Denver, Colorado.
Kamen-Blair, 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Edward I. Plottle Company, Scranton, Penna.
Pyroloid Sales Company, Athol, Mass.
Slack Manufacturing Company, 124-26 West Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
Streimer Ad-Service, 352 W. 44th Street, New York City.
Theatre Merchandising Service, 506 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Vitaprint Company, 729 S. Wabash Avenue. Chicago, Ill.

▲

Advertising Projectors

Refer to PROJECTORS, ADVERTISING

▲

Advertising, Theatre

Refer to THEATRE PROMOTION

▲

Air Conditioning and Cooling Equipment

AIR CONDITIONING in the theatre has already arrived at a degree of importance making it one of the necessary adjuncts of the modern motion picture theatre. Because in the theatre people are closely associated physically in great numbers, and for the purpose of realizing enjoyment, the atmospheric conditions of the auditorium especially must not be dependent upon the weather or on any other chance factor. Enjoyment of the entertainment is closely connected with comfort, and the popularity of the theatre is of course influenced by its effect upon health.

Air conditioning does not only mean facilities for cooling a theatre during the hot months, but involves distribution of fresh, clean air at proper temperatures and pressures, and without drafts in the breathing zone. This may mean that the system should be capable of functioning in connection with the heating apparatus as well as with the cooling facilities.

Local conditions influence to some extent the kind of an air conditioning system required in any specific theatre. Some could achieve some measure of good air conditions with equipment costing as low as a few thousand dollars. Others require more elaborate apparatus.

The cooling method in the more elaborate apparatus requires a refrigeration chamber, in which the air is drawn through water vapor, the water having been cooled by means of a gas compressor, the refrigeration agent being carbon dioxide or other chemical of similar action.

Adams Engineering Company, 119 W. 21st Street, New York City.
Auditorium Conditioning Corporation, 17 E. 42nd Street, New York City.
Carrier Engineering Corporation, Chrysler Building, New York City.
Clarage Fan Company, North and Porter Streets, Kalamazoo, Mich.
General Air Conditioning Company, Inc., 155 East 44th St., New York City.
B. F. Reynolds & Company, 609 N. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.
Scott-Ballantyne Company, 916-18 Redick Tower, Omaha, Nebraska.
Tiltz Engineering Company, 480 Lexington Avenue, New York City.
The Typhoon Air Conditioning Co., 235 W. 42nd Street, New York City.
United States Air Conditioning Corp., Northwest Terminal, Minneapolis, Minn.
Wittennmeier Machinery Company, 850 N. Spaulding Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
York Ice Machinery Company, York, Pa.

▲

Aisle Lights

AISLE lights should be installed on every sixth chair standard in zig-zag fashion along aisle. Lights are placed at sufficient height from floor to properly illuminate same without disturbing reflection to screen or audience. 10-watt lamps are generally used. Practically all theatres today are installing aisle lights as a protection and convenience to patrons. In recent months a number of instances have been noted where aisle lights have been cast as part of the chair standard itself, the practice being carried out in the more elaborate theatres when the chairs are built to certain decorative specifications.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
National Theatre Supply Company, 92-96 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.

▲

Aisle Rope

A HEAVY rope that is covered with velour usually, in green or red is used in theatre lobbies, the rope being connected to stationary or portable brass posts for guiding and handling crowds.

Mandel Brothers, Inc., State and Madison Streets, Chicago, Ill.
Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
Zero Valve & Brass Corporation, 634 Fourth Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

▲

Amplifiers

AMPLIFIERS are electrical devices for increasing the loudness of sound. Technically, they are instruments which increase the electrical energy produced in the pickups. They are used in all motion picture sound systems, public address systems, with non-synchronous devices, etc.

Amplifier Engineering Co., 47 Church St., Boston, Mass.
Bud Speaker Company, 1156 Dorr Street, Toledo, Ohio.
Canady Sound Appliance Co., 1776 Broadway, New York City.
Coast to Coast Radio Corporation, 125 W. 17th Street, New York City.
Herman A. DeVry Company, 1111 Center Street, Chicago, Illinois.
Federated Purchaser, Inc., 23-25 Park Place, New York City.
Full Range Laboratories, P. O. Box 112, Rochester, N. Y.
Gates Radio & Supply Co., Quincy, Ill.
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corp., 421 Lyell Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
Mellaphone Corporation, Rochester Theatre Building, Rochester, N. Y.
Operadio Mfg. Company, St. Charles, Ill.
The Radiart Corporation, 13229 Shaw Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
RCA Victor Company, Inc., Photophone Division, Camden, N. J.
Samson Electric Company, Canton, Mass.
S. O. S. Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.
The Webster Company, 850 Blackhawk Street, Chicago, Ill.
Weber Machine Corporation, 59 Rutter Street, Rochester, N. Y.
Wireless Egert Engineering Company, 179 Varick Street, New York City.

▲

Anchors for Chairs

THESE ARE KNOWN as expansion bolts, theatre seating style. The new improved anchor consists of an especially long tapered fin head bolt, conical cup, lead sleeve, washer and hexagon nut. For best results these should be placed into a hole ½-inch in diameter. It is suggested that one use a 17/32-inch diameter drill to allow for wear. The bolt is set head downward into the hole. A setting tool, which is a hollow piece of rod, is slipped over the bolt against the washer, and when driven with a few blows of a hammer, expands the conical cup which spreads out, increasing the diameter of the head of the bolt to the absolute diameter of the hole and thereby allowing no lead to be driven past the head of the bolt, and at the same time expands the lead sleeve into every crevice in the concrete. This feature makes this new bolt hold more, even though the hold in the concrete has been drilled oversize to make up for drill wear.

These bolts come packed 100 to the box, and are completely assembled with the exception of the nuts which are placed in a separate envelope inside the box. Assembling the bolts in this fashion, without the nuts, saves considerable time in installation by eliminating the necessity of removing the nut from each bolt. After the bolt is securely set in the concrete, the hole in the chair leg, is placed over the bolt and the nuts screwed down tight.

These bolts are made in ¼-inch diameter, in 1½-inch or longer lengths. These expansion bolts will hold chairs tight to the floor up to the breaking strength of the bolt, which is in excess of 2,000 pounds direct pull.

Ackerman-Johnson Company, 625 Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
American Expansion Bolt Company, 108-28 N. Jefferson Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Preliminary
Acoustic Analysis

Send me a plan or sketch of your auditorium and without cost to you I will examine same and advise you whether your house can be economically corrected.

S. S. SUGAR
Acoustician
5 East 57th St., New York, N. Y.

Chicago Expansion Bolt Company, 126 S. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
The National Theatre Supply Company, 92-96 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.
The Paine Company, 2949 Carroll Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Star Expansion Bolt Company, 147-149 Cedar Street, New York City.
U. S. Expansion Bolt Company, 75 Varick Street, New York City.

▲

Arc Regulators

AS THE NAME implies the arc regulator regulates the voltage at the arc through automatic feeding as the carbon is consumed and the gap between the carbons increases. The result of this automatic action is a steady light on the screen pronounced superior to that which it is possible to produce by hand. The arc control, as it is frequently called, feeds the carbons in an even manner. This equipment sells for about $125.

Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736-1754 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The J. E. McAuley Manufacturing Company, 554 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
S. O. S. Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Arc Lamps, Reflecting

Refer to LAMPS, REFLECTOR ARC

▲

Arc Lamps, High Intensity

Refer to LAMPS, REFLECTOR ARC

▲

Artificial Flowers and Plants

MANY PLACES in the theatre may profitably be made beautiful through the use of art plants and flowers. The lobby, foyer, auditorium walls and organ grill offer excellent places for such use. Many theatres are capitalizing the seasonal rejuvenation it is possible to achieve in the house through the use of plants and flowers. Much progress has been made recently in the manufacture of beautiful art flowers, plants and trees of all kinds. Not only do art plants and flowers provide a natural beauty in the theatre but they may advantageously be used in brightening dark corners and barren spaces.

Felipelli General Flower & Decorating Company, Inc., 311 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Oscar Leistner, Inc., 323 W. Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.
Joseph G. Neidinger Company, 57 Barclay Street, New York City.
A. L. Randall Company, 729 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Slack Manufacturing Company, 124-26 West Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Automatic Change-Overs

Refer to CHANGE-OVERS

Automatic Curtain Control

Refer to CURTAIN CONTROL MACHINES.

▲

Automatic Sprinklers

SPRINKLING SYSTEM located in ceiling which goes into operation in case of fire through melting of fusible sprinkler link by heat.

Automatic Sprinkler Corporation of America, 114 E. 32nd Street, New York City.
Globe Automatic Sprinkler Company, 250 Park Avenue, New York City.
Grinnell Company, Providence, R. I.

Balloons, Advertising

Refer to ADVERTISING NOVELTIES

▲

Banners and Posters (Hand-Painted)

DUE TO IMPROVED workmanship and quality of product theatre advertising by means of hand painted banners has gained renewed vogue in the past few years. Banners in many colors are now available on heavy poster paper, on muslin and in the form that is known as regular paper banners. The usual sizes of these banners are 32 or 36 inches wide by 10 feet. Muslin banners are made in the same width running any length the cost being around 25 cents per foot. The paper and heavy poster banners about 3x10 feet cost about 50 cents each. The banners are painted in oil color and are waterproof. A variety of colors may be included. All banners may be artistically air-brushed at no additional cost.

In addition to the straight lettered banners, illustrated banners are sometimes desired for big attractions. Banners range in cost from 25 cents per foot up.

Chicago Show Printing Company, 1335-45 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
Gemsco, 692 Broadway, New York City.
H. Dryfhout Company, 746 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Henry Jackson, 141 Fulton Street, New York City.
Morris Lieberman, 729 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Theatrical Poster Company, 823 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Duke Wellington, 525 W. 43rd Street, New York City.

▲

Batteries

BATTERIES FORM important units of sound reproducers and are generally furnished by the manufacturer with the sound apparatus. Non-synchronous devices do not use them, but synchronous methods must have them in order to eliminate the hum of the alternating current. Any standard make of batteries can be used, but it is always best to use the make furnished or recommended by the manufacturer of the sound apparatus.

Another important use of batteries in motion picture theatres is in emergency lighting systems which augment the regular source of light power as a safeguard against breakdown of the local system. They are installed for instant service upon such a breakdown, being placed in operation automatically. Besides giving the necessary power for lighting, they are capable also of affording the projector motors power for some time. Prices depend on the nature of the installation.

Burgess Battery Company, 111 W. Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.
Electric Storage Battery Company, Philadelphia, Pa.
Philadelphia Storage Battery Company, Ontario and C Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.
Willard Storage Battery Company, 246 E. 131st Street, Cleveland, O.

▲

Bell and Buzzer Signal Systems

PERFECT CONTINUITY of the performance depends upon bell, buzzers and signal systems. The projection room and the stage and the managers office keep in constant touch with each other by various systems of signaling, and only by these means can coordination exist. The ushers have means of signaling the doorman or director as to which part of the house to send patrons, and the ushers are informed by a seat indicating device where and how many seats are empty or filled.

The Holtzer-Cabot Electric Company, 125 Amory, Roxbury, Mass.

▲

Blocks, Pulleys, Stage Rigging

Refer to HARDWARE, STAGE.

▲

Blowers, Organ

Refer to ORGAN BLOWERS

▲

Bolts, Panic

A HORIZONTAL lock placed on the inside of exit doors which automatically releases on slightest pressure.

Vonnegut Hardware Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

▲

Bookkeeping Systems, Theatre

Refer to ACCOUNTING SYSTEMS

Booth Equipment, Projection

Refer to PROJECTION BOOTHS and EQUIPMENT

▲

Booths, Ticket

Refer to TICKET BOOTHS

▲

Brass Grilles

Refer to GRILLES

▲

Brass Rails

USED IN THEATRES in front of ticket office, for dividing lobby, boxes and for orchestra pit, and for many other uses. Plush covering is frequently used over these rails. Brass rails can be furnished in electro-plated finishes such as statuary bronze, verde antique, oxidized brass, oxidized copper, nickel plated, brushed brass, etc.

American Brass Company, Waterbury, Connecticut.
Daniel Ornamental Iron Works, 4435 W. Division Street, Chicago, Ill.
Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
F. P. Smith Wire & Iron Works, 2346 Clybourne Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Zero Valve & Brass Corporation, 634 Fourth Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

▲

Bronze and Iron Work, Ornamental

THE THEATRE today cannot be shoddy in appearance. Everything visible to the eye of the patron must be colorful and artistic—the organ grilles, all metal work on doors, railings, wickets, metal accoutrements in men's smoking rooms and women's rest rooms, etc. This bronze and iron work may be artistic in its plainness, or in the elaborateness of its design and mould, or again in the severity of the modernistic tone. Grilles can be made in any design or size, and one can also obtain bronze ticket booths and lobby frames.

American Brass Company, Waterbury, Connecticut.
Daniel Ornamental Iron Works, 4435 W. Division Street, Chicago, Ill.
General Bronze Company, Long Island City, N. Y.
Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
F. P. Smith Wire & Iron Works, 2346 Clybourne Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Zero Valve & Brass Corporation, 634 Fourth Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

▲

Brushes, Screen

Refer to SCREEN BRUSHES

▲

Bulletin Boards, Changeable

CHANGEABLE BULLETIN boards, which come under this heading involve the use of a grooved board on which are placed white enameled brass letters, white enameled die cast aluminum letters or white or red celluloid letters of various sizes as may be desired to work out an attractive announcement. The background of the board is usually covered with a dark broadcloth surrounded by a frame in mahogany or extruded cast bronze. The let-

PRICE APPEAL—AND WHAT ELSE?

The old adage—"You get what you pay for"—still applies. A good theatre amplifier is NOT what is termed a "Production Job." It can not be thrown together. It must be built like any other high quality electrical apparatus is built, by skilled help and have numerous tests and inspections throughout. Only by this means can a high quality amplifier that will stand up and maintain its quality be made.

Radiart insists on holding its high standard of quality in these days of commercial and financial chaos. In fact, today RADIART AMPLIFIERS are finer than ever before. However, due to lower labor and material costs they are lower in price than ever before, BUT they are not thrown together to undersell everything on the market.

DON'T LET PRICE ALONE FOOL YOU. YOU RIGHTLY EXPECT TO USE YOUR NEW AMPLIFIER A LONG TIME. BE A SATISFIED USER — USE RADIART.

THE RADIART CORPORATION

13229 SHAW AVENUE CLEVELAND, OHIO

ters are hung in the horizontal grooves of the board and the announcement accomplished through placing of the letters in their most advantageous manner. These changeable bulletin boards are made in various sizes ranging from 10 inches by 6 inches to large boards.

The Artkraft Sign Company, Lima, O.
Joseph S. Arvid Company, Inc., 22 W. 32nd Street, New York City.
Crystalite Products Corporation, 1708 Standard Avenue, Glendale, Cal.
Tablet & Ticket Company, 1021 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Cabinets, Film

Refer to FILM CABINETS

Cable, Motion Picture

MOTION PICTURE cable and other asbestos insulated wires occupy an important place in theatres, being extensively used in the projection room for the projectors, for spot and flood lights, switchboards, motor and grid resistance leads and the like. The two important features of motion picture cable are flexibility and immunity to flame and heat. Owing to the intense heat and possible danger from fire in projection booths the conductor must have the finest kind of insulation. Because of the necessity for constant changes of position for floods and arcs the cable must be very flexible and tough enough to endure wear.

International Projector Corporation, 90 Gold Street, New York City.
Kliegel Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Rockbestos Products Corporation, New Haven, Conn.

▲

Cameras

A NUMBER of cameras such as may be used by theatre owners in making pictures of events of local interest are available. A majority of these use the 16 mm. film while others may be obtained using standard motion picture film which can be used in the regular theatre projectors.

Akeley Camera, Inc., 175 Varick Street, New York City.
Bass Camera Company, 179 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.
Bell & Howell Company, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Andre Debrie, Inc., 115 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Herman A. DeVry Company, 1111 Center Street, Chicago, Illinois.
The Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold Street, New York City.

▲

Candy Machines

Refer to VENDING MACHINES and SCALES

▲

Canopies, Theatre

USE OF ARTISTIC canopies by motion picture theatres is general. Canopies serve a number of practical purposes. They offer theatres an excellent advertising medium while giving to the house an attractive and inviting entrance. During inclement weather they offer protection to waiting patrons.

Canopies are usually constructed of sheet metal and may be obtained in a variety of designs. They are furnished with glass roof or with steel ceiling and metal roof. Numerous interesting standard designs have been developed by marquee manufacturers especially for theatre use. These are easily installed and are shipped to theatres in convenient sections. Suggestions for attractive designs are available. Inquiries should be accompanied by approximate measurements of the front of the building where the canopy is to be used.

The Artkraft Sign Company, Lima, O.
Covington Metal Products Corporation, 17 W. 8th Street, Covington, Ky.
Edwards Manufacturing Company, 5th, Culvert and Butler Streets, Cincinnati, O.
Metal Products, Inc., 1434 N. 4th Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
W. F. Overly & Sons, Greenburg, Pa.

▲

Carbons

MOTION PICTURE projection carbons might possibly be considered one of the most staple products in the operation of the moving picture theatre.

There is no factor, indeed, which can claim any more attention in the successful operation of the theatre than the light which is used for projection, and quite a little depends on both the quantity and quality of projector carbons kept on hand in the projection booth.

Modern projection demands the best in quality in projection carbons today, and this demand is being met by the carbon manufacturers through their scientific and research departments with products that have kept pace with modern progress.

Arco Electric Company, 112 W. 42nd Street, New York City.
Bond Electric Corporation, Lancaster, Ohio.
Carbon Products, Inc., 324 W. 42nd Street, New York City.
Kliegel Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
National Carbon Company, Inc., Madison Avenue and W. 117th Street, Cleveland, O.
Noris Carbon Company, Inc., Mohawk Bldg., 160 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

▲

HYDRO-COOLING
BREEZE-COOLING

¶ Complete air conditioning for theatres. A system suitable for the smallest job or for the big deluxe house.

TYPHOON AIR CONDITIONING CO., INC.
233 W. 42nd St. New York City

Carpets

BECAUSE of the hard wear to which theatre carpets are subjected it has been found that there is no saving in the selection of cheap carpets. Generally, floor coverings and carpets should give an impression of stability and foundation upon which one may walk with security. A carpet that is fuzzy, light in color and overdecorated has a tendency to give the impression that it is not resting—but rather floating. Obviously this is an unfavorable impression. Carpet padding used under the carpet not only provides a softer and more comfortable feeling to the foot but reduces friction and adds many years to the life of the carpet by keeping it away from direct contact with the hard floor.

Carpets also should be selected with a view to the acoustics of the theatre.

Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, Inc., 385 Madison Avenue, New York City.
Charles P. Cochrane Company, Kensington Avenue & Butler, Philadelphia, Pa.
Collins & Aikman Corporation, 25 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., 195 Belgrove Drive, Kearny, N. J.
Decorative Arts Co., 300 W. Austin Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Hardwick & Magee Company, Lehigh Avenue and Seventh Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Mohawk Carpet Mills, Inc., Amsterdam, N. Y.
Roxbury Carpet Company, Central Street, Saxonville, Mass.
W. & J. Sloane, 577 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, 285 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
M. J. Whittal Associates, Brussels Street, Worcester, Mass.

▲

Carpet Cushioning

IN THEATRES, where continuous coming and going of patrons subjects the carpets in aisles, stairs and foyers to unusual wear a cushioning under the carpets has been found to add many years to their life. In addition to this practical advantage carpet cushioning gives a delightful sensation of richness and luxury which is important in creating a desirable atmosphere in the theatre. Carpet cushioning is a product made of finely combed, tufted vegetable fibre interlaced through a burlap backing or of animal hair felted under pressure. It is made in thicknesses varying from ¼ to ¾ of an inch. Carpet cushioning also has a bearing upon acoustics.

The Celotex Company, 919 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Clinton Carpet Company, Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill.
John Crone, 103 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y.
National Rug Mills, Inc., 2494 South Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
E. W. Sutton Carpet Lining Corp., 53 Sedgwick Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Union Carpet Lining Co., 18 Broad Street, New London, Conn.
Western Felt Works, 4115 Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Cement, Film

Refer to FILM CEMENT

▲

Chairs, Theatre

TO EQUIP a theatre properly, the first requirement is a thorough understanding of the uses to which the building is to be put. Having determined that, a seating diagram or layout should be made to insure the maximum seating capacity consistent with comfort, safety, facility of entrance and exit, compliance with local or state building requirements, proper sight lines, elevations and other mechanical adaptations and adjustments

The arrangement and width of aisles and passageways should be such that transient patrons may move about with a minimum of disturbance to those who are seated. For this reason, the number of seats in each row between aisles should be kept as low as is possible and consistent with the desired seating capacity. It is well to have not more than ten or twelve seats in a row between each aisle, although this number may, if necessary, be increased slightly. Many theatres, however, have established a maximum of fourteen seats.

The distance between rows varies between 30 and 36 inches. Experience has demonstrated that this distance is necessary to accommodate all sizes of patrons, and to facilitate entering and leaving the center seats of a row while others are seated.

In planning the seats for a theatre, it is a safe policy to plan for the accommodation of persons who are above the average in size, since seating that is too large does not produce discomfort. In the larger theatres, therefore the majority of the seats are 20 inches wide with an occasional 19-inch chair to fill in. An exception to this ruling is the seating for loges, which frequently is as much as 24 inches wide.

The placing of chairs in rows and the arrangement of the aisles, to make ingress and egress as easy, speedy and safe as possible and to conform in every way with the building and fire ordinance of each community, is another important point requiring careful thought and planning.

Talking pictures have injected another element into the problem of seating for higher efficiency, i. e., acoustics. The acoustical properties of the theatre chair are now very important, and for sound-equipped houses upholstered seats have become a necessity due to their sound-absorbent quality. Veneer backs and seats are likely to induce sound reverberation of obnoxious character and may easily mar an otherwise perfect acoustical condition. Therefore, in the selection of seating facilities, the subject of acoustics must now be given most serious consideration.

American Seating Company, Grand Rapids, Mich.
The A. H. Andrews Company, 107 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Arlington Seating Company, Arlington Heights, Ill.
Decorative Arts Co., 300 W. Austin Ave., Chicago, Ill.
General Seating Company, 2035-49 Charleston St., Chicago, Ill.
Heywood-Wakefield Company, 174 Portland Street, Boston, Mass.
Ideal Seating Company, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Illinois Theatre Seat Exchange, 1014 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Irwin Seating Company, Grand Rapids, Michigan.
Standard Manufacturing Company, Cambridge City, Indiana.
Union City Body Company, Union City, Ind.
Wisconsin Chair Company, Port Washington, Wis.

▲

Chair Covers

IN ADDITION to giving a pleasing and inviting appearance to the auditorium, chair covers serve the practical purpose of coolness and sanitation. An interior otherwise drab may be transformed into a cool, clean, cheerful looking place through their use.

There are several things that should be borne in mind in connection with the use of chair covers. It should be remembered that auditorium and balcony chairs as a rule require two distinct and different styles of covers. The auditorium chair should be equipped with a cover which covers the entire chair back while the balcony chair need only have a quarter back. This is because of the slope on which balcony chairs are placed.

Working from blue prints provides the most satisfactory way of assuring a perfect fit of the cover for each chair.

Chair pads for veneer seats are also obtainable, and there are also special chair materials which are intended to be used as aids to acoustics.

Allied Cloth Specialties Company, Greenville, O.
S. M. Hexter & Company, 2400 Superior Avenue, Cleveland, O.
The Hodes-Zink Mfg. Company, Fremont, O.
Windowcraft Valance & Drapery Company, 328 Superior Avenue, N. W., Cleveland, O.

▲

Chair Fastening Cement

CEMENT of this kind is for firmly attaching into the floor the metal pieces to which the theatre chair is bolted. Into a hole made in the floor, the metal piece itself, or bolt for its attachment, is inserted, then around it is poured the melted cement. In about ten minutes this cement hardens and holds the metal piece or bolt firmly in place.

When used in reseating, the old metal piece or bolt is removed, a new one inserted and the cement poured around it. Such cement can be procured for around $7.50 per 12-pound can.

General Seating Company, 2035-49 Charleston St., Chicago, Ill.
Illinois Theatre Seat Exchange, 1024 So. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Chairs, Folding

THE FOLDING CHAIR, solidly constructed, plays an important role in the theatre today. With presentation and the stagehand, and the need for compactness behind the scenes, the folding chair serves manifold purposes. The durability of this type of chair as made today adds to its value as a stage requisite. Many very small theatres likewise find the folding chair suitable owing to the frequent necessity of clearing the auditorium floor for other forms of entertainment. The folding chair combines neatness, durability and practicability.

Peter Clark, Inc., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
Clarin Manufacturing Company, 4640 West Harrison Street, Chicago, Ill.
Lyon Metal Products, Inc., Aurora, Ill.

▲

Change Makers

SPEED AND ACCURACY are obtained at the box office through the use of coin changing machines which in addition to their time saving facilities offer a valuable protection against annoying mistakes in making change to patrons. With the coin changing machines a light touch at the keyboard is all that is necessary to deliver the correct number of coins to the patron who easily scoops them up from a cup at the side of the change maker. Coins may be delivered either from the right or left side and these automatic cashiers as developed for theatres have been improved in recent months until now they are available in sizes which occupy only about 81 square inches of space in the box office.

In the handling of crowds the coin changer plays a particularly important part in reducing to a minimum delay at the ticket window, and some are equipped with safety locks to prevent short changing when a channel is empty. Fumbling of coins and the dropping of them is also eliminated.

SUN-ARC CARBONS FOR PERFECT PROJECTION
"Best by Test"
BIG SAVING—COMPLETE SATISFACTION
BETTER LIGHT—SLOWER BURNING
CARBON SAVERS (patent pending) free of charge (2 Savers for each Theatre)
Burn Hilow and High Intensity down to 2 inches and less.
CARBONS FURNISHED READY FOR USE WITH THE SAVER. No inconvenience whatsoever for the operator.
HIGH INTENSITY CARBONS 13.6 are furnished 22 inches long.
They burn 8 minutes to one inch as compared with 4¾ and 5¼ minutes respectively, of other brands.
Hilow Carbons (for 60-85 amps) are precratered.
They deliver 56 Lumens per Ampere, as compared with 51 and 49 Lumens respectively, of other brands
SAMPLES ON REQUEST.
CARBON PRODUCTS INC.
324 WEST 42nd STREET NEW YORK CITY

Joseph F. Arvid Company, 22 W. 32nd Street, New York City.
Brandt Automatic Cashier Company, Watertown, Wis.
Hedman Manufacturing Company, 1158 Center Street, Chicago, Ill.
Hoefer Change-Maker Company, 3700 E. 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo.

▲

Changeable Sign Letters

CHANGEABLE SIGN LETTERS are widely used by theatres in the marquee and have proved especially popular, because of the flexible manner in which they permit billing of a current or coming attraction. Changeable sign letters are generally made of cast aluminum with the letter part cut out. When used on the marquee these letters can be moved to make an attractive announcement. They are obtainable in large and small sizes and, in addition, numerals of the same character are also available.

Crystallite Products Corporation, 1708 Standard Avenue, Glendale, Calif.
Friedley-Voshardt Company, Inc., 761 Mather Street, Chicago, Ill.
Metal Products, Inc., Milwaukee, Wis.

▲

Change-Overs

A DEVICE for changing from one projection machine to another or from projector to stereopticon which is accomplished by pressing a button.

Apasco System, 3510 Greensward Rd., Los Angeles, Calif.
Basson & Stern, 749 E. 32nd Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Dowser Manufacturing Company, 225 Broadway, New York City.
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Company, 1049 N. Hermitage Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
GoldE Manufacturing Company, 2013 Le Moyne Street, Chicago, Ill.
Guerico & Barthel, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
E. W. Hulett Manufacturing Company, 1772 Wilson Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold Street, New York City.

▲

Chimes, Organ

Refer to ORGAN CHIMES

▲

Choppers, Ticket

Refer to TICKET CHOPPERS

▲

Cleaners, Film

Refer to FILM CLEANING MACHINES

▲

Cleaning Compounds

THEATRE REMODELING and rejuvenation go hand in hand with a general clean-up, to which houses are periodically subjected. In this connection cleaning compounds are available for use, not only for the exterior of the house, but for cleaning painted surfaces, marble, tile, terrazzo and mosaic. These latter materials, much in use in theatre buildings, may be brought back to a pleasing state of newness through the use of proper detergents.

J. B. Ford Company, Wyandotte, Mich.
Skour-Nu, Inc., 158 West 22nd Street, New York City.

▲

Clocks, Advertising

Refer to PUBLICITY CLOCKS

▲

Color Hoods

ARTISTIC COLOR effects on electric signs are possible by the use of color hoods which are available in six colors: ruby, blue, green, amber, opal and canary. The color hoods are made of fadeless glass and are made to fit any standard size lamp where they are held in place by spring fasteners, and are readily taken off and replaced for cleaning.

In connection with sign flashers color hoods are an important feature in achieving life and color to make an attention compelling display.

Curtis Lighting Company, 1119 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Reynolds Electric Company, 2651 W. Congress Street, Chicago, Ill.
Rosco Laboratories, 367 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

▲

Color Wheels

WHEELS to accommodate colored gelatine sheets for producing various lighting effects with spot lights or projectors, are color wheels. They are equipped for either hand or automatic control. Prices range from $2.50 to $60.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Rosco Laboratories, 367 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

▲

Coloring, Lamp

Refer to LAMP COLORING

▲

Composition Flooring

MANY PARTS of a theatre especially call for a floor covering other than woven materials, and often composition flooring may adequately take the place of expensive tiles, terrazzo, etc. Indeed, in some of the most elegant theatres, the new types of composition flooring, which is now made in raised sections and patterns suggestive of tile and other kinds of mineral flooring, have been effectively adopted.

Composition flooring is made by a number of companies specializing in this product, and all have their own processes. It may be said, however, that the basic materials are cork or rubber, and natural gums. For the coloring is added color pigments according to the design. The resulting mass is attached to burlap backing. Composition flooring comes in varying thicknesses, depending on the use to which it is to be put, and it may be especially designed.

Armstrong Cork and Insulation Co., Lancaster, Pa.
Bonded Floors Company, Inc., Kearny, N. J.
Imperial Floor Company, 59 Halstead, Rochester, N. Y.
St. Clair Rubber Company, 440 Jefferson Avenue, East Detroit, Mich.

No More Loose Chairs

FIRMASTONE

Permanently anchors loose chairs to concrete floors. Simple to use. Write us.

DRASTIC PRICE REDUCTION MARCH 1st
SAME QUALITY - SAME QUANTITY
Was $7.50
NOW $5.00
Per Carton F.O.B. Chicago
GENERAL SEATING COMPANY
2035-49 Charleston Street, Chicago, Ill.

Stedman Products Company, South Braintree, Mass.
U. S. Rubber Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City.
Zenitherm Company, Inc., Kearny, N. J.

▲

Condensers (Lenses)

CONDENSERS are single glass lenses, unmounted. They are made in various diameters from 2¼ inches to 8 inches in diameter; the 4½ inches diameter and the 8 inches diameter being used mostly in motion picture work. The condenser is located in the front end of the lamphouse to gather the rays of light from the light source, and bend them, or condense them into a spot of light on the aperture. They are made in different shapes, some being Plano Convex some Meniscus or Moon shape and others Bi-Convex.

Condenser breakage and trouble has been greatly reduced through the perfection and development of heat resisting glass which is tempered and processed to withstand extreme changes of temperature. This, it is declared, has been accomplished without any sacrifice of light on the screen and without impairment of photographic values.

Focal lengths for motion picture work are usually 6½-7½-8½ and 9½ inches; 5 inches, 6 inches and 8 inches diameter condensers are usually used for spotlight projection.

Within recent years there has been a development of what is known as the Parabolic condenser, which has made possible the gathering of more light, and a sharp, concentrated spot on the aperture of the picture machine. These Parabolic condensers have been developed for regular arc projection, high intensity arc projection, and mazda projection. They are a little more expensive than the regular type of condenser, but the results obtained are well worth the price. Prices from $1.50 to $12.

Aerovox Wireless Corporation, 70 Washington Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, Rochester, N. Y.
Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 Saint Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Fish-Schurman Corp., 230 E. 45th St., New York City.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Polymet Mfg. Corporation, 829 E. 134th Street, New York City.
Sussfeld, Lorsch & Schimmel, 153 W. 23rd Street, New York City.

▲

Cooling, Ventilating Systems

CAPABLE of delivering 35,000 cubic feet of fresh air per minute into every part of the theatre, cooling and ventilating systems are being adopted by theatres of all sizes. Systems of this type are reasonably priced.

They may be installed in various parts of the theatre, a common place being below the stage. Under this arrangement distribution of the air is upward, the air passing to the rear of the auditorium and dropping naturally to every seat. In theatres having an organ installed at one side of the proscenium the opposite side of the proscenium affords a good place for a cooling unit. A pent house on the roof at the rear of the auditorium, or on an elevated platform eight or nine feet above the stage floor level, are other manners in which the system may be installed to assure excellent results. In fact, regardless of the nature of the theatre, cooling and ventilating systems of this type may be readily adapted to it.

Manufacturers of this equipment maintain cooling and ventilating experts and offer a service of recommending the most efficient arrangement for the complete cooling and ventilating of a theatre. The systems may be installed without interruption to the regular performances.

Adams Engineering Company, 119 W. 21st Street, New York City.
American Blower Company, 6004 Russell Street, Detroit, Mich.
Auditorium Conditioning Corporation, 17 E. 42nd Street, New York City.
Blizzard Fan Sales Company, 1524 Davenport Street, Omaha, Neb.
Buckeye Blower Company, Columbus, O.
Carrier Engineering Corporation, Chrysler Building, New York City.
Coppus Engineering Corp., Worcester, Mass.
General Air Conditioning Company, Inc., 155 East 44th Street, New York City.
Ilg Electric Ventilating Company, 2850 North Crawford Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Lakeside Company, Hermansville, Mich.
B. F. Reynolds & Company, 609 No. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
Scott-Ballantyne Company, 916-918 Redick Tower, Omaha, Nebraska.
B. F. Sturtevant Company, Hyde Park, Boston, Mass.
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Corporation, 1915 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Tiltz Engineering Company, 840 Lexington Avenue, New York City.
The Typhoon Air Conditioning Co., 235 West 42nd Street, New York City.
United States Air Conditioning Corp., Northwest Terminal, Minneapolis, Minn.
Wittenmeier Machinery Company, 850 N. Spaulding Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
York Ice Machinery Company, York, Pa.

▲

Controls, Curtain

Refer to CURTAIN CONTROL MACHINES

▲

Costumes and Costume Fabrics

COSTUMES and costume fabrics for the stage must meet many demands, and for that reason this is a specialized field. These fabrics must be of unusual textures for glittering display behind the footlights or in the spot. The costumes may represent a nation, a period or a class, and such costuming must be the work of a skilled costumer whose knowledge of peoples and periods is unlimited. The fine costume fabrics are both domestic and of foreign make. Costumes are made to order, sold outright, or provided on a rental basis.

Dazians, Inc., 142 W. 44th Street, New York City.
Gemsco, 692 Broadway, New York City.
S. M. Hexter & Company, 2400 Superior Avenue, East, Cleveland, Ohio.
Lester, Ltd., 18 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
The Costumer, 238 State Street, Schenectady, N. Y.

▲

Covers, Program

Refer to PROGRAM COVERS

▲

Covers, Chairs

Refer to CHAIR COVERS

▲

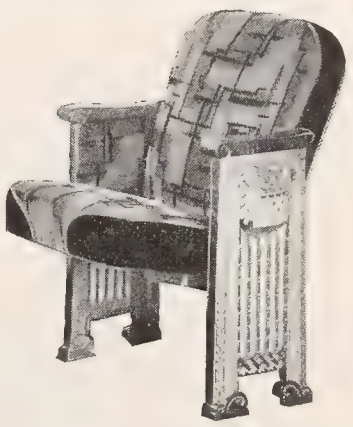
Curtain Control Machines

FEW THINGS leave a finer impression on the theatre audience than the smooth and silent opening and closing of the curtain. This is accomplished by curtain control machines which operate automatically. The curtain can be controlled from the booth or from back stage by the simple process of pressing a button.

Curtain control equipment consists of track equipped with cable and snaps to which the curtain is fastened. In opening and closing the curtain may be stopped at any desired point across the stage and may also be reversed at will.

The motor for operating the curtain is usually placed on the stage or it may be placed in the grids or mounted on a platform. This permits the machine, track and curtains to be flied in addition to open from the center.

Theatres of all sizes are now employing automatic curtain control equipment and mechanism of this type has been developed to a high grade of efficiency, contributing immeasurably to audience enjoyment of the program. The price of curtain control machines is around $225 with the track selling at approximately $3 per foot.



A type of curtain control machine specially designed for small theatres with tracks up to 40 feet in length, has been put on the market at a price considerably lower than that of the larger machines.

Armstrong Studios, Inc., 1717 Cordova Street, Los Angeles, Calif.
Automatic Devices Company, Samuels Building, Allentown, Pa.
J. H. Channon Corporation, 1455 West Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Peter Clark, Inc., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
The Econoquipment Manufacturing Company, Akron, Ohio.
Richards-Wilcox Manufacturing Company, Aurora, Ill.
Tiffin Scenic Studios, Tiffin, O.
Twin City Scenic Company, 2819 Nicolette Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
Vallen Electrical Company, Inc., 225 Bluff Street, Akron, O.
Weaver Brothers Manufacturing Company, 221 West Grand Avenue, Watts, Calif.

Must They Bring Cushions Along?

● Theatre goers are comfort lovers. If they drive to your theatre in automobile comfort, will they sit contentedly on hard, lumpy, worn-out chairs?

ASK US,
"How can I reseat my theatre economically?"

American Seating Company

Makers of Dependable Seating for Theatres and Auditoriums
General Offices: Grand Rapids, Michigan BRANCHES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

Curtain Tracks

THE TYPE OF curtain track installed is important for several reasons. It cannot be a makeshift affair, for if it is it may ruin an otherwise good program. Naturally, it must be noiseless and must function smoothly and with little or no effort. A moving curtain attracts attention, therefore that motion must not be accompanied by vibration.

Acme Stage Equipment Company, 191 Lafayette Street, New York City.
Armstrong Studios, Inc., 1717 Cordova Street, Los Angeles, Calif.
Automatic Devices Company, Allentown, Pa.
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc., 132 W. 44th Street, New York City.
J. H. Channon Corporation, 1455 West Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
J. R. Clancy, 1010 W. Belden Avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.
Peter Clark, Inc., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
Klemm Manufacturing Corporation, 1455 West Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Twin City Scenic Company, 2819 Nicollett Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
U. S. Scenic Studios, Inc., Film Exchange Building, Omaha, Nebr.
Perkins Curtain Carrier Company, Waterloo, Ia.
Vallen Electrical Company, Inc., 225 Bluff Street, Akron, O.
Volland Scenic Studios, Inc., 3737 Cass Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Curtains, Fireproof

LAWS IN MOST states now require an asbestos curtain on the stage. In some cases a combination of steel and asbestos curtains is required by the law.

Wm. Beck & Sons Company, Highland and Dorchester Avenue, Cincinnati, O.
J. H. Channon Corporation, 1455 West Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
J. R. Clancy, Syracuse, N. Y.
Peter Clark, Inc., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
Johns-Manville Corporation, 292 Madison Avenue, New York City.
Klemm Manufacturing Corporation, 1455 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Lee Lash Studios, 707 Broadway, New York City.
Tiffin Scenic Studios, Tiffin, O.
Twin City Scenic Company, 2819 Nicollett Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
Volland Scenic Studios, Inc., 3737 Cass Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
I. Weiss & Sons, 445 W. 45th Street, New York City.

▲

Cutout Machines

THIS IS A DEVICE for making various kinds of exploitation cutouts and lobby and marquee displays. The design for the desired cutout display is traced on ordinary wall board and with this device, the cutout is easily made by guiding the machine over the pattern. A small motor is use and the current from the electric light socket furnishes the power. The machine is convertible into a saw by substituting a saw blade for the chisel to handle harder and thicker materials.

A. & B. Smith Company, 633 Smithfield Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.
International Register Company, 21 S. Throop Street, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Date Strips

DATE STRIPS, being an inexpensive but nevertheless important theatre advertising commodity, frequently frustrate the efforts of good advertising through over-use until they become dirty and unattractive. A few dollars buys enough date strips for a whole year for the average house. Except for special uses date strips are available from stock in standard sizes. Prices range from 1c to 5c each.

M. A. Block & Company, 3111 93rd Street, Jackson Heights, L. I., N. Y.
Hennegan Company, 311 Genesee Street, Cincinnati, O.
National Screen Service, Inc., 630 Ninth Avenue, New York City.
Radio Mat Slide Company, 1674 Broadway, New York City.
Showman's Press, 416 So. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
Triangle Poster & Printing Co., 633 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Decorating Products and Service

THE THEATRE to-day has opened a new field for the producer and designer of decorative materials. No other building is as complete in this sense as is the theatre, for in the decorative scheme the theatre has found a factor which encourages patronage. The blending colors, the unique wall designs, the finely cut or moulded grille pieces, modern lighting fixture designs, gorgeous drapes, etc., all lend themselves to the theatre.

Architectural Decorating Company, 1600 S. Jefferson Street, Chicago, Ill.
Decorative Arts Co., 300 W. Austin Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Decorators Supply Company, 2547 Archer Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kantack & Company, Inc., 238-240 E. 40th Street, New York City.
The Voigt Company, 1745 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
H. B. Wiggin's Sons Company, Bloomfield, N. J.

▲

Decorative Pottery

Refer to POTTERY, DECORATIVE

▲

Dimmers

THE BEAUTIFUL lighting effects achieved in motion picture theatres is accomplished through dimmers which are capable of complete illumination control making possible soft changes and color blending of lights to create a restful and pleasing atmosphere. Dimmers are used by small theatres as well as the large motion picture palaces. They are usually placed at the side of the stage. In instances of smaller installations the dimmer may be operated by the projectionist from the booth.

The magical effect of lighting control and blending as achieved with dimmers is one of the outstanding features of the modern theatre today. On the stage and throughout the theatre dimmers give producers and managers one of their most effective means of creating marvelous effects which unquestionably are important factors at the box office.

Frank Adam Electric Company, St. Louis, Mo.
Cutler-Hammer, Inc., 12th Street and St. Paul Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Hub Electric Company, 2219 K, Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Reynolds Electric Company, 2650 W. Congress Street, Chicago, Ill.
Saltzman Brothers, Royale Theatre, New York City.
Ward-Leonard Electric Company, 37 South Street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.
Wm. Wurdack Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Disinfectants, Perfumed

THE NECESSITY of eliminating disagreeable odors in a theatre has led to the development of disinfectants which not only serve to eradicate the odors but leave in the room a delightful perfume fragrance.

A deodorant which acts as a solvent for the scale forming in urinals and toilets, is also obtainable.

The Huntington Laboratories, Inc., Huntington, Ind.
Rochester Germicide Company, Inc., Rochester, N. Y.
West Disinfecting Company, 42-16 Barn Street, Long Island City, N. Y.

▲

Doors, Fireproof

Refer to FIREPROOF DOORS

▲

Draperies

Refer to STAGE SCENERY AND DRAPERIES

▲

Driers, Hand

Refer to HAND DRIERS

▲

Drinking Cups, Paper

THE PAPER drinking cup, in its handy container, is an adjunct to the sanitary equipment of a theatre. In some instances containers are included in the cost of the cups. Where it is necessary to buy a container, the price will range from about $4 up.

American Lace Paper Company, 4425 No. Port Washington Rd., Milwaukee, Wis.
Lily-Tulip Cup Corporation, 122 E. 42nd Street, New York City.
Individual Drinking Cup Company, Inc., Easton, Pa.
Ideal Cup Corporation, 317 N. Wells Street, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Drinking Fountains

EIGHTEEN drinking fountains about evenly divided between the wall and pedestal type are installed in just one metropolitan theatre alone. While the house is one of the country's largest houses, the drinking water facilities provided easily emphasize the importance of this feature in any theatre.

Drinking fountains should be placed as conveniently as possible for the patron entering and leaving the theatre. In small houses at either end of foyer is a place frequently used. Whether the wall or pedestal type fountain is used depends upon space available, the wall type being used where space conditions are more limited. The wall type is designed with special decorative and illuminating features.

In the finer theatres drinking fountains form an integral part of the decorative scheme of the theatre, being designed in harmony with the balance of the surroundings and in conformity with the architectural treatment of the house.

Batchelder-Wilson Company, 2633 Artesian, Los Angeles, Cal.
Century Brass Works, 962 N. Illinois Street, Belleville, Ill.
The Crane Company, 836 E. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Rundle-Spence Manufacturing Company, 52 Second Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, Bessemer Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Voigt Company, 1743 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

▲

Earphones

EARPHONES consist of sound receivers attached to head bands and means for connection of the receivers to the main sound system of a theatre so that persons who are hard of hearing may hear the sounds of the picture as well as a normal person. These systems for the hard-of-hearing have made the talking picture as much of a source of entertainment to the person with impaired hearing as the silent picture was before, and through the device, the partially deaf person has been retained as a patron of the motion picture theatre.

The Fortiphone Corporation, 535 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
Hearing Devices Corporation, Times Square Building, New York City.
Mears Radio Hearing Device Corporation, 45 W. 34th Street, New York City.
Western Electric Company, 250 W. 57th Street, New York City.

▲

Effect Machines

EFFECT MACHINES are an integral part of motion picture exhibition, especially when a policy of stageshows has been adopted. The effects in lighting which may be obtained are almost phenomenal, are always a source of curiosity and pleasure on the part of the public. There is a wide range of prices on these machines, depending upon the effects desired. There is also a new product which not only produces the usual effect but a wide variety of others.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Chicago Cinema Equipment, 1736-1754 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Display Stage Lighting Company, 442 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.

▲

Electric Measuring Instruments

THE DEVELOPMENT and improvement in theatre lighting and projection have thrown onto the shoulders of the electrician, as well as the projectionist, many responsibilities. At their command are factors which make or break the show. With enormous switchboards to control, emergency lighting plants, motors, generators, arcs, dimmers, transverters, magnetic appliances and many other involved and sensitive electrical instruments, it devolves on the theatre to provide adequate equipment for their correct operation. In the list of necessary measuring instruments are ammeters, voltmeters, vacuum tube testers and the like. All these and others tend toward improving lighting.

General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Heyer Products Company, Inc., 197 Grove Street, Bloomfield, N. J.
Weston Electrical Instrument Company, Waverly Park, N. J.

▲

Electric Fans

THIS TERM is used to designate fans ranging in size from 5 to 16 inches, which are usually portable and are made in both oscillating and non-oscillating types. They are operated by connection to the light socket. Prices range from $5 to $35. Ceiling fans are also often desirable in theatres not well equipped for good ventilation.

Century Electric Company, 1806 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Robbins & Meyers Company, Springfield, O.
Wagner Electric Corporation, 6400 Plymouth Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Western Electric Company, 50 Church Street, New York City.

▲

Electric Pickups

ELECTRIC PICKUPS take the sound vibrations from records, transmit them to the amplifiers. The stylus (or needle) runs in a groove on the record and is caused to vibrate according to the groove made at the recording. On the phonograph this needle vibrates a diaphragm located in the neck of the horn, and these vibrations are amplified to audibility by the construction of the horn. Electric pickups are used to convert the mechanical energy picked up from the record by the stylus, which also is the armature of the reproducing unit. A fluctuating audio-frequency voltage is generated in the coil surrounding this armature, which is amplified either through the audio-amplifier (of the radio set) or through the amplifier of a public address or sound picture system.

The Audak Company, 305 E. 46th Street, New York City.
Best Manufacturing Company, 1200 Grove Street, Irvington, N. J.
Pacent Electric Company, Inc., 91 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Company, 1050 Clinton Street, Rochester, N. Y.
Webster Electric Company, Clark and DeKoveer Avenue, Racine, Wis.

▲

Engineering Service

THE ADVENT of sound pictures, with all the attendant problems and requirements has necessitated a special kind of engineering service. Men engaged in such works are usually known as consulting engineers and are qualified to act in an advisory capacity on electrical and acoustical problems as well as to supervise sound installations and operation.

Kendell & Dasseville, Inc., 6 E. 46th Street, New York City.
S. S. Sugar, 8 W. 40th Street, New York City.
Theatre Sound & Projection Engineers, 276 W. 43rd Street, New York City.
Theatre Supply & Service Co., 555 Eleventh Avenue, New York City.

Exit Light Signs

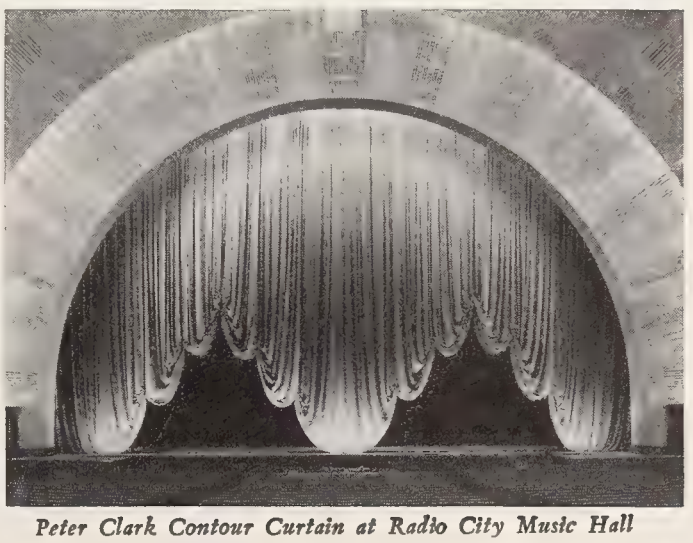
EXIT LIGHT SIGNS are required by law in all theatres, the Chicago theatre building ordinance specifying them as follows: "The word 'EXIT' shall appear in letters at least six inches high over the opening of every means of egress from a theatre and a red light shall be kept burning over such a sign."

Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 Saint Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Hub Electric Company, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Lu-Mi-Nus Signs, Inc., 2736 Wentworth Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Rawson & Evans Company, 710 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
Viking Products Corporation, 422 W. 42nd Street, New York City.
The Voigt Company, 1745 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

▲

Fans, Electric

Refer to ELECTRIC FANS



▲

Fans, Ventilating

FANS MAY BE divided into two classes, the portable and the stationary. The latter is the type commonly used in theatres. It is made in a variety of styles and sizes and is used for drawing into the auditorium fresh air or drawing out the foul air. These fans are mounted in a wall opening and in theatres can advantageously be placed in the front or rear of the auditorium and in the lobby. The motors operating these fans are usually supported by a bracket extension of the fan. The motor is generally enclosed to prevent trouble from dust or dirt.

The sizes of these fans range from 10 to 72 inches in diameter.

Ceiling fans are of a larger type and operate at slower speed. Fans of this type usually have four wooden blades and they

Peter Clark Contour Curtain at Radio City Music Hall

GOOD Stage Equipment
isn't
THE WHOLE SHOW
but it is a great
HELP TO THE BOX OFFICE

PETER CLARK, INC.

542 W. 30th St. "Stage Equipment with a Reputation" New York, N. Y.

SOUNDPROOF CURTAINS ORGAN CONSOLE LIFTS
★
STAGE RIGGING
COUNTERWEIGHT SYSTEMS
★
DRAW CURTAIN TRACKS
ORCHESTRA LIFTS
★
ASBESTOS AND STEEL CURTAINS STAGE LIFTS
★
CURTAIN HOISTS
MOVIETONE HORN TOWERS
★

are hung from the ceiling by an insulated hanger. The blower type of fan may be located over exits, under stage, at sides of projection booth and on roofs, either at front or rear.

While the importance of adequate ventilation in the auditorium is generally recognized it has been found that many theatres have failed in providing ventilation in lobbies.

American Blower Corporation, 6004 Russell Street, Detroit, Mich.
A. Hun Berry Fan Company, 28 Binford Street, Boston, Mass.
Blizzard Fan Sales Company, 1514 Davenport Street, Omaha, Neb.
Buckeye Blower Company, Columbus, O.
Century Electric Co., 1806 Pine St., St. Louis, Mo.
Champion Blower & Forge Company, Lancaster, Pa.
Fidelity Electric Company, Lancaster, Pa.
Lakeside Company, Hermansville, Mich.
The New York Blower Company, 3155 Shields Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Corporation, 1915 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.
United States Air Conditioning Corp., Northwest Terminal, Minneapolis, Minn.
Vallen Electrical Company, Inc., Akron, Ohio.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.

▲

Film Cabinets

THERE ARE various types of film cabinets having storage capacity from three to twelve reels per unit of various forms of construction so that the reel is elevated or brought within grasp by the opening of the cover. They are generally of double metal wall construction, so that should one reel become ignited in the cabinet, the others are insulated from this heat, and thus saved from any damage. Some of them are constructed so that they can be ventilated to the outside by means of piping.

American Film-Safe Corporation, 1800 Washington Boulevard, Baltimore, Md.
Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Neumade Products Corporation, 440 W. 42d Street, New York City.

▲

Film Cabinet Stands

THERE ARE various size stands which accommodate one up to three cabinets, and hold the film cabinets so that they are more convenient as well as allowing them to be moved about more easily for cleaning or relocating purposes. Some of them also make the film cabinets more safe by holding the film cabinet at an angle so that a reel of film cannot be laid on top of it.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Film Cement

A SPECIAL preparation for splicing motion picture film used in theatres, laboratories and film exchanges. Film Cement sells at about 20 cents a bottle.

Bell & Howell Company, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
E. B. Griffen, Oshkosh, Wis.
Rosco Laboratories, 367 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

▲

Film Cleaning Machines

A BLOCK containing pads which are saturated with a film cleaning liquid through which the film is run, dirt and grit being removed from it in the process. Prices range from $7.50 up.

Andre DeBrie, Inc., 115 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Blue Seal Products Co., 260 Wyckoff Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Consolidated Film Industries, 1776 Broadway, New York City.
Rex Film Renovator Mfg. Company, 73 E. Naghten Street, Columbus, O.

▲

Film Developing and Printing

WITH MOTION PICTURE presentations and local news reels offering novelty on many theatre bills, a great responsibility rests upon those developing and printing the films. Rapid service is required, yet the negatives and positives must be handled with meticulous care to avoid cloudiness, rain and other faults. Positives may be obtained in black and white and in several tints, including amber, red, etc.

Andre DeBrie, Inc., 115 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Bell & Howell Company, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Consolidated Film Industries, 1776 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Film Inspection Machines

PERFECT PROJECTION is impossible unless the film itself is in perfect mechanical condition. Today the public demands good screen and sound results and the projectionist can accomplish this only when proper inspection has been given to the film. The film inspection machines manufactured today are adding efficiency to this work.

Andre DeBrie, Inc., 115 W. 45th Street, New York City.

▲

Film Reels

Refer to REELS

▲

Film Rewinders

THIS DEVICE is used for rewinding films after they are run through the projectors, and are made in two general patterns, the bench and fire-proof enclosed type. The bench or open rewind is made in one piece types with the dummy and geared end complete in one unit, and others are made so that they can be clamped to a bench or shelf, while some are permanently fastened by means of bolts. Some are made with plain bearings and some have their spindles mounted on ball bearings.

The enclosed rewinds are made in various patterns, both hand drive and motor drive models. The motor drive type is generally automatic in its operation, stopping at the end of the film or should the film break. Some are made with plain bearings and some have their spindles mounted on ball bearings. Some motor drive types also have multiple speed ranges and accommodate either one- or two-thousand-foot reels. One type recently brought on the market also has a detachable grinding and polishing attachment for aiding the operator in keeping his equipment in first class shape as well as keeping his arc lamp in good working order.

Andre DeBrie, Inc., 115 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Atlas Metal Works, 2601 Alamo Street, Dallas, Tex.
Automatic Film Rewinder, Harrisburg, Pa.
Bass Camera Company, 179 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.
Bell & Howell Company, 1827 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Erker Brothers Optical Company, 608 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Film Inspection Machine Company, Inc., 33 W. 60th Street, New York City.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
GoldE Manufacturing Company, 2013 LeMoyne Street, Chicago, Ill.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.

▲

Film Processing Machines

A DEVICE for protecting the projector from emulsion of green film. It is placed between rewinds, the film passing through the waxing machine and waxing the sprocket holes while being rewound. Prices range from $15.00 up.

Andre DeBrie, Inc., 115 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Blue Seal Products Co., 260 Wyckoff Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Consolidated Film Industries, 1776 Broadway, New York City.
Malcom Film Laboratory, 244 W. 49th Street, New York City.
Rex Film Renovator Mfg. Company, 74 E. Naghten Street, Columbus, O.

▲

Film Splicing Machines

EQUIPMENT of this type is used mostly in film exchanges, studios and laboratories for the purpose which the name states. Smaller models are made for theatres. Prices range from $6.00 up.

Andre DeBrie, Inc., 115 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Bell & Howell Company, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Fire Doors

Refer to FIREPROOF DOORS

▲

Fire Extinguishers

THERE ARE for theatres four types of fire extinguishers: the one quart size hand extinguisher, containing carbon tetra-chloride; the 2½-gallon soda and acid extinguisher; the 2½-gallon foam type, and the portable carbon Dioxide hand type. Good ones of these types are manufactured by many companies. Instructions from fire inspectors should be carefully followed in distributing these through the

Decorative Arts Company
300 West Austin Avenue
Chicago
Whitehall 6494
Interior Decorating
Carpets
Theatre Chairs
Draperies

Embossed lobby display cards in various color combinations. Two color cardboard and one color paper date strips.
M. A. BLOCK COMPANY
3111—93rd St. Jackson Heights, N. Y.
If our product is not carried by a local dealer, samples and prices will be sent upon request.

theatre building. Prices range around $12.00.

American-LaFrance and Foamite Corporation, Elmira, N. Y.
Fyr-Fyter Company, 221 Crane, Dayton, O.
Harker Manufacturing Company, 121 W. Third Street, Cincinnati, O.
International Fire Equipment Corporation, W. New Brighton, N. Y.
Pyrene Manufacturing Company, 560 Belmont Avenue, Newark, N. J.

▲

Fire Prevention for Projectors

IMPORTANT equipment has been developed which it is said definitely prevents a film fire in the projection machine. This equipment is a safety control device, that is easily installed and which is operated on the regular line voltage. The main control unit and dowser are mounted on the cone of the lamphouse and act as the main light cut off, taking the place of the regular dowser. The dowser is operated from five distinct points of contact, covering every avenue through which a fire could start in the projector while it is in operation or at a standstill with the film in it. All contact points are very sensitive, and the dowser is instantaneous in its action, yet does not depend upon springs to actuate it.

Blue Seal Products Co., 260 Wyckoff Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Duo Manufacturing Company, 1049 N. Hermitage Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
N. A. N. Automatic Light Control Company, P. O. Box 207, Johnstown, Pa.
Pyrene Manufacturing Company, 560 Belmont Avenue, Newark, N. J.
Rosco Laboratories, 367 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Sentry Safety Control Corporation, 13th and Cherry Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

▲

Fireproof Curtains

Refer to CURTAINS, FIREPROOF

▲

Fireproof Doors

IN PRACTICALLY all states, cities and towns building codes require the use of fireproof doors in certain quarters of the theatre, such as the projection booth, stairwells, exits, dressing rooms, boiler rooms, etc. This demand on the part of the framers of the building codes has been beneficial to the theatre owner in many respects. In the first place it has effected a big saving in insurance. Secondly, and more important, it has safeguarded life and eliminated legal battles and accident and death claims. Before building every theatre owner should consult building code specialists and the fire underwriters.

Covington Metal Products, 17 W. Eighth Street, Covington, Ky.
Dahlstrom Metallic Door Company, Jamestown, N. Y.
The Moeschl-Edwards Corrugating Company, Inc., 411 E. Fifth Street, Cincinnati, O.
Variety Fire Door Company, 2958 Carroll Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Fireproof Shutters

AGAIN ENTERING into lower insurance rates are fireproof shutters for the projection booth. Such equipment in the modern theatre has placed the patrons beyond the danger line, so to speak. These safety shutters are so constructed that they drop when film breaks. Certain designs work automatically, while others operate through a release effected by the projectionist. The list price of the shutters range from $9.00 up, depending on size.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Best Devices Company, Film Building, Cleveland, O.
H. B. Cunningham, 964 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.
W. G. Preddey, 187 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, Cal.

▲

Fireproofing Materials

INTO EVERY FACTOR of theatre construction, there should enter fire resisting material. Through such construction, the exhibitor is safeguarding his investment and his clientele. Fireproofing compounds have been prepared for coating scenery, drapes and curtains and other inflammable materials. Today through the use of specially prepared wood, compounds, asbestos, cement, steel and other fire resisting material the owner may feel assured of the safety of his building.

Canvas Proofing & Striping Company, 925 W. Chicago Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Fireproof Fabrics Sales Corp., 2846 Emerald Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Johns-Manville Corporation, 292 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Macoustic Engineering Company, 782 Union Trust Building, Cleveland, O.
Universal Gypsum Company, 105 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
U. S. Gypsum Company, 300 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Flashers, Signs

THE SPARKLING life and motion characteristic of so many theatre signs is produced by the use of sign flashers. Sign flashers are made in several types, among them being the motor driven, the mercury contact, thermal and socket flasher type.

The possibilities for attention getting effects through the use of sign flashers is demonstrated daily in thousands of signs equipped with them. Signs employing flashers are generally used in connection with colored lamps or color hoods, the combined flasher and color lending itself to an almost endless interpretation of interesting figures and shapes.

In addition to the interest compelling action which the sign flasher injects in a sign, it is stated that its use effects a saving in current cost over the continuous burning sign. Prices range from $40.00 up.

Eagle Sign Company, 575 Albany Street, Boston, Mass.
Reynolds Electric Company, 2650 W. Congress Street, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Flood Lights

FLOOD LIGHTING is accomplished with a lamp equipped with reflector of parabolic form capable of projecting a light to cover a wide area at a distance. For night lighting of theatre buildings lamps usually range from 200 to 1,500 watts. These may be located on the marquise or at some other vantage point opposite or nearly opposite the building. The intensity of the light is governed to a great extent by the type of reflector employed. In general, there are three types: the extensive, the distributing and the concentrating. The former gives a wide smooth distribution of light for close-up work; the distributing reflectors provide a more concentrated beam for work at average distance and the concentrating reflector throws a long, narrow beam of light for illumination at long distances.

Claims advanced for the advantages of flood-lighting, aside from the obvious advertising value of this form of illumination, include a clean revelation of the architectural beauty of a building unmarred by signs or lamp outlines.

Frank Adam Electric Company, 3650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736-1754 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Hub Electric Company, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Westinghouse Lamp Company, 150 Broadway, New York City.
Wm. Wurdack Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Floor Coverings

Refer to CARPETS and MATS and RUNNERS

▲

Flower Baskets, Electric

Refer to ELECTRIC FLOWERS

▲

Flowers, Artificial

Refer to ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS AND PLANTS

▲

Footlights

MANY TYPES OF footlights are made for the average theatre. They are designed in the portable type, disappearing type, and the regular kind of permanent installation. Footlights can be bought already wired for various combinations of color circuits, in single or double rows.

Frank Adam Electric Company, 3650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Buckeye Distributing Company, 7016 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, O.
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736-1754 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Switchboard Manufacturing Company, 426 S. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
Hub Electric Company, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Wheeler Reflector Company, 275 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.
Wm. Wurdack Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Fountains, Drinking

Refer to DRINKING FOUNTAINS

FREE SAMPLE
ROSCO FILM CEMENT

Used by all leading film exchanges and laboratories. Recognized by experts as the best film cement on the market. Recommended by theatres all over the country. Works under all atmospheric conditions. Send for a free sample.

ROSCO LABORATORIES
367 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fountains, Ornamental

Refer to ORNAMENTAL FOUNTAINS

▲

Frames—Poster, Lobby

POSTER AND LOBBY display frames are manufactured in standard sizes. There are one sheet to hang and one sheet with easel back—three sheets to hang and three sheets with easel back—easel to accommodate a one-sheet and eight combination frames to hang and with 11x14 photographs. Another combination often used is one to take a 22x28 photograph, eight 11x14 photographs and date strip.

Photograph frames are also offered in standard sizes for five or six photographs, 11x14 in size.

Most of the modern theatres are having their lobby display frames and cases built to order to fit the recesses and spaces provided for by the architect. Manufacturers of frames and cases gladly furnish complete drawings and specifications for the theatre owner's approval.

American Display Corporation, 475 10th Avenue, New York City.
Libman-Spanjer Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.
S. Markendorff' Sons, Inc., 159 West 23rd Street, New York City.
Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
Reliance Specialties Mfg. Co., Inc., 570 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

▲

Furnaces, Coal and Oil Burning

Refer to HEATING SYSTEMS

▲

Furniture, Theatre

A NUMBER OF factors should guide the exhibitor in the selection of his furniture. Comfort and restfulness are among the first considerations. Upholstering materials offer a splendid opportunity for accents in the color scheme of the room. Over-elaborateness and that which breathes of the gaudy should generally be avoided.

All furniture depends upon the finish. A glassy varnish finish on any piece cheapens the quality of the framework. It scratches easily and shows dust more readily. A soft finish is always desirable, and this holds particularly true of gold furniture, which looks cheap unless nicely toned down.

Furniture for the men's room should always be of a heavy type, giving a manly and clubby appearance. Leather upholstering is quite proper. Women's rest room should be dainty and more genteel. Cane furniture is appropriate here.

The Ficks Reed Company, 424 Findlay Street, Cincinnati, O.
S. Karpen & Brothers, 636 W. 22nd Street, Chicago, Ill.
Mandel Brothers, Inc., State and Madison Streets, Chicago, Ill.
Marshall Field & Company, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Fuses, Electric

ELECTRICAL FUSES are intentional weakened spots introduced into an electrical circuit and designed to fuse or "blow" due to excess current caused by overload or a short circuit in the line. Thus the circuit is opened before the excess current can damage any other part of the wiring or apparatus forming the circuit. They are purely a protective device and require replacement when the non-renewable type is used, or the renewal link replaced when the renewable type is used.

Fuses are preferable type of protective device because of their lower cost, their enclosed parts, and the absence of moving parts. It is good business to keep extra fuses or renewals on hand at all times. A sufficient supply will prevent a dark house. The theatre owner should not experiment on the use of fuses, but should take the advice of a skilled electrician so that an overload will not result.

Fuses may be more safely pulled than otherwise if a fuse puller is used. This device may prevent burns, injury to the equipment and other mishaps, and it costs but little.

The Bryant Electric Company, Bridgeport, Conn.
Chicago-Jefferson Fuse & Electric Company, 1500 S. Laflin Street, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Gelatine Sheets

THE GELATINE SHEET, for the colorful and atmospheric lighting of stages, organs, sections of the screen and other features which take the spot, is as vital as the spot and flood. The best gelatine sheets are both durable and flexible, and are only slightly affected by atmospheric changes in the theatre. Cooling systems do not cause such sheets to fall limpid from the frames. The list price of gelatine ranges from 20c and up for 100 sheets. Any desired color many be obtained, either in the individual sheet or through combinations.

Central Import Company, 1656 S. Central Park Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Rosco Laboratories, 367 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Transolene Company, Barrington, Ill.

▲

Generators, Motor

THIS ELECTRICAL device is designed to produce direct current for the arc lamp on the projection machine, spotlights or double dissolving stereopticon. It consists of an alternating current motor, directly connected on a shaft to a direct current generator. Motor generators are made for every current requirement to deliver amperages from 20 amperes to 800 amperes.

There are 20 and 30 ampere outfits for reflecting arc lamps; 40, 60 and 80 ampere outfits for the ordinary arcs, and 80, 100, 150 ampere and larger generators for use with high intensity lamps.

Motor generators are made in two types, the series generators and the multiple arc generators.

The series arc is for use with two picture machine arcs. It is so designed that for the period of time needed to warm up the second picture machine arc, preparatory to changing from one picture machine to the other, it will carry both arc lamps at the same amperage without danger of losing the light on the arc lamp on the running picture machine.

Multiple arc generators are designed and built to generate direct current for many arcs. They are used in the motion picture booths where there are two arcs on the picture machines, one or more spotlights and a double dissolving stereopticon and effect machine. The multiple arc generator correctly built, will carry the entire battery or arc lamps and various amperages. The variance in amperage is controlled by the necessary rheostats.

Automatic Devices Company, Allentown, Pa.
Century Electric Company, 1806 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Electric Specialty Company, 211 South Street, Stamford, Conn.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Hertner Electric Company, 12690 Elmwood Avenue, Cleveland, O.
Hobart Brothers Company, Troy, O.
Ideal Electric & Manufacturing Company, Mansfield, O.
Imperial Electrical Company, Inc., Ira Avenue, Akron, O.
Marble-Card Electric Company, Gladstone, Michigan.
Northwestern Electric Company, 409 S. Hoyne Street, Chicago, Ill.
Robbins & Meyers Company, Springfield, O.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.

▲

Grilles

GRILLES IN BOTH brass and bronze are used in box office windows, organ grille openings, ceilings under balconies (usually illuminated), and in radiator openings in lobbies. Manufacturers of this item show many designs to select from. Can be bought in standard sectional assembly or built to order.

Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
The Voigt Company, 1745 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Zero Valve & Brass Corporation, 634 Fourth Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

▲

Hand Driers

WHAT IS KNOWN as the sanitary hand drier for the lavatories of theatres is an electrically operated blower type of drier, through which a current of warm air evaporates the water on the hands. Driers of this type are built of cast iron with a heavy white porcelain finish with the metal parts of nickel plate. These driers stand about 46 inches high with full 360-degree swivel nozzle and are operated by a foot lever or automatic cut-off push button which turns the switch on and off.

Airdry Corporation, Groton, N. Y.
Sani Products Company, Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Hardware, Stage

WITH THE GROWING popularity in theatres of presentation acts a need is apparent for equipment to meet the varied physical requirements in the way of stage hardware to accomplish this purpose. The subject of stage hardware takes in many items, large and small, which are equipment essentials in the stage that is to be prepared to house a variety of acts or talent.

Under the heading of stage hardware are included such items as blocks and pulleys of all types, counterweights and arbors, belay pins, cleats, curtain tracks, keystones and corners, pin rails, pin wire, rope, manila and wire, rope locks, sand bags, smoke pocket stage screws, trim clamps, winches, carriers for extra-large screens and horns. Steel curtains and counterweight rigging are also important items of the equipment in the modern stage.

Acme Stage Equipment Company, 191 Fafayette Street, New York City.
Armstrong Studios, Inc., 1717 Cordova Street, Los Angeles, Calif.
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc., 132 W. 44th Street, New York City.
J. H. Channon Corporation, 1455 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
J. R. Clancy, 1010 W. Belden Avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.
Peter Clark, Inc., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
Great Western Stage Equipment Company, 817 Holmes Street, Kansas City, Mo.
Klemm Manufacturing Corporation, 1449-55 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Lee Lash Studios, 707 Broadway, New York City.
Novelty Scenic Studios, 340 W. 41st Street, New York City.
Tiffin Scenic Studios, Tiffin, O.
Volland Scenic Studios, 3737 Cass Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company, Stamford, Conn.

▲

Hearing Devices

Refer to EARPHONES

▲

Heaters, Organ

Refer to ORGAN HEATERS

▲

Heaters, Ticket Booth

Refer to TICKET BOOTH HEATERS

▲

Heating Systems

THERE ARE A number of types and arrangements of theatre heating systems, each designed to fit the individual building. One of the systems is known as the fuel-to-air method whereby the transmission of the heating effect from the fuel is obtained without the intermediate processes of transmission through piping and radiators. The volumes of outdoor air entering the system are heated quickly and uniformly, producing comfortable heating and invigorating ventilation in all seasons of the year. The heating units most generally used to warm the incoming air are commonly known as unit heat generators.

American Foundry & Furnace Company, 915 E. Washington Street, Bloomington, Ill.
Grinnell Company, Providence, R. I.
P. H. McGirl Foundry & Furnace Company, Bloomington, Ill.
B. F. Reynolds Company, 609 No. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Company, 1915 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Heating Systems, Oil

HEATING BY MEANS of oil is growing rapidly in popularity among theatres. Some of the country's largest playhouses are installing oil heating systems of various makes and types. They are also to be found in smaller theatres. Among the advantages claimed for oil heating is the matter of cleanliness and subsequent savings in draperies and redecorating costs. The operation being automatic, the oil burner requires virtually no attention, effecting a saving in janitor service. Another advantage pointed out is the fact that oil burners give heat only when needed.

Most oil burners are operated in connection with a thermostat so that when the temperature falls even one degree below the desired point, the thermostat establishes connection which starts the burner again. When the temperature goes above the desired degree, the heat is automatically shut off.

General Electric Co., 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Hardinge Brothers, Inc., 4147 Ravenswood Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Rayfield Manufacturing Company, 2559 W. 21st Street, Chicago, Ill.
B. F. Reynolds Company, 609 No. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Corporation, 1915 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.
C. U. Williams & Sons, Bloomington, Ill.

▲

High Intensity Lamps

Refer to LAMPS, HIGH INTENSITY

▲

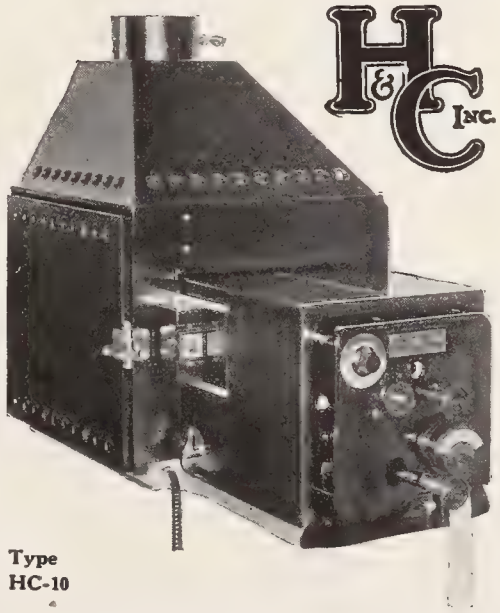
Holders, Ticket

Refer to TICKET HOLDERS

▲

Hoods, Color

Refer to COLOR HOODS



▲

Horn Lifts and Horn Towers

A HORN LIFT is an automatically controlled electric driven elevator used to raise and lower sound horns to their proper places behind the screen. They operate on the hydraulic, cable and drum and screw lift principle, and when the stage is needed for acts, the lift lowers the horn down under the stage. The portion of the stage flooring directly above the lift is attached to the lift, becoming a part of it, and any stage setup located over the lift goes up with it and is ready for use the instant the lift returns to the low level.

Horn towers are structural steel towers on which the horns are fastened. These towers are generally on rubber-tired, ball bearing casters so that they may be moved about silently to properly locate the horns behind the screen. When the horns are not in use the towers can be pushed out of the way.

Bud Speaker Company, 1156 Dorr Street, Toledo, Ohio.
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc., 132 W. 44th Street, New York City.
Gates Radio & Supply Company, Quincy, Ill.
Littleford Brothers, 501 E. Pearl Street, Cincinnati, O.
United Radio Manufacturing Company, 191 Greenwich Street, New York City.
Vallen Electrical Company, Inc., 225 Bluff Street, Akron, O.

Type HC-10

A DIFFERENT SYSTEM
OF PROJECTION LIGHTING

STABILIZED ARC

THERMAL ARC CONTROL

For Better and More Reliable Projection Results

Write for Illustrated Booklet

HALL & CONNOLLY, Inc.
24 Van Dam Street New York City

▲

Incandescent Lamps

Refer to LAMPS, INCANDESCENT PROJECTION

▲

Insurance

NO BUSINESS MAN today would risk his investment by operating his business without ample insurance. Insurance is obtainable for theatre buildings and equipment to the same extent that it may be procured for other types of establishments, and safety codes and modern methods of construction, installation and manufacture have permitted such a reduction in insurance rates covering exhibitors' risks that ample protection is within reach of any theatre enterprise. Besides the usual forms of insurance covering fire, accidents to employes and patrons, etc., there is rain insurance, which offers exhibitors protection against poor patronage due to storms rising suddenly before show time.

George J. Diener, 175 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
Jules Juillard & Company, 175 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
Stebbins, Leterman & Gates, Inc., 1540 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Inter-Communicating Telephones

SYSTEMATIZING OF business has relieved the individual of much routine and has increased thereby his efficiency. In the systematizing of business the inter-communicating telephone is playing an important part. In the theatre it contributes to a smooth functioning organization. No theatre of consequence today operates without such a telephone system.

Automatic Electric Company, Inc., 1027 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.
S. H. Couch, Inc., Norfolk Downs, Quincy, Mass.
Nomad Electrical Engineers, 239 West 30th Street, New York City.
Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Company, Rochester, N. Y.

▲

Interior Decorations

INTERIOR DECORATION of the motion picture theatre has developed specialists in this important phase of construction. These companies have made a thorough study of the type of decorative scheme best suited for audience appeal. The originality of theatre decoration has played no small part in the success of this form of entertainment for it takes the public into a new world.

Armstrong Studios, Inc., 1717 Cordova Street, Los Angeles, Calif.
Decorative Arts Co., 300 W. Austin Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Eastman Brothers Studios, Inc., 36 W. 46th Street, New York City.
Interstate Decorating Company, 1458 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Mandel Brothers, Inc., State and Madison Streets, Chicago, Ill.
Marshall Field & Company, Chicago, Ill.
Novelty Scenic Studios, 340 W. 41st Street, New York City.
J. A. Torstenson & Company, 860 Fletcher Street, Chicago, Ill.
I. Weiss & Sons, 445 W. 45th Street, New York City.

▲

Iron and Bronze Work, Ornamental

Refer to BRONZE AND IRON WORK, ORNAMENTAL

▲

Labels, Film

Refer to GUMMED LABELS

▲

Labels, Gummed

Refer to GUMMED LABELS

▲

Ladders, Safety

THE SAFETY LADDER is a safeguard, both for the employer and the employe. It minimizes the risk of accidents and the possibility of becoming involved in costly law suits. The safety ladder has the approval of the Underwriters Laboratories. Sizes range from 3 feet to 16 feet, and the list price ranges from $9.50 to $32. Because of the rigidity of these ladders, they are time-savers.

Dayton Safety Ladder Company, 121 W. Third Sreet, Cincinnati, O.
Durabilt Ladder Corporation, Coxsackie, N. Y.
The Patent Scaffolding Company, 1500 Dayton Street, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Lamp Coloring

LAMP DIPS or lamp colorings are manufactured by numerous companies, and can be obtained in either the clear color or in a transluscent shade.

There are three types of coloring. One type is for a temporary dip where the color is to be changed often. For such changes, incidentally a color remover can be purchased.

The next type is the color used for dipping lamps which it is desired to color for permanent inside use. This color should not be used for outside lighting as it will not withstand the elements.

The third type is the outside coloring. This is for use on lamps used for lighting electric signs, marquises and other outside lighting. It is a very quickly drying color, taking from three to four minutes to dry. Lamp dip coloring sells for $1.50 per pint and up.

Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Rosco Laboratories, 367 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

▲

Lamps, High Intensity

IT IS VERY encouraging, indeed, to note the many recent improvements in the high intensity lamp for moving picture propection.

With playhouses of every increasing seating capacity and consequent increase of projection range or "throw," the high intensity lamp has rapidly become a necessity with very few alternatives for light source in the larger houses.

The high intensity lamp, just a few years ago, while considered a necessity in the larger houses, was also looked upon as a rather troublesome piece of apparatus to be gotten along with because there was nothing else that could serve its purpose. But today the high intensity lamp has been perfected in such measure that it is no longer troublesome or intricate from an operating standpoint, and gives satisfactory results.

Ashcraft Automatic Arc Company, 4214 Santa Monica Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.
Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Hall & Connolly, Inc., 24 Van Dam Street, New York City.
Imperial Electric & Manufacturing Co., 1062 North Orange Grove, Los Angeles, Calif.

▲

Lamps, Incandescent, Projection

THIS TERM may be confusing as there are lamps for motion picture projection as well as lamps for spotlight, searchlight, floodlight, and stereopticon projection. Some are quite different, and each should be used in the service it is designed for.

There are two lamps made especially for theatre projection with professional apparatus. The 900 watt, 30 ampere, 30 volt lamp and the 600 watt, 20 ampere, 30 volt lamp. They cannot be used on the ordinary lighting circuit without a regulator or transformer to change the current to the correct amperage and voltage.

For portable projectors such as are generally classed as "amateur" there are several types of projection lamps in very wide use. There are the 50, 100 and 200 watt lamps for use on 115 volt circuits and the 200 and 250 watt, 50 volt lamps which are operated with a regulator.

All of these lamps are designed to project the most possible light on the screen. The 900 watt lamp produces enough light to work efficiently on throws up to 100 feet. The 600 watt lamp is used for throws shorter than 80 feet. The other lamps are for short throw work, generally with 16-mm. film.

Other lamps designed for spotlight service can be had in wattages of from 100 watts to 10,000 watts for use on 115 volt lines. The 100 and 200 watt sizes are all standard and are carried in stock. There is a standard lamp of 1,000 watts for use on 115 volt lines for motion picture projection. It is not, however, as efficient as the 30 volt type for motion picture work and is generally used for non-theatrical service.

Edison Lamp Works, Division of G. E., Harrison, N. J.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.
National Lamp Works, Nela Park, Cleveland, O.
Westinghouse Lamp Company, 150 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Lamps, Mazda

THE USE of the Mazda lamp has broadened in recent years, and today these lamps are used in projectors in the theatres and on stages of the studios. It has been said, and perhaps rightly, that light sells the show. Especially is this true in the cities where scores of theatres are vying with each other for patronage. In the display signs, in the strip signs, in the marquise, in the lobby and in the theatre proper, the Mazda lamp has made the White Way, whether in the metropolitan centers or in the small towns, whiter. It is being used in the studio as well as theatre. Durable colored lamps may now be purchased with coloring on the inside, permitting the lamps to be washed.

Champion Lamps, Davers, Mass.
Edison Lamp Works, Division of G. E., Harrison, N. J.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
National Lamp Works, Nela Park, Cleveland, O.
Westinghouse Lamp Company, 150 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Lamps, Reflector Arc

A CARBON arc lamp for motion picture projection using a reflector for projecting the light through the aperture of the picture machine.

The complete lamp contains as a part of the unit an automatic arc control adjusted to operate at a variance of a fraction of a volt at the arc. The advantage of the reflecting arc lamp is that it will operate at from 20 to 25 per cent of the electrical current necessary to operate the old style arc lamp. The carbons used are much smaller in size, making an additional saving. The reflector arc is now accepted as a necessity by progressive exhibitors, because, in addition to saving electric current, it produces a flat even field of bright crisp white light which is very desirable in motion picture projection.

Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Hall & Connolly, Inc., 24 Van Dam Street, New York City.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
The J. E. McAuley Manufacturing Company, 554 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Morelite Company, Inc., 600 W. 57th Street, New York City.
W. G. Preddey, 187 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, Cal.
Strong Electric Corporation, 2501 LaGrange Street, Toledo, O.
S. O. S. Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Lantern Slides

Refer to SLIDES

▲

Lenses

FOR MOTION PICTURE theatre service there are projection lenses and condensing lenses. The latter are also used in projection but are placed in the lamphouse and condense the rays to a spot on the aperture. Projection lenses are objective lenses placed in the projector head.

The prime requirement of a projection lens is to give a bright, well defined picture on the screen without any distortion or color rays. These lenses are made in four sizes: Eighth, quarter, half and three-quarters (diameters, respectively, of 1 11/16, 1 5/16, 2 25/32 and 3¼ inches).

The one-eighth and one-quarter sizes are furnished in equivalent focii of two inches E. F., to eight inches E. F. The half-size is furnished in equivalent focii of four and a half inches E. F. to ten inches E. F., and the three-quarters in equivalent focii of from six inches E. F. to ten inches E.F. There is also procurable a bifocal projection lens with a range of from one-half to three-quarters of an inch in focal length, designed to eliminate the change of lenses in shifting operation from sound to silent films, and vice versa. All the sizes named are standard. Focal lengths are determined by the size of the picture desired.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, Rochester, N Y.
Fish-Schurman Corp., 230 E. 45th St., New York City.
G. P. Goerz American Optical Company, 485 5th Avenue, New York City.
Graf Lens Division, General Scientific Corporation, 4829 So. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
G. O. Hansen & Bros., 4021 Armitage Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Ilex Optical Mfg. Company, 726 Portland Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
Kollmorgen Optical Corporation, 767 Wythe Avenue, Brooklyn, N Y.
Hugo Meyer & Company, 245 West 55th Street, New York City.
Projection Optics Company, Inc., 330 Lyell Avenue. Rochester, N. Y.
Semon Bache & Company, 636 Greenwich Street, New York City.
Simpson Instrument & Lens Company, 1737 N. Campbell Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Wollensak Optical Company, 872 Hudson Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.

▲

Lifts and Elevators for Orchestra, Organ, Stage and Horns

WITH THE ADVANCE in showmanship many new types of equipment have become factors in motion picture presentation and its supplementary entertainment. Not the least of these new factors are the lifts and elevators which play such an important part in the success of programs today. The modern theatre has this equipment.

Acme Stage Equipment Company, 191 Lafayette Street, New York City.
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc., 132 W. 24th Street, New York City.
Peter Clark, Inc., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
Otis Elevator Co., 11th Avenue and 26th Street, New York, N. Y.

▲

Lighting Control Equipment

THE MODERN theatre with a well balanced and effective lighing system, has made many demands on the manufacturers of lighting control equipment. Elaborate color effects must be possible and to change the lighting and gradually merge the light from one color to another without attracting the audiences a very flexible control system is required. Even the small control systems permit the operator to produce hundreds of color shades. Generally each color group has its own master control which is cross-interlocked with the ground master wheel device. Efficient control systems are available for every size house, no matter how small or how large.

Frank Adam Electric Company, 3650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Chicago Switchboard Manufacturing Company, 426 S. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
Cutler-Hammer, Inc., Milwaukee, Wis.
Hub Electric Company, 2225 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Saltzman Brothers, Royale Theatre, New York City.
Ward Leonard Electric Company, 37 South Street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.
Wm. Wurdack Electric Mfg. Co., 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Lighting Fixtures and Decorative Lighting

WHILE lighting fixtures constitute one of the outstanding features of the theatre today their style and application are obviously best determined by the individual treatment of the theatre and its requirements. It is significant, however, that a number of leading manufacturers have established special departments to give time and attention to the subject of theatre lighting and fixtures.

Art Lamp Mfg. Company, 1433 So. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Barker Brothers, Seventh Street, Flower and Figueroa, Los Angeles, Calif.
Curtis Lighting Company, Inc., 1119 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
The Frink Corporation, 23-10 Bridge Plaza, Long Island City, N. Y.
I. P. Frink, Inc., 239 Tenth Avenue, New York City.
The Edwin F. Guth Company, 2615 Washington Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Henkel & Best, 431 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
The Voigt Company, 1743 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

▲

Lighting, Flood

Refer to FLOOD LIGHTS

▲

Lighting, Stage, Equipment

Refer to STAGE LIGHTING EQUIPMENT

▲

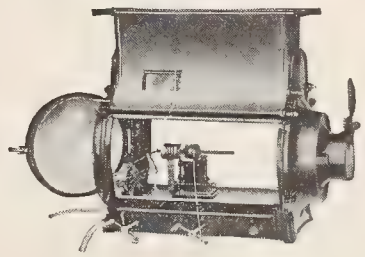
Lighting and Power Plants

EMERGENCY lighting plants are equipment designed to furnish power for supplying illumination and operating the show in the event of a failure of the local power supply. It is said that the financial loss suffered by admissions returned by a theatre through only one power failure a year would more than compensate for the cost of equipment of this type. In addition to financial loss, a power failure during a performance frequently results in loss of life and property through the resultant panic.

Emergency lighting plants are made in several types such as the gasoline engine type, water turbine type, motor generator and battery type. In the case of the motor generator type several sources of power are provided to meet every contingency, which, together, form an interlocking type of protection.

The first source of power for the emergency lights of the theatre is the regular power supply, either from central station lines or from private generating plant. In the case of the private electric plant, if it is automatically operated, it can be so installed with an automatic transfer switch that the instant the regular supply of current fails, the private electric plant is automatically started. The electric plant then supplies the electrical needs of the theatre to the extent of its capacity. This it continues to do for as long as the regular supply is shut off. When this service is again resumed, the plant automatically stops.

The second source for the emergency, exit or hazard line circuits, is a special heavy duty glass jar storage battery, which is automatically kept charged by a motor generator set or rectifier. The capacity of the plant depends upon the total necessary load and the length of time protection is desired. The normal alternating current is fed through the transfer switch direct to the lighting lines and in the event of power failure, the batteries to the lighting lines. The batteries than supply the necessary power until the normal service is resumed, or until the batteries are discharged.



In some states the emergency, exit and hazard light circuits must be of a lower voltage than that of the normal power supply lines. In such cases, a transformer is used to step-down the supply line voltage to that of the emergency circuit voltage.

The third source of supply for the emergency circuits is the motor generator set itself. In case the A.C. transformer circuit, which normally feeds the 32-volt lights, should fail the motor generator set is operated from the man power supply line and connected to the emergency exit light circuits through its battery circuit. The battery will carry the lights only as long as necessary to start the motor generator set. After the motor generator is started the battery floats on the line.

The heavy-duty storage battery is kept continuously charged by means of a motor generator set, which is operated from the

℞ STRONG

HIGH INTENSITY
AUTOMATIC REFLECTOR
ARC LAMPS

Have This Prescription Filled and cure your light troubles!

Buy equipment which incorporates all up-to-the-minute improvements—equipment you can depend upon for an abundance of even, crisp, brilliant light.

✧

For Sale by Independent Supply Dealers

The Strong Electric Corporation

2501 Lagrange Street, Toledo, Ohio — Export Office: 44 Whitehall St., New York, N. Y.

regular power lines, on an individual circuit separate from the emergency circuits.

Century Electric Co., 1806 Pine St., St. Louis, Mo.
Delco Appliance Corporation, Rochester, N. Y.
The Electric Storage Battery Company, Philadelphia, Pa.
Fairbanks, Morse & Company, 900 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kohler Company, Kohler, Wis.
Universal Motor Company, Oshkosh, Wis.
Weir-Kilby Corporation, Station H, Cincinnati, O.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.

▲

Lights, Aisle

Refer to AISLE LIGHTS

▲

Lights, Exit

Refer to EXIT LIGHT SIGNS

▲

Lights, Spot

ARE MADE in arc and incandescent types for use on stage—in the booth—in cove lighting, and for head spotting. Most spotlights on the market can be used for spot lighting and for full flood. The arc types are made in sizes of 3 ampere up to 150 ampere. They come complete with stand and attachment cord and connecter. Within the last year, the high intensity spot has appeared. It is an adaptation of the high intensity lamp to spot and flood lighting.

The incandescent spotlights are in sizes of from 250 watt to 2,000 watt. The sizes usually used are 250, 400, 500 and 1,000 watt.

The small head spots of 250 watts are used for cove lighting or spotting the head of a singer or organist. The incandescent spotlights come either with floor standard or pipe hangers for border lighting batons.

In stage work spotlights are frequently banked one above the other on a stand and used for flood-lighting from the wings. Prices range from $12 to $500.

Frank Adam Electric Company, 3650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Best Devices Company, Film Building, Cleveland, O.
Brenkert Light Projector Company, 7348 St. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736-1754 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Switchboard Manufacturing Company, 426 S. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
Crown Motion Picture Supplies, 311 W. 44th St., New York City.
Hall & Connolly, Inc., 24 Van Dam Street, New York City.
Hub Electric Company, 2225 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4063 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
W. G. Preddey, 187 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, Cal.
Reflector & Illuminating Company, 1431 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Westinghouse Lamp Company, 150 Broadway, New York City.
Wm. Wurdack Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Lobby Decorations

Refer to INTERIOR DECORATIONS

▲

Lobby Display

AN ATTRACTIVE lobby is a boon to business. To conform to the beauty in lobby decoration, colorful and attractive lobby displays have been created. Automatic poster displays in polished bronze are constructed for convenient display of standard stills and photographs, featuring current and coming attractions. Art glass today is advantageously used, making a striking and effective display. Many artistic endeavors have been directed toward the lobby with the result that today few shoddy lobbies greet the patron.

American Display Corporation, 475 10th Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Davis Bulletin Company, Lock Street, Buffalo, N. Y.
Igoe-Roemer Corp., Chicago, Ill.
S. Markendorff' Sons, Inc., 159 W. 23rd Street, New York City.
National Studios, Inc., 226-232 W. 56th Street, New York, N. Y.

▲

Lobby Display Frames

LOBBY ADVERTISING is an obviously effective business stimulant and in this connection the use of lobby display frames easily ranks first in appearance. With the effective display frames now available it is possible not only to obtain a maximum advertising value from their use but also to add materially to the appearance of the lobby. The front of the theatre may now be "dressed up" in excellent fashion with these frames. In the case of new theatres it is common practice to design lobby frames in conformity with the architectural style of the house.

American Display Corporation, 475 10th Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Igoe-Roemer Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Libman-Spanjer Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.
S. Markendorff' Sons, Inc., 159 W. 23rd Street, New York City.
Northern Theatre Supply Company, 19 Glenwood Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

▲

Luminous Signs

Refer to SIGNS, DIRECTIONAL

Machines, Pop Corn

Refer to POP CORN MACHINES

▲

Machines, Ticket

A MOTOR driven device for dispensing tickets which are automatically registered as to the number of each denomination sold. These machines are made in two unit, three unit, four unit and five unit sizes. A two unit will dispense two tickets of different denominations such as children and adults. Each unit is controlled by a series of five buttons, making it possible to sell from one to five tickets.

Arcus Ticket Company, 348 N. Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
General Register Corporation, 81 Prospect Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Standard Ticket Register Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.
U. S. Ticket Company, Fort Smith, Ark.

Marquees

Refer to CANOPIES, THEATRE

▲

Mazda Lamps

Refer to LAMPS, MAZDA

▲

Mazda Regulators

THIS IS an electrical device for changing 110 volt or 220 volt current to 30 volt, 30 amperes current for use with 900 watt incandescent projection lamps.

The Garver Electric Company, Union City, Ind.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.

▲

Motor Generators

Refer to GENERATORS, MOTOR

▲

Motors, Projector

MOTORS for projection machines are usually 110 volts, 25 to 60 cycles and of 1/10, 1/8 or 1/6 horse power. They may be obtained with variable speed adjustments giving a range of speed of from 150 r.p.m to 4,000 r.p.m.

Bodine Electric Company, 2254 W. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.
Fidelity Electric Company, 331 N. Arch Street, Lancaster, Pa.

▲

Music Publishers

APPRECIATING the important part played by music in the theatre several companies have recently compiled special music for the guidance and assistance of theatre organists and orchestras. In this music and orchestral arrangement has been so scored that the numbers can be played with maximum effect by any combination of instruments, large and small.

Special books or organ music have also recently been available. These comprise classic, modern, characteristic, marches, opera selections and sacred numbers, making a valuable addition to every organist's library.

D. Appleton & Company, 35 West 32nd Street, New York City.
De Sylva, Brown & Henderson, Inc., 745 Seventh Avenue, New York, N. Y.

lenses

from the finest theatres come to us for resurfacing: condensers, lenses and reflectors of all kinds. Among our customers are the most particular and critical managers and projectionists. We can give 24-hour service. The cost is less than one-third the price of a new condenser or one-sixth the price of a new reflector. All work like new. Write for particulars.

G. O. Hansen & Brothers
Optical Company
4021 ARMITAGE AVENUE
CHICAGO

Speed Silence
Accuracy Efficiency

CASH CONTROL GRC SYSTEMS TRADE MARK

A "GENERAL" Leads Again!

There must be a reason why RADIO CITY-ROXY THEATRES and the Chicago's WORLD'S FAIR are equipped 100% with the latest AUTOMATIC GOLD SEAL TICKET REGISTER.

GENERAL REGISTER CORP.
81 Prospect St. Brooklyn, N. Y.
1018 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago
1726 S. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles
113 Albany St., Boston
112 North 12th St., Philadelphia

Oliver Ditson Company, 179 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.
Donaldson, Douglas & Gumble, Inc., 1595 Broadway, New York City.
Leo Feist, Inc., 52 Cooper Square, New York City.
Carl Fisher, Inc., 52 Cooper Square, New York City.
Harms, Inc., executive office, 62 West 45th Street, professional office, 1674 Broadway, New York.
Edward B. Marks Music Company, 225 W. 46th Street, New York City.
Miller Music Co., 52 West 45th Street, New York, N. Y.
Mills Music, Brill Bldg., 49th Street and Broadway, New York City.
Oleman Music Co., 745 Seventh Ave., New York City.
Remick Music Corporation, 1659 Broadway, New York City.
Robbins Music Corporation, 799 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Santly Bros., Inc., 755 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Shapiro, Bernstein & Co., Capitol Theatre Bldg., 51st Street and Broadway, New York. N. Y.
M. Witmark & Sons, 1659 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

▲

Music Stands

MUSIC STANDS are made in a number of styles, from those of simple design for smaller houses to more pretentious and ornamental ones for the elaborate theatres.

J. H. Channon Corporation, 1455 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736-1754 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Klemm Manufacturing Corporation, 1455 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
The Liberty Music Stand Company, 1960 E. 116th Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

▲

Novelties, Advertising

Refer to ADVERTISING NOVELTIES

▲

Oil Burners

Refer to HEATING SYSTEMS, OIL

▲

Orchestra Lifts

Refer to LIFTS AND ELEVATORS for ORCHESTRA, ORGAN AND STAGE

▲

Organs

ASIDE from detail considerations, the important thing to bear in mind in the purchase of a theatre organ is whether or not the instrument is designed and built to meet theatre requirements. Demands upon an organ to be used in a theatre and in a church, for example, are obviously at variance. The result is that organs for theatres are built along exacting lines, expressly for the work they are intended to perform.

Chromolux, Inc., care Arthur P. Marr, 15 Park Row, New York City.
Geo. Kilgen & Sons, Inc., 4016 N. Union Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo.
W. W. Kimball Company, 308 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Link Organ Company, Binghamton, N. Y.
Page Organ Company, 519 N. Jackson Street, Lima, O.
The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, 121 E. Fourth Street, Cincinnati, O.

▲

Organ Blowers

THE ORGAN BLOWER is an important piece of equipment, and is manufactured in sizes suitable for organs of all types. They may be obtained in units ranging from 1/6 h.p. to 75 h.p., which are multi-stage, multi-pressure machines. These machines are made so as to give the proper wind supply for the size organ for which it is desired.

Coppus Engineering Corporation, Worcester, Mass.
Kinetic Engineering Company, Landsdowne, Pa.
Spencer Turbine Company, Hartford, Conn.
Zephyr Electric Organ Blower Company, Orrville, O.

▲

Organ Lifts

Refer to LIFTS AND ELEVATORS for ORCHESTRA, ORGAN AND STAGE

▲

Organ Slides

Refer to SLIDES

▲

Paint, Plastic

Refer to PLASTIC PAINT

▲

Paint, Screen

A PAINT for refining a screen surface. This paint comes in flat white and metallic. Five pounds of flat white is sufficient to coat a 9x12 screen with two coats. Prices range from $1.75 to $3.50.

Da-Lite Screen Company, 2715 N. Crawford Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Walker-American Corporation, 800 Beaumont Street, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Panel Boards

WITH lights playing such a prominent part in the operation of a theatre, the theatre owner must look to his lighting equipment for consistent service. The panel board with its multi-circuits and its easy accessibility gives to the theatre a lighting system which is endurable, elastic and efficient.

Frank Adam Electric Company, 3650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Bull Dog Electric Products Company, 7610 Joseph Campeau Street, Detroit, Mich.
The Cleveland Switchboard Company, 2925 E. 79th Street, Cleveland, O.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Hoffmann-Soons, 387 First Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Hub Electric Company, 2225 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Metropolitan Electric Mfg. Co., East Avenue & 14th Street, Long Island City, N. Y.
The Trumbull Electric Manufacturing Company, Plainville, Conn.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.

▲

Paper Drinking Cups

Refer to DRINKING CUPS, PAPER

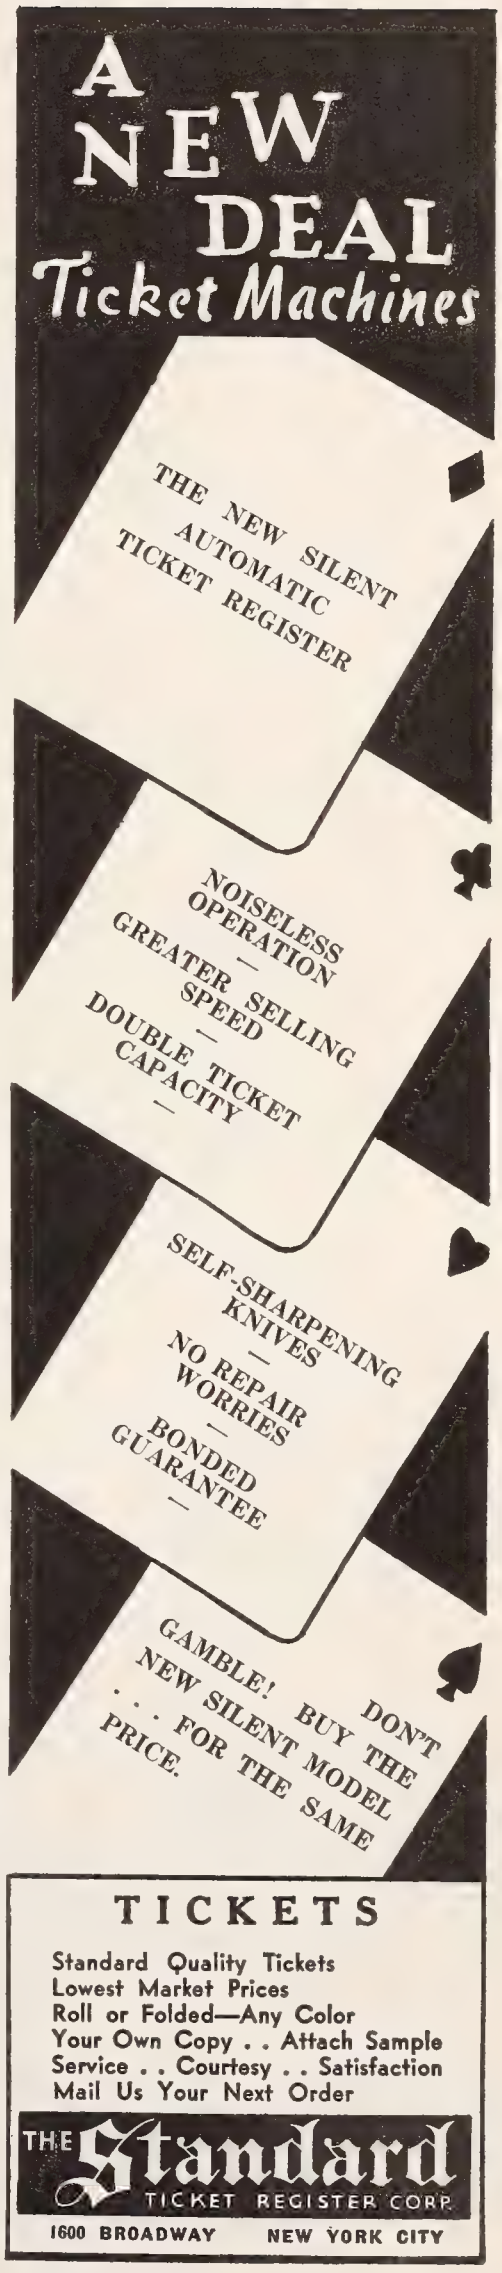
▲

Paper Towels

Refer to TOWELS, PAPER

▲

Paste, Poster and Labelling



LENDING to efficiency in a theatre organization is a prepared wheat powder, which, when mixed with cold water, mixing easily and offering an adhesive paste for all types of poster billing.

Arthur S. Hoyt Company, 90 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Peanut Roasters and Popcorn Machines

Refer to POP CORN MACHINES

Perfumed Disinfectants

Refer to DISINFECTANTS, PERFUMED

▲

Perfumes and Perfumers

DISAGREEABLE odors are unfortunately a usual concomitant of crowds, particularly in such compact enclosures as the motion picture auditorium. These odors may be effectively eliminated by the use of highly aromatic perfumes, method of diffusion is the simple one of which are diffused throughout the air. One placing the perfume in decorative cones, resembling a vase, at various places along the walls. These cones are made of clay and readily absorb the perfume, which may be said to saturate the cones, and the odor radiates from the latter to quite a large area beyond.

Another widely used method is to spray the air with a perfume at suitable intervals.

A trifle less simple and perhaps more effective method is that of placing perfume in a disseminator located at the ventilating fan so that the evaporated liquid or solidified perfume will carry its fragrance through the auditorium along with the fresh air.

The Huntington Laboratories, Inc., Huntington, Ind.
West Disinfecting Co., 42-16 Barn St., Long Island City, N. Y.

▲

Photoelectric Cells

THE FUNCTIONS of the photoelectric cell in sound installations is to transform light into electrical energy in the reproduction of sound-on-film.

Arcturus Radio Company, 255 Sherman Avennue, Newark, N. J.
Cable Radio Tube Corporation, 84-90 North Ninth Street, Brooklyn, N.Y.
Continental Electric Company, St. Charles, Ill.
Duovac Radio Tube Corporation, 360 Furman Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
G-M Laboratories, Inc., 1731-35 Belmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Herman A. DeVry Company, 1111 Center Street, Chicago, Illinois.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.
Lumotron Vacuum Products Division, General Scientific Corporation, 4829 South Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
Marvin Radio Tube Corporation, 76 Court Street, Irvington, N. J.
Sylvania Products Company, Emporium, Pa.
Western Electric Company, 250 West 57th Street, New York, N. Y.

▲

Pianos

PIANOS VARY IN SIZE and type, depending upon the use to which each is to be put. Both upright and baby grand, reproducing and non-producing pianos, are widely used in theatres as entertainment and to accompany the picture. The use of pianos on the mezzanine of the theatre is becoming more and more general. The larger theatres will have as many as six and eight pianos as a part of the permanent equipment.

The Baldwin Piano Company, 142 W. Fourth Street, Cincinnati, O.
W. W. Kimball Company, 308 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Link Company, Inc., Binghamton, N. Y.
The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, 121 E. Fourth Street, Cincinnati, O.

▲

Pipe Organs

Refer to ORGANS

Plastic Paint

PLASTIC PAINT is extensively used for decorating auditorium walls, lobbies and foyers of theatres. With this paint almost any sort of rough texture can be developed from the most refined stipple to the shaggiest Spanish palm finish. Sand swirl, two-tone and other effects can also be obtained in a number of colors and color combinations.

Plastic paint comes in the form of a white powder. Before application it is mixed with water; sometimes, also, with coloring matter. It may be tinted with dry colors before application, or the plastic paint may be sized and then glazed with an oil glaze tinted with oil colors. It may be applied on any type of surface and when thus properly applied and treated it can be washed from time to time with soap and water.

Architectural Decorating Company, 1600 S. Jefferson Street, Chicago, Ill.
Architectural Plastering Company, 624-26 First Avenue, New York City.
The Craftex Company, 37-39 Antwerp Street, Brighton Station, Boston, Mass.
H. B. Wiggin's Sons Company, Bloomfield, N. J.

▲

Plumbing Fixtures

EVERY PART of the theatre should be in keeping with the general architectural beauty of the theatre. Also, those parts of construction which are under cover of plaster and other exterior coverings must meet the requirements of building codes. The value of hidden fittings of high quality cannot be too strongly stressed as a factor in efficient and economical theatre operations. Included in these specifications are plumbing fixtures, both exposed and concealed.

Plumbing fixtures play an important part, both in the decorating scheme of a theatre and the cost of insurance. They should, therefore, be investigated by the theatre owner, remembering that they may be had in both white and in colors, and with various distinguishing sanitary features.

The Crane Company, 836 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kohler Company, Kohler, Wis.
Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, Bessemer Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

▲

Pop Corn Machines

POP CORN MACHINES offer an excellent opportunity for theatres to increase their revenue, according to information from exhibitors who are operating them. One exhibitor states that in one week he cleared $59 with a corn popper in his lobby. Figures provided by another exhibitor state that in six months he took $967.91, out of which his expenses were $296.94, leaving a profit of $670.97. One theatre circuit in the east is using pop corn machines at five or its houses.

Pop corn machines may be had in a number of sizes and styles, ranging from small models to elaborate machines which also include peanut warming facilities.

C. Cretors & Company, 612 W. 22nd Street, Chicago, Ill.
Dunbar Company, 2652 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
Kirgery Manufacturing Company, 420 E. Pearl Street, Cincinnati, O.
Star Manufacturing Company, 4477 Finney Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Talbot Manufacturing Company, 121 Chestnut Street, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Portable Projectors

PORTABLE PROJECTORS are motion picture projection machines which are designed to be set up only temporarily and not for permanent installation in a regular theatre, as a rule, although used there. They are particularly adapted for use in schools, clubs, etc., and may be obtained for installation in connection with leading makes of sound equipment or with sound apparatus built in. There is a model with a heavy pedestal for permanent installation.

Semi-portable projectors are standard motion picture machines which may be utilized for either temporary or permanent installations. That is to say, these machines, while sturdily constructed, are comparatively light in weight and may be moved from room to room or from one building to another. Specially designed carrying cases are also provided at slight additonal cost for convenience in transporting for longer distances. For permanent installations, the model with the heavy pedestal no doubt has its advantages. Sound apparatus specially constructed for portable machines is available. Also available are sound-on-film unit projectors of portable type for both 35-mm. and 16 mm. film.

The Ampro Corporation, 545 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
Bell & Howell Company, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Cincinnati Time Recorder Company, 1733 Central Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Andre Debrie, Inc., 115 W. 45th Street, New Yor City.
Herman A. DeVry Company, 1111 Center Street, Chicago, Illinois.
The Holmes Projector Company, 1815 Orchard Street, Chicago, Ill.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.
RCA Victor Company, Photophone Division, Camden, N. J., and 411 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
Royal Zenith Projectors, Inc., 33 W. 60th Street, New York City.
Victor Animatograph Corporation, Davenport, Ia.
Safety Projector Company, 310 W. Second Street, Duluth, Minn.
Weber Machine Corporation, 59 Rutter Street, Rochester, N. Y.

▲

Poster Frames

Refer to FRAMES, POSTER

▲

Poster Lights

THESE ARE TUBULAR shaped reflectors to be fastened to the poster frame for illuminating poster displays. They come completely wired, with bracket for attaching. Prices range from $16 up.

Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York.
Metal Products, Inc., 1434 N. Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
The Voigt Company, 1743 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

▲

Poster Paste

Refer to PASTE, POSTER AND LABELING

▲

Poster Projectors

THESE MACHINES are projectors operated similarly to steroptic-ons, except that instead of employing transparent slides, matter printed on opaque surfaces can be projected upon a screen. They are used in the making of posters for lobby displays and similar purposes. The artist projects a drawing or photograph from a press sheet or other prepared advertising matter, upon the surface on which he is to make his own drawing, controlling the image size by moving the projector nearer to or farther from the objective. The system of mirrors and lenses in the projector gives an image of the same direction and proportions as those of the original. The artist then merely traces along the projected lines, filling in the colors as indicated.

Poster projectors usually allow the use of original subjects as large as six or seven inches long by five or six inches high. Subjects larger than that can be projected and copied in sections.

Bausch and Lomb Optical Co., Rochester, N. Y.
F. D. Kees Manufacturing Company, Beatrice, Neb.
A & B Smith Company, 63 Smithfield Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Yankee Sales Company, 491 Sixth Avenue, North Troy, N. Y.

▲

Power Plants

Refer to LIGHTING AND POWER PLANTS

▲

Projection Booths and Equipment

THE PROJECTION room, or booth, because of the fact that it is one of the nerve centers of the motion picture theatre, is becoming standardized. Not in size, naturally, but in general construction, and the high standard of equipment, etc. The projection booth, because of the very nature of the purpose it serves, must be fireproof and ideally ventilated. Though standardized in the general meaning of the word, the booth, in its placement, construction and equipment, should have individual treatment for each theatre. The skilled projection engineer should be consulted on this vital phase of motion picture presentation.

There are many things to keep in mind in the purchase of projection room equipment. Certain parts of this equipment must conform to the building codes, it must be practical, it must satisfy the projectionist and it must lend itself to better projection. It is wise in a majority of instances to consult a skilled projectionist before purchasing this equipment, for his knowledge of completeness and product is broad. The projection booth today is an efficiency room with an expert in charge, and the equipment purchaser should be selected with that in mind.

The design and layout of the projection room should have the careful attention of the architect or builder at the time the plans for the theatre are being prepared. The co-operation of projection machine manufacturers or their distributors can profitably be called into use in the planning of a projection room and in considering its equipment. A number of instances are known where the design of the projection room, relegated to last-minute consideration by the architect or owner, has necessitated expensive remodeling when it has been found that beams and other constructional features made proper projection impossible.

The desirable projection room may vary in size but to acommodate two projectors, it should be at least 15 feet by 10 feet, with 12 foot ceiling. This size will also care for a spotlight and slide dissolver. By all means toilet facilities should be provided and a shower bath is highly desirable.

For construction, a floor of 6 inch cement slab is recommended with 4 inch tile wall. Doors, windows and casings should be of steel. There should be two entrances to the booth. A room adjacent to the booth, at least 8 by 8 and well ventilated should be provided for the generator.

It is important that in the event of fire the flame or smoke be kept out of the auditorium and for this reason the aperture on the front wall of the booth should be lined with steel and fitted with steel covers which will automatically drop when a fusible link melts that is over each projector, releasing the aperture covers.

Atlas Metal Works, 2601 Alamo Street, Dallas, Tex.
Coxsackie Holding Corporation, Coxsackie, N. Y.
Enterprise Optical Manufacturing Company, 4431 West Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Holmes Projector Company, 1815 Orchard Street, Chicago, Ill.
International Projector Corporation, 90 Gold Street, New York City.
The National Theatre Supply Company, 92-96 Gold Street, New York City.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.

▲

Projection Machines

PROJECTORS HERE referred to are the standard non-portable machines designed for permanent installation, usually in theatres. It is the expressed belief of theatre owners and projectionists that practically ideal projection is possible with equipment available at present, provided it is in the hands of a competent operator. Modern projection machines are the result of many years of improvement and development to meet the ever-growing requirements for the best possible screen results.

Noticeable in the latest developments are the efforts of the manufacturers to keep abreast of the exacting requirements for projection in conjunction with sound reproduction. A type of shutter designed to eliminate the heat from the film and to provide air currents tending to draw dust and dirt from the film, are among the latest developments.

All late model standard projectors are either constructed specially for sound picture projection or are readily adapted to any make or model of sound apparatus, either for sound-on-disc or sound-on-film. The latter method, due to greater thickness and density of film requires the use of much more amperage at the arc and this factor has been met with lamps and lamphouses of greater illuminative output capacity. Also the use of the perforated sound screen has to a very great extent added to the necessity of greater illumination. Moving picture projectors are now constructed more acurately and sturdily than ever before due to the more exacting requirements of talking picture projection and greater area of picture surfaces.

While thousands of dollars are frequently spent in many other departments of the theatre an apparent indifference to the importance of the best possible projection has been shown by too many theatre owners in the past. Fortunately, this attitude is undergoing a very marked change and projection is beginning to receive due attention.

The motion picture theatre, despite the many trimmings connected with its construction today, offers to the public as its chief attraction the film story on the screen. Even sound has not made clarity of image less important. That the projected image should be as bright and steady as it is possible to produce by modern machinery and engineering skill goes without saying.

One of the handicaps to the securing of proper projection in the past has been in the delay given this phase of the theatre at the time plans for the house are made. In a measure responsibility for this may be placed with the architect who, in his desire to create a palace of beauty and grandeur has apparently failed to consider that such facilities are without purpose unless the thing which the public pays its money to see—the picture on the screen—is of a quality to produce the highest type of entertainment.

It is not the desire nor the intention here to go into any technical details concerning projection machines. It is rather aimed in these columns to impress upon the exhibitor who is not already alive to the fact that projection in his theatre should have his keenest attention. The picture is the main attraction practically always and any skimping in its quality ultimately will be reflected in decreased receipts.

Baird Motion Picture Machine Company, 31 E. Runyon Street, Newark, N. J.
The Coxsackie Holding Corporation, Coxsackie, N. Y
Andre Debrie, Inc., 115 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Enterprise Optical Manufacturing Company, 4431 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Holmes Projector Company, 1815 Orchard Street, Chicago, Ill.
International Projector Corporation, 90 Gold Street, New York City.
Sam Kaplan Mfg. & Supply Company, 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
The Pathe Company, Bound Brook, N. J.
Royal Zenith Projectors, Inc., 33 W. 60th Street, New York City.

▲

Projection Machine Parts

NO MACHINE is stronger or more efficient than its parts. Replacements in projection machines are a more important phase of showmanship today than ever before, with the constantly growing demands of both the industry and the public for the best possible projection of motion pictures. Concerns dealing in parts for projection machines have their experts and the wise exhibitor gets their opinion.

Coxsackie Holding Corp., Coxsackie, N. Y.
Crown Motion Picture Supplies, 311 W. 44th St., New York City.
Fogelburg Engineering Company, 129 So. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
Fuerstenberg & Company, 327-29 So. Market Street, Chicago, Ill.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Globe Reliance Corporation, 29 Glenwood Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

GoldE Manufacturing Company, 2013 Le Moyne Street, Chicago, Ill.
Guercio & Barthel, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.
Sam Kaplan Mfg. & Supply Company, 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Lavezzie Machine Works, 160 N. Wells Street, Chicago, Ill.
Motion Picture Machine Company, 3110 West Lisbon Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.
The National Theatre Supply Company, 92-96 Gold Street, New York City.
Precision Machine Company, 368 Milwaukee Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
S. O. S. Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Projectors, Advertising

EXPLOITATION IN THE theatre lobby by means of an advertising projector using trailers from curent or forthcoming attractions is a means of theatre publicity that is growing in popularity. Projectors for this purpose are available together with a trailer service. By means of recessing the screen daylight projection has been made possible. Continuous and automatic action is a feature of many of the advertising projectors now available. They may be had with or without facilities for sound.

Excelsior Illustrating Company, 226 W. 56th Street, New York City.
Geier & Bluhm, Inc., Troy, N. Y.
Holmes Projector Company, 1815 Orchard Street, Chicago, Ill.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.
RCA Victor Company, Photophone Division, Camden, N. J., and 411 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
Yankee Sales Company, 491 Sixth Avenue, North Troy, N. Y.

▲

Projectors, Portable

Refer to PORTABLE PROJECTORS

▲

Public Address Systems

PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEMS provide a means of electrically amplifying the voice. The microphone picks up the ing to the original sound waves, these "words" are carried through amplifiers to the speakers, where they are transformed into their original physical form as sound waves, only now of much greater intensity than when merely created by the human vocal mechanism. Public address systems are used principally in the theatre for announcements, though it is adaptable to many related purposes. Microphonic attachment may be made at several points in the system, making its function available to the manager in his office as well as backstage.

Associated Engineering Laboratories, Buffalo, N. Y.
H. J. Baier & Son Public Address Systems, Inc., 2134 Lee Road, Cleveland, O.
Federated Purchaser, Inc., 23-25 Park Place, New York City.
Full Range Laboratories, P. O. Box 112, Rochester, New York.
Gates Radio & Supply Company, Quincy, Ill.
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corp., 421 Lyell Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
Macy Electric Mfg. Company, 1451 39th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Operadio Mfg. Company, St. Charles, Ill.
RCA Victor Company, Photophone Division, Camden, N. J.
Samson Electric Company, Canton, Mass.
Racon Electric Company, Inc., 52 E. 19th Street, New York, N. Y.
Western Electric Company, 250 W. 57th Street, New York City.

▲

Pulleys, Variable Speed

THIS EQUIPMENT is used in theatres for such purposes as driving ventilation fans. Because the proper audition of sound pictures requires the reduction of extraneous noises to a minimum, such drives are designed to operate quietly. Another desirable characteristic is an ability to operate without creation of heat. They are constructed for variable speeds so that the actual speed of the drive itself can be varied while the motive power remains constant.

Horton Manufacturing Company, 3016 University Avenue, S. E., Minneapolis, Minn.

▲

Radium Paint

RADIUM PAINT is a substance which gives a spectacular effect to the stage when the house is darkened. Its application has been simplified, and it is used with frequency in the stageshows of the country's motion picture theatres. It may be obtained in different shades, and offers a colorful background for the show.

Lester, Ltd., 18 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
A. Strobl, 35 West 25th Street, New York, N .Y.

▲

Railings, Bronze and Iron

Refer to BRONZE AND IRON WORK, ORNAMENTAL

▲

Rails, Rope

Refer to AISLE ROPE

▲

Rain Insurance

Refer to INSURANCE

▲

Records for Sound Equipment

TO THE EXHIBITOR who has installed a music and sound reproducing device, or is contemplating the installation of such an instrument, a comprehensive library of records is of first consideration. Such a library should contain a wealth of material so that any picture, whether comedy or dramatic, may be cued.

American Record Corporation, 1776 Broadway, New York City.
Brunswick Radio Corporation, 1307 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Columbia Phonograph Company, 1819 Broadway, New York City.
Gennett Record, 729-7th Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Hollywood Productions, 6331 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood, Cal.
Pathe Phonograph & Radio Corporation, 20 Grand Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.
RCA-Victor Company, Camden, N. J.

▲

Record Cabinets

RECORD CABINETS house records when not in use and also are employed for arranging the records conveniently for playing. Some cabinets hold the records in cueing sequence so that no time is lost in finding the record specified on the cue sheet.

Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Recording

MOTION PICTURE sound recording is divided into two general types —recording on discs, and recording on film.

In modern electrical recording the sound is picked up by a sensational electrical microphone. The microphone sets up a weak current which pulsates with the vibrations of the sound being recorded. This current is amplified, filtered and again amplified to the strength necessary to operate the mechanism necessary to make the impressions on the wax records. By this system any number of different sounds can be picked up and the volume of each regulated to the desired volume.

In sound-on-film recording, the sound waves translated into electrical energy by the microphone, are further translated into light waves, which affect the emulsion of the film in the usual photographic manner, creating light and dark areas along one side of the film. These areas (depending in their form upon whether the light-valve or oscillograph method of light translation has been used) represent the original sound waves in their light correlatives.

Blue Seal Sound Devices, Inc., 130 W. 46th Street, New York, N. Y.
Canady Sound Appliance Company, 1776 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Columbia Phonograph Company, 1819 Broadway, New York City.
Federated Purchaser, Inc., Department P., 25 Park Place, New York City.
Marsh Laboratories, Inc., 306 So. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
National Motion-Ad Company, 2448-59 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Rapid Film Company, 1706 Central Parkway, Cincinnati, O.
RCA-Victor Company, Camden, N. J.
Vitaglo Studios, 4925 Sheridan Road, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Rectifiers

AN ELECTRICAL rectifier is a device for adapting 110 volt or 220 volt alternating current to direct current for use with motion picture projection low intensity reflecting arc and hand fed arc lamps. It produces up to 30 amperes of steady D. C. supply. Rectifiers have a price range from $125 up.

American Transformer Company, 178 Emmet Street, Newark, N. J.
Century Electric Co., 1806 Pine St., St. Louis, Mo.
P. E. Chapman Electrical Works, 1820 Chouteau Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Fidelity Electric Company, Lancaster, Pa.
Forest Manufacturing Corp., 145 Valley Street, Belleville, N. J.
Garver Electric Company, Union City, Ind.
General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.
Interstate Electric Company, 4339 Duncan Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Radio Receptor Company, 106 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Reynolds Electric Company, 2650 West Congress Street, Chicago, Ill.
Sarvas Electric Company, Inc., 22-14 40th Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.

▲

Reels

THERE ARE VARIOUS types of these made, from the 10-inch, as used by film exchanges, to the accurately constructed type used on the projector machines. Some have machine embossed sides, wire welded sides, and still another type has die cast sides. Most of the types offered for use on the projectors have large diameter film hubs, which greatly aid in relieving the strain on the projector as well as giving more even take-up tension.

E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash, Chicago, Ill.
Globe Machine & Stamping Company, 1250 W. 76th Street, Cleveland, O.
Goldberg Brothers, 1646 Lawrence Street, Denver, Colo.
Neumade Products Corporation, 249 W. 47th Street, New York City.
E. J. Schaub, 30 No. Railroad Avenue, Corona, Long Island, N. Y.
Universal Electric Welding Company, 9-16 Thirty-seventh Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.
W. & W. Specialty Company, 159 West 21st Street, New York City.

▲

Reel End Alarms and Film Indicators

A MECHANICAL DEVICE placed on the upper magazine of a picture machine to warn the operator that the end of the reel of film is near, takes the name of Reel End Alarm. They are so constructed that they can be set to ring a warning at any distance from the end.

At all times, the amount of film on the upper reel is shown.

E. W. Hulett Manufacturing Company, 1772 Wilson Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
W. G. Preddey, 187 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, Cal.

▲

Reflectors

REFLECTORS ARE MADE for Mazda Projectors, Reflecting Arc Lamps, and for Spotlights. Various sizes are made with different spherical curves, as well as parabolic curves. Prices range from $3.75 to $20.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, Rochester, N. Y.
Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Curtis Lighting Company, Inc., 1119 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
Fish-Schurman Corp., 230 E. 45th St., New York City.
Hub Electric Company, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Sunlight Reflector Company, Inc., 226-228 Pacific Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Wheeler Reflector Company, 275 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.

▲

Reflector Arc Lamps

Refer to LAMPS, REFLECTOR ARC

▲

Reproducing Devices for Sound and Music

Refer to SOUND EQUIPMENT, COMPLETE

▲

Rewinders

Refer to FILM REWINDERS

▲

Rheostats

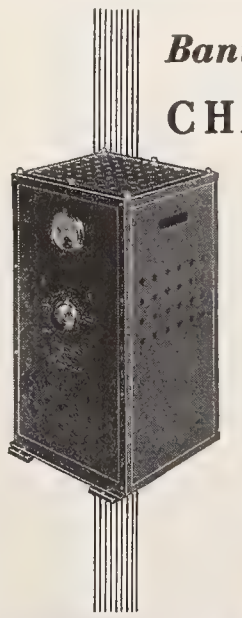
AN IMPORTANT item of projection equipment is the Rheostat. A rheostat may be described as a resistor provided with means for varying resistance (opposition). The resistance may be varied by having a contact lever or slider moved over a number of stationary buttons or segments between which sections of the rheostat are connected, by compressing a number of carbon or graphite disc or parts, by using a number of levers or knife-switches for cutting in and out resistance.

Cutler-Hammer, Inc., Milwaukee, Wis.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
The Hertner Electric Company, 12690 Elmwood Avenue, Cleveland, O.
Hoffman-Soons, 387 First Avenue, New York City.
International Projector Corp., 88-96 Gold St., New York City.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Metropolitan Electric Mfg. Co., East Avenue & 14th Street, Long Island City, N. Y.
Ward Leonard Electric Company, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co., East Pittsburgh, Pa.

▲

Rigging, Stage

Refer to HARDWARE, STAGE



▲

Safes, Box Office

THIS IS A SAFE anchored inside the box office into which the cashier may drop silver coins and bills as received from patrons beyond what is needed for purposes of making change. This type of safe has been developed as a result of the many "stick-ups" of theatre box offices in which the robber has obtained receipts running into several thousand dollars. It is widely used in several other trades, the idea, in brief, being that with this type of safe in the box office a theatre is likely to lose only the amount which it is keeping exposed for making change.

Box office safes are made of steel and provided with a slot into which surplus receipts are placed as received, or are equipped with a chute through which the surplus receipts may be dropped. Safes of this type usually make possible the lowest rates of burglary insurance.

Gunite Foundries Corporation, Rockford, Illinois.
Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co., 400 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
York Safe & Lock Company, York, Pa.

Banish

CHANGE-OVER troubles

GARVER KURRENT CHANGER

Changes A.C. to D.C. saving 20-30%. Delivers 15 to 30 Amps of constant, pure, white light quietly, dependably, without sound interference. Recommended by leading lamp manufacturers. $150.

REPRESENTATIVES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

GARVER Electric COMPANY

UNION CITY IND.

Sanitary Specialties

THE THEATRE in its modern clothes, and to meet local health board regulations, must adopt a strict policy of sanitation. Such a policy encourages patronage and, what is just as important, it will eliminate complications with local authorities.

Arthur Beck Chemical Manufacturing Company, 4743 Bernard Street, Chicago, Ill.
Creco Company, Inc., 36-06 43rd Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.
Huntington Laboratories, Inc., Huntington, Ind.
U. S. Sanitary Specialties Company, 435 S. Western Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Scenery, Stage

Refer to STAGE SCENERY AND DRAPERIES

▲

Scenic Artists Service

OFTENTIMES AN exhibtor is in need of someone to paint a front drop or curtain, or do some special building and painting of sets for a stage prologue. There are several reliable firms that make a specialty of this kind of work. They will design and decorate the set to suit the exhibitor's needs and often will recommend lighting combinations that will do a lot to increase the beauty of the set.

Philip Gelb Studios, 10 W. 47th Street, New York City.
Novelty Scenic Studios, 340 W. 41st Street, New York City.
Tiffin Scenic Studios, Tiffin, O.
Volland Scenic Studios, 3737 Cass Street, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Schools

THEATRE MANAGEMENT and theatre organ playing are no longer hit-or-miss propositions. Both have become highly specialized. The theatre manager must be trained in administration duties, advertising and technics, and the organist must be able to dramatize the music to accompany the screen attractions. So valuable do chain organizations consider the trained man or woman that they are demanding those persons who have become skilled through graduate work in schools.

The Del Castillo Theatre Organ School, 209 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass.
New York Institute of Photography, 10 W. 33rd Street, New York City.
RCA Institutes, Inc., 75 Varick Street, New York City.
Theatre Managers Institute, 325 Washington Street, Elmira, N. Y.

▲

Screens

THERE ARE THREE types of screens for motion picture projection, metallic surfaced, white surfaced and beaded surfaced. Sound screens are perforated to permit the issuance of the sound waves from the horns behind.

The metallic surfaced screens are built in various finishes, from a smooth surface to a heavy pebbled surface. The smooth surfaced screen has perpendicular reflective characteristics, while the heavy pebbled surfaces somewhat diffuse the light. In wide houses, the best image is obtained on the latter type. Metallic surfaces, as a rule, are built to fit the requirements of each house.

Flat white or diffusing type screens in most cases are used with high intensity projection. Screen surfaces are made to meet the requirements of mazda, reflecting arc, regular arc and high intensity projection. Prices of screen range from 50 cents to $2 per square foot.

Screens for sound pictures are used with most sound apparatus. They differ from silent screens in that they are porous. When the horns are located behind the screen, a tightly woven canvas would retard or muffle the sound. These screens are perforated or otherwise made porous. Some are coated with a silver finish and are constructed to lace into a frame.

Beaded Screen Corporation, Roosevelt, L. I., N. Y.
Da-Lite Screen Company, 2715 N. Crawford Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Keasbey & Mattison Company, Ambler, Pa.
Minusa Cine Screen Company, 2665 Morgan Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Ortho-Krome Screen Co., 49th and Botanic Avenues, Philadelphia, Pa.
Raven Screen Company, 147-51 E. 24th Street, New York City.
Schoonmaker Equipment Company, 276 Ninth Avenue, New York City.
Walker Screen Company, 238 Sixth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Whiting & Davis, Plantville, Mass.

▲

Screen Frames

AFTER ALL, THE picture's the thing, and without stability and solidity of the screen frame the picture is being shown at a disadvantage to both theatre owner and projectionists, to say nothing of the patron. Billowing of the screen is a blow to good projection. Now, too, there is the added element of the steel frame as another form of equipment development.

Da-Lite Screen Company, 2715 N. Crawford Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Schoonmaker Equipment Company, 276 Ninth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

▲

Screen Masks

LARGER SCREENS HAVE come into rather general vogue recently, due to the elaborate type of productions now being produced which, with the use of special lenses have enabled theatres to present outstanding scenes with greater effect and scope. The many opportunities to use the full screen to give added value to important scenes have brought about the development of the screen modifier, or mask which, automatically operated, permits framing of the screen at any desired size. The screen modifier, or mask, was first used in connection with sound-on-film to compensate for the sound on the edge of the film. This equipment is now being used in many other ways, especially in achieving ingenious opportunities for titles, announcements and special trailers.

Armstrong Studios. Inc., 1717 Cordova Street, Los Angeles, Cal.
Peter Clark, Inc., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
Vallen Electric Company, Inc., 225 Bluff Street, Akron, Ohio.

▲

Screen Paint

Refer to PAINT, SCREEN

▲

Screen Resurfacing

TO INSURE proper screen illumination without increasing power consumption or incurring the risk of glare, the screen surface should be kept as reflective as possible. In spite of regular cleaning routine, however, screens gradually get soiled, and in instances in which it is not felt that a new screen is warranted, one has recourse to resurfacing.

When the screen surface was solid, resurfacing presented only the problems represented by the necessity for uniform whiteness and proper reflection and diffusion. The sound screen, however, is perforated (except in rare instances in which the horns may be located elsewhere than behind the screen), and in resurfacing means must be employed to keep the perforations free of the new material. A vacuum cleaner has been used successfully for this purpose.

Exhibitors have used a flat white paint to resurface their screens. However, due to the greater necessity today for an immaculate screen, the practice of resurfacing is increasing, and as a result specific materials and expert methods are available. One of these materials is sprayed on, after the screen is washed, and is of such character that it does not clog the perforations, and that it restores to the screen a high reflective power. One of the characteristics cited in a resurfacing material now on the market is its penetrability, causing it to permeate the texture of the screen fabric, restoring its original tightness.

The Motion Picture Screen Resurfacing Company, 4169 Pearl Road, Cleveland, Ohio.
Raytex Screen Process Company, 14117 Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Seat Covers

Refer to CHAIR COVERS

▲

Seat Indicators, Vacant

Refer to USHER SIGNAL SYSTEMS

▲

Seats, Theatre

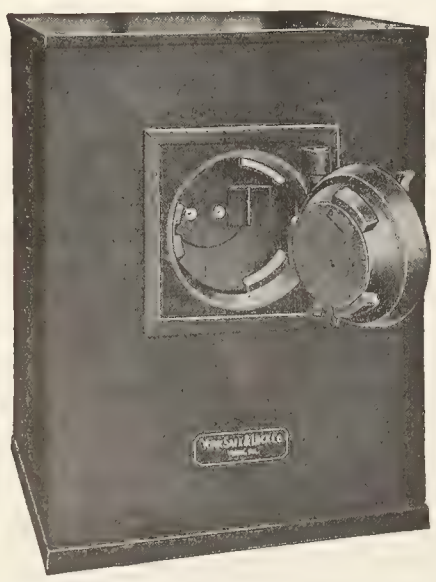
Refer to CHAIRS, THEATRE

▲

Shutters, Metal Fireproof

THE PORT SHUTTER is made entirely of metal with a metal sliding suspended on a cord in which is connected a fusible link. In case of fire, the fusible links melts and the fire shutter automatically drops over the port hole in the booth. They are made to fit standard openings, such as projection port holes, stereopticon port holes and spotlight port holes. Prices range from $9 to $25.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Best Devices Company, Film Building, Cleveland, O.
H. B. Cunningham, 964 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.
The Moeschl-Edwards Corrugating Company, Inc., 411 E. Fifth Street, Cincinnati, O.
W. G. Preddey, 187 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, Cal.



Signs, Directional

TAKE THE CASE of a patron who comes from the auditorium and asks for directions. If the theatre owner has had this experience he realizes the embarrassment and other inconvenience. The patron is paying his way into the theatre and he deserves every consideration. The modern theatre today is equipping itself with the directional sign. Every business building is doing likewise.

Signs may be considered in two general groups—those that are illuminated and those which are etched on metal or wood without illumination. The illuminated signs, which are highly artistic in finish and construction, are made to read either from one side or both. The lettering in the signs is chipped into the glass and silvered, making it easy to read in daylight.

Your BEST PROTECTION

THE YORK ROUND DOOR CHEST does more than reduce your insurance costs. It actually discourages attempts at burglary. For this sturdy chest has a reputation in the underworld as an extra tough customer. Even the most experienced cracksmen have never been able to open one. Anchored in a block of solid concrete, it cannot be moved or attacked at any point except the heavy, burglar-resisting door. Equipped with "hold-up" partition to discourage hold-up.

Write for illustrated, descriptive folder.

YORK SAFE & LOCK CO.
YORK, PENNSYLVANIA
Manufacturers of the World's Greatest Vaults
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

The letters glow in a soft greenish color. Illumination is accomplished with 25-watt showcase lamps. Signs are fitted with lamps, cord and plug ready for attaching to light socket.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Guercio & Barthel, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Hub Electric Company, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Ideal Sign Company, Inc., 149 Seventh Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Lu-Mi-Nus Signs, Inc., 2736 Wentworth Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Metal Products, Inc., 1434 N. Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Q-R-S Neon Division, General Scientific Corporation, 4829 So. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
Rawson & Evans, 710 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
Tablet & Ticket Company, 1015 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Viking Products Corporation, 422 W. 42nd Street, New York City.
The Voigt Company, 1745 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

▲

Signs—Electric

MOTION PICTURE theatres are dealers in the use of electrical advertising, the usual electric signs at some of the metropolitan houses being the most elaborate of their kind. Since the sign must necessarily be made with consideration for the size of the theatre facade and facilities for anchoring it, the matter is usually given individual consideration, and sketches prepared for the specific building to which the sign is to be fastened.

American Signs Corporation, Kalamazoo, Mich.
The Artcraft Sign Company, Box 86, Lima, O.
Claude Neon Lights, Inc., 41 E. 42nd Street, New York City.
Eagle Sign Company, 575 Albany Street, Boston, Mass.
Federal Electric Company, 8700 S. State Street, Chicago, Ill.
Ideal Sign Company, Inc., 149 Seventh Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Lu-Mi-Nus, Inc., 2736 Wentworth Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Metal Products, Inc., 1434 N. Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Q-R-S Neon Division, General Scientific Corporation, 4829 So. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
Textile Electric Sign Company, Inc., 500 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
The Philadelphia Sign Company, 338 N. Randolph Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
United Signs Corporation, 3728 30th Street, Long Island City.
U. S. Electric Sign Company, 208 E. 27th Street, New York City.

▲

Signs, Exit

Refer to EXIT LIGHT SIGNS.

▲

Signs, Marquee and Attraction Board

ELECTRIC ILLUMINATION is a bonanza to the program. Presenting the program in the marquee or in the attraction board is a box office asset. The electric presentation of a theatre and a program is an invaluable adjunct to the theatre attendance. Large and small theatres,

American Signs Corporation, Kalamazoo, Mich.
Artcraft Sign Company, Box 86, Lima, O.
Claude Neon Lights, Inc., 41 E. 42nd Street, New York City.
Eagle Sign Company, 575 Albany Street, Boston, Mass.
Hub Electric Company, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Ideal Sign Company, Inc., 149 Seventh Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Lu-Mi-Nus Signs, Inc., 2736 Wentworth Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Metal Products, Inc., 1434 N. Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Q-R-S Neon Division, General Scientific Corporation, 4829 So. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
Texlite, Incorporated, 500 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
United Signs Corporation, 3728 30th Street, Long Island City, N. Y.
U. S. Electric Sign Company, 208 E. 27th Street, New York City.

▲

Slides

SLIDES ARE DIVIDED into four different classes: Song slides, advertising slides, announcement slides and special advertising slides. Song slides have come into vogue within the last few years.

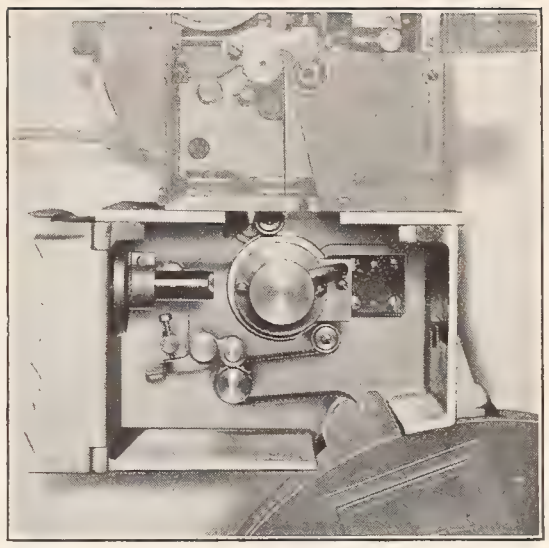
A patented slide, having a paper frame and a composition transparency flexible enough to be placed in a typewriter, permits the management to prepare its own slides, at a moment's notice if need be, and is thus particularly useful for special announcements.

Kae Studios, 112 W. 44th Street, New York City.
Kansas City Slide Mfg. Co., 1717 Wyandotte, Kansas City, Mo.
Loucks & Norling, Inc., 246 W. 55th Street, New York City.
National Slide Company, 7 W. 44th Street, New York City.
National Studios, 226 W. 56th Street, New York City.
Quality Slide Company, 6 E. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
Radio-Mat Slide Company, 1674 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Ransley Studios, 108 N. Dearborn Street, Chicago. Ill.
Sterling Pictorial Service, 151 W. 46th Street, New York City.
The U. S. Slide Company, 14 E. 8th Street, Kansas City, Mo.
Victor Animatograph Corporation, Davenport, Ia.
Visual Service Company, Inc., 245 W. 55th Street, New York City.

▲

Soaps, Liquid

Refer to SANITARY SPECIALTIES



▲

Sound Equipment, Complete

MUSIC and sound reproducing devices are of two types, synchronous and non-synchronous. The latter use phonograph records, which are cued to the picture. The majority of these machines, which have from two to four discs for the records, are operated from the pit or other location in view of the screen. The synchronous type, however, is operated from the projection booth, employing disc records or film recordings made in conjunction with the picture.

Among the developments in motion picture sound is the increase in the employment of the sound-on-film method of reproductoin. Experiment has eradicated many of the disadvantages of this method and increased its advantages.

Associated Engineering Laboratories, Buffalo, N. Y.
Bestone, Incorporated, 1514 Davenport Street, Omaha, Neb.
The Cincinnati Time Recorder Company, 1733 Central Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Cremonim-Wood Corp., Fisk Bldg., New York City.
Dependix Equipment Corp., P. O. Drawer 4286, Jacksonville, Fla.
Herman A. DeVry Company, 1111 Center Street, Chicago, Illinois.
Electrical Research Products, Inc., 250 W. 57th Street, New York City.
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Company, 4431 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
Full Range Laboratories, P. O. Box 112, Rochester, N. Y.
Gates Radio & Supply Company, Quincy, Ill.
General Talking Pictures Corporation, 218 W. 42nd Street, New York City.
Good-All Electric Manufacturing Company, Ogallala, Neb.
Gries Reproducer Corp., 485 East 133rd St., New York City.
International Projector Corporation, 90 Gold Street, New York City.
The Kolograph Company, 309 N. Illinois Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.
The Lincrophone Company, Inc., 127 Pleasant Street, Utica, N. Y.
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corporation, 421 Lyell Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
Mellaphone Corporation, 714 University Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.

Don't be content with partial reproduction

Syncrofilm
SOUND EQUIPMENT

Gives You All of It!

Get all you pay for. Get every word, clear and distinct. Get every note at its proper pitch and full intensity. Get 100% reproduction. Get it from Syncrofilm.

Don't be content with missing the higher and lower frequencies. Don't be content with words run together; with background noises; with uneven intensity.

Syncrofilm has one unique, exclusive feature that provides 100% reproduction. This feature is in every model; whatever price you pay for Syncrofilm, you get this feature.

Four times the customary light is projected through the sound track by Syncrofilm. Every tiny change is transmitted to the photocell with four times the usual intensity. Every fine shading of the actor's voice; each sweet overtone of the music reaches the audience. That's how Syncrofilm has improved business for hundreds of houses all over the world.

This outstanding feature is but one of the many that Syncrofilm offers. Syncrofilm can put you on the way back to prosperity if you give it a chance. A trial costs nothing for we will pay you back every cent Syncrofilm costs if you are not satisfied. Write for details.

WEBER MACHINE CORP.
59 RUTTER STREET, ROCHESTER, N. Y.
Export Office: 15 Laight Street, New York City
Cable Address: Romos, New York
Distributors throughout United States and Canada

SOUND EQUIPMENT
Rebuilt and New

Projectors, Screens, Booths, Opera Chairs, Spotlights, Stereopticons, Film Cabinets, Portable Projectors, Arc Lamps, M. P. Cameras, Carbons, Mazda Lamps, Tickets and Machines. . . .

Projection machines repaired and overhauled. Repair parts for all makes of opera chairs. Equipment bought at highest prices.

S. O. S. CORP.
1600 Broadway, New York City

WITH PLATTER PHOTOTONE TALKAFILM

Save—

—In Cost of Maintenance Labor
—In Guarantee Against Replacement Parts
—In Absence of Stray Noise
—Against Loss of Patronage through Poor Quality of Sound
—Through Simplicity of Operation with Modern Sound —Through Reliability of Equipment
—Through Minimum Original Cost
—Through Film Insurance Device

Write us for Full Details, explaining your needs

AC Sound-on-Film Amplification and complete Sound Heads $350 and up.

Pioneers in Sound

PLATTER SOUND PRODUCTS CORP.
NORTH VERNON, IND.

WANTED

A REPRESENTATIVE

familiar with theatre supply dealers now handling proposition that will bring him in contact with independent dealers. Have excellent product and can offer interesting terms. If interested in a commission arrangement send complete details in first letter.

BOX 285
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway New York

Motion Picture Patents My Specialty

PATENTS

William N. Moore

Patent Attorney

Loan and Trust Building
Washington, D. C.

The first important step is to learn whether you can obtain a patent. Please send sketch of your invention with $10, and I will examine the pertinent U. S. patents and inform you whether you are entitled to a patent, the cost and manner of procedure. Personal attention. Established 35 years.

Copyright your play $5.00
Trade-Mark your goods or titles $30.00

Pacent Reproducer Corporation, 91 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Photo-Vox Sound Equipment Co., Box 22, Memphis, Tenn.
Platter Sound Products Company, North Vernon, Ind.
Powers-Cinephone Equipment Corporation, 723 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Royal Zenith Sound Projectors, Inc., 33 W. 60th Street, New York City.
RCA Victor Company, Photophone Division, Camden, N. J.
Scott-Ballantyne Company, 916-18 Redick Tower, Omaha, Nebraska.
Sono Equipment Corporation, 1200 Shelby Street, Indianapolis, Ind.
S. O. S. Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.
Weber Machine Corporation, 59 Rutter Street, Rochester, N. Y.
Western Electric Company, 250 W. 57th Street, New York City.

▲

Sound Equipment Accessories

ACCESSORIES for music and sound reproducing devices are many and varied. This comparatively new phase of the motion picture business has brought new demands upon the theatre. In the word "theatre" are included the exhibitor and the projectionist. These new phases of theatre operation must be studied, and included in the product necessary to operation of such equipment are: Pick-ups, motors, needle cups and covers, automatic stops, headsets, turntables, volume controls (rheostats), electric filter, amplifiers, (power packs), radio tubes, loud speaker units, speakers (magnetic or electro-dynamic), horns (exponential), rotometers, stroboscopic discs, cabinets and cabinet hardware. A well balanced set is imperative and for such a set there are equipment requirements which cannot be overlooked.

There has also been brought out a rectifying device for use with the exciter lamp on the projector. This device eliminates the use of batteries or rectifiers for supplying D. C. current to the filament of the lamp. It consists of a transformer, chokes and condensers, and uses Argon gas tubes for the rectifying unit.

Blue Seal Sound Devices, Inc., 723 Seventh Avenue, New York.
Bodine Electric Company, 2254 W. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.
A. Bodelson, 5060 40th Street, Long Island City, N. Y.
Canady Sound Appliance Company, 1776 Broadway, New York City.
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736-54 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Electrical Research Laboratories, 22nd and Paulina Streets, Chicago, Ill.
Full Range Laboratories, P. O. Box 112, Rochester, N. Y.
G-M Laboratories, Inc., 1731-35 Belmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Good-All Electric Mfg. Company, 251-263 Spruce Street, Ogallala, Nebraska.
E. W. Hulett Manufacturing Company, 1772 Wilson Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
Kellogg Switchboard & Supply Company, 1024-70 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corp., 421 Lyell Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
The Operadio Manufacturing Company, St. Charles, Illinois.
RCA Victor Company, Photophone Division, Camden, N. J.
S. O. S. Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.
Sangamo Electric Company, 122 E. 42nd Street, New York City.
The Sono Lux Company, Inc., East Newark, N. J.
The Square D Company, 6060 Rivard Street, Detroit, Michigan.
Victor Animatograph Corporation, Davenport, Iowa.

▲

Speakers and Horns

HORNS AND SPEAKERS used in sound installations are air columns with a belled outlet, or magnetic or electro-dynamic cones (in baffles or horns), used to project the sound waves created by the amplified electrical pulsations. They are attached to amplifiers and usually number two or more, depending on the size of the theatre.

Bud Speaker Company, 1156 Dorr Street, Toledo, Ohio.
Herman A. DeVry Company, 1111 Center Street, Chicago, Illinois.
Federated Purchaser, Inc., 23-25 Park Place, New York City.
Fox Electric & Manufacturing Co., 3100 Monroe Street, Toledo, O.
Full Range Laboratories, P. O. Box 112, Rochester, N. Y.
Gates Radio and Supply Company, Quincy, Ill.
Jensen Radio Manufacturing Company, 6601 S. Laramie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corp., 421 Lyell Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
Macy Electric Mfg. Co., 1451 39th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Magnavox Company, Ltd., 2131 Bueter Road, Fort Wayne, Indiana.
Operadio Mfg. Company, St. Charles, Ill.
Racon Electric Company, Inc., 52 E. 19th Street, New York, N. Y.
The Rola Company, 4250 Hollis Street, Oakland, Cal.
Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Company, 1060 University Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
Wholesale Radio Service Company, Inc., 100 Sixth Avenue, New York City.
Wright-DeCoster, Inc., St. Paul, Minn.

▲

Speed Indicators

SPEED INDICATOR — an electrical device with an indicator which can be located in the booth, on the orchestra director's table and in the manager's office, with the meters or speedometers attached to the picture machine to register at what rate of speed the film is being run through the machine. It indicates feet per minute and also may show minutes per thousand feet. In modern theatres where the performances are run on a schedule with everything synchronized, speed indicators are a necessity. Prices range from $15 a unit, up. Generators extra.

Barbour-Stockwell Company, 100-300 Broadway, Cambridge, Mass.
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736-1754 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Cinema Specialty Company, Inc., P. O. Box 1037, Gary, Ind.
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Company, 1049 No. Hermitage Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
International Projector Corporation, 90 Gold Street, New York City.
Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, 1826 Diversey Parkway, Chicago, Ill.
Weston Electric Instrument Corporation, Waverly Park, N. J.

▲

Splicing Blocks

A DEVICE USED in theatres and exchanges for splicing motion picture films. Splicing blocks sell for as low as $7.50.

Bell & Howell Company, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Craig Splicer Co., 1031 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif.

▲

Spotlights

Refer to LIGHTS, SPOT

▲

Sprinklers, Automatic

Refer to AUTOMATIC SPRINKLERS

▲

Stage Hardware

Refer to HARDWARE, STAGE

▲

Stage Lighting Equipment

UNDER THE HEADING of Stage Lighting Equipment come strip lights, proscenium strips, footlights, border lights, floodlights, stage effects. There are so many details in connection with stage lighting that we suggest getting in touch with the manufacturers of such equipment for specific information.

Frank Adam Electric Company, 3650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Belson Manufacturing Company, 802 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.

Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1736-1754 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Switchboard Manufacturing Company, 426 S. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
C. W. Cole & Company, Inc., 320 E. 12th Street, Los Angeles, Cal.
Display Stage Lighting Company, Inc., 410 W. 47th Street, New York City.
Hall & Connolly, Inc., 24 Van Dam Street, New York, N. Y.
Hub Electric Company, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Lee Lash Studios, 707 Broadway, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Metropolitan Electric Mfg. Co., East Avenue and 14th Street, Long Island City, N. Y.
Reynolds Electric Company, 2650 W. Congress Street, Chicago, Ill.
Ward-Leonard Electric Company, 37 South Street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
J. H. Welsh, 503 W. 43rd Street, New York City.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.
Wheeler Reflector Company, 275 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.
Wm. Wurdack Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Stage Rigging

Refer to HARDWARE, STAGE

▲

Stage Scenery and Draperies

DRAPERIES ARE an important feature of theatres today. They accent color and give softness and richness to an interior. Architectural lines of doorways and archways are usually distinctively hard and draperies are the mediums by which these lines are softened to give a pleasing appearance.

Armstrong Studios, Inc., 1707 Cordova Street, Los Angeles, Cal.
Beck & Sons, Highland Avenue and Dorchester, Cincinnati, O.
Robert F. Brunton, 449 West 49th Street, New York, N. Y.
Peter Clark, Inc., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
Collins & Aikman Corporation, 25 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Continental Studios, 100 E. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.
Dazians, Inc., 142 W. 44th Street, New York City.
Decorative Arts Co., 300 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
DuPont Fabrics Service, Newburg, N. Y.
Amelia Grain Theatrical Scenery, 819 Spring Garden St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Great Western Stage Equipment Company, 817 Holmes Street, Kansas City, Mo.
S. M. Hexter & Company, Inc., 2400 E. Superior Street, Cleveland, O.
Interstate Decorating Company, 1458 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Landish Studios, Inc., 40 Ames Street, Rutherford, N. J.
Lee Lash Studios, 707 Broadway, New York City.
Mandel Brothers, Inc., State and Madison Streets, Chicago, Ill.
Novelty Scenic Studios, 340 W. 41st Street, New York City.
The Orinoka Mills, 183 Madison Avenue, New York City.
Tiffin Scenic Studios, Tiffin, O.
Twin City Scenic Company, 2819 Nicollett Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
Universal Scenic Studios, Inc., 1218-24 No. Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Volland Scenic Studios, Inc., 3737 Cass Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Windowcraft Valance & Drapery Company, 328 Superior Avenue, N. W., Cleveland, O.

▲

Stereopticons

STEREOPTICONS are used for the projection of lantern slides and effects, illumination being supplied by incandescent or arc lamps. They are made in single units and also for double and triple dissolving. Many unusual effects are possible with the modern stereopticon as developed for theatre use. They can be obtained for as low as $26.00 for Mazda type.

THEATRE EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES

CARBONS — MANY SAVINGS: low in cost due to slow burning, less current—with more light—White, brilliant and steady.

ELECTRIC LAMPS — All sizes, clear and colored; new 6-watt size for marquees, clear and colored, uses 40% less current than the 10-watt size.

NEW EQUIPMENT — Of every description used IN and ABOUT a theatre. Booths, frames, decorating, ticket machines. Tickets and projection room supplies.

TECHNICAL ADVICE AND SERVICE — Of any nature on your problems. We know how. Our service department consists of specialists.

OUR REPAIR AND RESALE DEPARTMENT — Specializes in used machines which are brought into our shops where they are not only thoroughly reconditioned but renewed and absolutely guaranteed.

DON'T WORRY — Get in touch with our nearest branch office, or write to us direct. We furnish prompt, dependable service, and our charges are based on today's conditions.

VORTKAMP & COMPANY
AMUSEMENT SUPPLY SPECIALISTS
1600 Broadway, New York, N, Y.
Telephone: CHickering 4–5550-1

Projecting Sound Pictures
By AARON NADELL

Film Reproduction
Sound-on-disc
Sound-on-film
Amplifiers & Rectifiers
Vacuum Tubes
Acoustics
The Loud Speaker
Motors & Generators
Tracing Trouble
Recording

PRICE (including postage): $2.60

Motion Picture Herald Bookshop
1790 Broadway, NEW YORK, N. Y.

A New Name With Years of Experience

Best Devices Company, Film Building, Cleveland, O.
Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Aubin Avenue at Grand Boulevard, Detroit, Mich.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
National Pictures Service, Inc., 324 E. 3rd Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Victor Animatograph Corporation, Davenport, Ia.

▲

Switchboards

CONTROL OF LIGHTING through the use of switchboards makes possible the wonderful lighting effects achieved in motion picture theatres today. Switchboards for this work are built in many capacities. Scenes for unusual lighting effects may be pre-selected by such a board and the theatre flooded with appropriate lighting scheme at a proper cue by the simple method of throwing a switch. Lighting control systems are being adopted by theatres of lesser size that heretofore have considered such installations as being only for the larger metropolitan houses.

Manufacturers of this type of equipment are glad to furnish engineering service and consult with exhibitors and architects on various phases of these lighting control systems.

Frank Adam Electric Company, 3650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Switchboard Manufacturing Company, 426 S. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
Cleveland Switchboard Company, 2925 E. 79th Street, Cleveland, O.
Cutler-Hammer Manufacturing Company, 12th and St. Paul, Milwaukee, Wis.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Hub Electric Company, 2225 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Nomad Electrical Engineers, 239 West 30th Street, New York, N. Y.
Trumbull Electric Manufacturing Company, Plainville, Conn.
Ward Leonard Electric Company, 37 South Street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.
Wm. Wurdack Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

▲

Switches

NEVER in the history of the theatre has electrical equipment played as vital a role as it does today. From projection room to stage and to manager's office, electricity to a large extent runs the show. With the program on a minute schedule, electrical switches in turn have an important duty to perform.

Frank Adam Electric Company, 3650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Dowser Manufacturing Company, 225 Broadway, New York City.
Hart Manufacturing Company, Hartford, Conn.
Hoffman-Soons, 387 First Avenue, New York City.
Kohler Company, Kohler, Wis.
Metropolitan Electric Mfg. Co., East Avenue and 14th Street, Long Island City, N. Y.
Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.

▲

Telephones, Inter-Communicating

Refer to INTER-COMMUNICATING TELEPHONES

▲

Temperature Control Apparatus

TEMPERATURE control apparatus are devices for automatically controlling the temperature of the auditorium, organ chambers or any part of the theatre where a uniform heat must be maintained. In a control for an auditorium the device is a small thermostat, which actuates a valve on an air-line, which in turn operates the shutters in the air ducts. In the average size theatre several of these will be located at various places and each will operate independently of the other, thus relieving hot or cold spots in any one section. Controls for organ chambers turn on or off electric heaters and also work on the thermostatic principle.

The Foxboro Company, Neponset Avenue, Foxboro, Mass.
Johnson Service Company, 149 E. Michigan Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.
National Regulator Company, 2301 N. Knox Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Powers Regulator Company, 2720 Greenview Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Theatre Accounting Systems

Refer to ACCOUNTING SYSTEMS

▲

Theatre Curtain Advertising

THEATRE curtain advertising in many places has been the means of bringing together the exhibitor and the local merchant on more friendly terms, besides being a source of revenue for the exhibitor. It also has stimulated community interest among the patrons in trading at their neighborhood stores.

Chas. L. Hoyland Company, 180 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Twin-City Scenic Company, 2819 Nicollett Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

▲

Theatre Brokers

Refer to BROKERS, THEATRE

▲

Theatre Dimmers

Refer to DIMMERS

▲

Theatre Seats

Refer to CHAIRS

▲

Tickets

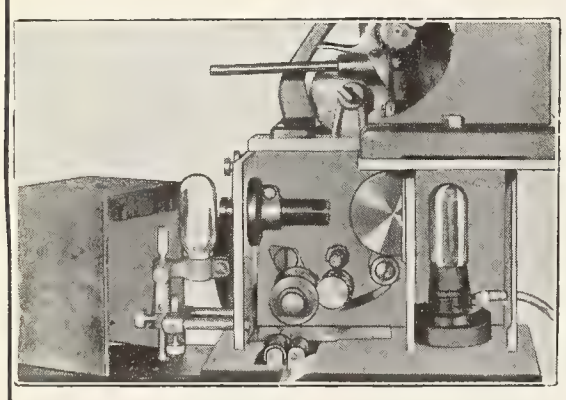
THEATRE TICKETS are available and used in many forms as roll tickets, folded tickets, reserved seat tickets, and ticket coupon books. Roll and folded tickets of the more usual denominations are carried in stock. Tickets are commonly sold in even multiples of 10,000, the price decreasing with additional thousands ordered.

Tickets are made for use with ticket issuing machines and are consecutively numbered. This enables accurate check of tickets sold for each day. Stock tickets may be obtained for 50 cents a roll. Specitl printed roll or center hole folded tickets range in price from $8 for 10,000 to $158 for a million. The admission price must be printed on each ticket, by order of the government.

Arcus Ticket Company, 348 N. Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Columbia Printing Company, 1632 N. Halsted Street, Chicago, Ill.
Daly Ticket Company, 506-508 Vandalia Street, Collinsville, Ill.
Globe Ticket Company, 116 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Hancock Brothers, Inc., 25 Jessie Street, San Francisco, Cal.
International Ticket Company, 50 Grafton Avenue, Newark, N. J.
Keystone Ticket Company, Shamokin, Pa.
National Ticket Company, Shamokin, Pa.
Showman's Press, 416 So. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
The Standard Ticket Register Corp., 1600 Broadway, New York.
Weldon, Williams & Lick, Fort Smith, Ark.

▲

Ticket Booths



KEEPING PACE with advancement in theatre design the box office has been developed from a rather unsightly necessity to a thing of beauty, modernly equipped for speedy and accurate sale of tickets. It is usually designed in harmony with the design of the theatre.

Atlas Metal Works, 2601 Alamo Street, Dallas, Tex.
The Caille Brothers Company, 6210 Second Boulevard, Detroit, Mich.
Libman-Spanjer Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.
Lobby Display Frame Corporation, 549 W. 52nd Street, New York City.
S. Markendorff' Sons, Inc., 159 W. 23rd Street, New York City.
Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
Stanley Frame Company, 630 Ninth Acenue, New York City.

▲

Ticket Choppers

A MACHINE FOR punching tickets dropped in box as patron enters theatre. The ticket chopper guards against the resale of tickets. Mutilation of the ticket consists of perforations made on the ticket, which, however, is done in a manner that does not prevent acurately checking results. Ticket choppers are made in

WILL YOUR THEATRE STAND INSPECTION?

Mellaphone Sound Equipment removes all doubt, it gives you perfect reproduction of voice and music. And you buy this equipment outright by a plan that makes it easy to pay.

Write or wire for full information.

MELLAPHONE CORP.
ROCHESTER NEW YORK

KLIEGL STAGE LIGHTING EQUIPMENT HAS BEEN
STANDARD THEATRE APPARATUS
For More Than
TWENTY-FIVE YEARS
There Must Be A REASON
KLIEGL BROS
UNIVERSAL ELECTRIC STAGE LIGHTING CO., INC.
321 WEST 50th STREET
NEW YORK, N.Y.
SEND FOR OUR NEW CATALOG

several wood and metal finishes, and are operated by electricity, or hand and foot. Prices range from $75 to $250.

Automatic Simplex Register Corporation, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Caille Brothers, 6210 Second Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
General Register Corporation, 81 Prospect Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
Standard Ticket Register Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Ticket Holders

THERE ARE various forms any types of these made for both the single and coupon ticket rolls and generally constructed so that the roll of tickets is automatically held under tension, which prevents the roll of tickets from unwinding. The prices range from $0.50 to $1.50.

General Register Corporation, 81 Prospect Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Standard Ticket Register Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

▲

Ticket Machines

Refer to MACHINES, TICKET

▲

Tool Kits

TOOL KITS, or outfits, are made complete with a set of tools for use on the picture machine. They usually contain "V" Block, Split Screw Driver, Driver Pins, Taper Pin Reamer, Taper Pin Remover and Sprocket Puller. Price is $5.

Enterprise Optical Mfg. Company, 4431 West Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
International Projector Corporation, 90 Gold Street, New York City.
Millen Mfg. Company, 7 Water St., Boston, Mass.
Utility Sales Service, 367 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

▲

Transformers

Refer to GENERATORS, MOTOR

▲

Transparencies, Window Displays

THE TRANSPARENCY offers a colorful and eye-catching form of advertising. Use of this type of display is growing, for the effect is one of delicacy, yet it attracts. It may be ordered in the form of window displays, lobby boards, etc.

Eastman Brothers Studios, 36 W. 46th Street, New York City.
National Studios, 226 W. 56th Street, New York City.
Ransley Studios, 308 W. Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.
Sterling Pictorial Service, 151 W. 46th Street, New York City.

▲

Uniforms

THEATRE PRESTIGE emphasized through the training of ushers, doormen and other attendants, is greatly enhanced by costumes worn by such employees.

Uniforms should be made to individual measurements to assure perfect fit and neatness at all times. Special catalogues are available containing appropriate suggestions for theatre attendants' uniforms.

Angelica Company, 1419 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Brooks, 143 W. 40th Street, New York City.
Browning, King & Company, 260 Fourth Avenue, New York City.
Chicago Uniform & Cap Company 208 East Monroe Street Chicago Ill.
The Costumer, 238 State Street, Schenectady, N. Y.
Gemsco, 692 Broadway, New York City.
Lester, Ltd., 18 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
M. C. Lilly & Company, 293 E. Long Street, Columbus, O.
Maier-Lavaty Company, 2139 Lincoln Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Mandel Brothers, State and Madison, Chicago, Ill.
A. G. Meier and Company, 205 W. Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.
National Uniform Company, 12 John Street, New York City.
The James E. Richards Company, Dayton, O.
Marcus Ruben, Inc., 625 S. State Street, Chicago, Ill.
Russell Uniform Company, 1600 Broadway, New York City.

▲

Upholstery Material

USE OF SOUND absorbing upholstering on theatre seats has come into popular demand since the advent of sound pictures. A popular fabric used in this connection is mohair, which combines beauty with important sound properties. Upholstering material of this nature may be obtained in a variety of colors and executed in interesting patterns and designs. It is claimed for this material that it will not fade, does not mat down, and can be kept fresh and clean with little effort. Use of mohair for upholstering is said to produce a marked elimination of reverberations in the theatre auditorium.

L. C. Chase & Company, 295 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Ronald Grose, Inc., 2 W. 46th Street, New York City.
Ideal Seating Company, Grand Rapids, Michigan.
The Orinoka Mills, 183 Madison Avenue, New York City
John Zimmermann & Sons, Erie and Castor Avenues, Philadelphia, Pa.

▲

Usher Signal Systems

THE USHER SIGNAL SYSTEM provides a sending station at each aisle, equipped with numeral push buttons that give any total of seats that aisle might have. The usher registers on this station the number of vacant seats available, which information is transmitted to the floor or head usher, depending on the size of the theatre. In the larger houses the floor usher relays the information to the head usher. The head usher sends total of all aisles and floors to the doorman who directs the people to the different sections of the house where the vacant seats are waiting.

The Acme Electric Construction Company, 407 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
Automatic Electric Company, Inc., 1027 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.

▲

Vending Machines and Scales

IN RECENT months BETTER THEATRES has inaugurated a department called "Added Income" designed to keep theatre owners informed of possibilities for extra revenue through the use of vending machines and other merchandising ideas.

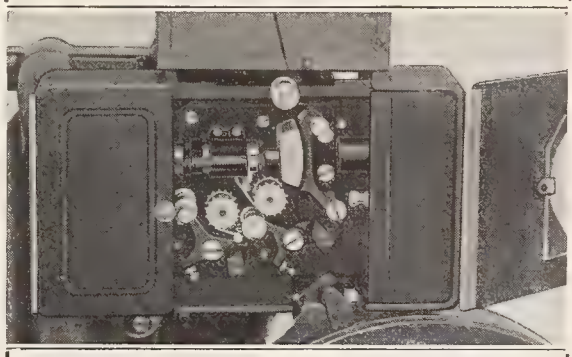
One large circuit which has recently installed candy vending machines and weighing scales in some 600 theatres has made a careful analysis of possible revenue from such sources and reveal an expected income of between $400,000 and $500,000 annually. Their survey shows that an average of one out of every thirteen persons attending a theatre will patronize a vending machine. According to figures from various theatres, candy vending machines have produced from $50 per month upward, each. Many theatres have found room for three or more machines.

Advance Machine Company, 4641 Ravenswood Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The American Vending Company, 39 S. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.
Automatic Canteen Company, 155 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Automatic Selling Associates, Inc., 341 Madison Avenue, New York City.
Columbus Vending Company, 2005-13 E. Main Street, Columbus, O.
Consolidated Automatic Merchandising Corporation, 245 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
O. D. Jennings & Company, 4309 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
Minute Make-Up Company, Bankers Trust Building, Philadelphia, Pa.
Mills Novelty Company, 4110 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
National Automatic Machines Co., 2196-2206 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.
Rock-Ola Mfg. Company, 629 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
Vendola Corp., 636 Eleventh Avenue, New York City.

▲

Ventilating Systems

Refer to AIR CONDITIONING AND COOLING EQUIPMENT—COOLING, VENTILATING SYSTEMS—ELECTRIC FANS—FANS, VENTILATING



▲

Ventilators

PROPER DISTRIBUTION of air in the theatre is an important feature of correct ventilation. One of the methods of achieving this is through the use of ventilators located in the auditorium floor. Air brought into the theatre is distributed in this manner to all parts of the house. Ventilators of this type which are generally known as mushroom ventilators, may be adjusted to permit the desired amount of air entering the auditorium.

American Metal Products Company, 5855 Manchester Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Knowles Mushroom Ventilator Company, 41 N. Moore Street, New York City.
Sobel & Kraus, Inc., 525 E. 136th Street, New York City.

LINCROPHONE
SOUND-ON-FILM

Built for Those Who Demand the Best Costs Less in the Long Run

Enthusiastically endorsed by hundreds of leading exhibitors, proven through months of hardest usage LINCROPHONE offers to-day what is probably the simplest and finest sound on film equipment on the market, especially made for those who want a better product that they can buy outright at a price only a little more than the cheapest.

GUARANTEE

Every LINCROPHONE, when properly installed with our special amplifiers and speakers is guaranteed to reproduce sound equal, or superior, to any other sound on film equipment on the market, irrespective of price.

Send for Complete Description

LINCROPHONE COMPANY, Inc.
W. H. Linton, Pres.
127 Pleasant St. Utica, New York
Dealers Invited to Correspond

THEATRE SUPPLY DEALERS

A DIRECTORY OF CONCERNS IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA SUPPLYING MOTION PICTURE EQUIPMENT OVER RESTRICTED TERRITORIES

Alabama

THE QUEEN FEATURE SERVICE, INC.
1912½ Morris Avenue
Birmingham

Arkansas

THE THEATRE SOUND EQUIPMENT COMPANY
Hope

Arizona

ARIZONA FILM SUPPLY COMPANY
84 West Pennington Street
Tucson

California

CONTINENTAL THEATRE ACCESSORIES, INC.
Burbank

BRECK PHOTOPLAY SUPPLY COMPANY
1969 South Vermont Avenue
Los Angeles

EDUCATIONAL PROJECT-O-FILM COMPANY
214 American Bank Building
Second and Spring Streets
Los Angeles

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
1961 South Vermont Avenue
Los Angeles

PINEAU & HOWSE STAGE LIGHTING COMPANY, LTD.
1451 Venice Boulevard
Los Angeles

B. F. SHEARER COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA, LTD.
1640 West Washington Boulevard
Los Angeles

J. SLIPPER & COMPANY
1968 South Vermont Avenue
Los Angeles

AMERICAN STUDIOS, INC.
1062-1068 Folsom Street
San Francisco

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
121 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco

WALTER G. PREDDEY
187 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco

C. J. HOLZMUELLER THEATRICAL APPLIANCES
1108 Howard Street
San Francisco

B. F. SHEARER COMPANY
243 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco

THEATRICAL PRODUCTS COMPANY
283 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco

WESTERN THEATRICAL EQUIPMNT COMPANY
146 Leavenworth Street
San Francisco

Colorado

GRAHAM BROTHERS
546 Lincoln Street
Denver

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
2106 Broadway
Denver

Connecticut

HARRISON HARRIES
360 Main Street
Hartford

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
133 Meadow Street
New Haven

District of Columbia

BEN LUST THEATRE SUPPLIES
919 New Jersey Avenue, N. W.
Washington

Florida

MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY
Box 5511
Tampa

Georgia

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
187 Walton Street, N. W.
Atlanta

N. E. SAVINI, Agent, Theatrical Supplies
125 Walton Street
Atlanta

Illinois

BASS CAMERA COMPANY
179 West Madison Street
Chicago

E. E. FULTON COMPANY
1018 S. Wabash Avenue
Chicago

E. E. FULTON COMPANY
2001 S. California Street
Chicago

GUERCIO & BARTHEL
1018 S. Wabash Avenue
Chicago

ILLINOIS THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
1024 So. Wabash Avenue
Chicago

MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY
844 S. Wabash Avenue
Chicago

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
825 S. Wabash Avenue
Chicago

JOSEPH SPRATLER
12 East Ninth Street
Chicago

COOPERATIVE AMUSEMENT & SUPPLY COMPANY
Springfield

Indiana

E. C. SCOBEY
220 E. Ohio Street
Indianapolis

E. E. FULTON COMPANY
340 N. Illinois Street
Indianapolis

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
436 N. Illinois Street
Indianapolis

Iowa

DES MOINES THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
1121 High Street
Des Moines

EASTMAN KODAK STORES, INC.
608 Pierce Street
Sioux City

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
561 West Seventh Street
Des Moines

Kansas

SOUTHWEST THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY
309 W. Douglas Avenue
Wichita

Kentucky

AMERICAN MOTION PICTURE COMPANY, INC.
Rex Theatre Building
Louisville

BLAKE AMUSEMENT COMPANY
211 West Jefferson Street
Louisville

FALLS CITY THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
Savoy Theatre Building
211 West Jefferson Street
Louisville

Louisiana

HARCOL MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIES, INC.
Harcol Building, 610-612 Baronne Street
New Orleans

National Theatre Supply Company
220 S. Liberty Street
New Orleans

George Vivirito
318 Baronne Street
New Orleans

Maine

Maine Theatre Supply Company
263 St. John Street
Portland

Maryland

J. F. Dusman
213 Calvert Street
Baltimore

National Theatre Supply Company
417 St. Paul Place
Baltimore

Massachusetts

Capitol Theatre Supply Company
28 Piedmont Street
Boston

Church Film Company
28-30 Piedmont Street
Boston

Independent Theatre Supply Company, Inc.
47 Church Street
Boston

National Theatre Supply Company
211 Columbus Avenue
Boston

New England Motion Picture Equipment Company
334 Worthington Street
Springfield, Mass.

Michigan

McArthur Theatre Equipment Company
2310 Cass Avenue
Detroit

National Theatre Supply Company
2312 Cass Avenue
Detroit

Minnesota

National Equipment Company
409 W. Michigan Street
Duluth

Star Theatre Supply Company
2109 W. Superior Street
Duluth

National Theatre Supply Company
56 Glenwood Avenue
Minneapolis

Northern Theatre Supply Company
19 Glenwood Avenue
Minneapolis

Porter Electric Company
523 S. Seventh Street
Minneapolis

A. W. Starbird
18 Washington Avenue
Minneapolis

Twin-City Scenic Company
2819 Nicollet Avenue
Minneapolis

Western Theatre Equipment Exchange, Inc.
33 Glenwood Avenue
Minneapolis

Missouri

A. A. Electric Machinery Company, Inc.
1117 Cherry Street
Kansas City

Cole Theatre Supply
115 West 18th Street
Kansas City

Independent Theatre Supply Company
118 West 18th Street
Kansas City, Mo.

Exhibitors Film Delivery & Service Company
111 West 18th Street
Kansas City

National Theatre Supply Company
223 West 18th Street
Kansas City

Stebbins Theatre Equipment Company
1804 Wyandotte Street
Kansas City

Erker Bros. Optical Company
610 Olive Street
St. Louis

Exhibitors Supply Company
3238 Olive Street
St. Louis

E. E. Fulton Company
3232 Olive Street
St. Louis

National Theatre Supply Company
3210 Olive Street
St. Louis

Van Ashe Radio Company
10th and Walnut Street
St. Louis

Nebraska

Quality Theatre Supply Company
1518 Davenport Street
Omaha

The Service Theatre Supply Company
303 N. 16th Street
Omaha

U. S. Scenic Studios, Inc.
Film Exchange Building
Omaha

U. S. Theatre Supply Company
Film Exchange Building
Omaha

New Hampshire

G. K. Wadleigh
Hillsboro

New Mexico

Eastern New Mexico Theatre Supply Company
Box 548
Clovis

New York

Continental Theatre Accessories, Inc.
1056 Broadway
Albany

Empire Theatre Supply Company
42 Orange Street
Albany

Hauser Bob Studios
11 W. Tupper Street
Buffalo

National Theatre Supply Company
498 Pearl Street
Buffalo

Queen City Scenic Studios
145 High Street
Buffalo

United Projector & Film Corporation
228 Franklin Street
Buffalo

Acme Exchange
345 E. 17th Street
New York

Amusement Supply Company, Inc.
345 West 44th Street
New York

Auditorium Supply Company
37 East 28th Street
New York

Behrend M. P. Supply House, Inc.
630 Ninth Avenue
New York

Capitol Motion Picture Supply Company
630 Ninth Ave.
New York

Continental Theatre Accessories, Inc.
325 W. 44th Street
New York

Crown Motion Picture Supplies
311 West 44th Street
New York

E. E. Fulton Company
115 West 45th Street
New York

International Theatre Accessories Corporation
730 Seventh Avenue

National Theatre Supply Company
92-96 Gold Street
New York

National Theatre Supply Company
1560 Broadway
New York

S. O. S. Corporation
1600 Broadway
New York

Service on Sound Corporation
1600 Broadway
New York

J. A. Tannenbaum, Inc.
1600 Broadway
New York

Theatre Supply & Service Co.
555 Eleventh Avenue
New York

Vortkamp & Company
1600 Broadway
New York

WILLOUGHBY'S
110-114 W. 32nd Street
New York

CAROL FENYVESSY
130 So. Clinton Avenue
Rochester

MOTION PICTURE EQUIPMENT SERVICE
Brewerton Road
Syracuse

CHARLES BESELER COMPANY
131 E. 23rd Street
New York City

●

North Carolina

CAROLINA THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
206 S. Poplar Street
Charlotte

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
222 West Fourth Street
Charlotte

●

North Dakota

McCARTHY THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
64 Fifth Street, N.
Fargo

●

Ohio

THE WILLIAM BECK & SONS COMPANY
Highland and Dorchester Avenues
Cincinnati

CINCINNATI MOTION PICTUPE COMPANY
1434 Vine Street
Cincinnati

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
1637-39 Central Parkway
Cincinnati

CLARENCE E. RUNEY
1436 Vine Street
Cincinnati

THE ARKAY SIGN COMPANY, INC.
Film Exchange Building
Cleveland

ESCAR MOTION PICTURE SERVICE, INC.
10008 Carnegie Avenue
Cleveland

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
2112 Payne Avenue
Cleveland

OLIVER MOVING PICTURE SUPPLY COMPANY
2209 Payne Avenue
Cleveland

TRI-STATE MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
2108 Payne Avenue
Cleveland

AMERICAN THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY
165 N. High Street
Columbus

DAYTON THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
111 Volkenand Street
Dayton

CLOUSE FILM EXCHANGE
111 West Wayne Street
Maumee

AMERICAN THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
310 St. Clair Street
Toledo

●

Oklahoma

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
700 W. Grand Avenue
Oklahoma City

Oregon

PORTLAND MOVING PICTURE MACHINE COMPANY
Rivoli Theatre Building, Room 206
102 West Park Street
Portland

THEATRE EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE
448-450 Glisan Street
Portland

●

Pennsylvania

CHARLES H. BENNETT
1324 Race Street
Philadelphia

CONTINENTAL THEATRE ACCESSORIES, INC.
1225 Vine Street
Philadelphia

INDEPENDENT THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
309 N. 13th Street
Philadelphia

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
1315 Vine Street
Philadelphia

CLEM RIZZO THEATRE SUPPLIES
251 N. 13th Street
Philadelphia

LEWIS M. SWAAB & SON
5038 Chestnut Street
Philadelphia

WILLIAMS, BROWN AND EARLE, INC.
918 Chestnut Street
Philadelphia

M. S. ENGLAND
425 Van Braam Street
Pittsburgh

MOTION PICTURE MACHINES COMPANY
607 Neville Street
Pittsburgh

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
1721 Blvd. of the Allies
Pittsburgh

PINKNEY FILM SERVICE COMPANY
1028 Forbes Street
Pittsburgh

S. & S. SALES COMPANY
1010 Forbes Street
Pittsburgh

SUPERIOR MOTION PICTURE SUPPLY COMPANY
86 Van Braam Street
Pittsburgh

THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
425 Van Braam Street
Pittsburgh

THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY
940 Quincy Street
Scranton

Rhode Island

RHODE ISLAND THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
357 Westminster Street
Providence

WRIGHT & MACOMBER, INC.
76 Dorrence Street
Providence

●

South Carolina

IMPERIAL FILM SERVICE
N. Main Street
Greenville

INDEPENDENT THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
22 W. North Street
Greenville

TRIO AMUSEMENT COMPANY, INC.
Greenville

●

South Dakota

AMERICAN THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, INC.
320-322 S. Phillips Avenue
Sioux Falls

●

Tennessee

WHITE THEATRE EQUIPMENT
24 Sixth Street
Bristol

MONARCH THEATRE EQUIPMENT
154 E. Calhoun Avenue
Memphis

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
400 S. Second Street
Memphis

●

Texas

DAVID F. PARKER
The Educational Equipment Company
1913a Commerce Street
Dallas

HARDIN THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
714 Hampton Road
Dallas

KING STUDIOS, INC.
309 S. Harwood Street
Dallas

LEE THEATRE SUPPLY
2711 Oak Lawn Avenue
Dallas

DALLAS SCENIC STUDIO, INC.
2700 Ferris
Dallas

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
306 S. Harwood Street
Dallas

SOUTHWEST DISTRIBUTORS
309 Browder Street
Dallas

SOUTHERN FILM SERVICE
1616 Fravis Street
Houston

INDEPENDENT FILM EXCHANGE
352 East Commerce Street
San Antonio

Utah

ALHAMBRA THEATRICAL COMPANY
Paramount Theatre
2429 Kiesel Avenue
Ogden
WORMAN SUPPLY COMPANY
1069 23d Street
Ogden
NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
248 E. First South Street
Salt Lake City
SERVICE THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, INC.
964 Denver Street
Salt Lake City

Vermont

BOARDMAN THEATRE SUPPLY HOUSE
156 Bank Street
Burlington

Washington

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
2400 First Avenue
Seattle
SCENIC AND LIGHTING STUDIO
3227 Western Avenue
Seattle
B. F. SHEARER COMPANY
2318 Second Avenue
Seattle
JOHN W. GRAHAM & COMPANY
707-711 Sprague Company
Spokane
MAXWELL & FRANKS
(Electrical Contractors and Dealers)
724 First Avenue
Spokane

West Virginia

CHARLESTON ELECTRICAL SUPPLY COMPANY
Charleston
CHARLESTON THEATRE SUPPLY
506 State Street
Charleston
McCRAY & McCRAY
327 Main Street
Fairmount
STANDARD THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
3119 McColloch Street
Wheeling

Wisconsin

ART SUPPLY COMPANY
230 W. Water Street
Milwaukee
J. M. KAGEL SCENIC STUDIO
664 Fourth Street
Milwaukee
NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
725 W. Wells Street
Milwaukee
THE RAY SMITH COMPANY
635 N. Seventh Street
Milwaukee
THEATRE SEATING & EQUIPMENT CORPORATION
194 Fourth Street
Milwaukee

Hawaii

HAWAII FILM SUPPLY COMPANY
1267-1269 Fort Street
Honolulu

CANADA

British Columbia

DOMINION THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, LTD.
847 Davie Street
Vancouver
EMPIRE AGENCIES, LTD.
211-13 Bower Building
543 Granville Street
Vancouver
THEATRE EQUIPMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
906 Davie Street
Vancouver

Manitoba

THE AUDIEN EQUIPMENT COMPANY
270 Fort Street
Winnipeg
RADIO INDUSTRIES OF CANADA, LTD.
120 Fort Street
Winnipeg

Ontario

CANADIAN THEATRE & ELECTRICAL SUPPLIES, LTD.
61 Albert Street
Toronto
THE COLEMAN ELECTRIC COMPANY
258 Victoria Street
Toronto
DOMINION THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, LTD.
21 Dundas Square
Toronto
PERKINS ELECTRIC COMPANY, LTD.
277 Victoria Street
Toronto, 2

Quebec

CANADIAN THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
366 Mayor Street
Montreal
ELECTRICS LIMITED
400 McGill Street
Montreal
PERKINS ELECTRIC COMPANY, LTD.
2027 Bleury Street
Montreal

EQUIPMENT AFFAIRS

General Equipment News and Comment

OIL FURNACE

● An oil-burning furnace designed to be especially adapted to heating water supplied through the regular plumbing system of a theatre or other building, has been placed on the market by the General Electric Company. It is completely assembled at the factory. Control is thermostatic.

NEON SIGN

● A new neon sign, combining an electric clock with blue neon tubing contrasting with a flashing red tube on the base, has been developed for lobby display purposes by the General Scientific Corporation of Chicago. The sign devotes the upper half to standard colored stills announcing present or future attractions, while the lower half allots five lines in which metal or cardboard letters are used to set up the theatre name or date placard. The entire display is surrounded by brilliant neon tubing lighting.

MUSIC STAND

● A new model music stand for orchestra pit has been developed by the Liberty Music Stand Company of Cleveland. Effort has been made to eliminate glare or light leaks entirely by means of a triangular opening beneath the lamp. A single lamp of 25 watts is recommended.

The music rack is oval and of plywood construction, with a standard width of 24 inches and a ledge of 3½ inches deep. The stand is equipped with facilities for additional scores, auxiliary instruments, mutes, etc. The frame is of tubular steel and has a three-point base.

NEW LIGHT BROCHURE

● A new catalog showing its full line of theatre lighting apparatus has been issued by Kliegl Brothers of New York. The publication is fully descriptive of each of the many items of equipment, in both text and illustrations. Also supplied are tables and instructions for the use of color and effect mediums.

PEST EXTERMINATOR

● An electric machine for the extermination of insects and pests of all kinds has been brought out by the Blake Manufacturing Company of Springfield, Mass. It may also be used for deodorizing.

The machine is attached to an electric socket, and steam is generated, forcing the insecticide through an adjustable nozzle.

PLANNING THE THEATRE

A SERVICE CONDUCTED BY PETER M. HULSKEN, A. I. A.

NOTE:

IN THIS department Better Theatres will be glad to answer questions pertaining to the preliminary consideration involved in the planning of a new theatre or in the remodeling of an existing one. Only requests for ideas will be answered, since this department cannot assume the practical functions of an architect. All communications intended for this department should be addressed to "Better Theatres," 1790 Broadway, New York. They will be answered in this department. None will be answered by mail. Although only initials will be used in signing the questions published, it is a requirement that all letters bear the signature and address of their writers. The replies will be prepared personally by Mr. Hulsken, who is a practical architect and a member of the American Institute of Architects.

The Question:

FOR A LONG time I have contemplated the remodeling of my theatre but have been putting it off, having the opinion that building costs would still come further down, but now I think that the bottom of prices has been reached and am now ready to proceed. Therefore I take the liberty to ask you for some information.

One of the most important items is the enlarging of the projection room. It is entirely too small. What would be the minimum dimensions for such a room? I want to use two machines.

The house is poorly seated, most of the seats are only 18 inches wide and run from 27 inches to 28 inches from back to back.

At the present time I have 38 rows of seats in two banks of 12 seats in a row each, with center aisle and two wall banks of five seats in a row each. The house is 62 feet wide between the walls Of course the auditorium will have to be redecorated, and how can I improve the space around the screen on the stage? The screen stands 15 feet back from the proscenium, and while I have been using side tabs to fill in the space it never has looked right to me. Do you think a traveler would improve this? I have a small balcony but I can get long without it and use that space for the new projection room and office space. Will you kindly give me an idea what the cost of this remodeling would be and how the present prices compare with those of 1929.—W. D. M.

The Answer:

PERSONALLY I believe that the building prices have reached the bottom and that the present trend is for a substantial increase in the near future. Therefore let me advise you to proceed with your building plans as soon as you possibly can and take advantage of the present low cost and save yourself a neat little sum.

The minimum dimensions for a projection room are 10 x 24 feet. To this you must add space required for generator and rewinding room, if so desired. It is needless for me to state that this projection room will have to be constructed out of fireproof materials and according to your local or state building codes covering theatres.

I can easily imagine that your house is poorly seated, as is the trouble with so many other theatres. It does not pay to sacrifice comfort to gain a few more seats. A seat 20 inches wide is comfortable, and since you have the space I suggest that you space the seats 32 inches back to back as a minimum. As your auditorium is 62 feet wide, why not make a center bank of 13 or 14 seats in a row, as permissible in your State, and two wall banks of seven seats in a row. In this case you will need only two aisles and the best space in the house now occupied by the center aisle will be used for seats. Why not place the projection screen in a cyclorama and have a traveller right in front of the screen of the same color and material as the cyc? A silver material is used a great deal for modern effects. Start the cyc close to the proscenium as possible. It seems that the proscenium arch is a thing of the past, as the stage should be a part of the auditorium, making the effect more intimate. Treat the proscenium as inconspicuously as possible. The decorating of the auditorium should not cost over $1,700; drapes about $400; seats $5,000; and projection room $600; so the entire remodeling should not cost over $8,000. This is about 35 per cent less than it would have cost in 1929.

●

The Question:

WILL YOU please give me the following information in regards to modernizing my theatre? I own an old theatre with a seating capacity of 800. It is a one-floor house. The ceiling is only 15 feet high and I would like to increase this about 10 feet. The roof is supported by wood trusses. Will I have to take off the entire roof and rebuild it? I hate to do this as the roof is in a perfect condition.

The house is 50 feet wide and 150 feet long and a one-story building. I would like to have a 20 foot stage but do not like to go to the expense of building a gridiron. What should be the height of the proscenium arch and how high should the stage be?

The inside walls are plain with strip paneling. The acoustics are very bad. How can I improve this condition? The front is very plain brick without any projecting corners. Is there any material which is thin enough to face the brick with, as I have only 3 inches to go on? How much must I figure by square foot for this kind of material? I want to make this front as modern in design as possible.

I also need a new marquee and attraction boards. How much must I allow for this? The front doors are flush with the outside, and the box office is of the old type along the wall. Don't you think it better to install a ticket booth in the front between the doors? How far shall I place the doors back.—S. M. K.

The Answer:

MY FIRST advice is that you consult with a theatre architect, especially when you want to go modernistic, as a great many architectural crimes have been committed in that name. Be sure not to overdo it, as modernistic is only beautiful when it is plain and simple. You do not have to remove the roof. Just have it jacked up. A careful contractor can do this without damage to the roof. The plaster of the ceiling will have to be removed, then have it replastered with acoustical plaster and cover the panels in the side walls with an absorbing material. The proscenium arch will be 20 feet high, and the stage should be 45 feet high. You can place the beams for the roof the same as one would place the beams for the slots in a gridiron, and by using underslung pulleys you are all set for the rigging.

There are several materials on the market for facing purposes. Most of them require only two to three inches and are very well adapted to modernistic designs. You can figure from two to three dollars per square foot, installed.

You should figure not less than $2 for the marquee and attraction boards. By all means install a ticket booth in the front.

Sound Equipment Leases

(Continued from page 15)

making a test of the proper operation thereof, to supply worn or broken parts and keep the machine in repair for proper functioning.

The theatre owner agreed to pay the sum of $3,180 by twelve promissory notes in the sum of $265 each, the first note to become due on April 20, 1929, and one note each month thereafter until the twelve notes were fully paid. The theatre owner paid the first two notes but failed and refused to pay the notes maturing up to and including March 20, 1930. The General Talking Pictures Corporation filed suit but the theatre owner attempted to avoid liability on the grounds that the General Talking Pictures Corporation is a nonresident corporation and had not complied with the laws of the State of Arkansas authorizing it to do business in this state and therefore could not maintain the suit.

The General Talking Pictures Corporation stated that its place of business is in the city and state of New York and that a representative called on the theatre owner and interested him in obtaining its license agreement. Its representative forwarded to New York the order for the equipment and the General Talking Pictures Corporation prepared in New York the license agreement and forwarded it by United States mail to the theatre owner in Arkansas who signed and returned it to New York. Later the talking machine equipment was shipped F.O.B. from New York to the theatre owner. In holding this business transaction to be interstate, thereby permitting the General Talking Pictures Corporation to file and maintain its suit in Arkansas, the court said:

"The character of the transaction as to whether interstate or intrastate is necessarily determined by the essence of the contract. The essence of the instant contract was the renting or leasing of a picture machine in New York for shipment to McGehee, Arkansas. The agreement was entered into in New York. It was clearly an agreement for an interstate shipment and must be classed as interstate commerce unless that portion of the contract providing for installation, inspection, and repairs renders the transaction intrastate. The decided weight of authority is to the effect that an agreement to install machinery or other apparatus at the point of destination will not divest the sale of its character of interstate commerce. The authorities treat installation of the apparatus as a mere incident to the sale or transaction. . . . In principle, we cannot see why an agreement for inspection and repairs of the machinery after being installed would take the contract of sale or lease out of the protection of the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution."

Obviously, the seller or lessor of talking picture equipment would not be permitted to maintain a suit against a theatre owner in a state in which the seller or lessor has failed to comply with state law requirements, providing the transaction is intrastate. The distinction between an intrastate and an interstate transaction is that an intrastate transaction is one completed in the state in which the theatre is located. However, an interstate transaction relates to a business contract not completed in a single state. For instance, a salesman who travels from one state into another and takes an order for equipment shipped from another state performs an interstate transaction, providing the salesman sends the order for confirmation to his employer located in the foreign state. If, on the other hand, an employer authorizes a salesman to enter a foreign state and complete a contract and the salesman remains in such foreign state and assists in installation of the equipment, this would be an intrastate transaction primarily because the contract was fully completed in the foreign state in which the theatre is located.

Uncertain Agreement

IT IS SETTLED law that where two parties enter into an uncertain or ambiguous agreement neither party is obligated. Moreover, neither party is liable for failure to sign a written contract having complicated stipulations therein not clearly explained in a preliminary conversation during which the theatre owner agreed to sign the written agreement.

For example, in Roig v. Electrical Research Products (57 F. [2d] 639), the owner of a theatre and a seller had conversation during which the seller agreed to install in the theatre certain electrical sound reproducing equipment and the theatre owner agreed to pay for it. However, when the seller had installed the talking picture equipment and presented to the theatre owner a written contract containing obligations not explained in the preliminary conversation, the theatre owner refused to sign the agreement, and the seller filed suit contending that the theatre owner was liable for payment under the contract because the equipment was installed in the theatre and presently in use. Nevertheless, the higher court held the theatre owner not liable.

II
Law of Patents

Restricted Patent Licenses

IN MANY instances provisions in license agreements are invalid which result in neither party being obligated under the contract. Therefore, it is interesting to observe that an absolute property right in patents has been generally recognized by all courts since the patent laws were formulated. In the very old case (Wilson v. Roesseau, 4 How. 646) the court said:

"The law has thus impressed upon it (patent) all the qualities and characteristics of property and has enabled him (inventor) to hold and deal with it the same as in the case of any other property belonging to him, and on his death it passes, with his personal estate, to his legal representatives, and becomes part of the assets."

Reasons for Patent Monopoly

IN THE VERY old and ancient litigation of Pennock v. Dealogue (2 Pet. 1), decided in 1829, the court clearly explained the primary purpose of patent monopoly. The later courts have consistently upheld this court's interpretation of the law, as follows:

"While one great object of our patent laws was, by holding out a reasonable reward to inventors, and giving them an exclusive right to their inventions for a limited period, to stimulate the efforts of genius . . . . the main object was to promote the progress of science and useful arts."

The present laws of the United States give a patentee the exclusive right to control the manufacture, use and sale of his patented invention. If he prefers he may withhold its benefits from all persons and prevent all persons and firms from making, selling and using the invention. In the leading case of Heaton v. Eureka (47 U. S. 146), the Supreme Court of the United States explained this phase of the law, as follows:

"If he (patentee) sees fit, he may reserve to himself the exclusive use of his invention or discovery. . . . That the grant is made upon the reasonable expectation that he will either put his invention to practical use or permit others to avail themselves of it upon reasonable terms, is doubtless true. This expectation is based alone upon the supposition that the patentee's interest will induce him to use, or let others use, his invention. . . . His title is exclusive, and so clearly within the constitutional provisions in respect of private property that he is neither bound to use his discovery himself nor permit others to use it."

Right to Restrict Use

AT VARIOUS times during the early periods of the industrial progress in the United States, the question has frequently been presented to the courts whether or not a patentee has a monopoly of such character that he may legally control the uses to which purchasers of his invention may subject it.

The enactment of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act in the year 1890 resulted in numerous patent litigations, because many purchasers of patented articles contended that this Act affected the previously recognized broad monopoly in patents. Then several years later the Clayton Act importantly modified the previous monopoly afforded inventors by patent rights.

In Henry v. Dick Company (224 U. S. 1), the question before the Supreme Court was whether a patentee manufacturer of a machine may restrict the purchasers' use of it, and control the kind of material to be used in it. The patented machine in controversy had attached thereto a plate containing the following notice:

"This machine is sold by the A. B. Dick Company with the license restriction that it may be used only with the supplies made by A. B. Dick Company, Chicago, U. S. A."

A purchaser of a machine containing a plate bearing the license notice ignored it and proceeded to buy and use supplies and equipment made and sold by a firm other than the patentee manufacturer. The patentee filed suit for infringement. The court held the purchaser bound by the license notice and, therefore, liable as an infringer, notwithstanding the Sherman Act. This law now is obsolete, as it has been overruled.

The Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Bauer v. O'Donnell (229 U. S. 1), established new law presently effective on the rights of a patentee to control the resale price of his patented product.

In this case it was disclosed that each patented article had attached to it a notice that the dealer who purchased it from the manufacturer should resell the device for not less than a stipulated amount. The patentee contended that this notice was valid and enforceable against all purchasers because it constituted a legal agreement made when the sale was completed. However, in holding a patentee not legally entitled to control the resale prices of his product the Supreme Court of the United States explained the new law on the subject, saying:

"The (patent) act secured to the inventor the exclusive right to make, use and vend the thing patented, and consequently to prevent others from like privileges without the consent of the patentee. In framing the act and defining the extent of the rights and privileges secured to a patentee Congress did not use technical or occult phrases, but in simple terms gave an inventor the exclusive right to make, use and vend his invention for a definite term of years. Congress did not stop with the express grant of the rights to make and to use. Recognizing that many inventions would be valuable to the inventor because of sale of the patented machine, or device, to others, it granted also the exclusive right to vend the invention as covered by the Letters Patent. But in view of the facts certified in this case, as to what took place concerning the article in question, it is a perversion of terms to call the transaction in any sense a license to use the invention. The real question is whether in the exclusive right secured by statute to 'vend' a patented article there is included the right, by notice, to indicate the price at which subsequent sales of the article may be made. But, in the essential nature of things, when the patentee, or the person having his rights, sells a machine or instrument whose sole value is in its use, he receives the consideration for its use and he parts with the right to restrict the use. The patented article in the language of the court passes without the limits of the monopoly; that is to say, the patentee or his assignee having in the act of sale received all the royalty or consideration which he claims for the use of his invention, in that particular machine or instrument, it is open to the use of the purchaser without further restriction on account of the monopoly of the patentee."

Effect of Clayton Act

THE CLAYTON ACT in effect provides that it is unlawful for any person to enter into a contract for sale of goods, wares, merchandise, machinery, supplies, or other commodities, whether patented or unpatented, for use, consumption or resale within the United States or any territory thereof, where any condition of the contract may be interpreted to mean that the purchaser shall not use or deal in the goods of a competitor of the seller. In other words, the purpose of the Clayton Act is to prevent buyers and sellers from entering into agreements intended to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

The leading case interpreting the effect of the Clayton Act on patent monopolies is United States Corporation (258 U. S. 451). In this case an action was brought against a corporation which approximately controlled 95% of the business in its line in the United States. The patents in controversy were granted prior to the passage of the Clayton Act.

The important part of the contract in litigation in effect provided that patented machinery leased to users should not be used to make goods on which some operations had been performed by the use of machinery which had not been made by the corporation. Also, the contract provided that if the lessee of the machinery failed to use it exclusively the corporation had the privilege to cancel the contract. Still another clause of the contract provided that the lessee of the corporation machinery agreed to purchase all supplies exclusively from the latter. The court held this contract void and of no effect, in view of the provisions incorporated in the Clayton Act, and said:

"No matter how good the machines of the company may be, or how efficient its service, it is not at liberty to lease its machines upon conditions prohibited by a valid law of the United States. From an early day it has been held by this court that the franchise secured by a patent consists only in the right to exclude others from making, using, or vending the thing patented without the permission of the patentee. . . . The patent grant does not limit the right of Congress to exact Legislature not interfering with the legitimate rights secured by the patent but prohibiting in the public interest, the making of agreements which may lessen competition."

[In the May 6th issue of Mr. Parker will discuss the most important aspects of the law involved in the sound equipment leases themselves.] short newsreel and then the feature picture. The picture was run off with English dialogue. However, they had superimposed on the print the dialogue written in German. Of course, they could not get all of the dialogue on the film, and I wondered just how much sense a picture of this kind would make when the songs would not rhyme in their tongue, and I also wondered how it would sound in German to say, "The son-of-a-gun is a tailor." They seemed to enjoy the performance, however, and the house was a sell-out. No other picture was shown on this program.

A Theatre Architect Visits Europe

(Continued from page 18)

AUSTRIA IS in a very bad financial plight. Its money has been depreciated to such an extent that $15,000, pre-war, is worth only $1 on the present rate of exchange. Naturally this has impoverished a great number of its citizens. So much so, in fact, that begging is put on a systematic basis. Friday is the day allowed for begging, and on Friday each storekeeper has a great quantity of two-groschen pieces on hand. This coin is worth less than a quarter of a cent, and hundreds of beggars march in and out of the stores all day long collecting their alms.

Berlin boasts of a great number of motion picture theatres. Most of them are designed in a bold, horizontal, modern architecture. A great many of them are alterations, and in a number of cases they have revamped the exterior with neon signs so as to give a unique architectural appearance at night. There is no regard for hazards in entering the theatre, as it is very common to step up or down eight or ten steps when entering the vestibule. The box offices are inside the front doors. Lighting systems are very modern in appearance. Every theatre has a bar in its most prominent location.

To find a theatre by a street number is quite a trick, as the streets begin numbering at the corner and number down along the block to the next corner. Then the numbers cross the street and work along the opposite side of the street back to the corner where they started. Therefore each number repeats on a street many times, depending on the number of blocks the street contains. They certainly have worked this out the hardest way.

The cafes in Berlin offer diversified entertainment. There is one cafe six floors in height with a restaurant of a different nationality on each floor. They have an American cabaret with an American band on one floor, the next will represent Italy, then Switzerland, Germany, etc. On each floor the waiters are dressed in the native costume of the country, and the music and entertainment is also typical of the country. Another cabaret in Berlin has telephones on every table. The number of the table is plainly visible and you dial whatever person you care to talk to in any part of the room. (Wouldn't it be difficult if you got the wrong number?)

I crossed the English channel by rail—I don't mean train,—I mean ship's rail—and dear old London greeted me with its usual fog. While pictures are quite the thing in London, the real sensation is continuous vaudeville, and there are a great number of houses running with this policy. This is still the life-saving country for the four-a-day performer.

Many of the theatres have the box offices inside the vestibule, and the great majority of their new theatres are so arranged that you walk down steps to the auditorium level and walk up a few steps to the balcony level. All theatres have bars in connection, and some even have tearooms with dance floors. While Modern is being used in theatre construction in England, it is very much weaker than that used in the theatre architecture in France and Germany.

The legitimate theatre in London still enjoys a good business.

END

Production Methods and the Theatre

(Continued from page 10)

the problem of the producer too, and the effectiveness of the product is very much the problem of the exhibitor as well as the producer. A lack of consideration of the other fellow's problem means a loss of income to both. The importance of a closer relationship between production and reproduction is not recognized even when both phases are controlled as they are in some instances by one organization, of which there are a few remaining examples. The failure of some of the larger producing companies to succeed as both producer and exhibitor can be partially traced to the lack of proper relationship between the two phases of the industry.

It would be well to set forth a definite program at this time, by which production and exhibition can be reguided.

1. Encourage better use of the total area of the screen towards a more effective delivery of the film.

2. Establish a screen shape more suitable than the present one.

3. Establish a new film size and screen sizes to more fully meet the requirements of viewing in the theatre.

4. Eliminate the visual obstruction of any part of the screen due to poor planning.

5. Reduce sharp angles of projection due to poor cinema planning.

6. Establish proper auditorium sizes and shapes for good sound reproduction.

7. Eliminate seating positions affording uncomfortable, distorted and obstructed views of the screen images.

8. Limit sizes of cinema auditoriums to insure intimacy with the performance.

F. H. Richardson's Comment

(Continued from page 26)

A PROJECTIONIST in a small town in my own native state, wants to know, "Why is it that when I focus the white light so that the edges are perfectly sharp, and then thread in a film, the film is out of focus and there is a blurry edge around the picture? Can I do anything to remedy this trouble?

"Another thing: Why is the background of picture blurry or out of focus? Is it any fault with my projectors, or is it the way the pictures are taken? I have a 20-20 Transverter, Ross lenses and Da-Lite screen. Projection distance is 81 feet."

In asking the first question, you should have told me the kind and model of the projectors you use; also the question might be interpreted in two different ways. I should also know the size (width) of the picture you project.

It does not follow that the lens adjustment, that gives a sharp white light outline, will also give a sharp picture. This is by reason of the fact that there may be an appreciable difference in distance from film emulsion surface to projection lens and from aperture edge to projection lens. True, the difference is small. It would be expressed in thousandths of an inch, but the difference may in some conditions amount to as much as four to six-thousandths of an inch, and inasmuch as sharpness of focus depends upon the relation of distances of film emulsion surface and screen surfaces from the focal center of the projection lens, which must be very exactly adjusted, even this tiny measurement may set up the effect you describe.

However, your description is so worded that I cannot be certain this effect is what you have in mind. It is possible you mean that when you have a sharp picture center, the edges are out of focus, and that when you sharpen the edges the center is out, which condition might be due to aperture plate tracks so worn that the film does not lie perfectly flat, but is bowed slightly as it passes over the aperture; or it may be due to projection lenses which you or someone else have taken apart and wrongly reassembled, or to lenses not sufficiently corrected. If the latter, you need a new set of lenses. However, you have an 81-foot projection distance and presumably a picture not excessive in size; also you have Ross lenses, which I do not believe would be under-corrected so to set up such an effect.

Moreover, you name an utterly impossible projection angle, probably due to a misprint in your letter. Instead of 75° you surely meant to say either 15° or 25°, the latter of which would be very bad indeed. It might well set up the effect you describe at top or bottom of picture, or both. Your only remedy would be to move the projection room to some location less objectionable from the projection viewpoint, or to reduce the diameter of your lenses by painting their front lens surfaces with coach painters' black, leaving an unpainted spot in the exact center just large enough to eliminate the trouble, or to reduce it at least. This will mean lots of wasted light, but with a heavy projection angle it cannot be avoided, except and unless some lens manufacturer will undertake to supply you with two full-diameter lenses having sufficient depth of focus to overcome the trouble.

As to the second question, if the foreground of a picture is sharp, that is all that need concern the projectionist. In many cases scenes are made with foreground sharp and background more or less out of focus, sometimes almost entirely so.

Some may possibly criticize me for using space in answering such elementary questions. By way of explanation let me say that I try honestly to serve no single part especially, but all parts of this great industry. Many questions which are elementary to experienced projectionists are not in the least so to men younger in the profession, particularly in the smaller towns and villages. These men work in small theatres which supply the only form of theatrical amusement available to millions upon millions of people.

These small town projectionists are usually supplied with films in none too good condition, and they cannot possibly have contact with other projectionists and discuss their various problems. It therefore is highly important that we do every possible thing to help them, even to the answering of questions which may seem very elementary to some of us.

NEW THEATRE PROJECTS

FOLLOWING is a list of new projects in motion picture theatre construction compiled from reports available on April 4. The list also includes remodeling projects and contracts awarded. An asterisk before an item indicates that additional information has been received since a previous report.

Theatres Planned

Kentucky

HENDERSON — Henderson Grand Opera House plans erecting new opera house, theatre and store building. Maturity indefinite. Estimated cost, $100,000.

Maryland

BALTIMORE — Gwynn Amusement Company, Inc., Robert Cantor, 611 Poplar Grove Street, has plans by Kubitz & Koenig, Emerson Tower Building, for a one-story brick fireproof theatre, 46 by 150 feet, to be located at 4609 Liberty Heights Avenue.

Michigan

SELFRIDGE — Sum of $72,000 has been appropriated for new theatre and gymnasium for the C. Q. M. Bids in project held up indefinitely.

Minnesota

FERTILE—A. V. Highland is considering rebuilding his theatre destroyed by fire.

LITTLE FALLS — Lowell Theatre, Charles Farrow, has plans by Liebenberg & Kaplan, 710 McKnight Building, Minneapolis, for rebuilding theatre destroyed by fire. Now wrecking old walls. Brick and hollow-tile walls and stone front. House will have seating capacity of 750. Lessee, H. B. Smoots. Estimated cost $20,000.

Missouri

ST. JOSEPH—Nate Block, independent theatre owner, has plans by Boller Brothers, Kansas City, Mo., for rebuilding his Orpheum Theatre which was badly wrecked by fire. New house will have seating capacity of 1,100. It is said house will be operated with straight picture policy.

New Jersey

HAWTHORNE — Owners, care J. Holt, architect, 132 Market Street, Paterson, N. J., plans erecting one-story brick moving picture theatre and store building to be located on Lafayette Avenue. Estimated cost $175,000.

New York

NEW YORK—Park Realty Company, W. L. Marks & Company, 18 East Forty-eighth Street, plans erection of theatre and store building at 8 East 110th Street. Site acquired. Estimated cost $100,000.

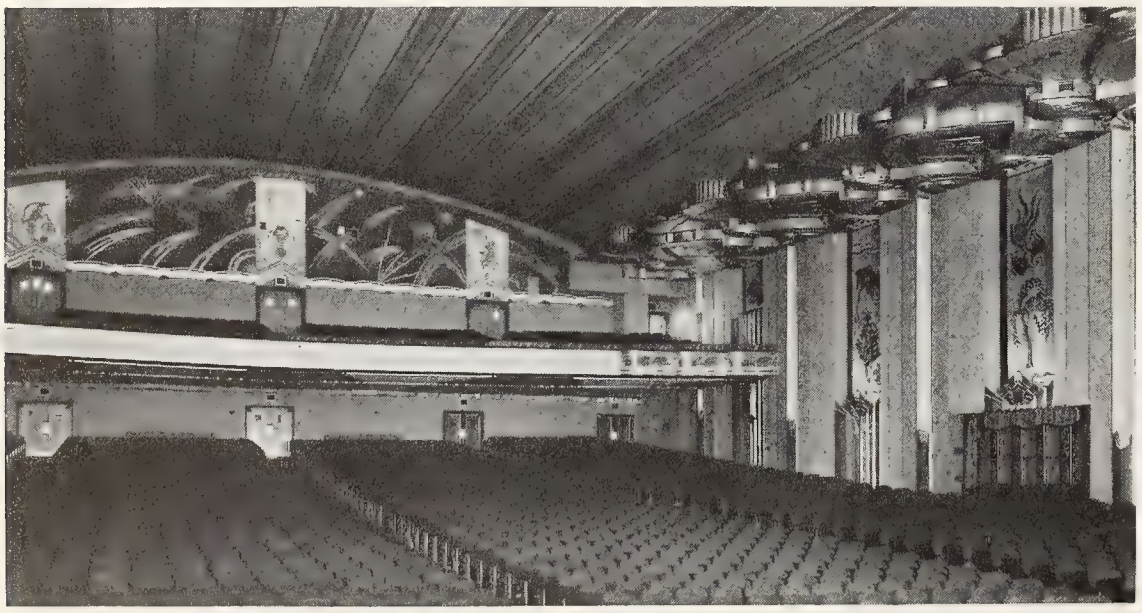
NEW YORK—B. S. Moss Theatres, 572 Madison Avenue, has revised plans for new theatre to be located on Eighth Avenue and Twenty-third Street. Cost estimated to exceed $150,000.

Texas

*LAREDO—R. & R. Theatres has received bids for three-story concrete theatre, 56 by 195 feet. W. Scott Dunne, architect, Melba Building, Dallas, Texas. Estimated cost $100,000.

Contracts Awarded

Indiana



GARY—Plaza Theatre which was razed by fire, has been rebuilt, and is scheduled to open soon.

Nebraska

OMAHA—Albert S. Ritchie, 1111 City National Bank Building, has awarded general contract to N. E. Carter, 4703 South Fourteenth Street to repair fire damage to the theatre at 4922 South Twenty-fourth Street. Estimated cost, $3,000.

Texas

FORT WORTH — First Methodist Church has awarded contract to G. W. Childs to convert old church building into modern theatre at West Tenth Street and Burnet Avenue. Estimated cost $4,000.

Auditorium toward the rear, Midway theatre, Philadelphia. Magaziner & Eberhard, architects.

Remodeling

Colorado

HUGO—J. W. Davis, who recently took over the Empress Theatre from Fay Leiber, has installed new sound equipment and made other improvements.

Kansas

BONNER SPRINGS—The Iris Theatre has been extensively remodeled by J. F. O'Connell. Improvements include new booth equipment, screen, carpets and other furnishings.

Louisiana

ELIZABETH—A. P. Kyle, who recently took over the Paramount Theatre, has brightened and reopened house for business.

NEW ORLEANS — Harry Schulman, former operator of theatre in Texas, will renovate and reopen the Rio Theatre, formerly known as the Rialto, it is reported.

Missouri

BRAYMER — The Braymer Theatre has been renovated and reopened by E. P. Michael.

KANSAS CITY — Westport Theatre has been completely renovated by J. F. Rigney, including artistic redecorating.

WARRENSBURG—The new Mainstreet Theatre has been opened by Dumond Christopher. RCA high fidelity sound equipment has been installed.

Ohio

CANTON—J. Francis Stein, formerly operator of the Playhouse, Louisville, Ky., has brightened and reopened Windsor Theatre.

DAYTON — Edward Breckinridge, who recently resigned his connection with the Hartman Theatre at Columbus, Ohio, to manage a Kenneth Harlan road tour, has leased the Lyric, a former burlesque house, which has been remodeled and reopened with five acts of vaudeville and pictures at 10, 20 and 30 cents.

NEW LONDON—Reported that L. G. Brady has taken over the Karolyn Theatre from Richard Barry, renovated and renamed house the Family.

Texas

DALLAS—Pipe organ has been installed in the Melrose Theatre.

Houses Opened

Kansas

IOLA—E. Van Hyning has opened a new theatre with seating capacity of 600. RCA sound equipment will be used.

Utah

SALT LAKE CITY—A. L. Stallings, prominent theatre operator throughout southern Utah for many years, recently Playhouse Theatre, which was closed for several months and previously used for stock shows. A new picture vaudeville policy has been inaugurated.

Illinois

MARENGO—W. Beacham, 416 Maple Avenue, has opened a new theatre.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF ADVERTISERS

A

American Seating Company 33

B

Block Company, M. A 36

C

Carbon Products, Inc 31
Clark, Inc., Peter 35
Coxsackie Holding Corporation 20

D

Debrie, Inc., Andre 21
Decorative Arts Company 36

E

Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co .....Fourth Cover

G

Garver Electric Company 47
General Register Corporation 42
General Seating Company 32

H

Hall & Connolly 39
Hansen & Brothers Optical Co., G. O 42

I

Independent Theatre Supply Dealers Assn 6
International Projector Corporation ...Third Cover

K

Kliegl Brothers 52

L

LeRoy Sound Equipment Corporation 21
Lincrophone Company, Inc 53

M

Mellaphone Corporation 52
Moore, William N 50

N

National Carbon Company, Inc 5
Noris Carbon Company, Inc 21

P

Platter Sound Products Corporation 50
Projection Optics Company, Inc 20

R

RCA Victor Company, Inc 3
Radiart Corporation, The 29
Rosco Laboratories 37
Radio Mat Slide Co 46

S

Sloane, W. & J .....Second Cover
Standard Ticket Register Corp 43
Sterling Pictorial Service 51
Strong Electric Corporation 41
S. O. S. Corporation 49
Sugar, S. S 28

T

Typhoon Air Conditioning Co., Inc 30

V

Vortkamp & Company 51

W

Weber Machine Corporation 49

Y

York Safe and Lock Company 48

Among Contributors to This Issue:

¶ Ben Schlanger (Production Methods and the Theatre) is a New York architect who has contributed to Better Theatres on several previous occasions. He is the originator of a reversed floor slope plan for theatres which has been widely discussed in this country and abroad.

¶ Leo T. Parker (Sound Equipment Leases) is a Cincinnati attorney who regularly writes for Better Theatres on court decisions and points of law of special interest to theatre operators.

¶ Armand D. Carroll (Constants in Modern Theatre Design) is a Philadelphia architect, the designer of many outstanding theatre structures.

¶ S. Charles Lee (A Theatre Architect Visits Europe) is one of the leading theatre architects of the Pacific Coast. His headquarters are in Los Angeles.

¶ Aaron Nadell (Sound Equipment Today—and Its Market) is a sound engineer, the author of a book on sound reproduction, besides numerous magazine articles on the subject, many of which have appeared in Better Theatres. He has been identified with both manufacturers of sound equipment and theatres. His home is in Brooklyn, N. Y.

WHERE TO BUY IT

ACCOUNTING SYSTEMS
Easy Method Ledger System
ACOUSTICAL PRODUCTS
The Celotex Company
The Insulite Company
United States Gypsum Company
Western Felt Works
ADVERTISING NOVELTIES
Brasel Novelty Manufacturing Co.
Edward I. Plottle & Co.
Pyroloid Sales Company
Slack Manufacturing Company
AIR CONDITIONING EQUIPMENT
Auditorium Conditioning Corporation
Carrier Engineering Corporation
Robert A. Kroeschell
Kooler-Aire Engineering Corporation
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Company
Typhoon Air Conditioning Co.
Wittenmeier Machinery Company
AMPLIFIERS
A-C Masterpack Company
Full Range Laboratories
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corp.
Mellaphone Corporation
Operadio Manufacturing Company
S. O. S. Corporation
The Radiart Corporation
Webster Company
AUTOMATIC CURTAIN CONTROL
Automatic Devices Company
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc.
Econoquipment Manufacturing Company
Tiffin Scenic Studios
Vallen Electrical Company, Inc.
BANNERS, SIGNS
H Dryfhout Company
CAMERAS AND PROJECTORS
Bell and Howell Company
Andre DeBrie, Inc.
International Projector Corporation
CARBONS
Carbon Products, Inc.
National Carbon Company
Noris Carbon Company, Inc.
CARBON ADAPTERS
Best Devices Company
CARPETS
Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, Inc.
Decorative Arts Company
Mohawk Carpet Mills
Wm. Slater, Jr.
W. & J. Sloane
CARPET CUSHIONING
The Celotex Company
Clinton Carpet Company
National Rug Mills, Inc.
Western Felt Works
CEMENT FOR FASTENING CHAIRS
General Seating Company
CHAIR ANCHOR BOLTS
Chicago Expansion Bolt Company
CHANGEABLE LETTERS
Friedley-Voshardt Company
Metal Products, Inc.
CHANGEOVERS
Apasco System
Basson & Stern
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Co
GoldE Manufacturing Company
Guercio and Barthel
CLEANING COMPOUND
J. B. Ford Company
COLOR HOODS
Reynolds Electric Company
CUTOUT MACHINES
International Register Corporation
DATE STRIPS
M. A. Block Company
DIMMERS
Cutler-Hammer, Inc.
Reynolds Electric Company
DOUBLE BEARING ASSEMBLY
International Projector Corporation
Lavezzie Machine Works
DOUBLE BEARING MOVEMENTS
Guercio and Barthel
International Projector Corporation
S. O. S. Corporation
DRAPERIES
Decorative Arts Company
Tiffin Scenic Studios
EARPHONES
Hearing Devices Corporation
Western Electric Company
EFFECT MACHINES
Brenkert Light Projection Company
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company
Kliegl Brothers
ELECTRIC FLASHERS, COLOR HOODS
Eagle Sign Company
Reynolds Electric Company
Time-O-Stat Controls Company
EMERGENCY LIGHTING SYSTEMS
Electric Storage Battery Co.
Century Electric Company
ENGINEERING SERVICE
Kendell & Dasseville, Inc.
S. S. Sugar
EQUIPMENT SUPPLIES
E. E. Fulton Company
Guercio and Barthel
Monarch Theatre Supply Company
Movie Supply Company
National Theatre Supply Company
S. O. S. Corporation
Vortkamp & Company
FANS, VENTILATING
Century Electric Company
J. A. Tannenbaum, Inc
Vallen Electrical Company, Inc.
FILM CEMENT
F. B. Griffin
Roscoe Laboratories
FILM PROCESSING MACHINES
Andre DeBrie, Inc.
FILM SCALES
Film Scale Company
FILM STOCK
Agfa Raw Film Corporation
DuPont Film Mfg. Corporation
Eastman Kodak Company
FIRE PREVENTION
Film Fire Prevention Company
Sentry Safety Control Corporation
FRAMING LIGHT SHIELDS
GoldE Manufacturing Company
Guercio and Barthel
GENERATORS
Automatic Devices Company
General Electric Company
Hertner Electric Company
Marble-Card Electric Company
Roth Brothers & Company
Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Company HORNS AND SPEAKERS
Full Range Laboratories
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corporation
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Racon Electric Company, Inc.
Wright-DeCoster, Inc
INTERIOR DECORATIONS
Armstrong Studios, Inc.
Decorative Arts Company
J. A. Torstenson & Company
Novelty Scenic Studios
B. F. Shearer Company
LAMPS, HIGH INTENSITY
Brenkert Light Projection Company
Hall & Connolly, Inc.
International Projector Corporation
LAMPS, REFLECTING ARC
Brenkert Light Projection Company
The J. E. McAuley Manufacturing Company
Strong Electric Corporation
LENS MOUNTS
GoldE Manufacturing Company
International Projector Corporation
LENSES
Bausch & Lomb Optical Company
General Scientific Corporation
Ilex Optical Company
Projection Optics Corporation
Simpson Instrument and Lens Corporation
LENS AND REFLECTOR RECONDITIONING
G. O. Hansen & Brothers Optical Co.
MATS AND RUNNERS
St. Clair Rubber Company
MAZDA REGULATORS
Garver Electric Company
ORGANS
George Kilgen & Sons, Inc.
The Page Organ Company
Rudolph Wurlitzer Company
ORGAN HEATERS
Prometheus Electric Co.
Time-O-Stat Controls Corporation
PATENT ATTORNEYS
William N. Moore
PHOTO ELECTRIC CELLS
Continental Electrical Company
Herman A. DeVry Company
Duovac Radio Tube Company
General Scientific Corporation
G-M Laboratories, Inc.
Telephoto and Television Corporation
POSTER PROJECTORS
Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.
A. & B. Smith Company
E. D. Kees Mfg. Company
PROJECTION MACHINE PARTS
International Projector Corporation
Lavezzie Machine Works
Motion Picture Machine Company
S. O. S. Corporation
PROJECTORS
Andre Debrie, Inc.
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.
E. E. Fulton Company
Holmes Projector Company
International Projector Corporation
PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEMS
Associated Engineering Laboratories
Full Range Laboratories
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corp.
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Racon Electric Co., Inc.
RAILINGS, GRILLES
Zero Valve and Brass Corporation
RECTIFIERS
Forest Electric Corporation
Garver Electric Company
Interstate Electric Company
REELS
E. E. Fulton Company
Universal Electric Welding Co.
REEL END SIGNALS
E. W. Hulett Manufacturing Company
REWINDERS
Film Processing Machine Corporation
E. E. Fulton Company
GoldE Manufacturing Company
RHEOSTATS
Hoffman & Soons
SAFES, THEATRE
York Safe & Lock Company
SAFETY LADDERS
Dayton Safety Ladder Company
Patent Scaffolding Company
SCHOOLS
New York Institute of Photography
RCA Institutes, Inc.
Theatre Managers Institute
SCREENS
Da-Lite Screen Company
Ortho-Krome Screen Company
Raven Screen Corporation
Walker-American Corporation
SCREEN RESURFACING
The Motion Picture Screen Resurfacing Co.
Raytex Screen Process Company
SEATS
American Seating Company
The A. H. Andrews Company
Decorative Arts Company
General Seating Company
Heywood-Wakefield Company
Ideal Seating Company
The Irwin Seating Company
Standard Manufacturing Company
Wisconsin Chair Company
SIGNS—ELECTRIC
General Scientific Corporation
Metal Products, Inc.
SLIDES
National Studios, Inc.
Quality Slide Company
RadiO-Mat Slide Company
Standard Studios
SPEED INDICATORS
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Co.
International Projector Corporation
Mellaphone Corporation
SOUND REPRODUCING SYSTEMS
Bestone, Incorporated
Enterprise Optical Manufacturing Co.
Full Range Laboratories
General Talking Pictures Corporation
Gates Radio & Supply Company
Good-All Electric Mfg. Company
Holmes Projector Company
International Projector Corporation
The Kolograph Company
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corporation
Lincrophone Co., Inc.
Mellaphone Corporation
Platter Sound Products Co.
RCA Victor Company, Inc.
Scott-Ballantyne Company
S. O. S. Corporation
Powers Cinephone Equipment Co.
Universal Sound System, Inc.
Weber Machine Corporation
Western Electric Company
SOUND EQUIPMENT ACCESSORIES
A-C Masterpack Company
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Company
Full Range Laboratories
G-M Laboratories, Inc.
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corporation
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Radiart Corporation
S. O. S. Corporation
The Sonolux Company
Telephoto and Television Corporation
STAGE AND ORCHESTRA LIFTS
Brenkert Light Projection Company
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc.
Peter Clark, Inc.
STAGE LIGHTING EQUIPMENT
Frank Adam Electric Company
Belson Mfg. Company
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company
Hub Electric Company
Kliegl Brothers
Major Equipment Company
Reynolds Electric Company
STAGE RIGGING HARDWARE
J. H. Channon Corporation
Peter Clark, Inc.
Klemm Manufacturing Corporation
Vallen Electrical Co., Inc.
STAGE SCENERY
Armstrong Studios, Inc.
Novelty Scenic Studios
Tiffin Scenic Studios
THEATRE PRINTING, PROGRAMS
Exhibitors Printing Service
National Program & Printing Company
The Showman's Press
The Vitaprint Company
THEATRE SEAT REPLACEMENTS
General Seating Company
TICKETS
The Standard Ticket Register Corp.
TICKET MACHINES
General Register Corporation
The Standard Ticket Register Corp.
UNIFORMS
Chicago Uniform and Cap Company
Gemsco
Maier-Lavaty Company
UPHOLSTERY PRODUCTS
L. C. Chase & Company
Ideal Seating Company
VARIABLE SPEED PULLEYS
Horton Manufacturing Company
VENTILATING EQUIPMENT
Arctic Nu-Air Corporation
Auditorium Conditioning Corporation
Blizzard Sales Company
Kooler-Aire Engineering Corporation
Robert A. Kroeschell
Lakeside Company
Scott-Ballantyne Company
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Company
Tiltz Air Conditioning Corporation, Ltd
Typhoon Air Conditioning Company, Inc
Wittenmeier Machinery Company

BETTER THEATRES CATALOG BUREAU

"Better Theatres" offers on this page an individual service to its readers. Detailed information and catalogs concerning any product listed herewith will be sent to any theatre owner, manager, architect or projectionist. Just fill in the coupon below and mail to "Better Theatres" Division of Motion Picture Herald. Readers will find that many of the products listed by this Bureau are advertised in this issue.

A

1 Accounting systems.
2 Acoustical installations.
3 Adapters, mazda.
4 Adding, calculating machines.
5 Admission signs.
6 Addressing machines.
7 Advertising novelties.
8 Advertising projectors.
9 Air conditioning euipment.
10 Aisle lights.
11 Aisle rope.
12 Amplifiers.
13 Arc lamps, reflecting.
14 Arc regulators.
15 Artificial plants, flowers.
16 Automatic curtain control.
17 Automatic projection cutouts.
18 Automatic sprinklers.

B

19 Balloons, advertising.
20 Banners.
21 Baskets, decorative.
22 Batteries.
23 Bell-buzzer signal systems.
24 Blocks, pulleys, stage-rigging.
25 Bolts, chair anchor.
26 Booths, projection (portable).
27 Booths, ticket (portable).
28 Box office safes.
29 Brass grills.
30 Brass rails.
31 Bulletin boards, changeable.

C

32 Cable.
33 Cabinets.
34 Cameras.
35 Canopies for fronts.
36 Carbons.
37 Carbon sharpeners and wrenches.
38 Carpets.
39 Carpet cushion.
40 Carpet cleaning compound.
41 Carpet covering.
42 Cases, film shipping.
43 Cement, film.
44 Cement for fastening chairs.
45 Chair covers.
46 Chairs, wicker.
47 Chairs, theatre.
48 Change makers.
49 Changeable letters.
50 Change overs.
51 Cleaning compounds.
52 Color hoods.
53 Condensers.
54 Controls, volume.
55 Cutout machines, display.

D

56 Date strips.
57 Dimmers.
58 Disinfectants—perfumed.
59 Display cutout machines.
60 Doors, fireproof.
61 Draperies.
62 Drinking fountains.
63 Duplicating machines.
64 Dynamic speakers.

E

65 Earphones.
66 Effect machines.
67 Electric measuring instruments.
68 Electric fans.
69 Electrical flowers.
70 Electric pickups.
71 Electric power generating plant.
72 Electric signs.
73 Electric Signal and control systems.
74 Emergency lighting plants.
75 Exit light signs.

F

76 Film cleaning machines.
77 Film processing machines.
78 Film rewinders.
79 Film splicing machines.
80 Film tools.
81 Fire extinguishers.
82 Fireproof curtains.
83 Fireproof doors.
84 Fireproofing materials.
85 Fixtures, lighting.
86 Flashers, electric sign.
87 Flood lighting.
88 Floorlights.
89 Floor covering.
90 Floor runners.
91 Flowers, artificial.
92 Footlights.
93 Fountains, decorative.
94 Fountains, drinking.
95 Frames-poster, lobby display.
96 Furnaces.
97 Fuses.

G

98 Gelatine sheets.
99 Generators.
100 Grilles, brass.
101 Gummed labels.
102 Gypsum products.

H

103 Hand driers.
104 Hardware, stage.
105 Hearing devices.
106 Heating systems.
107 Horns.
108 Horn lifts and towers.

I

109 Ink, pencils for slides.
110 Insurance.
111 Interior decorating service.
112 Interior illuminated signs.

J

113 Janitors' supplies.

L

114 Ladders, safety.
115 Lamps, decorative.
116 Lamp dip coloring.
117 Lamps, general lighting.
118 Lamps, incandescent projection.
119 Lamps, high intensity.
120 Lamps, reflecting arc.
121 Lavatory equipment, furnishings.
122 Ledgers, theatre.
123 Lenses.
124 Letters, changeable.
125 Lights, exit.
126 Lights, spot.
127 Lighting fixtures.
128 Lighting systems, complete.
129 Linoleum.
130 Liquid soap.
131 Liquid soap containers.
132 Lobby display frames.
133 Lobby gazing balls.
134 Lobby furniture and decoration.
135 Lockers.
136 Luminous numbers.
137 Luminous signs, interior, exterior.

M

138 Machines, display cutout.
139 Machines, ticket.
140 Machines, pop corn.
141 Machines, vending.
142 Marble.
143 Marquee.
144 Mats and runners.
145 Mazda projection adapters.
146 Mazda regulators.
147 Metal polish.
148 Motors, electric.
149 Motor generators.
150 Motion picture cable.
151 Music stands.

N

152 Novelties, advertising.
153 Nursery furnishings and equipment.

O

154 Oil burners.
155 Orchestra pit fittings, furnishings.
156 Organs.
157 Organ novelty slides.
158 Organ lifts.
159 Organ heaters.
160 Ornamental fountains.
161 Ornamental metal work.

P

162 Paper drinking cups.
163 Paper towels.
164 Perfumers.
165 Phonograph motors.
166 Phonograph needles.
167 Phonograph turntables.
168 Photo-electric cells.
169 Photo frames.
170 Pianos.
171 Plastic fixtures and decorations.
172 Plumbing fixtures.
173 Pop-corn machines.
174 Posters.
175 Poster frames.
176 Poster lights.
177 Poster paste.
178 Portable projectors.
179 Pottery, decorative.
180 Portable sound equipment.
181 Power generating plants.
182 Printing, theatre.
183 Programs.
184 Program covers.
185 Projection lamps.
186 Projection machines.
187 Projection machine parts.
188 Projection room equipment.
189 Public address systems.

R

190 Rails, brass.
191 Rails, rope.
192 Rectifiers.
193 Records.
194 Record cabinets.
195 Recording equipment.
196 Redecorating service.
197 Reflectors.
198 Regulators, Mazda.
199 Reels.
200 Reel signals.
201 Reel packing, carrying cases.
202 Resonant orchestra platform.
203 Reseating service.
204 Rewinders, film.
205 Rheostats.
206 Rigging, stage.

S

207 Safes, box office.
208 Safes, film.
209 Safety ladders.
210 Scales.
211 Scenery, stage.
212 Scenic artists' service.
213 Schools.
214 Screen masks and modifiers.
215 Screen paint.
216 Screen Resurfacing Service.
217 Seat covers.
218 Seat indicators, vacant.
219 Signs, directional.
220 Signs, marquee.
221 Screens.
222 Seats, theatre.
223 Signals, reel end.
224 Sign flashers.
225 Sign lettering service.
226 Slides.
227 Slide ink, pencils.
228 Slide, lanterns.
229 Slide making outfits.
230 Slide mats.
231 Shutters, metal fire.
232 Soap containers, liquid.
233 Sound equipment, complete.
234 Sound heads.
235 Sound-proof installation.
236 Speakers, dynamic.
237 Speed indicators.
238 Spotlights.
239 Spring seats, interchangeable.
240 Stage lighting equipment.
241 Stage lighting systems.
242 Stage rigging-blocks, pulleys.
243 Stage scenery.
244 Stair treads.
245 Statuary.
246 Stereopticons.
247 Sweeping compounds.
248 Switchboards.
249 Switches, automatic.

T

250 Tapestries.
251 Telephone, Inter-communicating.
252 Temperature control apparatus.
253 Terra cotta.
254 Theatre accounting systems.
255 Theatre dimmers.
256 Theatre seats.
257 Tickets.
258 Ticket booths.
259 Ticket choppers.
260 Ticket holders.
261 Ticket selling machines.
262 Tile.
263 Tool cases, operators'.
264 Towels, paper.
265 Trailers.
266 Transformers.
267 Transparencies.
268 Turnstiles.

U

269 Uniforms.
270 Upholstery material.

V

271 Vacuum cleaning equipment.
272 Valances.
273 Vases, stone.
274 Ventilating fans.
275 Ventilating systems.
276 Vending machines.
277 Vitrolite.
278 Volume controls.

W

279 Wall coverings.
280 Water coolers.

"BETTER THEATRES" DIVISION, Motion Picture Herald,
1790 Broadway, New York

[4-8-33]

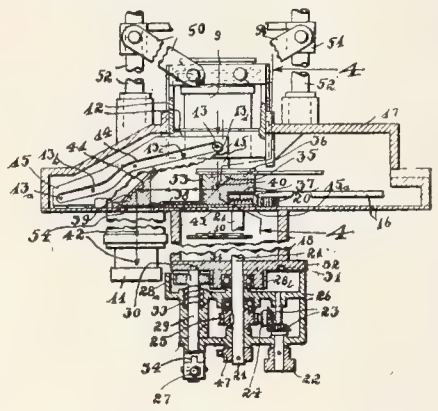
GENTLEMEN: I should like to receive reliable information on the following items:

(Refer to Items by Number)

....

....

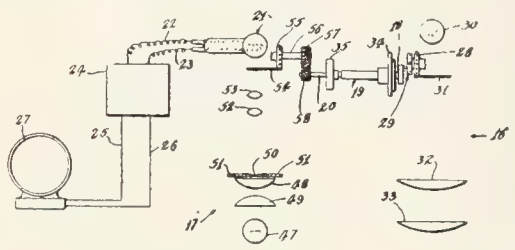
Remarks: .....



.....

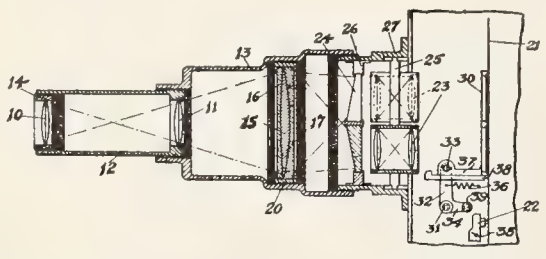
Name ..... Theatre ..... City .....

State ..... Seating Capacity .....



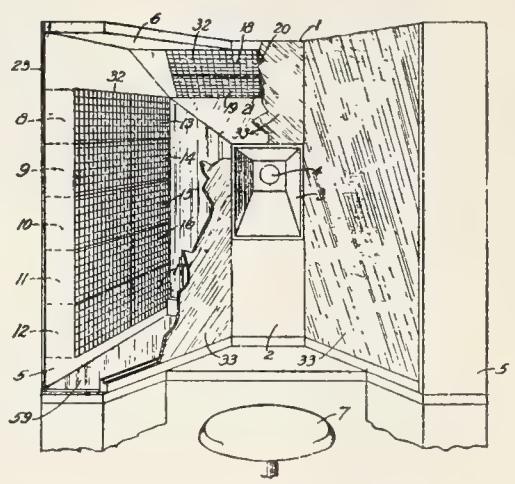
New Inventions . . . illustrated descriptions of devices related to motion pictures and allied crafts, recently published by the U. S. government and selected for Better Theatres by William N. Moore, patent specialist of Washington, D. C.

1,873,571. FOCUSING DEVICE FOR MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS. Armin Fried, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 20, 1931. Serial No. 531,372. 7 Claims. (Cl. 95—44.)



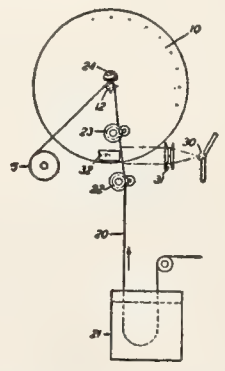
1. In a camera, a photographing lens, a finder including said lens as a part of its structure, the camera having the customary movable medium with a sensitized surface, and a carriage including reflecting means for the finder movable transversely to the axis of the finder and of the lens and having means for moving the lens outwardly in linear direction coaxial to the axis of the lens when used for focusing with the finder.

1,873,342. APPARATUS FOR EXAMINING AND SELECTING MOTION PICTURE FILMS. Iwan Serrurier, Hollywood, Calif. Filed Apr. 3, 1929. Serial No. 352,167. 3 Claims. (Cl. 88—16.2.)



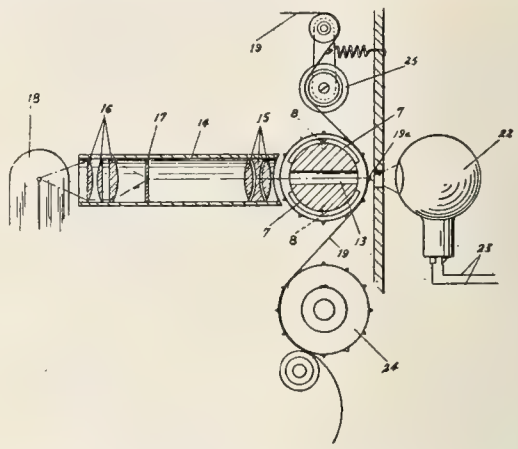
1. An apparatus of the character described comprising a film viewing unit provided with a shaft, a sound film reproducing unit provided with a shaft, and a rubber member connected at its opposite ends to said shafts.

1,873,302. COLOR PHOTOGRAPHIC MACHINE. Marshall De Francisco, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Aug. 29, 1929. Serial No. 389,219. 9 Claims. (Cl. 88—16.4.)



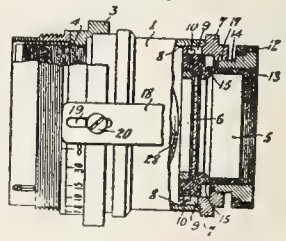
1. In a color camera, a focusing lens system, an image receiving lens having its light receiving surface in the focus of said focusing lens system, a plurality of prisms in the field of aid image receiving lens, a separate image forming lens system associated with each of said prisms, a color filter in the path of the light rays passing through each of said image forming lens systems and a mounting for said lenses whereby said lens systems may be adjusted to one to the other.

1,873,411. TELEVISION. Herbert E. Ives, Montclair, N. J., and Frank Gray, New York, N. Y., assignors to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 26, 1929. Serial No. 373,769. Renewed Oct. 6, 1931. 20 Claims. (Cl. 178—6.)



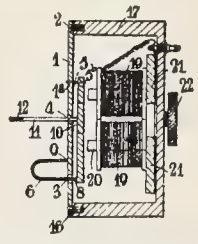
1. A scanning cabinet for television systems comprising a wall provided with an opening through which a beam of light may pass for traversing the object and banks of large photoelectric cells within said cabinet and on different sides of said opening and in different planes respectively.

1,873,387. ELECTROOPTICAL SYSTEM. Frank Gray, New York, N. Y., assignor to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 17, 1930. Serial No. 496,099. 6 Claims. (Cl. 178—6.)



6. A television system comprising a rotating scanning element for scanning successive line series of elemental areas of a pictorial or message element of strip form, rotating driving means unitary with said scanning element directly engaging and driving said pictorial or message element, said field of view being spaced from said scanning element in the direction of said axis, optical means for associating successive portion of said pictorial or message element with said scanning element to permit the former to be scanned and means for maintaining said pictorial or message element in engagement with said driving means.

1,811,365. ROLLER SUPPORT FOR TRAVELING FILMS. Freeman H. Owens, New York, N. Y., assignor to Owens Development Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 22, 1930. Serial No. 454,765. 5 Claims. (Cl. 179—100.3.)



1. A roller film support, comprising a fixed arbor, a two part roller mounted for rotation on said arbor, means for maintaining the parts of the roller longitudinally separated, and said arbor being provided with an opening passing diametrically therethrough at a point in the length of the arbor between said separated roller parts.

1,873,758. CAMERA LENS AND FILTER MOUNT. Abraham J. Ginsberg, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 25, 1930. Serial No. 498,122. 7 Claims. (Cl. 95—2.)

1. A device of the character described including a barrel, a focusing lens in the barrel, an adjusting ring having screw threaded engagement with the barrel and adapted to adjust the lens to focus the same, a filter mount having screw threaded engagement with the barrel, a multi-color filter in the mount said last mentioned threaded engagement including threads of a pitch differing from the threads of the focusing ring, and means operatively connecting the focusing ring and filter mount, so that when the lens is adjusted a predetermined distance along the barrel, the filter will be similarly moved but through a less distance than the lens.

1,873,153. SOUND REPRODUCING DEVICE. Sidney Leopold Price, London, England. Filed Feb. 12, 1930, Serial No. 427,855, and in Great Britain Feb. 20, 1929. 16 Claims. (Cl. 179—114.)

1. The method of supporting the magnetic armature of an electromagnetic device adapted for use in the reproduction of sound, which comprises suspending the armature having connected thereto a diaphragm actuating stylus from a semi-rigid member in the form of a reed by means comprising at least one resilient member, whereby to afford to the armature comparatively unrestricted freedom to vibrate.

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY

OFFICES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

400 SOUTH SECOND STREET — MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE

March 27th 1933

International Projector Corporation,
New York City, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed herewith are typed copies of original letters we have in our possession, received from various Simplex-Acme users.

Since receiving these, we have sold additional Projectors to parties operating the Missouri Theatre, Senath, Missouri, and also the Southland Theatre, Brownsville, Tenn., both of these exhibitors having purchased equipment for other towns.

Cordially,

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY CO.,

Arthur de Stefano - Manager.

ADS:JW
Enc.

GENERAL OFFICES 92-96 GOLD STREET NEW YORK N Y

SOUTHLAND THEATRE

Brownsville, Tenn

Feb. 1st, 1933

Mr. A. de Stefano,
National Thea. Sup. Co.,
Memphis, Tenn.

Dear Mr. de Stefano:

Some few months ago I wrote you in regard to your Simplex-Acme Projectors which are in use here in the theatre.

At that time the machines had not been in use but for about eight months, and I had hardly had an opportunity to see just what this equipment was capable of, but, now that it has been in constant operation for more than a year, I feel I am in better position to pass judgment than at that writing.

As you know these Projectors were the first of their make to be installed in this territory, and, naturally, I felt a bit backward about installing them here, as the theatre that preceded me here had an equipment costing possibly eight or ten times as much as the Simplex-Acme, and I did not know whether or not your machines would do the work, as the people here would have access to comparisons that in all probability would have a marked reaction if it was not as good as they had been accustomed to.

Needless to say, the Simplex-Acme stood the test remarkably well, and the customers were quick to praise the sound, and a great many of them, from time to time, have informed me that it is far better than in some of the uptown theatres in Memphis, and they have gone so far as to say that it surpasses anything within a radius of fifty miles from here.

It may also interest you to know that we have not spent one cent for repairs or replacements on this equipment. (This equipment has been in operation exactly one year, Jan. 18th.)

In view of the foregoing statement you can easily see that I can recommend the equipment to anyone that may be in the market for sound projectors that will DO THE WORK AND DO IT WELL.

In conclusion I might add that your service and cooperation with reference to the above equipment has been all that anyone might ask for, and I thank you.

Sincerely,

(Signed: C. C. Lawing.)

Manager - Southland Theatre.

There is no better advertising than an honest, unsolicited testimonial from a satisfied user of a product.

THESE LETTERS EXPLAIN WHY

Simplex-Acme

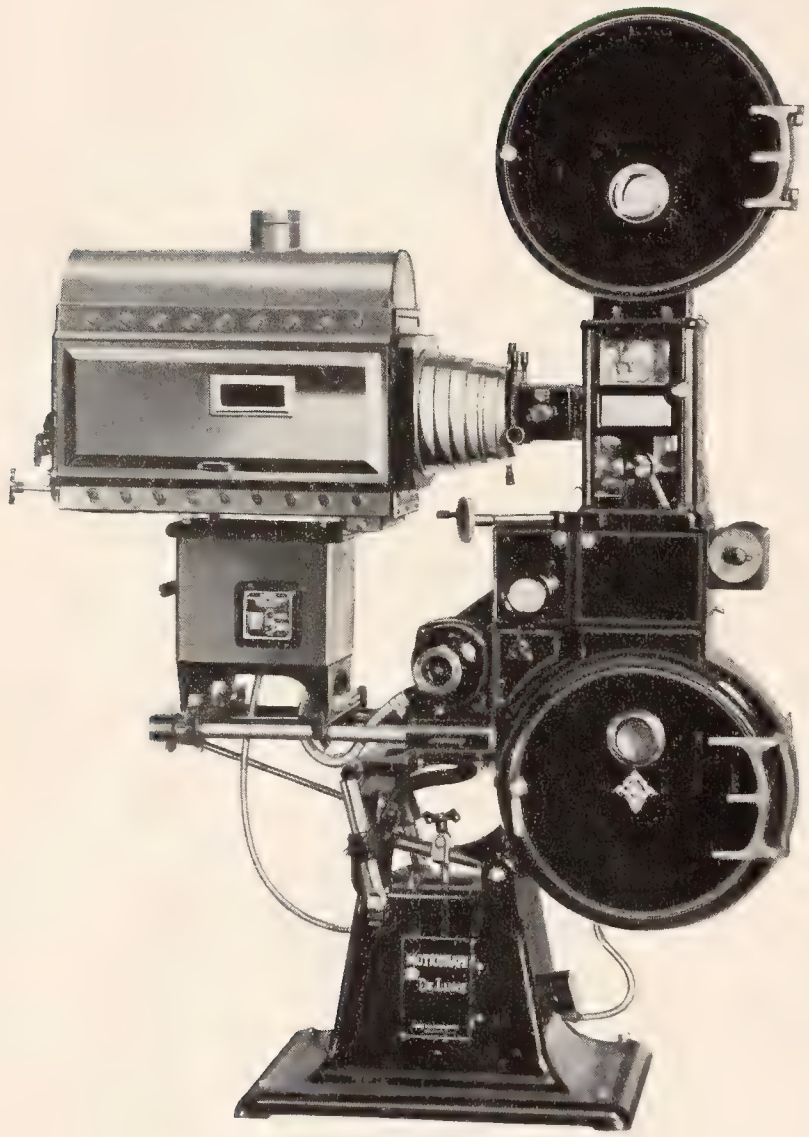
SOUND PROJECTORS WERE PURCHASED

AND

WHY

ADDITIONAL

Simplex-Acme



SOUND PROJECTORS WERE ORDERED

The prospective buyer will find that Mr. Lawing's letter contains just the kind of information he would like to get from a friend in the business.

International Projector Corporation

90-96 GOLD STREET NEW YORK, N. Y.

MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE LIVES UP TO ITS REPUTATION!

MOTIOGRAPH SOUND
$750 up

DO YOU KNOW THAT YOU CAN BUY
DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY

— MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE MECHANISMS — — MOTIOGRAPH REFLECTING ARC LAMPS — — MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE AMPLIFIERS — — MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE FILM PICK-UPS — — MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE SPEAKERS —

FAMILY THEATRE

146 SOUTH MAIN STREET

WILKES-BARRE, PENNSYLVANIA

March 20, 1933

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.,
4431 W. Lake Street,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

Our second year's operation of Motiograph DeLuxe Sound Projector Equipment is now over, and you will be interested to note our cost of operation was only $83.35 for the full year from February 1st, 1932, to February 1st, 1933. The equipment was in operation every day for over ten hours a day and we never had to call for a service man—consequently no service cost.

In view of the interest you have always shown in the results and low operating costs we have obtained with your equipment, it is interesting to compare this second year's operating costs with our two previous reports covering the first year, in which the first six months' operating cost was $38.40, and the second, $78.83, or a total of $117.23 for the first year against $83.35 for the second. Seemingly, the cost of operation decreases as the equipment gets older.

As you know, I am proud of the equipment and want to keep it right and will appreciate your advising me of any new developments which you may bring out and which will keep our equipment always up to the minute in performance.

Our equipment is now over two years old, and still I wouldn't trade it for the best . . . that I ever heard.

Very truly yours,

E. R. SUTLIFFE, Projectionist,
Family Theatre.

MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE SOUND PROJECTOR EQUIPMENT

IS SOLD DIRECT FROM FACTORY TO USER—AT FACTORY PRICES

WRITE US FOR THE "BLUE BOOK" AND BLANK SURVEY SHEET FOR LOWEST QUOTATIONS

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MANUFACTURING Co.

4431-41 West Lake Street — Chicago, Ill.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

"IT'S SHOW BUSINESS AS MUCH AS EVER"

says a showman in the field, Floyd Bell of the Boston Metropolitan Theatre, this week's Guest Editor in the Managers' Round Table Club Department

STATES' LAWMAKERS HEED EXHIBITORS

Special taxation is defeated in several situations; lawmakers split over sales assessment; latest developments in the states are reviewed

HITLERISM HALTING FILM ACTIVITIES

American production and distribution in Berlin comes to a standstill under dictator's policy requiring that product conform to Nazi restrictions

Vol. 111, No. 3 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office, at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Published Weekly by Quigley Publishing Co., Inc., at 1790 Broadway, New York. Subscription, $3.00 a year. Single copies, 15 cents. April 15, 1933

WE CORDIALLY INVITE YOU TO COMPARE

When better pictures are made,
we can all quit work!

GEORGE ARLISS
in "The Working Man"*

It will make "Frisco
Jenny" blush!

RUTH CHATTERTON
in "Lilly Turner"†
with George Brent

Air Monarch Crashes at Sea in Storm-Torn Night!

"CENTRAL AIRPORT"† starring
RICHARD BARTHELMESS
Sally Eilers, Tom Brown

Booked by Radio City Music Hall!

JOE E. BROWN
in "Elmer The Great"†

*A Warner Bros. Picture †A First National Picture Vitagraph, Inc., Distributors

WARNER BROS.' COMING PRODUCT, NOT WITH ANY OTHER SINGLE COMPANY'S, BUT WITH THE CREAM OF ALL OTHER COMPANIES' PRODUCT FOR THE NEXT TWO MONTHS

His camera comes out when the blinds come down!

JAMES CAGNEY
in "Picture Snatcher"*
with Ralph Bellamy, Alice White

Not recommended for people over 60!

BETTE DAVIS
in "Ex-Lady"*

What will bootleggers do after prohibition is repealed?

EDWARD G. ROBINSON
in "The Little Giant"†

The frank, man-to-man story of a man-to-man girl!

BARBARA STANWYCK
in "Baby Face"*

FIND OUT WHY EVERYBODY'S SAYING—
"WARNER BROS. HAVE THE PICTURES!"

101,127 ADMISSIONS IN FIRST 4 DAYS!

Sets new World's Attendance Record as crowds storm Radio City Music Hall

Even the "State Fair" (FOX) record tumbles before the terrific onslaught of this entertainment juggernaut . . . as the FOX road-show king becomes the mightiest popular-priced attraction in show history.

CAVALCADE

A FOX ACHIEVEMENT

IMAGINE how it will avalanche your house during and after Easter Week . . . if it can smash world's records in Lent!

PICTURE of the GENERATION

APR 14 1933

©CIB 187433

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. III, No. 3 — April 15, 1933

HOLLYWOOD'S ORCHID

THE palpitating dispatches from Motion Picture Daily's Mr. Maurice Kann have brought us the charming information that "leaders of the Academy feel that they have waged and won the battle for the salesman in Des Moines and the stenographer in New York, as well as for the creative elements in Hollywood" in the salary restoration movement flowering in the big West Coast conference of industry executives.

With no cliques, clans or guilds to vociferate in their behalf, permit us to set down that we have interviewed both "the salesman in Des Moines and the stenographer in New York" and find that they are not sufficiently grateful. They claim that they got stuck with a share in a situation they did not create, a disproportion between the capacity of the market and the cost of the merchandise. They claim that they never were paid on the basis of anything but the competitive market for their services and the results they attained on the job.

Extending our survey we find that not only the salesmen in Des Moines and the stenographer in New York but also the exhibitor in Bad Axe, Michigan, the exhibitor in Wahoo, Nebraska, the exhibitor in Tonganoxie, Kansas, the exhibitor in Kennebunkport, Maine, and the exhibitor in Snohomish, Washington, are ready to sign a round robin suggesting that Hollywood's biggest possible favor will be a flow of product related in all respects to the current market for entertainment. Such a line of product will enable the salesman in Des Moines to take care of himself, cheer the exhibitor and probably encourage the boss to be nice to the stenographer.

Rescue by the fellow who pushes you off the dock wins no medals.

△ △ △

WHEN Mr. George Bernard Shaw arrived in New York this week with a speaking date for the Academy of Political Science, a spokeswoman told the New York Times: "Mr. Shaw does not desire any publicity." Yes, and for the same reasons that Mr. Henry Ford does not want a motor car and Mr. John D. Rockefeller does not want a dime.

△ △ △

OVER THE RIVER

JERSEY CITY over yonder across the Hudson has no motion picture censorship. But last week it demonstrated in just a casual bit of routine that the police powers of any community are sufficient to safeguard the screen and its patrons. A New York entrepreneur leaped over the river and advertised "Mad Moments of Youth," a quickie made under another title, "for men only," etc., for showing at the Central Theatre. The advertising was so hot that Charles Wilson, inspector of police, sampled the merchandise at a preview, and that concluded proceedings.

SHOCKING COMPETENCY

THE considerably current comment up and down the byways of this show business that "Warners seem to be turning out good ones pretty steady" will be supported and augmented not a little when the country gets George Arliss in "The Working Man." There's a bit of a cheer up business message in it, too, suggesting there is business to be done by those who work at it—and keep selling. That, however, is incidental to the fact that here is an excellent example of production attuned to America's life of the immediate today, a story of the work-a-day world, understandable by everybody, and never-the-less thoroughly bespangled with glamour, chuckles and heart throbs.

An important aspect of "The Working Man" is that it escapes the all too frequent and painful effort to "knock 'em out of their seats." The production is handsomely and adequately mounted but there are none of the screaming extravagances that a seasoned Hollywooder could have found beckoning in the script.

The picture is positively revolutionary in the sense that it is obviously devoted entirely to the purpose of telling the pleasantly interesting story in hand, and that's all.

△ △ △

WILL THEY KNOW NOW?

WE have out there on the sun-laved shores of California a keen, alert, snappy creative community. Ideas! Why they positively shoot them on the wing. But how very, very strange it is that, despite the services of air mail, wires and radio, it became necessary for Mr. Will Hays to gather up a whole committee of strong men to go out en masse and tell them about business conditions. It is sort of reminiscent of the routine of the notification committees after the political conventions and the meeting of the presidential electors.

△ △ △

A SENSATIONAL phrase, "net profit," appears in the week's news of the industry. It is to be found in the statement issued to stockholders of Columbia Pictures Corporation by Harry Cohn, president. The figures are $373,785 for the last half of the late and lamentable year of 1932. Evidently it can be done.

△ △ △

EARLY returns from outlying precincts tend to indicate that box office receipts have been at least a shade better since beer came back. One thing is certain—beer is more likely to make the customer sit down and contemplate. Gin makes him want to go elsewhere every few minutes.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD — MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Roveistad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

THIS WEEK - - - -

CINEMATIC SALESMEN

No satisfactory salesmen of France, ambassadors of good will to the American public, are the current crop of lecturers, "unhealthy - looking, decrepit, feverish, coughing and trembling old men bound into frock coats," as stern-visaged Joseph Paul-Boncour, French foreign minister himself characterized them. That pro-French propaganda may be properly effective here, the foreign minister pushed through the Chamber of Deputies an appropriation of 33,000,000 francs ($1,320,000) for the purpose, indicating the situation's gravity via 175 documentary pages. Playing an important part in the "sell France" campaign will be the furtherance of French motion pictures, personable heroes supplanting Rip Winkle lecturers. . . .

NEW MEXICO CONTEST

To bat with the legislature of the sovereign state of New Mexico has gone MGM, championing thereby the cause of all distributors, in obtaining a temporary injunction against state officers charged with fulfilling the letter of the new law providing for simultaneous offering of product to all exhibitors on a competitive bidding basis. MGM charges the law violates its constitutional rights, in that it restrains private business. To June 12 the court has continued the case, and the injunction. Striking back, distributors have instituted a C. O. D. policy for New Mexico exhibitors, pending final decision. . . .

INDEPENDENT PROTEST

Once more arises a champion of the independent theatre owner, this time in Milwaukee, where last week John E. Honthaner, operator of the Comet, whose name is representative of 25 neighbors, brought suit against every large distributor and circuit-owned theatre in the state. "Independents must wait 40 to 60 days for pictures already shown in neighborhood circuit houses," cried Robert A. Hess, attorney. The state monopoly laws give basis for the injunction asked. Later was the champion unhorsed when the court declared he must sue for himself alone, his neighbors likewise. Uncertain is Attorney Hess of his course. . . .

SCREEN TEACHING

With 1,200 freshmen playing white mice to the scientific probing of professorship, Dr. Clarence C. Clark, general science professor of NYU, has long been experimenting with the sound motion picture, trying to evaluate it educationally, in the schoolroom. Concluding an elaborate study, Dr. Clark evaluates: "the mere addition of a spoken lecture to a silent film has little or no value for teaching purposes . . . in fact . . . may detract. Also . . . only type of educational sound films which have any value over silent . . . are in which sound is a vital and real part of the pictures." . . .

SEEING STORIES

Some 19 years ago a young man walked into the office of Photoplay Magazine, hung his hat on a peg and began to write about the then immature motion picture industry. Followed successive positions in Triangle's scenario department, with the late Lewis J. Selznick, Cosmopolitan Magazine, Cosmopolitan Productions, Famous Players-Lasky, more senarios, film editorship, and assorted production etceteras. This week, after 18 months as story department head, Julian Johnson becomes buyer for all new story material for Fox, still seeing stories. . . .

SMART ANNOUNCEMENT

Smartly twisting the prosaic into the unusual is Monogram's blue and red printed card announcing its third annual sales convention at Atlantic City's Ambassador Hotel April 24 to 27. In blithe, jingly rhyme and cartoon cuts the card entices, does not order, bludgeon attendance. . . .

In This Issue

All companies restore full salaries as leaders discuss program in Hollywood — Page 9

Hitlerism forces standstill of business of American producers and distributors in Germany — Page 10

Early action doubted on Sirovich proposal of congressional inquiry on film industry; state legislators heed exhibitors' appeals — Page 14

Columbia nets $373,785 in six months, compared with $275,006 for same period in 1931 — Page 13

FEATURES

Editorial — Page 7
The Camera Reports — Page 11
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum — Page 44
Asides and Interludes — Page 21

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me — Page 45
Showmen's Reviews — Page 28
Managers Round Table — Page 49
Short Features — Page 34
Technological — Page 35
Chicago — Page 34
The Release Chart — Page 56
Box Office Receipts — Page 38
Classified Advertising — Page 62

PLOT'S COUNTERPART

Pistols drawn, faces tense, police leaped from siren-screaming radio cars one night last week, rushed into the Granada theatre in Corona, Queens, to be greeted by the crack of gunfire. They raced to the manager's office on the mezzanine, while more shots rang out. Prepared to do battle with a gang of armed desperadoes, they burst open the door to find—nothing. The realistic sound effects of the film "Lucky Devil" meanwhile gripped the thousand patrons, made them unaware of real crime, real invasion of the law. Manager Charles Mann had been held up, robbed, beaten. The robbers had fled—but the authenticity of screen reproduction had been proved. . . .

FROM DUSTY SHELVES

While producers at large take manuscripts out of the hands of authors ere the last period is struck on the typewriter, off the presses before the ink is dry, Carl Laemmle, Universal's veteran president, turns back to the dust-covered library shelves, picks therefrom for "special" production a famed story, Edward Everett Hale's nearly immortal "The Man Without a Country." Widely Uncle Carl plans to throw the flaps of his production pocketbook, that the picture shall be worthy of its original. . . .

NOVEL STRUCTURE

Wide will probably pop the eyes of America's average Mr. and Mrs. Cinemapatron when they see Fox's "The Power and the Glory," just now starting into production, if advance promises of novel story structure are fulfilled. Under pioneer Jesse L. Lasky, Preston Sturges, playwright, evolved a style, requiring a third person—a narrator—who addresses the audience, recounting the story apparently as it occurs to him. If the most dramatic point of the man's career is his demise, there will the narrator start his tale, running backward to the man's distant youth. The story, it is claimed, will yet advance to a crisis. Admittedly, it is an experiment. . . .

UNION CAUTION

With memories still vivid of the tyrannous reign of King Sam Kaplan, since sentenced to jail for coercion, members of New York's projectionists' union, Local 306, have decreed that officers will hereafter be elected for one year terms, not four. Not insignificant is the annual stipend offered the president: $20,000. First to pocket such a salary is new president Harry Sherman. Optimistically, members see all local projection machines soon manned by Local 306 men. . . .

7 COMPANIES ON FULL PAY; STUDIO DICTATOR ASKED

Plans for Physical Distribution Merger Furthered at Joint Meeting of New York and Hollywood Executives

Emergency Reduction Canceled by United Artists, Educational, Goldwyn, Radio, MGM, Hal Roach; Earlier by Columbia

BULLETIN

Corporate realignment of the motion picture industry on a major scale was reported to be under discussion in Hollywood Wednesday night. It would be effected through a merger of two existing companies and the creation of one new company headed by many leading executives now with other organizations. The reports were vague and could not be verified nor could it be learned whether the idea has any connection with the current Hollywood conferences.

Broadway's mightiest motion picture businessmen and the impresarios of California's studios gathered in Hollywood Monday to talk about the industry's problems. It was the first time that all executives of both coasts had assembled for concerted action to balance costs with income. By midweek, the developments were:

Elimination of salary reductions by seven companies, in some cases retroactive.

Proposal to establish a dictator over all of Hollywood.

Furthering of plans to effect a physical distribution merger.

Discussions for stabilizing the business by adjusting costs and income.

Proposal to adopt a "gentlemen's agreement" to adjust common difficulties.

Submission by Will H. Hays of his five-plank program for solving problems, previously outlined to leaders in New York.

Outlining to Hollywood the necessity for a new economic order.

While the executives continued conferences looking toward economies, the emergency committee of workers of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences announced that the 25 and 50 per cent emergency pay reduction had been abrogated by United Artists, Educational, Samuel Goldwyn Productions, RKO-Radio, Hal Roach Studios and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, with others probably taking similar action before the weekend. Columbia restored full salaries last week. Educational's is effective April 30. It had not been made known whether United Artist's included distribution.

Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, on arriving in Hollywood Sunday with the New York executives, explained that the broad purpose of the meeting was "to discuss such industry policies as are necessary for the stability of the industry. The fundamental problem, of course, is to balance the budget between outgo in all branches with current income from the box office.

"The exchange of views as to the needs of production on one hand, and the imperative requirements of economy in all branches on the other hand, should clarify many of these problems and result in plans that will hasten the processes of readjustment which this industry, as well as other American industries, is now going through," Mr. Hays concluded.

Specifically, New York executives went west to outline to Hollywood, right on its home ground, the hard facts of how theatre receipts have dropped, to what extent the foreign market has shrunk, how film rentals of a majority of pictures are not in keeping with costs, how necessary it is to make pictures cheaper without impairing quality.

Hollywood's reaction evidenced itself in certain quarters, where it was maintained that the socalled creative factors entering production make necessary individual handling of such situations. Regardless, it appeared that Hollywood might be governed by a dictator. During the secret session Tuesday, it was learned, the confreres were giving serious thought to establishment of a virtual dictator. He would have complete charge over such matters as salaries, enforcement of the Production Code and active censure of any studio which might run "out of bounds" in any respect. Such dictator would work, not necessarily under Mr. Hays, but with him, paralleling Mr. Hays' efforts in the East. He would control no individual activities of the major studios, except in instances where it was considered that the general industry practice is being ignored. Another move in the dictatorship plan, it was said, would be to try to keep salaries within the "bounds of reason" through the creation of a united booking office, similar to the organization which for years existed in the vaudeville field.

The general theory is that no new contracts could be signed without clearing through, and getting the approval of, such dictator.

Physical Merger to Solve Sales Ills

Merchandising and its ailments were discussed. At Wednesday's sessions it appeared that a merger of physical distribution might be effected. The idea was first mentioned in New York in mid-winter, at a meeting of sales leaders at the offices of the MPPDA. Discussion of actual plans was referred back to New York. It was estimated that such a merger would save the various sales corporations $9,000,000, and, according to the proponents, it would not effect individual sales effort.

Jack Schlaifer, Universal distribution director, and George Schaefer, sales head at Paramount, said in New York Wednesday that nothing had been done on the plan since December, at which time they were appointed a committee to investigate.

A new "gentlemen's agreement" to adjust common problems also was a subject of conversation. Major companies might then pay more strict attention to each others' rights it was said.

The corporate heads arrived in California with a definite idea as to the nature of the industry's problems, but without any specific program for solving them.

Mr. Hays opened the conferences Monday night at the annual meeting of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, Hollywood affiliate of MPPDA. He spoke of the necessity for studio and theatre reorganization and for producing quality product at lowest cost. "Long term contracts with high-salaried personnel," he said, coupled with "temporary decline in theatre attendance, and the fact that no picture can hope to gross the income of normal years, have thrown some of the elements out of adjustment and call for reorganization and rehabilitation."

Distribution costs, too, need readjustment, said Mr. Hays. "We are still pinioned to elaborate and wasteful methods of film distribution by antiquated laws that confuse organization with monopoly. There are signs, on the basis of a recent court decision, that large economies might be possible in distribution costs through proper organization. By plans that may be devised under the limits of this decision, very definite economies could be effected in distribution." It was presumed that Mr. Hays was referring to the relation of the anti-trust laws to the proposed plan for a merger of physical distribution.

Mr. Hays' five-plank plan includes theatre decentralization, integration of distribution facilities, lowered production cost and increased flow of trained talent to the studios, patent adjustment, and greater emphasis on self-regulation.

West Meets East at Pasadena

When the Chief rolled into Pasadena Sunday afternoon, practically all of Hollywood's executive force was on hand for the debarkation of the generals from Broadway. Louis B. Mayer, Harry Rapf and Hunt Stromberg rode up from MGM's studio at Culver City to welcome Nicholas M. Schenck, president. A. M. Botsford, Paramount representative, was awaiting the arrival of Adolph Zukor, president, and Emanuel Cohen, production executive. Jack L. Warner and Darryl Zanuck were there from the Warner studio to meet Harry M. Warner.

From Radio came Merian C. Cooper, who rode into Los Angeles with RKO's president, Merlin Hall Aylesworth, one of the few New York officers who did not get off at Pasadena. Joseph Breen, MPPDA official on the West Coast, and Fred Beetson, secretary of the producers' association, were there to meet Mr. Hays, who, with a half-dozen bulging portfolios as "evidence," had brought his assistants, Earl Bright and Roy Norr.

Junior and Senior Laemmle represented Universal's reception committee for Robert H. Cochrane, who had made the trip reluctantly. A. H. Giannini, of the Bank of America, and an important factor in motion picture financing, was at the Pasadena station, and so were Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, and Abe Lehr.

Sidney R Kent, president of Fox Film, had arrived in Hollywood previously.

All these officials and many more were assembled in the coast quarters of the Hays organization on Hollywood boulevard, when Mr. Hays sounded the gavel late Monday, calling the first session to order. Sam Briskin, of Columbia's studio, represented Harry Cohn, president, who was in New York conferring

(Continced on page 19)

HITLERISM FORCES STANDSTILL OF U.S. FILM TRADE IN GERMANY

Regime Requires Product Must Conform to Nazi Dogma and Sets Up Racial Restrictions; German Films Also Suffer

Adolf Hitler's political upheaval in Germany has brought to a complete standstill the business of American motion picture companies in that country both as to production and distribution. The same is said to be true of Germany's own domestic industry. Theatres are being forced to use film previously contracted for and no new product is being released. One reason assigned for the apparent paralysis in the industry, is that, like everything else in Germany, the picture business is to be "coordinated" with the new National Socialist regime, which sets up two requirements: Product must conform to Nazi dogmas, and the industry must be "purged" of all Jewish elements.

Would Be Propaganda Vehicle

The first requirement is being formulated in a new censorship law under which the motion picture will become an instrument for propaganda, and the second requirement has resulted in a wholesale shutdown of sales activities on the part of both American and German firms. This rapidly is creating a dearth of German films, and American representatives there are said to believe that this eventually will provide a good opportunity for increased imports of the American product.

Major Frederick Herron, head of the foreign department of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, is in Washington this week conferring with State Department officials to get more complete and accurate information.

Following the forced severance of Max Reinhardt, Germany's most eminent theatrical producer, from the Deutsches theatre in Berlin, after having served the theatre for more than a quarter of a century, news dispatches brought notice of the death of Alfred Rotter, one of the leading Jewish producers of musical comedy in Berlin. Rotter, with his brother Franz, controlled nine Berlin theatres, including the famous Schauspielhaus. Six young Germans, reported to be ardent Nazis, are in jail at Feldkirsch, Austria, on a charge of murderous assault on Alfred Rotter and his wife.

Showings Canceled

Meanwhile in this country exhibitors in several sections have found it necessary, because of strong anti-Hitler feeling, to cancel showings of German films. In New York, where the latest German picture, "M", got away to a good start two weeks ago at the Mayfair theatre, public sentiment is said to have run so high that Joseph Plunkett, operator of the Mayfair, discontinued the picture's run. In Cincinnati, Dr. Fritz M. Witte, manager of the UFA theatre, temporarily has closed his house. Dr. Witte for a long time has been one of the most aggressive operators in the country.

Another phase is seen in the announcement by Kinematrade, distributor of foreign films, that it will handle the picture "Kuhle Wampe," or "Whither Germany," which will have its American premiere late this month. This picture is said to be an indictment of the Hitler regime.

Max Friedland, general European representative for Universal, is reported this week to have left Berlin for Switzerland. At the company office in New York no definite information could be obtained as to Mr. Friedland's activities. "We have not heard a word from Germany for over a week," a representative of the company said. "They are maintaining the strictest censorship possible."

Exhibitors and other leaders continue to deplore any form of boycott of German pictures. Typical is the expression of Arthur Ziehm, general manager of World's Trade Exchange, Inc., who said recently that any boycott of German product here would injure the Jews of Germany more than it would affect the Hitlerites.

"It must be taken into consideration that by far the largest percentage of German writers, producers, directors and artists are Jews," Mr. Ziehm said. "The three leading trade papers in Germany, the Film Kurier, the Licht Bild Buehne and the Film Journal are also owned and operated by Jews.

"Exhibitors in Jewish neighborhoods who are being requested by their patrons to discontinue the showing of German films should make their customers acquainted with these facts," Mr. Ziehm said, "either by mentioning them in the program, or by running a short trailer prior to the running of German productions."

Uncertain on Contracts

Inability to obtain any word from Germany, either by correspondence or cable, has left New York distributors uncertain whether existing contracts for film must be fulfilled. At RKO, which distributes in Germany through a state rights representative, no word has been received. Distribution of Warner films in Germany is at a standstill, although some definite news has been received by the home office from Paris as to the general situation.

Major Albert Warner, vice-president of Warner-First National, denied a report printed in Germany that Warners was contemplating production of a picture based upon current conditions in Germany.

Late last week Max Reinhardt was reported to be considering an offer from S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel to come to this country to produce for him. Just what might be the Rothafel plan and what part Professor Reinhardt is intended to play in it was not revealed.

Replying to world wide protests against the embargoes placed on Bruno Walter, Reinhardt and other noted artists of Jewish extraction, Hans Hinkel, assigned to "special duties" in the Prussian ministry of culture, announced last week that henceforth Jews would be completely excluded from official executive positions in the theatres and operas.

ANARCHIST TO SHAW HOLLYWOOD ALL

George Bernard Shaw, fresh—very fresh—from Hollywood, engaged in a typically Shavian tirade Tuesday night at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Mr. Shaw bemoaned and belittled everything from President Roosevelt and the Constitution to Hollywood, which he pronounced a hot-bed of anarchistic propaganda.

"In America there is a sort of propaganda of anarchism," Mr. Shaw said. "Formerly you were not able to affect public morals and public feeling on the other side of the Atlantic as much as you are able to do now, because you have an institution, a place here called Hollywood, which has given you a tremendous influence throughout the world."

"The real thing with which you are corrupting the world is the anarchism of Hollywood," he said. "There you put a string of heroes in front of people and all of them are anarchists, and the one answer to anything annoying or to any breach of the law or to any expression which he considers unmanly, is to give the other person a sock in the jaw.

"I wonder you don't prosecute the people who produce these continual strings of gentlemen who, when they are not kissing the heroine, are socking the jaw of somebody else. It is a criminal offense to sock a person in the jaw. When will we see a film issuing from Hollywood in which the hero, instead of socking the gentleman in the jaw, does the civilized thing and calls a policeman?"

Mr. Shaw, while in Hollywood, was entertained by William Randolph Hearst on his sumptuous ranch. Later he was accorded a lavish reception by Louis B. Mayer of the Metro studios. Then, too, there was the intoxicating effect of the nearness of a galaxy of picture beauties, including Marion Davies, with whom Mr. Shaw was constantly photographed.

Americans See Eventual Opening for Increased Exports If Native Product Supply Runs Short; Canceling Protested

Fox May Take Over Joinville Paramount Studio in France

Fox may close a deal for production at the Paramount Joinville studio in Paris, according to Robert T. Kane, former European manager for Paramount in charge of the Joinville studio, on his arrival in New York from Paris this week. Mr. Kane is now associated with Fox.

Paramount has summoned Ike Blumenthal, acting manager at Joinville, to New York. He will probably confer with E. E. Shauer, vice president of Paramount International, on that company's future activities in Paris. No successor to Mr. Kane has as yet been appointed. Clayton Sheehan, Fox foreign manager, is expected in New York from Europe early next week.

Pathe Stockholders to Meet

The annual meeting of Pathe Exchange Inc., stockholders, will be held April 25 in New York.

THE CAMERA REPORTS

BEER ARRIVES. (Left) About the time this monk did, and they get tried out on each other, with the assistance of Jack Dempsey. The monkey was brought from Java by the B. F. Zeidman expedition, which filmed "Samarang."

VIENNESE. (Below) Nancy Carroll in Universal's "The Kiss Before the Mirror."

TOURING. (Right) Jeanette MacDonald in Amsterdam during her European concert tour. Later she will make "The Merry Widow" for United Artists."

OFFICIAL GRATITUDE. As members of the New York RKO Radio exchange were banqueted by home office sales executives for winning company's sales drive. Ned E. Depinet, distribution head, and Jules Levy, general sales manager, alternated as chairman. Among others present were W. H. Clark, Al Mertz, E. L. McEvoy, R. F. Sisk, S. Barrett McCormick, Rutgers Neilson, Leon Bamburger, M. G. Poller, J. P. Skelly, F. A. Kennedy, A. A. Schubert, L. H. Miller, W. E. Dahler, J. J. O'Connor, Fred Meyers, Max Fellerman, Nate Blumberg, J. J. Nolan, Walter Derham, Frank Alstock, Harry Gittleson, K. Hallam, Robert Dann, M. L. Maier, R. S. Wolf, Phil Hodes, B. Kranze, F. L. Drumm, J. J. Dacey, M. Westebbe, E. Carroll, Jack Ellis, L. I. Kutinsky.

BACK TO WORK. (Below) Katharine Hepburn, RKO Radio star, leaving New York for Hollywood, following a six-weeks' vacation. She will begin work at once on "The Morning Glory," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., as leading man. Miss Hepburn hails from England.

RETURNS FROM FILMING EXPEDITION. Walter Futter (left), producer of cartoon and travel subjects, greeting Richard Halliburton, the noted writer of travel books, upon the latter's return to New York from India, where he supervised for Futter the production of "India Speaks," which will be released by RKO Radio.

FEATURED. (Below) Although her appearance was brief, Jean Parker was duly billed for her role in MGM's "Gabriel Over the White House"—a concession which seems amply explained by this new study of her.

VACATIONING. Irene Ware, one of the newer Fox players, who arrived in New York last week. She expects to return to Hollywood April 19, upon renewal of her contract.

NEW PLAYERS. Elizabeth Allen and (immediately above) Edwin Styles, both on the MGM roster. Styles, one of the more recent acquisitions of the screen, had as his initial assignment a role in "Hell Below," working under the direction of Jack Conway. Miss Allen is from the British stage and studios and will make her American debut in "Service," the direction of which has been assigned to Clarence Brown.

Shubert Obtains Company's Assets

Lee Shubert, chairman of the reorganization committee of the Shubert Theatre Corporation, bought in all assets of the corporation for $400,000 at an auction held last week at the New York County Courthouse by order of Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey. The bid was the lowest permitted by the court.

Included in the assets were 28 houses, of which eight in New York are: Imperial, 46th Street, Harris, National Barrymore, Winter Garden, Music Box, Morosco and Plymouth. The five last named are leased.

Attempts to reorganize the corporation under a plan introduced February 15 have been abandoned because of insufficient deposits of debentures, claims and subscriptions for preferred and common stock proposed in the plan, Mr. Shubert announced earlier.

Trans-Lux Net Is $93,175 For Year Ended December 31

Trans-Lux Daylight Picture Screen Corporation and subsidiary, Canadian Trans-Lux Corporation, Ltd., report net profit of $93,175 for the year ended December 31, 1932, after depreciation, federal taxes, interest, loss on securities, etc., equivalent to 12 cents per share (par $1) on 785,175 shares of capital stock. For 1931 the company and its subsidiary reported profit of $277,505 after charges, but before federal taxes.

The net profit for 1932 does not include operation of Trans-Lux Movies Corporation, which, from August 5, 1932, to December 31, 1932, showed a loss of $7,848. Current assets as of December 31 last amounted to $544,444, and current liabilities were listed at $43,994, which compares with assets of $618,442 and liabilities of $30,163 at the close of 1931.

Northwest Owners Organize; National Circuit Is Planned

Organization of First National Theatres, Inc., was completed in Seattle this week, with a nucleus of 23 theatres as a basis for what is hoped by its sponsors will eventually be a nationwide circuit. The circuit was formed by independent exhibitors for affiliation with independent producers. All theatres involved were a part of the Jensen, Von Herberg, Mercy and other independent northwest circuits.

Officers of the corporation are: John Von Herberg, Seattle, president; Fred Mercy, Yakima, vice president; Claude Jensen, Portland, secretary; Fred Mercy, Jr., treasurer.

George Dembow Joins National Screen Service

George Dembow, variously engaged for many years in all phases of the industry, has joined National Screen Service as assistant to the president, Herman Robbins. Mr. Dembow's headquarters will be at 630 Ninth avenue, New York.

Mr. Dembow was formerly district manager for Fox, and has since represented Samuel Goldwyn in New England and Metro-Goldwyn in the East.

COLUMBIA PICTURES NET $373,785 IN 6 MONTHS

GOVERNOR CHAMPIONS CALIBER OF INDUSTRY

A defense of the motion picture and its people was voiced Monday by Governor White of Ohio, in signing a bill exempting newsreels from censorship. Said the Governor:

"The very word 'censorship' is obnoxious to the American people, but while we must continue to exercise it over motion pictures generally, I see no reason whatever for censorship of films depicting current news events. I want to pay tribute to the motion picture industry in Ohio. The exhibitors of this state constitute a high-class, conscientious group of our citizenship, seeking to give only entertainment of the highest order for our people. In fact, they have, through their own organization, regulated their industry so well, that over a long period of time there have been very few prosecutions for violations of censorship laws. I am sure we may be confident that there will be no abuse of the privilege accorded by this bill in connection with newsreel films."

Warner Seeking Fixed Charge Cut

Through reductions in interest rates on outstanding debentures, theatre leases and property mortgages, Warner Bros. is reported to be putting its financial structure in order. The move has been underway for some time, and Harry M. Warner has been devoting himself almost exclusively to these affairs.

Last week Mr. Warner conferred with landlords of various theatre properties in the Stanley-Warner circuit at Philadelphia, with a view to obtaining wholesale revisions downward in rents and mortgages. Generally the company is seeking to reduce the interest rate on debentures to 3 per cent. Five Warner men are now spending their time in the field to further these objectives.

Form Sound Laboratory

The Bruno Laboratories has been established in New York by Dr. William A. Bruno, Thomas J. Walsh and John B. Antofilli. Mr. Walsh and Mr. Antofilli recently resigned from the Akeley Camera Corporation. The new company will specialize in motion picture sound equipment.

Detroit Operators Confer

Projectionists in local 199 at Detroit and representatives of the exhibitors have yet to reach a decision on a proposed salary reduction. It is understood that the operators are willing to agree to a "reasonable" cut but not as much as 37½ per cent, as was the settlement at San Francisco. In the March 25 issue it was stated that the Detroit projectionists already had accepted a wage reduction.

Equals $2.07 on Common and Compares with $275,006 for Same Period in 1931, or $1.46 a Share for Half of That Year

Net profit of $373,785 for the last half of 1932 was reported by Columbia Pictures Corporation, in a statement sent to stockholders last week by Harry Cohn, president, following restoration of the 25-50 per cent salary reduction. The company was the first to rescind the emergency wage order.

The net profit, which further reflected the favorable financial position of the company, is equal to $2.07 on each common share, and compares with $275,006 for the same period in 1931, which was equivalent to $1.46 per share. Profit reported for the six months was after amortization of films, interest, federal taxes and dividends on the 167,885 no-par shares.

Consolidated income account for the six months ended December 24, 1932, compares as follows:

	6 mos. ended Dec. 24, '32	6 mos. ended Dec. 26, '31
Operating profit	$2,903,274	$3,029,608
Other income	35,675	72,951
Total income	$2,938,949	$3,102,019
Amortization of films	2,487,632	2,745,633
Interest	14,141	39,092
Federal taxes	63,391	42,288
Net profit	$373,785	$275,006
Preference dividends	26,121	26,596
Common cash dividends	.....	30,769
Surplus	$347,664	$217,641

Consolidated balance sheet of the parent corporation and its domestic subsidiaries, as of December 24, follows:

Assets: Land, buildings, equipments, license rights, etc., after depreciation, $1,384,006; cash (including $100,000 U. S. Treasury certificates), $830,157; accounts receivable, $1,129,322; inventories, $2,748,574; deposits, $42,661; investments, $118,281; prepaid expenses, $136,434; total, $6,389,435.

Liabilities: Convertible preference stock (represented by 17,391 no-par shares), $525,225; common stock (represented by 167,885 no-par shares), $2,069,196; notes payable, $290,011; accounts payable, $584,949; mortgages and purchase contracts payable (current), $59,068; producers' shares payable, $136,437; due to officers, $13,789; federal taxes, $63,390; mortgages and purchase contracts payable after one year, $218,136; deferred income, $229,559; reserve for contingencies, $488,876; capital surplus, $66,327; earned surplus, $1,644,472; total, $6,389,435.

Strand Building Fire Does Not Halt "42nd Street" Show

Fire which destroyed the top floor of the Strand theatre building at 46th Street and Broadway, New York, on Tuesday, will not interfere with the showing of Warner's "42nd Street," now playing the Strand, it was announced by Major Albert Warner, vice president in charge of distribution.

The theatre was emptied, rapidly and quietly, with complete absence of excitement, merely as a matter of precaution, when the fire was discovered, said Major Warner. Actually the theatre was some distance from the scene of the blaze, and was not in any way damaged.

EARLY ACTION DOUBTED ON SIROVICH FILM BILL

Industry Makes Fair Progress in Own Defense Against Measures in State Legislatures; Lawmakers Split Over Sales Tax

Whether there will be a congressional investigation of motion picture industry activities depends upon the membership of the House of Representatives as a result of the action of the rules committee in making a favorable report on Congressman Sirovich's resolution of inquiry. Representative Byrnes of Tennessee, House majority leader, declared Wednesday that with important legislation pending, the Sirovich resolution would not come up before Thursday at the earliest. Mr. Sirovich failed Monday in his efforts to obtain immediate consideration. "A foolish waste of money," Blanton of Texas said Wednesday.

The inquiry would be prosecuted by a special committee of seven congressmen. The results would be reported at the opening of the regular session next January. Every phase of motion picture activity would be studied by the committee.

Progress in State Fights

In the divergent fields of state legislature the industry appears to be making fair progress in its battle to protect itself. The sales tax is the chief weapon which state lawmakers are trying to use to obtain new revenue. It has caused a sharp division among legislators.

Kentucky and Mississippi are the only states in which there has been no legislative session, regular or special, this year. In Georgia a special session has been called for budget action. The West Virginia legislature adjourned March 13 but a special session was called April 4, and there is a probability of introduction of a bill for an admission tax or an assessment on film shipped into the state.

In Alabama a 10 per cent admission tax is up for reconsideration. Governor Miller has said he would sign the measure. Litigation may tie up the Arizona sales tax effective April 30.

Governor Rolph of California on Monday vetoed the Redwine bill, which would have exempted theatrical agents from restrictions of existing employment agency legislation. A luxury sales tax also is proposed.

In Connecticut, Thomas J. Spellacy, attorney for receivers of the Poli circuit, urged the legislators to vote repeal of the seating capacity tax on theatres. Otherwise, he warned, the large houses must close their galleries.

Delaware Exhibitors Protest

Independent exhibitors in Delaware are protesting against a censorship bill declaring films shown in the state already are censored in Maryland and Pennsylvania. Representative Schroeder's measure to create a motion picture board of control was passed in the House. A measure to permit city referendums on Sunday showings beginning at 2 p. m. was brought out of the House committee.

Tax protests in Florida may, it is feared, turn the legislators toward the theatres as a possible source of revenue. The Georgia legislative committee turned thumbs down on a 10 per cent ticket levy. Idaho legislators also closed their session after rejecting all sales tax proposals. Theatres have been definitely exempted from the 3 per cent levy voted in Illinois.

A move to repeal Iowa's blue law was defeated. Industry leaders in Kansas blame exhibitors' lack of organized action for failure to obtain passage of the Blood bill to legalize Sunday shows. However, amendments eliminate film inspectors and censorship tags on prints. A flat 2 per cent assessment on net incomes of all corporations and 20 per cent reduction of realty assessed valuation for taxation purposes were voted.

The lower house in Maine has before it a divided committee report on a 1 per cent sales tax. A proposal in Maryland, defeated by the House, called for increased penalties for violations of censorship laws and gives the board supervision of the licensing of trailers, stills, illustrations and advertising matter, posters and banners. Sunday showings in Baltimore won out. A proposal of the Massachusetts tax commissioner, now before the House ways and means committee, would saddle a state tax on admissions.

Michigan's legislature has in committee a suggested graduated sales tax of from 3-10ths of 1 per cent to 3 per cent. Minnesota exhibitors are jubilant because no censorship bills have been introduced. In Missouri exhibitors helped kill a 1 per cent tax which had been reported as substitute for a 5 per cent tax on admissions. All sales tax proposals in the state were lost. A bill to repeal the Sunday blue law was killed by the House. Constitutionality of a proposed ½ of 1 per cent tax is questioned in New Hampshire. The latest censorship bill in Nebraska died in committee.

Decision on the plea of counsel for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to make permanent the temporary injunction obtained in New Mexico restraining enforcement of the new law, which provides that pictures be offered simultaneously to all exhibitors in the state on a competitive bidding basis, has been delayed until June 12.

New York theatres' grosses will be subject to a 1 per cent sales tax passed last week by the state legislature, with exhibitors' payments in the next two years estimated at $3,620,000. By a vote of 47 to 2, the senate defeated a measure for legitimate stage showings Sundays. A 10 per cent admission tax lost in Texas.

Oregon Tax up to Voters

A movement is under way for a referendum fight on North Dakota's new graduated sales tax, effective July 1. Governor White of Ohio this week signed the last-minute bill exempting newsreels from censorship. Maryland and Virginia now are the only censor states whose boards exercise control over news reels. When the legislature reconvenes May 15 a bill will be submitted asking for diversion of the censorship fees into a fund to establish libraries of educational pictures for school use.

Oregon's voters at a special election in July will pass on a 2 per cent gross sales tax. In Pennsylvania proposal was made that censorship fees be reduced from $2 a reel to $1.50. Leading theatre operators in Tennessee said they would make no move to open their houses on Sundays even if the bill before its legislature should pass. A 2 per cent sales tax is before the House, while the South Carolina House voted down a sales levy and proposed instead increased income taxes. Utah exhibitors will be subject May 1 to both a three-fourths of 1 per cent sales tax and a one cent tax on all admissions, effective until April 1, 1935, and in Vermont a measure was passed calling for a gross sales tax graduated from one-eighth of 1 per cent to 4 per cent. An occupational tax of 1½ per cent on gross is applied to all houses in Washington state. Wisconsin's blue laws will cease to exist as soon as Governor Schmedeman signs the Daugs bill.

Another new tax is being weighed by the Canadian government. This is a proposal to apply the 12½ per cent tax on royalties and copyright fees paid to organizations and individuals outside of Canada to film rentals which eventually go to the United States or Great Britain.

AMEND NEW YORK FILM SALES LAW

A bill, amending section 1089 of the New York State Education Law, was passed by the legislature at Albany last week. The statute before amendment declared as unlawful the practice of leasing or selling any motion picture, unless at the time of the sale or making of a lease there was in full force and effect a valid license to exhibit. The amendment passed provides that the section shall not be construed to prohibit the making of an executory contract for the sale or leasing of a film, provided the film shall have been licensed at the time of delivery, but allows the making of an executory contract for sale or leasing for advance exhibition. The bill is now in Governor Lehman's hands for approval.

Biggers, Author, Playwright, Dead

While still at the height of his career as a playwright, author and the creator of the famed Charlie Chan, Earl Derr Biggers, 48, died last week at the Pasadena Hospital from a heart attack he had suffered the week before at Palm Springs.

Widely known, first as a brilliant playwright, then as an author of detective and mystery fiction, Mr. Biggers' creation of the smooth, soft-voiced Chinese detective, Charlie Chan, had brought his name to the attention of millions of motion picture public, through picturization of the character whose indulgence in witty and philosophical aphorisms made him unique in the annals of famed fictionalized sleuths.

A literary course at Harvard was followed for Mr. Biggers by the writing of a humorous column, and later dramatic criticism, for the Boston Traveler, until 1911. His first novel, the famous "Seven Keys to Baldpate," was brought to the stage by George M. Cohan, and was a tremendous success. A successful silent film version followed. Magazine stories, plays, articles and novels came next. A war play, "Inside the Lines," ran 500 nights in London in 1915 and 1916. He went to California in 1919, as he expressed it, to repair his health in the sunshine and his bank account in the motion picture works, and had made his home there ever since.

Paramount Foreign Company Shifts Executive Personnel

J. H. Seidelman has resigned as vice president and acting manager of Paramount International Corporation. E. E. Shauer, vice president and general manager of the corporation, which handles foreign product, has accepted the resignation and appointed Mr. Seidelman special foreign representative. He will make his headquarters in Europe.

John W. Hicks, Jr., has been named acting manager of the corporation and George Weltner assistant manager.

THE BEST NEWS SINCE THE BANKS OPENED

Hurray for spring! Hurray for beer. Hurray for FOX. Again the FOX master showmen ring the bell. Ready to welcome in the merry month of May with the sweetest product line-up in the market . . . from anybody. And FOX is celebrating . . . by giving you SEVEN smash hit box-office wallops. How you can use them!

FOX May FESTIVAL

No wonder FOX is happy. You'll be happy, too, at the prospect of sharing in this gala occasion to the tune of an overflowing theatre. Take a peep at the line-up on the following pages!

BOOK THEM IN A ROW FO

You get Hollywood's biggest stars in the FOX May Festival. When FOX throws a party it's a pip. Just look at these names: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor, Henry Garat, James Dunn, Sally Eilers, Loretta Young, Marian Nixon, Buddy Rogers, Norman Foster, Clive Brook, Diana Wynyard. What material to dress anybody's marquee! Now for the pictures!

All available for May showing:

ZOO IN BUDAPEST

Gene Raymond Loretta Young

O. P. Heggie

Jesse L. Lasky's first smash for FOX. Acclaimed as a masterpiece at the West Coast preview. Dramatically different . . . as you'd expect from Lasky's master hand.

JANET GAYNOR HENRY GARAT

in ADORABLE

What a combination . . . a stroke of FOX show genius. Millions want to see Janet Gaynor in this perfect lover's arms. Merry with tunes everyone will hum.

FOX May

YOUR BEST MONTH IN YEARS

HOLD ME TIGHT

JAMES DUNN

SALLY EILERS

he perfect title for the perfect team. Tender, lightful, heart-warming romance . . . with a touch of pathos . . . can't miss.

5c A GLASS

HARLES (Buddy) ROGERS

MARIAN NIXON

oaming over with exploitation angles. Peppy, appy and spiced with music. The fans will drink it up.

CAVALCADE

Watch it continue to smash records at popular prices . . . as it is doing at Radio City Music Hall. Grab it for May and get the biggest hit in show history.

The WARRIOR'S HUSBAND

with ELISSA LANDI

Marjorie Rambeau Ernest Truex
David Manners

Uproarious comedy romance in the land where women are the traveling salesmen and the men are the farmers' daughters. A Jesse Lasky production...entertainment guaranteed.

STATE FAIR

Now beating regular first run averages on return engagements. If you don't date it in, you're missing one of the surest bets in show business.

ESTIVAL

YOUR PROFITS FOR May ARE COMING FROM FOX

Never before has any company prepared such a feast of entertainment as FOX has for May. Get ready for the mobs that are going to swarm into your theatre the minute you announce the titles. Get hopped up . . . excited . . . enthusiastic. Dress up your house and open an extra bank account. You'll need it!

FOX May FESTIVAL

Studio Dictator Proposed When Leaders Convene

(Continued from page 9)

with brother Jack. Winfield Sheehan, Jack Gain and Jesse L. Lasky augmented the Fox delegation. Cecil B. DeMille, of Paramount, sat in, and so did B. B. Kahane, president of Radio Pictures; Henry Henigson, of Universal, and Abraham Lehr, for Samuel Goldwyn, who is now in Europe.

Additional representatives were: E. H. Allen, for E. W. Hammons' Educational company; William R. Fraser, Harold Lloyd Corporation, and Henry Ginsberg, for Hal Roach. George Cohen, of the Hollywood firm of Loeb, Walker and Loeb, was the legal "watchdog."

Columbia's Harry Cohn was to have attended but up to press time had made no arrangements to leave New York.

Generalities the Keynote

Again on Tuesday night, Mr. Hays called everybody together to confer on the program for rehabilitation. The means toward accomplishing the end appeared to be open discussions, with exchange of personal views. Typical were talks by Harry Warner, Mr. Kent and Mr. Aylesworth, each stressing chaotic conditions in the industry and urging that something be done about it.

All agreed to eliminate social activities. Even Carl Laemmle's invitation that they be his guests at the Breakfast Club was met with refusal.

Hollywood appeared quite insistent that producer-distributors agree to the salary reduction—rehabilitation program or no. When workers were requested March 6 to accept the drastic reduction at the time of the general banking stringency, Hollywood agreed, on condition that salaries be restored by individual studios before the end of the eight weeks if and when ledgers revealed that improved conditions permitted such action.

Salaries and the Program

Columbia, which acted last week, was the first company to restore salaries. Similar action was taken Tuesday by Educational (for April 30), Samuel Goldwyn, United Artists and Hal Roach Studios, the three having made the new order retroactive to March 6. MGM and RKO followed on Wednesday, agreeing to restore full pay April 17. RKO's order is retroactive to April 6. Conferences with officials of Fox, Paramount, Warners and Universal were continued Wednesday by the Academy committee, which pointed out that restored salaries were not limited to Hollywood workers, but include all employees in all branches.

When word reached the studio colony late last week that New York executives were traveling westward to effect a program for balancing expenditures and income, Academy members hurriedly conferred at the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel, alarmed at reports of further reductions, or of continuance of the 25-50 cent decree beyond the eight weeks. By fiery speech and resolution the Academy voted to resist any further attempt to reduce pay checks and so served notice to the executive caravan then approaching Hollywood. As J. Theodore Reed, of the Academy's technical division, put it: "Let us meet them as a militant fighting group."

Mr. Hays, on arrival, said the producers were not planning a new wage slash. "Of course," he added, "our problem is to balance up between the outgo in all branches and the current income from the box-office." And at Monday night's session Mr. Hays said: "Compensation can be and is being adjusted to meet the standards of the times."

Eastern executives attending private studio conferences early in the week were told by their Hollywood lieutenants that the emergency slash in March was followed by ebbing enthusiasm in production. Nor did Hollywood workers agree that salary slashes were a necessary part of the program balancing the industry's budget. "The emergency is over," said John T. Mott, counsel for the Academy's committee.

Maurice D. (Red) Kann, editor of Motion Picture Daily, is in Hollywood this week representing the Quigley Publications in reporting on the industry conferences He accompauied the New York executives westward.

EXHIBITORS CONTINUE WRANGLE WITH UNIONS

Theatre owners in many cities continued during the week with negotiations with union projectionists, stage hands and musicians, for reductions in salary scales, in line with a general campaign to lower overhead charges. Developments were:

In Kansas City, Mo., 41 theatres, including every downtown house, closed Wednesday when union employees rejected a pay reduction.

Altoona, Pa., projectionists walked out after refusal to accept 25 per cent reduction; non-union operators employed.

Buffalo operators will vote Saturday on exhibitors' demands, said to be for 50 per cent.

Cincinnati operators and Allied Theatre Owners meet Friday on proposed 25 per cent cut.

Cleveland theatres reopened Sunday after having been dark 26 days when operators and exhibitors were deadlocked; finally accepted 25 per cent cut. Musicians refused and first runs went straight films.

Columbus, Ohio, operators and theatre owners said to be nearing compromise which would avert a shutdown.

Detroit musicians walked out because of unpaid salaries.

Jersey City operators returned to work in four theatres after agreement on reduced pay.

Kansas City, Kan., theatres are on a day-to-day basis during conferences, although seven houses have already darkened, blaming operators.

Memphis closings were averted by a compromise; agreement now being drawn, with new scale.

New Orleans faces a general strike or walk out unless reduced scales are effected. Already, operators have walked out of first runs because managers insisted upon two men in each booth, instead of four.

Pittsburgh stagehands accepted a 15 per cent cut; theatres demanded 20 per cent, same as operators.

Topeka, Kan., operators settled, averting shutdown; operators agreed to one man in the booth and one stage hand employed.

Wichita, Kan., operators agreed to one man in the booth.

Lloyd Wins Appeal Victory In Witwer Plagiarism Suit

The United States circuit court of appeals in San Francisco this week reversed a decision of the Los Angeles federal court, thereby awarding a favorable verdict to Harold Lloyd, comedian, in the protracted plagiarism suit in which he was defendant. The action was brought by Mrs. Sadie S. Witwer, widow of H. C. Witwer, author, claiming the Harold Lloyd comedy, "The Freshman," plagiarized her husband's work.

Show Effect of Extended Range On Naturalism

Extension of the frequency range in new apparatus developed to realize greater naturalism in mechanically reproduced sound, was somewhat sensationally demonstrated in Philadelphia Tuesday evening by the Bell Laboratories in cooperation with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. An invited audience of musicians, critics and press representatives sat before a curtained stage equipped with speakers, while the orchestra played in the foyer, an arrangement intended to mystify the auditors as to the immediate source of the music. Many were so mystified until the curtain rose to disclose the horns. Other devices of similar purpose were also contrived.

Specifically the demonstration served to show the new possibilities in the transmission of musical performances over substantial distances through amplifiers and speakers with natural effect. The apparatus employed was capable of reproducing frequencies of from 35 to 16,000 cycles a second, in contrast to the usual range of 50 to 5,000 cycles.

The orchestra was under the direction of Dr. Leopold Stokowski, who sat in the auditorium with a device controlling the volume. The demonstration was in charge of Dr. Harvey Fletcher, director of acoustical research of Bell Laboratories.

The first public demonstration of this equipment is to be held April 27 in Washington, under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences.

West Coast Cameramen In East For Conferences

East and west coast branches of the International Photographers Association have been called together for conferences in New York April 24 with IATSE officials and Pat Casey, union representative of the producers. Howard E. Hurd, business representative of cameramen's local 659, Hollywood, is in New York with Lou Blix, representative of studio local 37, and J. McElvoy, associate of Mr. Blix.

"We were called into New York suddenly," Mr. Hurd said this week," and none of us can say definitely just what the conferences will cover. It is more than likely, however, that the chief topic will be the 25-50 per cent salary cuts. Our contract agreements still have a year to run."

Mr. Hurd said that probably 15 representatives of the west coast cameramen's locals would attend. Pat Casey, he said, is now in Hollywood participating in the general discussions of production executives.

Women's Group Commends Use of Family Night Plan

A women's group of Harrisburg, Ill., at a meeting last week, heartily commended the establishment in theatres over the country of the "family night," generally Friday, when films especially suitable for family consumption are shown, Steve Farrar, Harrisburg exhibitor, informs via newspaper clipping. The idea that western pictures are harmful to boys was termed an exaggeration by one speaker.

COUNCIL VOTES MANY FILMS FOR THE FAMILY

Chicago Organization Lists as Many Pictures for Attendance by Entire Family as in Adult Grouping; 188 Reviewed

The number of motion pictures recommended for family attendance practically equaled those classified as for adults, in an analysis of findings on 188 films previewed in the past year by committees of the Better Films Council of Chicago and Cook County.

One objective of the organization, formed in April, 1932, is to encourage the showing of pictures suitable for the entire family on weekends, including Fridays. This aim, coupled with the thought of discouraging frequent and promiscuous attendance by children in midweek, is felt by members of the Council, of which Mrs. Richard M. McClure is president, to be to the advantage of the exhibitor. Adult pictures showing in midweek are previewed from the standpoint of being adult material.

Mrs. McClure has compiled and edited the reports of six reviewing committees of four members each, who were admitted to first-run theatres with the cooperation of the distributors and exhibitors. The results showed:

Recommendation	Pictures	Percentage
Adults and Young Adults...	66	35%
Adults	55	29%
Family	53	29%
Adults Only (Censor Board ruling)	14	74%
Total pictures previewed..	188	110%

The Council was informed that the subject matter of some of the Adult pictures was considered questionable and that others contained objectionable scenes, only eight of the 188 were stamped as mediocre and not deserving of patronage. Suitability of a number of titles was questioned and complaints concerning improper advertising were received. The Council was told that the question mostly asked is: "Why do they introduce so many unnecessary scenes showing drinking?"

The previewing committees of the Better Films Council were in action less than nine months in 1932, and its list included three-fourths of the pictures in the Box Office Champions. While the Council listings did not include a special classification for Juniors of from 8 to 12 years, it was noted that 20 of the 53 recommended for family attendance were among 51 selected for children in that age group.

The Council pointed to the recent experience reported by one of its chairmen as evidence of the wisdom and fairness of its request for Family pictures for Friday nights and Saturdays. The manager of a small theatre that bids for children's patronage on Saturday afternoons had booked "Little Orphan Annie," and the number of youngsters that came was so great that the police were called to maintain order. Those unable to find seats were urged to attend a large circuit theatre across the street, and the picture there was "Call Her Savage." The chairman reported the children's disappointment and their lack of interest in the picture that dealt with adult problems, adding that in that instance some parents who do chose the film fare for their youngsters found their efforts wasted.

Court's Decision On Paramount's Status Awaited

With motion picture activities tentatively concentrated in Hollywood at an industry-wide conference on rehabilitation, little of general importance happened during the week concerning the receivership situation at Paramount, RKO and in certain of the Fox theatre subsidiaries. However, the federal courts in New York were expected momentarily to rule on the status of Paramount.

Paramount Publix Corporation continued operating without the customary trustee. The appointment was being held up until the United States circuit court of appeals settles the complaint of minority bondholders, who obtained a show cause order restraining Adolph Zukor and Charles D. Hilles, co-receivers, from any further action in the receivership. The action is aimed to have the company's voluntary bankruptcy petition set aside in favor of an involuntary petition, filed earlier.

Creditors Await Decision

Election of a trustee in bankruptcy by creditors will take place the day following the circuit court's decision. Adolph Zukor, co-receiver with Mr. Hilles, said he is not a candidate for the trusteeship, and, although no formal statement has been made by Mr. Hilles, it appears unlikely that he will be a candidate. Others mentioned for the post include Frank C. Walker and J. P. Kennedy. Mr. Zukor is now attending the industry conferences in the West.

Walter L. Brown of the trustee's staff of Irving Trust Company left this week for Hollywood to inspect the studio properties preparatory to filing a report of the parent company's position.

Meanwhile, the Publix trustee, Irving Trust Company, was making progress in liquidating theatre properties. Theatres returned to former owners included the State and Penn, at Uniontown, Pa.; State and Strand, Johnstown, Pa.; Capitol, Mishler and Olympic, at Altoona, Pa., all turned back to George Notopolous. John Balaban is reported to be negotiating for Publix Detroit properties, numbering 14, and deals are underway in Ohio, Minesota and elsewhere.

Another Publix subsidiary, Mountain States Theatres Corp., Denver, was adjudged bankrupt, and it appeared that the 14 theatres in this group would revert to former owners. Federal Judge Foster, in U. S. District Court at Denver, named Wilbur Newton receiver.

An echo of the conspiracy suit filed some months ago by Edward Quittner, Middletown exhibitor, against Paramount Publix and others, which Paramount won, was heard Tuesday, when United States district judge Francis G. Caffey, in New York, denied a motion of Paramount's for an additional sum of $2,000 for defending the action.

"The case was indisputably difficult and extraordinary," said Judge Caffey. "The statute, however, expressly calls for the exercise of 'discretion.' The proof adduced at the trial showed so much fault on the part of the defendants that I do not feel that the plaintiffs should be penalized by being required to bear the additional item of costs sought to be imposed."

MRS. RICHARD M. McCLURE

Harold B. Franklin, whose contract as head of RKO theatres expired during the week, will continue operations under the receiver. Merlin H. Aylesworth, who is in Hollywood attending the industry conferences, said while en route that Mr. Franklin will continue, insofar as he is concerned.

The Fox Theatre Situation

Referee-in-bankruptcy McNab, in Los Angeles, will hear creditors of Fox West Coast on Thursday, when minority opposition is expected to the bankruptcy proceedings.

George Skouras has been appointed trustee for Fox Metropolitan Theatres and Schine Theatres. A meeting will be held April 20.

Practically no progress was made in Milwaukee in unraveling the twisted affairs of Midwesco Theatres, Inc., in a continued creditors' hearing held in the federal building there last week.

First meeting of the creditors of the bankrupt Fox Midland and Fox Rocky Mountain Theatre companies will be held April 25 in the office of Fred S. Hudson, referee in bankruptcy, in the Grand Avenue Temple building, Kansas City. Nominations for a trustee will be made at the meeting, and it is likely that Herbert V. Jones, temporary receiver, will continue as trustee.

M. B. Shanberg, former Fox Midland division manager, and Herbert M. Woolf, Kansas City financier, were paid $829,917 for a string of 60 houses sold to the Fox circuit, it is revealed in the schedule of assets filed by Fox Rocky Mountain.

In the schedule, the amount is listed as having been paid by Fox Rocky Mountain to Woolf and Shanberg for the account of Fox Midland, repayment of which was assumed by a contract between the two theatre companies dated August 25, 1930. It is listed as an unsecured claim against Fox Midland.

The summary of Fox Rocky Mountain's specifications is given as follows:

Debts—Taxes due to states, counties, districts and municipalities, $13,424; wages, not ascertained; other debts preferred by law, none; secured claims, $1,327,021; unsecured claims, $4,184,125; total debts, $5,524,571.40.

Assets—Real estate, $37,147; cash on hand, $2,530; bills, promissory notes and securities, $266,701; equipment, $177,690 and uncertain items; debts due on open accounts, $855,452; stocks, negotiable bonds, etc., $2,850,400 and uncertain items; total assets, $4,189,921.

Summary of Fox Midland's schedule follows:

Debts—Taxes, $5,772; wages, not ascertained; secured claims, $301,593; unsecured claims, $4,510,221; total debts, $4,817,588.

Assets—Real estate, $98,324, and uncertain items; cash on hand, $3,765; bills, notes and securities, $450,000; equipment, $122,048.07; debts due on open accounts, $13,242; stocks, negotiable bonds, $150,000; deposits of money in banks and elsewhere, $28,500; total assets, $865,879.92.

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

APROPOS of the rebirth last week of legitimate brew, Terry Donoghue tells about the days when Broadway was really a gay white way—when there were no speakeasies with barred doors, no raucous night clubs. Jack's, Churchill's, Murray's, the old Metropole occupied sites from which they long since have vanished. Nor were there any street hawkers or uniformed "generals" in front of Broadway's picture houses.

Terry remembers well how the newspaper boys, the writing and drinking crowd, gathered in old Jack's place. They were Jack's favored blackguards. He had a special room for them—called it the Psychopathic Ward. Here they exchanged biting banter and released themselves from the taut realities by thinking up nonsensical schemes. Our own Ben DeCasseres was one of the chief schemers. He used to balance four filled steins on his well-rounded, intellectual head. Terry says that when others tried it, glass showered the place and Jack blamed Ben for the disturbance.

Music was not permitted in Jack's place, but Hype Igoe played the "uke" in the dawn hours when Jack was asleep. For 16 years, Hype kept the instrument hidden from Jack in the icebox.

Jack was always busy telling the boys to behave. One night, Ben DeCasseres and the late Frank Ward O'Malley were loudly discussing something. Jack got sore and ordered them out.

"Very well, if you feel that way about it," they said with profound and new-found dignity, "we'll leave."

And without another word they picked up their table and chairs and established themselves on the sidewalk outside. Jack ran after them.

"Please, boys, come back," he pleaded, "you'll disgrace me."

The late Wilson Mizner, who died suddenly in Hollywood last week, was another barb in Jack's side. Jack had a habit of shaking his head nervously from side to side. Wilson told strangers that Jack got that way from saying "NO!" to widows and orphans.

Old Broadway.

▽

Elias E. Sugarman, able editor of Billboard—which is the rendezvous for troupers and hawkers—sees the end of constant haggling between circuits and unions. "Out of labor pains," he writes, "are great movements born." And Mr. Sugarman a bachelor.

▽

Fox will not reveal the name of the director of "Hello, Sister." The press-book lists the entire production staff and cast, but no director. Charlie McCarthy's home office publicity department said: "We're not giving credit to any one for directing 'Sister.'"

Early last winter, Erich von Stroheim undertook the making of a Fox production titled "Walking Down Broadway." The results were developed, screened privately, shelved in the farthest corner of the Fox vaults. This week the picture is making its debut as "Hello, Sister"—no director.

▽

Jack Pearl says he has a brother-in-law who was a sea captain, but was promoted to sea lawyer—taking cases off ships.

▽

Trick-waiter Frank Libuse, Chicago-born, made his fortune out of annoying people. One night, Charlie Chaplin arrived at the Hollywood cafe where Libuse was appearing. With the dignified bearing of a head-waiter, the professional pest lead the Chaplin party in a zigzag course around the table, to and fro across the dance floor and directly through the kitchen door. Don Plant writes about it in the current Chicagoan.

ROYALTY AND THE SHERIFF

Jack Williams writes from Salt Lake about an exhibitor who, upon learning that his bank was about to foreclose, assigned ownership of the theatre to King George, Benito Mussolini and Mahatma Ghandi—and under the law, the bank has to sue the assignees.

ACTIVITIES current in the House of Representatives pertaining to a measure calling for investigation of the motion picture business, automatically raises Representative William Isaac Sirovich to the post of Chief Congressional Annoyer of Films, a job held during the last session by Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, who reluctantly returned to the tall corn fields of his native Iowa when his constituents refused him re-election.

Industry representatives are reported to have dismissed Sirovich's bill with the observation, "A last resort measure for disposing of some old plays and scenarios authored by the New York Congressman."

Mr. Sirovich is quite versatile. Besides being Democratic Congressman from New York's tenement district at Sixth Street and the East River, Sirovich writes a daily column, "The Truth About Foods," for New York's gabby tabloid, the Daily Mirror. He is a doctor of medicine, a lecturer, an authority on hospitalization, the son of a rabbi, an advisor on widows' pensions and child welfare, official arbitrator in labor disputes, a journalist and a playwright.

His latest Broadway production—branded by the critics as a piece of tripe—had a short life and a miserable death. This made Sirovich so sore that the newspaper critics who wrote "rotten" notices about it were charged by the Congressman with having effected a conspiracy against his show.

We have in hand a recent copy of the Daily Mirror. On page 13, Representative Sirovich reports at length on fish.

▽

When Pete Harrison sees Educational's "Across America in Ten Minutes," he'll probably complain to E. W. Hammons because it runs only nine minutes.

▽

Many and diverse are the manifestations of the movement and thought which the motion picture expresses as "decentralization." Dr. Horace M. Kallen, philosopher and psychologist, of the New School of Social Research, has just come forth with a book entitled "Individualism—An American Way of Life," published by Liveright. He makes clear an ideal of everyman's world for himself, but supplies no certain method for its achievement. It's a general problem. Meanwhile we are reminded that Dr. Kallen was among the first serious students of the motion picture. While a student he wrote for the Harvard Magazine the first academic discussion of the screen ever published. Young Mr. Kallen's essay, variously expanded and elaborated, was the backbone of Dr. Hugo Munsterberg's "The Photoplay," published a few years later, the first volume of critical consideration of the screen.

▽

Eddie Cantor says that Joe E. Brown was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth—it was a soup ladle.

▽

And in the agricultural belt, it's "Farewell to Farms."

LEONARD HALL, of the RKO staff, calls Radio City "The City of Magnificent Distances." During his four months as a publicity "tom-tom bearer" for the Music Hall, Leonard says he has walked a total of 114,210 miles.

Two years of trudging during the War left him with perfect feet—corn-doctors used to come from miles around to marvel at them. Four months at Mr. Aylesworth's Music Hall have given him fallen arches, severe callouses, sporadic attacks of string-halt and a bad spavin.

From his office to that of production director Leon Leonidoff, is four and three-fifths miles, says Hall, with 36 separate and distinct turnings, "most of them wrong." From Leonidoff's lair to the basement cafeteria is another five and a half miles. "By this time," he reports, "it is nearly evening, and my boss is sending out searching parties with lanterns. At sunset, travel-stained and weary, I reach my cubicle on the seventh floor, having learned the names of the adagio dancers who will appear next week with the Roxyettes."

Roxy may not be at Hot Springs after all. If he doesn't show up in another week, Harold Franklin should send out a searching party through the labyrinth backstage in "The City of Magnificent Distances."

▽

The motion picture industry has been talking for years about a "united front." Its members might take a lesson from an incident the other day in one of the big munitions firms in England. Purchasing agents for China and Japan met accidentally in the reception room and fell to talking as friends, finally comparing the prices they were paying for bullets for their war in the Far East. The result was that they went in to see the munitions maker together, put up a united front and went away with a 40 per cent cut in prices.

▽

One of Ed Wynn's eccentricities is the maintenance of an old pair of shoes which he still wears. Bought 26 years ago in Pittsburgh for $3.50, Wynn has spent $1,400 repairing them since, at the rate of about $1 a week.

▽

Kelcey Allen wonders what Hitler will say when he hears that Julius Cohen, picture critic, has joined Staats-Zeitung und Herold, German language newspaper published in New York.

▽

Dick Sears, Pathe's alert newsreel representative in New England, has in hand a Bostonian with a rather unusual appetite, who would willingly appear as a newsreel subject while devouring one quart of soup, four pounds of roast beef, or an eight-pound turkey; one bowl of squash, two quarts of cranberry sauce, two quarts of mashed potatoes, one mince pie, one squash pie, four cups of coffee, one quart of milk, one pint of heavy cream, one loaf of bread, two quarts of boiled onions, one pound of butter, two bottles of beer (3.2), two pounds of mixed nuts, one pound of grapes, one quart of ice cream, one quart of strawberries, one pound of chocolate and six good cigars. Mr. Sears is delaying production until the time when such a meal may be financed.

▽

Max Winslow is one of the newest Columbia production executives, stepping directly from the music publishing business in New York to a studio post at Hollywood. Harry Cohn, president, who concluded the deal last week while in the East, explained this unusual transformation thusly: "Eighty per cent of those in the film business are full of hot air and Winslow can't hurt it anyway."

▽

Sign on the front of a New Orleans neighborhood theatre: "PROSPERITY IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER." At the corner is a bank which has frozen 95 per cent of its assets, paying 5 per cent.

THE WASTE OF TALENT

Studios Spend Half Million Yearly While Hundreds of Potential Players Wait, Lacking Training

The greatest waste in Hollywood today is the waste of talent.

Large sums are spent by the major studios every year to unearth new talent. In the past year the expenditure probably totaled half a million dollars, perhaps more. Scores are brought there for tests, or placed under contract. They may be from stock companies, from community theatres, from the New York stage. They may be beauty contest winners, golfers, swimmers, football players.

In addition, there are already in Hollywood enough junior players, beginners if you will, who have done bits or extra work, to provide talent to last the industry without any importations for the next five years. They come from anywhere, everywhere. Mostly, they fail utterly, never get beyond a few extra talent checks which are so far apart that it is impossible to live on such income. And they drift off into other fields, discouraged, broke. Yet a substantial number of them, if properly trained, methodically developed, would become potential screen figures.

No Organized Schooling

The reason is that nothing is done in an organized way by the production community to take up, train and make use of this flow of talent. There is no training course, no school; no orderly, specific method by which these people may acquire the fundamentals of screen acting.

At one time or another, almost every studio has launched some sort of a system to develop talent. Before the advent of sound pictures, Paramount established a school at its Long Island studios. Several of the students later achieved considerable screen prominence.

Not so long ago Paramount sent out Stuart Walker to the Coast studios to train young players signed for the stock company. Walker had a long and successful record as a developer of talent through his stock company. Oliver Hinsdell, director of the Little Theatre of Dallas, was signed by MGM to coach players. Mr. Hinsdell still is doing that work. Walker does it to a minor extent, but lately he has been given directorial assignments.

Long Study Needed

That the idea in general has not gained any definite goal is partly the fault of the players, partly the fault of the producers. Youngsters are placed on contracts ranging from three months to a year at salaries of $75 to $100 a week, probably two or three times as much as they ever earned before. Some of them never earned anything. They are flattered. They wait. They "go Hollywood" to a greater or lesser degree.

Real acting comes only after long and painstaking study. Most of the best actors are character people who have been at it for ten to fifty years. Most of them have been students, serious students, of their profession. They have studied the technique of the masters. They have read everything they could find about the theatre. They have read and often memorized the classics. They know the meaning of gesture, movement, dress, make-up.

It takes from six to ten years for a man to land even on the bottom rung of the ladder as a physician or an attorney; the same is true with engineering, architecture and other professions. At the center of production, a man must serve an apprenticeship of three to five or six years to become a first cameraman. Many of the sound men hold university degrees in electrical engineering. Art directors very often have studied under masters in Europe. Directors have served apprenticeships in acting, in writing, as assistant directors for long periods. Most of the writers have been schooled in the exacting field of journalism, or have won their spurs as playwrights, novelists or story writers.

Any actor of experience, or any director who has ever developed players, will tell you it takes time, much patience and methodical direction, to develop a proficient player. The technique of the profession is quite as complicated and difficult as that of the doctor, the lawyer, the architect. Even with genius to begin with, the talent must be developed. It is as delicate as an orchid. Yet it is one of the really priceless commodities of motion picture production.

No Spot for Beginner

Technicians meet frequently for study and interchange of experience, but there is no spot where the beginner may learn more about the art of acting, nor where those who have been launched upon such a career may keep up with their profession.

When the stage was active, it provided Hollywood with many promising candidates. Stock companies, little theatres, Broadway, all contributed their quotas to the histrionic talent of Hollywood. Today, such training schools scarcely exist.

There are those who believe that such a school should be made available either under the sponsorship of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences or of the Producers Association, acting unitedly. Such an institution, receiving general support, could conduct practical theatre experiments, coach students, lay out definite courses of study. Each studio could send its younger players to such a school. If the player showed lack of interest or application, he or she would be dropped when option time came around.

Nowhere else in the world are so many experts available to teach aspiring young actors. Possibly in no other important profession is there today so little opportunity to master its fundamentals methodically, correctly. And possibly in no other spot in the world is there more potential talent than within the limits of Hollywood.

Young Circuit Manager Dies

Frank B. Hill, 31, manager of the Inland Theatres, with headquarters in Walla Walla, Washington, died suddenly last week, after he had been thought fully recovered from a chronic illness. He had been with the organization since 1926.

Depressions End Always: Franklin

Harold Franklin of Radio City and elsewhere is one of the industry's most serious students of industry and economic history. He does not belong to that school which holds that the motion picture is so utterly different that it is not subject to established economic law. Here is an interesting page from Mr. Franklin's notebook, anent the subject of depressions:

"There are pessimists who fear that the present financial depression is a crisis from where there is no way out.

"A study of history discloses the definite fact that depressions come and go. Those who have time should read the seventh chapter of Book Two of Harriet Martineau's "A History of the Thirty Years Peace—A.D. 1816-1846."

"The author describes the period of prosperity which followed the end of the Napoleonic Wars in 1815, culminating ten years later in an orgy of speculation. (Incidentally, exactly ten years have elapsed between the end of the World War and the present economic collapse.)

"The pages read as though they were descriptive of our own times. The coincidences, as to course of events, between what happened one hundred years ago and what has transpired during the past three years are so similar that they are worth reading. They teach a lesson of optimism.

"A description of the chapters tells the story:

"The Period of Buoyancy.
"Speculation Rampant.
"The Gambling Epidemic.
"Dreams of Riches Accumulated.
"Wildcat Schemes Easily Financed.
"And Then—The Deluge!
"Panic and Despair.
"Hope.
"The Problem of Immediate Cash.
"The People Patient.
"The Need to Restore Confidence.
"The Puzzlement of Government.
"Continued Pressure Upon the Government.
"Light Appears.
"The Depression Did Pass.

"As the author points out, 'the depression did pass away'—and those who were strong enough, who were not discouraged, emerged stronger than ever before."

Loew's Declares Dividend

Loew's, Inc., has declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on the preferred stock, payable May 15 to stock of record April 28.

Technicolor Increases Capital

Technicolor, Inc., New York, has increased its capital stock at Dover, Del., from 700,000 to 800,000 shares, no par value. The Corporation Trust Company is the incorporating company.

A Great Star Rises to a Great Opportunity

No finer role has been given any actress to play! No actress could have played it finer!

All MARY PICKFORD has meant to the fans ...and box offices...of America, is summarized in this, the most brilliant triumph of a brilliant career!

Mary PICKFORD in SECRETS

Mary PICKFORD in

"You'll Have a Grand and Glorious Time"

Thus sang Irene Thirer in the N. Y. Daily News where she proudly awarded it THREE AND A HALF STARS!

☆

"Mary at Her Best"

So said Regina Crewe in the N.Y. American, adding "There's scarce a woman in the land who won't enjoy it! The story reaches into the heart!"

☆

"Should Storm the Box Offices to See It!"

So predicted Billy Wilkerson in The Hollywood Reporter who adds "No actress could have surpassed her and few could have equalled her! There should be a huge audience for a picture like this!"

☆

SECRETS with LESLIE HOWARD

What the Critics Maintained, the Box Office Now Sustains!

The charm of "Smilin' Through"! The sweep of "Cimarron"! The epic greatness of "The Covered Wagon"! The glory of all of these, woven into one mighty story! What Box Office in . . .

"SECRETS"

DIRECTED BY

FRANK BORZAGE

who gave you:

"Seventh Heaven" "Bad Girl"
"A Farewell to Arms"

☆

ADAPTED BY

FRANCES MARION

who wrote such brilliant hits as:

"The Secret Six" "The Champ"
"Emma"

☆

FEATURING

LESLIE HOWARD

who appeared in:

"Smilin' Through"
"Animal Kingdom"

☆

PROUDLY, WE SAY, "IT'S A

UNITED ARTISTS PICTURE

Printed in U.S.A.

Delaware Owners Form Association

The Independent Motion Picture Theatre Owners' Association of Delaware was organized last week at a state-wide meeting of independent theatre owners and managers in the State theatre at Dover, Del. The organization, unincorporated, was fostered to protect the interests of the theatres in the state. Sixteen out of approximately 25 independent theatres throughout the state were represented.

A. Joseph DeFiore, manager of the Park theatre of Wilmington, leader of the move, was elected president. Reese Harrington, of the Reese at Harrington, was elected vice-president and E. C. Evans, of the Plaza at Milford, was elected secretary-treasurer. The officers were named to a committee to formulate the by-laws.

One of the primary objects is to conduct a fight against the various motion picture bills introduced in the legislature, some of them already favorably reported. While the organization was formed primarily for this purpose, it is intended that it should become permanent for protection and cooperation in all problems concerning the motion picture business. Meetings once a month are planned.

Gaumont Franco Gets Haik Group

Gaumont Franco Film Aubert, major French company, has acquired control of the Haik Theatres circuit. The merger of the two companies is understood to have been for the purpose of concentrating all Haik and Gaumont activities to bring about greater economy of operation. All employees of Haik Theatres have been dismissed.

Haik operated three large theatres in Paris, the Rex, seating 3,200; Olympia, 1,600, and the Colisee, 650. In the provinces Haik had two in Nancy and two in Nice. Gaumont owns 19 houses in Paris, including the 6,000-seat Gaumont Palace, and 11 in the provinces. It is generally felt in Paris film circles that the merger is rather a financial consolidation than an outright physical merger. The greatest difficulty confronting Gaumont is seen as the problem of finding an adequate number of good pictures and stage attractions for the three large Paris theatres.

Koerner Succeeds Thompson Heading RKO Labor Affairs

RKO has transferred Charles W. Koerner from the Dallas office to New York to assume the duties of Major Leslie E. Thompson, resigned, who for a long period was in charge of labor affairs for the RKO circuit. Major Thompson resigned to become president of Trans-Lux Corporation.

In addition to the labor duties Mr. Koerner will act as division manager in charge of the upstate New York division, formerly handled by Louis Goldberg. Mr. Goldberg will continue to act as division manager of the Brooklyn junior division.

BRITAIN CHALLENGING HOLLYWOOD: KELLY

Head of United Artists Foreign Department Says Elstree Product Is Improving; Predicts Easing of Quota on Continent

The challenge of the British film industry to Hollywood is definitely taking form, according to Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president and treasurer of United Artists, who returned to New York last week after a four months survey of the European market. Mr. Kelly, who for several years has been at the helm of United Artists' foreign department, explained that good pictures are being made in England at a fraction of Hollywood costs and that this and other conditions are rapidly bringing Elstree to the fore in picture production.

"British pictures are steadily getting better in every way," Mr. Kelly said. "There is an increasing interchange of acting and technical talent between Hollywood and Elstree and this has resulted in a great improvement in the British product. Already there is an increasingly big market for British films throughout the Empire, bigger even than it was a year ago. In India, Australia and New Zealand the majority of pictures now shown are the Elstree product."

American Tempo Needed

Mr. Kelly further said that as soon as the British producers shall have been able to inject a little more of the "American tempo" into their product there will be a more substantial market for it in this country.

"Tempo, plus direct distribution tieups in the United States, will make all the difference in the world to the British industry," Mr. Kelly said. "I doubt if the British will continue their alliances with the German companies much longer, as in the case of Gaumont-British and Ufa. The tendency is now toward alliances with American companies, and when the British have demonstrated their ability to produce the right kind of pictures for our market practically every large distributor here will have some sort of distribution tieups with the English companies."

Good American films will continue as popular as ever to the British, Mr. Kelly believes, but the public is becoming more discriminating in entertainment selection, and they prefer cheerful pictures, with romance and laughter. Every newspaper, editorially or otherwise, is campaigning for a wider and more definite appreciation of British pictures in the United Kingdom, he said.

Predicts Quota Liberalizing

"Europe is going in stronger than ever for musical pictures," Mr. Kelly declared. "'The Kid From Spain,' among others, has helped to swing them in that direction, producers having discovered that even a musical background increases the international appeal of pictures, and it is from international distribution that film revenue must come. The British are making more musicals today than ever before."

United Artists will distribute the British-made "Bitter Sweet," adapted from Noel Coward's play of the same name, and starring Jeanette MacDonald. Another musical to be released here by United Artists will be "The Queen," also with Miss MacDonald and Herbert Marshall. Jack Buchanan's latest picture, "Yes, Mr. Brown," is scheduled for early showing in the States.

Anticipating the changed conditions, Mr. Kelly while in England assisted in launching production plans of British & Dominions Film Corp. The corporation recently formed an alliance with United Artists, under which United will distribute the British product the world over, including Great Britain and the Dominions. The deal calls for 12 pictures a year for the next three years.

He also completed a new deal in France under which six pictures will be made at Nice for world distribution by United Artists. Bernard Deschamps, Parisian producer, will make the pictures entirely in French, with French casts, and probably will use the studios employed by Rex Ingram.

A general liberalizing or repeal of quota laws, except in England, is looked for by Mr. Kelly. Germany may repeal its quota law this summer, and France is expected to follow suit next year with either outright repeal or liberalization. Jugo-Slavia already has repealed its quota law, after having it in effect for a year.

The prohibition of distribution and exhibition of United Artists' "Hell's Angels" in Germany, due to official interpretation of certain phases as derogatory to the country, remains in statu quo, Mr. Kelly said. A favorable settlement was delayed by a review of the case called for by Hitler's administration.

S. O. S. Purchases Stock In Pacent Assignee Sale

The S. O. S. Corporation, New York equipment manufacturing company, purchased a large part of the stock of the Pacent Reproducer Corporation at an assignee's sale held recently in New York. The inventory, including amplifiers, mechanical equipment, projectors, home film equipment and other appliances, was stored at the Pacent company's factory.

A considerable amount of office and factory fixtures was included. Arrangements are being made to make available a stock of replacement parts for users of the Pacent Sound System.

Cooper Is Reelected Canadian MPDC Head

Col. John A. Cooper was reelected president and secretary of the Motion Picture Distributors of Canada last week, as was G. O. Burnett, treasurer. Directors for the year are N. L. Nathanson of Regal Films, M. A. Milligan of Paramount, H. M. Masters of United Artists, Leo M. Devaney of Radio, James Travis of Educational, Clair Hague of Universal, J. P. O'Loughlin of Fox and Harry Paynter of Warner Bros.

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS

This department deals with new product from the point of view of the exhibitor who is to purvey it to his own public

The Little Giant

(First National)

Comedy

Novel, as lively as a bunch of exploding firecrackers, full of laughs, "The Little Giant" is comedy entertainment of the most pleasing type, with cleverly constructed drama. Like many recent pictures from the same producing company, it is premised on current events, to which is tied an imaginative and illusionary yarn for all classes of patrons. If the reactions of the preview audience can be accepted as a criterion, "The Little Giant" should register well with both men and women.

As the 1932 election returns float in, Bugs Ahearn, a re-creation of our old friend Little Caesar, decides that the booze racket is all washed up. Busting up the Chicago mobsters, he reserves a million and a half for himself and announces that he is going to be a gentleman. With the eternal mug Daniels as a side kick, he goes in for culture—Greek philosophy, the Classics, futuristic art.

Looking for a place to light, Bugs decides on ritzy Santa Barbara. Picture Little Caesar Bugs trying to crash the gates of society. He and Al never get a tumble, but they provide plenty of fun. He learns that you've got to have an estate if you want to make any kind of an impression. Does he go for it big? Ruth Wayburn has little difficulty in renting him 40 rooms, 20 baths, swimming pool, sunken gardens, polo field and all. He goes for Polly Cass in a big way. And does she take him down the line!

Hot to be a big business man, Bugs buys an interest in the Donald Hadley Cass bond brokerage house. He takes lessons from Ruth in how to propose to Polly. She tries to set him right about things, but he's too smart. It remains for the district attorney to do that. Then you get exciting action. Finally realizing that he has been trimmed, he rounds up the old gang. With approved gangster torture methods, done in comedy fashion, they get the dough back from Cass and all his directors. Then he finds out that the old man Cass has trimmed Ruth's family, and romance hits him hard. The finale has the mobsters playing polo with machine guns, automatics, sawed-off shot guns.

Sell this show as comedy. Sell Robinson as an ace comedian. Concentrate on its novelty and timeliness. Get over the idea that it tells the story of Little Caesar, who, when the Government interfered with his racket, decided to absorb culture. Use the gangster atmosphere, but put comedy into it. Trick exploitation that capitalizes on what happens to a mug who lets his heart run away with his head and become a sap in the hands of real crooks, should stir up curiosity.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Warner-First National. Based on the original screen play by Robert Lord and Wilson Mizner. Directed by Roy Del Ruth. Photography by Sid Hickox. Art Director, Robert Haas. Film editors, George Marks and Ray Curtis. Gowns by Orry-Kelly. Release date, May 27, 1933. Running time, 74 minutes.

CAST

Bugs Ahearn	Edward G. Robinson
Ruth Wayburn	Mary Astor
Polly Cass	Helen Vinson
John Stanley	Kenneth Thomson
Edith	Shirley Grey
Al Daniels	Russell Hopton
Donald Hadley Cass	Burton Churchill
Gordon Cass	Donald Willaway
Mrs. Cass	Louise Macintosh
Frankie	Helen Mann

The Fighting President

(Universal)

Pictorial Record

With the avowed intention of presenting to the world and the motion picture audience Franklin D. Roosevelt, the boy, the youth, the man, the budding public figure and the president, Universal has contrived to construct a pictorial record of the highlights of the Roosevelt career, from the family bible photograph of the only child of Sara Delano Roosevelt to the signing of vital legislation by the nation's chief executive.

Under the expert hand of Allyn Butterfield, whose chief occupation is the editorship of Universal Newspaper Newsreel, many feet of newsreel material, old and recent, have been conned, cut and pasted, plus the addition of standard atmospheric bits inserted occasionally for effect, and such shots as the enlarged photographs of the Roosevelt family bible. For the continuity, for the most part rendered capably and intelligently, credit goes to Edwin C. Hill, political journalist of note, who also prepared the material he delivers.

On the basis of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt is definitely the nation's "Man of the Hour," this picture becomes something decidedly salable. It would be well, however, not to lean too far over in the direction of indicating that here is a dramatic, dynamic story of action, plot and revelation. From the standpoint of production valuation, it is, and cannot be considered more than an interesting study of the man that is Roosevelt. In that it traces his notable career, it should have at this moment a vast and far-flung appeal to all classes, all kinds of people. It is, however, doubtful if it has sufficient strength, as a motion picture, to stand upon it own two feet as the principal feature of a film program. In the first instance it is too short; in the second, it is record and not drama.

However, that does not for a moment alter the fact that it is a splendid opportunity for showmen to draw patrons into the theatre, that it presents all sorts of possibilities for exploitation of the more dignified sort. This is, after all, not something that is to be circused, ballyhooed, but rather pointed to as important, vital for every American to see. As such, it is definitely worth while, as long as the selling does not promise more than actually appears.

Mr. Roosevelt is seen as baby and boy, as a young man entering politics from the law, and deriving his first taste of the sawdust of the political arena from the campaign of 1912, when Wilson was his idol, as assistant secretary of the navy handling shipping to and from France, and then through successive campaigns, with and against Al Smith, then to his own smashing victory. He is seen with his family at home, in the swimming pool, at his summer home in Georgia, the inauguration, with his dynamic speeches recorded, and the signing of the notable measures of the past few weeks. Schools should be interested, and the teachers' aid should be enlisted by the showman. It is an interesting pictorial study of a dominant national and world figure.—Aaronson, New York.

Descriptive talk delivered by Edwin C. Hill. Preparation of material for screen by Allyn Butterfield. Musical background supervised by Chris Beute. Music scored and conducted by John Rochette. Release date, April 14, 1933. Running time, 50 minutes.

Parole Girl

(Columbia)

Drama

Pleasant, if not particularly ambitious or striking, "Parole Girl" succeeds in being reasonably satisfactory entertainment, which should evoke a few laughs, occasional smiles and a general feeling of a fairly well spent hour, especially from the patrons of the smaller theatre in the lesser community.

A good selling line is that of hte girl who goes to jail for one slip, after having been enticed into a department store extortion racket, as a result of the uncompromising attitude of the department store head, and whose planned revenge when she is released on parole falls through when she falls in love with her intended victim. Lively copy and catch lines should be found appealing.

Two fairly good cast names head the list. Ralph Bellamy, as the department store head, is his usual capable self, giving an appealing performance, and probably will be found attractive by the feminine contingent. Opposite Bellamy, in the title role, is Mae Clarke, definitely attractive, convincing and cast in a sympathetic role. In support are Marie Provost, as a prison pal of Miss Clarke; Hale Hamilton, as the crook who had drawn her into the racket. Ferdinand Gottschalk, elderly, small character actor, contributes an appealing bit as the owner of the department store, Bellamy's employer.

It is, altogether, an unpretentious picture, yet a rather lively, entertaining picture. To bring about her parole from a one-year sentence, Miss Clarke sets fire to a pile of scrappings in the cloth cutting department of the prison, seizes a fire extinguisher, and for her heroism is awarded her parole. Then follows the revenge, by which Miss Clarke contrives to get Bellamy drunk, makes him believe he married her while inebriated and poses as his wife with full intent of making life as miserable as possible for him. But despite herself, she falls in love with him, and he with her, and that is that—in rather expected fashion.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Columbia. Directed by Eddie Cline. Screen play by Norman Krasna. Cameraman, Benjamin Kline. Assistant director, David Selman. Sound engineer, Glenn Rominger. Release date, March 4, 1933. Running time, 67 minutes.

CAST

Sylvia	Mae Clarke
Joe Smith	Ralph Bellamy
Jeanie	Marie Provost
Tony	Hale Hamilton
Taylor	Ferdinand Gottschalk
Manager	Ernest Wood
Harris	John Paul Jones
Burns	Lee Phelps

Bondage

(Fox)

Drama

In grim, realistic fashion, "Bondage" tells a bitter story that is powerful in human interest. Straight drama, it is the impressive emotion-stirring type of entertainment that brings out the handkerchiefs. Like "Fugitive from a Chain Gang," it pictures the unthinking cruelty to which a careless society subjects an unfortunate victim of its baser passions. The story is convincingly told; the acting is exceptionally fine, particularly that of Dorothy Jordan and Rafaela Ottiano. On the whole, "Bondage" doubtless will appeal more to women than to men. The world may consider an unwed mother an outcast, but to women she arouses their deepest sympathies.

Judy Peters is before the bar of justice as a street walker. No one speaks for her until Dr. Nelson rises to relate the circumstances. They are these: Egged on by the vivacious Maizie, Judy, an innocent girl, falls for the glamorous crooner, Crawford. She confesses her condition to Maizie. They round up Crawford, who promises to marry the girl, only to desert her at the license bureau.

Packed off to one of those stark homes which society provides for such unfortunates, Judy is the object of the vicious tyranny of the hypocritical Miss Trigge. The contrasting comedy provided by Irma serves only to accentuate the pathos. Her baby born, Judy believes she can keep him if she finds a job, but the stigma of unwed motherhood is an unsurmountable barrier. Finally the joy of a miserably paid job is dashed in tragedy as Judy finds her baby has died. Accusing Miss Trigge of deliberate murder, Judy assaults her. She is packed off to jail. Dr. Nelson counsels her. Readily she convinces the examining doctors that she is mentally sound. Dramatically she charges Miss Trigge with being responsible for all her tragedy. The girls in the Home beat Miss Trigge and wreck the place. Judy is again at the bar of justice. Dr. Nelson has told her story. A year's suspended sentence is hers as she passes out into the fog while Dr. Nelson calls after her.

Her answer, "Who Cares?" looks to be the big selling line. The title means little. Names, with the possible exception of Dorothy Jordan, are unimpressive. Therefore, concentrate on the story. Sell it as a powerful human interest preachment.

Give this picture the benefit of every civic contact you have. Get the women's clubs and welfare organizations to endorse this show as educative. Concentrate on your women patrons. Don't hesitate to tell them straight from the shoulder what "Bondage" is all about.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by Alfred Santell. From the novel by Grace Sothcote Leake. Screen play by Arthur Kober and Doris Malloy. Photography, Lucien Andriot. Sound recorder, Don Flick. Art director, Duncan Cramer. Wardrobe, Rita Kaufman. Assistant diector, Charles Woolstenhulme. Musical director, Samuel Kaylin. Release date, March 31, 1933. Running time, 65 minutes.

CAST

Judy Peters ..... Dorothy Jordan
Dr. Nelson ..... Alexander Kirkland
Ruth ..... Merle Tottenham
Irma ..... Nydia Westman
Mrs. Wharton ..... Jane Darwell
Earl Crawford ..... Edward Woods
Beulah ..... Isabel Jewell
Maizie ..... Dorothy Libaire
Miss Trigge ..... Rafaela Ottiano

The Barbarian

(MGM)

Drama with Comedy

This is the kind of romantic dramatic entertainment—with a definite comedy twist—that should excite the feminine contingent. At the same time, it has the elements that should appeal to the men folk. It's "sheik" stuff, adventurous romance on the Egyptian deserts. Music, Novarro's theme song solos and the scoring should steam up interest. There is novelty of treatment, in that it harkens back to the Valentino vogue. The story for the most part is exciting, though there are occasional sags; particularly in the middle parts, and these could be eliminated without detracting from any of the production values.

Jamil is a sort of porter-guide-servant sheik character, in Cairo. Diana arrives to marry Gerald. Despite rebuffs Jamil attaches himself to Dianna's entourage. The jealous Gerald can offer nothing to overcome Jamil's romantic serenading and even Diana is at her wits' ends to keep this nomadic servant in his place. She doesn't. He even gets into her bedroom and becomes very bold. Following a trip to the Pyramids, Jamil kidnaps Diana and takes her to his desert oasis, where it turns out that he's some kind of a prince. She escapes. The Foreign Legion is called out. Jamil is a hunted man.

Back in Cairo all preparations for the Diana-Gerald nuptuals are under way. With all the town looking for Jamil, he comes under her window and starts singing again. He invades her room again, and after another burning love scene, he has no difficulty in persuading her that her happiness rests with him in the desert.

Go after the women strong. Sell them on that line of hot, daring romance that thrilled them a few years ago, but without tagging Novarro as another Valentino. Stress the sheik atmosphere over everything else. There are a couple of scenes in it that may be too torrid for some places. In one, about the fourth reel, it is very evident from Diana's actions and expressions that Jamil did not spend the whole night singing to her. Don't neglect to infer in your catchlines that Jamil's singing brought about Diana's desert romance. Make that appeal intimate to the ladies.

Sell the show to the adults and older adolescents. You'll save occasional embarrassment and kick up more adult excitement by asking the youngsters to stay away.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by MGM. A Sam Wood production. Screen play and dialogue by Anita Loos and Elmer Harris. From the story by Edgar Selwyn. Musical score by Herbert Stothart. Orchestra conducted by Oscar Radin. Recording director, Douglas Shearer. Art director, Cedric Gibbons. Gowns by Adrian. Photographed by Harold Rosson. Film editor, Tom Held. Release date, May 12, 1933. Running time, 74 minues.

CAST

Jamil ..... Ramon Novarro
Diana ..... Myrna Loy
Gerald ..... Reginald Denny
Powers ..... Louise Closser Hale
Cecil ..... C. Aubrey Smith
Achmed ..... Edward Arnold
Mrs. Hume ..... Blanche Friderici
Marthe ..... Marcelle Corday
American Tourist ..... Hedda Hopper
German Tourist ..... Leni Stengel

Infernal Machine

(Fox)

Drama

With a plot based on the rather time-honored theme of the reactions of a group of eminently respectable persons of diversified pursuits to an impending, unseen disaster, "Infernal Machine" has moments of excitement, suspense and general activity. On the whole, however, it is only occasionally convincing melodrama, dealing rather too much in reaction, and not enough in action.

The title, in its melodramatic implication, is an appealing one, but is not borne out in the manner which may be expected. All sorts of mystery, dire occurrences, smashing climax, are anticipated, but the story's backbone is in the reactions to the fictitious infernal machine rather than in sharply active melodrama.

The cast contains only fairly salable names, the best being Chester Morris and Genevieve Tobin. A pertinent, though rather equally elderly, adjunct to the basic theme is the idea of Miss Tobin being called upon to "sacrifice her honor" to save the members of the endangered group, the passengers aboard the ship at sea on which the story is for the most part set. Victor Jory, J. Carrol Naish, Mischa Auer may be slightly familiar names to some of the patrons, but they have actually very little selling value. The group involved includes the captain, a scientist, a wealthy and unscrupulous business man, engaged to Miss Tobin; Miss Tobin's aunt, a concert singer, and Miss Tobin.

Morris, who had stowed away to find Miss Tobin, is accused of planting the machine, after the captain, scientist and business man accuse each other. Morris admits it and stipulates safety if Miss Tobin spend one-half hour in his stateroom. Eventually Morris discovers that the warning cablegram came from the fanatical wireless operator, seeking reactions for his book, food for his phobia. There are moments of suspense before the audience becomes convinced of the fictitiousness of the infernal machine, which occurs rather early.

Best results probably should be returned from selling the picture along the lines of the reactions of the group to the impending danger, utilizing the title from that angle rather than permitting it to indicate an action-filled mystery melodrama, which the picture is not. There is a certain amount of entertainment, a few moments of acceptable comedy, and it will not disappoint altogether if too much is not promised. Children will hardly appreciate what it is all about, though there is nothing objectionable.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by Marcel Varnel. Assistant director, Martin Santell. From the novel by Carl Sloboda. Screen play by Arthur Kober. Cameraman, George Schneiderman. Release date, February 10, 1933. Running time, 65 minutes.

CAST

Robert ..... Chester Morris
Elinor ..... Genevieve Tobin
Doreen ..... Victor Jory
Elinor's Aunt ..... Elizabeth Patterson
Spencer ..... James Bell
Professor Hoffman ..... Edward Van Sloan
Ship's Captain ..... Arthur Hohl
Rupert ..... Robert Littlefield
Bryan ..... J. Carrol Naish
Klein ..... Mischa Auer
Madame Albini ..... Josephine Whittel
Hans ..... Leonard Carey

Sucker Money

(Hollywood)

Drama

There are possibilities, inherent in the story of this independent effort produced by Willis Kent, which make for exploitation angles. As a production, it has its shortcomings, in performance, story development, and technique.

The cast names are conspicuously unimportant and lacking in marquee value. Mischa Auer, long-faced and large-eyed, as the fake mind reader and mystic, out to fleece a wealthy, small town banker with the aid of an accomplice and a spurious oil promotion stock scheme, is sufficiently sinister. The other leading names, Phyllis Barrington, Ralph Lewis, Earl McCarthy, are rather completely unknown and impotent.

On the promotional side, there are the elements of mystery, mysticism and the supernatural. If use be made of the selling idea of an expose of the mind reading "racket" it would perhaps be well not to promise too much, because the picture obviously attempts no sweeping indictment, merely concocting a plot, hackneyed in its essentials, about the idea of fakery and "sucker-baiting" through the supernatural. An element of romance is inserted, carried on by a young newspaper reporter, played by McCarthy, who uncovers the crooked activity of the gang headed by Auer, and Miss Barrington, as the daughter of the "sucker-to-be," whom he accidentally meets. It is perfectly obvious from the opening sequence what the concluding sequences will contain. Mae Busch, as one of Auer's workers in the racket, gives her life in an effort to assist the boy, to add a bit of complication and excitement.

Selling along the lines of an expose of a racket, planting a swarthy looking individual, swathed in multi-colored robes, in the lobby, utilizing the crystal ball idea, may have the effect of attracting some patronage.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced by Willis Kent. Distributed by Hollywood Film Exchanges, Inc. Directed by Mrs. Wallace Reid and Melville Shyer. Release date, April 5, 1933. Running time, 70 minutes.

CAST

Swami Yormurda ..... Mischa Auer
Clare Walton ..... Phyllis Barrington
John Walton ..... Ralph Lewis
Jimmy Reeves ..... Earl McCarthy
Lukis ..... Fletcher Norton
Hunter ..... Al Bridge
Mame ..... Mae Busch
Ada ..... Anita Faye
Mr. Meehan ..... J. Frank Glendon
Princess Karami ..... Mona Lisa
Harry ..... Harry Todd
Janitor ..... Kit Guard

Diplomaniacs

(RKO Radio)

Musical Comedy

It's a Wheeler and Woolsey musical comedy put together in the manner of a farcical burlesque show. While failing to measure up to their established standard, it nevertheless provides plenty of laughs. Several tuneful musical numbers add zest, and a group of gorgeous chorines make for color and glamour. Similar to a stage show, the picture is divided into three acts tied together by a loose bond of continuity. Presenting the two as a pair of innocent blunderers, the picture's appeal will be confined chiefly to their fans.

On an Indian reservation Nilly and Glub are barbers, but the Indians neither shave nor have theirs cut, so business is worse than rotten. The dialogue offers a few laughs. While shaving the Hermit, Nilly flushes a nestling bird in his bushels of whiskers. The pair are selected by the Injuns to be their ambassadors at the Geneva Peace Conference. Musical and chorus girl numbers come in. Winkelreid, agent of the munition makers, hires a couple of vamps, Dolores and Fifi, to take the boys' minds off their mission and an Apache den scene is rung in. Back in the conference they turn it into a shambles, working the nations' delegates to such a frenzied pitch that they fight for peace. This is a high spot of the fun.

Finally Winkelreid forges a peace pact, which the ambassadors accept as real. As they are returning to America, newspaper headlines blare forth that the world is at war again and that Nilly and Glub are responsible. At the reservation a drill sergeant lines 'em up in the awkward squad.

With the established Wheeler and Woolsey box office popularity as a basis from which to work, "Diplomaniacs" should be sold as a nutty comedy, a ridiculous farce. The show can be ballyhooed in all sorts of trick ways. Use the words "maniacs" wherever possible. Don't overlook the musical angle.

Unlike the last previous Wheeler and Woolsey show, this is entertainment for youngsters as well as adults.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by RKO Radio. Directed by William Seiter. Story by J. L. Manikiewicz. Screen play by J. L. Mankiewicz and Henry Meyers. Music and lyrics by Harry Akst and Edward Eilscu. Photographed by Eddie Cronjager. Release date to be determined. Running time, 63 minutes.

CAST

Willy Nilly ..... Bert Wheeler
Hercules Glub ..... Robert Woolsey
Dolores ..... Marjorie White
Fifi ..... Phyllis Barry
Winkelreid ..... Louis Calhern
Chinaman ..... Hugh Herbert
Scumerzenpuppen ..... William Irving
Puppenschmerzen ..... Neely Edwards
Schmerzenschmerzen ..... Billy Bletcher
Puppenpuppen ..... Teddy Hart
The Captain ..... Richard Carle
Butler ..... Charles Coleman
Indian Chief ..... Edward Cooper
Peter the Hermit ..... Dewey Robinson

Hell Below

(MGM)

Drama

Dramatic thrill is the big audience-interesting feature of "Hell Below." It dominates the graphic detailing of the wartime exploits of a U. S. N. submarine and its crew. It is the punch behind all the drama, love and lust, comedy, tragedy, adventure, devotion to duty, comradeship-in-arms, disillusionment, disgrace, heroism, sacrifice. Vividly spectacular in its combat episodes, it also develops a humanness concentrating audience sympathy for the boy and girl victims of one of those startling wartime affairs.

Spectacular and dramatic action is the framework upon which the structure is erected, all of it noisy and thrilling. The first is a Boche air raid that drives Joan (Toler's daughter) into Knowlton's arms for one of those "it's-our-last-night-on-earth" affairs. Later it is revealed that Joan is the wife of a wounded British air officer. An enemy mine layer is sunk. Enemy bombing planes cut off Walters and his little crew in an open boat from the submerging sub. Next, on a secret scouting mission, Knowlton disobeys Toler's orders on a scouting expedition and starts torpedoing three Boche destroyers. One forces the sub to the bottom when it is crippled by depth bombs.

On the sea floor, the crew of the sub, its seams leaking, chlorine gas escaping, frantically work to free it as one man dies that the rest may have a chance to live. Court-martialed and disgraced, Knowlton is fired out of the Navy for his rash act. Then he learns that Standish will recover. He paints himself as a black character so that Joan will go back to her husband.

Then comes the roaring climax as the combined Allied naval and air fleets attack the German base, and the Toler sub, loaded with TNT, slides along to duplicate the famous Hobson-Merrimac Spanish War feat of bottling up the harbor. Somehow or other, Knowlton has smuggled himself aboard and after squaring himself with Toler, he is summarily restored to duty. As the sub nears the zero spot, the crew leap into the water to be picked up by speed boats. Only Knowlton remains to guide it to its mark, perishing as the sub explodes.

The spectacle and the human theme have been so well interwoven that the picture should be extraordinarily attractive to both men and women. Comedy is adequately supplied by Durante and Pallette. Also, the name of Montgomery and his known appeal can be used advantageously. Playing up the angle of the submarines' role in the World war should result in the show turning in some real box office totals.

The show is wide open for all kinds of spectacular tie-ups with the Navy, the Legion, naval reservist organizations and other patriotic groups. In connection with the title, the underwater submarine stuff should be worked to the limit.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Directed by Jack Conway. Adapted by Laird Doyle and Raymond L. Schrock from the book "Pigboats" by Commander Edward Ellsberg. Dialogue by John Lee Mahin and John Meehan. Recording director, Douglas Shearer. Art director, Cedric Gibbons. Photographed by Harold Rosson. Film editor, Hal C. Kern. Release date, May 5, 1933. Running time, 78 minutes.

CAST

Lieut. Thomas Knowlton, U. S.N..Robert Montgomery
Lieut. Cmdr. T. J. Toler, U. S. N.....Walter Huston
Joan .....Madge Evans
"Ptomaine," Ship's Cook.....Jimmy Durante
MacDougal—Chief Torpedo Man.....Eugene Pallette
Lieut. (JG) "Brick" Walters.....Robert Young
Herbert Standish-Flight Cmdr.....Edwin Styles
Lieut. (JG) "Speed" Nelson.....John Lee Mahin
Lieut. (JG) Radford .....David Newell
Seaman Jenks .....Sterling Holloway
Buck Teeth Sergeant.....Charles Irwin

Potemkin

(Kinematrade)

Russian Drama

Many a Soviet-championing picture has been sent on its way out of Russia to the New World since the Sergei Eisenstein production of the sailors' mutiny that ushered in the Revolution first provoked discussion in its silent form. Now the picture is back with music and sound effects plus lectured prologue and epilogue, and while the theme now has been presented many times in varying forms, sound has added something of strength though there is also a throwback to the first American sound pictures in the silent dialogue of the players themselves.

There is an element of bigness in physical treatment that continues to distinguish "Potemkin" from the week-in-week-out pictures of Soviet propaganda that have followed in its wake. There are warships and there are huge crowds, factually so. There is emotional power in the scenes showing the deadly march of the Cossacks down the endless steps of the palace, row after row firing its volley into the helpless crowds of civilians. Something of suspense is created when the sailors of the cruiser prepare for battle against the entire fleet, a tension which is lifted by the surprise decision of the surrounding warships to permit the rebel vessel to steam through unmolested, the symbol of victory in the overthrow of tyranny.

The stark, cold realism that is Russian pervades the production. There are recurrent the obviously symbolic interludes of photographic return to Nature, a treatment dear to the Continental. Nevertheless the action in the main is more consecutive than in most Russian pictures, bringing the production as an entirety closer to the American cinematic appetite.

Of cast names there are none. The Revolution is the story. The English subtitles are almost brutally rough but there again the handling is consistent. The production has far more general appeal than any of many Soviet pictures seen since it first appeared as silent product. And in a foreign-audience sector it should be even more cordially received. "Potemkin" is still good screen.—Rovelstad, New York.

Amkino production made by Sovkino and distributed in America by Kinematrade. Directed by Sergei Eisenstein and Grigori Alexandrov. Release date, March 31, 1933. Running time, 54 minutes.

Daring Daughters

(Capital Film)

Drama

More adaptable to the smaller situation than to the first run is this independently produced dramatic effort. It treats of an elderly, rather worn out theme, that of two sisters in the big town, one worldly wise, thinking evil of all men, taking what she can get and the devil take the hindmost; the other, innocent and curious, who resents her sister's direction, strikes out and nearly falls.

Of course, the elder sister meets the one man who is different, and in the final sequence, revises her estimate, changes her long held conclusion that all men are alike. There is unfortunately little to recommend the picture to the regular run of patronage, except perhaps a certain appeal to the flapper type of young femininity. The title probably in the same measure will draw the attention of the flapper. It has inherently a lurid implication which is not borne out by the picture itself.

The cast has a name or two which may strike a familiar note. In its quality of execution the picture belongs in the small town, small theatre class, but unfortunately in its theme and story development it is not of the best material for that category of trade, particularly that of the family.

Marian Marsh and Joan Marsh play the two sisters, Marian with a brave effort to make something living out of a weak role, Joan exercising her blonde attractiveness to a great extent, and somewhat overdoing the role. Kenneth Thomson, as the man who is different, Bert Roach as the perpetually inebriated playboy, offer names which may aid in some measure at the box office. The most acceptable selling angle probably will be that of the protection the older girl affords her sister, and the manner in which her own attitude toward men is radically altered by the actions of one man. Obviously this is no picture for the children. For the adults it is not nearly so much beyond the bounds of propriety as it is lacking in effectiveness.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced by Tower. Distributed by Capital Film Exchange. Directed by Christy Cabanne. Release date, February, 1933. Running time, 60 minutes.

CAST

Terry Cummings.....Marian Marsh
Alan Preston ..... Kenneth Thomson
Betty Cummings ..... Joan Marsh
Joby Johnson ..... Bert Roach
Edgar Barrett ..... Allen Vincent
Gwen Moore ..... Lita Chevret
Lawton ..... Richard Tucker
Hubbard ..... Arthur Hoyt
Grandmother ..... Florence Robert
Roy Andrews ..... Bryant Washburn, Jr.
Helen Delk ..... Charlotte Merrian

West of Singapore

(Monogram)

Drama

Meriting a rating of but fair entertainment, and patterned upon a time-honored theme of tropical complications and oil promotion, this independently produced picture is more particularly adapted to exhibition in the smaller theatre.

The title is along the lines of its plot structure, familiar, lacking in punch or enticement on the marquee. For cast names there is comparatively little. Leading the players is Betty Compson, who works hard in an effort to put something of dash and verve into a role which in the early sequences is unsympathetic in the extreme, only veering later to enable her to emerge as having done the right thing, and thereby to have won. There is a somewhat unexpected turn to the conclusion of the picture which serves to impart a bit of added entertainment value to the whole, but it arrives rather in belated fashion.

The other names are lacking conspicuously in marquee, selling value, though those of Noel Madison, Margaret Lindsay and Tom Douglas may have some ring of familiarity. Weldon Heyburn in the masculine lead opposite Miss Compson strives for naturalness, but rather falls short of being wholly convincing at all times. It is occasionally too obvious that he is playing a part.

Heyburn, tropical oil promoter, wagers with the unscrupulous native, Madison, that he will increase his production without the aid of the oil on Madison's land. In England, Heyburn had become engaged to Miss Lindsay, thereby giving the promiscuous Miss Compson "the air." Madison makes every effort to prevent Reyburn from winning the wager, and matters are complicated by the unexpected arrival of Douglas and his sister, Miss Lindsay. There follows in expected fashion the near blowing up of the refinery, only saved in the famed nick of time by Heyburn's quick action. Seeking revenge, Miss Compson had framed Heyburn, but relented in time to permit of a reconciliation between the engaged couple. Then the unexpected turn, as Heyburn chooses Miss Compson, rather than Miss Lindsay.

The exhibitor has but little opportunity here to indulge in extraordinary exploitation, though fashioning the lobby into tropical simulation may well have an effect on the pedestrian traffic. As a possible feminine appeal, sell the idea of the girl who couldn't go through with the revenge she had planned and stood by the man she loved. Only fair, the picture nevertheless has some entertaining qualities.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Monogram. Directed by Al Ray. Story by Houston Branch. Adapted by Adele Buffington. Photographed by Harry Neumann and Robert Clive. Release date, January 31, 1933. Running time, 68 minutes.

CAST

Lou	Betty Compson
Dan Manton	Weldon Heyburn
Shelby Worrell	Margaret Lindsay
Degama	Noel Madison
Glenn Worrell	Tom Douglas
Ricky	Clyde Cook
Scrub	Harvey Clark
Watson	Ernie Adams

The Song of Life

(Tobis)

Dramatic Novelty

Necessarily much in the nature of cinematic experimentation, this Tobis product merits close attention as an example of impression-creation through the use of the technical facilities at the command of the producer. In the nature of a phantasmagoria, the production attempts with a certain measure of success the atmospheric construction of what may be termed the rhythm of life. Woven into the fabrication in sharp episodic splashes is the story of a boy and a girl, meeting, loving, marrying, she giving birth with the aid of an emergency operation, he suffering from fear, distress, agony as the woman he loves moves to the brink of death, is snatched back by science, and now three go on, the parents with hope for the future of their offspring, the child destined for some unknown path of life.

Little dialogue is employed, the mood at all times having the sustaining influence of musical scoring of appropriate strength, subtlety, calm or tumultuous mess, as the occasion may warrant. Often scenically effective, at all times strongly rhythmic, the picture moves with a steady, forceful pace, with the latest aids of camera, microphone and cutting room. Camera angles of unusual detail occur frequently, the device of the single object in innumerable duplication on the screen in rapid movement, the device of continued repetition of an object, an action to create an impression of passing time, ceaseless activity, new developments occupy much of the footage.

In so far as exhibition is concerned, it is almost obvious that it is not readily adaptable to the regular run patronage. There is also little with which they might be attracted to the theatre, without resorting to advertising maneuverings which, though effective, would be unquestionably unjustified by the content of the picture. It is likewise extremely doubtful that the mine-run audience could find much in the picture to interest them, much to appreciate or enjoy. The little dialogue is in English, despite the Tobis origin of the production.

This must remain, then, a definitely unusual, different type of motion picture, which might be sold as that. Women's community groups may well be interested, the picture to be preshown to them prior to a special one-night performance, thereby bringing to the exhibitor a certain goodwill advantage.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Tobisforenfilms. Directed by Alexis Granovski. Scenario by Victor Trivas. Musical direction by Franz Wachsman. Photographed by Victor Trinkler. Sound engineer, Dr. Hans Bittman. Release date, March 24, 1933. Running time, 66 minutes.

CAST

Albert	Albert Mog
Erika	Margot Ferra

Der Brave Suender

The Upright Sinner

(European Films)

Comedy

The screen debut of Max Pallenberg, reputed to be one of the abler comedians of the German stage, is a rather successfully amusing screen venture, with Pallenberg, in the role of the sensitive, excitable investment house clerk of mouse-like and sheepish character, wholly responsible for the picture's attraction.

Without him to make comic the leading role, to put feeling into his characterization, which, though difficult, he handles with marked ability, there would be little to the film. It is rather particularly a one-man picture. The support accorded Pallenberg is satisfactory, but in no case do the players perform as more than foils for the leading actor in his part of harassed clerk, who falls into trouble—and out of it—wholly by accident.

For the German-speaking audience, there is rather much to enjoy in the picture. Even the non-German may appreciate it, though to a lesser extent, by reason of the superimposed subtitle translations of crucial bits of dialogue, and because the partially pantomimic performance rendered by Pallenberg is susceptible of understanding and appreciation without dialogue of any sort. The exhibitor who, in particular, can rely on a certain percentage of German patronage has a reasonably amusing picture to sell, offering Pallenberg as a foremost German comedian in his screen debut. It is really not completely adaptable for the audience not understanding German, however, since comedy especially is to a definite extent dependent upon lines for its effect. Dolly Haas as his daughter, and Heinz Ruehmann as his assistant in love with Miss Haas, may be familiar names.

Pallenberg's family annoys him excessively, and his office likewise. When the director goes to Vienna, and Pallenberg is left with a large sum he had been asked to draw, he is in a state of abject fear for the safety of the money, and with his assistant goes to Vienna. There they fall into a wild party, gamble in inebriation and are fleeced of practically all the money. When they suddenly discover that the director actually had decamped with funds, however, their escapade goes unknown, Pallenberg is named acting director, and, in relief, he permits his daughter and assistant to marry. The portrayal of fear, subjugation, naivety and childish delight by Pallenberg is, in essence, the picture, and as such, is amusing, good German entertainment.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced by Allianzfilm. Distributed by European Films Corporation. Directed by Fritz Kortner. Scenario by Alfred Polgar and Fritz Kortner. Cinematographer, Guenther Krampff. Music by Nikolaus Brodsky. Musical direction by Arthur Guttmann. Release date, March 28, 1933. Running time, 78 minutes.

CAST

Leopold Pichler	Max Pallenberg
Wittek	Heinz Ruehmann
Hedwig	Dolly Haas
Ludmilla	Josephine Dora
Klapka	Fritz Gruenbaum
Karl	Peter Wolff
Manager of the Engel Bar	Julius Brandt

Men of Tomorrow

(Paramount—London Films)

Drama

The name of Oxford University is one of such worldwide prominence that the film with this ancient seat of learning as a background must have a certain universal appeal—to the curiosity if to nothing else. And in this particular production Leontine Sagan (the German director-ess who made a name with "Maedchen in Uniform") has caught the atmosphere of Oxford so faithfully that the exhibitor will have every justification for offering it to his patrons as the authentic thing.

Perhaps the tradition of the University will not mean so much to American audiences as it does to the British public for which the film is primarily intended, and there will be the necessity for a glossary of terms to be attached to all publicity matter, but the discriminating patron will appreciate the depth of the psychological problem on which the picture hinges, and will realize that the director has done a good piece of work in handling it the way she did. Please note the expression "discriminating patron," for that is the class of theatregoer to which the production will make its main appeal.

Assuming, then, that your theatre draws intelligent audiences, you will have a pull in labeling "Men of Tomorrow" as a fine study of the esthetic young man to whom the inward things are all that matter and to whom the athlete is just a muscle-bound savage. It is also a study of the famous university and its influence on those who pass through it, and this again is a point that only the more serious of your patrons will properly understand. You have ample opportunity for stressing the atmosphere of Oxford, and—if it is not below your standards—you can supply your visible staff with the gowns and college caps that are the badge both of professor and student at English universities.

You have, too, authority for referring in your ads and on your bills to the sensitive performance of Maurice Braddell in the main role and to the vividness the other principals lends to their contrasting parts. Especially good is Emlyn Williams as the be-spectacled Horners, for actually he walks away with all the honors, while the ancient university itself plays its part as if it had been in pictures all its life. This story of the introspective young man, who rebels against the Oxford system only to realize that its 400 years are many more than his 20, should make a strong appeal to theatregoers who look for something beyond the shallow program picture.—CHARMAN, London.

Distributed (in England) by Paramount. Produced by London Film Productions, Ltd., through Zoltan Korda. Directed by Leontine Sagan. Adapted from the novel "Young Apollo," by Anthony Gibbs. Photography by Bernard Browne. Running time, 80 minutes.

CAST

Allan Shepherd	Maurice Braddell
Jane Anderson	Joan Gardner
Ysobel d'Aunay	Merle Oberon
"Horners"	Emlyn Williams
Julian	Robert Donat
Mrs. Oliphant	Annie Esmond
Senior Proctor	Charles Carson
Tutor	Gerald Coon-

Roosevelt—The Man of the Hour

(MGM)

Timely

Compressed into two reels, MGM has fashioned a picture of the present incumbent of the White House, indicating pictorially the highlights of his career since he entered the political arena. Interesting, above all, timely, the subject is worthy of special billing, more for the general appeal of its content at the moment than for its production value. It is, actually, a series of newsreel clips, welded with an interesting accompanying dialogue. Interesting are the shots of his cousin, "Teddy" Roosevelt, in dynamic action on the platform. A worthwhile subject which will catch the popular attention.—Running time, 20 minutes.

JESSE L. LASKY'S first for FOX another tribute to his genius.

Jesse L. Lasky, the man who has done most to make motion picture production an art ... the man who has been responsible for more outstanding pictures than any other individual in the business ... producer of "The Covered Wagon", "Beau Geste", "Chang", (to name just a few) resumes his production activities with another smash that ranks with his history-making achievements of the past.

A new kind of romance...strangely, excitingly different ... a love story between a primal youth and a runaway girl with unkissed lips; tender, spiritual, heart-warming ... surging to a climax magnificent in its pulse-raising, breath-shortening suspense, action, speed, thrills and novelty. In all your days as a showman you have never seen a production so replete with all the qualities that you have demanded from the Hollywood studios.

HIT NO. 1 IN THE FOX

ZOO IN BUDAPEST

LORETTA YOUNG
GENE RAYMOND
O. P. HEGGIE

Story by Melville Baker and Jack Kirkland • • Directed by ROWLAND V. LEE

May FESTIVAL

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

Leo Salkin, former manager of the Oriental theatre, has opened the Palace theatre in Milwaukee.

▽

Percy Barr has joined Johnny Mednikow's Master Art Products, handling sales in Indiana.

▽

Abe Ostrowsky, who operates three local houses, is making a trip to Miami for his health.

▽

Louis Abramson, Allied secretary, is making the rounds of theatres with one of the organization's directors each night in the capacity of what he terms "goodwill" ambassador. All very well, but the suspicion remains that Louis has other things also on his mind when he chats with exhibitors.

▽

Two former homes of the drama and musical comedy in the Loop will become picture houses on April 15. Howard Lubliner, Sam and Edward Trinz open the Adelphi on that date with second run pictures. The Garrick starts the same day under the management of Frank Crowe, with five acts of vaudeville and a first run picture.

▽

A. L. Rule, who is responsible for "The Big Drive," will soon make a trip to the West Coast where Madeline Woods is putting the picture over with a bang at various houses.

HOLQUIST

Writers' Guild Has New Code

A code for incorporation in all contracts of studio writers, is near completion by members of the Writer's Guild in Hollywood. A committee, composed of several writers, will be split into subcommittees to hear suggestions frome very writers' group on the Coast, including authors of musicals, on subjects for inclusion in the code.

The drafting committee includes Robert Lord, Sam Ornitz, Bess Meredyth, Oliver Garrett, Rupert Hughes, Bert Kalmar, John Bright, Jane Murphin, Doris Anderson, Robert Riskin, Malcolm Stuart Boylan, S. N. Behrman, Harvey Thew, Howard Green and Huston Branch. John Howard Lawson, Guild president, said this week that the membership may soon reach 210.

Educational Retrieves Old Films for State Rights Sale

Educational has retrieved from Fox 41 features, including Tiffany product and several of last year's features which were released by Educational, to be distributed independently on the state rights market throughout the country. Westerns are included among the features and 55 short subjects are an additional part of the deal.

The short subjects include the Chimp series, voice of Hollywood, football reels, reels featuring the Kentucky Jubilee singers, single reel musical subjects and two scenics. Territories already closed for the product are: Albany, Atlanta, Buffalo, Dallas, Kansas City, Milwaukee, New Orleans, New York, St. Louis, New Haven and Pittsburgh.

TRAVELERS...

WILL H. HAYS, ADOLPH ZUKOR, MERLIN HALL AYLESWORTH, R. H. COCHRANE, HARRY M. WARNER, CHARLES B. PAINE, WILLARD S. MCKAY, SIDNEY R. KENT, A. JOHN MICHEL, SIDNEY TOWELL, NICHOLAS M. SCHENCK and EMANUEL COHEN arrived in Hollywood for industry conferences.

JEAN HERSHOLT, Metro player, sailed for Denmark and Sweden.

POLA NEGRI sailed for Europe.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN, United Artists producer, is due in New York from Europe, en route to Hollywood.

DIANA WYNYARD, MGM player, sailed for London.

ADRIENNE AMES left New York for Paramount's coast studio.

EDWARD SUTHERLAND, Paramount director, arrived in Hollywood from New York.

MAURICE D. ("RED") KANN, editor of MOTION PICTURE DAILY, arrived in Hollywood to report on industry conferences for QUIGLEY PUBLICATIONS.

"ANTOINE" of Paris, noted French hairdresser, arrived in New York, en route to Warner studio on coast.

MAE WEST, Paramount player, returned to Hollywood from New York.

LILIAN HARVEY, Fox player, left Movietone City for Mexico City.

HENRY GARAT, Fox player, sails Saturday for London and Berlin.

RICHARD HALLIBURTON, associated with Walter Futter (RKO), arrived in New York from Hollywood.

KATHARINE HEPBURN, RKO player, returned to Hollywood from New York.

WARD MOREHOUSE returned from Los Angeles to New York, after completing Universal script.

BETTE DAVIS, Warner player, returned to New York from Boston.

WILLIE PASPART, European representative for RKO vaudeville, returned to Europe.

R. B. PETER, of Universal's London branch, arrived in New York.

J. J. SHUBERT returned to New York from Havana, where he arranged for Spanish production.

MACK SENNETT arrived in New York from Los Angeles.

PAT GARYN left New York for Miami.

ROBERT MCGOWAN sailed for London to meet Hal Roach.

AL LICHTMAN, vice-president of United Artists, returned to New York.

JESSE CRAWFORD arrived in London for organ engagement.

MARK LARKIN entertained press at bon voyage party in New York and returned to Hollywood.

CHARLIE CHASE, player, sails Saturday for Europe.

SPYROS SKOURAS, Fox theatre director, is due in New York from Los Angeles, accompanied by EDDIE ALPERSON, assistant.

E. S. CLIFFORD, Chicago manager of Quigley Publications, arrived in New York.

ROBERT T. KANE, Fox French producer, arrived in New York from Paris.

HELEN HAYES returned to New York from Europe, en route to Hollywood.

CRESSON E. SMITH, Australian sales executive for RKO, sailed for New York.

HERSCHEL STUART, RKO theatre executive, returned to New York from midwest.

RUBY KEELER, Warner player, and AL JOLSON, her husband, arrived in Honolulu.

Marks Gets New Post

Cecil Marks, formerly general sales manager for United Artists in Australia, has been appointed to the position of managing director of that territory, according to Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president, treasurer and head of United Artists' foreign department. Mr. Marks succeeds Ralph Doyle, resigned.

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 57—Woman owner wins Grand National—Italian sovereigns visit tomb of ancient royalty at Luxor, Egypt—Roosevelt joins Reporters' Club—Religions unite in Holy Hour at at New York—Change flag on Eiffel Tower in Paris.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 58—Beer becomes legal—Woodin speaks on hoarding—Airship Akron lost at sea—Pictures of Akron's survivors—Berlin cops drill for Crown Prince.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 256—Legalized beer begins to flow—Salmon open uphill battle on Wind River in Washington—Spain celebrates fireworks fete—Racing season ends at Agua Caliente—Seventy three perish as Akron is lost at sea.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 257—Army Day marchers salute Roosevelt in Washington—Rising Mississippi floods wide area—Auto racers in desert classic—Capital's cherry trees bloom—Fascist fliers hail Mussolini in Rome—Jobless rush to join forest army.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 71—Hold spring regatta at Joinville, France—Woodin speaks on gold hoarding—Six die in plane crash at Neodesha, Kan.—France's Coney Island opens to kids—Akron lost and rescue blimp crashes at sea—Agua Caliente ends racing season.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 72—Mussolini reviews his aces—Kiddies' parade at Coral Gables, Fla.—30,000 enter training for forest work—Cherry trees bloom at White House—Plane controlled by radio tested at Newark, N. J.

PATHE NEWS—No. 72—Holy Year opens in New York—President becomes member of National Press Club—Babies parade at St. Petersburg, Fla.—Girl leaves New York on world cruise in schooner—Pictures of Grand National at Aintree.

PATHE NEWS—No. 73—Akron's fate stuns nation—New Mooney trial in San Francisco—Senator Black explains bill to provide jobs—Factories speed production at Dayton, Ohio—Record race ends season at Agua Caliente—Chimp gives dog a musical treat in New York.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 134—Describes Akron tragedy—New mile-and-a-quarter record set at Agua Caliente—Hoover visits mine at Reno, Nev.—Lingerie show held at Miami, Fla.—Aerial bombs drive Chinese defenders from key position in China—Beer welcomed back.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 135—Jobless get government work—Passover observed in New York—Students strike because Chicago teachers are unpaid—Akron crash inquiry starts at Atlantic City, N. J.—British ruler opens new wing to nation's portrait gallery in London—Air force reviewed by Mussolini.

ON BROADWAY

Week of April 8

MAYFAIR

Scrappy's Party..... Columbia

PARAMOUNT

Sweet Cookie..... Paramount

RIALTO

Betty Boop's Birthday Party. Paramount
Uncle Jake..... Paramount

RIVOLI

Benny Davis..... Master Art Products
Mickey's Mellerdrammer.... United Artists
New England Sunset..... Paramount

ROXY

Beer Is Here..... Principal

STRAND

Sea Devils..... Vitaphone
Young and Healthy..... Vitaphone

Represent Filmchoice

George Dillon of Filmchoice, Inc., has completed negotiations whereby Marcel Mekelburg of Century Film Corporation, Boston, and Harry Gibbs of Connecticut Films Distributing Corporation, New Haven, will distribute "Maedchen in Uniform," Filmchoice release, in New England.

TECHNOLOGICAL

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 168.—(A) Just why is it necessary that the rewinder motor be stopped immediately rewinding is finished. (B) Explain the effect when crooked reels are used for rewinding. (C) Give us your idea of patching block, its location, lighting, etc. (D) Name various advantages of slow rewinding, say, 1,000 feet in six minutes.

Answer to Question No. 161

Bluebook School Question No. 161 was: (A) Give us your own views as to what constitutes a good film splice. (B) Tell us just how you would proceed to make a perfect film splice.

The following made acceptable answers: C. Rau and S. Evans, G. E. Doe, Dale Danielson, J. Wentworth, W. Ostrum, T. Van Vaulkenberg, E. Parkinson, Bill Doe, D. Lambert and T. Davis, H. D. Schofield, O. Allbright, H. B. Coates, A. Ilks and P. L. Jenson, J. Cermak, L. Jones and B. L. Banning, D. Anderson, L. B. Rubin and L. Hendershot, M. R. Davis, W. Love and S. D. Love, L. Thomas and D. D. Davis, O. L. Daris and M. Simms, M. H. Lonberger, D. L. Tapley, M. L. George and R. Singleton, B. Diglah and P. Jackson, D. Holler and D. R. Peters, M. Spencer and D. T. Arlen, J. Lansing and R. D. Oberleigh, P. L. Day and P. K. Daniels, F. F. Franks, H. Edwards, L. G. Gregeson, R. Suler and R. Wheeler, D. M. Banks and L. Summers and T. N. Danby, T. M. Vinson and D. K. Ormie, D. Goldberg and L. Hutch, B. Sappert, L. F. Thomas, D. U. Granger, J. Williams, J. L. and F. Hanson, D. L. Mason and J. T. Ballinger, G. Tinlin, D. L. Sinklow, D. T. Arlen and M. Spencer, L. H. Simmons, J. C. Peters, O. L. Evans, S. Maybe and R. D. Konley, J. B. Buckley and D. Singleton, T. Davis and T. Lambert, R. Geddings and L. Grant and P. T. Zann, D. Emmerson, P. L. Danby, T. McGruder, H. Rogers, M. B. Grieg, D. Little and J. H. Rathburn, L. C. Cummings and T. Kelley, R. L. Mitchel, G. Harrison and E. Harlor, H. Pilson and D. L. Danielson and T. R. Bancroft, R. S. Allen and T. N. Williams, T. Taylor and C. Ray, M. D. Oleson and J. B. Malley, L. M. Richards, B. Jones, D. V. Peterson, B. L. Tanner and E. Rymer, B. L. Blinkendorfer, T. S. Raymond, D. L. Howard, A. Bailey, H. R. Baldwin and G. K. Berger, N. Truman, G. Farmann, D. Haber and A. Breaston, D. Michelson, H. True, E. W. Warner.

I think we will publish the answer to Section A of H. D. Cylor, H. D. Davis and W. Sullivan, who answer as a unit as follows:

"A well made film splice is fully as strong, and may even be stronger, than the film itself. The film ends must be cut squarely, scraped on both sides with a straight edge as a scraper guide. All emulsion must be scraped from the stub end, and all oil and dirt from the celluloid side of the other end. The cement must be in good condition. The width of the splice should be as little as may be consistent with strength as above described, in no event substantially more than one-eighth of an inch. The sprocket holes must be perfectly matched. Cement must be applied with one stroke of the brush, and after joining of the ends apply plenty of pressure throughout the full length of the splice for about five seconds."

On the whole I believe G. E. Doe's answer to Section B is perhaps best suited for publication. He says, "With the remark that there is no such thing as a 'perfect splice,' I would proceed as follows (and to give myself credit, I do so every day): First, I cut the film ends as nearly as possible perfectly square. As a matter of fact my splices are perfectly square, as I cut the film ends with a film splicer cutter. The cut is of course made at the center of the frame line between two frames at one end, and the width of the splice beyond the center of the frame line on the other end, hereinafter called the 'stub end.'

"I then place the stub end under a straight-edge clamp on the film splicer, with the center of the frame line at the edge of the straight-edge, and carefully scrape off all emulsion. I am particular to remove every bit of it from around the sprocket holes, since it is there the greatest strain will come. I then clamp the other end, celluloid side up, edge of clamp at center of frame line, and scrape lightly so as to remove all dirt and oil from the celluloid.

"I then apply cement evenly to the stub end, if possible with only one stroke of the brush, then place the stub end over the locating pins of the film clamp, apply the other end and set the clamp.

"That is all there is to it, but making a splice—a good one at least—involves keeping the cement perfectly protected from air, since exposed or even intermittently exposed, cement deteriorates rapidly. It also involves careful work in applying the cement, since too little or too much is not good, and if the cement be agitated after it has touched the celluloid it will not make a strong splice."

An enormous amount of damage is done and much trouble and annoyance are caused projectionists when those using the films before them have been negligent in making splices. As the answer to Section A says, a well made splice is as strong as the unbroken film itself; also, if good cement is used and properly applied, the splice will retain its full strength indefinitely.

Theatre Men Hit New Building Code

A committee of New York theatre executives, representing the MPPDA and various companies, after examination of the proposed new building code for New York City, as prepared by a committee appointed by former Mayor James J. Walker and at the suggestion of the Retail Merchants Association, has wholly disapproved the proposed code, as it pertains to theatre in particular.

The theatre representatives included: Thomas W. Lamb, chairman, representing Thomas W. Lamb, Inc., architects; E. H. McFarland, Fox; H. Moskowitz, Loew's; A. S. Dickinson, MPPDA; John G. Schneberger, Paramount-Publix; Arthur J. Benline, RKO, and Herman R. Maier, Warner.

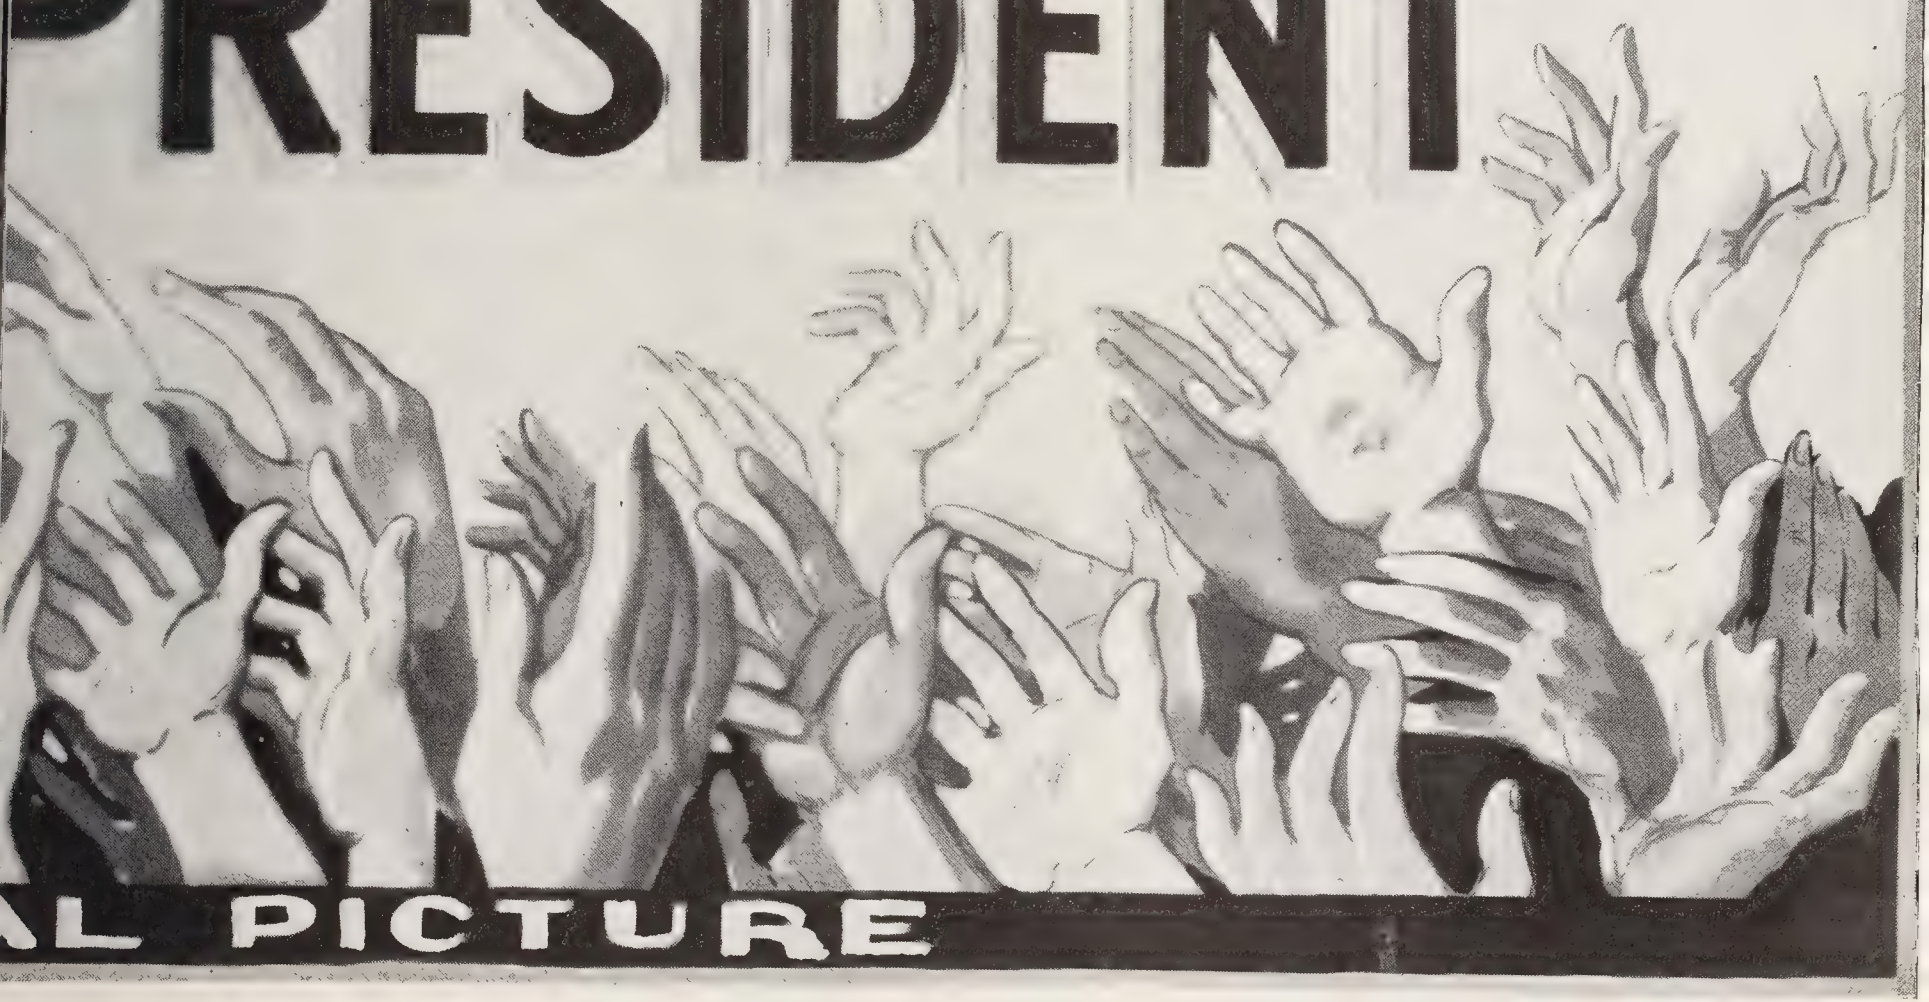
The committee, in its report to the Board of Aldermen, suggests partial amendment of the present building code, article by article as the only way "that a complete and thorough discussion may be made by all parties interested." The committee contends that the new theatre construction, of the latest types, "would experience a severe setback" by the provisions of Article 12, which pertains to theatres. Various restrictive factors are cited in the committee's report. The Code's theatre section, based upon "a sort of ideal 1300-seat, multiple balcony type of theatre," is seen by the committee as inimical to the best interests of modern theatre construction.

Studying Film Shrinkage

Extensive experiments have been instituted by Virgil E. Miller, head of the camera department at the Paramount studios, looking to the elimination of shrinkage in film, a condition which often causes blurred or flickering images on the screen.

NATIONAL RELEASE

AMERICA CRIES OUT TO



"SHOW US THE WAY AND

DATE APRIL 14TH

CARL LAEMMLE presents

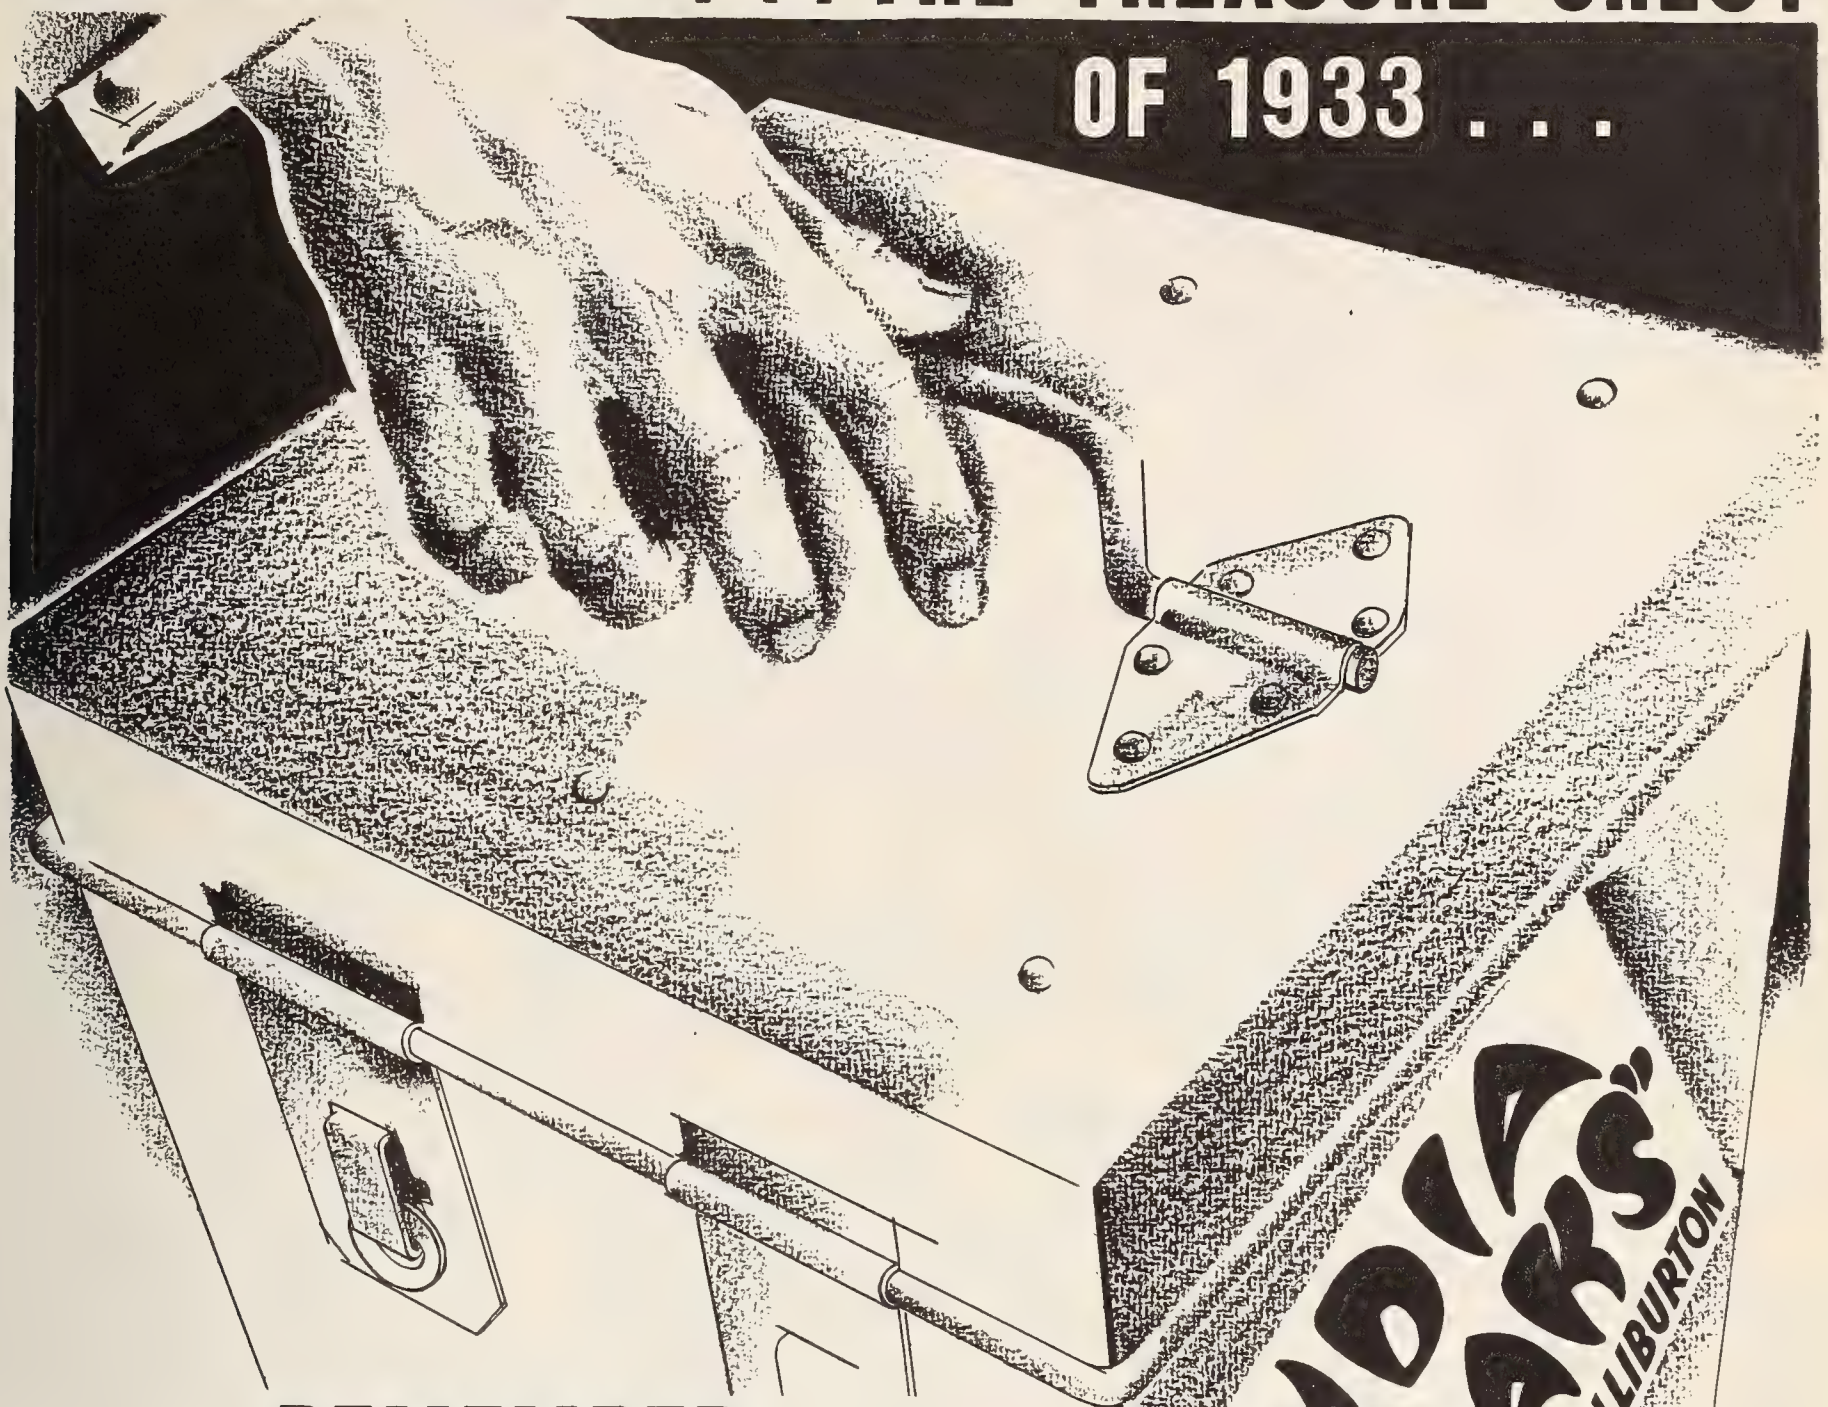
TIMELIEST MOTION PICTURE OF ALL TIME

FIGHTING PRESIDENT"

ITS FIGHTING PRESIDENT:

WE WILL FOLLOW!"



THEATRE RECEIPTS

The total of theatre receipts from 106 houses in 19 major cities of the country for the calendar week ended April 8, 1933, aggregated $1,124,584. For the previous calendar week, ended April 1, the total from 107 theatres in 19 cities reached $1,164,355, indicating a decrease of $39,771 for the seven-day period. During the more recent week no new high individual theatre record totals were established, while five new "lows" were recorded, compared with no new "highs" and three new "lows" the previous week.

(Copyright, 1933: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to MOTION PICTURE HERALD expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Boston			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Fenway	1,800	30c-50c	"Infernal Machine" (Fox) and "Strictly Personal" (Para.)	10,000	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) and "Humanity" (Fox)	9,500
Keith's	3,500	30c-50c	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	18,000	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week)	19,500	High 12-5 "Frankenstein"	27,000
Keith-Boston	2,900	25c-50c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	16,500	"The Constant Woman" (World Wide)	15,500	Low 3-9-33 "When Strangers Marry"	12,000
Loew's Orpheum	2,200	25c-50c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	17,500	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (2nd week)	14,500	High 4-9-32 "Steady Company"	26,000
Loew's State	3,700	25c-50c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	18,500	"The White Sister" (MGM)	17,000	Low 3-9-33 "Topaze"	11,000
Metropolitan	4,350	35c-65c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	30,500	"Pick Up" (Para.)	30,000	High 1-24 "Hell's Angels"	32,500
Paramount	1,800	30c-50c	"Infernal Machine" (Fox) and "Strictly Personal" (Para.)	11,000	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) and "Humanity" (Fox)	10,000	Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight"	9,500
							High 6-18-32— "Hell Divers," "Possessed" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight"	11,000
							High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 3-9-33 "King of the Jungle"	26,500
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-55c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	12,000	"Pick Up" (Para.)	12,200	High 3-28 "My Past"	39,500
Century	3,000	25c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) and "Men Must Fight" (MGM)	6,100	"Hard to Handle" (W. B.) and "Afraid to Talk" (U.)	7,600	Low 3-24-33 "Our Betters"	9,800
Great Lakes	3,000	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	6,100	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week)	14,100	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
Hippodrome	2,100	25c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM) and "Lucky Devils" (Radio)	7,300	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.) and "No Other Woman" (Radio)	7,000	Low 3-24-33 "Hello, Everybody" and "Parachute Jumper"	4,700
Lafayette	3,300	25c	"Racetrack" (World Wide) and "Jungle Bride" (Monogram)	6,400	"When Strangers Marry" (Col.) and "Smoke Lightning" (Fox)	7,200	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hot Pepper"	5,800
							High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-16-32 "New Morals for Old"	4,200
							High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"	24,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hypnotized" and "Trailing the Killer"	5,100
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-68c	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	27,000	"Pick Up" (Para.)	37,000	High 1-23-32 "Two Kinds of Women"	67,000
McVickers	2,284	25c-50c	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W. B.)	9,200	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)	9,000	Low 12-22-32 "The Match King"	20,000
Oriental	3,940	35c-68c	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week)	13,000	"The White Sister" (MGM) (1st week)	22,750	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"	38,170
							Low 2-10-33 "Hello, Everybody"	5,500
							High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
							Low 3-24-33 "The Big Cage"	12,000
Palace	2,509	35c-75c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	18,500	"Rome Express" (U.)	20,000	High 4-2-32 "Cheaters at Play"	33,000
Roosevelt	1,591	25c-50c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	7,000	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	8,850	Low 12-15-32 "False Faces"	14,000
United Artists	1,700	35c-68c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	20,000			High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 3-3-33 "Luxury Liner"	6,200
							High 3-21 "City Lights"	46,562
							Low 3-17-33 "Perfect Understanding"	6,800
Denver
Aladdin	1,500	25c-40c	"Smoke Lightning" (Fox) (2 days)	600	"State Fair" (Fox)	4,500
			"Broadway Bad" (Fox) (5 days)	1,900
Denham	1,700	15c-25c	"They Just Had to Get Married" (U.) (2nd week-3 days)	1,500	"They Just Had to Get Married" (U.) (1st week)	4,250
			"The Big Payoff" (Mascot) (4 days)	1,200
Denver	2,500	25c-50c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	8,000	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (8 days)	14,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Clear All Wires"	6,000
Orpheum	2,600	25c-40c	"Topaze" (Radio)	8,500	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	6,500
Paramount	2,000	25c-40c	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	4,000	"The Kid from Spain" (U.A.)	7,000	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels"	22,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Grand Slam" and "Whistling in the Dark"	3,000
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	6,500	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week)	8,500
Fisher	2,700	15c-40c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)	4,400	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	5,400
Fox	5,100	15c-40c	"Humanity" (Fox)	5,600	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	6,300
Michigan	4,000	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	25,200	"Pick Up" (Para.)	15,400
United Artists	2,000	25c-50c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	9,100	"Sign of the Cross" (Para.) (2nd week)	3,800
Hollywood
Grauman's Chinese	2,500	55c-$1.10	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	11,400	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week-6 days) ($3.30 premiere)	14,600	High 7-31 "Trader Horn"	36,000
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	11,200	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	17,000	Low 10-31 "Yellow Ticket"	9,000
							High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	30,000
							Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family"	7,000
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-40c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	3,500	"The Great Jasper" (Radio)	3,000	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs"	10,000
Circle	2,800	25c-40c	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	5,000	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	5,000	Low 3-10-33 "Topaze"	2,500
							High 2-14 "Cimarron"	13,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Sign of the Cross" (Second run)	2,500
Indiana	3,300	25c-40c	"Pick Up" (Para.)	6,000	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	8,000	High 1-17 "Her Man"	25,000
							Low 3-3-33 "20,000 Years in Sing Sing"	5,000
Palace	2,800	25c-40c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	7,000	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	6,500	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	22,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Clear All Wires"	3,500

GRAB IT!...THE TREASURE CHEST OF 1933...

REMEMBER!.... "AFRICA SPEAKS"

that surprise attraction of the 1931-32 season, that came in on gum shoes and knocked box-office records for a row of Pilsener bottles!

WALTER FUTTER who produced that show has now made another,

"INDIA SPEAKS"

...an amazing adventure in a fabulous land where a thousand golden temples hide a million sins!

In it, Richard Halliburton, romancer, adventurer ... most popular of authors takes your audience to this fabled world ... reveals almost incredible adventures ... thrills ... escapes ... sights ... in a land where girls of twelve marry men of fifty and some women have nine husbands.

A PICTURE FOR 1933 SHOWMEN WHO KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH AN EXPLOITATION SHOW!

"INDIA SPEAKS"
with RICHARD HALLIBURTON

Author of
"The Royal Road to Romance," "The Glorious Adventure" and "The Flying Carpet"

DISTRIBUTED BY
RKO Radio PICTURES

PRODUCED BY WALTER FUTTER

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week: Picture	Current Week: Gross	Previous Week: Picture	Previous Week: Gross	High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Kansas City
Mainstreet	3,049	25c-40c	"No More Orchids" (Col.) (6 days)	4,500	"The Big Cage" (U.)	5,000	High 1-9-32 "Peach o' Reno"	25,500
							Low 3-7-33 "The Great Jasper" (Second week of straight film policy.)	4,000
Midland	4,000	25c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	10,000	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U.A.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	8,000	High 1-5-33 "Strange Interlude"	30,000
							Low 12-8-32 "Man Against Woman"	6,000
Newman	2,000	25c-50c	"Pick Up" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,500	"Hard to Handle" (W.B.) (8 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,000	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express"	25,000
							Low 3-14-33 "King of the Jungle"	5,000
Uptown	2,000	25c-40c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	2,500	"The King's Vacation" (W.B.)	4,000	High 1-10 "Girl of the Golden West"	8,000
							Low 5-21-32 "Lena Rivers"	2,000
Los Angeles
Loew's State	2,416	25c-40c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	19,600	"The Big Drive" (First Div.)	11,800	High 10-25 "Susan Lenox"	39,000
							Low 3-5-32 "The Silent Witness"	6,963
Paramount	3,596	25c-40c	"Pick Up" (Para.)	15,500	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	13,000	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor"	41,000
							Low 2-6-32 "Tomorrow and Tomorrow"	7,500
RKO	2,700	25c-55c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) and "Parole Girl" (Col.)	6,700	"Goona Goona" (First Div.) and "Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio) (2nd week)	5,600	.....
W. B. Downtown	2,400	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	14,600	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	15,750	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	27,000
							Low 4-23-32 "Destry Rides Again"	6,200
W. B. Western	2,400	25c-45c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	7,850	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	6,300	.....
Minneapolis
Century	1,640	25c-40c	"The King's Vacation" (W. B.)	4,500	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	4,000	.....
Lyric	1,238	25c-40c	"Lawyer Man" (W. B.)	2,000	"20,000 Years in Sing Sing" (F.N.)	3,000	High 5-30 "Kiki"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Men on Call"	1,200
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"Private Jones" (U.)	7,500	"Our Betters" (Radio)	6,000	.....
State	2,300	25c-55c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	7,500	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	7,000	High 1-2-32 "Sooky"	10,000
							Low 3-10-33 "King of the Jungle"	3,500
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"My Wife's Family" (British) and "The Lodger" (British)	9,500	"Topaze" (Radio) and "Lucky Devils" (Radio)	11,000	High 1-10 "Just Imagine"	18,000
							Low 12-23 "The Guardsman" and "The Tip Off"	8,000
Imperial	1,914	15c-50c	"L' Amoureuse Adventure" (French)	1,500	"Violette Imperiales" (French)	1,800	High 1-17 "Office Wife"	10,000
							Low 4-7-33 "L'Amoureuse Adventure"	1,500
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Hard to Handle" (W. B.)	12,500	"Hot Pepper" (Fox)	13,000	High 4-2-32 "Fireman, Save My Child"	16,500
							Low 7-18 "Stepping Out"	9,000
Palace	2,600	25c-75c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	13,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	12,500	High 4-2-32 "One Hour With You"	19,500
							Low 12-23-32 "Life Begins"	8,500
Princess	2,272	25c-60c	"Cynara" (U. A.) and "Say It With Flowers" (British)	8,000	"Flag Lieutenant" (British) and "It's a King" (British)	8,000	High 4-1 "City Lights"	22,500
							Low 12-23-32 "The Crusader" and "Hearts of Humanity"	6,000
New York
Astor	1,120	55c-$2.20	"The White Sister" (MGM) (3rd week)	13,186	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week)	14,257	High 1-2-32 "Hell Divers"	24,216
							Low 3-26-33 "The White Sister"	14,559
Cameo	549	25c-75c	"Potemkin" (Kinematrade)	3,200	"Voodoo" (Principal) and "Song of Life" (Tobis)	2,300	.....
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.65	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	52,534	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	41,301	High 1-9-32 "Mata Hari"	110,466
							Low 2-2-33 "Whistling in the Dark"	23,600
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"M" (Foremco)	15,400	"State Trooper" (Col.)	8,800	High 12-12 "Frankenstein"	53,800
							Low 3-10-33 "Racetrack"	7,100
Palace	2,500	25c-75c	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	9,750	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week)	13,500	.....
Paramount	3,700	35c-99c	"Murders in the Zoo" (Para.) (6 days)	18,540	"Pick Up" (Para.)	34,600	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie"	85,900
							Low 2-2-33 "Hello, Everybody"	15,600
Rialto	2,200	40c-65c	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	9,000	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	13,500	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express"	64,600
							Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels"	4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-85c	"Secrets" (U. A.) (3rd week)	14,780	"Secrets" (U. A.) (2nd week)	21,200	High 1-9-32 "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"	67,100
							Low 7-29-32 "Igloo"	8,000
RKO Music Hall	5,945	35c-$1.65	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	80,009	"Sweepings" (Radio)	88,811	.....
RKO Roxy	3,700	35c-$1.65	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	23,358	"Private Jones" (U.)	27,697	.....
Roxy	6,200	25c-55c	"West of Singapore" (Monogram)	16,500	"Daring Daughters" (Tower)	16,200	High 1-1-32 "Delicious"	133,000
							Low 1-26-33 "Air Hostess"	9,100
Strand	3,000	25c-85c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (4th week)	23,627	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	24,589	High 1-17 "Little Caesar"	74,821
							Low 4-2-32 "The Missing Rembrandt"	8,012
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-40c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	3,400	"The Great Jasper" (Radio)	3,100	High 2-7 "Illicit"	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "From Hell to Heaven"	1,350
Criterion	1,700	10c-55c	"King Kong" (Radio)	6,500	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	5,600	High 2-21 "Cimarron"	15,500
							Low 3-11-33 "Clear All Wires"	1,800
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) (4 days)	1,200	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) (3 days)	1,000	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion"	7,200
			"Humanity" (Fox) (3 days)	900	"Infernal Machine" (Fox) (4 days)	1,000	Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy"	900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-55c	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.) (6 days)	1,500	"Private Jones" (U.)	3,200	High 9-19 "Young As You Feel"	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "Employees' Entrance"	1,400

TERROR
in every eye!

PANIC
in every heart!

Before the eyes of thousands she was murdered!

But How—
By Whom—
And Why—

?

The CIRCUS QUEEN Murder

with ADOLPHE MENJOU
As the Famous Detective Thatcher Colt
Greta Nissen—Donald Cook
From the Novel and Liberty Magazine Serial by Anthony Abbot
Screen Play by Jo Swerling
Directed by Roy William Neill

PROSPER WITH Columbia PICTURES

Coming... THE COLUMBIA MASTER PICTURE BELOW the SE

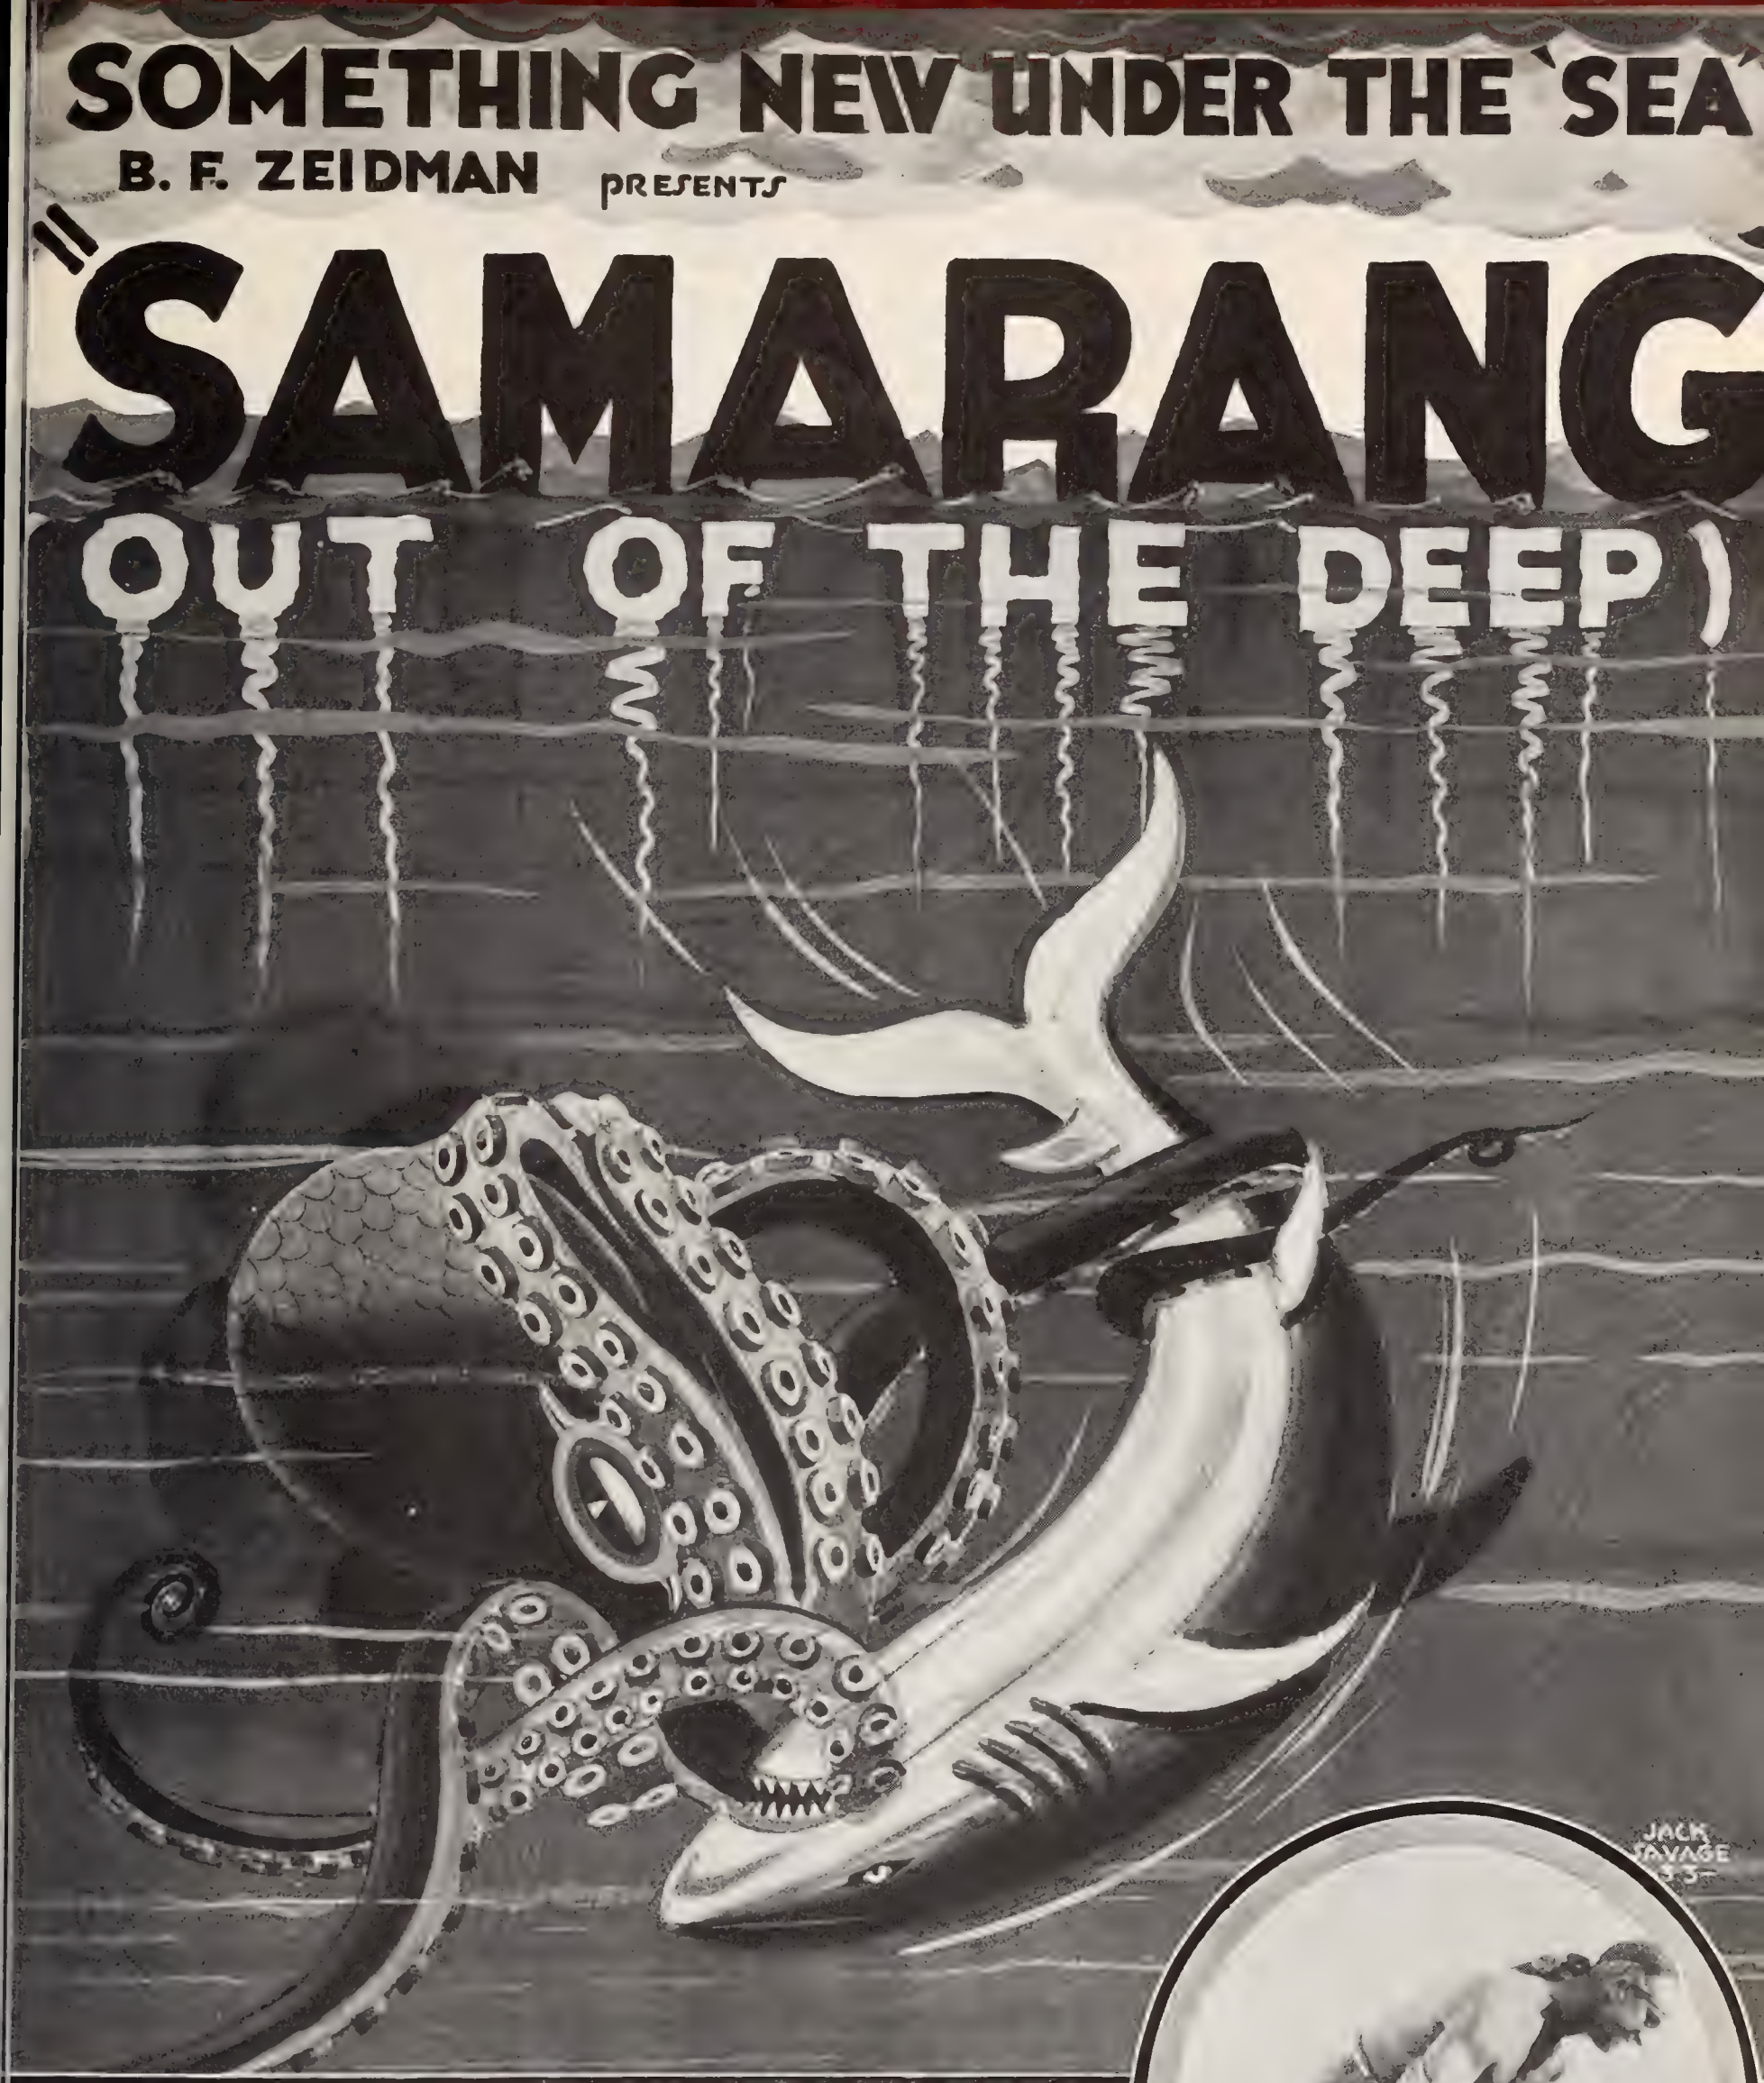
[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]



Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	20c-40c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio) and "Lucky Devils" (Radio)	6,500	"The Big Cage" (U.) and "Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio)	7,250	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 25,550 Low 4-8-33 "Christopher Strong" and "Lucky Devils" 6,500
Paramount	2,900	25c-50c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	7,750	"The Woman Accused" (Para.)	7,000	High 4-23-32 "Tarzan, the Ape Man" 13,750 Low 5-21-32 "Wet Parade" and "It's Tough to Be Famous" 4,000
State	1,200	15c-25c	"The Death Kiss" (World Wide) (4 days) "Fast Workers" (MGM) (3 days)	900 750	"Secret of Madame Blanche" (MGM) (3 days) "Blondie Johnson" (F. N.) (3 days)	500 600	High 3-14 "Trader Horn" 10,000 Low 2-10-33 "The Devil Is Driving" and "The Intruder" 1,000
World	2,500	25c-40c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) and "Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	6,500	"Hello, Everybody" (Para.) and "Hard to Handle" (W. B.)	5,500	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love" 16,000 Low 11-28 "The Cisco Kid" 4,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	25c-50c	"Rome Express" (U.) (4 days)	900	"Son-Daughter" (MGM) (6 days)	2,100	High 12-17 "The Guardsman" 6,500 Low 10-1-32 "Make Me a Star" 1,500
Boyd	2,400	40c-55c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (6 days)	13,500	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) (6 days)	11,500
Earle	2,000	40c-66c	"Crime of the Century" (Para.) (6 days)	16,000	"What! No Beer!" (MGM) (6 days)	15,000	High 1-5-33 "Breach of Promise" 29,000 Low 7-23-32 "Miss Pinkerton" 12,500
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) (6 days)	17,000	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox) (6 days)	17,000	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back" 40,000 Low 6-18-32 "Mystery Ranch" 15,000
Karlton	1,000	30c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (6 days)	7,700	"Clear All Wires" (MGM) (6 days)	4,200	High 5-2 "City Lights" 8,000 Low 3-23-33 "Air Hostess" 2,500
Keith's	2,000	15c-35c	"Racetrack" (World Wide) (6 days)	7,000	"Manhattan Tower" (Remington) (6 days)	7,500	High 1-30-32 "Arrowsmith" 27,000 Low 3-23-33 "Jungle Bride" 6,000
Stanley	3,700	40c-55c	"Our Betters" (Radio) (6 days)	10,500	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (4th week-6 days)	14,000	High 12-19 "Frankenstein" 31,000 Low 7-25 "Rebound" 8,000
Stanton	1,700	30c-55c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (6 days)	9,300	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) (6 days)	6,000	High 3-21 "Last Parade" 16,500 Low 3-23-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" 5,500
Portland, Ore.
Broadway	1,912	25c-40c	"Pick Up" (Para.)	6,200	"The Woman Accused" (Para.)	6,700	High 1-10 "Min and Bill" 21,000 Low 10-1-32 "The Crash" 2,800
Liberty	1,800	15c-25c	"Men Must Fight" (MGM)	2,000	"Luxury Liner" (Para.)	2,000
Oriental	2,040	25c-35c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	2,300	"The Big Drive" (First Div.)	2,500
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-55c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	4,800	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	4,600	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 20,000 Low 3-17-33 "Great Jasper" 4,000
United Artists	945	25c-40c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (2nd week)	6,400	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (1st week)	7,500	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels" 12,500 Low 3-10-33 "Madame Butterfly" 1,600
San Francisco
Embassy	1,380	25c-50c	"Love Sins" (State Rights)	3,250	"Nagana" (U.) (9 days)	3,500
Filmarte	1,400	25c-50c	"Waltz Paradise" (Foreign)	1,500	"Man Without a Name" (Foreign)	1,600
Fox	4,600	25c	"Should a Woman Tell?" (Majestic) and "Speed Demon" (Col.)	15,500			High 1-3 "Lightning" 70,000 Low 4-7-33 "Should a Woman Tell?" and "Speed Demon" 15,500
Golden Gate	2,800	25c-65c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	12,500	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	14,500	High 2-9-33 "The Mummy" 25,500 Low 6-11-32 "Lena Rivers" 7,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-75c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	18,000	"The King's Vacation" (W.B.)	9,500	High 1-9-32 "The Champ" 35,600 Low 3-31-33 "The King's Vacation" 9,500
St. Francis	1,435	25c-50c	"Whistling in the Dark" (MGM) and "Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	6,000	"Hello, Everybody" (Para.) and "Humanity" (Fox)	6,000
United Artists	1,200	25c-50c	"Secrets" (U. A.) (2nd week)	6,300	"Secrets" (U.A.) (1st week)	10,500
Warfield	2,700	35c-90c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) (1st week)	12,000	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)	14,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" 28,000 Low 4-6-33 "Grand Slam" 12,000
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-50c	"The Big Drive" (First Div.) (2nd week)	3,000	"The Big Drive" (First Div.) (1st week)	5,000
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-55c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	7,500	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) and "A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	6,000	High 7-30-32 "Million Dollar Legs" 18,500 Low 3-18-33 "From Hell to Heaven" and "Secret of Madame Blanche" 5,000
Liberty	2,000	10c-25c	"Breach of Promise" (World Wide) and "A Man's Land" (Allied)	3,750	"Deception" (Col.) and "The Intruder" (Allied)	3,750	High 1-10 "The Lash" 11,500 Low 11-11-32 "Amazon Head Hunters" 3,000
Music Box	950	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	7,000	"Perfect Understanding" (U.A.) (6 days)	3,250	High 2-28 "City Lights" 14,000 Low 11-25-32 "The Crooked Circle" 3,000
Paramount	3,050	25c-55c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox) and	4,500	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	5,000	High 1-10 "Paid" 18,000 Low 4-8-33 "Sailor's Luck" and "Dangerously Yours" 4,500
Rex	1,500	15c-25c	"Dangerously Yours" (Fox) "Central Park" (F. N.)	2,750	"Lucky Devils" (Radio)	2,750
Washington
Columbia	1,232	25c-40c	"Infernal Machine" (Fox)	3,000	"Smoke Lightning" (Fox)	3,200
Earle	2,323	25c-66c	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	20,000	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	18,500
Fox	3,434	25c-66c	"Men Must Fight" (MGM)	19,500	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	22,000
Loew's Palace	2,363	35c-55c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	15,000	"Pick Up" (Para.)	12,500
Metropolitan	1,600	25c-55c	"Sign of the Cross" (Para.) (2nd week)	5,200	"Sign of the Cross" (Para.) (1st week)	8,000
Rialto	1,900	25c-55c	"Destination Unknown" (U.)	3,500	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) (8 days)	5,200
RKO Keith's	1,832	25c-55c	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	6,500	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week)	16,500

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SEA

B. F. ZEIDMAN PRESENTS

"SAMARANG"

(OUT OF THE DEEP)

JACK SAVAGE '35

MONSTERS OF THE DEEP, SCREENED IN BATTLE FOR THE FIRST TIME!

DIRECTED BY WARD WING

ROMANCE? PLENTY OF THAT TOO. FILMED ENTIRELY IN MALAYSIA

STORY BY LORI BARA

B.F. ZEIDMAN PRODUCTIONS, LTD. BFZ

JENKINS' COLYUM

Omaha, Neb.

DEAR HERALD:

Hip, hip, hurrah! Old man Winter and old man Depression have been clinched in a deadly combat to a draw and both have been taken to the morgue and no friends have shown up to claim the bodies. Madam Prosperity has been riding with us in April Shower for the past week and hasn't asked us to stop at a filling station yet. With such company beside us, mudholes look like an oasis in a desert, therefore we repeat, Hip, hip, hurrah!

If you want to get a new outlook on life; if you want to forget your past troubles; if you want to see a bright rainbow of promise, just get in your car and drive to Platte valley here in Nebraska and see the green wheat fields, the farmers out turning over the black loam in preparation for the corn planting season, hear the robins singing in the trees, see the thousands and thousands of geese and ducks feeding in the corn fields and wheat fields, and there will come to you a new joy, a new sensation and a new resolve to stop kicking because it would only contain 3.2%.

Madam Prosperity says she is going to ride with us as long as we stick strictly to the truth and drink nothing that doesn't bear the stamp of government approval. This delightful lady claims to be a lineal descendant of Thomas Jefferson, and we told her if her ancestor was half as nice as she, he must have been quite a guy, but unfortunately we had never heard of him before. To this she replied, "Well, 'where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise.'"

▽

A very delightful lady came up to us in the lobby of the hotel yesterday and said: "Say, Vagabond, if you don't write the HERALD and insist upon them publishing your picture at the head of your colyum I am going to refuse to allow my husband to bring that magazine in the house."

And we said to her: "Well, dear lady, modesty forbids us to say that in a beauty contest Clark Gable, Richard Dix or Lyle Talbot couldn't get to the quarter pole with us, and we realize that the feminine demand is so great for a reproduction of our profile on that important colyum that if published it would enhance the importance of that magazine beyond all calculations, yet you must remember that the government imposes certain restrictions beyond which a publication dare not go. And you must also take into account that your constant association with your husband, Heinie Novitsky, has so prejudiced your mind against homely guys that it is easy for you to see 'beauty unadorned' even in a Vagabond.

▽

Walt Bradley at Neligh says his business has increased about 10 per cent since the bank holiday. Charley Marks at Albion says the same thing. Hop Peterson at Genoa was down on the Loupe river fishing when we called, but Ma Peterson thinks that with a ten per cent increase in business, together with Hop's catch of catfish, they will be able to worry through until the pumpkin pie season opens.

▽

Jack Riggs of Central City says that if the sheriff will attend to his own business and not monkey around his theatre so much he can make a 10 per cent increase meet film expenses if the exchanges will have a heart (which he doubts if they do).

▽

Harry Schiller of the Island theatre at Grand Island was recovering from a very serious illness when we called. His scenic artist and decorators were busy putting the Island in shape for a home talent pageant and things were pretty lively all around the place. Harry is of the impression that we are nearing that much-talked-of "corner" and he hopes that we are soon to round the curve.

R. R. Blank is the manager of the Capitol theatre, which we understand was recently taken over from Publix by the A. H. Blank enterprises. R. R. had recently come there from Los Angeles, where he was connected with the industry in various capacities for some time. Mrs. Blank is a graduate of the Central Indiana college at Danville, where Kate Huron, our old mathematics teacher, used to try to get us to add up 2 and 2 and get a result of 4.

▽

M. H. Garvin of the Rivoli theatre at Hastings wasn't sure whether he would be managing the theatre long or not, as 50 per cent belonged to Publix and 50 per cent to Monroe and Garvin.

S. Reif of the Cornhusker theatre at Hastings thinks that to try to run a theatre without the aid of the HERALD would be about as pleasant as trying to pull a back molar with a canthook. His judgment is that the HERALD is an anesthetic that all sick operators should keep in the house handy for all occasions. Our experience has proven that many an operator has sunk for the lack of this household remedy. Moral: There should be no argument when we call on you.

▽

According to Harold Schoonover of the Mazda theatre at Aurora, that town is about to go back to the government. Every bank is closed with no immediate prospects for reopening. When the bank holiday was ordered Harold says he was caught with only $1.35 in cash and he had to go to his kid's bank to get money enough to lift his film, so things are not looking quite so rosy for Harold. But there's a boy they can't keep down. He may go down in one place but he will bob up in another. He reminds us of a mudhen in that way—you never know where they will bob up next. We'll betcha he whips this depression out before the ninth round. The evidence for this is that he renewed his subscription to the HERALD, which is a knock-out blow every time.

▽

In giving to the screen Walter Huston in "Gabriel Over the Whitehouse" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has contributed immeasurably to public confidence in picture entertainment, something that has been waning for some time.

Seldom have we seen a picture that combines all the elements of entertainment as this one does.

J. C. JENKINS
The Herald's Vagabond Colyumnist

SIGNED . . .

Columbia

Lottie Lee, designer, Roy Davidson, technical expert, and Fay Wray, player, given contracts. . . . Ward Bond, Dick Alexander, Louis Natheaux and Alf James added to "The Fighting Code." . . . Frank Albertson, Arthur Pierson and Jessie Ralph assigned to "Ann Carver's Profession." . . . Bryant Washburn, Edwin Maxwell, Gertrude Michael and Matt McHugh signed for "Night of Terror." . . . Mary Frey and George Meeker engaged for "He Lived to Kill." . . . Claire Dodd joins "Rules for Wives." . . . Diane Sinclair given role in "Grass Valley." . . . Bebe Daniels, Randolph Scott, Muriel Kirkland and Sidney Blackmer signed for "Cocktail Hour." . . .

▽

Fox

Lilian Harvey and Henry Garat in untitled picture. . . . Janet Gaynor given new contract. . . . Royer, fashion designer, engaged. . . . J. Farrell Macdonald and Helen Vinson added to "The Power and the Glory." . . . Raul Roulien, Edna May Oliver and Herbert Mundin join "It's Great to Be Alive." . . . Elissa Landi in "Dressmaker." . . . Leslie Howard and Heather Angel sign for "Berkeley Square." . . .

▽

MGM

May Robson, Lionel Barrymore, Jean Harlow, Mae Clarke, Frank Morgan, Jack Pearl, Lew Brown and Ray Henderson given contracts. . . . Edmund Goulding to direct "The Hollywood Revue of 1933." . . . Mervyn LeRoy to direct "Tugboat Annie." . . . Helen Hayes in "Night Flight." . . .

▽

Paramount

Harold Hurley named associate producer. . . . William Beaudine and Ralph Murphy given directorial contracts. . . . Mary MacLaren added to "International House." . . . Mary Carlisle, Mary Korman and Virginia Frayser join "College Humor." . . . Mary Astor, Donald Cook, Edward Arnold and Gilda Storm sign for "Jennie Gerhardt." . . . Edmund Lowe and Wynne Gibson engaged for "On Probation." . . .

▽

RKO Radio

Edgar Kennedy signed for six "Average Man" Comedies. . . . Kenneth Macgowan, associate producer, Mark Sandrich, director, and Harry Sweet, director-actor, given new contracts. . . . Frank Reicher in "Jamboree." . . . Hope Crews and Eric Linden added to "The Silver Cord." . . . Joel McCrea and Dorothy Jordan assigned to "Rafter Romance." . . . Dolores Del Rio and Joel McCrea in "Modesta." . . . Ann Harding assigned to "Prelude to Love." . . . Karen Morley signed for "Ad Man." . . . John Barrymore in "A Fugitive from Glory." . . .

▽

United Artists

Stuart Erwin and Jimmy Durante signed for "Joe Palooka." . . .

▽

Universal

Mabel Marden and Hugh Enfield given contracts. . . . Tom Tyler engaged for "Phantom of the Air." . . . Ken Maynard is signed for "King of the Arena." . . . Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts assigned to an untitled picture. . . .

▽

Warner-First National

"The Adopted Father" changed to "The Workingman." . . . William Powell and Jean Muir given contracts. . . . Helen Chandler signed for "Goodbye Again." . . . Ray McCarey and Harry Crosley, directors, and Al Woods, writer, join Brooklyn studio staff. . . . Picken Sisters, Scott Moore and Charles and Grace Herbert in "20,000 Cheers for the Chain Gang," Roy Mack directing. . . .

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

In this, the exhibitor's own department, the theatremen of the nation serve one another with information on the box office performance of product for their mutual benefit. It is a service of the exhibitor for the exhibitor. Address all communications to—

What the Picture Did for Me
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Allied

THE STOKER: Monte Blue—good picture and pleased those who came, but title no good as drawing card for small town patronage. Business off account hard times here. Running time, 70 minues.—Amuzu Theatre, Inman, S. C. Small town patronage.

Chesterfield

KING MURDER: Dorothy Revier, Don Alvarado—Another story down; who killed cock robin Lane. Looking in the right side of things this is a fair picture but the public is fed up on murder (figure it out) mysteries. The sooner the producers put out more dominant selling features the sooner business will begin its upward trend. Played Mar. 29-30. Running time, 67 minutes. Wm. Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

STRANGE PEOPLE: John Darrow, Gloria Shea—Good murder mystery capably directed so that drama suspense and surprising development occur. The film contrives to be interesting and amusing in parts. The mystery and suspense is gradually built up to keep the patrons' interest until the climax. Booking offices are overcrowded with this type of entertainment and it should be banned for a spell as it fails to arouse interest of the people. Played Mar. 27-28. Running time, 65 minutes.—Wm. Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

Columbia

AMERICAN MADNESS: Walter Huston—played this right in the midst of the bank holiday, so you can realize what the receipts were. An other time this would have been a wonderful picture, but in spite of the timeliness of the subject we drew less than average business. Played Mar. 13-14. Running time 76 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

CHILD OF MANHATTAN: Nancy Carroll, John Boles—Here's a Columbia picture with drawing power. Don't be afraid of it and give it your best playing time. It built up every day with us.—C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

THE FIGHTING FOOL: Tim McCoy—Fine Western. Columbia Westerns are good. They certainly fill the bill for a midweek program. Running time, 57 minutes.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

FIGHTING FOR JUSTICE: Tim McCoy, Joyce Compton—A very good Western. Gave good satisfaction to the Western fans.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

FORBIDDEN TRAIL: Barbara Weeks—A comedy western that will please all. C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

THE NIGHT MAYOR: Lee Tracy, Evalyn Knapp—Pleased a good crowd on bargain night. Running time, 72 minutes.Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

THE NIGHT MAYOR: Lee Tracy, Evalyn Knapp—Clever little picture that got by fairly well. Played Mar. 22-23.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

NO MORE ORCHIDS: Carole Lombard, Lyle Talbot—Very nice little picture. The gowns worn by Miss Lombard pleased the ladies. Running time, 74 minutes.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Wheeler & Woolsey—Where are we headed? If pictures like this one and "She Done Him Wrong" are to be what small town exhibitors are to offer their patrons in 1933 and 34 we might as well close up and quit now, for a few more like this one and we will lose our Sunday shows and have local censorship. These might be hot shows in the big towns but they mean nothing but trouble for us small town theatre owners. A few more like this one and we will have Federal censorship and even the mighty Hays office will not be able to block it. Unless you can get away with murder do not show this on Sunday. It's rotten. Played Mar. 28-29. Running time, 70 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

SPEED DEMON: William Collier, Jr., Joan Marsh. Dandy action picture. This is the type of picture my patrons want. They sure ate this one up. Running time, 65 minutes.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

STATE TROOPER: Regis Toomey, Evalyn Knapp—A great Saturday show. They will eat it up. C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

THE SUNDOWN RIDER: Buck Jones—Had many to tell me they thought it one of the best Westerns they ever saw. There certainly is something doing every minute. Drew average business. Played Mar. 29-30.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

THAT'S MY BOY: Richard Cromwell, Dorothy Jordan—As fine a picture as you could wish for and Columbia sells their product at a price the exhibitor can pay. Drew good. Running time, 71 minutes.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

VANITY STREET: Charles Bickford, Helen Chandler—Average program picture that pleased about 50%. Very good acting, but not up to Columbia's average. Played Mar. 8-9. Running time, 67 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

First National

FRISCO JENNY: Ruth Chatterton—The best Chatterton picture since "Madame X." The story covers the time before the San Francisco earthquake up to the present, with some thrilling scenes of the great catastrophe. It's dramatic, but not overdone and builds up to an ending that will bring forth the handkerchiefs, and plenty of raves for this star's brilliant performance. Business above average. Not for the children. Played Mar. 15-16. Running time, 76 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

THE MIND READER: Warren William, Constance Cummings—Psychic faker exposed. Chandra, the mind reader, is brilliantly characterized by Warren William, who rises another step towards the top of his dramatic career. Attractive and capable Constance Cummings serves well in the romantic termination with Allen Jenkins and others in fine support. This picture teaches an inspiring and effective lesson to people who have acquired the habit of visiting fortune tellers and is also satisfying entertainment at the same time. Credit due to First National for a good deed and a good picture. Will please all comers. Played Apr. 3-4-5. Running time, 70 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

SILVER DOLLAR: Edward G. Robinson—Really there was nothing much to this one unless one was familiar with the Tabor mess in Colorado. They would give this one the go-by. Poorly acted and nothing to entertain the masses. Many walked out. This with a little pains could have been made into a good audience picture, one that would please.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

THREE ON A MATCH: Warren William, Joan Blondell. A very entertaining picture, splendid cast and a good story. Gave good satisfaction here. Played Mar. 21-22.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

THREE ON A MATCH: Joan Blondell, Warren William, Bette Davis—Another surprise picture from First National, the kind that sends the patrons out satisfied, which is a lot more than can be said of some of the so called "specials." Entertaining story, splendid acting by a cast that features big names, this pulled above average and pleased. You can stand in the lobby and bid your patrons "good night" when you play this one. Played Mar. 22-23. Running time, 64 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

Fox

FACE IN THE SKY: Marion Nixon, Spencer Tracy—This cute and very satisfactory little picture didn't show to nearly as many people as it should have. Played Mar. 26-27.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore.—Small town patronage.

THE FIRST YEAR: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell—A nice picture, liked by all who saw it. Played Mar. 2-3-4. Running time, 80 minutes.—Beatty & Johnston, Crescent Theatre, Red Deer, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

ME AND MY GAL: Joan Bennett, Spencer Tracy—This is a good picture for the masses and with one exception the wise-cracks were all in fun and clean. One scene. where he lays on the couch with Joan and speaks his thoughts, was raw when he says: "I guess I'll pull the lights out and give her the works." The house roared, evidently they liked it. Played Mar. 28-29-30.—C. V. Martina, Playhouse Theatre, Clyde, N. Y. Small town patronage.

ME AND MY GAL: Spencer Tracy, Joan Bennett—A rough and ready comedy drama that has its moments, and at times seems to show promise of getting somewhere but never reaches there, and when it's all over you have the feeling that it was just another little program picture with detectives and bad bank robbers all mixed up with the wise cracks of Tracy and Bennett. We ran it on Sunday and Monday and were sorry, as it drew very poor on these days. Played Mar. 26-27. Running time, 78 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

ROBBERS' ROOST: George O'Brien, Maureen O'Sullivan—A good action Western that Fox charged us four times the regular rental of a Western for, and it drew only what any cheap Western would have brought in. It has come to the place now where a Western is a Western and they do not care much who plays it. This one is above the average in everything except box office drawing power. Played Mr. 25. Running time, 60 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

SECOND HAND WIFE: Sally Eilers, Ralph Bellamy—Well made picture from Kathleen Norris' novel. Drew a little extra business. Played Mar. 24-25.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

SECOND HAND WIFE: Sally Eilers, Ralph Bellany—A fair programmer. This picture was put on with a 2 for 1 coupon in news ads and therefore we got more than film rental in the middle of the week. Played Mar. 21-22-23.—C. V. Martina, Playhouse Theatre, Clyde, N. Y. Small town patronage.

TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell—Not the type of story popular with our patrons and this team fails to draw for us any longer, so between the two, we did a very poor business. However, if your patrons enjoy "goody goody" drama, then you should do business with this, for it is that type of story. Good, clean, family entertainment, but too old fashioned for our patrons, who thought it rather funny and treated it accordingly. Played Mar. 12-13-14. Running time, 75 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

TOO BUSY TO WORK: Will Rogers—Oh gee why can't we have one picture a week like this one? I enjoyed it. It pleased everyone, and drew a good deal over average business. Not Rogers' best, but better by far than the average program picture, by a great majority. Played Mr. 27-28. Running time, 78 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

WILD GIRL: Charles Farrell, Joan Bennett, Ralph Bellamy—Very good. Drew better than average.—J. M. Ensor, Crescent Theatre, Little Rock, Ark. General patronage.

Headline

A PRIVATE SCANDAL: Lloyd Hughes, Marian Nixon—A very good entertaining picture.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

Majestic

OUTLAW JUSTICE: Jack Hoxie, Dorothy Gulliver—Ordinary western material with its usual array of riding, fighting, shooting and stealing. Hoxie is getting old but still remembered by enough western fans to produce a sizable audience. Gulliver sadly miscast in this one. Too many westerns produced on the same location with the same background from house to barn and a change of scenery would do justice. Played Mar. 31-Apr. 1. Running time, 55 minutes.—William Dahb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

THE PHANTOM EXPRESS: Sally Blane, William Collier, Jr.—A railroad melodrama with a moderate amount of laughs and thrills. Fine performances rendered by Farrell Macdonald, Sally Blane, William Collier, Jr., and Hobart Bosworth, who fit their individual roles to perfection. This undoubtedly is the best independent action picture to date. The only criticism on this as usual is bad sound. Good end of week program. Played Mar. 22-23. Running time, 64 minutes.—Wm. Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

Mayfair

HER MAD NIGHT: Irene Rich—First Mayfair we have used. If balance is as good as this one we want them all. Exhibitor can't go wrong to book "Her Mad Night." Played Apr. 2-3-4. Running time, 67 minutes.—J. M. Ensor, Crescent Theatre, Little Rock, Ark. General patronage.

MGM

HUDDLE: Ramon Novarro, Madge Evans—This picture was substituted for us in place of "Fu Manchu" and it turned out to be a wise move. It is better to run a good old picture than a rotten new one. My experience in this case proved knockout. Henry Armetta was a scream in this. Business very good. Played Mar. 3-4.—C. V. Martina, Playhouse Theatre, Clyde, N. Y. Small town patronage.

KONGO: Walter Huston—People don't want to pay their good money to see such trash. I myself was disgusted with the picture. It is too gruesome to be put before the public's eyes. What has happened to our censor boards, to allow such as this to go through? It drew average business, but all who saw it were disappointed. Played Mar. 17-18. Running time, 86 minutes.—Edward Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

PAYMENT DEFERRED: Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Sullivan—This picture gave about 50% satisfaction. Great acting by the whole cast but something about the story did not draw or please them all.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

SMILIN' THROUGH: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Leslie Howard—A beautiful picture that pleased about 100%. Good for any day or town. Played Mar. 13-14-15. Running time, 100 minutes.—Beatty & Johnston, Crescent Theatre, Red Deer, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

SMILIN' THROUGH: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Leslie Howard—One of the finest pictures ever produced. It will do any house good to play it. Just restores confidence and makes them say: well, it was a good one. A big story with a big thought and real acting. Don't miss it, brother. Maybe never another one as good for years.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

Paramount

THE BIG BROADCAST: Stuart Erwin, Bing Crosby—An excellent picture for small town patronage. This drew extra business, and can be exploited to the limit. Very weak story, but the radio stars are all that the customers want to see anyway. Played Feb. 27-28. Running time, 80 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

CRIME OF THE CENTURY: Jean Hersholt, Frances Dee—Entertaining mystery drama with some new angles. Free of sex. Pleased. Played Mar. 26-27.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

THE DEVIL IS DRIVING: Edmund Lowe, Wynne Gibson—Excellent. Played during a bad streak of weather so had a poor crowd, but it's a good picture and should do business. Running time, 70 minutes. —Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

THE DEVIL IS DRIVING: Edmund Lowe, Wynne Gibson—Good title, good picture and drew better than average. Makes a splendid Saturday picture and is different from usual run. Lowe is quite a favorite here, and he is very, very good in this. Played Apr. 1. Running time, 70 minutes.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

EVENINGS FOR SALE: Herbert Marshall, Sari Maritza, Charles Ruggles—Drew a big business. Very good picture. Running time, 65 minutes.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

A FAREWELL TO ARMS: Helen Hayes, Gary Cooper—A very good production but did not do business. Do not think good for small town. Played Mar. 16-17-18. Running time, 80 minutes.—Beatty & Johnston, Crescent Theatre, Red Deer, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

GUILTY AS HELL: Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen—Played on Saturday and just enough action to please the small town patronage. I wish we would have more of this type of picture, and less of the sob stuff. Played Mar. 10-11. Running time, 80 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

HE LEARNED ABOUT WOMEN: Stuart Erwin, Allison Skipworth—Good comedy. Stuart Erwin is well liked. Result a good business. Running time, 70 minutes.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

HORSE FEATHERS: Marx Brothers—It was the first time these stars had ever been here. We had a lot of curious customers, and all were pleased. The entire picture was nonsense, but who cares? That is what people need and want. Drew average business and pleased nearly 100%. Played Mar. 20-21. Running time, 68 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

IF I HAD A MILLION: All star—Entertaining, well made drama that pleased. Paramount used a host of their best stars in this episodic story. Played Mar. 31.-Apr. 1.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

IF I HAD A MILLION: All star—Here's tragedy, heart appeal, drama and comedy all wrapped up in a nifty package and stamped "entertainment." A picture that is certainly different, so different that inferior direction might easily have ruined it. As it is, it turned out to be a production that presents its varied stories smoothly, with splendid contrasts. Pulled far above average for us and pleased nearly everyone. Played Mar. 17-18. Running time, 86 minutess.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

ISLAND OF LOST SOULS: Charles Laughton, Richard Arlen—One of the weirdest pictures I ever presented. Did not draw as well as it should have but seemed to please the ones that came. Running time, 70 minutes. Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

KING OF THE JUNGLE: Frances Dee, Buster Crabbe—An excellent picture that should get money. —C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

MADAME BUTTERFLY: Sylvia Sidney, Cary Grant—Fair picture. Did not do the business. Chinese pictures do not go for me and this one was no exception. Running time, 88 minutes.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

MYSTERIOUS RIDER: Kent Taylor—This is the best western picture I have ever seen. Many of my regular patrons who saw it and who don't usually care for western pictures, backed me up on the statement. The story, acting and photography is fine. Here's hoping that Paramount can get out of the banks, and give us more of the better class picture. Played Mar. 22-23. Running time, 70 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

BACK ON THE PORCH AWAITING THE HERALD

R. W. Hickman of the Lyric Theatre at Greenville, Ill., has brought his old rocking chair out on the veranda again, now that "What the Picture Did for Me" has returned. Says R. W.:

"I have always considered the Motion Picture Herald the greatest publication of them all, but after you discontinued "What the Picture Did for Me" department a few years back, I sorter lost interest in it, that is, I quit sitting out on the front porch waiting for each issue to be delivered. However, since that is now all past, I want to congratulate you for re-establishing this department again.

"I have already recognized many familiar names from reports already sent in by exhibitors throughout the country, especially those from Joe Hewitt, Robinson, Ill., and my old friend Steve Farrar at Harrisburg, Ill. You can always bank on reports from those two exhibitors as perfectly reliable.

"Hoping the exhibitors will take advantage of this new department of the Herald by sending in correct reports, and with best wishes for your continued success."

NO MAN OF HER OWN: Clark Gable, Carole Lombard—This one has nearly everything to spell entertainment, yet with all that it is not a big picture, and certainly not a "Special." The story will appeal to women more than to men and if Gable is particularly well liked by your women patrons, his work will please. Lombard and Mackaill do well with their roles and the whole production is typical of Paramount's careful attention to sets, sound and lighting. Business poor. Played Mar. 29-30. Running time, 80 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

NO MAN OF HER OWN: Clark Gable, Carole Lombard—A woman's picture. They all turned out to see Clark as usual. It really has some pulling power and pleases as well.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

THE PHANTOM PRESIDENT: George M. Cohan, Claudette Colbert—Musical comedy extravaganza type that was extremely well done. Played Mar. 6-7.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

TROUBLE IN PARADISE: Miriam Hopkins, Herbert Marshall, Kay Francis—Starting out with a gondolier's song in Venice and ending up in "gay Paree" we think this is one of Paramount's best. It has some tuneful music, clever situations, smart dialogue, beautiful clothes, delightful comedy and superb acting. It is mainly a woman's picture and our matinee proved the best we've had this year. Played Feb. 13-14. Running time, 73 minutes.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

UNDER COVER MAN: George Raft, Nancy Carroll—An excellent picture but for some reason or other did no business.—C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

UNDER COVER MAN: George Raft, Nancy Carroll—When George Raft and Lew Cody are in a picture one can expect some tense moments and one will not be disappointed in this picture. It makes a good Saturday night picture. We cannot judge its real drawing power on account of present banking conditions. Played Mar. 3-4. Running time, 74 minutes.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

WILD HORSE MESA: Randolph Scott—Typical Zane Grey story, nicely produced. Pictures of this type are not popular with our patrons, but on a double bill, this got by better than usual. Played Mar. 22-23. Running time, 60 minutes. M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

RKO

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding, Leslie Howard—Opinions of all kinds on this picture. Not nearly so popular as we had hoped and didn't draw much. Played Mar. 28-29-30.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ode. Small town patronage.

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Leslie Howard, Ann Harding—This picture is too talkative and sophisticated for the general public in small communities. Played Feb. 28-Mar. 1-2.—C. V. Martina, Playhouse Theatre, Clyde, N. Y. Small town patronage.

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding, Leslie Howard—How this production will go over for you will depend on what type of patrons make up your audiences. If they must have a picture that is very obvious in dialogue, action and story, then this will fall short of their idea of entertainment. However, if they like to exercise their imagination in surmising the situations, appreciate dialogue that is packed with meaning and necessitates close listening to catch, characters that are commonly unknown to the average patron and a type of acting necessary to play such characters that is far removed from ordinary screen work, then you can offer this and be sure it will please. In our case, our patrons were loud in their praises for this picture and business was far above average. Did not please all, but the greater part were satisfied. Played Mar. 19-20-21. Running time, 86 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

GHOST VALLEY: Tom Keene—Drew good and pleased.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

GIRL CRAZY: Wheeler and Woolsey—A little late in playing this one but take it from me, it's a whizz. Best comedy this popular team ever made. Simply a riot of laughs. A poor stick indeed that wouldn't enjoy this one. Every character perfect? We thought so.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

THE HALF NAKED TRUTH: Lee Tracy, Lupe Velez—Drew above average crowd. Some of the men saw it twice. Favorable comments. Played Mar. 21-22-23.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

THE HALF NAKED TRUTH: Lee Tracy, Lupe Velez—Tracy is just about the whole show. This is not a big picture, but it is above the program class and the Tracy fans (and who isn't) will like it. There are plenty of laughs, some good singing and dancing by Velez and a clever bit toward the end, where every sound from a riveter's hammer to a squeaky chair has its counterpart in some familiar carnival music or noise. Business below average. Played Mar. 26-27-28. Running time, 78 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

MEN OF AMERICA: Chic Sale, Bill Boyd—A

Western gangster mixup that does not please the Western fans. We had plenty of kicks on this one, and it drew very poor business. If RKO don't hurry up and give us "King Kong" or some other box office attraction we are going to go broke trying to run their weak attractions. We have not had a box office picture from RKO this year. Have had several good pictures but they were not box office. Someone had better get busy on the RKO lot and give us what we expected when we signed up. Played Mar. 24. Running time, 70 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

THE PENGUIN POOL MURDER: Edna May Oliver, James Gleason—One swell comedy-mystery picture. Will keep your patrons guessing right up to the last minute, and laughing most of the time at Miss Oliver and Jimmy Gleason, as they seek to unravel the murder mystery. Settings in aquarium maintain the spooky atmosphere, which is never overdone. O. K. for kids. Business average. Played Mar. 24-25. Running time, 69 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

THE SPORT PARADE: Joel McCrea—Entertaining picture of the program class. Moves fast and holds interest. Obvious use of newsreel shots in several sequences noted. O. K. for the kids. Played Mar. 18 (midnight). Running time, 65 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

THIRTEEN WOMEN: Ricardo Cortez, Irene Dunne—Unusual story, too unpleasant to make this picture very entertaining. Those who have read Tiffany Thayer's book will know what to expect and be prepared. Others with strong nerves will stay to the last fade-out, but there will be plenty who will walk out on it. Played Mar. 24. Running time, 73 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

TOPAZE: John Barrymore, Myrna Loy—Well produced drama that pleased. Barrymore's work splendid. Not much for kids, although nothing objectionable. Played Apr. 2-3.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

United Artists

WHITE ZOMBIE: Bela Lugosi—After reading what other exhibitors said about it, I was skeptical, so I wrote my ad as follows: "Should we or should we not show "White Zombie" with Bela Lugosi? We were advised not to. You be the judge after seeing it. Today at the Crescent Theatre," etc. Good picture of its kind. Drew well. Played Mar. 19-20-21.—J. M. Ensor, Crescent Theatre, Little Rock, Ark. General patronage.

Universal

BACK STREET: Irene Dunne, John Boles—A good cast and a good picture but no business. Patrons said too depressing. Played Mar. 23-24-25. Running time, 84 minutes.—Beatty & Johnston, Crescent Theatre, Red Deer, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

BACK STREET: Irene Dunne, John Boles—Any exhibitor who has passed this up is cheating his patrons out of something really good. It is a picture that people tell their friends about. Played Mar. 20-21.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

DESTINATION UNKNOWN: Ralph Bellamy, Pat O'Brien—No one seemed to care for this one. Most seemed not to know what it was all about. Business didn't decrease much, however. Played Mar. 24-25.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

FLAMING GUNS: Tom Mix, Ruth Hall—Good Western picture material from story by Peter B. Kyne with necessary action, laugh and thrills. Some of the scenes were made in cattle country in the vicinity of Mt. Whitney. Heading the cast and handling the romantic side of the story are Tom Mix and Ruth Hall while William Farnum takes the decidedly funny side with a nice performance. Entertainment for the oldster who still likes Westerns. Played Mar. 24-25. Running time, 55 minutes.—Wm. Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

LAUGHTER IN HELL: Pat O'Brien, Gloria Stuart—A prison horror picture. The acting fine, story favorable. Some liked it, others walked out on it, and there you are.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

THE MUMMY: Boris Karloff, Zita Johann—We put this on a Fri.-Sat. with a Western and it seemed to please that way. However, I do not believe that it would have stood up well on a single feature bill. Played Mar. 24-25.—C. V. Martina, Playhouse Theatre, Clyde, N. Y. Small town patronage.

NAGANA: Tala Birell, Melvyn Douglas—This is a good picture of the kind but did not draw as the people are fed up on animal and flower pictures. They want to laugh once more. Played Mar. 26-27.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

NAGANA: Tala Birell, Melvyn Douglas—A great big lot of entertainment. Different from ordinary stories. Should go over in most any theatre.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

GET YOU BUSY, SAYS THATCHER

William Thatcher of the Royal theatre at Salina, Kan., has a good thought which we're happy to pass along. Here's his suggestion:

"We are playing some pictures that we never see a report on. Wish you would get some of the exhibitors busy and get them to report in 'What the Picture Did for Me.'

"On all the good and big pictures we get the reports. But on a lot of others ones we never see a report. Tell them to do their stuff.

"More of you exhibitors get busy and send in reports. Do it now."

There's a regular appeal from a regular exhibitor. Now if we should tell you at this moment the actual number of reports that have been printed since the Department went into action, you'd be agreeably surprised. But that doesn't alter the fact that Bill Thatcher is dead to rights when he urges a larger number of reports from a larger number of exhibitors. The Department is showing a healthful growth, entirely under its own steam, and it will continue to be the exhibitors' own. So when a faithful like Thatcher comes to bat with such a challenge, we pass it on to all you readers.

THE OLD DARK HOUSE: Boris Karloff—It would be just another horror picture if your patrons are fed up on that type. We had had very few so this went over very well. Each and every character in it does an excellent piece of acting and it is intensely interesting. Played Mar. 27-28.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

Warner

HARD TO HANDLE: James Cagney—This picture seemed to please fairly well. Played Mar. 26-27.—C. V. Martina, Playhouse Theatre, Clyde, N. Y. Small town patronage.

World Wide

THE CROOKED CIRCLE: Ben Lyon, Irene Purcell—A very good Saturday show.—C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

DYNAMITE RANCH: Ken Maynard—This is an excellent Saturday night, above the average Western. A fake train robbery that turns out to be the real thing gives it an auspicious start. A modern story set around a millionaire's beautiful ranch house, a costume ball, an exciting race all go to make it extra good. Drew fair. Played Mar. 24-25.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

THE MAN CALLED BACK: Doris Kenyon, Conrad Nagel—A slow-moving but interesting story laid in a South Sea Island and in England. Well produced and well acted but had no drawing power.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

WHISTLIN' DAN: Ken Maynard—The kids simply went wild over this one. I've never heard nor seen them enjoy a Ken Maynard more than they did this one. The Western-liking grown-ups also thought it good. Joy Zellis' dancing made a colorful bit.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky. Small town patronage.

Short Features

Columbia

BLUE RHYTHM: Mickey Mouse cartoon—Some of the "hottest" music I have ever heard for many a day. How that mouse can play "The St. Louis Blues" on the clarinet, just like Ted Lewis. Running time, 7 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

SHAVE IT WITH MUSIC: Lambs Gambol—Fred Stone walks away with the show. Swell music and some mighty good comedy. Running time, 18 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

SNOW TIME: Silly Symphonies cartoon—A Silly Symphonic reissue that will stand up with any of these.—C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

Educational

TORCHY RAISES AUNTIE: Ray Cooke—A very good comedy. That Ray Cooke always puts out good rib-ticklers. Some very good music in it too. Running time, 20 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

MGM

THE GOAL RUSH: Flip the Frog cartoon—An average cartoon. Running time, 7 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

HOLLYWOOD PREMIERE: Musical Revue—Very pretty. Two reel colored subject. Lot of good acting in this. Some not so good.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

HOT SPOT: Taxi Boys—Punk. That slim guy gives one the jitters.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

OVER THE COUNTER: The best revue I have shown. Good color, good recording and everything about it is good. When you play it step on the advertising as it will not disappoint you or the customers. Running time, 17 minutes.—W. T. Bigges, Adair Theatre, Adair, Iowa. General patronage.

OVER THE COUNTER: Beautiful color, dancing, singing, but plenty of unnecessary scenes that are really vulgar. Two little kids put on a dance that is fine.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

SCRAM: Laurel and Hardy—Up to the average for this team, but their gags are getting tiresome. Most of the laughs in this one are packed in the last five minutes and they're rough, but funny. Running time, 21 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

SEA SPIDERS: Oddity Series—Splendid reel showing the hazards of pearl diving in the South Seas. Beautiful photography and thrilling incidents.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

THEIR FIRST MISTAKE: Laurel & Hardy—Just fair. Too much ths same old thing in these comedies.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

WHAT PRICE TAXI: A new comedy team in an offering that is only fair. Running time, 18 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

WHAT PRICE TAXI: Taxi Boys—Oh boy! this one was a scream. First comedy in a long time and comedies are scarce. We have too many pathetic comedies. Better by far no comedy than unfunny affair.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

YOUNG IRONSIDES: Charley Chase—Just another Chase comedy that is only fairly funny. Running time, 19 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

Paramount

AIN'T SHE SWEET: Lillian Roth—Cartoon and song reel combined. Good. Running time, 8 minutes.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

BETTY BOOP, M. D.: Betty Boop cartoon—Very cleverly done. Running time, 7 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

BIZZY BEE: Betty Boop carttoon—Entertaining cartoon.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

BREAKING EVEN: Tom Howard—What a silly one this was. Anyway it was enjoyed by all. Running time, 8 minutes.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

COURTING TROUBLE: Charles Murray—Good old fashioned slapstick that goes good on Saturday night. Charlie Murray paroled in his mother-in-law's charge provokes gales of fun. Running time, 2 reels.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

DINAH: Mills Brothers—Excellent screen song. Paramount really has the best one reelers. One reel.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

DINAH: Mills Brothers—Excellent. You can feature this short.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

EASY ON THE EYES: Nora Lane—Good slapstick. Running time, 18 minutes.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

HOLLYWOOD ON PARADE No. 2: Lord only knows—I could find better usage for film than Paramount did when they made a thing like this. I was told that this was the best of the series. If so I don't want to see the balance. There is absolutely nothing to it. Buy it and give it to your mother-in-law for Christmas. Running time, too long.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

HOLLYWOOD ON PARADE No. 5: The poorest of this series thus far. We had several unfavorable comments on this one especially, and we intend to shelve the balance of them. Running time, 10 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

HOLLYWOOD ON PARADE No. 8: Excellent one-reeler.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

IS MY PALM READ: Betty Boop cartoon—A very clever Boop above the average.—C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

MUSICAL DOCTOR: Rudy Vallee—Just another musical short, not bad, not so good. Running time, 10 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

RHAPSODY IN BLACK AND BLUE: Louis Armstrong and Band—Unique presentation of a band that features hot music. Running time, 10 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

ROMANTIC MELODIES: Arthur Tracy—A very clever song cartoon with a well known radio star. Running time, 9 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

THE SINGING BOXER: Donald Novis—This boy Novis may not be much of an actor, but when he sings, that is something else again. Our patrons like these and tell us so. Running time, 19 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

THE SINGING BOXER: Donald Novis—The Singing is divine, the comedy is terrible. This star has not had a decent presentation of his songs yet, in our estimation. Running time, 2 reels.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

THE SINGING PLUMBER: Donald Novis—A very good slapstick and musical comedy combined. This Donald Novis can sure sing. Three good songs in this one. Running time, 18 minutes.—W. T. Bigges, Adair Theatre, Adair, Iowa. General patronage.

STUFF ON THE BALL: Sport reel—Above average for this type of short. Diversified and interesting. Running time, 10 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

WHEN IT'S SLEEPY TIME DOWN SOUTH: Boswell Sisters—We had the good luck to play this reel at the same time these stars were making a personal appearance in Louisville. Comments on this reel were most favorable. Running time, 1 reel.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

RKO

FIREHOUSE HONEYMOON: Harry Sweet — Terrible. Our first Sweet comedy (?) and heaven help us when we have to play the others.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

THE GOLF CHUMP: Edgar Kennedy—A good capable star with many good ones to his credit, but this is not one of them. Better for Eddie had he gone fishing. A few like this one and Old Timer will be through. Not even a giggle in it for my bunch.—Ned Pedigo, De Luxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

HOCUS FOCUS: Clark and McCullough—Another great comedy from Clark and McCullough. Give this preferred booking.—C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

LOOPS, MY DEAR: Harry Sweet—A good slapstick two-reel comedy for Saturday night.—C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa. General patronage.

RED SKIN BLUES: Tom and Jerry cartoon—Good on any program.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

SO THIS IS HARRIS: A very good comedy, a three-reeler. Made quite a hit here.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

SO THIS IS HARRIS: Walter Catlett, June Brewster—This is just a fair musical comedy. Phil Harris means nothing to the people of my town and do not think RKO were justified in selling this as a three-reel special as it is not as good as some of their regular two-reelers like "Heave Two" and "Private Wives." Do not boost this one as a special. Running time, 28 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

VENICE VAMP: Aesops Fable—Good. RKO's one reelers all have wonderful music. One reel.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

United Artists

MICKEY'S PAL PLUTO: Mickey Mouse—A very funny cartoon, but they all are good.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

Universal

BUTCHER BOY: Pooch cartoon—Very good. Running time, 7 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

FAMILY TROUBLE: Good two-reel comedy.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

FAMILY TROUBLE: Henry Armetta—A comedy such as we used to get in the good old days of slapstick wild chases, and knock 'em out action. Our audiences howled, which is something they very seldom do. Running time, 20 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

FINISHING TOUCH: Skeets Gallagher—Lots of laughter indicated my audience enjoyed this slapstick comedy. Running time, 2 reels.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

HESITATING LOVE: Louise Fazenda—It's common, it's coarse, it's vulgar, it's rowdy and yet I can't remember hearing my matinee crowd laugh louder or longer. Running time, 2 reels.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminenc, Ky.

JUNGLE MYSTERY: Tom Tyler—Grew tiresome along about 10th reel, there was so much repetition. However, it held up fairly well.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

ROCKABYE COWBOY: James Gleason—Good for plenty of laughs. Three cowboys, trying to play nurse maids to a baby, furnish a lot of fun. Running time, 20 minutes.—M. R. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

ROCKABYE COWBOY: James Gleason—One very funny comedy. The best we have had for some time.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—NO. 24: Up to the high average of the others in this series. Running time, 10 minutes.—M. D. Harrington, State Theatre, Portland, Ore. General patronage.

Warner Vitaphone

BUZZIN' AROUND: Don't miss this great Arbuckle comedy. Good enough for any day. New stuff and clean. Will bring any house down.—Charles Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

KING SALMON: A fine single reel of salmon fishing. Educational and pleased all.—Charles Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

THE MEAL TICKET: Jack Pearl—This was sold as a special and for extra money. It did not draw and did not please. Too hard to understand. Running time, 18 minutes.—W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kan. Small town patronage.

MODERN CINDERELLA: Too long reels and about five minutes entertainment. Too much padding and stalling. No.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

NOTRE DAME VS. SO. CALIFORNIA: Football game—A great four-reel subject on football.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. General patronage.

PASSING THE BUCK: Broadway Brevities—Without a doubt the finest short subject this theatre ever played. Running time, 18 minutes.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

RADIO ROW NO. 3: Pepper Pot—Excellent short. Well staged.—C. L. Niles, Grand Theatre, Anamosa, Iowa. General patronage.

Serials

Universal

CLANCY OF THE MOUNTED: Tom Tyler, Jaqueline Wells—If you play serials, don't miss this one. Splendid story that holds attention. Wonderful photography. The best chapter play for many moons. It fills my show two days a week with real people, too.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

LOST SPECIAL: Frank Albertson, Ernie Nevers—Who said that the day of serials was gone? That is not so in this town, as they eat them up. I have been running them for six months and the business picked up about 50 per cent the first week, and has held almost steady throughout. Very good. Twelve chapters. Twenty minutes each.—Edward L. Ornstein, Vernon Theatre, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Small town patronage.

IN THE NEWS . . .

LOU SNITZER, formerly with RKO, is president of the new Northern Film Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York, which has acquired the picture, "The Seventh Commandment." CHARLES SCHWERIN has been named sales manager.

A TRAILER, "The Fighting President," has been released by National Screen Service, with an appeal for continued public confidence and cooperation with Washington.

BEN CAMMACK has returned from Universal to Warner Bros. as St. Louis branch manager. . . .

PHIL DUNAS has been named to succeed W. W. BRUMBERG, resigned, as Columbia's Chicago manager. . . .

JACK DRUM has succeeded GEORGE CALDARAS as Allied Pictures' exchange manager at Los Angeles. . . .

THE FRIARS' old and new members, all recalled the days of the '90's with a "Memory Lane Night," April 8. . . .

SAM ECKMAN, JR., managing director in England for MGM, has been elected president of Kinematograph Renters Society in London for the third time. . . .

SIDNEY ALGIER, production manager of Allied Pictures at Hollywood, has resigned. . . .

ANDRE ROOSEVELT, explorer, and Margaret Bourke-White, photographer, have been named to the board of Aeolian Pictures, whose first picture is titled "Hell on Earth." . . .

CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S book, "A Comedian Sees the World," has been delivered to Woman's Home Companion, to appear serially starting with the August issue. . . .

TORQUAY CORPORATION'S petition for an injunction to restrain distribution of $7,500,000 of RCA stock, under consent decree with the Government, was dismissed last week by Judge John P. Nields, at Wilmington, Del., as was a supplemental petition for leave to intervene. . . .

RADIO CITY NEWS is the new house organ to be mailed to patrons of RKO Music Hall and RKO Roxy, and edited by P. L. TRUSSELL, editor of Now. . . .

MITCHELL LEICHTER, representing HARMAN-ISING PRODUCTIONS, LTD., producers of "Looney Tunes" and "Merrie Melodies," has opened temporary offices at the Hotel Astor, New York, and is also negotiating for a third series of 13 cartoons, "Harmonizing Melodies." . . .

WINFIELD SHEEHAN, vice-president in charge of Fox Film production, is to leave Hollywood June 1 for an eight-weeks trip to Europe. . . .

VITAPHONE reopened its Brooklyn studio last week. . . .

ISADORE BERNSTEIN, one-time general manager of Universal City, has obtained a state permit in California to organize a cooperation unit for production of his original story, "Mine Is the Blame." As author and supervisor Mr. Bernstein is to receive 8 per cent of intake, a similar amount going to LOIS WEBER as director. . . .

F. L. STOCKER, Columbia Oklahoma City salesman, has been named manager of that office, succeeding Sam Benjamin, resigned. . . .

LEWIS B. JONES, James S. Watson, George W. Todd and Thomas J. Hargraves have been re-elected to the board of directors of Eastman Kodak. . . .

JOHN ARNOLD, MGM cameraman, has been re-elected president of the American Society of Cinematographers for the third consecutive year. . . .

Miss LeBreton Has Own Unit

Flora LeBreton, motion picture and stage player, has organized an independent production company. She has commenced work on a series of six one-reel comedy-novelties, working at the Fox Movietone studio in New York.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

SHOW BUSINESS — — "AS MUCH AS EVER"

By FLOYD BELL

Publicity Director, Boston "Met"

There is emphatically showbusiness today just as much as ever there was, but the public has grown discriminating. Today it's a question of which show shall be selected, and it better be good.

Sure they cost more.

If one may be pardoned reference to things most familiar, may we cite the Metropolitan theatre in Boston. As most of the readers know, the Sunday situation in Massachusetts is a difficult one. Sunday shows, as a result of old time "blue laws," were not up to standard. Along came a live-wire manager—one Hy Fine, managing director of the Metropolitan—who immediately put into effect a new policy by adding "name" attractions. But they also brought more business.

Too often managers are inclined to use the stereotyped forms of advertising. The "press books" issued by the various companies are invaluable. They represent the brains and work of many minds. Without them most of us would be definitely sunk. But any good thing can be overdone. It was never intended that the press book should take the place of effort on the part of individual managers. The lazy manager or the lazier press agent can use the ads, even the mats, furnished and get away with it. But the man who is actually alive to his job, who is anxious to devise ways and means of bringing increased business into his theatre will attempt to inject new ideas into his advertising. Local conditions vary. The advertising which might thoroughly sell a picture in Chicago might be a dismal failure in Boston or Philadelphia. The same is true in smaller communities and the man who adheres closely to the stereotyped advertising is bound to feel the ill effects of it sooner or later.

Just a little touch here and there, a careful analysis which adds just the right kind of selling copy to an advertisement, may mean success or failure, from a box office standpoint, of a week's program. Personally we are firm believers in emphatic, even at times sensational, but never suggestive advertising.

To us the most futile thing in the world is to attempt to reduce expenses and therefore make money by reducing advertising in the so-called "slump periods." If a merchant, a progressive one, found his business slipping, he would not by reason of that fact decrease his advertising expenditures. On the other hand, he probably would call his department heads and tell them to "go after business stronger than ever."

Perhaps we have grown too accustomed to saying "summer slump," "Holy Week slump," "before-Christmas slump" and so on ad infinitum. Perhaps one of the real reasons for these slump periods lies in the fact that the way of least resistance has encouraged us to accept these as definite and uncontrollable conditions which cannot be overcome.

We believe that the smart manager is the one who builds up a bigger and better show for these periods and who goes out after business in a more organized and more emphatic way during those same periods. Try a new plan—try advertising a bit harder and a bit more concentrated. Make every dime count, but on the other hand do not cut down on space, abandon billing, and just sit back and say to yourself "Oh, what's the use." The public wants to go to places. It's looking for the places where the most entertainment is to be found.

"The picture's the thing"—that is true. It always will be. That is what most of us have to sell. But in admitting this fact do not overlook your "front show." A good picture can be entirely spoiled and its selling powers lost by a lackadaiscal "I don't care" attitude in building up the remainder of your program. We do not care how small your house may be, there is opportunity for something

(Continued on following page, column 3)

Saluting The Guest Editor

Theatre men are appreciative of the fact that behind the plan of a "Guest Editor" page is something far more fundamental than a novelty—the widening of the service. Behind this week's article by Floyd Bell is a background of practical showmanship, "big top" and newspaper.

Express yourself on this or any other page of the Club section. Additional guest editors signed this week include:

L. W. CARROLL, Burlington, Vt.

I. HIRSHBLOND, Toms River, N. J.

L. J. LUDWIG, Minneapolis, Minn.

DAVE LUSTIG, New York City, N. Y.

L. W. ORLOVE, Milwaukee, Wis.

H. E. WILTON, Hamilton, Ont., Can.

IT'S SMART TO BE CRAZY!

London Went "Nuts" and Now New York Is Trying Out the Idea; Let's All Get That Way!

IT started at the Palladium Theatre in London, crept over to Birmingham, England, where it scored another tremendous hit, and then came across the Atlantic and bit New York City. What? Why "Crazy Week," to be sure! It's a "nut" show, a mixture of topsy-turvy roughhouse, with most everything as it shouldn't be. According to reports the stunt went over just as big at the New York Paramount as it did in England.

Since our English cousins beat us to the idea we'll first touch on a campaign which gave F. J. Studd, manager of the Beaufort Cinema, Birmingham, England, what he terms a "bumping" week, or as better understood over here, S.R.O. trade.

Among Manager Studd's stunts were a "crazy interlude" by Mr. Reginald New, organist, and a "crazy" film fashioned by the chief projectionist. The theatre was gaily decorated and the staff wore fancy hats. All paper from 2's up to 48's was made up along the same lines as the accompanying reproduction of a teaser one-sheet. Heralds of the same kind were also given wide distribution. A program especially gotten-up for the occasion was just as "cuckoo" as everything else concerned with the show. The back cover was where the front ought to be and inside the different numbers were set down in wrong order. In a nutty style of chatter Studd stated what kind of entertainment was in store for his patrons and each paragraph was broken up with some wisecrack. In short, he began with a comical description of newsreel and shorts and followed right to the end of the show.

Example of Poster Used by Manager Studd

Now About New York

It seems that Boris Morros, managing director of the New York and Brooklyn Paramount Theatres, while in England recently, saw the Crazy Week show at the Palladium, London, where it is presented every two or three months. He plans to present the idea here at like intervals.

One of the Series of Ads Run by New York Paramount

Jack McInerney, publicity director of the New York Paramount, started his exploitation campaign with two stunts which netted a goodly amount of space in the Metropolitan dailies. Larry "Sleepless" Lawson, champion non-stop cyclist, wheeled his way around the theatre block in an effort to break his own record. Frank and Milt Britton, who headlined the show with their band of maniac violin breakers, fired the starting gun at the Broadway entrance. The Brittons, assisted by eight chorus girls, also made whoopee on Broadway in an old horsecar, drawn by two draw horses and manned by an old time motorman. Newspaper cameramen were on hand to shoot pictures of both stunts.

Ballyhoo was continued at the theatre entrance, where a tall fellow with a huge papier mache headgear dwarfed in comparison the passers-by. Another giant dressed in a be-spangled uniform stood at one side of the main entrance, while on either side were hung those crazy mirrors that distort one's appearance. Over the doors cutout letters spelling "Crazy Week" were animated and just inside the well known and effective illusion of the "Spider Girl" and a weight-guessing man and his scale helped carry out the carnival scheme. Wax figures of women, a "sissy" and a policeman were spotted around the mezzanine of the Grand Foyer.

Bob Alton, producer of the show, started things off with a cleverly put-together "Crazy" newsreel which featured Eddie Cantor in the role of news cameraman. Rowdy Patsy Kelly eloquently cursed her way through the sketch she had in "Flying Colors," which developed into a crescendo of flying fruit and profanity; Bob Hope and his stooges in the audience did their act; the Brittons put on their roughhouse musical act; the Lisa Stratta girls burlesqued a dance, the "Crazy Quilt Ballet"; Carl Randall, Barbara Newberry, the Breadwins and Murray Woods contributed their share, and all of the 125 members of the cast were kidded along by the rotund Johnny Perkins, m. c. for the occasion. To sum up it is a darned good show that clicked along at a pleasing pace and all concerned deserve much credit for the way they put over their respective parts.

Aside from good production and the excellent work done by the various artists, to our way of thinking it was the all around ballyhoo that put it over, for which we must credit Jack McInerney. Alton took a lot of stuff that had been done many times before and welded it all into the "Crazy Week" and McInerney sold the idea with a fine advertising campaign. We are reproducing one of a series of newspaper ads he used. The public were also invited through a newspaper reader to submit original "crazy" ideas and participate in the award of 25 pairs of guest tickets.

SHOW BUSINESS

(Continued from preceding page)

original, something new and different to be given your patrons in that front show. Maybe it will be only a local amateur chorus recruited from your neighborhood; perhaps it may be a big name act, according to what you can afford and what your capacity justifies, but there is something to be done to that "front show" which will build up good will and bring in a steadily growing list of patrons. The "front show" is all important and much be so regarded.

It has been a distinct pleasure to be able to set forth even briefly a few ideas on show business. We have no illusion that these ideas are revolutionary. But if we have caused any single manager to say to himself, "maybe I can do a bit better next week, perhaps there is something I have overlooked in my advertising or my front show, or maybe I could do a better selling job"—then shall we be more than rewarded.

Sponsler Helping Out!

Lewis B. Sponsler, a live-wire showman and manager of the Fox-Uptown in Wichita, Kas., has gained a lot of good will and worthwhile publicity for his house through inauguration of late Saturday night shows, proceeds of which are donated to the National Service Union, an organization for unemployment relief. All employees work without extra charge and the Kansas City film exchanges are taking care of film rentals. The only items deducted by theatre are for light and heat. Stage shows are added and the best talent obtainable donate services. The regular admission of 25 cents is charged.

PARKING TIE-UPS!

In next week's issue this department will present an article pointing out how parking can be made a vital factor in grosses—no idle theories, but ideas based on actual experiences of exhibitors who have found it to be true. Read it and cash in on the many suggestions offered.

QUICK SERVICE IDEAS THAT WORKED

JOE FELDMAN, Warner exploiteer in the Pittsburgh district, is another space hound, judging from the large amount he grabbed as the result of a "Barter Art Sale," a general publicity stunt. He arranged with a New York artist to paint six large futuristic murals as permanent theatre fixtures and had local newspapermen on hand to watch the artist work. When the murals were completed Feldman held his exhibit. Local artists brought paintings which were sold in exchange for food and other merchandise. . . .

WALLY CALDWELL, hustling manager of Loew's Valentine, Toledo, put over a "whistling password" stunt via radio a short time ago, and it took so well that a somewhat similar gag was used over the same station on "Whistling in the Dark." This time the announcer whistled a few bars of a selected song. First five fans arriving at theatre with correct title of picture were greeted with one ducat each. Many came but only five were chosen. The stunt was repeated each day of run, each time with different song. . . .

DAN KRENDEL is still knocking out effective newspaper ads for the Capitol Theatre, Windsor, Ontario, Canada, which are an attractive combination of exchange mats and his own ingenuity. When we run a special page of ads again we'll see that some are used. . . .

RAY JONES, manager of the Fox-McDonald, Eugene, Ore., played up Chinese atmosphere very effectively in his campaign on "Son Daughter," using two life-size figures of Hayes and Novarro in costume for foyer display, colored spotlights and incense burning Buddha on teakwood table. He also used "Are You Exotic" gag in paper and gave girls of Oriental type guest tickets. Another paper featured a title gag, inviting readers to compile list of pictures in which Hayes, Stone and Oland had appeared. Guest tickets were again given. . . .

CALDWELL H. BROWN, chief of Brown Theatrical Co., Zanesville, Ohio, was right on the job at the close of the recent "bank holiday" with a large ad headed: "Yesterday All Our Banks Opened and Today Another Great Opening Occurs." He referred to his current show. . . .

AL NOWITSKY, skipper of the Rialto, Allentown, Pa., got away with plenty free space on "Conquerors." Stunts included double truck co-op featuring ad styles of older days; public jig-saw puzzle contest to piece together scene from picture for month's pass, and signed story in paper by local minister who reviewed picture. . . .

HUMAN AUTOMATONS!

Human automatons made up to resemble wax figures were used at the Strand Theatre, New York City, by the Warner exploiteers to bally "Wax or Woman." Every few minutes the man, with stiff, mechanical movements, pulled a string that loosened a curtain revealing an attractive girl in a special compartment in front of the box office, who would move her head, smile and then stand perfectly erect. Copy read: "Is She Wax or Is She Woman?" Photo above shows that this stunt proved a real stopper.

ARTHUR CATLIN, manager of Loew's State, Cleveland, stirred up considerable interest among local reporters by engaging an old time bartender to serve beer in the lobby in advance of "What No Beer." In return for cards on top of bar a brewing concern installed the fixtures and a tie-up with a pretzel outfit netted 25,000 imprinted sacks with pretzel in each. The pretzel man also made what he declared was "world's largest pretzel" for downtown window display. . . .

L. W. MORRIS, of the Plaza, Great Bend, Kan., was right on the job last Presidential Inauguration Day. At the same time he inaugurated a bigger and better entertainment policy and tied up the two events in copy on a large herald. . . .

E. E. BAIR, in charge of the State and American Theatres, East Liverpool, Ohio, chose Inauguration Day to announce in a large newspaper ad "A New Deal," "A Message of 'State' Importance" and "A Cabinet of Eight Great Stars" in connection with "State Fair." A newspaper mat service cut of the Capitol's dome and small sketches of stars nicely dressed the ad. As most of you know by now, it's nothing new for Bair to pull the unusual in ads. . . .

EDGAR HART, manager of the Majestic Theatre, Columbus, Ohio, did mighty well with his campaign on "Mummy," so says Nat Holt, D.M. Originally booked for 4 days the film was held over all week. Maybe his very attractive lobby had a lot to do with it. . . .

ED LYNCH, manager of the Cameo, Bridgeport, Conn., put over an effective window on "42nd Street" when he arranged with a local Kresge for the placing of an attractive girl in the store to sing and play song hits from the film. Her voice was carried outside through a mike, amplifier and loudspeaker. The entire window was decorated with scene stills. This stunt helped Ed set up record business. . . .

PETE EGAN, manager of the Palace, Calgary, Canada, continues to break into print, this time among the combination lunches listed on the menu of a well patronized restaurant in his town. In other words, a concoction of stuffed tomatoes with chicken salad, toasted rolls and coffee is a "Pete Egan" and sells for 25c. Right alongside of Pete is a three-layered "Clara Bow" Toastwich. "Both have It," says Pete. . . .

ROLLIN K. STONEBROOK, manager of the Alabama Theatre, Birmingham, Ala., and a strong believer in the personal endorsement gag, recently used a two-column newspaper ad headed "I Have Never Misled You" to sell "Cynara." Reason for this is that Manager Stonebrook has built up a reputation for keeping his word. . . .

DEWEY BLOOM took five inches across a whole newspaper page the day before "Rome Express" opened at the Uptown, Toronto, Canada. In each window of a flying express coach appeared characters of the picture, appropriately captioned. . . .

HARRY WEISS, manager of the Olympia Theatre, Miami, rang up nice business on "Rasputin" with a 100 per cent increase in teaser ads seven days in advance; special screening for newspapermen; department store tie-up for book section; trailers advance and current in eight local Sparks houses; street car cards; special front, and radio broadcast. . . .

MAX MILDER, managing director of Warner Bros. Pictures, Ltd., London, England, sent out trade preview invitations to "King's Vacation" in the form of a 7x14½-inch card folder, with full length picture of Arliss on front. Inside carried the invitation. Very attractive. . . .

WALTER MORRIS, before leaving the Broadway, Charlotte, N. C., to take charge of the New Theatre, Staunton, Va., played up the news interest in "Match King" by distributing 3,500 newspaper sized heralds with head line, "Film Star Ruins World Famous Financier." Stories and photos of Damita and William covered the front page. It helped sell seats. . . .

WE OFTEN WONDER!

By GUY JONES

Yes, we often wonder where theatre ads are when we look over the amusement pages of newspapers in some cities. Is this the time to cut down on one of the best advertising mediums a theatre has? We ask you!

DUE TO JOE KINSKY, SIOUX CITY KNOWS ALL ABOUT MAE WEST

The fame of Mae West might never have reached Sioux City, Iowa, for some time to come had not Joe Kinsky, manager of the Capitol Theatre there, waged his effective campaign on "She Done Him Wrong." Now the good citizens are quite aware of this colorful new screen find, which is just as it should be.

Quite naturally Joe and his boys pink-ticketed the picture in all advertising, but to really establish the sex angle a preview for men only was held the night prior to opening. This stunt not only produced capacity business on that night but started most women's tongues wagging as only women's tongues can wag. It was a brand new sensation for the ladies and the gag is still the talk of the town.

The accompanying photo shows what Joe did to put across the old time bar angle and the set-up was a particularly timely one in view of the vast amount of publicity on the recently passed beer bill. The fixtures were placed in the foyer and near beer and "free lunches" were promoted from a local distributor to serve anyone so inclined who attended the theatre the week prior to play-date. Two newspapers carried pictures and stories about the bar.

Other advance work included distribution of 25,000 teaser heralds in department store packages. As to free space in the papers, this exceeded by about 20 inches the amount of paid space.

The net result of the above was that this Mae West film equalled grosses of two other pictures classified in advance as box office winners, in spite of the fact that few people in Sioux City had ever heard of the star.

One thing more before we sign off on station KINSKY. This campaign produced such excellent results that it was adopted by several other theatres in the same territory and origin was credited to another manager by a theatrical paper. We make this statement in deference to Joe. More about this live-wire Round Tabler in the future.

MADDEN IS STILL MAKING DEALS FOR FREE ADS IN PAPER

It seems that Showman Madden of the Granby Theatre down in Norfolk, Va., is always at our heels just when we finish reporting some outstanding feat of space-grabbing from another point on the map. We refer to the matter of making tie-ups with newspapers for exchange of ducats for advertising and you may take our word for it that he doesn't go in for half measures.

Two tear sheets at hand, one whole page promoted on the basis of granting tickets on new subscriptions and the other calling attention to a classified page gag, were stolen by this arch space-bandit not long ago. More power to him, for he continues to demonstrate that the advertising budget can be kept within reasonable bounds by legging it around town a bit.

BARRETT AND ENOCH STEPPING ALONG AS USUAL IN VIRGINIA

Our good friend Bob Enoch, publicity director for Manager Barrett at the Strand Theatre, Parkersburg, West Va., is plugging along in his usual fashion, making tie-ups, promoting free space and proving in general his usefulness to the cause of show-business.

The mere name of Smith was all the foundation Bob needed for an incentive to promote two-thirds of a page of cooperative ads among the several merchants owning to that surname. Special sales were put on at the stores and the theatre helped matters along by providing a number of guest tickets for enterprising customers.

Again following out the Smith family idea, Enoch tied-up with the newspaper for free space by allowing the paper to frame a thirty-inch ad to effect that the sheet would play host to 50 adult persons of that name when the show came to town. All the Smiths had to do was to call at the office with the proper identification and get a pair of ducats.

And so they go—Barrett and Enoch, the former a fine type of manager and the latter a young fellow who is aiming at a high niche in this industry, unless we're a million miles off our beat. Good luck to both. We'll expect to publish many more reports concerning their activities.

And by the way, before we sign off let us state that Bob is devoting a portion of his time to getting out of a fine eight page program for the Strand, the overhead of which is nicely taken care of with ads from local merchants. Notes for the fans, institutional selling of copy and current programs make up the balance.

Showman's Calendar

APRIL

21st	San Jacinto Day (Texas)
22nd	Oklahoma Opened to White Settlement—1889
	Birthday of J. Sterling Morton, Founder of "Arbor Day"
23rd	James Buchanan (15th Pres.) Born—1791
	William Shakespeare Born—1564
23rd to 29th	United States-Canada Week—Celebrated During the Week Which Includes April 28th, on Which Day the Bush-Bagot Treaty Was Signed in 1818. Sponsored by Kiwanis International, Washington, D. C.
26th	Confederate Memorial Day
	First Shot Fired in War Between U. S.-Germany—1917
27th	Ulysses S. Grant (18th Pres.) Born—1822
	Samuel F. Morse (Inventor of Morse Code Telegraph) Born, Charlestown, Mass.—1791
28th	James Monroe (5th Pres.) Born—1758
30th to May 6th	National Boys' Week
30th	Boston Settled—1630
	Washington Became First President—1789
	Rhode Island Settled—1636

BROWN CAPITALIZED ON EMANCIPATION OF THIRSTY NEW YORKERS

With legalized four per cent beer just around the corner it wasn't an easy matter by a long shot to go out among New York brewers the past few weeks to promote near beer and dispensing accessories, what with every one of the breweries working overtime to have an adequate supply of real beer on hand to quench a million or so thirsts. However, that's just what William Brown, manager of the Marboro Theatre, Brooklyn, did as a part of his campaign on "What! No Beer?"

The accompanying photo tells the story in its own way, with the exception that "Brownie" also promoted cost-free one seven-foot bar, gas tank and ice cooler for dispensing the beverage, fresh bread, sliced bologna and pretzels for free lunch from a neighborhood delicatessen store; six 31-gallon kegs of beer from the brewery, and 100 pounds of ice daily from another neighborhood dealer. Bar coats and aprons were also promoted for all house employees. Foyer mirrors were covered with catchlines done in the old familiar Bon Ami style.

The above certainly was a timely stunt, and according to Bill, when word went around that the Marboro was to give away free beer and lunches the doors were stormed. Incidentally, but not at all the least, all the whole deal cost the theatre was a sign for a bar background.

Here's a photo of the bar that Brown promoted to allay thirsts of Brooklynites while awaiting the National Beer Holiday. Note usher staff in regulation beer dispensing costumes.

MOTHER'S DAY!

Following are a few suggestions to make your town or community Mother's Day-conscious and, incidentally, step up trade:

Award to oldest mother or oldest grandmother attending matinees; award to grandmother with greatest number of children; inmates of old ladies home as theatre guests; invitations to mothers of largest families; invitations to wife of couples celebrating 25th or 50th anniversaries; pair of passes to mothers of babies born during week; appropriate musical numbers for non-sync; cards to each mother on mailing list; tie-up with school board to sponsor essay on "Why I Think My Mother Is Finest"; secure letter or proclamation from mayor to make "Day" official, and appropriate trailer, lobby, newspaper stories, co-ops and program cover and copy.

Candy and flowers are looked upon as particularly appropriate gifts and many cost-free tie-ups have been made between manager and dealers for give-aways, the dealers in most instances being sufficiently content with simple mention on screen or lobby card.

FORCEFUL, EYE-ARRESTING DISPLAY!

Above is a photo of the display featured by Nathan Silver, manager of the Strand Theatre, Lowell, Mass., in connection with "Sign of the Cross." It was designed and erected by John Sharples, stage manager, with the assistance of John McAuliffe, staff artist, and made entirely of wall board with the exception of the illuminated cross in the centre and the torch lamp in the upper right hand corner. It proved a forceful and eye-catching display from every angle.

RAY AVERILL GAVE DOUGLAS ITS FIRST GLANCE AT "SCRIP"

The vogue of "scrip" as a form of currency in various portions of these United States recently found favor with Ray S. Averill, manager of the Fox-Grand Theatre, Douglas, Ariz., in the form of a coupon, which when presented at the box office, entitled the bearer to a 35 cent seat for 25 cents. A note at the bottom of the newspaper ad informed the public that it was the first "scrip" money used in Douglas and that as usual the Fox was "first in everything."

Okay for that, Ray, and now about that oasis nearby your arid town of Douglas. It won't be long before we'll be sending you an illustration of what a real suds garden looks like, now that F. R. has put his signature to that famous document. Let's hear from you some more.

DE BOISSIERE SURE IS TURNING OUT LOT OF UNIQUE PROGRAMS

When it comes to getting out attractive programs we'll certainly have to give a lot of credit to G. De Boissiere for the work he did in connection with opening show and subsequent attractions at the new Metropole Cinema in Brussels, Belgium.

To say the least these programs are the last word in the art of printing but we doubt very much if anyone over in this country would attempt production of such elaborate booklets except as a souvenir for some special occasion. De Boissiere advises us that he is endeavoring to adapt these de luxe editions to each change of picture. The cost of printing is said to be considerably lower in European countries than in the U. S. A., and maybe that's the answer.

EVEN STEVE FARRAR HAS GONE OVER TO JAILS AND STRIPES

If the present cycle of convict pictures keeps up much longer the dear old public won't be able to distinguish their movie palaces from county jails. Even Steve Farrar, managing director of the Colonial Amusement Company, has gone over to stripes and grim stone walls, according to a snapshot of the front of the Orpheum Theatre in Harrisburg, Ill., and the occasion was the showing of "20,000 Years in Sing Sing."

In addition to the false front which represented a prison, two boys in "stripes" paraded the streets and canvassed all the schools during the week prior to opening day. Tom Parvin, whom we've had occasion to compliment before this for the excellent fronts he has turned out, made the entire display for a cash outlay of only $15. Naturally, the board can be used again.

WANTED

BRANCH MANAGERS

¶ In every state to represent a reliable theatre supply house. A knowledge of projection matters will be helpful but is not necessary.

¶ If your qualities meet our demands, terms will be made satisfactorily. State everything in first letter.

Box 287
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 BROADWAY NEW YORK

THE CLUB CONTINUES TO EXPAND!

GEORGE BAEHR

is the manager of the Savoy Theatre, a Warner house on Springfield Avenue, Newark, N. J., and we are glad to acknowledge his application for membership in the Club. He has about 1,700 seats to fill and before long we shall hope to inform his brother showmen just how he goes about the task. In the meantime, continued success to this new Round Tabler.

▽

LEO RAELSON

assists Monty MacLevy with the management of the St. Albans Theatre, St. Albans, Long Island, N. Y., and he's another to join the ranks of the many assistant managers already enrolled in the Round Table Club. We don't know of any better all around coach than Monty and so it will not be any surprise to us to hear that Leo has been assigned full charge of a theatre some day in the near future. Best wishes to Monty, Leo.

▽

JAMES KEARNEY

manages the Savoy Theatre down in Wilmington, Delaware, and we're also glad to welcome this new member to the Round Table. Let us know what you are doing for showbusiness, James, and when you get a chance say hello to Morris Rosenthal around at the Arcadia. He's an old member of the Club and can tell you just what we will expect you to do.

▽

R. F. HARDIN

hails from down in Fayetteville, Tenn., where he manages the Capitol Theatre. He, too, is one of this week's new Round Tablers and we want him to know that he will be a welcome contributor to this department. Let your Club know what's been going on in showbusiness down your way, Hardin, so we can pass the word along the line.

▽

JOSEPH FELDMAN

is the managing director of the Earle Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., and his name was proposed for Club membership by Publicity Director Arnold Stoltz. We've already had occasion to set forth a few slants of Feldman's brand of showmanship and will hope to receive many more communications, even though he be a very busy showman. And how about you, Arnold? It's high time you gave an account of yourself.

▽

HARRY A. SALISBURY

has charge of the Empress Theatre over in Rochester, Minn., and he's another one of that live lot of men in the Publix-Northwest division. We introduced many of his fellow managers in the special section devoted to the Northwest division a few weeks past and it is our sincere hope that Salisbury and all the rest will follow through with a lot more information we can pass along the line. Welcome to the gang, Harry, and keep in touch with your Club.

▽

HARVEY E. DAHARSH

hails from out in Wahoo, Neb., where he manages the Wahoo Theatre and we're glad to acknowledge his application for membership in the Round Table Club. He's not the first one of the Interstate Circuit boys to join the Club and we feel sure we can count upon him to help keep up the good work. Please convey our best wishes to your fellow managers when you meet, Harvey, and let's hear from you.

▽

J. C. STROCK

is another one of the energetic managers of the Publix-Northwest division to hook up with the Round Table Club and we want him to know that we're also mighty glad to list his name among the new members. We'll be on the watch for an account of that last good stunt he used to boost the box office of the Granada, Minneapolis, Minn.

V. M. CUMMINGS

is in charge of the Rialto Theatre in Minneapolis, Minn., which is another link in the Minnesota Amusement Company chain. His application, like several others received from the men in the Publix-Northwest, was scheduled for acknowledgment in the special section devoted to the men in that division, and had to be sidetracked at that time owning to press requirements. However, we take this opportunity to let him know that we're glad to list his name among the new members and will look forward to hearing about what he is doing at the Rialto.

▽

HERMAN GOLDSMITH

manages the Garden Theatre out in Richmond Hill, Long Island, N. Y., a house on Morris Fleischman's list. We're also happy to announce that Herman has joined this great organization of showmen and will soon expect to hear what he is doing to boost box office trade. He is located in a large residential community and has plenty of competition. His plan for bringing in patrons ought to be mighty interesting to other members of the Club.

▽

JOSEPH H. RYAN

is another one of the Publix-Northwest managers and he holds forth at the State Theatre, Madison, South Dakota. His is a different position than the majority of men in the division inasmuch as he is a partner-manager with interest in both State and Lyric Theatres. The Lyric is closed at present but Ryan is going full tilt with the State. We're very glad to announce his membership in the Club and hope he'll continue to keep in touch with headquarters.

▽

LLOYD SIEBER

has charge of the State Theatre, a big 3,000 seater down on Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa., and his is another name to add to the Club roster. Sieger is one of the Warner group of showmen in his city and with the addition of his name it certainly won't be long before the Club will be one hundred per cent strong in Philly. Welcome to the gang, Lloyd, and let's be hearing from you. Tell the gang about your Spring campaign.

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

Please enroll me in the Club and send me my framed certificate.

NAME _____

POSITION _____

THEATRE _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

DATE OF BIRTH _____

(Mail to Managers' Round Table Club, 1790 Broadway, New York)

ROBERT H. WEST

has been working with Manager George O'Brien at the Fargo Theatre, DeKalb, Ill., for the past six months and we have George's word for it that West is doing everything an assistant manager should do to get along in the world. We are glad to include his name among the ranks of the assistants and wish him a speedy promotion. Our best regards to your chief, George.

▽

A. S. GOLDSMITH

manager the Cross Keys Theatre, a 2,000 seater down at 60th and Market, Philadelphia. We've already made room for him around the Table and will await word of what he is doing for the cause of showbusiness. Goldsmith is a member of that live crew of Warner showmen in Philly and we know he'll do his best to send along some show-selling tips for his brother Round Tablers.

▽

E. E. SEIBEL

is a member of the Publix-Northwest group of showmen and his job is at the helm of the Riviera Theatre, St. Paul, Minn. Everett, as we intend to call him in the future, manages a first run house with one-week showings and therefore has enough time to plan campaigns which we're sure will be of interest to the rest of the fellows in this big organization. We're mighty glad to list him as a member.

▽

ARCH CATALANO

is an independent exhibitor and operates the Victory Theatre down in Rossiter, Pa. Arch also joins the Club this week and we'll be on the watch for word of what he is doing to put over shows. Now that you're one of the gang, Arch, put your shoulder to the wheel and help keep up the good work. Tell the rest of the gang what you're doing to increase receipts.

▽

LEONARD KAPLAN

is the owner manager of the Dakota Theatre, Sioux Falls, South Dakota, and a cordial welcome is also extended this new member of our organization. Leonard migrated to his present location from Coffeyville, Kas., and according to a snapshot of a Saturday crowd in front of his house business is not so tough out his way. Next time you drop your Club a line, Leonard, let us know how you get 'em in.

▽

RUSSELL ALLEN

and his mother, Mrs. F. B. Allen, operate Allen's Theatre at Farmington, New Mexico, and we're mighty glad to list them both as new members. F. B. Allen, who operated the theatre for 20 years, passed away two years ago and Mrs. Allen and Russell are carrying on, with Russ as assistant. Good luck to both. We hope they'll keep in touch with their Club.

▽

H. F. BORRENSON

house-manages the Strand Theatre in Minot, South Dakota, and he's still another one of the Publix-Northwest gang of go-getters to join the Round Table Club. He is in sympathy with the work being carried on by the many showmen who belong to this organization and promises to do his best to help the "cause." Okay, H. F., and let's be hearing more from you.

▽

IRWIN HIRSCH

is the manager of Warner's Poplar Theatre, Poplar and Fifth, Philadelphia, Pa., and it's also a pleasure to record his name on the Club roster. Now that you're one of the gang, Irwin, keep in touch with us regularly, so we can let the other fellows know what you are doing. In the meantime, continued success.

EFFECTIVE NOVELTY HERALDS ISSUED BY MANAGER J. PORTEE

After running through a collection of novelty heralds used recently by Jack Portee, manager of the Rex Theatre, East Rutherford, N. J., it is a safe bet to state that this Round Tabler has been turning out some nifty work along these lines. His heralds are particularly effective because of the teaser copy on outside cover of the folder. Let us quote a few and we believe readers will agree that they're pretty good.

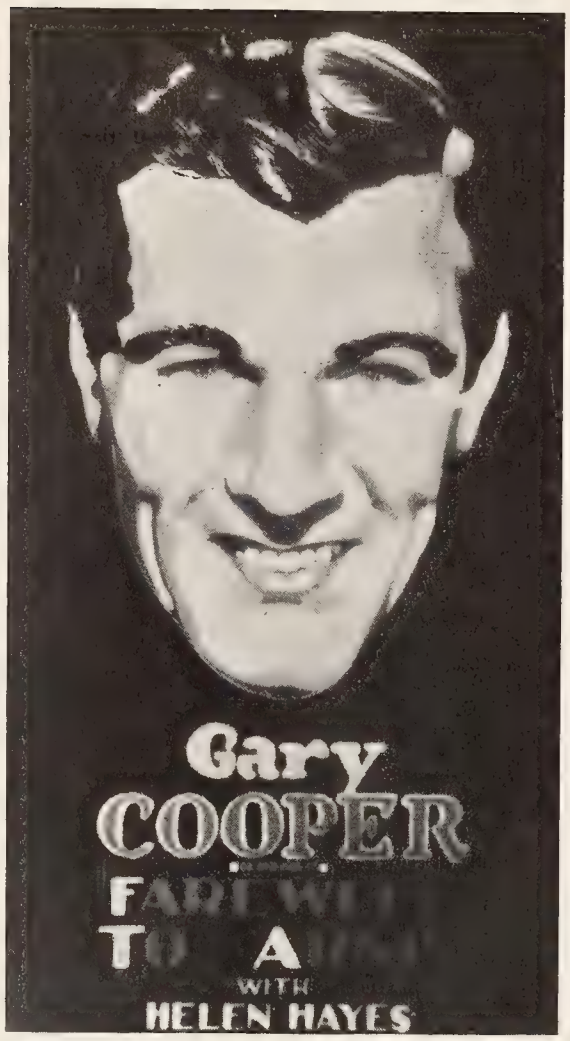
On "Night Mayor" the copy read: "3 Cheers for the New York Police." Inside it continued: "Because They Didn't Stop the Showing of the Most Daring Political Document of Truth!" Another, and one which could be used in connection with most any film, read: "50,000 N. J. Speakeasies." On the inside was "Can Give You One H— of a Good Time—But the only picture of its kind, to unravel the vital question of the day is, etc., etc." Still another read: "All America Is Shouting," with "Okay America" and other copy inside. On "Roar of the Dragon" the herald read: "Believe It Or Not"; inside was: "This Is Not a Chinese Laundry Ticket—It Is a Warning From Voron Sky —And His Band of Ravaging Bandits!— Do Not Defy It! etc., etc."

Good Attention Getters!

Another bore the catchline, "A Fable—yet true." Inside, illustrated with humorous little sketches, the fable began with "Once Upon a Time" and proceeded to tell about a man lost in a forest, who crawled inside a hollow log to seek shelter from a terrific storm. To put it briefly, when the rain ceased the log had contracted so that the man couldn't get out. Facing death his whole life flashed before him and he remembered that he had not taken his children to see "Movie Crazy." This made him feel so small that he was able to crawl out without further difficulty.

And so they go; all with snappy, original copy calculated to intrigue the reader. To our way of thinking, it's neat stuff; and get very inexpensively gotten up. Most of the heralds are about program cover size or a little longer or wider, as the spirit may move, and aside from the cover catchlines carry mat illustrations and copy.

We also note that Jack recently engaged women to make house-to-house distribution of 10,000 "Pass-A-Grams," which was a discount offer made up in the form of a telegram. The "Pass-A-Gram" and 10 cents entitled the bearer to admission during a stated period. Four thousand of the 'grams came back within 10 days. Other copy, of course, may be added.



We are inclined to agree with Jack that one has to give slightly different twists these days to advertising in order to command attention. We believe his style of copy will interest other members of the Club, hence we're passing samples of it along. We'll be on watch for other evidence of his activities.

Hipp Sponsoring Band!

Al Cooper, manager of the famous New York Hippodrome, is sponsoring organization of a boys' band to be known as the Hippodrome Junior Cadet Bank. Any boy between the ages of 10 and 16 may apply for membership and receive free instruction from Raymond N. Mazer, a highly competent musical director.

POSTER ART WORK FOR THE THEATRE

drawn by DONALD ANDORFER

Here's another example of poster work being turned out by Donald Andorfer, poster artist, for Fred Hinds, manager of the Strand Theatre, Whitewater, Wis.

The colors used on this Gary Cooper poster are as follows: Background, black. Head, red-purple. Stars names, blue-gray. Title, yellow-green. As the copy indicates, it was used in connection with "Farewell to Arms."

Thanks again to Andorfer for keeping this department in touch with his work. We are glad to include this contribution among the others in this series. Our best regards to Fred Hinds, Donald, and ask him to let us know what's going on in his end of the game.

Byers Now a Partner

William A. Byers, for many years associated with S. A. Lynch and Publix in the South, recently tendered his resignation as manager of the Plaza Theatre, Asheville, N. C., to become general manager of the new Bolling Theatre in Norton, Va. His move is the result of his acquisition of a 50 per cent interest in the Bolling Theatre Corp., operating two houses in Norton.

Presenting Dr. Cartright!

J. L. Cartright, former manager of the Victory and Tampa Theatres, Tampa, Fla., and recently named city manager of the four E. J. Sparks houses at Daytona Beach, might well be called a "theatre doctor." With a reputation for putting over houses in the red and, as a consequence, transferred from pillar to post, he holds the record of having "treated" 62 different theatres.

LARRY WOODIN HELD HIS REGULAR GALA PARTY FOR KIDDIES

In showbusiness for 30 years and never missed holding a free Xmas Show for the kids! We refer to the Arcadia Theatre Company family down in Wellsboro, Pa., composed of W. H. Siegel, president; Larry Woodin, manager, and W. L. Woodin, secretary-treasurer.

What do you think of 1,700 kiddies attending a Xmas Show in a town which boasts only a population of 4,000? 'Course they came in from adjacent districts; but they came, nevertheless, to get their shares of free candy, Santa himself and two hours of short subjects, singing, yelling and a merry old time. A local bank buys the candy and pays for any films that Larry Woodin can't rake in gratis, and the theatre employees donate their time. The firm donates the house and incidental expenses.

In short, it's the biggest Xmas event in the Woodin family's section of the state, and made so by Arcadia's consistent interest in the building of good will over a long period. That was not all, however, that happened over the holiday season, for this company also held another very successful Midnight Show the week before Xmas and gave all proceeds to the local Poor Fund. One of the major film companies contributes free films for this occasion each season.

Commendable work, Larry, and we're happy to chalk your name up among other Club members who this year gave a lot of time and considerable amounts of coin of the realm to relief funds and entertainment for youngsters. As you and they, we believe that all time and effort spent in this direction will be returned to the theatre in another yet profitable form.

DICKSON MADE AUTO TRAILER OUT OF AN OLD MODEL T FORD

Noticing mention and photos of several advertising trailers in this department, W. E. Dickson, proprietor of the Aristo Theatre and Confectionery Company, Lemmon, South Dakota, sent the Club a snap of the outfit he is using to make his town and adjacent communities theatre-conscious.

To all appearances Dickson's trailer was built on an old "Model T" chassis and provision made for hitching to the rear of a modern auto. The sides and ends are repainted each time the bally is sent out to advertise a new attraction.

Any number of Round Tablers situated the same as Dickson have found advertiseing trailers a cheap and effective means of circulating a message and we're glad to pass along the reminder. Old Model T chasses can be picked up for next to nothing these days and ought to fill the bill for a trailer in great shape.

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finished or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1932, unless otherwise specified.

ALLIED PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cowboy Counsellor	Hoot Gibson-Sheila Manners	Oct. 15	63	Oct. 8
Eleventh Commandment	Marian Marsh-Theo. Von Eltz	Mar. 15,'33	64	Mar. 18,'33
Intruder, The	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Dec. 26	69	Jan. 14,'33
Iron Master, The	Lila Lee-Reginald Denny	Nov. 1	69	Dec. 10
Officer 13	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Nov. 20	67	Dec. 3
Parisian Romance, A	Lew Cody-Marian Shilling	Oct. 1	77	Sept. 17
Shriek in the Night, A	Ginger Rogers-Lyle Talbot	Apr. 15,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Anna Karenina
Beyond the Law
Boots of Destiny — Hoot Gibson
Cheaters
Davy Jones' Locker
Dude Bandit, The — Hoot Gibson-Gloria Shea
Midnight Alarm
Nesters, The — Monte Blue
Pullman Car
Red Kisses
Silk Trimmed
Slightly Used
Sphinx, The
Three Castles
Valley of Adventure, The — Monte Blue
Without Children

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Hostess	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray-Thelma Todd	Jan. 15,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
As the Devil Commands	Alan Dinehart-Neil Hamilton-Mae Clarke	Dec. 24
Bitter Tea of General Yen	B. Stanwyck-Nils Asther	Jan. 6,'33	89	Nov. 26
California Trail, The	Buck Jones-Helen Mack	Mar. 24,'33
Child of Manhattan	John Boles-Nancy Carroll	Feb. 4,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Deception	Lee Carrillo-Barbara Weeks-Nat Pendleton	Nov. 4	67	Jan. 14,'33
End of the Trail, The	Tim McCoy-Luana Walters	Dec. 19	59½
Fighting for Justice	Tim McCoy-Joyce Compton	Dec. 28	60½
Forbidden Trail	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Nov. 18	71
Man Against Woman	Jack Holt-Lillian Miles	Nov. 15	68	Dec. 10
Man of Action	Tim McCoy-Caryl Lincoln	Jan. 20,'33	57
Musselini Speaks		Mar. 10,'33	76	Mar. 18,'33
No More Orchids	Carole Lombard-Lyle Talbot	Nov. 25	74	Nov. 19
Obey the Law	Leo Carrillo-Lois Wilson-Dickie Moore	Jan. 20,'33	69	Mar. 18,'33
Parole Girl	Mae Clarke-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 4,'33	67
Silent Men	Tim McCoy-Florence Britton	Mar. 3,'33
So This Is Africa	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey-Raquel Torres	Feb. 24,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Soldiers of the Storm	Regis Toomey-Anita Page	Apr. 4,'33
Speed Demon	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Joan Marsh	Nov. 5	65	Nov. 26
State Trooper	Regis Toomey-Evalyn Knapp	Feb. 10,'33	68	Apr. 1,'33
Sundown Rider, The	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Dec. 30	69
That's My Boy	R. Cromwell-Dorothy Jordan-Mae Marsh	Oct. 6	71	Dec. 3
Treason	Buck Jones-Shirley Grey	Feb. 10,'33	61½
Vanity Street	C. Bickford-Helen Chandler	Oct. 15	67	Oct. 29
Virtue	Carole Lombard-Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25	69	Nov. 8
Washington Merry-Go-Round	Lee Tracy-C. Cummings	Oct. 15	78	Oct. 1
When Strangers Marry	Jack Holt-Lillian Bond	Mar. 20,'33
Whirlwind, The	Tim McCoy-Alice Dahl	Apr. 14,'33
White Eagle	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Oct. 7	67	Oct. 1

Coming Feature Attractions

Ann Carver's Profession — Fay Wray-Gene Raymond
Below the Sea — Ralph Bellamy-Fay Wray
Circus Queen Murder, The — Adolphe Menjou-Greta Nissen-Donald Cook
Cocktail Hour — Bebe Daniels-Sidney Blackmer-Randolph Scott
Fighting Code, The — Buck Jones-Diane Sinclair
King of the Wild Horses — Wm. Janney-Dorothy Appleby
Night of Terror — Bela Lugosi-Sally Blane
Open Road, The — Buck Jones
Rusty Rides Alone — Tim McCoy-Diane Sinclair
Thrill Hunter, The — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Trail of the Cougar — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Unknown Valley — Buck Jones-Cecelia Parker — May 5,'33
Woman I Stole, The — Jack Holt-Raquel Torres-Fay Wray
Wrecker, The — Jack Holt

CHESTERFIELD

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten	June Clyde-Lee Kohlmar	Feb. 15,'33	65
King Murder, The	Conway Tearle	Sept. 15	64
Love Is Like That	Rochelle Hudson-John Warburton	Mar. 15,'33	65
Secrets of Wu Sin	Lois Wilson-Grant Withers	Dec. 15	65
Slightly Married	Evalyn Knapp-Walter Byron	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Strange People	Hale Hamilton-Gloria Shea-John Darrow	Jan. 15,'33	65
Thrill of Youth	June Clyde-Allan Vincent	Aug. 15	62	Sept. 10
Women Won't Tell	Sarah Padden-Gloria Shea	Nov. 15	67

EQUITABLE PICTURES

[Distributed through Majestic]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheating Blondes	Thelma Todd-Rolfe Haroldе	Apr. 1,'33
Gold Diggers of Paris	Madge Bellamy-Gilbert Roland	Mar. 15,'33
What Price Decency?	Dorothy Burgess-Alan Hale-Walter Byron	Mar. 1,'33	60	Mar. 11,'33

FIRST DIVISION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Drive, The		Jan. 19,'33	91	Jan. 28,'33
Condemned to Death	Arthur Wontner	Oct. 10	78½	July 23
Geona Goona		Nov. 28	66	Aug. 27
Ringer, The	Franklyn Dyall	Oct. 30	60	June 11

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blondie Johnson	Joan Blondell-Chester Morris	Feb. 25,'33	69	Feb. 4,'33
Cabin in the Cotton	Richard Barthelmess	Oct. 15	76	Sept. 10
Central Airport	Richard Barthelmess	Apr. 15,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Central Park	Joan Blondell	Dec. 10	55	Nov. 19
Employees Entrance	W. William-Loretta Young	Feb. 11,'33	75	Dec. 24
Frisco Jenny	Ruth Chatterton	Jan. 14,'33	76	Dec. 17
Grand Slam	Paul Lukas-Loretta Young	Mar. 18,'33	65	Jan. 14,'33
Life Begins	Loretta Young-Eric Linden	Oct. 1	72	Aug. 13
Match King, The	Warren William-Lili Damita	Dec. 31	79	Dec. 17
Mind Reader, The	Warren William	Apr. 1,'33	68	Feb. 25,'33
Silver Dollar	Edward G. Robinson	Dec. 24	78	Nov. 5
They Call It Sin	Loretta Young-Geo. Brent	Nov. 5	74	Sept. 3
Three on a Match	Blondell-William-Dvorak-Davis	Oct. 29	64	Oct. 1
20,000 Years in Sing Sing	Bette Davis-Spencer Tracy	Feb. 1,'33	81	Nov. 5
You Said a Mouthful	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 26	72	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Breadline — Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young
Captured — Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Elmer the Great — Joe E. Brown — April 29,'33 — 70 — Apr. 1,'33
Gold Diggers of 1933 — W. William-Joan Blondell-Aline MacMahon-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell
Goodbye Again — W. William-Joan Blondell
Lilly Turner — Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent — May 13,'33
Little Giant, The — Edward G. Robinson — May 27,'33
She Had to Say Yes — Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
After the Ball	Esther Ralston-Basil Rathbone	Mar. 17,'33	69	Mar. 25,'33
Bondage	Dorothy Jordan-Alex. Kirkland	Mar. 31,'33
Broadway Bad	Jean Blondell-Ginger Rogers-Ricardo Cortez	Feb. 24,'33	59	Mar. 11,'33
Call Her Savage	Bow-Owsley-Todd-Roland	Nov. 27	88	Dec. 3
Cavalcade	Clive Brook-Diana Wynyard	Apr. 15,'33	110	Jan. 14,'33
Dangerously Yours	Miriam Jordan-Warner Baxter	Feb. 3,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33
Face in the Sky	Spencer Tracy-Marian Nixon-Stuart Erwin	Jan. 22,'33	77	Feb. 4,'33
Golden West, The	Geo. O'Brien-Janet Chandler-Marion Burns	Oct. 30	74	Oct. 15
Handle with Care	Jas. Dunn-Boots Mallory	Dec. 25	75	Dec. 24
Hello, Sister	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Apr. 14,'33
Hot Pepper	Victor McLaglen-Edmund Lowe-Lupe Velez-El Brendel	Jan. 22,'33	76	Jan. 28,'33
Humanity	Boots Mallory-A. Kirkland	Mar. 3,'33	70
Infernal Machine	Genevieve Tobin-Chester Morris	Feb. 10,'33	65
Me and My Gal	Joan Bennett-Spencer Tracy	Dec. 4	78	Dec. 17
Pleasure Cruise	Genevieve Tobin-Roland Young	Mar. 24,'33	72	Apr. 1,'33
Rackety Rax	Victor McLaglen-Greta Nissen-Neil O'Day	Oct. 23	75	Oct. 29
Robbers Roost	George O'Brien-Maureen O'Sullivan	Jan. 1,'33	64	Apr. 1,'33
Sailor's Luck	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Mar. 10,'33	78	Mar. 25,'33
Second Hand Wife	Sally Eilers-Ralph Bellamy	Jan. 1,'33	64	Jan. 21,'33
Sherlock Holmes	Clive Brook-Miriam Jordan	Nov. 6	69	Nov. 26
Six Hours to Live	Warner Baxter-John Boles-Miriam Jordan	Oct. 10	80	Oct. 29
Smoke Lightning	George O'Brien-Neil O'Day	Feb. 17,'33
State Fair	Janet Gaynor-Will Rogers-Lew Ayres - Sally Eilers - Norman Foster-Frank Craven	Feb. 18,'33	100	Feb. 4,'33
Tess of the Storm Country	Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell	Nov. 20	75	Nov. 26
Too Busy to Work	Will Rogers-Marian Nixon	Nov. 13	70	Nov. 12
Wild Girl	Joan Bennett - Charles Farrell - Ralph Bellamy	Oct. 8	74	Oct. 8

Coming Feature Attractions

Adorable — Janet Gaynor-Henry Garat — May 12,'33
Five Cents a Glass — Marian Nixon-"Buddy" Rogers — May 19,'33
Giant Swing, The — Ricardo Cortez-Norman Foster
Hold Me Tight — James Dunn-Sally Eilers — June 2,'33
I Loved You Wednesday — Warner Baxter-Elissa Landi — May 26,'33
It's Great to Be Alive — Edna May Oliver-Raul Roulien
Man-Eater — Marian Burns-Kane Richmond
My Lips Betray — Lillian Harvey-John Boles
Pilgrimage — Marian Nixon-Norman Foster
Power and the Glory, The — Colleen Moore-Spencer Tracy
Trick for Trick — Ralph Morgan-Victor Jory — Apr. 21,'33
Warrior's Husband, The — Elissa Landi-Ernest Truex-David Manners — May 5,'33
Zoo in Budapest — Gene Raymond-Loretta Young — Apr. 28,'33

FREULER FILM ASSOCIATES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Fighting Gentleman, The	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Josephine Dunn-N. Moorhead	Oct. 7	65	Oct. 15
Forty-Niners, The	Tom Tyler	Oct. 28	59
Gambling Sex	Ruth Hall-Grant Withers	Nov. 21	65
Penal Code, The	Regis Toomey-Helen Cohan	Dec. 23
Savage Girl, The	Rochelle Hudson-Walter Byron	Dec. 5
When a Man Rides Alone	Tom Tyler	Jan. 15,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Cat, The
Bulldog Edition

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Deadwood Pass	Tom Tyler
East of Sudan
Easy Millions	Skeets Gallagher-Dorothy Burgess-Merna Kennedy
Green Paradise
Kiss of Araby	Maria Alba-Walter Byron
My Wandering Boy
Red Man's Country
Silent Army, The Sisters of the Follies

MAJESTIC

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Crusader, The	Evelyn Brent-H. B. Warner	Oct. 1	72	Oct. 8
Gold	Jack Hoxie-Alice Day	Sept. 15	53
Gun Law	Jack Hoxie-Betty Boyd	Apr. 15,'33
Hearts of Humanity	Jean Hersholt-Jackie Searl	Sept. 1	70	Sept. 24
Law and Lawless	Jack Hoxie-Hilda Moreno	Nov. 30	62
Outlaw Justice	Jack Hoxie-Dorothy Gulliver	Oct. 1	61
Phantom Express, The	Sally Blane-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Sept. 15	70	Sept. 24
Public Be Damned, The	Pat O'Brien-Evelyn Brent	Apr. 1,'33
Sing, Sinner, Sing	Paul Lukas-Leila Hyams	Apr. 15,'33
Unwritten Law, The	Greta Nissen-Skeets Gallagher	Nov. 15	70	Jan. 4,'33
Vampire Bat, The	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Jan. 21,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Via Pony Express	Jack Hoxie-Marcelline Day	Feb. 6,'33	62

Coming Feature Attractions

Buried Alive		June 1,'33
Curtain at Eight		May 1,'33
Trouble Buster	Jack Hoxie-Lane Chandler	May 15,'33
Woman in the Chair, The		May 15,'33

MAYFAIR PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Madness	Helen Chandler-Leon Waycoff	Apr. 1,'33
Behind Jury Doors	Helen Chandler-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Dec. 1	67
Heart Punch	Marion Shilling-L. Hughes	Oct. 15	64	Oct. 29
Her Mad Night	Irene Rich-Conway Tearle	Oct. 1	67	Oct. 29
Her Resale Value	June Clyde-George Lewis	Apr. 15,'33
Justice Takes a Holiday	Patricia O'Brien-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Malay Nights	John Mack Brown-D. Burgess-Ralph Ince	Nov. 1
Midnight Warning	William Boyd-Claudia Dell	Nov. 15
No Living Witness	Barbara Kent-Gilbert Roland	Sept. 15	65	Sept. 17
Revenge at Monte Carlo	June Collyer-Jose Crespo-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Sister to Judas	Claire Windsor-John Harron	Jan. 1,'33	75	Feb. 18,'33
Tangled Destinies	Lloyd Whitlock-Doris Hill	Sept. 1

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clear All Wires	Lee Tracy-Benita Hume	Feb. 24,'33		Feb. 18,'33
Faithless	T. Bankhead-R. Montgomery	Oct. 15	74	Oct. 15
Fast Life	William Haines-Madge Evans	Dec. 16	75	Dec. 10
Fast Workers	John Gilbert-Mae Clarke	Mar. 10,'33	66	Mar. 25,'33
Flesh	Wallace Beery-Karen Morley-Ricardo Cortez	Dec. 9	75	Dec. 17
Gabriel Over the White House	Walter Huston-Karen Morley	Mar. 31,'33	87	Apr. 8,'33
Kongo	Walter Huston-Lupe Velez	Oct. 1	86	Nov. 26
Mask of Fu Manchu, The	Boris Karloff	Nov. 5	67	Dec. 10
Men Must Fight	Phillips Holmes-Diana Wynyard	Feb. 17,'33	72	Mar. 18,'33
Outsider, The	Harold Huth-Jean Barry	Jan. 28,'33	90	May 2,'31
Payment Deferred	M. O'Sullivan-C. Laughton	Oct. 8	76	Sept. 24
Prosperity	Dressler-Moran	Nov. 18	76	Nov. 12
Rasputin and the Empress	Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore	Mar. 24,'33	127	Dec. 31
Secret of Madame Blanche, The	Irene Dunne-Phillips Holmes	Feb. 3,'33	78	Jan. 21,'33
Sea Daughter	Helen Hayes-Ramon Novarro	Dec. 23	79	Jan. 7,'33
Strange Interlude	Norma Shearer-Clarke Gable	Dec. 30	112	Sept. 3
What! No Beer?	Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante	Feb. 10,'33	78	Feb. 11,'33
Whistling in the Dark	Ernest Truex-Una Merkel	Jan. 21,'33	78	Feb. 4,'33
White Sister, The	Helen Hayes-Clark Gable	Apr. 14,'33	101	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Accidents Wanted	Lee Tracy-Madge Evans	June 2,'33
Barbarian, The	Ramon Novarro-Myrna Loy	May 12,'33
Bombshell	Jean Harlow
Devil's Brother, The	Laurel and Hardy-Dennis King-Thelma Todd		90	Apr. 8,'33
Dinner at Eight	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Lionel Barrymore-Jean Harlow-Madge Evans-Karen Morley-Franchot Tone-Lee Tracy-Jean Hersholt
Eskimo
Hell Below	Robt. Montgomery-Jimmy Durante-Robt. Young-Walter Huston-Madge Evans		78
Looking Forward	Lewis Stone-Benita Hume-Lionel Barrymore (Reviewed under the title "The New Deal")	Apr. 28,'33	83	Apr. 1,'33
Made on Broadway	R. Montgomery-Sally Eilers	May 19,'33	68	Apr. 8,'33
Peg O' My Heart	Marion Davies-Onslow Stevens	May 26,'33
Reunion in Vienna	John Barrymore-Diana Wynyard-Otto Kruger	May 5,'33
Tarzan and His Mate	J. Weissmuller-M. O'Sullivan
Today We Live	Joan Crawford-Gary Cooper	Apr. 21,'33	115
When Ladies Meet	Ann Harding-Alice Brady-Robt. Montgomery	June 9,'33

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Beauty	Alex. Kirkland-Esther Ralston	Apr. 1,'33
Breed of the Border	Bob Steele	Mar. 1,'33
Crashin' Broadway	Rex Bell	Dec. 30
Diamond Trail, The	Rex Bell	Dec. 30
Fighting Champ	Bob Steele	Dec. 15
Guilty or Not Guilty	Betty Compson-Tom Douglas	Nov. 15	7 reels
Hidden Valley	Bob Steele	Oct. 10	6 reels
Jungle Bride	Anita Page-Charles Starrett	Feb. 15,'33	63	Feb. 25,'33
Lucky Larrigan	Rex Bell-Helen Foster	Dec. 1
Man from Arizona, The	Rex Bell	Oct. 1	6 reels
Oliver Twist	Dickie Moore-Irving Pichel-Jackie Searle	Feb. 26,'33	80	Mar. 4,'33
Phantom Broadcast	Ralph Forbes-Vivienne Osborne	Mar. 15,'33	68	Apr. 8,'33
Self-Defense	Pauline Frederick	Dec. 15	68	Dec. 10
Strange Adventure	Regis Toomey-June Clyde	Nov. 20	7 reels
West of Singapore	Betty Compson	Jan. 31,'33	68
Young Blood	Bob Steele	Nov. 5

Coming Feature Attractions

Casey Jones	All Star	Apr. 30,'33
Fighting Texans, The	Rex Bell	Apr. 30,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Broadcast, The	Stuart Erwin-Bing Crosby-Kate Smith - Leila Hyams - Mills Bros. - Boswell Sisters - Cab Calloway - Vincent Lopez - Arthur Tracy - Sharon Lynn	Oct. 28	80	Oct. 8
Billion Dollar Scandal	Carole Lombard-Robt. Armstrong	Jan. 6,'33	78	Dec. 31
Crime of the Century	Stuart Erwin-Wynne Gibson	Feb. 24,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Devil is Driving, The	Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson	Dec. 9	70	Dec. 10
Evenings for Sale	Herb Marshall-Sari Maritza	Nov. 11	65	Nov. 5
Farewell to Arms, A	Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper	Jan. 6,'33	78	Dec. 10
From Hell to Heaven	Carole Lombard-Jack Oakie	Feb. 24,'33	70	Feb. 18,'33
He Learned About Women	Stuart Erwin-A. Skipworth	Nov. 4
Hello, Everybody	Kate Smith	Feb. 17,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Hot Saturday	Nancy Carroll-Cary Grant	Oct. 28	73	Oct. 22
If I Had a Million	Gary Cooper - Wynne Gibson - Gee. Raft - Richard Bennett-May Robson	Nov.	95	Nov. 12
Island of Lost Souls	Chas. Laughton-Richard Arlen-Irving Pichel-Leila Hyams	Dec.	70	Dec. 10
King of the Jungle	Frances Dee-Buster Crabbe	Mar. 10,'33	74	Mar. 4,'33
Lady's Profession, A	Alison Skipworth-Roland Young	Mar. 3,'33	72	Feb. 28,'33
Luxury Liner	Geo. Brent-Zita Johann-Frank Morgan	Feb. 3,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Madame Butterfly	Sylvia Sidney-Cary Grant	Dec. 30	88	Dec. 31
Madison Square Garden	Jack Oakie-Marian Nixon	Oct. 7	74	Oct. 8
Murders in the Zoo	Charlie Ruggles-Lionel Atwill	Mar. 31,'33	55	Mar. 11,'33
Mysterious Rider, The	Kent Taylor-Lona André	Jan. 20,'33
Night After Night	Geo. Raft-C. Cummings	Oct. 14	70	Oct. 8
No Man of Her Own	Clark Gable-Carole Lombard	Dec.	76	Dec. 24
Phantom President, The	Geo. M. Cohan-Claudette Colbert-Jimmy Durante	Oct. 7	78	Sept. 24
Pick Up	Sylvia Sidney-George Raft	Mar. 24,'33	75	Mar. 25,'33
She Done Him Wrong	Mae West-Owen Moore	Jan. 27,'33	66	Feb. 18,'33
Sign of the Cross	Fredric March-Elissa Landi-Claudette Colbert	Feb. 10,'33	123	Dec. 10
Strictly Personal	Marjorie Rambeau-Eddie Quillan-D. Jordan	Mar. 17,'33	70	Mar. 4,'33
Terror Aboard	Neil Hamilton-Chas. Ruggles-Verree Teasdale	Apr. 14,'33
Tonight Is Ours	C. Colbert-Fredric March-Paul Cavanagh	Jan. 13,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Trouble in Paradise	Miriam Hopkins-H. Marshall-Kay Francis	Oct. 21	73	Oct. 29
Under Cover Man	Geo. Raft-Nancy Carroll	Dec. 2	74	Dec. 10
Under the Tonto Rim	Stuart Erwin-Verna Hillie	Apr. 7,'33
Wild Horse Mesa	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Nov. 25
Woman Accused, The	Cary Grant-Nancy Carroll-John Halliday-Lona Andre	Feb. 17,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

A Bedtime Story	Maurice Chevalier-Helen Twelvetrees	Apr. 21,'33
College Humor	Bing Crosby-Jack Oakie
Cracked Ice	Four Marx Bros.
Dead on Arrival	James Dunn-Gloria Stuart	May 26,'33
Disgraced	Claudette Colbert-Wm. Harrigan
Eagle and the Hawk, The	F. March-C. Grant-J. Oakie	May 19,'33
Her Bodyguard	Wynne Gibson-Edmund Lowe
I Love That Man	Nancy Carroll-Edmund Lowe	May 5,'33
International House	Peggy Hopkins Joyce
Jennie Gerhardt	Sylvia Sidney-Donald Cook
Song of Songs	Marlene Dietrich-Brian Aherne
Song of the Eagle	Chas. Bickford-Mary Brian-Richard Arlen	Apr. 28,'33
Story of Temple Drake, The	Miriam Hopkins-Jack LaRue	Apr. 28,'33
Sunset Pass	Randolph Scott-Tom Keene	May 19,'33
Supernatural	C. Lombard-Randolph Scott-V. Osborne	May 12,'33

POWERS PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Limping Man, The	Franklin Dyall	Aug. 1	55	Aug. 27
Lucky Girl	Gene Gerrard-Molly Lamont	Sept. 1	69
Man Who Won, The	Henry Kendall-Heather Angel	Sept. 15	70	Mar. 4,'33
Woman Decides, The	Adrianne Allen-Owen Nares	Aug. 15	68

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Animal Kingdom	Leslie Howard-Ann Harding	Dec. 23	78	Dec. 10
Cheyenne Kid	Tom Keene	Jan. 20,'33	54½
Christopher Strong	K. Hepburn-Colin Clive-Billie Burke	Mar. 31,'33	72	Mar. 18,'33
Conquerors, The	Ann Harding-Richard Dix	Nov. 18	80	Nov. 19
Goldie Gets Along	Lili Damita-Chas. Morton	Jan. 27,'33	68
Great Jasper, The	Richard Dix	Mar. 3,'33	76	Feb. 11,'33
Half-Naked Truth, The	Lee Tracy-Lupe Velez	Dec. 16	77	Jan. 7,'33
King Kong	Fay Wray-Bruce Cabot	Apr. 7,'33	100	Feb. 25,'33
Little Orphan Annie	Mitzi Green-Buster Phelps	Nov. 4	70	Oct. 29
Lucky Devils	Bill Boyd-Bruce Cabot-William Gargan-D. Wilson	Feb. 3,'33	60	Dec. 31
Man Hunt (Reviewed under the title "A Successful Blunder")	Junior Durkin-Mrs. Wallace Reid	Mar. 24,'33	68	Feb. 4,'33
Men Are Such Fools	Leo Carrillo-V. Osborne	Nov. 18	68
Men of America	Bill Boyd	Dec. 9	75	Nov. 12
Monkey's Paw, The	Ivan Simpson-Louise Carter	Jan. 13,'33	52	Oct. 1
No Other Woman	Irene Dunne-Chas. Bickford	Jan. 6,'33	58	Jan. 21,'33
Our Betters	Constance Bennett	Mar. 17,'33	72	Mar. 4,'33
Past of Mary Holmes, The	Helen MacKellar-Eric Linden	Jan. 20,'33	62
Penguin Pool Murder	Edna May Oliver-Jas. Gleason	Dec. 30	75	Nov. 12
Phantom of Crestwood	Ricardo Cortez-Karen Morley	Oct. 14	77	Oct. 22
Renegades of the West	Tom Keene	Nov. 25	55
Rockabye	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrea	Nov. 25	75	Nov. 26
Sailor Be Good	Jack Oakie-Vivienne Osborne	Feb. 10,'33	68	Mar. 4,'33
Scarlet River	Tom Keene-D. Wilson	Mar. 10,'33	57	Jan. 21,'33
Secrets of the French Police	Gwili Andre-Frank Morgan	Dec. 2	58	Dec. 17
Sport Parade, The	Joel McCrae-Marian Marsh	Nov. 11	65	Dec. 24
Strange Justice	Marian Marsh-R. Denny	Oct. 7	74	Aug. 27
Sweepings	Lionel Barrymore	Apr. 14,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Theft of the Mona Lisa, The	Willy Forst-Trude von Molo (Reviewed—German Version)	Oct. 21	82	Apr. 9
Topaze	John Barrymore-Myrna Loy	Feb. 24,'33	78	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Ace, The	Chester Morris-Vivienne Osborne
Cross Fire	Tom Keene-Betty Furness	June 30,'33	55	Apr. 8,'33
Diplomaniacs	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey
Emergency Call	Bill Boyd-Betty Furness
India Speaks	Richard Halliburton
Maiden Cruise	Phil Harris-Helen Mack
Rafter Romance	Joel McCrea-Dorothy Jordan
Silver Cord, The	Irene Dunne-Joel McCrea
Son of the Border	Tom Keene-Julie Hayden	May 5,'33	55

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bachelor Mother	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray	Goldsmith	Jan. '5,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Bal, Le	Andre Lefaur	Protex		80	Oct. 8
Blame the Woman	Adolphe Menjou-Benita Hume	Principal	Oct. 15	74	Nov. 5
Charlotte Lowenskold	Birgit Sergelius-Erle Barclay	Scandinavian
Contraband	Don Alvarado-Dorothy Sebastian	Hoffberg	Apr. 1,'33
Daring Daughters	Marian Marsh - Joan Marsh	Capital	Feb. '33	60
Devil's Playground, The		Principal	Jan. 1'33	54
Eternal Jew, The	M. B. Samuylow	Jewish Talking Pictures
Face on the Barroom Floor, The	B. Fletcher	Invincible		66	Oct. 22
Forgotten Men		Jewel Productions	Feb. '33
Fourteenth of July, The	Annabella - Georges Rigaud	Tobis-Rene Clair		85	Jan. 28,'33
High Gear	James Murray-Joan Marsh	Goldsmith Pics.
Hotel Variety	Hal Skelly-Olive Borden	Screencraft		68
House of Death	N. P. Chmelloff	Amkino	Aug. 12	76	Aug. 27
In the Days of the Crusaders.	Alberto Pasquali	Monopole	Oct. 1	75	Oct. 15
Italy Speaks		Enrico Cutali			Feb. 25,'33
Jungle Gigolo		Principal	Feb. 15,'33	55
Jungle Killer	Carveth Wells	Century Productions	Dec.
Lady of the Night	Francesca Bertini	Portale Pics.	Mar. 9,'33
Love and Passion		Yugoslavian Pics.
Manhattan Tower	Mary Brian-Irene Rich-James Hall	Remington	Dec. 1	67	Nov. 19
Men and Jobs		Amkino	Jan. 1,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Moon Over Morocco	Rene Lefebvre-Rosine Derean	Protex	Jan. 21,'33	80	Feb. 25,'33
Out of Singapore	Noah Beery	Goldsmith Pics.		61	Sept. 24
Potemkin		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'33	54
Piri Knows All	Margit Dayka	Arkay Film
Pride of the Legion	Sally Blane-B. Kent.	Mascot	Oct. 10	70	Oct. 29
Red Haired Alibi	Merna Kennedy	Capital	Oct. 21	75	Oct. 29
Reform Girl	Dorothy Peterson-Skeets Gallagher	Capital	Mar. '33	70
Shadow Laughs, The	Hal Skelly-Rose Hobart	Invincible		67
Shame	Vladimir Gardin	Amkino	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Sniper, The		Amkino	Aug. 25	68	Sept. 3
Seeke		Hoffberg		30
Soviets on Parade		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'31	60
Sucker Money	Mischa Auer	Hollywood	Apr. 5,'33	70
Virgins of Bali		Principal	Dec. 8	46	Dec. 17
With Williamson Beneath the Sea		Principal	Nov. 24	59	Dec. 3
Wives Beware!	Adolphe Menjou	Regent Pics.
Woman in Chains	Owen Nares	Invincible		69	Aug. 13

(Reviewed under title "The Impassive Footman"— Assoc. Radio British)

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cynara	Ronald Colman-Kay Francis	Dec. 24	80	Nov. 5
Hallelujah, I'm a Bum	Al Jolson	Feb. 3,'33	82	Feb. 18,'33
Kid from Spain, The	Eddie Canter	Nov. 17	90	Nov. 5
Magic Night	Jack Buchanan	Nov. 5	76	Nov. 12
Rain	Joan Crawford	Oct. 22	85	Sept. 17
Perfect Understanding	Gloria Swanson	Mar. 11,'33	84	Mar. 4,'33
Secrets	Mary Pickford-Leslie Howard	Apr. 16,'33	90	Feb. 18,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

I Cover the Waterfront	Claudette Colbert - Ben Lyon - Ernest Torrence
Joe Palooka	Jimmy Durante-Stuart Erwin
Masquerader, The	Ronald Colman-Elissa Landi	75.. Feb. 25,'33
Yes, Mr. Brown	Jack Buchanan	Mar. 18,'33

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Afraid to Talk (Reviewed under title "Merry Go Round")	Eric Linden-Sidney Fox	Nov. 17	76	Sept. 24
Air Mail	Pat O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Nov. 3	83	Oct. 8
All American, The	Richard Arlen-Gloria Stuart	Oct. 13	78	Sept. 24
Be Mine Tonight	Jan Kiepura-Magda Schneider	Mar. 23,'33	78	Feb. 18,'33
Big Cage, The	Anita Page-Clyde Beatty	Mar. 3,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Cohens and Kellys in Trouble	Chas. Murray-Geo. Sidney	Mar. 23,'33	69
Destination Unknown	Pat. O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 16,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Fighting President, The		Apr. 14,'33	50
Flaming Guns	Tom Mix-Ruth Hall	Dec. 22	57
Hidden Gold	Tim Mix	Nov. 3	56
Laughter in Hell	Pat O'Brien-Gloria Stuart	Jan. 12,'33	68	Jan. 7,'33
Mummy, The	Boris Karloff-Zita Johann	Dec. 22	78	Dec. 3
Nagana	Tala Birell-Melvyn Douglas	Jan. 26,'33	74	Jan. 7,'33
Old Dark House, The	Boris Karloff-L. Bond	Oct. 20	74	July 16
Out All Night	Summerville-Pitts	Apr. 13,'33	72	Mar. 11,'33
Private Jones	Lee Tracy-Gloria Stuart	Feb. 16,'33	69	Apr. 1,'33
Rome Express	Esther Ralston-Conrad Veidt	Feb. 16,'33	87	Jan. 21,'33
Rustler's Roundup	Tom Mix-Diane Sinclair	Mar. 16,'33
Terror Trail, The	Tom Mix	Feb. 2,'33	57	Feb. 18,'33
They Just Had to Get Married	Summerville-Pitts	Jan. 5,'33	75	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Pearl	Tala Birell
King of the Arena	Ken Maynard
Kiss Before the Mirror	Nancy Carroll-Paul Lukas	May 4,'33 67.. Mar. 11,'33
Lucky Dog	Charles "Chic" Sale	Apr. 20,'33
Rebel, The	Vilma Banky-Luis Trenker
Road Back, The
S. O. S. Iceberg
When the Time Comes	Spencer Tracy

WARNER BROS.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Stampede, The	John Wayne	Oct. 8	54	Feb. 11,'33
Ex-Lady	Bette Davis	Apr. 8,'33	62	Feb. 18,'33
Forty-Second Street	Warner Baxter - Bebe Daniels - Geo. Brent	Mar. 11,'33	89	Mar. 18,'33
Girl Missing	Ben Lyon - Mary Brian - Peggy Shannon	Mar. 4,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
Hard to Handle	James Cagney	Jan. 28,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Haunted Gold	John Wayne	Dec. 17	58
I Am A Fugitive from a Chain Gang	Paul Muni	Nov. 18	90	Oct. 22
Keyhole, The	Kay Francis-George Brent	Mar. 25,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
King's Vacation, The	George Arliss	Feb. 25,'33	60	Jan. 28,'33
Ladies They Talk About	Barbara Stanwyck	Feb. 4,'33	64	Jan. 7,'33
Lawyer Man	Wm. Powell-Joan Blondell	Jan. 7,'33	72	Dec. 3
One Way Passage	Wm. Powell-Kay Francis	Oct. 22	69	July 30
Parachute Jumper	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	Jan. 28,'33	72	Dec. 31
Scarlet Dawn	D. Fairbanks, Jr. - Nancy Carroll	Nov. 12	58	Nov. 12
Telegraph Trail, The	John Wayne	Mar. 18,'33	55
Untamed Africa		Apr. 8,'33
Two Against the World	Constance Bennett	Sept. 3	71	July 30
Wax Museum, Mystery of the	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Feb. 18,'33	72	Jan. 7,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Baby Face	Barbara Stanwyck	Apr. 22,'33 74.. Apr. 1,'33
Life of Jimmy Dolan, The	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-Loretta Young	70
Man from Monterey, The	John Wayne-Ruth Hall
Mary Stevens, M.D.	Kay Francis-George Brent
Mayor of Hell, The	James Cagney
Narrow Corner, The	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Picture Snatcher	James Cagney	May 6,'33 75.. Apr. 1,'33
Private Detective 62	William Powell
Silk Express	Neil Hamilton-Sheila Terry
Somewhere in Sonora	John Wayne
Voltaire	George Arliss-Dorothy Kenyon
Working Man, The	George Arliss-Bette Davis	May 20,'33 73.. Apr. 8,'33

(Reviewed under the title "The Adopted Father")

WORLD WIDE

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Between Fighting Men	Ken Maynard	Oct. 16	62
Breach of Promise	Chester Morris-Mae Clarke	Oct. 23	67
Constant Woman, The (Reviewed under the title "Auction in Souls")	Conrad Nagel-Leila Hyams	Mar. 18,'33	75.. Mar. 3,'33
Death Kiss, The	Adrienne Ames-David Manners-John Wray	Jan. 8,'33	75	Dec. 24
Drum Taps	Ken Maynard	Jan. 29,'33	61
False Faces	Lowell Sherman-Lila Lee	Oct. 13	83	Dec. 3
Fargo Express	Ken Maynard	Nov. 20	62
Hypnotized	Moran and Mack	Dec. 25	70	Dec. 24
Lone Avenger, The	Ken Maynard	Apr. 9,'33	61
Phantom Thunderbolt	Ken Maynard	Mar. 5,'33	62
Racetrack	Leo Carrillo	Feb. 25,'33	78.. Mar. 11,'33
Study In Scarlet, A	Reginald Owen-June Clyde	Apr. 2,'33
Tombstone Canyon	Ken Maynard	Dec. 25	62
Trailing the Killer	(Special)	Dec. 4	68	Oct. 15
Uptown New York	Jack Oakie-Shirley Grey	Nov. 20	80	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Tarnished Youth	Jetta Goudal-Gilbert Roland

GERMAN

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Door Opens	Lily Rodlen-Curt Lucas	Protex	Feb. 4,'33	70
A Night In Paradise	Anny Ondra-Herman Thimig	Kinematrade
Barberina, The King's Dancer	Lil Dagover	Capital	Oct. 25	87	Nov. 18
Beautiful Maneuver Time	Ida Wuest	World's Trade
Cadet, The	Frans Fiedler	Film Exchange		80	Apr. 8,'33
Captain of Koepenick, The	Max Adalbert	Kinematrade	Jan. 16,'33	93	Feb. 18,'33
Comradeship		Assoc. Cinemas	Nov. 8	78	Dec. 10
Cruiser Emden		World's Trade Exchange	Sept. 8	85	Oct. 1
David Golder	Harry Baur	Protex		80	Oct. 29
Den't Tell Me Who You Are	Liane Haid-Gustave Froelich	Interworld	Feb. 15,'33	91	Feb. 25,'33
Enchanted Escapade	Kaethe von Nagy	Protex	Dec. 7	83	Jan. 28,'33
Friederike	Mady Christians	Kinematrade	Feb. 25,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Gitta Discovers Her Heart	Gitta Alpar	Capital		91	Oct. 15
Gloria	Gustav Froehlich	Tobis	Oct. 27	87	Nov. 12
Hertha's Awakening	Toni Van Eyck	Protex	Mar. 10,'33	82	Mar. 25,'33
Herzblut	Renate Mueller	Cines-Pittaluga	Sept. 30	77	Oct. 15
His Majesty, King Ballyhoo	Hans Moser - Heinz Ruehmann	Capital	Nov. 15	86	Feb. 11,'33
Louise, Queen of Prussia	Henny Porten	Assoc. Cinemas	Oct. 4	92	Oct. 15
M	Peter Lorre	Foremco	Mar. 31,'33	96	Apr. 8,'33
Maedchen in Uniform	Hertha Thiele	John Krimsky - Gifford Cochran		110	Oct. 1
Man Without a Name, The	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 5	90	Dec. 17
1914		Capital	Sept. 3	73	Sept. 24
Party Does Not Answer, The	Dorothy Wieck	Capital	Nov. 29	76	Dec. 31
Ronny	Willy Fritsch-Kaethe von Nagy	Protex
Song of Life	Albert Mog - Margot Ferra	Tobis	Mar. 24,'33	66
Spell of Tatra, The		Protex	Feb. 17,'33	65	Feb. 25,'33
Two Hearts That Beat as One	Lilian Harvey	Ufa-Protex	Sept. 8	80	Sept. 24
Upright Sinner, The	Max Pallenberg-Dolly Haas	European Films	Mar. 28,'33	78
Victoria and Her Hussar	Michael Bohnen-Friedel Schuster	Kinematrade	Apr. 8,'33
Yorck	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 23	99	Dec. 10

OTHER PRODUCT

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Counsel's Opinion	Henry Kendall	London Film		71
Fires of Fate	Lester Matthews	British Int'l		72	Oct. 15
Flag Lieutenant, The	Henry Edwards-Anna Neagle	British and Dominions		85	Dec. 31
Flying Squad, The	Harold Huth	British Lion		79	Aug. 6
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-British		68	Feb. 25,'33
Good Companions, The	Jessie Matthews	Gaumont-British		96
Green Spot Mystery, The	Jack Lloyd	Mutual, London		66	Sept. 8
Here's George	George Clarke	P.D.C.-British		64	Nov. 8
Jack's the Boy	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-Gainsborough	Aug. 15	61	Sept. 24
Josser on the River	Ernest Lotinga	British Int'l		71	Sept. 17
Leap Year	Tom Walls - Anne Grey	British and Dominions		89	Dec. 17
Lodger, The	Ivor Novello	Twickenham		84	Oct. 15
Looking on the Bright Side	Gracie Fields	Assoc. Radio-British		82	Oct. 15
Love Contract, The	Owen Nares	British and Dominions		82	Aug. 27
Love In Morocco (Reviewed under the title "Baroud")	Rex Ingram	Gaumont-British	Mar. 18,'33	67	Oct. 15
Love on Wheels	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-Gainsborough		87	Aug. 13
Maid of the Mountains, The	Harry Welchman - Nancy Brown	British Int'l		80
Man They Couldn't Arrest, The	Hugh Wakefield-Renee Clama	Gaumont-British	Mar. 11,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33
Marry Me	Renate Mueller-Geo. Robey	Gaumont-British		85
Mayor's Nest	Sydney Howard	British and Dominions		75	July 16
Private Wives	Claude Allister-Betty Astell	British Lion
Sally Bishop	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	British Lion		82	Dec. 10
Thark	Tom Walls - Ralph Lynn	British and Dominions		77	Aug. 27
There Goes the Bride	Jessie Matthews-Owen Nares	Gaumont-British		79	Mar. 11,'33
Wedding Rehearsal	Roland Young	London Film

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1932 unless otherwise stated]

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 237	Sept. 1	10	Sept. 24
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Broadway Malady
Bunnies and Bonnets	Mar. 29,'33
Crystal Gazabo	Nov. 7	1 reel
Lighthouse Keeping	Aug. 15	1 reel
Medicine Show	Feb. 7,'33	1 reel
Minstrel Show, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Prosperity Blues	Oct. 8
Seeing Stars	Sept. 12	8	Dec. 17
Snow Time	Nov. 30
Wedding Bells	Jan. 10,'33
Wooden Shoes	Feb. 25,'33	1 reel
LAMBS GAMBOLS
Hear 'Em and Weep
Ladies Not Allowed	Sept. 8	2 reels
Lambs All-Star Gambol	Dec. 20	21½
Mutual Man, The	Mar. 20,'33
Poor Fish, The (Tent.)
Shave It with Music	Sept. 30	19
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in Wildwest	Aug. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in India		1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Philippines	Nov. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among the Wide Open Faces	Oct. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among Dancing Nations	Dec. 23	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Wonders of the World	Dec. 13	1 reel
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Bad Genius, The	Dec. 1
Beer Parade, The	Mar. 4,'33
Camping Out	Aug. 10
False Alarm
Flop House	Nov. 9
Great Bird Mystery	Oct. 20
Sassy Cats	Jan. 25,'33
Scrappy's Party	Feb. 13,'33
Wolf at the Door, The	Dec. 29
SILLY SYMPHONIES
China Plate		7	Dec. 3
SUNRISE COMEDIES
Campus Codes	Jan. 19,'33	21
College Gigolos	Jan. 3,'33	18½
His Vacation	Sept. 8
I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Store	Feb. 11,'33
Mind Doesn't Matter	Nov. 21	19½
Partners Two	Jan. 19,'33	22
The Curse of a Broken Heart	Feb. 4,'33	18
The Strange Case of Poison Ivy	Mar. 23,'33
WORLD OF SPORT
Horse Sense	Aug. 5
Rough Sport	Dec. 29
Throwing the Bull	Jan. 14,'33	11

EDUCATIONAL

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
A Fool About Women	Nov. 27	22
Artist's Muddles	Jan. 29,'33	20
Boy, Oh Boy!	Dec. 25	21
Feeling Rosy	Feb. 26,'33	21
Giddy Age, The	Sept. 25	21½	June 4
His Royal Shyness	Aug. 28	21	July 23
Loose Relations	Apr. 9'33
She Dunked Him Wrong
Sunkissed Sweeties	Oct. 30	22
What a Life
BABY BURLESKS
Glad Rags to Riches	Feb. 5,'33	11	Dec. 31
Kid' In' Hollywood		11
Kid's Last Fight, The	Mar. 26,'33	11	Dec. 3
Pie-Covered Wagon	Oct. 30	10	Dec. 31
Polly Tix in Washington
War Babies	Sept. 18	10	Aug. 6
BATTLE FOR LIFE
Battle of the Centuries	Oct. 2	9
Desert Demons	Nov. 27	9
Killers	Oct. 30	10
The Sea	Dec. 25	9
BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
An Oregon Camera Hunt	Sept. 11	9
Giants of the North	Mar. 26,'33
Our Bird Citizens	Oct. 9	8	Dec. 10
Our Noble Ancestors	Dec. 4	9
Pirates of the Deep	Feb. 26,'33
Stable Manners	Nov. 6	7
Wild Company	Jan. 1,'33	10
Woodland Pals	Jan. 29,'33	1 reel
BROADWAY GOSSIP
No. 1	Sept. 25	11
No. 2	Dec. 11	9	Dec. 31
No. 3	Feb. 5,'33	11
No. 4	Mar. 5,'33	11
No. 5	Apr. 30,'33
CAMERA ADVENTURES
Taming the Wildcat	Jan. 15,'33	8
The Forgotten Island	Sept. 4	10
The Iceless Arctic	Nov. 6	11
Two Hundred Fathoms Deep	Mar. 19,'33	8
DO YOU REMEMBER
Gaslit Nineties, The	Nov. 27	8	Jan. 7,'33
Highlights of the Past	Apr. 9,'33
Old New York	Sept. 11	10	Jan. 14,'33
Puffs and Bustles	Mar. 12,'33	7
When Dad Was a Boy	Jan. 22,'33	8
GLEASON'S SPORT FEATURETTES
A Hockey Hick	Dec. 11	19
Always Kickin'	Oct. 9	20
Off His Base	Sept. 18	20
GREAT HOKUM MYSTERY
Burned at the Steak	Oct. 16	18
Evil Eye Conquers, The	Jan. 8,'33	14
Hypnotizing for Love	Aug. 21	16	Sept. 17
In the Clutches of Death	Nov. 13	14
On the Brink of Disaster	Feb. 19,'33
HODGE-PODGE
Across America in Ten Minutes	Jan. 1,'33	11
Animal Fair, The	Jan. 15,'33	10
Bubble Blowers	Sept. 11	10
Down on the Farm	Dec. 18	10
Little Thrills	Oct. 23	9
Skipping About the Universe	Feb. 12,'33	10
Traffic	Nov. 6	10
Women of Many Lands	Apr. 9,'33
Women's Work	Sept. 25	9	Mar. 11,'33
Wonder City, The	Nov. 20	9	Feb. 25,'33
MACK SENNETT COMEDIES
Neighbor Trouble Stone-Granger	Aug. 14	19
Young Onions Harvey-Granger	Sept. 18	19	Sept. 10
MERMAID COMEDIES
All Aboard Harry Langdon
Big Flash, The Harry Langdon	Nov. 6	22	Oct. 15
Hitch Hiker, The Harry Langdon	Feb. 12,'33	21
Knight Duty Harry Langdon	Mar. 28,'33	22
Tired Feet Harry Langdon	Jan. 1,'33	22
Vest with a Tale, The Tom Howard	Dec. 4	22
MORAN AND MACK COMEDIES
A Pair of Socks
As the Crows Fly	Feb. 5,'33	19
Hot Hoofs	Apr. 16,'33
Two Black Crows in Africa	Mar. 5,'33	20
OPERALOGUES
Brahmin's Daughter, A	Jan. 8,'33	22
Canteen Girl, The
Idol of Seville	Aug. 28	21	July 30
Walpurgis Night	Oct. 30	20
SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS (Reinald Werrenrath)
California	Mar. 5,'33	10
Cornell	Dec. 18	9	Dec. 17
Georgia Tech	Apr. 2,'33	9
Michigan	Dec. 4	8
Yale	Oct. 9	10
TERRY-TOONS
Burlesque	Sept. 4	6
College Spirit	Oct. 16	6
Down on the Levee	Mar. 5,'33	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Ape Girl	Aug. 7	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Birthday Party	Oct. 2	6	Dec. 3
Forty Thieves, The	Nov. 13	6
Hansel Und Gretel	Feb. 5,'33	6
Hollywood Diet	Dec. 11	6
Hook and Ladder No. 1	Oct. 30	7	Nov. 5
Ireland or Bust	Dec. 25	6
Jealous Lover	Jan. 8,'33	6
Oh! Susanna	Apr. 2,'33	6
Pirate Ship	Apr. 30,'33	6
Robin Hood	Jan. 22,'33	6
Romeo and Juliet	Apr. 16,'33	6
Sherman Was Right	Aug. 21	6
Southern Rhythm	Sept. 18	6
Tale of a Shirt, The	Feb. 19,'33	6
Toyland	Nov. 27	6	Dec. 17
Who Killed Cock Robin?	Mar. 19,'33	6
THREE-REEL SPECIAL
Krakatoa	Apr. 2,'33	26
TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
A Drug on the Market	Jan. 22,'33	11
The Acid Test	Nov. 27	11
The Mouse Trapper	Sept. 11	12
TORCHY COMEDIES (Ray Cooke)
Torchy's Big Lead (Tent.)
Torchy's Busy Day	Oct. 2	20
Torchy's Kitty Coup	Jan. 22,'33	21
Torchy's Loud Spooker	Apr. 23,'33
Torchy Rolls His Own	Nov. 20	21
Torchy Turns Turtle	Mar. 19,'33	21
VANITY COMEDIES
Hollywood Run-Around Monty Collins	Dec. 18	20	Mar. 25,'33
Honeymoon Beach Billy Bevan-Glenn Tryon	Oct. 23	21
Keyhole Katie Gale Seabrook-John T. Murray	Jan. 15,'33	20
Ship A-Hooey Glenn Tryon	Aug. 7	22
Techno-crazy Monty Collins-Billy Bevan	Mar. 12,'33	19

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Alpine Echoes	Aug. 14
2 Incredible India	Aug. 21	9
3 Big Game of the Sea	Aug. 28	8
4 The Tom-Tom Trail	Sept. 4	9
5 By-Ways of France	Sept. 11	9	Dec. 17
6 Manhattan Medley	Sept. 18	10
7 Rhineland Memories	Sept. 25	8
8 Fisherman's Fortune	Oct. 2	9
9 Zanzibar	Oct. 9	9
10 Belles of Bali	Oct. 16	8	Jan. 7,'33
11 Sailing a Square-Rigger	Oct. 23	10	Dec. 10
12 Venetian Holiday	Oct. 30	10	Nov. 12
13 Havana Ho!	Nov. 6	9
14 Paths In Palestine	Nov. 13	8
15 Ricksha Rhythm	Nov. 20
16 Pirate Isles	Nov. 27	9
17 From Kashmir to the Khyber	Dec. 4	9	Nov. 19
18 Silver Springs	Dec. 11
19 Desert Tripoli	Dec. 18
20 In the Guianas	Dec. 25	9
21 Mediterranean Memories	Jan. 1,'33
22 The Lure of the Orient	Jan. 8,'33	9
23 Here Comes the Circus	Jan. 15,'33
24 Sicilian Sunshine	Jan. 22,'33	10	Mar. 25,'33
25 Gorges of the Giants	Jan. 29,'33	9	Dec. 31
26 When in Rome	Feb. 5,'33
27 Berlin Medley	Feb. 12,'33	9	Nov. 26
28 Rhapsody of the Rails	Feb. 19,'33
29 Taking the Cure	Feb. 26,'33
30 Down From Vesuvius	Mar. 5,'33
31 Paris on Parade	Mar. 12,'33
32 Broadway by Day	Mar. 19,'33
33 The Iceberg Patrol
34 Mississippi Showboats
35 Sampans and Shadows
36 Boardwalks of New York
37 A Gondola Journey
38 Isles of the East Indies
39 Pagodas of Peiping

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLEY CHASE
Arabian Tights	June 3,'33	20
Fallen Arches	Feb. 4,'33	19
Girl Grief	Oct. 8	20
Mr. Bride	Dec. 24	19
Now We'll Tell One	Nov. 19	19	Oct. 22
Tarzan in the Wrong		20
Young Ironsides	Sept. 3	20
COLORTONE MUSICAL REVUES
Hollywood Premiere	Jan. 7,'33	18
Over the Counter		18	Feb. 25,'33
Wild People	Feb. 4,'33	18
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Barbados and Trinidad	Sept. 24	9
Big Ditch of Panama, The		9	June 4
Come Back to Erin
Cuba, Land of the Rhumba	Feb. 25,'33
Iceland	Jan. 14,'33	10	Feb. 11,'33
Leningrad	Dec. 17	9	Mar. 11,'33
Norway	Feb. 4,'33	9
Over the Seas to Borneo		9
Rio the Magnificent		9
Romantic Argentina	Aug. 27	9
World Dances, The		9
FLIP, THE FROG
Circus	Aug. 27
Cuckoo the Magician	Jan. 21,'33
Funny Face	Dec. 24	8
Lunchroom, The
Music Lesson, The	Oct. 29	8
Nursemaid, The	Nov. 26	7
Room Runners	Aug. 13
LAUREL & HARDY
Scram	Sept. 10	21	Oct. 15
Their First Mistake		21
Towed In a Hole	Dec. 31	21
Twice Two	Feb. 25,'33	21
ODDITIES
Chill and Chills	Sept. 10	9
Duck Hunter's Paradise	Dec. 31	10	Dec. 31
Microscopic Mysteries	Oct. 18	10	Apr. 8,'33
Sea Spiders	Aug. 13	9	Oct. 29
Toy Parade, The	Dec. 3	7	Dec. 17
Whispering Bill	Dec. 31	10
OUR GANG
A Lad An' A Lamp	Dec. 17	17
Birthday Blues	Nov. 12	20
Fish Hooky	Jan. 28,'33	19
Forgotten Babies	Mar. 11,'33	17
Free Wheeling	Oct. 1	20
Hook and Ladder	Aug. 27	18
Kid from Borneo, The	Apr. 15,'33	19
Mush and Milk	May 27,'33
PITTS-TODD
Alum and Eve	Sept. 24	18	Aug. 13
Asleep in the Feet	Jan. 21,'33	19
Show Business	Aug. 20	20
Sneak Easily	Dec. 10	17
Sailors, The	Oct. 29	19
SPECIAL
Roosevelt, the Man of the Hour		17
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Allez Oop	Mar. 11,'33
Auto Racing	Apr. 1,'33
Blocks and Tackles	Nov. 5	12	Mar. 11,'33
Bone Crushers	Feb. 8,'33	8
Chalk Up	Dec. 10	10	Jan. 7,'33
Desert Regatta	Sept. 17	10
Football Footwork		12
Motorcycle Mania	Jan. 28,'33	9
Old Spanish Custom	Oct. 15	10	Mar. 11,'33
Pigskin	Oct. 22	12	Dec. 10
Snow Birds	Aug. 20	10
Swing High	Dec. 10	10	Dec. 17
TAXI BOYS
Bring 'Em Back a Wife	Jan. 14,'33	20
Call Her Sausage
Farewell to Legs
Hot Spot	Oct. 22	18	Oct. 1
Rummy, The		18
Strange Innertube	Sept. 22
Taxi Barons
Taxi For Two	Dec. 3	18
Thundering Taxis	June 24,'33	16
What Price Taxi	Aug. 13
Wreckety Wrecks	Feb. 18,'33	19	Mar. 25,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
HOLLYWOOD ON PARADE
No. 1	Aug. 26	10	Aug. 13
No. 2	Sept. 23	1 reel
No. 3	Oct. 21	1 reel

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
No. 4	Nov.	18..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5	Dec.	16..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6	Jan.	13,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 7	Feb.	10,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8	Mar.	10,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9	Apr.	7,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10	May	5,'33... 1 reel	.....
ONE REEL ACTS
Be Like Me Ethel Merman	Feb.	18,'33... 1 reel	.....
Breaking Even Tom Howard	Sept.	30.....	.....
Hawaiian Fantasy Vincent Lopez	Jan.	20,'33... 1 reel	.....
Let's Dance Burns and Allen	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Moonlight Fantasy Vincent Lopez	Apr.	14,'33... 1 reel	.....
Musical Doctor Rudy Vallee	Oct.	28.....10.....Oct. 1
Patents Pending Burns and Allen	Aug.	5.....	.....
Rhapsody in Black & Blue Louis Armstrong	Sept.	2.....	.....
Rookie, The Tom Howard	Dec.	23..... 1 reel	.....
Walking the Baby Burns & Allen	May	12,'33... 1 reel	.....
Your Hat Burns & Allen	Nov.	25.....	.....
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL—NEW SERIES
No. 1—Mists of the Morning—Temple Bells of Indo-China—Famous Radio Personalities	Aug.	12..... 1 reel	.....
No. 2—Just Mentioning the Unmentionable — New England Sunsets—Famous Radio Personalities	Sept.	9..... 1 reel	.....
No. 3—Making Friends in the Desert—The Fall of the Year — Radio Star-Maker	Oct.	7..... 1 reel	.....
No. 4—Distinctive Hair for Distinctive Heads — The Blooming Desert — The Camels Are Coming	Nov.	4..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5—John Mongol Comes to Town—Have a Little Ski—Meet Your Favorite Radio Personalities	Dec.	4..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6—Land of Sun and Shine — La Rumba de Cuba—Big Shots of U.S. Navy	Dec.	30..... 1 reel	.....
No. 7—This Is Ducky — Music From the Ancients —Bringing You the News	Jan.	27,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8—Glass Making at the Corning Glass Works — "Going Back Home" — Costuming the Earl Carroll Vanities	Feb.	24,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9—A Drama of the Northland — Paramount Pictorial Presents Amelia Earhart	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10—Birth of the Year — Laboratory Sleuth — Three X Sisters	Apr.	21,'33... 1 reel	.....
SCREEN SONGS
Ain't She Sweet Lillian Roth	Feb.	3,'33.....
Aloha Oe Royal Samoans	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Dinah Mills Bros.	Jan.	13,'33... 1 reel	.....
Down Among the Sugar Cane Lillian Roth	Aug.	26.....
Just a Gigolo Irene Bordoni	Sept.	9.....
Peanut Vendor, The Armida	Apr.	28,'33.....
Popular Melodies Arthur Jarrett	Apr.	7,'33... 1 reel	.....
Reaching for the Moon	Feb.	24,'33... 1 reel	.....
Romantic Melodies The Street Singer	Oct.	21..... 1 reel	.....
Rudy Vallee Melodies Rudy Vallee	Aug.	5..... 1 reel	.....
School Days Gus Edwards	Sept.	30.....
Sing a Song James Melton	Dec.	2.....
Time on My Hands Ethel Merman	Dec.	23..... 7...Jan. 7,'33
When It's Sleepy Time Down South Boswell Sisters	Nov.	11..... 1 reel	.....
SCREEN SOUVENIRS — NEW SERIES
No. 1	Aug.	5..... 1 reel	.....
No. 2	Sept.	2..... 1 reel	.....
No. 3	Sept.	30.....10.....Oct. 15
No. 4	Oct.	28..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5	Nov.	25..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6	Dec.	23..... 1 reel	.....
No. 7	Jan.	20,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8	Feb.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10	Apr.	14,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 11	May	12,'33.....
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly
SPORTS EYE VIEW
Aggravatin' Bear, The	Apr.	28,'33... 1 reel	.....
Building Winners	Aug.	19..... 1 reel	.....
Canine Thrills	Feb.	3,'33... 1 reel	.....
Catch 'Em Young	Dec.	9..... 1 reel	.....
Fighting Fins	Oct.	14.....10.....Oct. 15
Hot and Cold Thrills	Mar.	31,'33... 1 reel	.....
Jabs and Jolts	May	26,'33... 1 reel	.....
Over the Jumps	Jan.	6,'33... 1 reel	.....
Stuff on the Ball	Nov.	11..... 1 reel	.....
Water Jamboree	Sept.	16..... 1 reel	.....
Wonder Girl, The Babe Didrickson	Mar.	3,'33... 1 reel	.....
TALKARTOONS
Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle	Sept.	23.....
Betty Boop's Birthday Party	Apr.	21,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Bizzy Bee	Aug.	19..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Crazy Inventions	Jan.	27,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop for President	Nov.	4..... 7.....Oct. 1
Betty Boop's Ker-Choo	Jan.	6,'33... 7.....Dec. 10
Betty Boop, M.D.	Sept.	2..... 7.....Dec. 10
Betty Boop's May Party	May	12,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Museum	Dec.	16..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Ups & Downs	Oct.	14..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Penthouse	Mar.	10,'33... 6....Feb. 25,'33
Is My Palm Read	Feb.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Minding the Baby	Sept.	26..... 1 reel	.....
Snow-White	Mar.	31,'33... 1 reel	.....
Stopping the Show	Aug.	12.....	.....
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Blue of the Night Bing Crosby	Jan.	6,'33...20.....Sept. 16
Bring 'Em Back Sober Sennett Star	Nov.	18..... 2 reels	.....
Caliente Love Sennett Star	Mar.	10,'33... 2 reels	.....
Cook's Day Off, The Sennett Star		.....	.....
Courting Trouble Charles Murray	Oct.	28.....19.....Dec. 17
Dentist, The Sennett Star	Dec.	9.....20.....Dec. 8
Don't Play Bridge With Your Wife Sennett Star	Jan.	13,'33... 2 reels	.....
Druggist, The Sennett Star	Apr.	21,'33.....	.....
Doubling in the Quickies Sennett Star	Dec.	16..... 2 reels	.....
Easy On the Eyes Sennett Star	Feb.	17,'33... 2 reels	.....
False Impressions Sennett Star	Nov.	4..... 2 reels	.....
Fatal Glass of Beer W. C. Fields	Mar.	3,'33... 2 reels	.....
His Perfect Day Sennett Star		.....	.....
Hollywood Double, A Sennett Star	Nov.	25..... 2 reels	.....
Honeymoon Bridge Sennett Star		.....	.....
Hubby's Vacation Sennett Star		.....	.....
Human Fish Sennett Star	Dec.	30..... 2 reels	.....
In the Bag Sennett Star		.....	.....
Lion and the House, The Sennett Star	Dec.	23.....18	.....
Ma's Pride and Joy Donald Novis	Oct.	14.....18.....Aug. 27
Morning After, The Sennett Star		.....	.....
Pharmacist, The Sennett Star	Apr.	21,'33... 2 reels	.....
Plumber and the Lady, The Sennett Star	Mar.	31,'33... 2 reels	.....
Prosperity Pays Tom Howard	Nov.	4.....	.....
Sing, Bing, Sing Bing Crosby	Mar.	24,'33... 2 reels	.....
Singing Boxer, The	Jan.	27,'33.....	.....
Singing Plumber Donald Novis	Sept.	23.....	.....
Sweet Cookie Sennett Star	Apr.	14,'33... 2 reels	.....
Temporary Butler Sennett Star		.....	.....
Too Many Highballs Sennett Star	Feb.	10,'33... 2 reels	.....
Uncle Jake Sennett Star	May	5,'33... 2 reels	.....
Wrestlers, The Sennett Star	Jan.	20,'33.....	.....

POWERS PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Dream Flowers	Sept.	15..... 9	.....
Dual Control (Capt. James A. Mollison-Amy Johnson)	Sept.	1.....12	.....
It All Depends on You	Nov.	1..... 8	.....
Land of My Fathers		 9	.....
Light of Love	Oct.	15..... 9	.....
Me and the Boy Friend	Oct.	1..... 8	.....

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES (Re-Issues)
The Cure	Aug.	19.....20	.....
Easy Street	Sept.	30.....19½....Dec. 17
The Floorwalker	Dec.	23.....20½	.....
The Pawnshop	Mar.	17,'33.....	.....
The Rink	Nov.	11.....20	.....
The Vagabond	Feb.	3,'33...21	.....
CLARK AND McCULLOUGH SERIES
Druggist's Dilemma, The	May	5,'33...17	.....
Hocus Focus	Mar.	3,'33...20	.....
Ice Man's Ball	Aug.	12.....20.....Aug. 13
Jitters, The Butler	Dec.	30.....20½....Aug. 20
Millionaire Cat, The	Oct.	21.....21	.....
HARRY SWEET COMEDIES
Firehouse Honeymoon	Oct.	28.....18...Jan. 14,'33
Heave Two	Mar.	10,'33...20½	.....
Just a Pain in a Parlor	Aug.	26.....20	.....
Loops, My Dear	Jan.	6,'33...17	.....
Shakespeare With Tin Ears	June	30,'33...18½	.....
Thrown Out of Joint	May	12,'33...21	.....
HEADLINER SERIES
No. 1—Shampoo, the Magician Roscoe Ates-Hugh Herbert	Nov.	25.....17	.....
No. 2—Private Wives Skeets Gallagher W Catlett	Jan.	27,'33...21	.....
No. 3—Hip, Zip, Hooray Nat Carr	Mar.	31,'33...18½	.....
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Abroad In Old Kentucky		.....	.....
Bride's Bereavement, The	Nov.	18..... 19	.....
Lost In the Limehouse	Apr.	7,'33...20½	.....
Through Thin and Thicket	Jan.	20,'33...17½	.....
Two Lips and Julips	Sept.	9.....20	.....
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Ape Man	Feb.	10,'33...18	.....
Mickey's Big Broadcast		.....	.....
Mickey's Busy Day	Sept.	2.....18.....Aug. 6
Mickey's Charity	Dec.	2.....18	.....
Mickey's Disguise		.....	.....
Mickey's Race	Apr.	14,'33...18	.....
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Art In the Raw	Feb.	24,'33...19	.....
Fish Feathers	Dec.	16.....18	.....
Golf Chump, The	Aug.	5.....20.....Aug. 13
Inferior Decorations		.....	.....
Merchant of Menace, The	Apr.	21,'33...19½	.....
Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath	Oct.	14.....20½	.....
PATHE NEWS
Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW
Released once a month
SPECIALS
So This Is Harris		28...Mar. 11,'33
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Barnyard Bunk	Sept.	16..... 6	.....
Happy Hoboes	Mar.	31,'33.....	.....
Jolly Fish	Aug.	19..... 6	.....
Magic Mummy	Feb.	7,'33... 7	.....
Panicky Pup	Feb.	24,'33... 7	.....
Pencil Mania	Dec.	9..... 7	.....
Piano Tooners	Nov.	11..... 7½	.....
Spanish Twist, A	Oct.	14..... 6	.....
Tight Rope Tricks	Jan.	6,'33... 7	.....

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ATLANTIC FILM
Playgrounds In the Sky		10.....Nov. 5
Sportsmen's Paradise		10.....July 30
CAESAR FILMS
Veneziana		..... 1 reel	.....
CENTRAL FILM
A Pilgrimage Through Palestine		10.....Dec. 8
Boston Common—and Proper		10...Jan. 7,'33
Hula		..... 3 reels	.....
In Old New Orleans		.....May 28
Syria		.....May 21
F. M. S. CORP.
Newslaughs		..... 7...Jan. 28,'33
IDEAL
Evolution		28.....Sept. 9
INDUSTRIAL
The Silent Enemy		30	.....
MARY WARNER
Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation		 8	.....
Berlin: Rhythm of a Metropolis		..... 8...Apr. 8,'33
Glimpses of Germany		 8	.....
Green Heart of Germany, The		20	.....
Springtime on the Rhine		 7	.....
The Mosel		..... 8.....Oct. 15
Trier, Oldest City In Germany		 6	.....
Vintagers' Festival In the Palatinate		.....10...Mar. 11,'33
Winter In the Bavarian Alps		..... 1 reel	.....
Young Germany Goes Ski-ing		..... 1 reel	.....
MASCOT
Technocracy		.....10...Jan. 7,'33
MASTER ART PRODUCTS
Melody Makers Series:
Sammy Fain		..... 10.....Dec. 24
Benny Davis		 9	.....
Clin Friend		 9	.....
Night of Romance		 7	.....
PRINCIPAL
Beer Is Here		.....	.....
Get That Lion		.....29.....Aug. 27
Isle of Desire		..... 3 reels	.....
Isle of Peril		.....32.....July 16
Isles of Love		..... 1 reel	.....
Killing the Killer		.....11.....July 30
Matto Grosso		24	.....
New Western Front		25	.....
Primitive		..... 1 reel	.....
Tiger Hunt, The		.....20.....Dec. 31
Voodoo		36	.....
WARD PRODUCTIONS
Your Technocracy and Mine		..... 9½.Feb. 11,'33

UNITED ARTISTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MICKEY MOUSE
1. Mickey's Nightmare	Aug.	8..... 7½....Oct. 8
2. Trader Mickey	Aug.	26..... 7	.....
3. The Whoopee Party	Sept.	16..... 7.....Nov. 12
4. Touchdown Mickey	Oct.	7..... 6½	.....
5. The Wayward Canary	Oct.	28..... 7¼	.....
6. The Klondike Kid	Nov.	18.....	.....
7. Mickey's Good Deed	Dec.	9..... 8	.....
8. Building a Building	Dec.	20..... 7	.....
9. The Mad Doctor	Jan.	20,'33... 8	.....
10. Mickey's Pal Pluto	Feb.	10,'33... 7	.....
11. The Mellerdrammer	Mar.	3,'33.....	.....
12. Ye Olden Days		.....	.....
SILLY SYMPHONIES
1. Bears and Bees	July	15..... 6½	.....
2. Just Dogs	Aug.	12..... 7	.....
3. Flowers and Trees	Sept.	9..... 8.....Oct. 15
4. Bugs In Love	Sept.	21..... 7	.....
5. King Neptune	Oct.	7..... 7.....Oct. 29
6. Babes In the Wood	Dec.	2..... 8...Apr. 1,'33
7. Santa's Workshop	Dec.	30..... 7.....Dec. 24
8. Birds In the Spring		.....	.....
9. Father Noah's Ark		.....	.....

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Beau Best	May	8,'33... 1 reel	.....
Busy Barber	Sept.	12..... 1 reel	.....
Carnival Capers	Oct.	10..... 1 reel	.....
Day Nurse	Aug.	1..... 1 reel	.....
Going to Blazes	Apr.	10,'33... 1 reel	.....
Oswald, the Plumber	Jan.	30,'33... 7	.....
Shriek, The	Feb.	27,'33... 7...Mar. 25,'33
Teacher's Pest	Dec.	19..... 7	.....
Wild and Wooly	Nov.	21..... 1 reel	.....
POOCH CARTOONS
Athlete, The	Aug.	29..... 8.....Sept. 10
Butcher Boy, The	Sept.	26..... 7.....Sept. 17
Cat and Dogs	Dec.	5..... 1 reel	.....
Crowd Snores, The	Oct.	24..... 1 reel	.....
Lumber Champ, The	Mar.	13,'33... 7...Apr. 8,'33
Merry Dog, The	Jan.	2,'33... 1 reel	.....
S. O. S. Icicle	Apr.	24,'33...	.....
Terrible Troubador, The	Feb.	13,'33... 1 reel	.....
Underdog, The	Nov.	7..... 1 reel	.....
RADIO STAR REELS
Morton Downey—No. 1 With Vincent Lopez	Oct.	31..... 2 reels	.....
The Street Singer Nick Kenny—No. 1	Nov.	14..... 2 reels	.....
Morton Downey—No. 2 With Brown and Henderson	Nov.	28..... 2 reels	.....
Art Jarrett Nick Kenny—No. 2	Dec.	12..... 2 reels	.....
Down Memory Lane Louis Sobel—No. 1 With Texas Guinan	Dec.	26..... 1 reel	.....
Married or Single Nick Kenny—No. 3 With Little Jack Little	Jan.	16,'33...21	.....
I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket Walter Winchell—No. 1 With Paul Whiteman	Jan.	30,'33...21...Feb. 11,'33
Morton Downey—No. 3 The Holdup With Joe Young	Feb.	14,'33... 2 reels	.....
Radio Murder Mystery Louis Sobel—No. 2	Mar.	6,'33... 2 reels	.....
Morton Downey—No. 4 My Pal the Prince	Apr.	17,'33... 2 reels	.....
SPECIAL
The Voice of the Vatican	Mar.	13,'33...10...Mar. 11,'33
Your Technocracy and Mine	Apr.	15,'33... 1 reel	.....
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 21—Novelty	Aug.	22..... 1 reel	.....
No. 22—Novelty	Sept.	19..... 1 reel	.....
No. 23—Novelty	Oct.	17..... 1 reel	.....
No. 24—Novelty	Nov.	14..... 1 reel	.....
No. 25—Novelty	Dec.	12..... 1 reel	.....
No. 26—Novelty	Jan.	23,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 27—Novelty	Mar.	20,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 28—Novelty	Apr.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 29—Novelty	May	15,'33... 1 reel	.....
UNIVERSAL BREVITIES
Bee I	Dec.	26..... 1 reel	.....
Dr. Jekyll's Hide	Sept.	26..... 9.....Oct. 1
Good Old Days, The	Nov.	21..... 1 reel	.....
Greeks Had No Words for Them, The	Oct.	24..... 1 reel	.....
Lizzie Strata	Jan.	23,'33...10	.....
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1932-33 SEASON)
A Quiet Night Bert Roach		21	.....
Alias the Professor James Gleason	Mar.	8,'33... 2 reels	.....
Boys Will Be Boys Frank Albertson	Nov.	30..... 2 reels	.....
Family Troubles Henry Armetta	Jan.	11,'33...21	.....
Finishing Touch Skeets Gallagher June Clyde	Oct.	19..... 2 reels	.....
Hesitating Love L. Fazenda-M. Prevost	Nov.	16..... 2 reels	.....
Hunting Trouble Louise Fazenda	Feb.	8,'33...20...Mar. 11,'33
Kid Glove Kisses Slim Summerville	Sept.	21..... 2 reels	.....
Lights Out James Gleason	Dec.	24..... 2 reels	.....
Mister Mugg James Gleason	May	10,'33...21	.....
My Operation Vince Barnett-June Clyde	Dec.	28..... 2 reels	.....
Officer, Save My Child Slim Summerville	Nov.	2..... 2 reels	.....
Pick Me Up Marie Prevost	Apr.	5,'33...19	.....
Rockabye Cowboy James Gleason	Jan.	25,'33... 2 reels	.....
Room Mates Frank Albertson	Apr.	19,'33...20	.....
Should Crooners Marry? Frank Albertson	Feb.	22,'33... 2 reels	.....
Trial of Vince Barnett Vince Barnett	Mar.	22,'33...	.....
Union Wages Louise Fazenda	Aug.	30.....20.....Sept. 17
Who, Me Frank Albertson	Sept.	7..... 2 reels	.....
Yoo Hoo! James Gleason	Oct.	5.....21.....Sept. 3

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ADVENTURES IN AFRICA		2 reels	.....
BELIEVE IT OR NOT— ROBERT L. RIPLEY		1 reel	.....
BIG V COMEDIES
No. 1—Sherlock's Home Jack Haley			.....
No. 2—Here, Prince Joe Penner			.....
No. 3—You Call It Madness Ricky Craig, Jr.			.....
No. 4—Hey, Pop Reesee (Fatty) Arbuckle			.....
No. 5—Then Came the Yawn Jack Haley			.....
No. 6—The Run Around William Demarest			.....
No. 7—Trouble Indemnity Codee and Orth			.....
No. 8—The Build-Up Jack Haley			.....
No. 9—Buzzin' Around Reesee (Fatty) Arbuckle			.....
No. 10—Wrongorilla Jack Haley			.....
BROADWAY BREVITIES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—C'est Paris Technicolor Musical	Sept.	3.....17	.....
No. 2—Passing the Buck Alexander Gray	Sept.	24.....18	.....
No. 3—Tea for Two Technicolor Musical	Oct.	8.....17.....Nov. 12
No. 4—Tip-Tap-Toe Hal Leroy-Mitzi-Mayfair	Oct.	22.....19	.....
No. 5—A Modern Cinderella Ruth Etting	Nov.	5.....18	.....
No. 6—Picking a Winner Technicolor Musical	Nov.	19.....16.....Nov. 19
No. 7—The Red Shadow Al. Gray-Beraise Claire	Dec.	3.....18	.....
No. 8—Sky Symphony Stoopnagle & Budd	June	3,'33	.....
No. 9—Poor Little Rich Boy Phil Baker	Dec.	24.....18	.....
No. 10—Hey, Hey, Westerner Technicolor Musical	Dec.	31.....17.....Oct. 15
No. 11—That Goes Double Russ Columbo	June	17,'33	.....
No. 12—Bygones Ruth Etting	Jan.	14,'33...18	.....
No. 13—Pleasure Island Technicolor Musical	Feb.	25,'33...18	.....
No. 14—Yours Sincerely Lanny Ross	Mar.	11,'33...19	.....
No. 15—Speaking of Operations Pick & Pat	Jan.	28,'33...18	.....
No. 16—Northern Exposure Technicolor Musical	Apr.	8,'33...16	.....
No. 17—Nothing Ever Happens Musical	Mar.	25,'33	.....
No. 18—World's Champ Jack Dempsey	July	11,'33	.....
No. 19—The Way of All Freshmen Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Apr.	22,'33	.....
No. 20—Along Came Ruth Ruth Etting	May	6,'33	.....
No. 21—Fifi V. Segal-Chas. Judels	May	20,'33	.....
HOW TO BREAK 90 BOBBY JONES
No. 1—Hands and Grip	May	27,'33	.....
No. 2—Position and Back Swing			.....
No. 3—Hip Action			.....
No. 4—Down Swing			.....
No. 5—Impact			.....
No. 6—Fine Points			.....
LOONEY TUNES SERIES
No. 9—Bosko and Bruno		7.....Dec. 10
No. 10—Bosko's Dog Race		8.....July 8
No. 11—Bosko at the Beach		7.....Nov. 5
No. 12—Bosko's Store		7	.....
No. 13—Bosko the Lumberjack			.....
LOONEY TUNES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Ride Him, Bosko			.....
No. 2—Bosko the Drawback			.....
No. 3—Bosko's Dizzy Date			.....
No. 4—Bosko's Woodland Daze			.....
No. 5—Bosko in Dutch			.....
No. 6—Bosko in Person			.....
No. 7—Bosko the Speed King			.....
No. 8—Bosko's Knight Mare			.....
MELODY MASTERS (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Music to My Ears Jack Denny and Band			.....
No. 2—Municipal Band Wagon			.....
No. 3—Smash Your Baggage Small's Paradise Band			.....
No. 4—The Lease Breakers Aunt Jemima		9.....Dec. 3
No. 5—The Yacht Party Roger Wolfe Kahn's Band			.....
No. 6—Hot Competition The Continentals-Barris-Whiteman-Ted Husing			.....
No. 7—Abe Lyman and Band		10...Apr. 1,'33
No. 8—"How's Tricks?" Jean Sargent-George Owen and Gang			.....
No. 9—That's the Spirit Noble Sissle and Band			.....
No. 10—The Alma Martyr Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians			.....
MERRY MELODIES (New Series)
No. 1—You're Too Careless with Your Kisses		8.....Dec. 17
No. 2—I Wish I Had Wings			.....
No. 3—A Great Big Bunch of You			.....
No. 4—Three's a Crowd			.....
No. 5—Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives			.....
No. 6—One Step Ahead of My Shadow			.....
No. 7—Young and Healthy			.....
No. 8—The Organ Grinder			.....
No. 9—Wake Up the Gypsy in Me			.....
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The Primo Carnera		2 reels	.....
Gypsy Caravan Martinelli		1 reel	.....
Handy Guy, The Earl Sande		2 reels	.....
Rhythms of a Big City		1 reel	.....
Season's Greetings, The Christmas Special		5	.....
Trip to Tibet, A		1 reel	.....
ONE-REEL COMEDIES
Washington, The Man and the Capital Clarence Whitehill		18	.....
Baby Face Victor Moore			.....
Military Post, The Robert Guzman			.....
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison			.....
No Questions Asked Little Billy			.....
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neill			.....
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal		1 reel	.....
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal		1 reel	.....
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal		1 reel	.....
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Moving In		2 reels	.....
Rough Sailing		16	.....
Stutterless Romance, A		1 reel	.....
Where Men Are Men		2 reels	.....
PEPPER POT (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 1			.....
No. 2—Nickelette			.....
No. 3—Contact			.....
No. 4—If I'm Elected			.....
No. 5—King Salmon			.....
No. 6—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 2			.....
No. 7—Babe O' Mine			.....
No. 8—Dangerous Occupations			.....
No. 9—Out of the Past			.....
No. 10—Love Thy Neighbor			.....
No. 11—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 3			.....
No. 12—A Whale of a Yarn			.....
No. 13—Africa Speaks—English			.....
No. 14—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4			.....
No. 15—Sea Devils			.....
No. 16—Parades of Yesterday			.....
No. 17—Breakwater			.....
No. 18—Little White Lies			.....
No. 19—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 5			.....
No. 20—You're Killing Me			.....
No. 21—Inklings			.....
No. 22—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 6			.....
No. 23—Around the World in 8 Minutes		8.....Aug. 20
No. 24—Fishermen's Holiday			.....
No. 25—Stuck, Stuck, Stucco			.....
No. 26—Seeing Samoa			.....
SPORT THRILLS SERIES TED HUSING
No. 1			.....
No. 2			.....
No. 3			.....
No. 4—Old Time Sport Thrills			.....
No. 5			.....
No. 6—			.....
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES (Donald Meek-John Hamilton)
No. 10—Campus Mystery, The			.....
No. 11—Crane Poison Case, The			.....
No. 12—Transatlantic Mystery, The		22.....Sept. 19
TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray			.....
Freshman Love Ruth Etting			.....
Old Lace Ruth Etting			.....
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters		1 reel	.....
No. 2—Southern India		9	.....
No. 3—Road to Mandalay		1 reel	.....
No. 4—Mediterranean Byways		9	.....
No. 5—Javanese Journeys		9	.....
No. 6—Northern India		1 reel	.....
No. 7—Oberammergau		1 reel	.....
No. 8—South American Journeys		9.....June 25
No. 9—Soviet Russia		1 reel	.....
No. 10—Paris Glimpses		9.....July 30
No. 11—Dear Old London		1 reel	.....
No. 12—When In Rome		9.....June 16
No. 13—Berlin Today		9.....Oct. 29
WORLD ADVENTURES E. M. NEWMAN (New Series)
No. 1—Dancing Around the World		1 reel	.....
No. 2—Transportations of the World		1 reel	.....
No. 3—An Oriental Cocktail		10.....Oct. 8
No. 4—Curious Customs of the World		1 reel	.....
No. 5—From Bethlehem to Jerusalem		10...Apr. 1,'33
No. 6—High Spots of the Far East		10.....Sept. 10
No. 7—Main Streets		1 reel	.....
No. 8—Beauty Spots of the World		1 reel	.....
No. 9—Workers of the World		1 reel	.....
No. 10—Wonder Spots of the World		1 reel	.....
No. 11—Costumes of the World		1 reel	.....
No. 12—Strange Ceremonies		1 reel	.....
No. 13—Top of the World		1 reel	.....

SERIALS

UNIVERSAL

(EACH SERIAL 12 EPISODES OF TWO REELS)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clancy of the Mounted Tom Tyler-Jacqueline Wells	Feb.	27,'33...20 (each)...Feb. 4,'33
Last Special Frank Albertson	Dec.	5	.....
Jungle Mystery Tom Tyler	Sept.	12.....20 (each)	.....
Phantom of the Air Tom Tyler-Gloria Shea	May	22,'33	.....

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

the great national medium for showmen

Ten cents per word, money-order or check with copy. Count initials, box number and address. Minimum insertion, $1. Four insertions for the price of three. Contract rates on application. No borders or cuts. Forms close Mondays at 5 P.M. Publisher reserves right to reject any copy. Address correspondence, copy and checks to MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Classified Dept., 1790 Broadway, New York City

REPAIR SERVICE

BEST GRADE REPAIR WORK. PRICES RIGHT. Free relief heads. Prompt service. GUERCIO AND BARTHEL, 1018 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

USED EQUIPMENT

UNUSUAL BARGAINS IN USED OPERA Chairs, Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Spotlights, Stereopticons, etc. Projection Machines Repaired. Send for catalogue H. MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

HIGH GRADE LENSES, ALL SIZES; SELL OR trade. Cheap. BOX 288, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

SACRIFICING COMPLETE RECORDING STUDIO —Mitchell, Bell Howell Cameras; Amplifiers; Mikes; Recording Heads; Glowlamps, etc. BOX 289, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

LIQUIDATION PROCEEDING — GOVERNMENT Surplus—Tremendous Reductions: Projectors, Lamphouses, Generators, Rectifiers, Amplifiers, Soundheads, Loudspeakers. Trades accepted. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

PAIR SIMPLEX MACHINES REBUILT, GUARanteed, $350; Peerless low intensity lamps, $190. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 311 West 44th Street, New York.

TRAILER SERVICE

SPECIAL SOUND TRAILERS MADE TO MEET your present budget. Send us copy and we will quote prices. BOX 130A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PRINTING SERVICE

1,000 BUSINESS CARDS 50c. KROY PRESS, 326 N. Queen, York, Pa.

NEW EQUIPMENT

LIQUIDATION SOUNDHEAD STOCK LEADING manufacturer—fraction original value. Built like finely jewelled watch. Year's greatest opportunity. BOX 293, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

WANTED TO BUY

WILL PAY $10.00 CASH EACH FOR SIMPLEX pedestals, complete. BOX 292, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

THEATRES

FOR SALE OR LEASE, SEVERAL WORTHwhile propositions all over the country. If interested let us know your wants. BOX 128A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

FOR SALE: IN KENTUCKY, THEATRE LEASE, sound equipment, no opposition, population 3,000. T. H. JONES, 1112 Harrison Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

SALE OR LEASE PAYING THEATRE. SMALL Ohio city. BOX 291, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PROJECTIONISTS UNIONS

THE NEW NATIONAL PROJECTIONISTS' Union—Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union. National Executive Offices, 3546 Vincent North, Minneapolis, Minn.

ENTERTAINERS MATERIAL

MONOLOGUES, DIALOGUES, SPECIALLY written. Dollar each. TIZZARD, 801-A Willoughby Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT

ELECTRIC POPCORN MACHINE. PERFECT bargain, $65.00. INDIAN KETTLES CLUB, Ticonderoga, N. Y.

RECTIFIERS, 30 AMPERES, FOREST, $75; 15 amperes rectifiers, $25. Special prices for this month only. Act at once. Guaranteed. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 311 West 44th St., New York.

FILM EXCHANGES

INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES ALL OVER THE country wanted to act as local representative for independent productions handled on state right basis. State number of theatres serviced in territory together with list of producers you are now representing. BOX 134-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

HELP WANTED

FILM SALESMEN AND REPRESENTATIVES TO contact exhibitors and secure contracts and bookings for independent productions on a state right basis. State in first letter experience, etc. Those with car and interested in percentage basis preferred. BOX 133-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

POSITIONS WANTED

BACKED BY 12 YEARS' EXPERIENCE AS manager and theatre operator. Will accept any offer anywhere. Can furnish references. BOX 129A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

MARRIED MAN, EXPERIENCED SOUND PROjectionist and capable of servicing equipment. Will go anywhere and accept any reasonable offer. Best references furnished. BOX 132A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

SOUND PROJECTIONIST, MARRIED. GOOD mechanic. Go anywhere. KENNETH RUMMINGS, 506 Locust St., Clearfield, Pa.

THEATRES WANTED

WILL RENT, LEASE OR BUY WORTHWHILE theatre properties all over the country. State seating capacity, value and population. Also state condition of theatre, how equipped and what competition. BOX 122A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

WANTED TO LEASE THEATRE WITH OPTION of buying. State details. Cost, capacity, sound used, what competition. Address direct, P. S. DOFFLEMYER, 245 High St., Pottstown, Pa.

WILL BUY, RENT, LEASE THEATRE EITHER Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania, seating 600 or over. Population 8,000 or more. Write complete details first letter. JOAN, 1167 Seventh, Lorain, Ohio.

TECHNICAL BOOKS

"RICHARDSON'S HAND BOOKS OF PROJECtion" in three volumes. Universally accredited as the best and most practical. Aaron Nadell's "Projection Sound Pictures." Complete information on sound equipment. Both text books complete for $12.80. QUIGLEY BOOKSHOP, 1790 Broadway, New York.

"EFFECTIVE THEATRE ADVERTISING"—Fourteen booklets on how to increase box-office receipts—cover every phase of theatre advertising. Now $6.00, postpaid. THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, Elmira, N. Y.

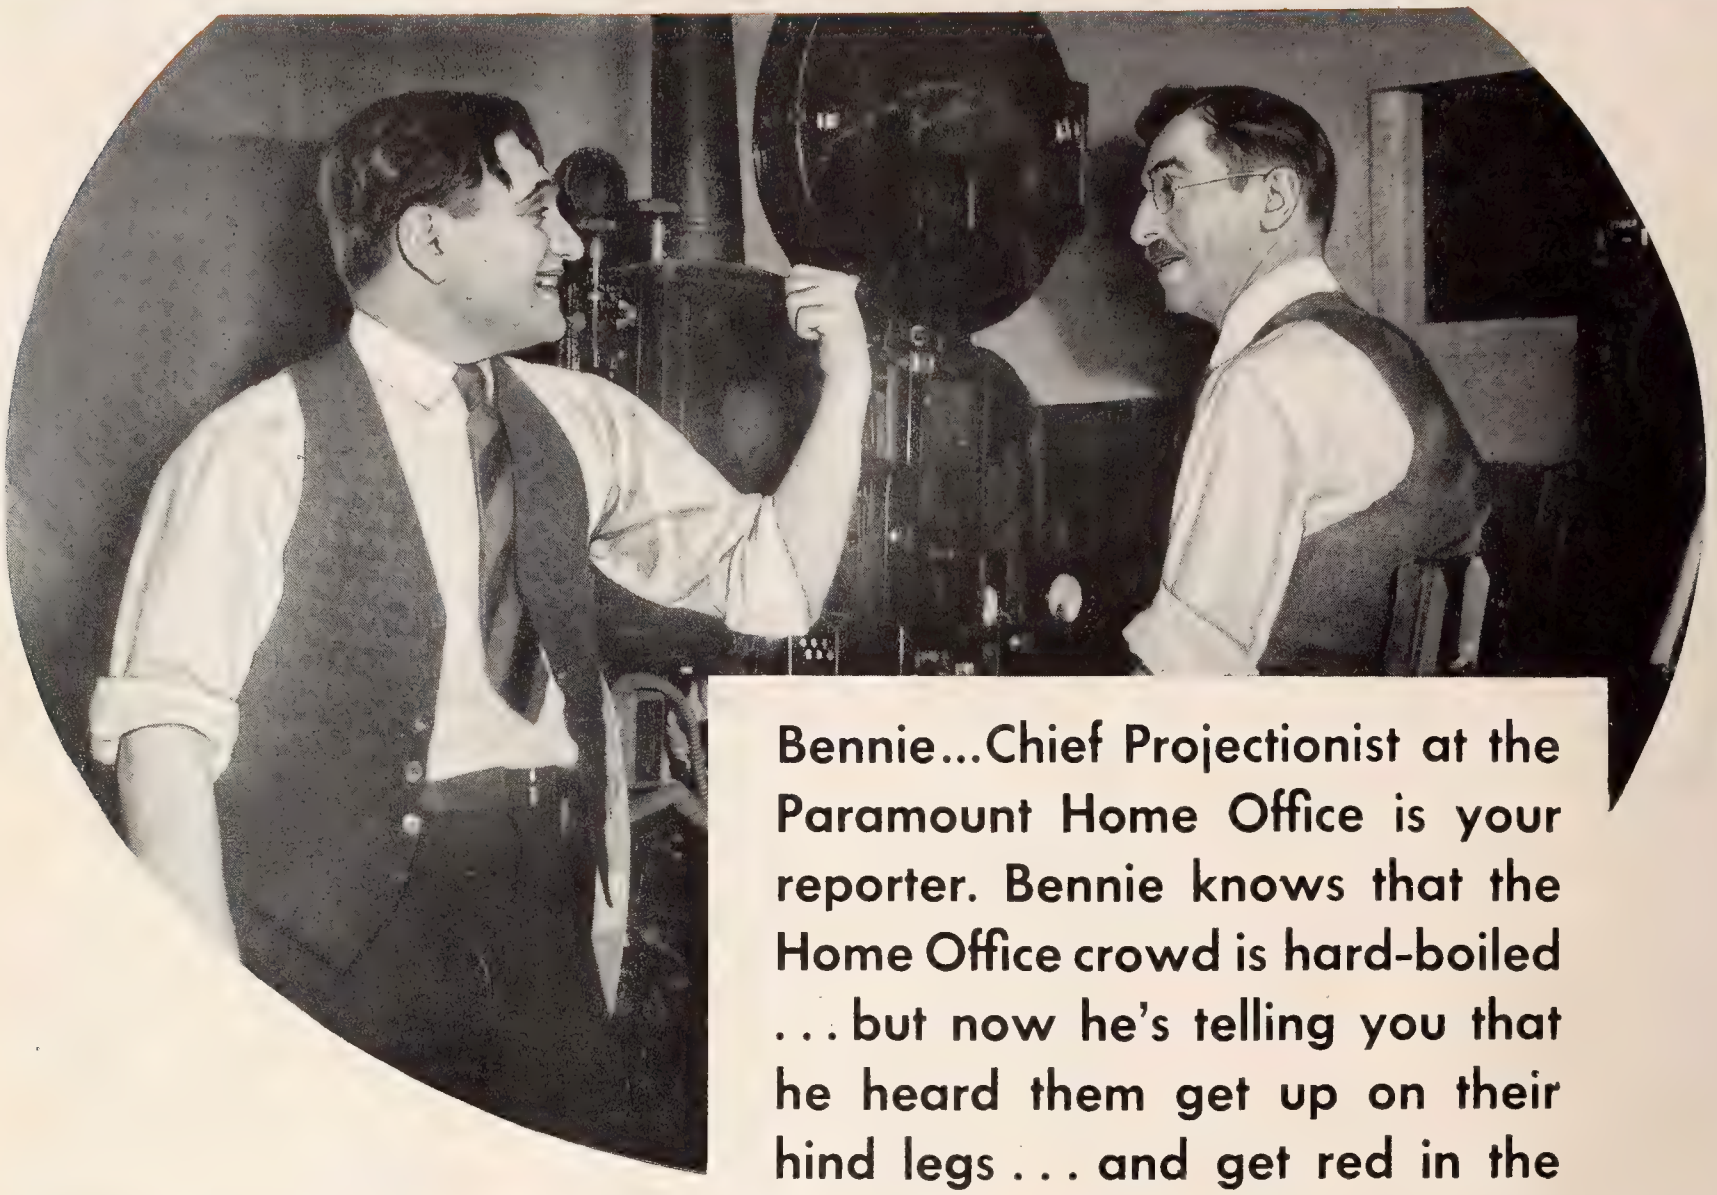
EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE

IF YOU WANT TO REPLACE ANY TYPE OF equipment with brand new material we will be glad to make an allowance on your old equipment and a better price on new equipment. Let us know what you need and what you want to exchange and we will send complete details on our proposition. EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE, c/o MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

ATTRACTIONS

FIRST CLASS STAGE AND RADIO TALENT booked direct on easy terms. Will increase your business. Name your proposition. Interested in small guarantee or percentage. BOX 123A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

CONFIRMED BY TIME



IT may have been fate that prompted the perfecting of the first Eastman motion picture film just when Edison's first projector demanded it.

But it was time's judgment of its merit that again and again confirmed Eastman film as a leader in the industry it helped to father.

Today it's Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative that points the way to new heights of accomplishment, in a new era of cinematography. Eastman Kodak Company (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors).

EASTMAN FILM

LISTEN TO THOSE "Tough Mugs" APPLAUD!

Bennie...Chief Projectionist at the Paramount Home Office is your reporter. Bennie knows that the Home Office crowd is hard-boiled . . . but now he's telling you that he heard them get up on their hind legs . . . and get red in the face whooping for —

"THE STORY OF TEMPLE DRAKE"

with

Miriam HOPKINS

JACK LARUE WILLIAM COLLIER, Jr.

WILLIAM GARGAN IRVING PICHEL

by William Faulkner

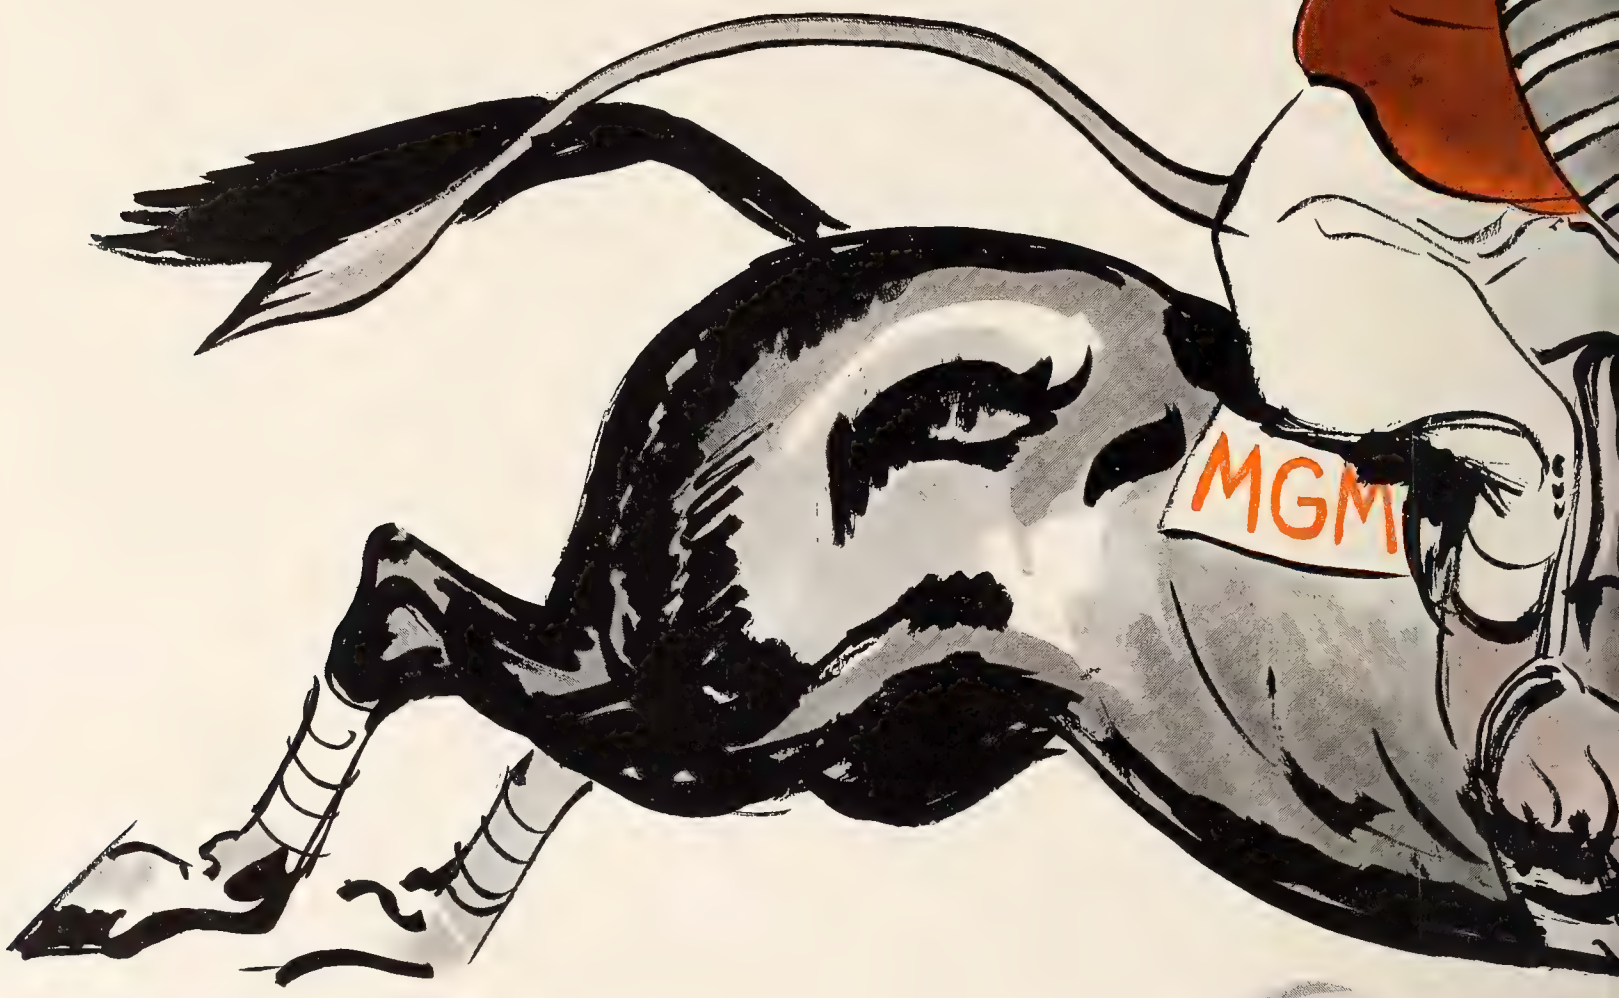
Directed by STEPHEN ROBERTS

A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

BOOK AND PLAY BUYING FOR NEW SEASON



"BUSINESS IN HANDS OF CHILDREN": D. W. GRIFFITH

PUBLICITY NO EXCUSE FOR NEWSPAPER AD RATES

Vol. 111, No. 4 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office, at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Published Weekly by Quigley Publishing Co., Inc., at 1790 Broadway, New York. Subscription, $3.00 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. April 22, 1933

WATCH LEO LEAP

Entire industry electrified by horde of BIG M-G-M ATTRACTIONS unleashed to greet the returning tide of picture-goers!

to the FRONT!

HOORAY, JOAN AND GARY: "TODAY WE LIVE" TERRIFIC!

Joan Crawford and Gary Cooper are packing them in at the State, Boston; and Capitol, N. Y.; first two engagements. HELD OVER 2nd WEEK at Capitol.

"LOOKING FORWARD" WOWS WASHINGTON!

Watch the State Theatre, Washington, D. C. LIONEL BARRYMORE in Clarence Brown's production "Looking Forward" beats week-end totals of biggest stage and screen attractions.

SWELL BIZ! HAYES-GABLE BIG IN "WHITE SISTER"

Following its sensational opening runs in Boston and Chicago "The White Sister" continues to draw the dough to happy box-offices from Coast to Coast!

"RASPUTIN" DOING GRAND!

Isn't it a thrill the way "Rasputin and the Empress" continues to hog the headlines. Three Barrymores in a BIG MONEY show!

"DEVIL'S BROTHER" COMING!

Laurel-Hardy with Dennis King in a new kind of FEATURE-LENGTH attraction. Watch!

"REUNION IN VIENNA" GETS RAVE NOTICES ON COAST!

JOHN BARRYMORE (plus Diana Wynyard) has made his greatest hit! Sensational preview in Los Angeles! The word BIG describes it!

HAPPY SPRING-TIME!

Ramon Novarro in "The Barbarian", Marion Davies in "Peg o' My Heart", Lee Tracy in a new comedy-thriller, "Accidents Wanted." And TWO GIANT PICTURES—remember the titles, you'll hear plenty about them—NIGHT FLIGHT and ESKIMO!

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER—Always!

EXTRA! "Reunion in Vienna" opens Gaiety, N. Y., Friday Apr. 28th! TWO $2 TOP M-G-M ROAD-SHOWS on B'WAY!

WARNER BROS. INVITE YOU TO HELP PLAN "GOLD DIGGERS" AD CAMPAIGN!

Because "Gold Diggers of 1933" is going to be of such vital financial importance to the motion picture trade, we want the advice of every exhibitor in planning lobby displays, ads, publicity and exploitation for it. Here's your first chance to have a real voice in the preparation of a complete picture campaign! . . . A move as revolutionary as our decision to start immediate sale of this first 1933-'34 release!

"SIT IN" ONCE A WEEK ON NATIONWIDE "GOLD DIGGERS" ADVERTISING CONFERENCES

Each week in the trade papers we will present a variety of suggestions for one form of advertising material. A coupon will be provided for you to indicate your choice of these suggestions. The suggestions receiving the most votes will be the ones furnished for your campaign on—

START TODAY! PICK 6 GIRLS FOR LOBBY DISPLAY!

Here are 18 of the most beautiful poses of the hundreds of stunning beauties who appear in "Gold Diggers". Six of them must be selected for use as life-size cutout lobby easels, marquee hangers, etc. WHICH 6 DO YOU ADVISE US TO USE? Indicate your choice on the coupon below and mail to us.

GOLD DIGGERS OF 1933

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

I suggest that you use the following "Gold Diggers" girls for lobby displays, etc. (Vote for 6 only, by number)

No.---------- No.----------

No.---------- No.----------

No.---------- No.----------

Name----------

Theatre----------

City---------- State----------

--M. P. H.

REGISTER YOUR VOTE HERE

Then tear out and mail to Warner Bros., Advertising Department, 321 West 44th St., New York City.

NEXT WEEK
—help selec
publicity art!

THERE GOES ANOTHER RADIO CITY RECORD

—and in Holy Week!

172,535 people jam Music Hall to top previous record by 30,000

Holy Week...Passover...driving rain...sleet...all combined couldn't keep the crowds away from the greatest hit in show history. Here's one picture that is weather-proof, depression-proof, opposition-proof.

PICTURE of the GENERATION

CAVALCADE

A FOX ACHIEVEMENT

IT'S BIG IN SMALL TOWNS TOO!

Carolina Theatre, Pinehurst, N. C. played it to the first standing room in three years. Pinehurst population: 500.

©CIB 188138

APR 21 1933

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. III, No. 4 — April 22, 1933

HERE'S A PIPEFUL

THERE is a concern known as the American Tobacco Company. It is headed by one George Washington Hill, one of the nation's most continuous, conspicuous and consistent advertisers. His theory of advertising is that "it must be such as to produce increased sales." Mr. Hill does lots of it. He has delivered a big net through the depression years.

But, thinking, casually, as we will in the spring, between the garden and the fishing, about those Waldorf-Astoria conferences and those Hollywood conferences in this merry young industry of the motion picture, we have been struck more especially with the poignant words of Mr. Hill recently recited to Printers' Ink about running a business, thinking, we say, casually, how they might apply to some practises, some people and some companies in this film world. Said Mr. Hill:

" . . . the success of a company depends on the kind and degree of effort to which executives and valuable employes are stimulated by the rewards held out to them for successful advancement of the company's business. This principle dictates that the financial success of the most valued employes shall depend on and grow with the financial success of the company — that every such employe should know that his opportunity for personal prosperity will come in and from the company — not from outside interests, not from speculation, not from the stock market, but only from the four walls of his company and his job."

And so, in our casual way, we seem to recall that most of the fortunes we have heard of in this industry were made out of film and that most of the big busts have been made on elements that have not shown on the screen.

△ △ △

"THE LOST THEATRE"

QUOTATION in The Billboard reminds us that Mr. Arthur Hopkins, of stage fame, has set forth in Mr. Alfred E. Smith's The New Outlook a curiously complicated explanation of what's the matter with the theatre — meaning, of course, the institution which Mr. Hopkins thinks of as a theatre. Mr. Hopkins' observations and explanations are of particular interest to us just now because they attribute the progressive anemia of the stage to everything but the all-pervading fact of the motion picture.

Mr. Hopkins thinks that realism has undermined the theatre and that it all started with Ibsen, admittedly a poet, but whose "followers have not been poets."

"The theatre," Mr. Hopkins remembers, "was a palace of dreams. It was the throne of unreality. It lifted people far out of themselves, transported them in ecstatic flight, swept them through emotional grandeur and gently brought them back to earth again with dazed eyes and swelling hearts. It was complete release."

Mr. Hopkins thinks that all that has gone because the theatre that he knows is gone. The customers are still getting the same ecstatic flight, the same emotional grandeur, the same dazed eyes and swelling hearts. But we have a new machinery to render the service, to purvey to the emotions, with more kick for less money. It is known as the motion picture. It was, as we have so often observed, the motion picture which did better dreaming for less money per consumer and thereby forced the lingering drama to seek realism, sophistication and the minority audiences.

The adherents and exponents of the old stage do die hard and they do not at all know how dead their art and their business really is. The state of affairs is ridiculously reflected in the conduct of the amusement sections of the metropolitan papers. The mossy crumbling stage with its following of thousands takes precedence in position, space and pretense in every metropolitan paper over the screen with its audience of millions.

The stage and the opera are still "smart" and their patronage or a pretense of patronage still confers upon the patron a certain aroma of status. But the smartness and the status are of the same order as driving a cob horse and a high-wheeled trap. If you are going somewhere it is better to get a Ford.

△ △ △

BEHIND THE WHISKERS

NOW that he's gone and the score can be added, one may observe that Mr. George Bernard Shaw, having made his personal appearances, turns out to be just a testy old man. Shaw-the-genius existed only as a public state of mind based somewhat on his works and somewhat on his whiskers. He became in a curious sense a public figure to the great masses as a consequence of appearing in a talking newsreel picture made some years ago for the purpose of making the producer feel important. To the millions Mr. Shaw belongs in the same category as Mr. Einstein — great, but they don't know why. Mr. Shaw would have been greater if he'd never come ashore and kicked the microphones around. Big myths ought to stay mythical.

△ △ △

FLORENCE FISHER PARRY, who is being a great little friend of the cinema these days, writes in the Delineator in behalf of the idea of keeping the movies lowbrow because the lowbrows, the masses, have rights to the art they nurtured. That's all very well, but she ventures to say also that "the movies are . . . the Esperanto of the heart." Maybe she means the Interlingua, or perhaps the Universala or the Volapuk or Zahlensprache or Semilatin of the emotions. The lady should know that neither the masses nor The Delineator audience know about Esperanto.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD — MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone Circle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Roveistad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

THIS WEEK - - - -

LEGAL FERRETS

Ferrets, seeking trouble, will be Kansas county attorneys at the order of chief ferret attorney-general, Roland Boynton, who from Topeka headquarters ordered such assistance for his investigation, begun last week, of alleged state anti-trust law violations by Fox theatres. The charge: Fox prevents independents from obtaining films, buying first and subsequent rights where it has two or more houses to a town; all major producers are seen parties to the plan. From Kansas City distributors have come firm denials of violations. . . .

"FISHING BILL"

A "fishing bill," and "very general," was the deprecatory manner in which former judge Hugh M. Morris, representing Warners, described the action of Harry Koplar, of St. Louis, who had instituted suit for an accounting before U. S. district judge John P. Nields at Wilmington, Del. Requested of Judge Nields by Mr. Morris was an order requiring plaintiff, Koplar, to file a bill of particulars. Still pending is disposition of the action. . . .

FRENCH UNITY

Striking boldly for a badly-needed trade unity in the motion picture industry, French film leaders have formed one central body of which no fewer than 19 exhibitor associations are a part. Elaborately, the new group is named Chambre Syndicale Francaise des Theatres Cinematographiques. Likely among its major maneuvers will be battle waged against sadly declined grosses. . . .

CONVENING SHOWMEN

With proponents of secession by Kansas members having gained little headway, the MPTA of Kansas and Missouri will hold its annual convention on May 23-24, probably in Kansas City. Set for submission to the meeting are plans, formulated by president E. Van Hyning, designed to strengthen the organization, widen its scope. . . .

CARTOON KING

Prodigious has been the rise to screen fame of one Mickey Mouse, a brainchild of perennially static appearance since his 1928 birth. In short, pithy, animated activity he has never grown tiresome. To Mickey last week came his big opportunity, as mother-father Walt Disney signed him for a full-length feature comedy. With peninsula-nosed Jimmy Durante and mighty-liar Jack Pearl will Mickey appear under the aegis of MGM. Now with full justification may Mr. M. Mouse lay claim to all rights of film stardom. . . .

SMALL BOY'S STUMBLE

Too anxious to reach his seat in the already crowded 400-seat Terrace theatre in Yonkers, N. Y., a small boy last Sunday tripped on, knocked over a fire extinguisher standing in the aisle. Out hissed its contents, and a patron, with good intention but poor judgment, raised the startling alarm: "Fire." The audience rushed to the exits. When firemen and police cleared the house, six small children were found to have suffered slight lacerations, none hurt seriously. . . .

SMPE'S PRESIDENT

"For technical consultation and the practice of engineering relative to research, development, patents, and commercialization of devices and processes," Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, able president of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, has opened an office in New York at 444 Madison Avenue. . . .

In This Issue

Ninety-six stories and plays purchased in first quarter for new season's product — Page 9
The results of the Hollywood conferences — Page 11
Little Lady Cost—by Terry Ramsaye — Page 13
Theatres challenge newspapers' defense that publicity space justifies higher advertising rates — Page 14
David Wark Griffith Tells 'Em — Page 17

FEATURES

Editorial — Page 7
The Camera Reports — Page 15
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum — Page 52
Box office champions for March — Page 48

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me — Page 53
Showmen's Reviews — Page 35
Managers Round Table — Page 57
Short Features — Page 43
Technological — Page 51
Chicago — Page 43
The Release Chart — Page 64
Box Office Receipts — Page 42
Classified Advertising — Page 70

FICTION'S FACT

Shattered one day last week was the habitual calm of the small Riviera village of Biot, France, as 1,500 extras re-enacted the street fighting scenes from Victor Hugo's famed "Les Miserables," with turmoil and vast excitement, while former Russian troopers, playing mounted police, wheeled and cavorted. Some 300 disgruntled jobless actors looked on. Suddenly was fiction made fact, as the 300 charged to tear down elaborate sets, and the battle became royal. From neighboring Cannes, Nice, Antibes rushed police, gendarmes. A score were slightly hurt, to the hospital four were carried — and the play went on. . . .

WAILING CHAMPION

With shouted paeans of joy, New York's Herald Tribune hails the reclamation "from pink tights and burlesque" of New Haven's Shubert theatre, "only legitimate public playhouse since the passing of the ancient Hyperion." Wails the Tribune, champion here of crumbling monuments: "Too many old playhouses of character with long histories of past glory . . . fall into the ways of burlesque and films, never to be redeemed." Sad it is, indeed, that time refuses to stand still. . . .

WEDDING BELLS

Wedding bells rang out in Miami last weekend as one Joseph Riskin, New York diamond merchant, took unto himself a bride, she approaching the altar for the second time. Accompanying his daughter, Mona, as county judge W. F. Blanton cemented the union, was her father, one William Fox, once somewhat a part of the motion picture industry, still by no means out of the pictures' picture, however quiescent he seems, in the opinion of many a rumor monger. . . .

RACE WITH DEATH

In Dallas one night last week, S. M. Moscow, Southern manager for Columbia, 730 miles from his Atlanta home, was sharply gripped with a recurrent heart attack. Physicians hastily called agreed he could not live. Next morning a seat was removed, a bed substituted, aboard an American Airways plane for Atlanta. Then began Mr. Moscow's race with death for his home. He won his race, reached home, where his family described his condition as "very critical," though still they clung to a hope he would win yet a larger race. . . .

96 BOOKS AND PLAYS PURCHASED; PERCENTAGE DEALS FOR WRITERS

Acquisitions of Story Material in First Quarter Exceed Average for Three Months; Business Status May Limit Activities

The foundation of 1933-34 feature releases was laid during January, February and March, when 15 companies concluded negotiations for 96 books and plays, as against an average of 80 purchased in previous quarterly periods. Many valuable and successful properties were included in the new group, presenting possibilities for numerous outstanding box-office pictures for the new season.

Activities in the story field may be curtailed, however, in view of conditions in the business. Production economies are expected to necessitate dependence, to a considerable extent, on stories that have accumulated over a long period and have not been filmed.

The position of screen writers in Hollywood has been strengthened in recent weeks. The rejuvenated Screen Writers Guild, reborn of the emergency 25-50 per cent salary cut, met and adopted a new agreement for studio writers, who for the first time in many months began to cement an organization for dealing with producers. The Guild, at a meeting Tuesday, went "over the top" in membership with a total of 262.

One of the more important discussions at the Guild's conferences was the current question of percentage production, whereby writers would work on drawing account and royalties on grosses. The producers, said to be influenced by the banking interests, appear favorably inclined toward the new movement. which is making progress.

At a preliminary meeting, it was agreed that screen writers continue their membership in the Writers Branch of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, but Guild executives recommended that its membership support the Guild as a militant organization, seeking adoption of a basic agreement with studios and a uniform contract recognizing the Guild.

Columbia adopted a royalty payment basis some months ago. Other companies are about to follow it, particularly because of limited grosses which prohibit the continuance of budgets of former size. Jesse L. Lasky is one of the newest converts to the royalty plan, signing a contract of this type a few weeks ago with Preston Sturges.

Basically, the author is paid a percentage of grosses, part of which is advanced. If the picture proves unsuccessful at box offices, the author receives a small return; if it scores he will receive larger returns than if he had sold his work outright. Mr. Lasky predicted this type of arrangement would become universal. Authors will deliver scripts written on their own time, Mr. Laskey believes, and if they are accepted a royalty plan will be agreed upon. The idea, he said, will aid class writers and weed out incompetents, besides aiding producers in lowering production budgets. Large writing staffs automatically would be reduced.

A plan to pool all stories now idle "on the shelf" was one of the important points announced this week from Hollywood as a result of the industry-wide conferences.

This plan will enable companies to participate in the purchase of all idle material and will create a market for all large companies for stories now in the vaults. Story editors of all studios meeting weekly will handle this subject. It is believed that stories not useful for one studio might be for another and round table discussions will shed light on material available for resale. It is expected that the net result will be the reduction of inventory into cash and a larger flow of good stories at costs justified by needs of production economies. The theory also is that better pictures will result because stories will fit stars better.

Producers appear to be giving less serious thought than ever before to the purchase of expensive Broadway plays. Deals involving $100,000 for screen rights are few in comparison.

In explaining his new deal with Mr. Lasky, who produces for Fox, Preston Sturges said: "A playwright never attempts to sell a play from a short outline of an idea and with a fast sales talk.

"The idea," he continued, "permits working on the script without interference from associate producers and other writers who may be assigned to help me. Either my material as I write it is salable, or it isn't. If not, not all the conferences and tinkerings in the world can put it right." Mr. Sturges' first contribution to the Lasky unit under the new plan will be "The Power and the Glory," which William K. Howard will direct.

"Berkeley Square," "Dinner at Eight," "Emperor Jones," "Power and Glory," "Nora" and "Design for Living" are but a few of the outstanding works included in recent purchases of stories and plays, a complete list of which appears herewith.

The February and March totals of 28 and 27 purchases, respectively, were in line with the average for previous months, but January acquisitions, totaling 41, far exceeded story deals for any month in a year or more. Metro, as usual, was the most active company in the story field, acquiring 25 books and plays. Paramount was second, buying 16, and Fox third, with 11. A recapitulation for all companies participating in the story purchases during the first quarter follows:

COMPANY	JAN.	FEB.	MAR.	TOTAL
COLUMBIA	1	2	..	3
FILM CHOICE	..	1	..	1
FOX	4	3	4	11
FREULER	..	..	1	1
KBS PROD.	1	..	..	1
LEFF PROD.	4	..	..	4
MGM	12	9	5	26
MONOGRAM	7	1	..	8
PARAMOUNT	9	3	4	16
RKO	..	3	5	8
UNIVERSAL	..	3	3	6
WARNERS	2	3	4	9
WORLD WIDE	1	..	..	1
ZEIDMAN	..	..	1	1
GRAND TOTAL:	41	28	27	96

B. P. Schulberg, Paramount producer, voiced disapproval of contracts for screen writers, while Emanuel Cohen, in charge of Paramount's studio, created a new scenario department, under charge of Merritt Hulburd. Bogart Rogers will assist in contacting writers. Associated with Mr. Hulburd will be Jeff Lazarus.

Producers Appear Favorable to Plan Whereunder Writers Would Work on Drawing Account and Royalties on Gross

No author writing for a motion picture studio should be under a contract which assures him of a regular salary regardless of quantity or quality of the work he turns out, according to Mr. Schulberg.

Jack L. Warner, vice-president of Warner Brothers, in charge of production, announced from the studios at Burbank, that "the reportorial system used in getting newspaper stories is to be applied to our scenario department in our continued search for new material; the system has already been tested in our studios and found successful."

The writing fraternity in Hollywood lost one of its most able members with the death two weeks ago of Wilson Mizner. He had just signed with First National after many years of scenario writing and adaptation on a week-to-week basis.

Paul M. Trebitsch commenced in Hollywood the presentation of a series of plays at the Music Box theatre, where studio scouts and local producers are invited to study their screen possibilities. "Undress Parade," by Henry Gordon, was the first staged.

Jerry Sackheim, playwright recently named associate producer at Radio's studio, heads a committee appointed by Merian C. Cooper, production chief, to search for stories suitable for the company's younger stars. Shirley Burden, also a new associate producer, and David Lewis, 25-year-old supervisor of westerns, are assisting Mr. Sackheim.

Studios Strengthening Writing Staffs

Since January, practically all of the major studios have given much thought to the upbuilding of writing staffs. Recently, Columbia acquired the services of William McGrath, who will write as his first a drama about gambling, for Jack Holt; Karl Tunberg, young scenarist, and others.

Fox engaged Dudley Nichols to collaborate with Lamar Trotti on the script for a Mayor Cermak life story. Effective last week, Julian Johnson became buyer for all screen material on the Fox lot. Philip Klein succeeds him as story head. The company assigned Mauri Grashin to George O'Brien's next script, and turned over adaptation of "Berkeley Square" to Sonya Levien and John L. Balderston, who wrote the play.

Monogram signed Tristram Tupper to its writing staff. He will contribute four originals in 1933-34.

At Paramount, new additions in recent weeks included, Boris Malloy, assigned to "Mike"; Marcus Goodrich, novelist, adventurer and newspaperman; Charles Logue, formerly of Columbia, assigned to "Stairs of Sand"; Alfred Jackson, assigned to William LeBaron's unit; Neal Burns, assigned to "Gambling Ship"; Manuel Seff, Frank Partos and Rian James, who are collaborating on adaptation of "On Probation," Schulberg production; Garrett Fort, assigned to "Baby in the Ice Box," and Leslie Charteris, young English author, who will develop a story for Bayard Veiller.

Charles R. Rogers, releasing through Para-

(Continued on following page)

Many Outstanding Stories Bought for 1933-34 Season

Books and plays purchased by 15 motion picture companies during January, February and March are recorded below, together with names of authors and other information. Most of the acquisitions are scheduled for release in the new season, but a few will be marketed immediately, principally Metro's "Gabriel Over the White House." Stage plays are so indicated:

COLUMBIA

January

Brand Inspector, by Walt Coburn; for Tim McCoy; director, D. Ross Lederman; adaptor, Stuart Anthony.

February

Take the Witness, a biography of Earl Rogers by Al Cohn and Joe Chisholm.
Tampico, by Joseph Hergesheimer; for Jack Holt and Fay Wray; director, Irving Cummings.

FILM CHOICE PICTURES

February

Emperor Jones, play, by Eugene O'Neil; director, Dudley Murphy.

FOX FILM

January

Berkeley Square, play by John L. Balderston; producer, Jesse L. Lasky.
Islander, South Sea novel, by John Stuart-Fife.
Politicians, by Herbert Mundin.
Sailor's Luck, by Marguerite Roberts and Charlotte Miller; for James Dunn and Sally Eilers.

February

Arizona to Broadway, by William Conselman for Will Rogers; adaptors, Henry Johnson and Dudley Nichols.
Modern Hero, by Louis Bromfield; adaptor, Gladys Lehman.
Power and Glory, by Preston Sturges; for Spencer Tracy; director, William K. Howard; producer, Jesse L. Lasky.

March

Buccaneers, by I. A. R. Wylie.
Devil's in Love, by Harry Hervey; for Warner Baxter and Miram Jordan; adaptor, Howard Estabrook.
Last Adam, by James Gould Cozzens; for Will Rogers; adapter, Paul Green; director, John Ford.
My Dear (from "The Sunlit Way"), by May Edginton; for Heather Angel; director, Harry Lachman.

FREULER FILM

March

Good Looking and Rich, by Edgar Franklin (to be released as "Easy Millions").

KBS PRODUCTIONS

January

Tempest and Sunshine, by Mary J. Holmes.

LEFF PRODUCTIONS

January

Forgotten Parents; director, George Roland.
Three other untitled feature stories were purchased.

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

January

Beauty, by Faith Baldwin.
Bombshell, unproduced play by Caroline Francke and Mack Crane.
Fountain, by Charles Morgan.
Harbor (unproduced play, formerly titled "Metropolitan Hospital") by Theodore Reeves.
Mortmain (formerly called "Tale of Two Murders"), mystery by Hugh Cecil Asterly.
Our Moral Standards, by Mildred Cram and Maurice Revnes.
Presenting Lily Mars, by Booth Tarkington.
Prince Michael Romanoff, from New Yorker magazine series about spurious Russian "nobleman," by Alva Johnston.
Rendezvous, play by Barton MacLane.
Rivets, unproduced play by John W. McDermott.
Service, play by C. L. Anthony; director, Clarence Brown.
True Love, by Frances Marion.

February

Bitter Waters, German play by Henrich Hauser.
Dinner at Eight, Sam H. Harris' current play.
Gabriel Over the White House (Current release), anonymous novel of Washington political life; Gregory La Cava directed, with Walter Huston and Karen Morley featured.
Late Christopher Bean, play adapted by Sidney Howard from the French play, "Prenez Garde a la Peinture," by Rene Fauchois.
Made on Broadway, by Courtenay Terrett; for Robert Montgomery and Mae Clarke; director, Harry Beaumont.
Laughing Boy, purchased from Universal for Ramon Novarro.
Night Flight, by Antoine de St. Exuperry; adaptor, Oliver H. P. Garrett.
Sad Indian, by Thames Williamson.
Stranger Returns, by Phil Stong, who will adapt.

March

I've Married an Angel, Hungarian play by John Vaszary, to be made into a musical, with book by Moss Hart and music and lyrics by Rodgers and Hart.
Mademoiselle, William A. Brady play, by Jacques Duval, adapted from the French version by Grace George.
Man Stands Alone, by J. D. Newson.
Nora, by Anita Loos and John Emerson; for Clark Gable and Jean Harlow; director, Sam Wood.
You Made a Bargain, by Ethel Hill.

MONOGRAM

January

Avenger, by John Goodwin.
City Limits, by Jack Goodford.
Manhattan Love Song, by Cornell Woolrich.
Numbers of Death, by E. Phillips Oppenheim.
Rangers Ride Again, western by Harry O. Jones; for Bob Steele.
Sphinx, by Albert DeMond; producer, M. H. Hoffman.
Wine, Women and Song, a play.

February

Ghost of John Walling, by Edgar Wallace.

PARAMOUNT

January

Admirable Mamie, by Samson Raphaelson.
Bedtime Story, by Waldemar Young and Nunnally Johnson; for Maurice Chevalier; director, Norman Taurog.
Catastrophe, by Ben Hecht and Gene Fowler; for Miriam Hopkins; producer, B. P. Schulberg.
Chance at Heaven, by Vina Delmar.
Dead Reckoning, by Robert Presnell; for Wynne Gibson, Richard Arlen and Cary Grant; director, Erle C. Kenton.
High Venture, by Harry Hervey.
Mike, by Grace Perkins; Adaptor, Zoe Akins.
Police Surgeon, by Jules Furthman; producer, B. P. Schulberg; adaptors, Allen Rivkin and P. F. Wolfson.
Road Kid, by Jim Tully.

February

Apartment Nine, by Alice Duer G. Miller; for Helen Twelvetrees, Cary Grant and William Harrigan.
Stairs of Sand, by Zane Grey.
Sunset Pass, by Zane Grey; for Randolph Scott and Kent Taylor; adaptors, Jack Cunningham and Gerald Geraghty.

March

Baby in the Icebox, by James M. Cain; director, Ralph Murphy; producer, Charles R. Rogers.
Design for Living, play by Noel Coward.
One Sunday Afternoon, play by James Hagan.
Trumpet Blows, for Miriam Hopkins, George Raft and Jack LaRue; adaptors, Marcus Goodrich and Bradley King.

RADIO-KEITH-ORPHEUM

February

Ann Vickers, by Sinclair Lewis.
Silver Cord, play by Sidney Howard; for Irene Dunne; supervisor, Pandro Berman; director, John Cromwell; adapter, Jane Murfin.
Stag Line, by Howard J. Green; producer, H. N. Swanson.

March

Careless, play by Maurine Watkins, who will also adapt.
Flying Circus, by Russell Birdwell.
Long Lost Father, by G. B. Stern; for John Barrymore and Katharine Hepburn.
Morning Glory, by Zoe Akins; for Katharine Hepburn; adaptor, Howard J. Green.
'Tween Midnight and Dawn, by John G. Clymer and James Ewens.

UNIVERSAL

February

Billionaire, by Edwin Balmer; for Lew Ayres, Boris Karloff and Gloria Stuart.
Good Red Bricks, by Mary Synon; Adaptor, Kathleen Shepherd.
This Dizzy Age, play by Frederick and Fanny Hatton (to be released as "Youth Aflame").

March

Bagdad on the Hudson, play by Ward Morehouse; for Lew Ayres.
Man Who Reclaimed His Head, play by Jean Bart; director, John Stahl.
Thar She Blows, by Philip McKee and Randolph Van Scoyk; director, Henry MacRae.

WARNER BROTHERS

January

Girl Missing, by J. A. Andrews.
Voltaire, play by George Gibbs and Lawrence Dudley; for George Arliss.

February

Goodbye Again, play by Allan Scott and George Haight; director, Robert Florey; adaptor, Ben Markson; to co-star Warren William and Joan Blondell.
Mary Stevens, M.D., by Virginia Kellog; for Kay Francis.
Wild Boys of the Road, by Danny Ahern.

March

America Kneels, by Sheridan Gibney.
Convention City, by Will Turner.
Female, by Donald Henderson Clarke.
Finger Man, by Rosalind Shaffer and Mark Canfield.

WORLD WIDE

January

Job, by Joseph Roth; for Gregory Ratoff; producer, Samuel Bischoff; adaptor, Arthur Caesar.

ZEIDMAN

March

March of Two Worlds, story about Mussolini, by Edward Patterson.

Percentage Deals For the Writers

(Continued from preceding page)

mount, signed E. Richard Schayer as scenario editor.

RKO was busy, too, signing new writers and handing out assignments on future product. Willis Goldbeck was working on "Declasse" with Jane Murfin. Byron Morgan was signed to put "The Flying Circus" in screen form. Merian Cooper assigned James Creelman to a story idea. Also signed were James Hagan and H. W. Hanemann, who is collaborating with Sam Mintz on "Ad Man." The most important development at RKO was the appointment of Alexander McKaig as story editor.

George S. Kaufman and Robert Sherwood, both well known writers, were preparing to start on Eddie Cantor's next comedy, for Sam Goldwyn and for United Artists release. Florence Strauss recently assumed duties as Goldwyn story editor. She had been with Fox.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., assigned Dolly Lovekin to remake of "Perils of Pauline," and Mildred Cram to "Good Red Bricks." Stuart Palmer was signed to treat and dialogue "Bluebeard."

At Warners, several writers were at work on product to be released later this season and also next. Last week Gene Markey and Kathryn Scola were assigned to adapt "Female," and Charles Kenyon and Robert Lord were signed to prepare "Red Meat" and "Convention City," respectively.

McDonough, Cunningham Promoted by RCA Board

J. R. McDonough, assistant to the president of the Radio Corporation of America, was elected executive vice president, at a meeting of the board of directors recently. Elmer T. Cunningham, president of RCA Radiotron Company, Inc., at the same time also was elected president of the RCA Victor Company, succeeding Mr. McDonough, as a step toward consolidation of two subsidiaries, RCA Victor and RCA Radiotron.

COAST CONFERENCES CLOSE WITH MANY SUGGESTIONS, FEW DECISIONS

Declared Aim To "Balance Cost and Gross" Is Still the Individual Problem of the Individual Corporation

The first great conclave of eastern and western executives of the motion picture industry, held in Hollywood, in sequel to the banking holiday and attendant alarms in the motion picture world, is over after a session of some five days. There is a vast array of minor consequences and a considerable list of tentative plans, hardly more than suggestions, concerning the future operations of the production branch of the industry. The declared purpose of the excursion of executives to Hollywood was to "balance cost and gross." That remains yet the individual problem of the individual corporation.

A militant movement for the maintenance of the status quo is under way in Hollywood, especially aimed at prevention of the construction of organizations and machines tending to eliminate competition for talent and services.

Adjournment of the sessions brought adoption of a resolution calling for similar meetings periodically. Continuing committees were appointed, for possible decision on the return of all the company heads to New York. Last week's sessions marked the first time all executives of both coasts had conversed together on industry problems.

Conferees Return Eastward

Problems at home offices brought conferees Sidney R. Kent, Fox; Merlin Hall Aylesworth, RKO, and R. H. Cochrane, Universal, back to New York immediately after the sessions ended Friday. Harry M. Warner, president of Warners, and Sam Schneider, his aid, left Sunday night. Nicholas M. Schenck continued conferences with MGM studio officials. Will H. Hays is staying on the Coast this week to assist in organization of the new program. Adolph Zukor, of Paramount, was discussing production business with Emanuel Cohen and will not return east for another ten days.

These leaders comprised the home office delegation to the conference. Studio executives who participated, included: Senior and Junior Laemmle and Henry Henigson, Universal; Louis B. Mayer and Harry Rapf, MGM; Jack Warner and Darryl Zanuck, Warners; Emanuel Cohen, Paramount; B. B. Kahane and Merian Cooper, Radio; Winfield Sheehan and Col. Jason Joy, Fox; Sam Briskin, Columbia; Abraham Lehr, for Samuel Goldwyn; E. H. Allen, Educational; William R. Fraser, Harold Lloyd Corp.; Henry Ginsberg, Roach Studios, and attorney George Cohen, of Loeb, Walker and Loeb, Hollywood attorneys.

Eddie Mannix, Cecil B. DeMille, Jesse L. Lasky, Hunt Stromberg, Joseph Breen, Fred Beetson, Earl Bright, Roy Norr, Jack Gain, and others were also seen about the conference chambers.

The Salary Situation

Hollywood at large feared that the arrival in town of the generals from New York signaled a movement for permanent salary cuts, so while leaders were assembled in the Hollywood Boulevard office of the Hays organization, studio workers of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, meeting simultaneously elsewhere, succeeded in forcing restoration of salaries to pre-emergency levels. The morale of workers on both coasts and in the field reacted favorably almost immediately. The status of pay restoration follows:

Columbia Pictures took the lead in restoring salaries, effective April 3. The company was entitled to deduct four more days, but President Harry Cohn said, "Forget it."

Educational had not restored salaries up to press time.

Fox will restore full salaries April 24.

Goldwyn, Inc., was instructed to restore cuts, retroactive to March 6. The company protested and the Academy committee entertained the protest, but the original order was upheld.

MGM's salary restoration became effective April 17.

Paramount restored salaries, effective April 21.

RKO returned to full salaries April 6.

Roach Studios made the restoration retroactive to March 17.

United Artists Studio Corp. was ordered to make its rescindment retroactive to March 6. However, this does not affect the home office, United Artists Distributing Corp., where it was effective from April 10.

Universal probably will not restore salaries until April 30.

Warner Brothers disagreed with the Academy's decree that salaries be restored retroactive to March 6. Originally, the Academy decided on April 10. Company officials ignored the order and set April 17. Darryl Zanuck, studio chief, resigned when the company refused to comply with the Academy's ruling. It was reported that a number of the company's stars, writers and directors would make a test of legality and had submitted written demands for back pay. About $250,000 is supposed to be involved.

Western Service Studios, Inc. (Metropolitan) also was ordered to make the adjustment retroactive to March 6.

Decisions by the Academy's committee representing studio workers were based on the figures submitted by the various companies, as agreed to when the cut became effective on March 5th. These figures were verified last week by Price, Waterhouse and Company, official auditors. Independent production units later are to be examined by the emergency committee.

The Academy said it proposes to make an issue where restoration as ordered has not been made. Threats to declare all cuts off and demand a return of all money waived by 97 per cent of the contract workers were heard.

The Academy's emergency committee is headed by J. T. Reed, and includes Robert E. O'Connor, William K. Howard, Benjamin P. Schulberg and Howard J. Green. Lester Cowan is executive secretary.

Horizontal Cuts Are Out Hereafter

Opposition to any general horizontal reduction of motion picture salaries was voiced throughout Hollywood. Resolutions condemned the practice.

"It is a false and vicious method of correcting pay-roll evils," said the Academy's committee. The Academy declared its view is shared by Louis B. Mayer, B. B. Kahane, Jack L. Warner, Al Kaufman and others.

Meanwhile, reports were circulating that several studios soon will slash salaries of many under contract, or at least reduce the number of contract players. The west coast branch of the MPPDA issued the following statement:

Hollywood Backfires with Militant Movement To Prevent Action To Eliminate Competition for Talent; No "Dictator"

"The problem of salary adjustments to current business conditions was not considered a subject of joint industry action. It was made clear at the first meetings that the emergency action, takn during the bank holiday, would not stand as a precedent for horizontal salary cuts. The matter of salaries requires individual adjustment on an individual basis, with each studio acting on its own problems. There can be no standard formula for measuring the value of unique ability or exceptional services rendered by many artists of the screen.

"Fundamentally, it is the public expressing its approval through the box-office, that determines the compensation of any star or director. But the fact cannot be gainsaid that public purchasing power has been vastly reduced by years of depression, and it is imperative that the problem of reduced income be met with lower operating costs throughout the industry."

War Starts Over "UBO" Plan

Hollywood militants attacked the most tangible action of the conferences: establishment of an Artists Service Bureau, through which all casting, including lesser stars, featured players, directors and writers, would be handled. Only a few major stars would remain under contract. Mr. Kent, however, said this "UBO" (united booking office) plan would not end company contracts. Nothing that might lead to concerted action is contemplated, he declared. Announcement of the bureau was made by the MPPA as follows:

"The bureau is planned as a central clearing house for all motion picture actors, directors and writers seeking employment in Hollywood. It will be set up as a non-profit sharing enterprise, the services of which will be free to all artists. The 'Open Door' policy by which the bureau's facilities will be made readily available at all times to all artists, or their representatives, irrespective of previous affiliations or alliances, is counted upon to insure a 'square deal' to everybody. Artistic talent and ability, viewed solely from the standpoint of the proper casting of pictures, will be the order of the day. Artists' agents will be accorded every possible facility to carry on their work.

"Col. Jason S. Joy, for many years in charge of inter-studio relations for the motion picture industry, and more recently an executive at the Fox studios, has been drafted from that company to develop the proposal."

Committee at Work on Details

Col. Joy will work with a committee of producers in setting up the bureau, which, it is understood, was incorporated this week. On the committee are Messrs. Lasky, Kahane and Aylesworth.

Under the plan, as contracts expire and are not renewed, workers will get future employment only through the bureau. The 14 Hollywood members of the Hays organization will participate, each through a special company representative. Extras will continue activities through the old Central Casting Bureau, although it is considered likely that eventually this unit will be consolidated with the new bureau.

Already four branches of the Academy had voted resolutions against the idea, and on Tuesday night the Screen Writers' Guild declared its membership unalterably opposed. They rebuked the producers for ignoring them in establishing the "UBO," as did the Academy branches of players, writers, directors and technicians.

The basis of all opposition is the elimination of competitive bidding for creative talent, and although not announced as a factor in the plan, for obvious reasons, it appears that this idea had considerable to do with its creation.

A further cooperative step is the decision to hold weekly meetings of casting directors of

(Continued on following page)

STORY AND PATENT POOLS PROPOSED

(Continued from preceding page)

MPPA producers. Casting directors will be authorized to encourage the proper interchange of directors, stars and other players under contract. The aim is considered to be to lessen carrying charges for contract talent. Sam Katz started the plan when he was with Paramount.

"Dictator" On and Off

When someone from the East suggested establishing an office of dictator over all Hollywood, Academy opposition was echoed by studio heads and the plan was called off. Pat Casey was understood to have refused the job.

The dictator would have had complete charge over the entire production colony, ruling on such matters as salaries, Production Code and censuring any studio which might run "out of bounds" in any respect.

Stories To Be Pooled

Liquidation of stories now lying idle on studio shelves will be attempted through a story "pool," sale or exchange which is also expected to alleviate the situations created by cycles. Enforcement of more discrimination in story purchases with an eye on production costs was recommended.

The official announcement said:

"The net result, it is expected, of the steps taken to release such material, through sale or exchange, will be a reduction of inventory into cash for various studios, a larger flow of good story material at costs justified by the needs of production economies, and improved quality of screen entertainment made possible by fitting the story to the artists and the artist to the story.

"In addition, it is believed, this decision will help towards the solution of the problem of entertainment cycles on the screen. The weekly conferences between story editors would tend to secure a better balance in the production of different types of motion pictures."

Patents Pool Recommended

A survey resulted in adoption of a proposal for a process patents pool.

Process patents involved include those by which authentic backgrounds are superimposed against dramatic action by rear projection; various dubbing systems; tricks of photography, and the like. The more important patents held by the electrics and the manufacturing corporations, would not be included.

Physical Distribution Merger

Discussion of a plan to effect a physical distribution merger was halted midway and the conferees returned the idea to New York, whence it came.

"There is some question as to how far we can go on this," according to Mr. Kent. It appears that not all distributors would participate in the creation of cooperative depots in the key cities for the physical distribution of film. It was estimated that such a merger of exchanges might save the industry $9,000,000 annually. Jack Schlaifer, Universal, and George Schaefer, Paramount, were appointed four months ago to study the possibilities.

Plans for Foreign Field

Decision of industry leaders to formulate a plan whereby millions of dollars tied up in foreign countries because of currency restrictions would be expended for merchandise in each country, which merchandise could be exported to the United States and here turned into cash, has been postponed pending the results of the international conversations called by President Roosevelt for Friday, with at least 11 countries represented. It is estimated that approximately $13,000,000 in rental revenue and $18,000,000 in sound equipment revenue, both accrued since 1930, will be released to American distributors if, as expected, the foreign conferees agree to the lifting of exchange restrictions and trade quotas to further international trade. Such action automatically would make unnecessary a barter plan as discussed by motion picture executives. Mr. Kent first proposed it.

Also considered was a physical merging of foreign exchanges, except in England. Sales forces would not be included. This plan also was dropped pending later assembling in New York.

Loaning of "Props"

Executives adopted the story pool idea as a solution to cycles, yet they decided to standardize along other lines by interchanging standing sets, interior and exterior properties, stock shots and sound effects. "Props" and sets used prominently in a feature made by one company will be loaned to another. Announcement was made as follows:

"Arrangements similar to the interchange of story material are to be adopted for the interchange of standing sets, interior and exterior sets, and 'props.'

"Weekly meetings are to be held by production managers . . . to canvass their mutual requirements.

"Great savings can be made, it is believed, by the interchange of stock shots and sound effects, as well. The same would apply to technical effects, miniatures and models."

Sets and properties will be repainted and redecorated by producers when they are borrowed from their competitors.

This plan supplants a central purchasing depot for all studios, in Hollywood, which was advanced at the first session. All supplies and materials for all member companies would be obtained under the initial plan.

Economies for Newsreels

Proposals for an "Associated Press" for gathering newsreel shots of current events, to avoid duplicate effort, were dropped. Newsreel editors in New York rejected the idea, saying it would not effect any important savings as staffs could not be reduced drastically.

Cooperative Insurance

A proposal of a cooperative industrial insurance plan was approved and a study of the subject was authorized. Nothing more specific was forthcoming than that a committee would be appointed.

"Prestige" Pictures

The conference resurrected an old idea when it proposed the production of one "prestige" picture annually by each studio, to promote goodwill. These productions would be released simultaneously by all companies, but no announcement could be found in the recapitulation of the week's activities.

It was also felt that productions of the so-called "epic" type would possibly silence outside criticism of "run-of-the-mill" product.

Too Much Footage for Credits

Another matter which evidently was lost in the shuffle pertained to a discussion of eliminating footage now devoted to screen credits, with estimated saving of $1,000 on each feature. Concentrated credits would lessen footage necessary for negative and positive. Total yearly savings for all companies would approximate $425,000.

That "Gentlemen's Agreement"

A new "gentlemen's agreement" to adjust common problems was a subject of conversation. Mr. Hays declared: "Free and frank discussions unalterably established the fact that the good of one factor in the industry was the good of all."

The delegates heard much from Mr. Hays about the necessity for cooperating in production of "clean" pictures.

Exhibitors Survey Summer Closings

While exhibitors of Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware were making surveys of their territory, to determine whether a partial closing of theatres during the coming summer will be in order, theatre owners in other sections this week were continuing negotiations in the nationwide movement to readjust salary scales of projectionists, stage hands and musicians.

Considerable speculation has arisen as to holding of the oft-postponed conferences between producers' representatives and executives of the IATSE, over refusal of studio unions to accept the industry's 25-50 per cent salary cut, in view of the decision last week by practically all companies to rescind the cuts.

Columbus stagehands accepted a 25 per cent cut for the summer.

Detroit operators and stagehands agreed to a 25 per cent reduction at RKO theatres.

Kansas City, Kan., saw seven houses reopened after a nine-day shutdown. Operators acceded to the owners' demands for one man in the booths of all houses. Operators retained will be given a 30 per cent salary increase. The union is working on a plan for alternating shifts.

Kansas City, Mo., theatres agreed to take back IATSE men, with an increase in pay, after an agreement had been reached between subsequent run houses and the unions. The one-man-in-a-booth idea still holds.

Memphis suburban houses are taking joint action on double features, admission prices, and labor difficulties.

Milwaukee saw the end of a dispute between Warners and the unions when the company reopened seven houses in Sheboygan, Racine, Appleton and Kenosha.

A lockout at the Saenger, Tudor and Globe in New Orleans was followed by a widened dispute this week. Saenger circuit is charged with breaking a special eight-week agreement. Following the bank holiday the unions agreed to take a 25 per cent cut on salaries under $50 and 50 per cent over that amount, but at the end of four weeks, the receiver for Saenger is said to have presented a demand for a cut in manpower, effective April 9.

New York Local 306 is opposing cuts for circuits.

Topeka stagehands and operators agreed to one-man-in-a-booth in four Fox houses and stagehands accepted a $9 per week cut.

Wheeling, W. V., operators took a second 10 per cent reduction.

French Chamber Taxes Radio

The French Chamber of Deputies in Paris has adopted a radio tax which imposes a levy of 15 francs on crystal sets, 50 francs on tube sets and a sales tax of 15 per cent on tubes. It was considered doubtful that the measure would be approved by the Senate.

Plan Russian Historical Film

The Soviet Trust for Film Productions will produce a long historical motion picture depicting the life of Stenka Razin, famed 17th century rebel who set up a short-lived Cossack republic. The film will be made in Russian, English, German, French.

Zanuck, Schenck In New Company For Production

Darryl Zanuck, who resigned last week as Warner production executive, announced on Tuesday that he and Joseph M. Schenck are planning a producing company, the name and policy of which will be announced later. Mr. Schenck will be the president and Mr. Zanuck will be in complete charge of production. They are planning to release through United Artists and will produce with United Artists facilities. Both Mr. Zanuck and Mr. Schenck emphasized the fact that this is a separate company, having no direct connection with United Artists. It has been reported that Mr. Zanuck refused a contract from a major studio for $10,000 weekly plus $200,000 as bonus for signing the contract. Mr. Zanuck said that it has always been his ambition to be an independent producer.

Mr. Zanuck, chief executive in charge of Warner production, at odds with the company's official policy relative to salary reductions, and placed in an awkward position by the Warner refusal to follow the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences' ruling for retroactive restoration of full pay, had suddenly resigned his post.

The action of Mr. Zanuck, who had made a sensational success of his production job, had been in the air since Warner indicated definitely that full pay would be restored on April 17, with no provision for making it retroactive. The Academy ruling required full restoration April 10, one week earlier, to be retroactive to March 6.

It is understood that numerous Warner studio workers and important players would demand full salaries as from March 6, on the contention that the waivers they had signed called for the acceptance by all studios of the Academy ruling on salaries. Through their attorneys, Richard Barthelmess, James Cagney, Loretta Young and Leslie Howard, among others, have forwarded claims. Jack L. Warner, vice president in charge of production, will assume Mr. Zanuck's duties. Explaining his resignation, Mr. Zanuck said: "I personally had given my word to employees that their salaries would be restored. When the company refused to comply with the ruling of the Academy emergency committee I could not face the employees."

Adams Elected to G. E. Directorate

Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy in President Hoover's cabinet, was elected a director of General Electric Company at the annual meeting of stockholders this week. Other directors were re-elected. Owen D. Young, chairman of the board, presided.

Gerary Swope, president, pointed out that while sales dropped 44 per cent in 1932 over the preceding year and orders fell 52 per cent, Department of Commerce figures showed that General Electric's decrease was approximately the same as the decline in the entire industry.

LITTLE LADY COST

A very short story of what happened when Old Man Gross went to Hollywood

by TERRY RAMSAYE

¶ First came the bank holiday.

¶ Then came the jitters and the Waldorf-Astoria conferences, between Will Hays and the executives of the motion picture companies.

¶ Next the heavy hand of depression alarm laid a wage cut across the industry, from distribution to production.

¶ And then on April 6, the "New Deal Expedition," consisting of the New York executives, took off on the Twentieth Century for Hollywood, determined to "balance cost and gross."

¶ The gross was off to tell the cost about it.

¶ The gross from New York, consisting of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., fetched up against the cost in Hollywood in terms of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Conversation was had, in essence, as follows:

The Academy would look at the books and cuts were cancelled save for those who could show damage to receipts by the bank holiday. (And it was so ordered.)

A dictator might be appointed to sit as overlord of production and eliminate extravagances and cut-throat competition. (He was not.)

An "Associated Press" of the newsreels might be organized to reduce production costs. (Not a Hollywood question. Referred to New York with authority to forget it.)

"A gentlemen's agreement" might be considered for an understanding that participants in the production community might pay heed to each other's "rights." (Anticipating the millennium.)

Unified physical distribution through a central service organization was thought of again, discussed again—and "referred back to New York." (Why go to Hollywood to bring that up?)

A barter plan might be used to free monies held by embargoes on the export of cash in foreign countries. For instance, in Spain movie balances might be converted into olive oil for shipment. (Irrelevant.)

The footage devoted to screen credits, for authors, stars, producers, directors, etc., might be reduced—with a saving in raw stock. (Irrelevant, inconsequential and immaterial.)

A central purchasing bureau might be established. (There used to be one.)

More discrimination might be exercised in story purchases with a view to reducing costs. ("Might" is the word here.)

A pooling of process patents could be set up so that every studio could use the other's methods. There could also be a pooling of stock shots from the screen libraries and stock sound effects. (The insiders pool them anyway.)

An interchange of idle story materials, now held frozen in inventory by the various companies, might be created by setting up a "market" between the producers' story chiefs. (It goes on every day in the year anyway.)

An Artists Service Bureau might be organized to do all the big time hiring and contracting for talent, above the scale of extras handled by the Central Casting Bureau. (The agents, the stars and Hollywood don't like it.)

¶ By April 18 the New Deal Expedition had vanished. One by one and two by two the expeditioners trickled Eastward. The Academy stood before the mirror adjusting her wreath of laurel. Hollywood listened a moment at the retreating footsteps of the uninvited guests, and rang for the butler.

" . . . For East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet. . . ."

¶ Clever Little Lady Cost, with vine leaves in her hair, was nice to Old Man Gross, with his trouble-lined brow of care—but down in her heart she doesn't give a damn about him. So there.

THEATRES CHALLENGE DEFENSE OF HIGH NEWSPAPER AD RATES

Declare News of Amusement Field Is Just as Important to Publication's Circulation as Sports and Radio Stories

Theatre men throughout the country challenge newspaper publishers' defense of excessive advertising rates for amusements on the score of "free publicity" and "preferred position." Theatrical advertising men and exhibitors recognize the value of concentrated theatrical pages, but they also are convinced that what reader space they receive does not justify the high rates forced upon them, and that in most cases such socalled publicity is of parallel news value with the columns upon columns of sports and radio news.

Newspapers should take a broader view of their function in the matter of theatrical advertising rates, in the opinion of Abram F. Myers, general counsel and chairman of Allied States Association. Lower advertising rates would stimulate business, thereby giving rise to greater advertising revenue, Mr. Myers believes.

Myers Urges Reduction

"There is absolutely no justification for charging a higher rate to theatrical advertisers than to others," he said. "With the country bending every effort to revive business there should be no profiteering in the greatest of all business builders—advertising. The Allied States Association is constantly urging the theatres to make full use of newspaper advertising, along with other forms of exploitation. We feel that the cost of newspaper space and advertising accessories sold on exhibition contracts is excessive. Both should be reduced."

Mr. Myers also remarked he always had assumed that newspapers carry publicity stories on theatrical pages because of a public demand for them rather than because theatres request such publicity.

If newspapers continue to show discrimination against motion picture advertising, Charles Skouras, receiver for Fox West Coast Theatres, said, he will launch a campaign of advertising via the radio and billboards, eliminating newspapers entirely. "I will advocate the same policy for other showmen," Mr. Skouras said. "Discriminatory theatre advertising rates must be abolished. If the publishers feel that the excess rate is due to publicity, then that should be eliminated, but exhibitors should not be made to 'pay through the nose.'"

Ed Fay, of Fay's Theatres, Providence, R. I., said that rates there are fair, but that newspaper criticisms of pictures are unjustifiably severe.

"Our trouble here," he said, "is that the papers severely criticize all pictures except those made in foreign countries. These they commend to a point unlimited. The public, I believe, does not particularly want foreign pictures, so we derive no benefit from favorable criticisms."

In the February 25 issue of Motion Picture Herald was printed a general discussion of the handicap of disproportionate rates to the theatre man. In some instances

Advertising Rates, Revised

Newspaper	Weekday Adv. Rate per Agate Line: General	MOTION PICTURE: National	MOTION PICTURE: Local
Chicago Tribune	1.40*	1.20	.90
Los Angeles Examiner..	.48*	.71	.71
Los Angeles Herald & Express	.70*	.97	.97
Los Angeles News.....	.25*	.57	.44
Los Angeles Times.....	.37*	.65	.49
Los Angeles Record....	.15	.29	.29
New York News.....	1.65*	1.52	1.52
New York Post.....	.45*	.80	.80
New York Sun.....	.68*	.88	.88@
New York World-Telegram	.70	.95	.95@
Pittsburgh Press	.40	.57§	.50
San Francisco Call-Bulletin	.32*	.60	.44
San Francisco Chronicle.	.28*	.40§	.30§
San Francisco Examiner	.50	.90	.46
Seattle Post - Intelligencer	.28*	.22	.22

Rate flat unless otherwise specified. *Per agate line open, charge per line decreasing with increase of space taken. Minimum 5 lines. @Minimum 6 lines. 30 inches or more. §Minimum 14 lines.

charges for theatre advertising have been reduced; in many other situations no readjustments have been made.

Walter Vincent, of the Wilmer & Vincent circuit, declared that in the early days of the theatre, rates for theatre advertising were practically the same as for merchandise and that any extra publicity was paid for by passes to the various theatres.

"Then the newspaper publishers conceived the idea of a theatre page, or pages, and extra charge for theatre advertising," he said. "Their motive for this extra charge apparently was that commercial advertisers did not get the free publicity accorded the theatres. Never in my managerial experience, however, has there been a time that I did not think the newspaper was grossly overpaid for any socalled 'free publicity,' in view of the fact that passes that were given to newspaper offices were handed out as a bait to other advertisers for more advertising."

Mr. Vincent declared further that news of the theatre is just as valuable and important as that of sports and radio, with pages of sports news and any quantity of space given free to the radio.

A Problem in Baltimore

In Baltimore, long a scene of bitter controversies between newspapers and the theatre man, the Sun publications have made no concessions whatsoever to theatres. Loew's for months has conducted a campaign for reductions, to no avail. On these three newspapers, the Morning, Evening and Sunday Sun, the rates are held to be out of proportion to the circulation. Some progress was made with the Hearst paper, the Post and the Scripps-Howard News, but officials of the Sun newspapers informed Loew's advertising men that if the matter were to be taken up at all, it would have to wait for the board of directors' meeting.

In Denver the situation is unique. No theatre receives advance notices in the Post unless that paper gets 75 per cent of the advertising.

Newspaper publishers in general attempted

Myers Protests Against "Profiteering"; Fay Cites Unfair Critiques; Vincent Declares Newspapers Are Overpaid to justify the higher rates on the ground of free space given theatres, yet agreed that to eliminate stories about film personalities would be suicidal, because of news and circulation value. Advertising executives of newspaper chains in New York, including the Hearst, Paul Block and Scripps-Howard interests, unanimously expressed the opinion that motion picture advertisers are not paying too high a rate. They said the difference from commercial rates was not so much because of "free publicity," but more because of preferred position, for which almost every newspaper charges 25 per cent additional.

"The differential of this paper is due to the extra expense involved in producing the theatre page," said Harlon G. Palmer, publisher of the Hollywood Citizen-News. "Mercantile advertising appears on pages containing as low as 10 per cent reading matter or none at all, while the theatre page averages about 70 per cent reading matter."

W. G. Pfaffenberger, display advertising manager of the Los Angeles Times, said his paper charged more for theatre advertising than commercial copy because of the large amount of studio and theatre publicity.

Says Preferred Position Would End

Several publishers declared that if the theatres want their rates reduced they should get together and talk with the publishers and try to get commercial rates with no thought of publicity entering into it.

"This," one publisher in New York pointed out, "would automatically mean the end of a concentrated amusement page and I do not believe theatre people would care for that."

Newspaper advertising is not a commodity, but a professional service, wrote another publisher, and should be paid for as such.

Fred S. Meyer, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Wisconsin, pointed out that considerable effort had been expended in Wisconsin and upper Michigan to obtain lower rates, but the publishers are adamant. The same situation obtains in San Antonio.

An example of the newspapers' recognition of the circulation value of theatre news is seen in the statement of Neil S. Hellis, business manager of the Los Angeles Record, who said that publishers "desire to cooperate with theatre men at all times for mutual business reasons." National and local theatrical advertising rates for that newspaper are 29 cents, as against 15 cents an agate line for the commercial advertiser. Mr. Hellis said that if the theatres were to ask for a waiver of publicity space, in order to gain the benefit of the lower commercial rate, the Record probably would jump at the chance, "although," he added, "the paper would not drop all theatrical comment because some of it is very necessary to the editorial standard."

THE CAMERA REPORTS

MR. SHAW POSES. Proving that Mr. Storz knows G. B. S. is only kidding when he shoos the news men away. Bill Storz, Movietonews cameraman, is shown with the playwright on the Empress of Britain, having boarded the boat at Havana for the trip to New York.

FIRST GUILD PICTURE. Frank Borzage signing to direct "A Man's Castle," chosen as the Screen Guild's initial production. With Borzage are shown Samuel J. Briskin, general manager of Columbia, which will produce the picture, and M. C. Levee, Guild head. The story is by Lawrence Hazard.

OFF ON CONCERT TOUR. As Ramon Novarro, MGM star, entrained in Los Angeles bound for New York to sail for France, where he will appear in song recitals. Among friends bidding him good-bye is Myrna Loy, of the cast of his latest picture, "The Barbarian."

KISS AND MAKE UP. Two famous Frenchmen, Maurice Chevalier and Georges Carpentier, chatting after meeting on the liner Paris. The Paramount star and former ring idol were reported "on the outs" prior to this meeting arranged by a mutual friend. Shown with them is a newspaperman.

IN A NORMAN VILLAGE. Sojourning for a moment in a bit of France was Patricia Ellis when this picture was taken, without finding it a bit necessary to leave the Warner-First National lot, where the quaint little town is merely a set. Miss Ellis's latest role is in support of Joe E. Brown in "Elmer the Great."

CONTRADICTORY MOOD. Inasmuch as this lady of austere beauty is among Educational's leading comediennes. But who said comedy was merely laughter? She is Eleanor Hunt, who has been signed for a new picture as yet untitled but scheduled for early production.

TEAMED. By way of indicating the partnership arranged for them—them being Dorothy Jordan and Joel McCrea—by Merian C. Cooper, vice-president in charge of production for RKO Radio, who has assigned to them the romantic interest of forthcoming product. Their initial co-operative venture is "Lost Squadron."

JES' FISHIN'. Cullen Johnson as the lad most men would like to be again if ever they had been . . . a scene from Jesse L. Lasky's latest production for Fox, "The Power and the Glory."

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH TELLS 'EM

Industry Is in Hands of Children, Says "Old Maestro" of Production; Blames Story Building

The business of motion pictures is being run by individuals displaying the mentality of children, according to D. W. Griffith, "old maestro" of production. While scores of executives from both coasts have been fighting the Battle of Hollywood, trying to figure ways and means of putting the industry on a sound operating basis, attempting to solve problems through numerous "conferences," talking about dictators to oversee all production, and physical distribution mergers, the maker of "Birth of a Nation," "Way Down East" and "Intolerance," from his apartment high up in the Park Central Hotel, New York, snaps his fingers and says: "There is only one problem to be considered, drooping box-offices."

Surveying on his right hand the Broadway scene, and on his left, a broad expanse of the Jersey shore and the North river, D. W. spoke still with the authority of a master of matters pertaining to the industry, its foibles and its good and not-so-good points.

Blames Poorly Constructed Stories

"I say that the industry is in the hands of children because they have made no particular steps forward technically since the inception of sound," he declared. "They do not consider their public, and their stories in nine cases out of ten are so badly constructed that if a person happens into the middle of a show he is completely lost. There is no possible way in which he can make head or tale out of the plot, and if he sits through the rest of the bill until the picture starts again, there have been so many disturbing influences in the meantime that it is out of the question for him to pick up the threads of the story from the end, where he started, back to the beginning. It's ridiculous on the face of it. How long would a magazine, which started its stories at the end and worked back to the beginning, survive? What would happen if a theatrical producer decided to start the evening performance with the last act first? The theatre-going public simply wouldn't stand for it."

And this, Mr. Griffith believes, is only one of many problems which have a direct bearing on falling grosses. He feels that the star system should be partly done away with and that ultimately good stories, competently produced and acted, with less emphasis on the players, will prove more consistent box-office winners.

"Of course I realize that stars draw many persons," the producer said, "but the fact remains that in view of the current desire on the part of producers and distributors to readjust the earning power of stars in proportion to lower average grosses, they might well give a little more thought to creating stories in which the players are secondary. By so doing they would partly solve the star problem. How many people today can remember what players appeared in 'Birth of a Nation,' 'Hearts of the World,' 'Way Down East,' 'The Covered Wagon,' 'The Big Parade,' 'The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse,' that have taken their place in screen history as among the greatest successes of all time?"

D. W. GRIFFITH

All motion picture theatres should present their shows on a time schedule, Mr. Griffith said, as patrons then would be able to see a complete performance without the disturbing influence of interrupted thought. He added that these schedules should be widely publicized in theatre advertising, that it is not the business of the picture patron to find out for himself what time the feature goes on.

Wants Time Schedules Advertised

"This interrupted thought does not apply to musical pictures or to comedies where the plot is of minor importance," D. W. said. "But as long as drama is the backbone of the entertainment business, a considerable amount of time and thought should be given to this phase of it. I have stood in front of many theatres and heard people coming out say, 'How miserable motion pictures are getting.' And why do they say it? Simply because they have been unable to assimilate all of the value the picture has to offer."

Mr. Griffiith belittled the oft-expressed opinion that, because of the depression, it is impossible for pictures to make big grosses.

"Good pictures will always make money," he said, "and roadshows could be just as successful today as they ever were. Of course, you must have the picture for this, and quite frankly, there hasn't been a single 'legitimate' roadshow attraction in the past two years."

Little Technical Progress, He Says

Asserting that there is an insufficient amount of experimentation in film laboratories today, Mr. Griffith pointed out that it took years to build up the technique of the silent film and that with the inception of sound a completely new technique had to be devised. He feels that the industry has not made much progress in the development of the new art, with due allowance for generally unsettled conditions.

"There should have been the glimmering of a new process of some nature by this time," he declared. "So far there has been none, and with radio an ever-increasing source of competition and worry, it's high time Hollywood began to do something about it. Radio has made gigantic steps forward in every respect, far greater in proportion to the length of its existence than has the motion picture."

Talking of the days when roadshows were reaching the height of popularity, and business all over the country was booming, Mr. Griffith pointed out that "Way Down East" alone grossed $1,380,000 in the first five and one-half months of its roadshowing. And he is convinced that the same thing can be done today—

"But where, oh where are the stories, the showmen and the ability to put them across?" he asks.

Fred Terry, of British Stage and Screen, Dies

Fred Terry, youngest brother of the late Dame Ellen Terry, died in London this week at the age of 69. Long a favorite, both on the stage in this country and in pictures and plays throughout the British Empire, he was most successful in pseudo-historical costume plays, playing romantic heroes.

Mr. Terry was one of England's severest critics of the talking pictures. On one occasion he referred to a picture which he had produced as "a horrible, grating, grunting noise, which is called a talking film."

Surviving, beside his wife, Julia Neilson, is a daughter, Phyllis Neilson Terry, well known on the London stage.

Actors' Equity Names Board For Nomination of Officers

Actors' Equity Association, New York, held a general meeting of all members this week to elect a nominating committee of six, which will confer with a committee of three appointed by the Equity council to prepare the ticket to be presented for election at the annual meeting in May. Frank Gillmore, president, presided at the meeting.

The committee named included Thomas Mitchell, Frank McCormack, Olive Oliver, Percy Moore, Richard Taber and Henry O'Neill. Alternates are Louise Prussing, John Butler, Hugh Rennie, Harriet Sterling, Alfred Kappeler and Albert Van Dekker. Those named by the council are Florence Reed, Walter Connolly and Paul Harvey, with Elizabeth Risdon and Osgood Perkins as alternates.

Named District Manager

Tony Williams, former manager of the DeWitt theatre, a Warner house in Bayonne, N. J., has been named district manager for Warner in Hudson County, N. J., with headquarters in Newark.

SIROVICH BILL A TEST FOR HOUSE CONTROL

House Rules Committee Now Seeks to Reconsider Measure With Passage Called Unlikely; Action in the States Noted

Approval or disapproval of the Sirovich resolution by the U. S. House of Representatives has become more than mere action on a proposal to investigate the film industry and is taking on the characteristics of a major campaign to determine which of several factions shall control the House.

That Representative Sirovich's attack on the industry has been invested with an importance not originally contemplated is indicated by moves over the Easter holidays. Its passage, however, is not considered likely.

Having given their approval of the resolution, members of the House rules committee now are represented as being anxious to rescind their action and obtain physical possession of the measure again for "further consideration," taken to mean it would be carefully laid aside until a thorough canvass has been made of its possibilities.

Opposition to the resolution was evidenced as soon as the measure was reported, when immediate consideration was blocked. Then Representative Blanton designated the proposed investigation a "waste of money."

Meanwhile, Representative Sirovich is accumulating a mass of correspondence, which is supposed to enthusiastically hail the proposed investigation. However, most of this applause, it is understood, is from persons who held stocks in film or theatre enterprises and from a few independent exhibitors who see here another opportunity to sink a harpoon. Other exhibitors denounce it.

From the sidelines, the maneuvers with the Sirovich resolution have all the earmarks of a lining-up to determine the strength of various factions. This is about the first opportunity that has been given to test House leadership; heretofore, that body has been concerned solely with questions involving the Administration program.

A. Julian Brylawski, of the MPTOA, with headquarters in the Capitol, is organizing exhibitor opposition.

Mr. Sirovich threatened to make a formal complaint to Speaker Rainey that a "pernicious lobby" is attempting to block his proposal.

Reports from Hollywood said production workers favor the Sirovich measure as a means of throwing socalled "daylight" into the operations of the industry, which, they believe, will place the makers of motion pictures in a favorable light. It appeared possible that this reported attitude may have been prompted by a desire to spread propaganda favorable to Hollywood's high salaries.

State Legislatures Active

The motion picture industry this week continued its fight against state legislation which would burden exhibitors. Theatre owners in the field were victorious in Delaware, Missouri, New Jersey, North Carolina and Wisconsin. However, there were new adverse measures introduced elsewhere.

Representative Kelton's 5 per cent amusement tax was stricken from the calendar of the House in Delaware. Repeal of the Sunday "blue" law was lost.

A bill to tax billboards 25 cents a square foot was introduced in the Florida legislature by Representative Andrews.

Fate of Maryland's Sunday opening bill rests with Governor Ritchie. It would be applicable to only Allegany, Baltimore and Prince George counties.

Adverse measures were defeated in Missouri. These include a 1 per cent sales tax, a standing-room-only-bill, and a proposition to tax theatre and screen advertising. A special session to effect taxation is likely next fall.

Michigan exhibitors are worried over a new 5 per cent tax bill.

New Jersey's Sunday opening bill became law, each municipality empowered to hold a referendum.

The North Carolina legislature has before it a proposed tax on film exchanges, although the House voted to exclude theatres in the general sales tax.

Representative Goodwin is chairman of a legislative committee which will map out a detailed tax program for Ohio. Admission taxes are expected to be included. The legislature will reconvene May 15.

Oklahoma's 2 per cent sales tax bill was killed by the House, due to adjourn this week.

Pennsylvania has finally sent to Governor Pinchot a repealer of its Sunday blue laws of 1794.

A statewide Sunday opening bill in Tennessee is expected to become law in a few weeks.

Governor Schmedeman of Wisconsin signed a blue law repealer.

The legislatures of Ontario and Quebec adjourned without any measures directly affecting the industry. The Dominion Parliament, still in session, has before it a proposal to impose a levy on film rentals under the Royalties act, but it is not expected to pass.

Texas theatre owners were spared from taxation when a legislative committee killed a 10 per cent luxury tax.

Minnesota exhibitors will not be taxed. Two bills in the legislature died with adjournment.

While the danger of adverse legislation in California is not past, the situation is considered well in hand.

Takes Majestic Franchise

Nat Levine, producer of Mascot serials and features, has acquired the Majestic Pictures franchise for Oregon, Washington, Montana and Northern Idaho. Mr. Levine operates under the name of Mascot Film Exchange in Seattle and Washington.

Form Canadian Film Company

British-American Films, Ltd., has been established in Victoria, British Columbia, Canada, with capital of $600,000. Film production is planned by a group of Victoria business men, with Hollywood experts said to be participating.

Organists in Twin Radio Program

Johnny Winters and Leo Webber, nationally known organists, open a program on twin consoles Thursday between 12:45 and 1 p. m. over the NBC network, station WEAF.

LEHMAN TO ACT ON RECEIVERSHIP BILL

Senator McNaboe's bill which aims to discontinue the practice in New York State of naming Irving Trust Company and other banks and trust companies as federal court receivers, will be given a hearing by Governor Lehman. The date will be announced later.

The measure was rushed through the New York legislature on April 3, the last day of the session, and, according to reports from Albany, was due to complaints of lawyers who for some time are said to have been deprived of federal court receivership appointments. It would take effect immediately.

University Plans Film Critic Study

Ohio State University, at Columbus, plans a course designed to assist students as well as adult groups who desire training as motion picture critics. The course will be offered with the cooperation of the state department of education, and a gift of $10,000 from the Payne Fund, New York, will finance the study.

According to Dr. Beverly O. Skinner, state director of education and head of the Ohio censor board, the course will include appreciation of picture values and will be a continuation of similar work recently undertaken. Dr. Edgar Dale, Dr. F. H. Lumley and Benjamin H. Darrow will conduct the course. Appreciation of picture values will be taught by radio, according to the plan. A book, "How to Appreciate Motion Pictures," by Dr. Dale, is to be published in the nature of an experiment for advanced study and may later be offered on the general market.

Mines Bureau Has Oil Film

The United States Bureau of Mines has prepared a three-reel silent educational picture, "The Evolution of the Oil Industry," which is available in 16 mm. and 35 mm. to non-theatrical organizations and theatres with no charge except the transportation cost.

Canadian Authors Organize

An organization, known as the Authors and Composers Association of Canada, has been established in Toronto, with Dr. E. C. MacMillan as president. The announced intention of the association is to obtain a share of royalties now collected in Canada that go to foreign organizations.

Hoffberg in Artclass Deal

J. H. Hoffberg has completed an arrangement whereby his company will exclusively distribute in foreign countries the product of Artclass Pictures. New York rights to "Contraband" have been sold to Hollywood Film Exchange, Inc., by Hoffberg.

The birds are singing. The bees are buzzing

Exhibitors are humming

This new Spring Song

YOUR PROFITS FOR MAY ARE COMING FROM FOX

You'll swing into May with a smile... if your date book boasts the FOX May Festival hits. Without question the strongest list of consecutive releases any company has ever given you. Brist-ling with top-flight star names. Outstanding with story values. Everything to rejuvenate your box office...and restore the movie-habit in your town.

FOX May FESTIVAL

What a profit party FOX has pre-pared for you! Look at the happy news on the following pages.

RANKS WITH

HIT NO. 1 IN THE

JESSE LASKY'S GREATEST ACHIEVEMENTS

Jesse L. Lasky's first for FOX. In every respect worthy of the producer who numbers among his successes almost all of showdom's immortal pictures. A strangely, excitingly different production. Rich in beauty. Unusual in locale. Topped with a climax magnificent in torrential thrills. Pervaded throughout with a romance that vies with "Seventh Heaven" for heart-warming, spiritual tenderness. You have yet to see a production more satisfying to audience and exhibitor alike.

ZOO IN BUDAPEST

Says FILM DAILY, "It's over with plenty to spare. A picture for the entire family."

GENE RAYMOND
LORETTA YOUNG

O. P. Heggie

Story by Melville Baker and Jack Kirkland

A Jesse L. Lasky Production

Directed by Rowland V. Lee

FOX May FESTIVAL

IT IS

Three adorable song hits the country will soon be humming:

"ADORABLE"
"MY FIRST LOVE TO LAST"
"MY HEART'S DESIRE"

by Richard A. Whiting who wrote the score for "Take A Chance," Broadway's current musical smash.

HIT NO. 2 IN THE

Adorable

• For the millions who love a clean wholesome picture with a kick • For those who appreciate a great love story with great music. • For those to whom Janet Gaynor is the sweetheart of the screen • For the millions who will take Garat into their hearts as America's greatest new leading man • We say— "Book 'Adorable'."

JANET GAYNOR and HENRY GARAT

in

Adorable

Story by Paul Frank and Billie Wilder

Music by Werner Richard Heymann

Directed by WILHELM DIETERLE

FOX May FESTIVAL

HOLD

HIT NO. 3 IN THE

THE PERFECT STORY FOR THIS PERFECT TEAM

And the perfect title, too. Youth finding love amid the hustle and bustle of a big-city department store. Meeting set-backs with courage . . . and suspicion with faith. A bang-up climax zipping with action and a great big heart throb. The kind of picture that will endear more thousands to this lovable pair.

ME TIGHT

JAMES DUNN
SALLY EILERS

From the story "Department Store"
by Margaret Rigdon

Directed by DAVID BUTLER

FOX May FESTIVAL

Here's Rollicking Robust Comedy

Another Jesse L. Lasky production. Entertainment guaranteed! What a whale of a brand-new angle. Laugh after laugh in the land where the women are the traveling salesmen and the men are the farmers' daughters. How the women will giggle at the downtrodden men. How the men will guffaw when the tables are turned. How you will grin when you count the receipts.

THE WARRIOR'S

ELISSA LANDI

Marjorie Rambeau
Ernest Truex
David Manners

HIT NO. 4 IN THE

To Roll Them Under The Seats!

"MARRY ME AND MAKE AN HONEST MAN OF ME"

HUSBAND

From the play by Julian Thompson

A JESSE L. LASKY production

Directed by Walter Lang

JUST A COUPLE OF "CURB CRUISERS"

"COME ON UP AND SEE MY ETCHINGS"

FOX May FESTIVAL

Did Somebody Say Exploitation Angles?

Here's a picture that's got 'em by the truckload. And FOX times its release just right for you to cash in on the present excitement. Happy, peppy and romantic. Foaming with fun. Spiced with merry tunes. And effervescent Buddy Rogers puts on a show that will knock your eye out!

HIT NO. 5 IN THE

BUDDY ROGERS
MARIAN NIXON

Joseph Cawthorn Dan Jarrett

Directed by FRANK CRAVEN
(Who Knows What a Hit Should Have!)

FOX May FESTIVAL

6

STATE FAIR

Scores of showmen are beating their normal first run grosses with repeat showings of "State Fair." Take the tip!

7

CAVALCADE

Smashed all-time attendance record at Radio City Music Hall during Holy Week! First standing room in 3 years for Carolina Theatre, Pinehurst, N. C. (pop. 500). No town too big . . . or too small!

● Exhibitors who want ACTION get it from FOX right now! What a time to whoop it up with these superlative seven pictures booked in. Enough to make any showman's blood tingle. Your greatest chance in years to pack your house *for a solid month.

BOOK THEM IN A ROW FOR YOUR BEST MONTH IN YEARS!

OPEN WORLD MARKET FOR INDUSTRY SEEN IN RECIPROCAL TARIFF MOVE

Roosevelt Represented as Prepared to Require Lifting of Artificial Barriers, Such As Quotas Restricting Films

by FRANCIS L. BURT
Washington Correspondent

A barter plan of film executives to release millions in industry funds tied up by trade restrictions in foreign countries has been postponed pending outcome of the Washington preliminary economic conversations opening Friday. See page 12.

Negotiation by President Roosevelt of reciprocal tariff treaties with foreign countries, following the world economic conference this summer, may restore to the motion picture industry an untrammeled world market.

Ready to amend our own tariff to meet the desires of foreign governments for the freer movement of their nationals' products to our markets, the President is represented as prepared to require, in return, that artificial barriers to the free interchange of products, such as quotas and allotments, be abandoned.

Motion picture films, radio receivers and many other products have been subjected to various restrictions in many countries, and frequently delicate diplomatic situations have arisen from the charges of domestic producers that the quota requirements and other restrictions have been aimed principally at American goods.

Informal conversations are to be held late this month by President Roosevelt and his advisors with representatives of many nations which later will meet at the economic conference. These conversations will canvass the whole field of world problems, with a view to arriving at an understanding which will further the discussions at the formal conference. At that conference, it is the President's hope, the groundwork may be laid for new commercial treaties in the making of which the United States will forsake its historic attitude of equal treatment to the products of all nations in favor of a policy of trading rates and concessions with each nation individually.

The whole philosophy of the Roosevelt Administration with respect to international agreements was set forth by Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper in a recent discussion of the legislation to be asked of Congress in the near future, authorizing the President to negotiate the treaties.

"With the crushing weight of economic depression bearing down everywhere, shrinkage in the demand for imported goods was inevitable," Secretary Roper pointed out. "To add to the natural difficulties brought about by the drastic declines in purchasing power and the lowering price levels, the governments of the world have contributed to the difficulties of international trade by imposing artificial restrictions, such as high tariffs, import quotas, direct prohibition of certain imports, and restrictions upon the purchase of foreign exchange.

"Such measures, on the part of other countries, have usually been taken to remedy urgent conditions of internal finance or as a desperate attempt to balance their international payments by curtailing imports in ratio to declining exports. But whatever the motives behind them, these artificial restrictions are rapidly strangling what is left of international trade."

"Last year," the Secretary declared, "more than half of the 65 nations of commercial importance increased their trade barriers by one means or another."

Canada Makes Full Use Of Films in Propaganda

World-wide activities of the Canadian government Motion Picture Bureau, which is under the department of trade and commerce, as reviewed in the annual report presented to the Canadian House of Commons at Ottawa, are a revelation to those unfamiliar with this branch of the government. Canada is rated as the first country to make substantial use of motion picture films for propaganda and trade advertising.

This bureau produced and processed 1,250,000 feet of film during the past year, including six synchronized pictures of feature proportions. On March 31 last, the bureau had 4,394 releases of from one to three reels in circulation in 30 countries throughout the world, an increase of 472 prints over the previous year. The total cost of all operations of the bureau for the past fiscal year was $53,892 while a revenue of $26,668 was secured through rental charges for government films used in theatres. Much of the distribution of the Canadian reels was obtained through the 33 Canadian trade commissioners around the world.

Monogram Convention Group on Way East

On their way east for the Monogram Pictures sales convention which opens Monday at Atlantic City, are the following:

From Los Angeles: Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of production; Lou Ostrow, production executive; Floyd St. John, western manager, and Howard Stubbins, Los Angeles manager.

Joining the party at Kansas City: Robert Withers of Kansas City, Barney Rosenthal and Nat Steinberg of St. Louis, Bill Underwood and Claude Ezell of Dallas; at Chicago: Irving Mandel and Harry Lorch; at Cleveland: Nat and Mrs. Lefton and J. S Josey.

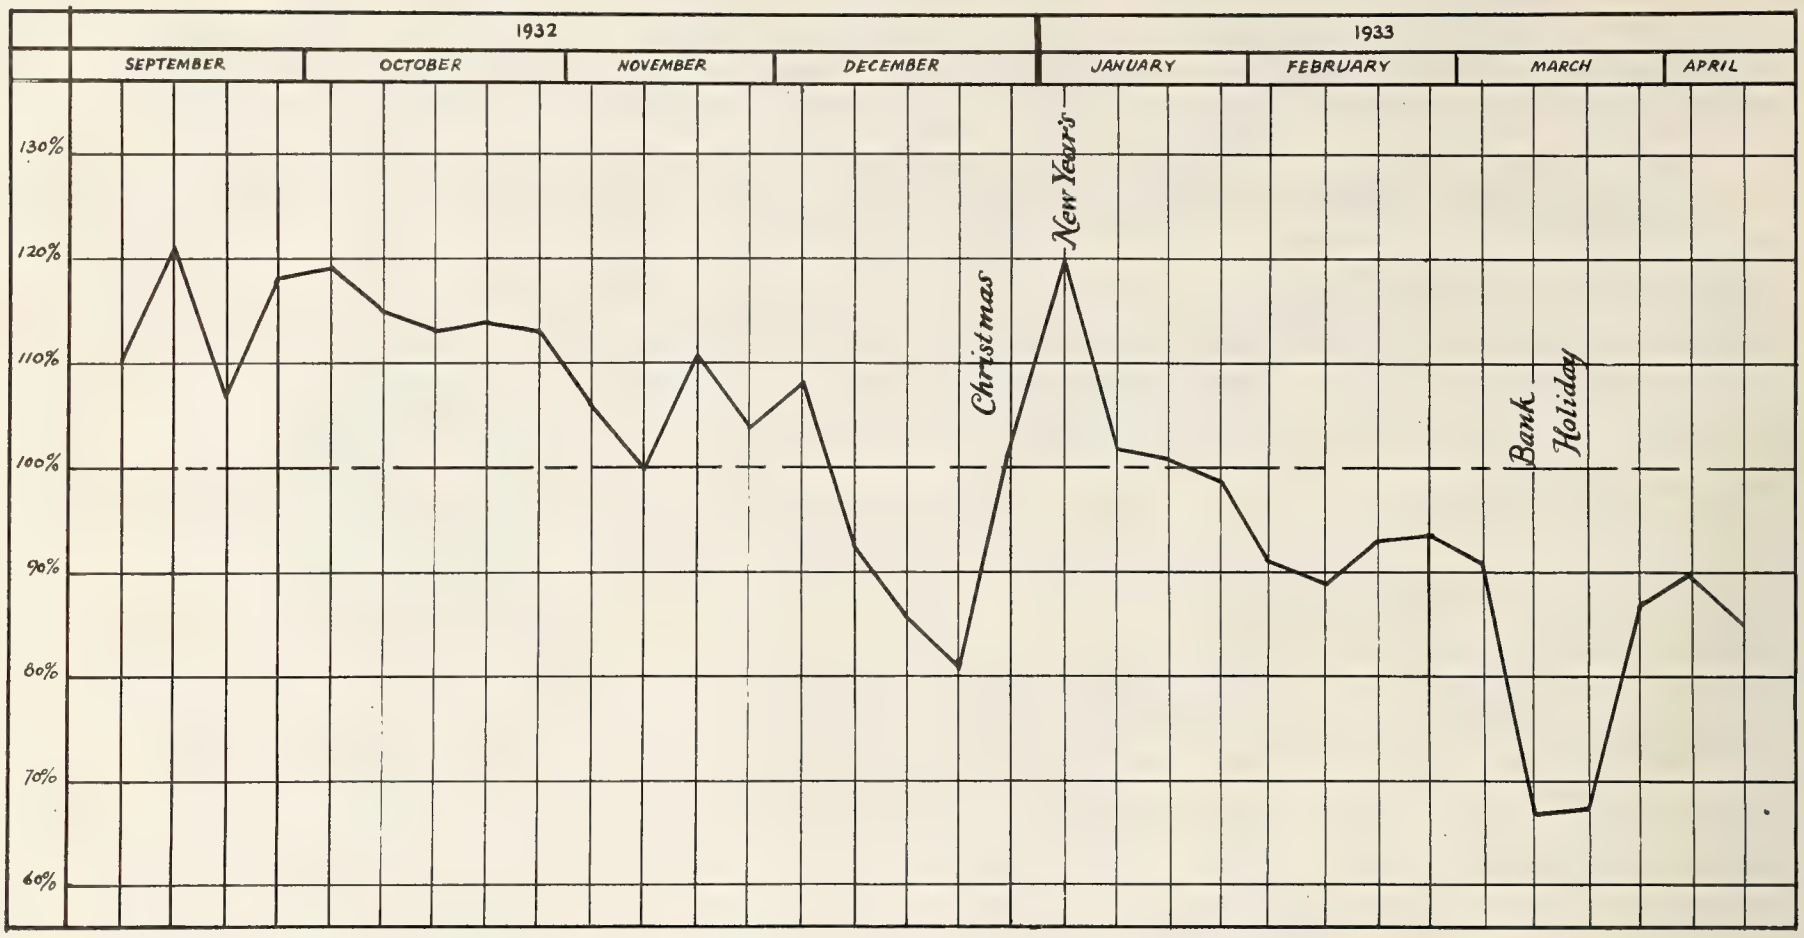
A convention special leaves Saturday from New York over the Pennsylvania road.

It was two years ago at Atlantic City that W. Ray Johnston launched Monogram. Next Monday, when the sales forces gather at the same hotel, the Ambassador, the company will have achieved a mark of having produced and released 28 dramas and 34 westerns. A banquet Wednesday night will close the convention of close to 100 sales delegates.

Dowling Urges Campaign to Get U.S. Cooperation

A campaign to obtain the unqualified support of the entire theatrical field for governmental cooperation has been launched by Eddie Dowling, stage and motion picture star, and producer of musical comedies. Mr. Dowling, new president of the Theatrical Democratic League, returned to New York late last week from an extended conference with President Roosevelt.

"The President understands the problems which confront us and he is quite willing to arbitrate insofar as he is able," Mr. Dowling said. "Unjust taxation, union labor difficulties and deportation of alien talent are just a few of the problems with which we have to deal."



Mr. Dowling said the industry and the theatre should have some official medium at Washington through which common problems could be brought to the attention of the Government. There might be far less wrangling if this were brought about, he said.

"The United States is the only civilized country on earth which has not some form of amusements subsidized by the Government," he said. "In Germany there are National theatres in almost every city of any size; there is a State opera and one of the world's foremost symphony orchestras is subsidized by the Reich. In England the three broadcasting companies are owned and operated by the Government, and in France the opera is controlled by the people, but in this country there is nothing.

"It is high time that people engaged in the business of entertaining others took it upon themselves to get the recognition they so justly deserve. The motion picture industry is the sixth largest industry and it is a business. It should, therefore, be in a position to obtain assistance from Washington when such necessity arises."

The President, Mr. Dowling said, feels that a solution of some of the problems of the theatre and the motion picture would do much toward putting the country on its feet. The President also is said to be particularly interested in giving individuals connected with the amusement business the protection of the Government in tax matters. He believes, according to Mr. Dowling, that many penalties imposed upon theatricals by the Treasury Department have been the result of misunderstandings and the overbearing approach of that department to the execution of its rules and regulations.

"Heretofore no branch of the amusement business has had a representative who was able to obtain the necessary cooperation from the Government," said Mr. Dowling. "There has never been anyone who had the best interests of the business at heart, insofar as securing that assistance goes."

The chart, based on Motion Picture Herald's listing of box office grosses, compares the relative fluctuations in receipts from eleven cities for the 32 weeks' period of September 2, 1932 to April 8, 1933. The 100 per cent line represents the average weekly gross taken in the eleven cities during the 32 weeks. The cities are Boston, Chicago, Hollywood, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Portland (Ore.) and San Francisco.

30 PER CENT DROP IN REVENUE IN CANADA

Colonel Cooper Sees Drop Due to Closed Theatres, Increase in French, English Bookings; Admission Price Cut Factor

by W. M. GLADISH
Canadian Correspondent

American distributors in Canada are facing a problem of dwindling profits because of an increase of product coupled with a reduction of theatres, now operating, according to Col. John A. Cooper, president of the Motion Picture Distributors of Canada. Col. Cooper cited a 5 per cent reduction in bookings due to closed theatres, another 2½ per cent of bookings gone French and 10 per cent British. This with an estimated decline of 12 per cent in attendance in 1932, with current declines even worse, translates into 30 per cent reduced revenue for the distributors of American pictures. January attendance was less than for the same month in 1932. A further factor is the general reduction of admission prices.

"In January there were 111 sound-equipped theatres which were not open for business," Col. Cooper said. "There were thus about 13 per cent fewer film buyers, representing 5 per cent picture bookings. The other 87 per cent of theatres had lower receipts.

"To make matters worse for the distributors, there were more pictures offered. France sends to Canada about 60 pictures annually and these cut off another 2½ per cent in bookings for films from the United States, the buyers of French films being in Quebec and Ontario where revenues are relatively higher than in other Provinces.

"Yet this is not the whole story. British pictures, almost negligible until June, 1932, are now coming in freely. During 1933, the supply of British films in Canada will be about double that of 1932. Some theatres are going 'All-British.' Thus, British films will account for probably 10 per cent of total Canadian bookings."

Union Operators Return After Theatre Adjustment

Union projectionists returned on Monday to the Richmond theatre, North Adams, Mass., following the conclusion of an agreement between the operators' local and the theatre, adjusting the differences. Details of the settlement were not announced but a joint statement declared the terms satisfactory to both sides.

The theatre had been closed for three weeks as a result of the disagreement, but was reopened last Saturday with non-union projectionists. Union pickets, detailed to the house, were withdrawn when the agreement was reached. Manager Harrison of the Paramount, local competitive situation, announced the settlement concerning the Richmond from the stage of his theatre.

New 'Who's Who' Concise Reference

After a lapse of three years, John Parker's intelligent and highly comprehensive "Who's Who in the Theatre," appears again in its seventh edition. Published by Isaac Pitman in London and distributed in this country by the same publishing house, the volume deals primarily with and concentrates to a greater extent on the English, or more properly, the London stage.

In the fact, however, that American stage and screen players, writers, directors and the like, are represented, the reference book is also of definite value on this side of the water. New York theatres are listed, as is the executive personnel of Actors' Equity Association, New York.

Some 3,000 biographies are included, an increase of approximately 500 over the sixth edition. Most interesting are the genealogical tables of hereditary English theatrical families by John Malcolm Bulloch, a careful study of family trees. A full contents page indicates a complete reference coverage of the London theatre, including playbills of the past two years, lists of English and American dramatic critics, notable productions and principal revivals, long runs, command performances, dimensional detail relative to London theatres, a roll of honor, an interesting compilation of the wills of theatrical dead, seating plans of London's theatres. Mr. Parker's "Who's Who" continues virtually a standard of such compilations, crammed with facts and figures, conveniently arranged.

HILLES AMONG THREE CO-RECEIVERS OF PARAMOUNT; WRIT IS DENIED

Action Protested by Samuel Zirn for Minority Stockholders and Saul E. Rogers for Bondholders; 40 Theatres Returned

Charles D. Hilles, formerly co-receiver; Louis J. Horowitz, of Thompson-Starret & Co., and Eugene W. Leake, of Film Securities Corporation were elected this week trustees in bankruptcy for Paramount Publix Corporation, following a unanimous decision on Monday by the three judges sitting in the United States circuit court of appeals denying a motion for an injunction against further proceedings in the equity receivership under the corporation's petition. Creditors met at the Federal Building, New York, and elected the trustees after more than a month of legal wrangling. Mr. Hilles previously had been named co-receiver with Adolph Zukor January 26, and later as temporary trustee in bankruptcy after the company's voluntary petition on March 14. During the past four weeks the status of the company has been undetermined because a minority bondholders' group fought to set aside the voluntary petition for an involuntary petition.

All the trustees are from outside the industry, although Mr. Leake, formerly chairman of the board of American Express Company, is now president of Film Securities Corporation, holder of 660,000 shares of Loew stock purchased by William Fox prior to his exit from Fox Film Corp.

Louis Horowitz is well known in building circles as president of Thompson, Starrett & Co., which has built many theatres.

Compromise Move Fails

The trustees were nominated by Robert P. Levis, an attorney representing Allied Owners Corporation, builders of many Publix theatres and a creditor of Paramount to the extent of $6,000,000. Mr. Levis said that voting with him were 108 merchandise and service creditors represented by Nathan Burkan with claims aggregating $1,980,965, and 660 creditors of the bondholders' protective group, whose claims amounted to $3,000,000. With the recording of these votes, Referee Henry K. Davis declared the trustees "overwhelmingly elected," and declined to entertain objections to the election entered by Samuel Zirn, attorney representing minority Paramount stockholders whose petition for involuntary receivership and bankruptcy actions for Paramount are on record in New York supreme court. Mr. Zirn was instructed by Referee Davis to put his objections into writing and file them with him. A joint bond of $100,000 was fixed for the trustees by Mr. Davis. A meeting will be held on May 1 at which time the trustees will be required to qualify.

Efforts to compromise with the opposing groups on candidates failed to materialize and Mr. Zirn is expected to continue his objections while Saul E. Rogers, representing a bondholders' group, may oppose Mr. Hilles by challenging his qualifications. Victor House, attorney for another bondholders' group, said Monday that he would consider the qualifications of Mr. Leake and Mr. Horowitz, whom he did not know, but that the objections of his group had been centered on procedure rather than on personalities in the Paramount proceedings.

On Tuesday it was learned that Saul E. Rogers' attack on Mr. Hilles' qualifications would be on the grounds that an equity receiver cannot be appointed a trustee in bankruptcy because one of the receiver's chief duties involves the turning over of the assets of a corporation to the trustee. The trustee fixes the compensation for the duties of a receiver, which fact puts Mr. Hilles in a peculiar position inasmuch as he would have the task of turning over the company's assets to himself and also fixing his own remuneration as receiver.

Calls Procedure Illegal

Samuel Zirn, on Tuesday, asked that the whole procedure of electing the three trustees be set aside as illegal and arbitrary and that a new election be held. If necessary, he said, the matter will be taken by him to the supreme court. Mr. Rogers further asked for an injunction to restrain the trustees from proceeding with the company's business on the same grounds.

"Many of the claims were lease rentals," Mr. Zirn said, "and lease claims cannot be proved in bankruptcy. Therefore, much of the $6,000,000 claims are of doubtful validity." Mr. Zirn said his actions would be filed in U. S. district court within a week. He also said that during the proceedings no opportunity had been given him to examine the validity of the claims of creditors who voted for the three trustees.

Ethan Alyea, of Root, Clark & Buckner, attorneys for the equity receivers, reported that the receivers were in possession of assets aggregating $2,313,000, as of March 25. This represents assets of Paramount and Publix alone, not including any subsidiaries. On April 14 there was cash on hand of $537,000, Mr. Alyea reported; on March 25, accounts receivable totaled $751,000; notes receivable, $309,000, and $716,000 in other maturing accounts.

Although denying the opposing groups' application for a stay of proceedings under Paramount's voluntary petition, the court stipulated that its ruling was "without prejudice to the rights of the petitioners or others to urge the invalidity of the receivership because of prior state actions or for other reasons advanced in the lower courts."

The writ of prohibition was asked for by Arthur D. Gochenour, the Relmar Holding Co., Inc., the estate of Augusta L. Ernst and others. In making the denial, the court said:

"There is ample authority for holding that voluntary proceedings begun after involuntary proceedings in bankruptcy may proceed, saving all rights the involuntary petitioners may disclose and leaving the District Court to require the procedure best adapted to preserve the rights of all the creditors."

Various activities of Paramount Publix prior to January 26, including the sale of its half interest in the Columbia Broadcasting System to William S. Paley and associates a year ago and the transfer of 23 negatives to Film Production Corporation, will be investigated by counsel for several bondholders at present not aligned with executives of the company. A move to recover the 23 negatives will be made through the trustees in bankruptcy, it is understood. An application by Paramount Publix bondholders last week for the appointment of a receiver for Film Production Corporation, on grounds of the transfer of film in violation of the bondholders' rights, was denied by New York Supreme Court Judge Valente. Milton L. Ernst and other plaintiffs represented a total of only $12,000 out of two issues aggregating $25,000,000.

Publix and affiliates are reported to have returned approximately 40 houses to their original owners in the past six weeks.

Fox Production Cabinet Formed

Production problems of Fox Film Corporation will be handled hereafter by a cabinet of executives of Movietone City on the Coast. Sidney R. Kent, president, attended the inaugural session last Friday and returned to New York immediately after the general business conferences.

In addition to Winfield Sheehan, production head for Fox, the cabinet is composed of J. J. Gain, Sol M. Wurtzel, Jesse L. Lasky, Al Rockett, Buddy DeSylva, George Bagnall, Edward Butcher, Julian Johnson, Philip Klein, Jason Joy, Arch Reeve, James O'Keefe, John Stone, William Crawford, Phil Friedman and George Wasson. Every department at the studio is represented.

The cabinet will meet once a week to discuss all studio and production problems.

Immediately upon arriving in New York Tuesday morning, Mr. Kent set out to effect a reorganization of the company's financial structure.

Meanwhile, progress continued toward settlement of the various receivership activities of Fox theatre subsidiaries.

Reorganization of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses is progressing, the receivers report. The newly formed circuit will have from 100 to 125 houses, the exact number contingent upon the outcome of a hearing before federal Judge Francis G. Caffey, either April 25 or 26, on a rental dispute involving 25 upstate New York Schine houses. Originally the Fox Metropolitan circuit had 140 houses.

Fox has dropped seven houses in the Denver territory. In Milwaukee, creditors of Midwesco Theatres, Inc., continued investigation to determine the reason for the transfer of certain Midwesco theatres to Statewide and Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc., before Midwesco filed a petition in bankruptcy, February 28. A meeting to dispose of Fox West Coast assets in Los Angeles was deferred until Friday as examination into the qualifications of Charles Skouras, W. H. Moore and Charles C. Irwin as trustees in bankruptcy is to be concluded first. Suit for $750,000 against Fox Theatres Corporation has been filed in Boston by Louis M. Boas, alleging breach of contract. It was charged that in 1928 agreements were made with Fox Northeastern Playhouses, Inc., for purchase or lease, but that on February 8, 1929, the date for signing, the contracts were not signed. The price to be paid was $234,184 and rental $125,000 annually for 25 years.

Plans are under way by Fox Film to have a permanent outlet on Broadway, a legitimate theatre, for showing its outstanding productions. The success of "Cavalcade" at the Gaiety is said to be responsible for this decision. Details will be announced at the annual sales convention starting May 24 at the Ambassador hotel, Atlantic City.

Arrested in Stench Bombing

Explosion of a stench bomb in the Colonial theatre at Erie, Pa., was followed by the arrest of a Carl Schleicher. The Colonial has operated nonunion since March 26, the projectionists having walked out on suspension of services of a stagehand as maintenance man.

Warner Sets 11 Films for Release

Warner has release dates already set on 11 features, running from April 22 to June 24. The Warner-First National pictures ready, with their release dates, follow in chronological order.

April 22—"Elmer the Great," starring Joe E. Brown in the baseball comedy based upon the stage play by Ring Lardner and George M. Cohan.

April 29—"Picture Snatcher," starring James Cagney in a story dealing with a tabloid photographer's experiences.

May 6—"The Working Man," starring George Arliss in a comedy drama of big business.

May 13—"Lilly Turner," starring Ruth Chatterton, George Brent, in a drama of medicine shows, side shows and phony health exhibits.

May 20—"The Little Giant," starring Edward G. Robinson. A comedy drama of beer barons and the legalizing of beer.

May 27—"Gold Diggers of 1933," with all-star cast of Warren William, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell. A super musical which is part of 1933-34 product.

June 3—"Life of Jimmy Dolan," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Loretta Young, in a story of a prize fighter who thought he was wise.

June 3—"Somewhere in Sonora," a Western with John Wayne and Henry B. Walthall, produced by Leon Schlesinger.

June 10—"Silk Express," with Neil Hamilton and Sheila Terry. A story based upon the handling of silk trains carrying cargoes from the Pacific coast to New York markets.

June 17—"Private Detective 62," starring William Powell. An expose of the way private detective agencies function.

June 24—"She Had to Say Yes," starring Loretta Young with Lyle Talbot and Winnie Lightner. A women's picture dealing with clothes models who are required to entertain buyers.

Assets of Pacent Electric, Reproducer Are Purchased

Louis G. Pacent, president of the Pacent Engineering Corp., New York, this week purchased the assets of the Pacent Electric Company, Inc., and its subsidiary, the Pacent Reproducer Corp. The deal was made, according to Mr. Pacent, to safeguard and perpetuate the name, not only in Pacent radio and sound reproducing equipment, but also for the radio, electrical, automotive and general household devices being developed by his laboratory staff.

Move Revising Arbiter Fee On Film Rights Is Considered

An amendment to the minimum basic agreement which now exists between the Dramatists' Guild and theatrical managers and producers, whereby the fees to be paid to the arbiter for the sale of all motion picture rights to legitimate productions shall not exceed $20,000 in one year, has been prepared by a committee representing the Guild and a group of managers affiliated with the League of New York Theatres. The amendment, which provides that the present minimum of 3½ per cent of all money accruing from the sale of motion picture rights goes to the arbiter, further reads that this same percentage should continue, but that at the end of the year, whatever money remains in the arbiter's account over and above any balance due the arbiter will be divided equally between the Guild and managers. The amendment was discussed at a meeting of the producer-members of the league last week, but no definite action was taken. Further conferences between the producers and the dramatists' group are planned.

Meanwhile decision was reserved at the close of a second hearing last week in the arbitration case between Actors Equity and the Managers Protective Association. Each group again contended that the other had breached the ten-year basic agreement which expires in May, 1934. The principal contention of the managerial group is that Equity has violated a clause which stipulates that no producer shall receive more favorable terms than members of the MPA. Equity contends that reputable managers never were required to post security guaranteeing payment of actors' salaries either before or since the formation of the protective association. Among other charges made by Equity is that defaulting members of MPA owe Equity $23,900, for which the managerial body, according to the terms of the basic agreement, assumes responsibility.

Gang Films Seen Harmless to Child

Gangster and racketeer motion pictures serve as an outlet for the anti-social emotions of children rather than as an incentive to criminal activity, in the opinion of Dr. Frank Astor, field director of the National Child Welfare Association, expressed following the study of the reactions of more than 1,000 children to all types of films over a period of three months. Dr. Astor made his study in his capacity as director of the junior review group of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures.

Dr. Astor's statement was made specifically in response to a charge by Colonel Ernest K. Coulter, general manager of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, that the gangster film frequently influenced children to commit "serious offenses."

The director, who has supervised more than 1,000,000 school children in local clubs and the like, said: "The mere statement by a juvenile delinquent that he committed a crime because he witnessed it on the screen" was not sufficient evidence that the motion picture was to blame. The claims of children placing the responsibility for offenses on the motion picture is described by Dr. Astor as "an impressive excuse" which the child sees as effective.

"There have always been reformers and censors," Dr. Astor said, in summing up the protest against motion pictures, "and there always will be so long as there are persons who begrudge emotional pleasures to others. In twenty-five years the gangster film, like the old Westerns with their two-gun men, will be looked upon as historical documents and subject to no protest. But by that time another type of film will be the goat of the publicity hunters."

Hoffberg Gets Kent Film

J. H. Hoffberg Company, Inc., has purchased the foreign rights to "Sucker Money," from Willis Kent, producer.

Ross Service Field Staff Rearranged

Transfers and field promotions of the Ross Federal Service were announced this week by Harry A. Ross, president, at a meeting of eastern district branch managers at the home office in New York.

Walter Greene, Chicago manager, is transferred to New York as branch manager; Walter Brown, manager of the Boston office, has been appointed midwestern representative and manager of the Chicago office; R. G. Williams, Albany manager, to manager of the Boston office; Harry Schiffron, former MGM Albany manager, as manager of the Albany office; Ralph Thayer, Charlotte manager, made Atlanta manager; Burt Jolly, Atlanta manager, to Charlotte. C. C. Charles, theatre operator and film salesman, has been appointed manager of the newly opened office at Oklahoma City. Charles Wallace has been appointed manager of the new office at Memphis. Mr. Ross announced the company would open an office in New Orleans early next week.

Majestic Plans Single Sales of Five Specials

Individual selling of five leading Majestic productions, rather than by block-booking contract, is provided for in the new sales policy of the company. This policy, together with a new increase in production budget, is in accordance with the plan presented by Phil Goldstone at the recent meeting of Majestic franchise holders in New York. The plan becomes effective with the release of "The World Gone Mad," and applies also to "Sing, Sinner, Sing," "The Woman in the Chair," "Curtain at Eight," and "Buried Alive."

MPTOA To Name Leader in May

A meeting of the board of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America is planned for May, primarily to elect a new president to succeed M. A. Lightman, who has been continuing in a temporary capacity since expiration of his term.

Nuns See "White Sister"

Fifteen hundred nuns of the Catholic Sisters of Greater New York attended a special screening of MGM's "The White Sister," this week at the Astor theatre, by arrangement with the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers.

Developing Zane Grey Film

Film taken by Zane Grey, novelist, on a recent South Seas expedition, has arrived in Hollywood, where Paramount is developing it. Mr. Grey, whose novel, "Sunset Pass," is being screened by Paramount, has left for New Zealand gathering data in the vicinity for a new novel.

Forms New Exchange

The Russell Borg Film Company, independent exchange, has been formed in Kansas City by Russell C. Borg, former Educational branch manager. Marvin Godwin has joined Mr. Borg as booker.

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS

This department deals with new product from the point of view of the exhibitor who is to purvey it to his own public

Today We Live

(MGM)

Dramatic Romance

Although this lengthy yarn is burdened with a prolonged start in which the characters and relations of the principals are identified, it develops into a powerful dramatic romance, full of human interest and alive with thrilling action. The locale is first England and then France, with the World War as the background. Yet it is more than a war story; the motivating theme lies in conflicting, primal, human emotions. It is dignified, seldom theatrical. Basically it is an adult picture, probably too deep for all but the older children.

Comedy contrast serves continuously to ease the tension, yet never overrides the basic intent. The climax is spectacular and heroic.

After the prolonged start which shows that Diana is pledged to Claude but has fallen in love with the American, Bogard, the action is in a British military base. A newspaper headline says Bogard has been killed. To drown her sorrow, she gives herself to Claude, who never knew about Bogard, without benefit of clergy. They tell her brother, Ronnie.

America enters the war. Diana is in the ambulance service. In a hospital it develops that Bogard wasn't killed, but severely wounded. The lovers meet. The old passion flames. Claude and Bogard meet when the English boy is doing a little celebrating. Bogard takes him away from the military police, carries the boy home only to meet Diana.

Thinking that Claude is just set in a safe berth while thousands are dying in real war, Bogard plans to give him a taste of actual combat, a bombing plane. Claude belts down a few Boche planes in a dog fight. Bogard's idea was that Claude might be killed. But they get back to port safely.

Ronnie, who has sensed Bogard's motive, invites the American on a trip in the mosquito boat. More spectacular action as the little speedster torpedoes a cruiser. Bogard's opinion of the English boys changes. Claude is blinded by a bullet.

Bogard wants to step out, and decides his only way is by death. He is ordered to bomb a Boche naval base. Ronnie overhears the plan. He wants to torpedo again. The blinded Claude, knowing now of the relation between Bogard and Diana, goes along. Plane and speed boat race for their objective. Ronnie pilots the boat and torpedo right into the side of the ship. Of course the boys perish. There is nothing for Bogard to do. The finale has Bogard and Diana standing beside a plaque as the names of Ronnie and Claude are placed with that of her father.

The logical way to stimulate unusual patron interest is through the powerful romance and drama. The spectacle and action should not be ignored, but where there is so much heart interest, that quality should be given the big play.

Joan Crawford and Gary Cooper should be strong enough for any marquee. So are Robert Young, Roscoe Karns, Louise Closser Hale and the newcomer, Franchot Tone. Create the impression that "Today We Live" is unusual. Give it the atmosphere of a big picture and you won't have much difficulty in doing big business with it.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Directed by Howard Hawks. Based on a story by William Faulkner. Screen adaptation by Edith Fitzgerald and Dwight Taylor. Photographed by Oliver T. Marsh. Film editor, Edward Curtiss. Release date, April 21, 1933. Running time, 115 minutes.

CAST

Diana ..... Joan Crawford
Bogard ..... Gary Cooper
Claude ..... Robert Young
Ronnie ..... Franchot Tone
McGinnis ..... Roscoe Karns
Applegate ..... Louise Closser Hale
Major ..... Rollo Lloyd
Eleanor ..... Hilda Vaughn

Zoo in Budapest

(Fox)

Romantic Drama

Romance, orphan boy and girl love, more than anything else, appears to be the chief audience interesting characteristic of "Zoo in Budapest." It's an appealing sweet and clean love story told against the background of a zoo. It's thrilling; it has drama, spectacle and action, but more than any of them, it has humanness. Despite title and dominating animal atmosphere, it is not an animal picture, but a romance and as such it has the elements that should appeal to both adults and children.

Zani is a zoo attendant, the animals are his only friends. Into this setup comes a group of orphan girls—more caged creatures. Zani and Eve fall in love. He indirectly suggests she make her escape. Zani hides her in a bear den. Their love is spontaneous and sweet. A little boy, Paul, runs back into the zoo after closing time. The boy stumbles into Zani's retreat. Zani is caught, but as Heinie, with a sinister purpose, starts back for the bear den, Zani breaks loose. He warns Eve and Paul, then fights Heinie. Paul hides in the animal house. The animals are loose. With the aid of an elephant who staves off a tiger, Zani rescues the boy.

Sell the heart-touching human interest in a boy and girl—almost of the "Seventh Heaven" and "Street Angel" type. Your audiences may be tiring of animal pictures. Of course, if your patrons still favor animal pictures, you have a novel animal angle to sell them. But the romantic angle will be particularly valuable in interesting the women, so feature romantic catchlines over the title and cast names. Tell them that here's a story that will thrill their hearts, yet won't jangle their nerves. Tell them that it has a hero they will love and a heroine whose predicament will stir their deepest emotions. And for Saturday afternoons and the youngsters sell the color and educational glamour of a world famous zoo and all its tenants from birds to elephants.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by Rowland V. Lee. Story by Melville Baker and Jack Kirkland. Screen play by Dan Totheroh, Louise Long and Rowland V. Lee. Photographed by Lee Garmes. A Jesse L. Lasky production. Release date, April 28, 1933. Running time, 85 minutes.

CAST

Eve ..... Loretta Young
Zani ..... Gene Raymond
Dr. Grunbaum ..... O. P. Heggie
Paul Vandor ..... Wally Albright
Heine ..... Paul Fix
Garbosh ..... Murray Kinnell
Katrina ..... Ruth Warren
Karl ..... Roy Stewart
Elsie ..... Frances Rich
Mr. Vandor ..... Niles Welch

High Gear

(Hollywood)

Drama

It is chiefly a woeful failure to take advantage of opportunities for crackling action sequences by incomplete attention to detail, by technical inadequacy, which places this melodramatic drama of the racing driver and the small orphan in the second stratum of motion picture attractions.

Yet the film still possesses a deal of entertainment, rather of the family sort, homely and straightforward, for those, particularly of the lesser community, who are not troubled by slightly hackneyed plot structure or technical faults.

It is possessed of a decidedly workable title, which affords ample excuse for the exhibitor to indulge in racy, fast-moving and attention-attracting copy. Three reasonably good names should be closely coupled with the title, James Murray, Joan Marsh and able young Jackie Searl. All three, if they would create no furore in the major situation, should be familiar, fairly effective in the smaller situation.

Selling copy lines will be indicated by a brief resume of the story. Murray is a great racing driver, Donlin his mechanic; Searl is Donlin's young son. Donlin is killed in a crash during the race which was to have sent Jackie to a military school. A bit of pathos as well as comedy is here and hereafter injected by Eddie Lambert and Ann Brody as the elderly couple with whom Donlin boarded, who had a deep affection for him, a love for Jackie. Murray loses his nerve, breaks off with Miss Marsh, newspaper reporter, turns from racing car to taxi to keep Jackie in the school to which he had sent him. Larry Winston, gabbing columnist, learns the truth and broadcasts of Murray's "yellow streak." Searl hears it in his school, runs away to return to Murray, staying with the elderly couple. Jackie is hurt in a fight of Murray with other cab drivers, and, pressed by incentive, Murray drives the ambulance to the hospital in a headlong dash, regaining the lost nerve, at the same time effecting a reconciliation with Miss Marsh, whom he had accused of spreading the story of his failure.

None of it is especially startling in its development, but it is entertainment of the sort which is found to an extent satisfying by the mass of patronage. The child angle, the military school scenes, the racing shots, serve to make it a picture rather definitely suitable for the youngsters, especially the boys, as well as for the adult. The racing scenes, in particular, are examples of the lack of attention to production possibilities in the direction, but there is entertainment here nonetheless.—Aaronson, New York.

A Goldsmith production. Distributed by Hollywood Pictures. Directed by Leigh Jason. Screen play by Rex Taylor, Leigh Jason and Charles Saxon. Release date, April 14, 1933. Running time, 67 minutes.

CAST

"High Gear" Sherrod ..... James Murray
Anne Merritt ..... Joan Marsh
Jimmy Evans ..... Jackie Searl
Jake Cohen ..... Eddie Lambert
Larry Winston ..... Theodore Von Eltz
Mrs. Cohen ..... Ann Brody
Ed Evans ..... Mike Donlin
Howard ..... Lee Moran
Mamie ..... Marion Sayers
Mrs. Wolloughby ..... Winifred Drewe
Mulligan ..... John Sinclair

The Truth About Africa

(William Alexander)

Travelogue

At best not more than a reasonably well executed travelogue of the type that has been done time and time again, this English-produced effort has little to distinguish it, with the possible exception of numerous good animal shots.

If pictures of a ship reaching the African coast, several large border cities, and a motor safari or caravan rolling through the country, shooting with gun and camera as it goes, plus a few shots of tribal activity and the pygmies, be the "truth about Africa," then the title is well taken. But it is all too obviously an attempt to draw people to the box office by means of a title having every implication of revelation, the breaking down of a fiction, which the picture certainly is not.

Under no circumstances should the picture be sold as anything but what it is, a fairly competent travelogue, containing little more than the average of its kind, and lacking much in scenic effect which many of its type do contain. The film is far too short to stand upon its own feet as the feature attraction on any program. In support of a regular feature, it has possibilities.

For the American audience it has a further drawback in that the accompanying explanatory dialogue is rendered with the decidedly accented King's English which is at times actually almost unintelligible to the average patronage of this country. Technically it is weakened by the occasional blare of raucous sound, meant to indicate the noise which dancing natives accompany themselves. Again, the dialogue is occasionally lost by the too great volume of the musical score.

Several shots of running animals, taken through the windshield of a pursuing motor truck, offer an unusual camera effect, but result at the same time in necessarily ragged photography. Closeups of elephants, larger of ear, slightly different of shape than the more familiar Indian elephant, hippos in and out of water, crocodiles, a flock of vultures feeding on a carcass, giraffes, all form interesting material. Natives who drink blood, acquired by the harmles bleeding of cattle, the activity of pygmies and a few native dances make up the balance of the material. As a part of a supporting program, the picture serves the purpose that any feature travelogue may serve.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced by William Alexander. Directed by Baron Gourgaud. Cameraman, S. R. Barth. Musical score by M. Frank. Dialogue by Sinclair Clark. Running time, 47 minutes.

Viktoria Und Ihr Husar

Victoria and Her Hussar

(Kinematrade)

Operetta

If it be true that the American motion picture audience fundamentally demands from its film fare at least a modicum of action, then the German operetta-film perhaps will not fully satisfy all requirements. But this is true of this type of German output: it invariably is distinguished by its melody, its scoring and general tunefulness.

In "Victoria and Her Hussar" the musical factor for appreciation is present in full measure. The songs are highly melodious, the scoring always pleasant, but the picture lacks a story of real potentiality, action and pace, for the non-German audiences.

No superimposed subtitle translations of the all-German dialogue serve to enlighten the patron, and in consequence, the greater part of the comedy inherent in the lines is lost.

No opportunity is overlooked for introducing orchestrations, vocal renditions and duet dancing. Occasionally they appear to have been added even without a logical opening.

The story has to do with a countess whose lover, a hussar, is called to war with Russia. He and his orderly are taken prisoner, and she, learning of his supposed death, is married to an American ambassador. The hussar escapes, reaches the embassy in Peking, there learns the truth and, later in Petersburg, he calmly gives himself up to the Russians as an escaped prisoner. The ambassador, realizing the situation, grants Victoria a divorce, arranges for the release of the hussar and sees them reunited.

The principals are capable, though probably unknown for the most part even to the German audience here. Michael Bohnen plays the ambassador, Friedel Schuster the title role, Ivan Petrowitsch the hussar. All sing well. Comedy and dance is supplied by Willy Stettner, Else Elster, Gretl Theimer and Ernst Verebes. Sell it to the audience which can appreciate it as an entertaining, melodious screen operetta. The fact that it enjoyed some little reputation in Europe as a popular work may carry some weight. —AARONSON, New York.

Produced by Roto-Film. Distributed in the United States by Kinematrade, Inc. Directed by Richard Oswald. Scenario by Fritz Friedmann-Frederich. Music by Paul Abraham. Photographed by Reimar Kuntze. New York release date, April 8, 1933. Running time, 90 minutes.

CAST

John Cunlight	Michael Bohnen
Victoria	Friedel Schuster
Count Ferry	Willy Stettner
O Lia San	Else Elster
Riquette	Gretl Theimer
Stefan Koltay	Ivan Petrowitsch
Janczi	Ernst Verebes
First Cossack	Julius Falkenstein
Second Cossack	Julius v. Szoereghi

The Maid of the Mountains

(British International)

Musical Comedy

"The Maid of the Mountains" never pretends to be anything but musical comedy; it is played with lavish surroundings with actors more notable for their vocal than their histrionic powers, and has the same threadbare plot as every other known example of this particular form of entertainment.

Because it is set, however, in the romantic Balkans—the "Prisoner of Zenda" country—and because most of its musical numbers are world-wide in their fame, it has a certain charm about it which may excuse its shortcomings in more material respects. It belongs to the school of "The New Moon" and "The Vagabond King," and I expect its success will be the success of those subjects, no more and no less.

Baldassare (you pronounce the final "e"), the brigand chief, after holding up a state ball, impersonates the new governor in order to rescue Teresa, his "maid of the mountains," from the government troops. A complication is introduced in the person of the retiring governor's daughter, for whom the brigand falls with the considerable weight of his amorous heart. Teresa in revenge denounces him, and with the genuine governor turning up, matters look serious for the mountain lovers. A turn of the trick by the old governor saves the situation after the firing squad has exerted the first pressure on its triggers, and they all live happily ever after (except Baldassare's lieutenant and the new governor, who stage a mutual bumping-off party).

Such a plot affords opportunity for plenty of action, with the hero performing Fairbanksian deeds of valour, but there are moments when the whole thing drags heavily. The best parts of the piece are actually the comedy sequences in which the old governor and his aide-de-camp hold a scene, and the humorous antics and wisecracks of Gus McNaughton and Wallace Lupino are worth going a long way on a cold, wet night to see. A new comedian named Albert Burdon supplies a further slice of light relief, and the singing of Harry Welchman and Nancy Brown is as good as can be desired. The exteriors, shot at a famous English beauty spot, are probably the most convincing part of the picture.

Well, you've got the title ready-made for you, and if your patrons ever heard of the famous play you get a good start. Play up its romantic story, its captivating music, and spare a line for the direction of Lupino ("Nipper") Lane, who has made full use of his genius for comedy situations. The exploiteer who favors street ballyhoo has good material in the gorgeous trappings of the Ruritanian characters, and a comedy note can be struck by having two lads, dressed to impersonate the funny governor and his lieutenant, parade the town in an open landau drawn by a couple of horses (if they still have 'em in your town).—CHARMAN, London.

Produced by British International Pictures. Directed by Lupino Lane. Adapted from the famous play of Frederick Lonsdale by Douglas Furber and Lupino Lane. Music by Harold Fraser-Simpson. Lyrics by Harry Graham and James W. Tate. Photography by Claude Friese-Green. Sound recording by A. E. Rudolph. Film editing by Leslie Norman. Running time, 80 minutes.

CAST

Baldassare	Harry Welchman
Teresa	Nancy Brown
Angela	Betty Stockfeld
Tonio	Albert Burdon
Malona	Gus McNaughton
Crumpet	Wallace Lupino
Beppo	Garry Marsh
Vittoria	Renee Gadd
Orsino	Dennis Hoey

The Cohens and Kellys In Trouble

(Universal)

Comedy

In out and out comedy, with little interjection of contrasting drama or pathos, the Cohens and Kellys, or more properly, George Sidney and Charlie Murray, are at it again. That notion, incidentally, becomes immediately and obviously the teaser selling line, the punch line of the copy: "The Cohens and Kellys are at it Again!"

When it is discovered that on this occasion they are aboard ship, a couple of old sea cronies who become sadly—for them—tangled with Murray's ex-wife, an elephantine person, who, like the elephant, never forgets—her alimony; fall into more trouble with revenue agents and a booze-running ship, it is obvious that there is much to sell the comedy-thirsty patronage. Mention in copy of the previous activities of the pair of old cronies is advisable, but it is unnecessary to indulge in superlative comparisons between this and preceding efforts. Suffice it to ballyhoo another Cohen-Kelly comedy, replete with laughs, punch and action.

When Cohen accidentally starts a huge motor launch in motion, with Kelly, entangled in the trailing rope, towed behind, there is one of those riotous, rushing sequences which is always good for laughs. Cohen's antics are amusing, and when the launch misses great ships by inches, bridge pillars by fractions of inches, the audience cannot help but enjoy a laugh.

Wealthy, retired Cohen comes down to enjoy himself on the tugboat of Captain Kelly, whose attractive daughter is Maureen O'Sullivan. Accidentally Cohen introduces his friend to Jobyna Howland, the ex-wife with much back alimony due. Then the fun begins. The pair invite Miss Howland and Maude Fulton, her equally pugnacious compatriot, aboard a beautiful yacht, to meet—and catch—a wealthy commodore, in reality Kelly's stupid deck hand. All goes well until the beans are tipped over. Cohen and Kelly escape in the launch, have their wild ride, are lost in the night. They board a ship, only to find it the one they had left, a rum-runner, captained by Henry Armetta, to which the party had transferred in an effort to get rid of the women. Again they escape, this time in a booze-laden small boat. Overtaken by the Coast Guard cutter, they are "pinched," but released when Kelly gives his consent to the marriage of his daughter to Frank Albertson, the cutter's captain, who, with Miss O'Sullivan, supplies the romance incidental to the comedy.

Let the selling be fully in keeping with the theme of the picture. Make it nonsensical, ridiculous as desired, promising a laugh at a time when people need laughs. Put over the idea of the Cohens and Kellys again, mixed with ex-wives, bootleggers and revenue officers. It is not brilliant comedy; there is much in the nature of slapstick, but it is amusing, entertaining, and for the family.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Universal. Story by Homer Croy and Vernon Smith. Screen play by Albert Austin, Fred Guiol and Jack Jungmeyer. Directed by George Stevens. Photographed by Len Powers. Release date, March 23, 1933. Running time, 69 minutes.

CAST

Nathan Cohen	George Sidney
Patrick Kelly	Charlie Murray
Mollie	Maureen O'Sullivan
Anderson	Andy Devine
Queenie	Jobyna Howland
Bob Graham	Frank Albertson
Fern	Maude Fulton
Captain Silva	Henry Armetta
Nick	Maurice Black
Boswell	Arthur Hoyt
Larsen	Max Davidson
Panhandler	Herbert Corthell
Swedish Stewardess	Olive Cooper
Ah Chung	Willie Fong
Chauffeur	Don Brody
Freighter Captain	Ed LeSaint

Marry Me

(Gaumont-British)

Musical Comedy

This is another of these light pieces of work, held together by a liberal supply of musical interpolation, that the British studios have been manufacturing so freely for a long period; and it is not the best of these. It has vitality, songs that are harmonious enough to greet the ear pleasantly, and lavish enough settings to please the most exacting "fan," but the early sequences are so confusing that one never fully unravels all its intricacies to determine what it is all supposed to be about. Which, perhaps, is a good thing, for if one were to examine the fabric too closely one would quickly perceive of what diaphanous material it is constructed.

The producers have given it an unusual twist right from the start by setting the early sequences in the studio of a gramophone recording company, which suggests an immediate angle of exploitation—"she was only a phonograph recorder. . . ." If you have ability to manufacture puns you should seize the opportunity of playing with the technical terms appertaining to the phonograph "records," "needles," and so on—for all your campaign must be of a frivolous type.

This (vaguely) is what it is all about. Ann Linden, recordist of the Electra Gramophone company, is uh-huh about Robert Hart, fellow-worker. He prefers, however, to fall for somebody else, whereupon Ann sets out to get him. She does so by invading the house in which he lives bachelor-fashion with his two brothers, and proving how indispensable she is. There is also the landlord whose sideline is matchmaking, and who uses the talking film to sell his clients, and a lot else besides that does not affect the main issue—how Ann gets her man.

It is sufficient to say that the players behave just as one would expect them to in such slender surroundings, and contrive to make an average piece of entertainment material out of the picture. Renate Muller, it must be said, is no better here than any number of other feminine stars might have been, and the male characters are hardly more than competent, though we might except George Robey and—oh, I nearly forgot him!—your own Harry Green, the latter bringing to the role of Bernstein, the matchmaker, all the subtlety for which he is renowned. Of course, you'll make him the top-liner of your campaign.

For the rest, you have the songs to plug, the comedy sequences of the picture, and its title on which you can base an effective campaign. On such a plan it should turn in at least average returns for you.—CHARMAN, London.

Produced by Gainsborough Pictures at Islington, London. Directed by William Thiele. Story by Stephen Zador. Scenario by Anthony Asquith. Lyrics by Desmond Carter and Frank Eyton. Music by Michael Krausz. Camera work by Bernard Knowles. Running time, 85 minutes.

CAST

Ann Linden	Renate Muller
Sigurd Bernstein	Harry Green
Aloysius Novak	George Robey
Robert Hart	Ian Hunter
Paul Hart	Maurice Evans
Billy Hart	Charles Hawtrey
Meyer	Billy Caryll
Ida Brun	Sunday Wilshin

Counsel's Opinion

(London Films)

Smart Comedy

Here is a British production that ought safely to negotiate the American audience, though a new title will be needed. While lacking in obvious selling points, the picture is a well-made comedy that will help the intelligent patron to kill a pleasant hour. Played in better class theatres it should hold their attention. There is comment that it packs more talk than action, but there's a section of the community that likes its entertainment that way.

Of all the British production organizations that have pushed films over on your side none has manufactured pictures more distinguished in respect of polish and sparkle than London Films. This picture carries no names, nor does it boast lavishness in production, but its story has a cute twist, its dialogue is near-Lonsdale for smartness, and players and director have combined like a team of seasoned troupers. Its settings, incidentally, bear the stamp of authenticity, and in bringing the genuine London law courts and the famous Inner Temple to the screen the film has succeeded where Hollywood, notably in "Devotion," crashed. The photography and general technical work are good enough for an Academy award.

A successful divorce lawyer finds himself faced with the possibility of being cited as co-respondent by his own client, who wishes to be divorced from his wife on the strength of an affair at a hotel after a charity ball. The case fits the lawyer's own experience to the last detail (though he is actually innocent of any misdemeanor), and the audacity of the lady in the case lands him in a series of embarrassments before he discovers that she is not his client's wife at all. The twists and turns of this simple plot give the story sustained interest, and brings a succession of happy chuckles. The principals all enter whole-heartedly into the spirit of the piece, especially veteran Cyril Maude as an old lawyer, while Mary Charles, as a cabaret scat singer, puts up an excellent performance.

Each individual showman will need to figure out his campaign on his own lines, but it seems the pull is in the story itself.—CHARMAN, London.

Produced by London Film Productions, Ltd. Adapted from Gilbert Wakefield's West End play. Directed by Alan Dwan. Dialogue and scenario by Arthur Wimperis and Dorothy Greenhill. Production manager, David B. Cunynghame. Photography by Philip Tannura. Camera. Bernard Browne. Edited by Alfred Seabourne. Music by Kurt Schroeder. Sound by Cyril Sullivan. Art direction by Holmes Paul and Shamoon Nadir. Running time, 71 minutes.

CAST

Logan	Henry Kendall
Leslie	Binnie Barnes
Willock	Cyril Maude
Lord Rockburn	Lawrence Grossmith
James	Francis Lister
Taxi Driver	Harry Tate
Stella	Mary Charles
Saunders	Margaret Baird
George	Stanley Lathbury

The World Gone Mad

(Majestic)

Drama

Well have the elements of comedy and drama been blended here to produce a definitely interesting and entertaining motion picture, especially unusual as a product of an independent company and unquestionably comparing most favorably with the product of the larger studios. It is a well turned, deftly handled piece of work, which gives evidence of the capable directorial hand of Christy Cabanne.

The title is of doubtful value, in that it may be either ridiculous and meaningless, or timely and potent. In that the story treats much of the pyramiding of corporations through shady, unscrupulous handling of securities, financial statements, the building of huge certificate domains upon a fictitious foundation of watered stock, pseudo-assets, the picture—and the title—is timely. It affords opportunity for punch copy lines, straightforward selling.

The cast is excellent in its work, though not completely top-rank in salability as marquee material. Leading the cast, and deservedly so, is Pat O'Brien, active, fast-thinking and fast talking newspaper reporter, who handles already sparkling dialogue to a turn, bringing out all there is in it, and adding a flash of restless, ably interjected comedy to a plot which otherwise would be heavy, to an extent hackneyed. But here also the timeliness of the subject matter of the drama, the corporation manipulation, brings it out of the class of elderly story by its modern note. Evelyn Brent, Neil Hamilton, Mary Brian, Richard Tucker, John St. Polis, little Buster Phelps, are known performers and able players.

When Wallis Clark, district attorney, on the verge of uncovering just such a corporation manipulation, is found dead, his honor questioned, under suspicious circumstances in a woman's apartment, his good friends, O'Brien and Hamilton, named district attorney to succeed his chief, determine to uncover what they are sure was a "frameup." Complications are introduced by the fact that Hamilton is engaged to Miss Brian, daughter of St. Polis, president of the corporation and unaware of the machinations of his board chairman, Richard Tucker. Learning the truth when he is confronted with the facts by Hamilton, St. Polis, taking the unsuspecting Tucker, commits headlong suicide via a finely handled scene of a rushing car, collision with a train.

O'Brien, working in his own peculiar way, with Hamilton unearths the plan which put Clark "on the spot," and succeeds in trapping the racketeer ring guilty of the murder. Hit the timely angle in the copy, sell the smart performance of O'Brien with his finely contrasting comedy, and get over the fact that this is strong drama, shaded with laughs, and with a full quota of action. One scene, of O'Brien on a couch with Miss Brent in a darkened room, may cause local flare-backs, but it is not too badly overdone, and its reason is important to the plot structure. The picture is excellent entertainment—for adults.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Majestic Pictures. Directed by Christy Cabanne. Screen story by Edward T. Lowe. Photographed by Ira Morgan. Film editor, Otis Garrett. Sound engineer, Dean Daily. Release date, April 1, 1933. Running time, 80 minutes.

CAST

Andy Terrell	Pat O'Brien
Carlotta	Evelyn Brent
Lionel Houston	Neil Hamilton
Diane Cromwell	Mary Brian
Christopher Bruno	Louis Calhern
Ramon Salvadore	J. Carrol Naish
Ralph Henderson	Buster Phelps
Graham Gaines	Richard Tucker
Grover Cromwell	John St. Polis
Evelyn Henderson	Geneva Mitchell
Avery Henderson	Wallis Clark
Osborne	Huntley Gordon
Cohen	Max Davidson
Nichols	Jo Girard
Baird	Lloyd Ingraham
Susan Bibens	Inez Courtney

Paramount Pictorial

(Paramount)

Interesting

Opening with a measure of pictorial beauty indicating the coming of spring, this subject, number 10 of the series, next offers interesting material in color emphasizing the manner in which the scientist with his laboratory test tubes and microscopes aids in the detection of crime. A popular note is introduced in an indication of the manner in which the Three X Sisters of radio popularity achieve their simulations of musical instruments.—Running time, 10 minutes.

Puzzled Pals

(RKO Radio)

Dull

There's something of a puzzle for the patron, also, in finding promptings to his risibilities in this Tom and Jerry cartoon of the unpopular stork and his cargo. The youngster successfully wrecks their jigsaw, then busies himself with a vacuum cleaner to collect everything in the place—including too much footage.—Running time, 7 minutes.

STEP OUT
WITH
UNIVERSAL

A CLASS Production With MASS Appeal - - and that's a combination that will always make money!

•

NANCY CARROLL — FRANK MORGAN
PAUL LUKAS — GLORIA STUART

Jean Dixon, Donald Cook, Walter Pidgeon. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr., from the play by Ladislaus Fodor. Screenplay by William Anthony McGuire. Directed by JAMES WHALE. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

The KISS BEFORE THE MIRROR

Soviets on Parade
(Kinematrade)
Propaganda

Obviously designed for propaganda, and produced by Soyuzkino, Russia's state-controlled motion picture producing organization, "Soviets on Parade" offers literally a parade of gigantic proportions, equally sizable significance.

The market for the product is definitely circumscribed, its exhibition necessarily restricted to the larger metropolitan center where such material as this may find a reasonable potential audience, or in other locations where a substantial interest, through either community groups or schools, can be awakened to the opportunity of a panoramic glimpse of the might that is Russia.

In the earlier sequences, accompanying dialogue of an explanatory nature lauds the Soviet purpose, explains its intent. In the later phases, the superimposed subtitle is utilized, entirely supplanting the dialogue. Also in the closing portions natural sound is employed with a definite effectiveness.

In the nature of introductory material, the film opens with something in the nature of a kaleidoscopic pictorial record of certain of the major achivements of the Soviet state in its industrial yearnings, certain of the more prominent growing pains, such as the famed hydro-electric station and dam at Dnieperstroy, the collective farms under pressure of modern machinery, various other industrial projects of seemingly enormous proportions.

Then the film swings into a record of the parade through the great Red Square at Moscow, that vast expanse of stone paving, commemorating the 15th anniversary of that fateful day in 1917. Thousands upon uncountable thousands of marching feet stride past, indicating the Russian strength in the army, navy, tank corps, air forces, and the working citizenry, armed with shovels, pitchforks. Reviewing the parade, which required from nine a. m. to five p. m. to pass, are seen Stalin, the Soviet dictator, and various other officials of the government. Interesting, almost amusing are the cleverly inserted shots of the foreign military representatives. Their faces are set in glowering concentration as they watch the enormous hordes of military and civilian power pass.

The film makes unusual pictorial material, and as such may be sold to draw a certain patronage of the curious, the interested, to whom the film may best appeal.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced by Soyuzkino. Distributed by Kinematrade, Inc. Directed by A. Poselsky. Release date, March 3, 1933. Running time, 60 minutes.

Laughing With Medbury in Wonders of the World
(Columbia)
Flat

Mr. Medbury wanders about the world with a camera, in his series of shorts, and in this particular number records various of the world's most notable phenomena, whether of man's making or nature's. Pictorially, then, and in subject matter, Mr. Medbury's films are acceptable. But he indulges, at every opportunity (and he makes many) in what he is pleased to call laughs. In the manufacture of this subject, timing was inserted for laughs, at the conclusion of Mr. Medbury's remark in each instance, that being an interval lacking dialogue. At a Broadway house, with full justification in each instance the silence of the audience was deafening.—Running time, 8 minutes.

Mr. Bride
(MGM)
Fair Comedy

Charley Chase is reasonably comic in this Hal Roach number, as the assistant who is forced to pose as a bride on a fictitious honeymoon. on which his boss embarks so that he will be prepared when the real thing happens. Chase is consequently thrown into various awkward situations, being in every case the butt of the joke. But he gets the last laugh when the girl, the boss's secretary, acknowledges it is really Charley she loves. A fair comedy, with a few laughable situations.—Running time, 19 minutes.

The Rookie
(Paramount)
Weak Comedy

Tom Howard, the rookie detective, has a badge but no brains. Followed by his understudy, he meets three burglars outside a jewelry store and marches them inside the place to prove to his own satisfaction that they pulled the job. The sacks they are carrying are emptied, the silver-plate and jewelry replaced in the cases. The clean-up re-commences, Howard sitting to one side and giving his stooge the low-down. After the lights come on again Tom is missing his badge and the room is stripped clean. Lack of originality in treatment weakens the comedy.

Michigan
(Educational)
Singing and Scenes

Reinald Werrenrath and the Alumni Glee Club sing the story of the university at Ann Arbor in this number of the Spirit of the Campus series. Splendid singing is supported by choice shots of the buildings and grounds. This series should present good tieup possibilities.—Running time, 8 minutes.

Ricksha Rhythm
(Fox)
Interesting

One of a new group of the Fox "Magic Carpet of Movietone" series, this subject carries the audience to Shanghai, busy seaport of China, where the ricksha, with its human power, races through busy streets beside the modern automobile. Fox, in this series, has not used the usual off-screen dialogue accompanying the subjects, permitting the material to speak for itself, with occasional use of natural sound and appropriate musical background. These shorts are definitely of unusual quality, superior to many of the same type and distinctly an asset to any film program.—Running time, 10 minutes.

Bone Crushers
(MGM)
Sporting Action

The sport fan, particularly the follower of the ancient art of catch-as-catch-can, should find a kick in this subject of the Sport Champion series, in which Pete Smith handles the explanatory dialogue. Slow-motion makes more effective the pictures of famed holds. Several fast bouts put a punch in the subject.—Running time, 8 minutes.

Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation
(Mary Warner)
Of Interest

A German short, lacking dialogue but with superimposed English subtitles, this subject indicates the manner in which the populace of Germany's capital passes its moments of recreation. Resorts, the race track, street and park cabarets, playgrounds come in for their bit of camera attention. Generally lively, the film none the less loses somewhat because of the absence of spoken explanation. Of interest, however.—Running time, 8 minutes.

The Green Heart of Germany
(Mary Warner)
Fine Scenic

Excelling particularly in the matter of its scenic presentation, this German subject records certain of the beautiful scenery in the mountains of Thuringia, somewhere in central Germany. Superimposed English subtitles take the place of explanatory comment. As a scenic, with the addition of native dances, dress and sports, it becomes an interesting subject of rather general appeal.—Running time, 20 minutes.

Teacher's Pests
(Universal)
Amusing

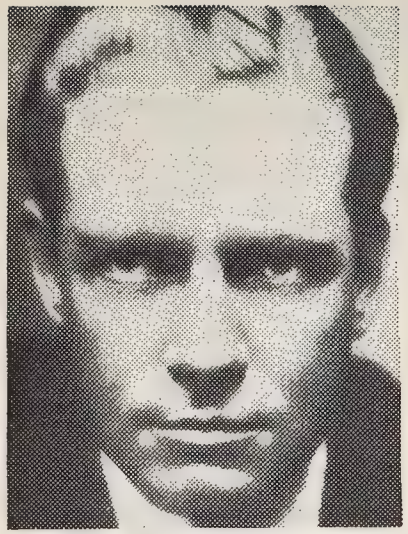
Oswald the Rabbit and his assorted animated animal pals succeed in making life a terrible thing for poor teacher, with numbers dancing on the blackboard and books flying about. The youngsters should enjoy this cartoon, while their elders will probably find a laugh or two therein.—Running time, 7 minutes.

Football Footwork
(MGM)
Sparkling

How "All-American" football players get that way is the idea of "Football Footwork." Shown in both slow and standard speed, picture demonstrates training necessary for a player to hold his feet in quick runs and shifts and the hip-work and technique necessary once he is in a broken field. Rudiments of punting, drop and place kicking are illustrated with remarks by Dick Hanley and demonstrations by the Northwestern squad and "Pug" Rentner. Pete Smith's wise-cracking adds additional sparkle to a novel idea. Running time, 12 minutes.

Lizzie Strata
(Universal)
Fair

Universal has taken old clip shots from one of the old extravaganzas centering about the Greek Olympic Games and the well-filled stadium, and run in shots of modern auto racing, football games and other sports, accompanied by dialogue which attempts, but does not often succeed in being funny. A fair subject.—Running time, 10 minutes.



Polly Ticks
(Educational)
Laughs

The Baby Stars do a laughable bit of burlesquing big time national politics. The big Senator from the West goes to Washington on a "no more castor oil" platform, runs into the high pressure lobbyist and his gang, gets a working over by the vamp lure, falls for a bribe in the shape of a gigantic frosted cake, but emerges from his turmoil as the people's hero and in love with the vamp, who for his sake forswears her political philandering. Fast action and more than the usual number of laughs. Running time 7 minutes.—MCCARTHY, Hollywood.

Married or Single
(Universal)
Entertaining

For the tried and true of radio fandom this subject, in common with the others of the Nick Kenny group produced by Rowland-Brice, should prove entertaining. With an immaterial story built as excuse in a fashionable women's shop, various prominent radio stars "do their stuff" in fairly effective fashion. Included are Little Jack Little, William Hall, Irene Beasley, Freddie Martin and orchestra, Pearl Osgood.—Running time, 21 minutes.

HIS NAME IS MAGIC TO MILLIONS

RICHARD HALLIBURTON
Author-Adventurer

Whose books outsell all others,
Whose lectures draw the largest woman audience in America.

Nearly every girl or woman who can read has read RICHARD HALLIBURTON! He has brought romance to travel and the thrill of adventure to the largest woman audience in America... the millions who read his books!... a ready-made audience eager to see and hear him for the first time on the screen!

"ADVENTURES"

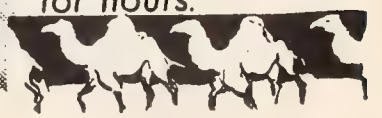
with

RICHARD HALLIBURTON

Author of
"The Royal Road to Romance"
"The Glorious Adventure"
"The Flying Carpet"
and other best selling books.

Here he takes another "Royal Road to Romance" . . . and reveals India, Mother of ten thousand sins in his most "Glorious Adventure" . . . in that fabled world of golden towers and dark mysteries, where Heathen gods look down unashamed on human orgies and men hope to be hoisted to heaven by a cow's tail!

Where fanatics lie on beds of spikes and drive nails into their bodies.



Where love is new beside the Shalimar

Where a girl of twelve marries a man of forty.

Where religious zealots go stone blind gazing into the sun for hours.

PRODUCED BY
WALTER FUTTER WHO MADE "AFRICA SPEAKS"

DISTRIBUTED BY
RKO-RADIO PICTURES

THEATRE RECEIPTS

Theatre receipts for the calendar week ended April 15, 1933, reached an aggregate gross of $1,035,962 from 110 houses in 19 major cities, a decrease of $88,622 from the total of the previous calendar week, ended April 8, when 106 theatres in 19 cities grossed $1,124,584. During the more recent period, Kansas City theatres, due to labor troubles, operated only three and five days in different cases, which accounts in part for the decrease. During the more recent week no new "highs" were established, while six new "lows" were noted.

(Copyright, 1933: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to Motion Picture Herald expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Boston			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Fenway	1,800	30c-50c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) and "Murders in the Zoo" (Para.)	9,500	"Infernal Machine" (Fox) and "Strictly Personal" (Para.)	10,000
Keith's	3,500	30c-50c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio) and "Man Hunt" (Radio)	16,500	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	18,000	High 12-5 "Frankenstein"	27,000
Keith-Boston	2,900	25c-50c	"Rome Express" (U.)	15,000	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	16,500	Low 3-9-33 "When Strangers Marry"	12,000
Loew's Orpheum	2,200	25c-50c	"The Vampire Bat" (Majestic)	16,000	"The White Sister" (MGM)	17,500	High 4-9-32 "Steady Company"	26,000
Loew's State	3,700	25c-50c	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.)	17,000	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	18,500	Low 3-9-33 "Topaze"	11,000
Metropolitan	4,350	35c-65c	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	29,000	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	30,500	High 1-24 "Hell's Angels"	32,500
Paramount	1,800	30c-50c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) and "Murders in the Zoo" (Para.)	10,500	"Infernal Machine" (Fox) and "Strictly Personal" (Para.)	11,000	Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight"	9,500
							High 6-18-32— "Hell Divers," "Possessed" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight"	11,000
							High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 3-9-33 "King of the Jungle"	26,500
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-55c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	12,200	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	12,000	High 3-28 "My Past"	39,500
Century	3,000	25c	"Secrets of the French Police" (Radio) and "Love Is Like That" (Chesterfield)	5,100	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) and "Men Must Fight" (MGM)	6,100	Low 3-24-33 "Our Betters"	9,800
Great Lakes	3,000	25c-40c	"Rome Express" (U.)	5,400	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	6,100	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
Hippodrome	2,100	25c	"Fast Workers" (MGM) and "Humanity" (Fox)	5,800	"Clear All Wires" (MGM) and "Lucky Devils" (Radio)	7,300	Low 3-24-33 "Hello, Everybody" and "Parachute Jumper"	4,700
							High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 4-14-33 "Rome Express"	5,400
							High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-16-32 "New Morals for Old"	4,200
Lafayette	3,300	25c	"Parole Girl" (Col.) and "Self Defense" (Monogram)	5,300	"Racetrack" (World Wide) and "Jungle Bride" (Monogram)	6,400	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"	24,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hypnotized" and "Trailing the Killer"	5,100
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-68c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	32,000	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	27,000	High 1-23-32 "Two Kinds of Women"	67,000
McVickers	2,284	25c-50c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	8,000	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W. B.)	9,200	Low 12-22-32 "The Match King"	20,000
Oriental	3,940	35c-68c	"The White Sister" (MGM) (3rd week)	7,000	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week)	13,000	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"	38,170
							Low 2-10-33 "Hello, Everybody"	5,500
							High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
							Low 3-24-33 "The Big Cage"	12,000
Palace	2,509	35c-75c	"Parole Girl" (Col.)	18,500	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	18,500	High 4-2-32 "Cheaters at Play"	33,000
							Low 12-15-32 "False Faces"	14,000
Roosevelt	1,591	25c-50c	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.)	7,500	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	7,000	High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 3-3-33 "Luxury Liner"	6,200
United Artists	1,700	35c-68c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (2nd week)	11,000	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (1st week)	20,000	High 3-21 "City Lights"	46,562
							Low 3-17-33 "Perfect Understanding"	6,200
Cleveland
Allen	3,300	15c-35c	"Girl Missing" (W. B.) and "Penal Code" (Freuler)	3,000			High 1-30-32 "Hell Divers"	26,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Infernal Machine" and "Exposure"	1,800
Mall	753	15c-25c	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	1,200
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-40c	"Our Betters" (Radio)	10,000			High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	40,000
							Low 2-11-33 "Child of Manhattan"	8,000
State	3,400	25c-40c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	10,500			High 12-5 "Possessed"	30,000
							Low 4-14-33 "Rasputin and the Empress"	10,500
Stillman	1,900	15c-35c	"What! No Beer?" (MGM)	4,300
Warner's Lake	800	15c-40c	"Women They Talk About" (W. B.)	4,200			High 10-3 "Five Star Final"	15,000
							Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl"	2,000
Denver
Aladdin	1,500	25c-40c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	3,200	"Smoke Lightning" (Fox) (2 days)	600
					"Broadway Bad" (Fox) (5 days)	1,900
Denham	1,700	15c-25c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	2,700	"They Just Had to Get Married" (U.) (2nd week-3 days)	1,500
					"The Big Payoff" (Mascot) (4 days)	1,200
Denver	2,500	25c-50c	"Pick Up" (Para.)	8,000	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	8,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
Orpheum	2,600	25c-40c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	7,200	"Topaze" (Radio)	8,500	Low 3-23-33 "Clear All Wires"	6,000
Paramount	2,000	25c-40c	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) (4 days)	1,500	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	4,000	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels"	22,000
			"Strictly Personal" (Para.) (3 days)	2,000			Low 3-23-33 "Grand Slam" and "Whistling in the Dark"	3,000
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-40c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	5,600	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	6,500
Fisher	2,700	15c-40c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	10,300	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)	4,400
Fox	5,100	15c-40c	"After the Ball" (Fox) and "Afraid to Talk" (U.)	5,400	"Humanity" (Fox)	5,600
Michigan	4,000	25c-50c	"Ladies They Talk About" (W. B.) and "Under the Tonto Rim" (Para.)	13,200	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	25,200
United Artists	2,000	25c-50c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (2nd week)	7,200	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (1st week)	9,100

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 59—Al Smith hails New York's first real beer—Horace Heidt issues call for girls—Josephus Daniels goes to Mexico—Chinese armies retreat from Great Wall—Capital blossoms herald Spring—Italian air force has birthday.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 60—Roosevelt starts baseball season in Washington—Secretary Roper for fair play—Jig-saw craze hits zoo in St. Louis—Shaw stops at New York.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 258—Rome opens Holy Year—Motorcycle contest at Kent, England—Boxing with feet revived in Paris—Roosevelt's first stamps issued in Washington—Cambridge defeats Oxford oarsmen.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 259—Nation welcomes Easter—Bears perform at Sidney, Australia—"Human arrow" latest in Los Angeles—Claude G. Bowers is envoy to Spain—Racing opens at Havre de Grace, Md.—Battle under water at Silver Springs, Fla.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 73—Boycott scenes in Berlin—Shaw leaves New York—Navy probes Akron crash—Church opens Holy Year in Rome—Baseball season opens—Soldiers leap from planes over Chanute Field, Ill.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 74—Washington crew beats California at Long Beach, Cal.—Wineries await repeal in Paris—Max Schmeling arrives in United States—Test "human arrow" in Los Angeles—Dry minority fights on in Washington—Salesman in Rome types portraits.

PATHE NEWS—No. 74—Washington holds Army Day parade—New York breweries and bars going full speed—New York observes Army Day—Wiley describes disaster at inquiry—Cherry trees bloom in Washington—Forest army leaves New York.

PATHE NEWS—No. 75—Behind scenes at White House—Baseball season opened in Washington by president—Shaw arrives in New York—Pictures of Nazi boycott in Berlin—Pope opens Holy Year in Rome—Elephant drinks beer at Atlanta.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 136—Cambridge wins rowing classic—Magicians perform for sick children at Brooklyn, N. Y.—Army units mass in Vienna—Open Holy Year in Rome—Shaw visits New York—Baseball season starts at Washington.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 137—President host at Easter fete in Washington—Dedicate home for dirigible Macon at Sunnyvale, Cal.—Salesman makes portraits with typewriter in Rome.

Sennett Opens Plant for Rental by Independents

Mack Sennett has opened the Sennett studio on the Coast to independent production. His plan permits the independent producer to avail himself of a unit system whereby all departments and the entire Sennett staff will function for each unit producer.

Jed Buell has been named by Mr. Sennett manager of the new unit leasing department.

ON BROADWAY

Week of April 15

MAYFAIR

Scrappy's Party..... Columbia

PARAMOUNT

At the Pharmacist's..... Paramount

RIALTO

Let's Dance..... Paramount
Moonlight Fantasy..... Paramount
Sweet Cookie..... Paramount

RIVOLI

Knight Duty..... Educational
Ye Olden Days..... United Artists

RKO ROXY

Torchy Turns Turtle..... Educational

ROXY

Babes in the Woods..... United Artists
Sally..... Master Art Products

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

Lester Retchin of the Howard theatre, one of the city's successful and enterprising showmen, is celebrating his fifteenth anniversary as the Howard proprietor. Coincident with the celebration he is doing something he never has done before—holding a picture an entire week, despite the fact that it already has played at a nearby competitive house for three and four days. It is Warner's "42nd Street," for which he has prepared an unusual lobby display.

▽

Allied Theatres of Illinois has formed a purchasing department to act as a clearing house in quantity purchases of equipment and accessories for theatres. For the present the purchasing unit is confining its activities to such supplies as cleaning compounds, mops and brooms.

▽

Harry Walders is now country booker for RKO, having succeeded Harry Silverman, resigned.

▽

Al Steffes will open the Playhouse theatre on Michigan avenue April 20. The former Allied president is planning an opening in keeping with the "snooty" atmosphere he is creating for the house and says opening night tickets may be placed as high as $10.

▽

Filmack Trailer Company, headed by Irving Mack, has consolidated with Midwest Film Company, operated by Mrs. Alma Melvin and Frank Bauer. The Filmack name will be retained for the combined organization, as will be the Filmack personnel. Offices have been moved to 845 S. Wabash, where an entire floor has been leased.

HOLQUIST

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Hollywood
Grauman's Chinese	2,500	55c-$1.10	"King Kong" (Radio) (3rd week-4 days)	5,907	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	11,400	High 7-31 "Trader Horn"	36,000
							Low 10-31 "Yellow Ticket"	9,000
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	25c-50c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	8,975	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	11,200	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	30,000
							Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family"	7,000
Kansas City
Mainstreet	3,049	25c-40c	"Private Jones" (U.) (5 days)	3,000	"No More Orchids" (Col.) (6 days)	4,500	High 1-9-32 "Peach o' Reno"	25,500
							Low 3-7-33 "The Great Jasper" (Second week of straight film policy.)	4,000
Midland	4,000	25c	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.) (35c) (5 days and Sat. midnite show)	4,900	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	10,000	High 1-5-33 "Strange Interlude"	30,000
							Low 12-8-32 "Man Against Woman"	6,000
Newman	2,000	25c-50c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) (5 days and Sat. midnite show)	4,000	"Pick Up" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,500	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express"	25,000
							Low 3-14-33 "King of the Jungle"	5,000
Uptown	2,000	25c-40c	"Broadway Bad" (Fox) (3 days)	1,700	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	2,500	High 1-10 "Girl of the Golden West"	8,000
							Low 5-21-32 "Lena Rivers"	2,000
Los Angeles
Loew's State	2,416	25c-40c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	15,911	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	19,600	High 10-25 "Susan Lenox"	39,000
							Low 3-5-32 "The Silent Witness"	6,963
Paramount	3,596	25c-40c	"Murders in the Zoo" (Para.)	14,000	"Pick Up" (Para.)	15,500	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor"	41,000
							Low 2-6-32 "Tomorrow and Tomorrow"	7,500
RKO	2,700	25c-55c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) and "Man Hunt" (Radio)	3,500	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) and "Parole Girl" (Col.)	6,700	.....
W. B. Downtown	2,400	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (4th week)	12,452	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	14,600	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	27,000
							Low 4-23-32 "Destry Rides Again"	6,200
W. B. Western	2,400	25c-45c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	6,422	"The Big Cage" (U.)	7,850	.....
Minneapolis
Century	1,640	25c-40c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	5,000	"The King's Vacation" (W. B.)	4,500	.....
Lyric	1,238	25c-40c	"Cabin in the Cotton" (F. N.)	2,000	"Lawyer Man" (W. B.)	2,000	High 5-30 "Kiki"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Men on Call"	1,200
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"King Kong" (Radio)	6,500	"Private Jones" (U.)	7,500	.....
State	2,300	25c-55c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	7,000	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	7,500	High 1-2-32 "Sooky"	10,000
							Low 3-10-33 "King of the Jungle"	3,500
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) and "Luxury Liner" (Para.)	9,000	"My Wife's Family" (British) and "The Lodger" (British)	9,500	High 1-10 "Just Imagine"	18,000
							Low 12-23 "The Guardsman" and "The Tip Off"	8,000
Imperial	1,914	15c-50c	"Allo, Mademoiselle" (French)	1,500	"L' Amoureuse Adventure" (French)	1,500	High 1-17 "Office Wife"	10,000
							Low 4-14-33 "Allo, Mademoiselle"	1,500
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W. B.)	11,500	"Hard to Handle" (W. B.)	12,500	High 4-2-32 "Fireman, Save My Child"	16,500
							Low 7-18 "Stepping Out"	9,000
Palace	2,600	25c-75c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (2nd week)	9,000	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (1st week)	13,000	High 4-2-32 "One Hour With You"	19,500
							Low 12-23-32 "Life Begins"	8,500
Princess	2,272	25c-60c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) and "State Trooper" (Col.)	7,000	"Cynara" (U. A.) and "Say It With Flowers" (British)	8,000	High 4-1 "City Lights"	22,500
							Low 12-23-32 "The Crusader" and "Hearts of Humanity"	6,000
New York
Astor	1,120	55c-$2.20	"The White Sister" (MGM) (4th week)	9,000	"The White Sister" (MGM) (3rd week)	13,186	High 1-2-32 "Hell Divers"	24,216
							Low 3-26-33 "The White Sister"	14,559
Cameo	549	25c-75c	"King Kong" (Radio)	3,700	"Potemkin" (Kinematrade)	3,200	.....
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.65	"Gabriel Over the White House" (2nd week)	38,881	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (1st week)	52,534	High 1-9-32 "Mata Hari"	110,466
							Low 2-2-33 "Whistling in the Dark"	23,600
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"M" (Foremco) (2nd week)	12,300	"M" (Foremco) (1st week)	15,400	High 12-12 "Frankenstein"	53,800
							Low 3-10-33 "Racetrack"	7,100
Palace	2,500	25c-75c	"Parole Girl" (Col.)	4,500	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	9,750	.....
Paramount	3,700	35c-99c	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.)	18,200	"Murders in the Zoo" (Para.) (6 days)	18,540	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie"	85,900
							Low 2-2-33 "Hello, Everybody"	15,600
Rialto	2,200	40c-65c	"Destination Unknown" (U.) and "The Fighting President" (U.)	5,800	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	9,000	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express"	64,600
							Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels"	4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-85c	"Secrets" (U. A.) (4th week)	10,200	"Secrets" (U. A.) (3rd week)	14,780	High 1-9-32 "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"	67,100
							Low 7-29-32 "Igloo"	8,000
RKO Music Hall	5,945	35c-$1.65	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	107,761	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	80,009	.....
RKO Roxy	3,700	35c-$1.65	"Out All Night" (U.)	24,371	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	23,358	.....
Roxy	6,200	25c-55c	"Infernal Machine" (Fox)	19,500	"West of Singapore" (Monogram)	16,500	High 1-1-32 "Delicious"	133,000
							Low 1-26-33 "Air Hostess"	9,100
Strand	3,000	25c-85c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	21,232	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (4th week)	23,627	High 1-17 "Little Caesar"	74,821
							Low 4-2-32 "The Missing Rembrandt"	8,012
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-40c	"Topaze" (Radio)	3,000	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	3,400	High 2-7 "Illicit"	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "From Hell to Heaven"	1,350
Criterion	1,700	10c-55c	"Pick Up" (Para.)	5,300	"King Kong" (Radio)	6,500	High 2-21 "Cimarron"	15,500
							Low 3-11-33 "Clear All Wires"	1,800
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) (4 days)	1,000	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) (4 days)	1,200	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion"	7,200
			"Parole Girl" (Col.) (3 days)	1,000	"Humanity" (Fox) (3 days)	900	Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy"	900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-55c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	1,900	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.) (6 days)	1,500	High 9-19 "Young As You Feel"	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "Employees' Entrance"	1,400

A national institution, planning to enter the motion picture field, wanted men. The sales manager they engaged knew the industry so he advertised for men in MOTION PICTURE HERALD. His copy was modest, his replies numerous but above all else highly satisfactory.

"I wanted contact with high calibered, intelligent men'', he said. ''I wanted them from all over the country. I figured that the man who was alert to the business and intelligent would be a reader of MOTION PICTURE HERALD. The replies I received proved my theory. I did not get a single letter that I could conscientiously throw in the waste basket as unworthy of consideration. There was no riff-raff response. Every single applicant gave responsible references and showed, by his letter, that he was worth considering.''

There are two results possible from advertising, volume and quality. This advertiser got both—plus wide distribution—from MOTION PICTURE HERALD. He addressed his message to a very small fraction of MOTION PICTURE HERALD'S circulation but what he found out was: THE RIGHT PEOPLE READ IT, AND ITS PULL IS WIDESPREAD.

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	20c-40c	"Maedchen in Uniform" (Krimsky & Cochran) and "Air Hostess" (Col.) (6 days)	6,500	"Christopher Strong" (Radio) and "Lucky Devils" (Radio)	6,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron" Low 4-8-33 "Christopher Strong" and "Lucky Devils"	25,550 6,500
Paramount	2,900	25c-50c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	7,500	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	7,750	High 4-23-32 "Tarzan, the Ape Man" Low 5-21-32 "Wet Parade" and "It's Tough to Be Famous"	13,750 4,000
State	1,200	15c-25c	"Under the Tonto Rim" (Para.) (4 days) "Humanity" (Fox) (3 days)	750 600	"The Death Kiss" (World Wide) (4 days) "Fast Workers" (MGM) (3 days)	900 750	High 3-14 "Trader Horn" Low 2-10-33 "The Devil Is Driving" and "The Intruder"	10,000 1,000
World	2,500	25c-40c	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) and "Ladies They Talk About" (W. B.)	6,500	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) and "Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	6,500	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love" Low 11-28 "The Cisco Kid"	16,000 4,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	25c-50c	"Luxury Liner" (Para.) (6 days) (2nd run)	2,000	"Rome Express" (U.) (4 days)	900	High 12-17 "The Guardsman" Low 10-1-32 "Make Me a Star"	6,500 1,500
Boyd	2,400	40c-55c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (2nd week-6 days)	10,000	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (1st week-6 days)	13,500	.....
Earle	2,000	40c-66c	"Fast Workers" (MGM) (6 days)	12,000	"Crime of the Century" (Para.) (6 days)	16,000	High 1-5-33 "Breach of Promise" Low 4-13-33 "Fast Workers"	29,000 12,000
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Constant Woman" (World Wide) (6 days)	16,500	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) (6 days)	17,000	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back" Low 6-18-32 "Mystery Ranch"	40,000 15,000
Karlton	1,000	30c-50c	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.) (6 days)	2,800	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (6 days)	7,700	High 5-2 "City Lights" Low 3-23-33 "Air Hostess"	8,008 2,500
Keith's	2,000	15c-35c	"What Price Decency?" (Majestic) (6 days)	6,500	"Racetrack" (World Wide) (6 days)	7,000	High 1-30-32 "Arrowsmith" Low 3-23-33 "Jungle Bride"	27,000 6,000
Stanley	3,700	40c-55c	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U. A.)	9,000	"Our Betters" (Radio) (6 days)	10,500	High 12-19 "Frankenstein" Low 7-25 "Rebound"	31,000 8,000
Stanton	1,700	30c-55c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (2nd week-6 days)	6,500	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (1st week-6 days)	9,300	High 3-21 "Last Parade" Low 3-23-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble"	16,500 5,500
Portland, Ore.
Broadway	1,912	25c-40c	"Sherlock Holmes" (Fox)	5,000	"Pick Up" (Para.)	6,200	High 1-10 "Min and Bill" Low 10-1-32 "The Crash"	21,000 2,800
Liberty	1,800	15c-25c	"Rackety Rax" (Fox)	1,800	"Men Must Fight" (MGM)	2,000	.....
Music Box	1,600	15c-35c	"Night Club Lady" (Col.)	2,500	.....		.....
Oriental	2,040	25c-35c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	2,300	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	2,300	.....
Rialto	1,500	15c-25c	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)	2,000	.....		High 3-21 "Trader Horn" Low 2-10-33 "Billion Dollar Scandal"	12,000 1,000
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-55c	"Private Jones" (U.)	5,500	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	4,800	High 2-14 "Cimarron" Low 3-17-33 "Great Jasper"	20,000 4,000
United Artists	945	25c-50c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (3rd week)	4,700	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (2nd week)	6,400	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels" Low 3-10-33 "Madame Butterfly"	12,500 1,600
San Francisco
Embassy	1,380	25c-50c	"Love Sins" (State Rights) (2nd week-4 days)	3,000	"Love Sins" (State Rights) (1st week)	3,250	.....
Filmarte	1,400	25c-50c	"The Black Hussar" (Foreign)	1,300	"Waltz Paradise" (Foreign)	1,500	.....
Fox	4,600	10c-25c	"Goona Goona" (First Div.) and "Blame the Woman" (Principal)	15,000	"Should a Woman Tell?" (Majestic) and "Speed Demon" (Col.)	15,500	High 1-3 "Lightning" Low 4-14-33 "Goona Goona" and "Blame the Woman"	70,000 15,000
Golden Gate	2,800	25c-65c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	12,000	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	12,500	High 2-9-33 "The Mummy" Low 6-11-32 "Lena Rivers"	25,500 7,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-75c	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W. B.)	13,000	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	18,000	High 1-9-32 "The Champ" Low 3-31-33 "The King's Vacation"	35,600 9,500
St. Francis	1,435	25c-50c	"From Hell to Hevean" (Para.) and "Girl Missing" (W. B.)	4,500	"Whistling in the Dark" (MGM) and "Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	6,000	.....
United Artists	1,200	25c-50c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	5,000	"Secrets" (U. A.) (2nd week)	6,300	.....
Warfield	2,700	35c-90c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	16,000	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	12,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" Low 4-6-33 "Grand Slam"	28,000 12,000
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-50c	"The Big Cage" (U.) (6 days)	3,000	"The Big Drive" (First Div.) (2nd week)	3,000	.....
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-55c	"Pick Up" (Para.)	5,500	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	7,500	High 7-30-32 "Million Dollar Legs" Low 3-18-33 "From Hell to Heaven" and "Secret of Madame Blanche"	18,500 5,000
Liberty	2,000	10c-25c	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) (5 days)	2,500	"Breach of Promise" (World Wide) and "A Man's Land" (Allied)	3,750	High 1-10 "The Lash" Low 11-11-32 "Amazon Head Hunters"	11,500 3,000
Music Box	950	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	5,500	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (1st week)	7,000	High 2-28 "City Lights" Low 11-25-32 "The Crooked Circle"	14,000 3,000
Paramount	3,050	25c-55c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM) and "Broadway Bad" (Fox)	4,500	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox) and "Dangerously Yours" (Fox)	4,500	High 1-10 "Paid" Low 4-15-33 "Clear All Wires" and "Broadway Bad"	18,000 4,500
Rex	1,500	15c-25c	"Scarlet River" (Radio)	2,550	"Central Park" (F. N.)	2,750	.....
Washington
Columbia	1,232	25c-40c	"Vampire Bat" (Majestic)	2,800	"Infernal Machine" (Fox)	3,000	.....
Earle	2,323	25c-66c	"Air Hostess" (Col.)	19,000	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	20,000	.....
Fox	3,434	25c-66c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	22,000	"Men Must Fight" (MGM)	19,500	.....
Loew's Palace	2,363	35c-55c	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.)	12,500	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	15,000	.....
Metropolitan	1,600	25c-55c	"Maedchen in Uniform" (Krimsky & Cochran)	6,250	"Sign of the Cross" (Para.) (2nd week)	5,200	.....
Rialto	1,900	25c-55c	"Virtue" (Col.)	3,200	"Destination Unknown" (U.)	3,500	.....
RKO Keith's	1,832	25c-55c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	8,200	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	6,500	.....

TRAVELERS...

HARRY M. WARNER, president of Warner-First National, accompanied by his aide, SAM SCHNEIDER, is due in New York from the industry conferences at Hollywood.

JOHN GILBERT and his wife, VIRGINIA BRUCE, arrived in New York from California, aboard the Santa Paula of the Grace Line.

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER flew from New York to Hollywood to resume at MGM.

ANDY DIETZ, of the Skouras home office, resigned and returned to St. Louis to operate a theatre.

STANLEY BERGERMAN, Universal studio executive, was due in New York from the Coast.

JOSEPH BERNHARD, Warner theatre official, returned from midwest tour.

BILL SCULLY, of Metro's sales department, returned to New York from southern trip.

DICK POWELL starts personal appearance tour in Chicago on Friday; Pittsburgh next.

BUDD ROGERS was on a midwest sales tour.

SPYROS SKOURAS returned to New York from coast.

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK, United Artist president, is expected shortly from Hollywood.

DOROTHY ARZNER, writer, is at the Waldorf-Astoria from the coast.

JAMES CAGNEY, Warner player, will arrive in New York from Hollywood for "Picture Snatcher" premiere April 29.

BETTE DAVIS, Warner player, left New York for Boston.

CHARLEY CHASE, Roach comedian, arrived in London.

GEORGE O'BRIEN returned to Movietone City, from New York and Europe.

SAM KATZ and his aides, SAM SPRING, MARCUS HEIMAN and MAX GORDON, returned to New York from coast.

CHARLES ROGERS arrived in New York from Hollywood.

AL LICHTMAN, United Artists' vice-president, returned to New York from Bermuda.

FLORENCE DESMOND, English player, arrived in New York from London.

GUSTAV SCHAEFER, Paramount's German executive, arrived in New York from Berlin.

HARRY COHN, Columbia president, returned to Hollywood from New York.

EDDIE CANTOR arrived in New York from vaudeville tour.

CLAYTON SHEEHAN, Fox foreign executive, returned to New York from Europe.

SIDNEY SAMUELSON, president of Jersey Allied, left New York for southern vacation.

JOE MICHAELS was scheduled to leave New York for coast via auto.

DOUGLAS LEISHMAN left New York to take charge of RKO office at Melbourne, Australia.

REGINALD SMITH arrived in New York from London for conference with Majestic officials.

FRANK TUTTLE, who will direct Eddie Cantor's next for Goldwyn, arrived in New York from coast.

SIDNEY R. KENT, Fox president; MERLIN HALL AYLESWORTH, RKO president, and R. H. COCHRANE, Universal vice-president, returned to New York from industry conferences at Hollywood.

S. A. LYNCH arrived in New York from Atlanta.

ELBERT FRANKLIN, son of Harold B. Franklin, left New York for Hollywood.

HOWARD HUGHES arrived in New York from Hollywood.

GRACE BRADLEY, stage player, left New York for Paramount's Hollywood studio.

DON CLARKE left New York for Radio studio on coast.

LOU GUIMOND was in Philadelphia exploiting "Secrets."

SAMUEL GOLDWYN is due in New York from Europe, en route to Hollywood.

GIRLS WANT MYSTERY; BOYS, WAR PICTURES

And Neither Group in Edinburgh Cares Much for Love on the Screen; Not a Voice Lifted Against Comedies

by BERNARD CHARMAN

London Correspondent

The question of the influence of the motion picture on children is so much an international one that valuable deductions can be made from a report just published in Edinburgh (Scotland) by a local inquiry committee.

Questionnaires were issued to 2,580 children (1,310 boys and 1,270 girls) between 9 and 18 years.

Both Prefer Excitement

Here are the boys' expressed picture preferences:

War pictures, 20.9 per cent; westerns, 19; gangster, 12.5; mystery thriller, 10.3; travelogues, 6.7; sea films, 6.3; detective, 5.8; comedies, 4.5; nature films, 3.6; song pictures, 3.3; Mickey Mouse, 2.7; child characters, 1.9, and society, love, tragedy and other kinds, 2.5.

Their dislikes were:

Love, 76.9; society, 6; gangster, 3.1; tragedy, 2.9; song pictures, 2; westerns, 1.8; travelogues, 1.3; mystery thrillers, 1.2; nature films, 1.1, and 3.7 per cent in other categories. Not a single boy voted against comedy films.

Opinion veers a little when the girls' preferences are explored:

Mystern thrillers, 12.1 per cent; child characters, 11.7; westerns, 11.2; comedies, 10.7; Mickey Mouse, 9.6; song pictures, 8.6; love, 6.8; detective, 5; nature films, 4.6; travelogues, 4.5; war pictures, 3.7; gangster, 2.6; sea films, 2; society, 1.7; tragedy, 1.3.

Here's what the girls don't like:

Love, 22.4 per cent; war pictures, 22.1; gangster, 11.5; tragedy, 7.3; mystery thriller, 6.8; travelogues, 4.9; nature films, 4; society, 3.9; sea films, 3.4; westerns, 3.2; detective, 2.8; song pictures, 2.4; Mickey Mouse, 1.3; child characters and comedies, 0.6.

Among the little ladies it is clear that they like good, honest excitement, but not crook stuff. There seems to be more sentiment in their makeup and they appreciate a laugh.

And as to the Stars:

These are the male stars the boys like best: Laurel and Hardy, Jack Holt, Slim Summerville, Jackie Coogan, Ronald Colman, Richard Dix, Robert Montgomery. The following male stars lead in appeal to the girls: Ronald Colman, Laurel and Hardy, Jackie Coogan, Robert Montgomery, Ramon Novarro, Jack Holt, Maurice Chevalier and Gary Cooper.

The boys' favorite faminine stars are: Janet Gaynor, Marie Dressler, Jeanette MacDonald, Joan Crawford, Constance Bennett and Norma Shearer. The girls like Janet Gaynor, Constance Bennett, Jeanette MacDonald, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Evelyn Laye and Marie Dressler. Notice the remarkable similarity of choice.

One Attendance a Week

The school children average one attendance a week, which figure equals that given in the case of adolescent youths and girls who were circularized on different lines. Asked how they chose their entertainment, these budding men and women answered: Actors, 115; story, 83; newspaper reports, 56; word-of-mouth criticism, 34.

Their selections of best pictures they ever had seen were:

"All Quiet on the Western Front," 55; "Ben-Hur," 51; "Desert Song," 45; "Trader Horn," 39; "Dawn Patrol," 32; "Africa Speaks," 28; "Rookery Nook" ("One Embarrassing Night"), 25; "King of Kings," 25; "Hells's Angels," 22; "Whoopee," 22; "Beau Geste," 20; "Common Clay," 19; "Sunny Side Up," 17; "With Byrd to the South Pole," 15; "Dracula," 14.

▽

Restricted Admission

By a coincidence, publication of the Edinburgh report was made on the same day as the release of a new series of recommendations to municipal authorities by the English Home Office, the recommendations dealing principally with the admission of children.

It is proposed that admission of children to "A" films (those receiving only the Adult certificate of the Censor) shall still be conditional on their being accompanied by a responsible adult, but that greater steps should be taken to give parents advance information on the category of films to be shown at each theatre, both in distributors' publicity matter and in the theatre.

It is proposed that a category board shall be compulsory at every house, and that it shall be placed in a prominent position—over the paybox, for instance.

Censors Challenge 382 Films

Exception was taken to 382 films by the British Board of Film Censors last year. This is the highest number on record. Twenty-two films were totally rejected.

Of the 382 films challenged the report says: "Although this is the highest number on record, it is not due to any deterioration in the character of the films submitted."

The Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association reports having obtained substantial reductions in service charges, refuted wild attacks on the cinema by the formation of an active propaganda system, stabilized admission of children, and—indirectly, perhaps—scaled down hiring terms and reduced costs among the more careful exhibitors from 37 per cent to 30 and 32.

As to the smaller halls, the report suggests that "their salvation appears to be in sight by a process of owing monies to the renters," that is, by paying a part of the hiring cost and owing the balance.

Two-Men-in-Booth Ordinance Defeated in Tucson, Arizona

A measure which virtually would have made it impossible to operate a motion picture theatre without employing two men in the projection booth at all times, has been defeated in the city council of Tucson, Ariz. Strongly backed by the local projectionists' union and sponsored by Councilman Fred Steger, the ordinance was defeated largely through the efforts of Thomas Soriero, district manager for Fox West Coast at Tucson.

The ordinance had been pressed for two years and was supported by the American Trade Council. The clause which would have made two men virtually compulsory provided that an operator might not leave his machine or release the controls while in operation unless relieved by a properly licensed assistant.

THE BOX OFFICE CHAMPIONS FOR MARCH

42D STREET — Warners

(1) Based on the novel by Bradford Ropes. Screen play by Rian James and James Seymour. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Photographer: Sol Polito. Film editor: Frank Ware. Art director: Jack Okey. Songs by Al Dubin and Harry Warren. Cast: Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, George Brent, Ruby Keeler, Una Merkel, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks, Dick Powell, Ginger Rogers, Allen Jenkins, Henry B. Walthall, Edward J. Nugent, Harry Akst, Clarence Nordstrom, Robert McWade, George E. Stone, Al Dubin, Harry Warren. Released March 11, 1933.

CAVALCADE — Fox

(2) Directed by Frank Lloyd. From the play by Noel Coward. Screen play by Reginald Berkeley. Continuity by Sonya Levien. Assistant director: William Tummel. Director of dialogue: George Hadden. War scenes by William Cameron Menzies. Art director: William Darling. Film editor: Margaret Clancy. Photographer: Ernest Palmer. Sound recorder: J. E. Aiken. Cast: Diana Wynyard, Clive Brook, Ursula Jeans, Herbert Mundin.

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS — MGM

(3) Directed by Richard Boleslavsky. Author: Charles MacArthur. Photographer: William Daniels. Musical score by Herbert Stothart. Film editor: Tom Held. Cast: John Barrymore, Ethel Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore, Ralph Morgan, Diana Wynyard, Tad Alexander, C. Henry Gordon, Edward Arnold.

Six productions are ranked as box office champions for the month of March, with only one of them having been ranked among the leaders for a previous month. This exception is the Fox spectacle, "Cavalcade." The March group represents a broad variety of film tastes, with a musical revue heading the list. Each of the others lends itself to distinctive classification, the types being drama, spectacle, comedy-drama, melodrama and shocker. Thus about the entire range of types is represented, with one notable absence, however—that of straight comedy. Further variation is contributed by "King Kong" in its novel trick photography.

(4) Directed by Henry King. From the novel by Phil Stong. Screen play by Paul Green and Sonya Levien. Photographed by Hal Mohr. Film editor: R. W. Bischoff. Sound recorder: A. L. Von Kirbach. Cast: Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers, Lew Ayres, Sally Eilers, Norman Foster, Louise Dresser, Frank Craven, Victor Jory. Released February 10, 1933.

STATE FAIR — Fox

(5) Directed by George Hill. From the stage play by Bella and Samuel Spewack. Adaptation and dialogue by Bella and Samuel Spewack. Continuity by Delmer Daves. Photographer: Percy Hilburn. Cast: Lee Tracy, Benita Hume, Una Merkel, James Gleason, Alan Edwards, Eugene Sigaloff, Ari Kutai, C. Henry Gordon, Lya Lys, John Bleifer, Lawrence Grant, Guy Usher. Released February 24, 1933.

CLEAR ALL WIRES — MGM

(6) Directed by Merian C. Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack from an idea conceived by Edgar Wallace and Merian C. Cooper. Screen play by James Creelman and Ruth Rose. Cameraman: Edward Linden. Sound effects: Murray Spivack. Sound recordist: E. A. Wolcott. Art directors: Carroll Clark and Al Herman. Film editor, Ted Cheeseman. Musical director: Max Steiner. Chief technician: Willis O'Brien. Cast: Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong, Bruce Cabot, Frank Reicher, Sam Hardy, Noble Johnson, James Flavin, Steve Clemento, Victor Wong.

KING KONG — RKO Radio

'THEY HAVE OVERLOOKED THE WOMEN'

WHAT ABOUT THE WOMEN?

To the Editor of the Herald:

In the wild scramble and hurried production activities on the Coast all sense of showmanship and its value to the box office have been overlooked by the frantic producers. Their one concern has been to stop the losses that they are taking from their misconception of the proper way to run the theatre.

Two outstanding and glaring faults have been theirs. They have entirely overlooked the patronage of the women, and they have done everything possible to destroy the glamour and mystery that had heretofore surrounded the theatre.

Of these it is hard to calculate in the long run the worst offense, but for the present the first is having a telling effect. The producers find that, in some of the larger cities where their overhead is highest, horror pictures, weird and gruesome pictures, and gangster and underworld sordid pictures have taken in fair sized grosses. From this as a beginning they have figured that the whole country wants this type of film fare. In this they are very erroneous—these cities have yielded large numbers of unemployed men who have nothing else to do. They are looking for an extreme that will turn their thoughts from their dire circumstances—hence, the popularity of these horrible samples of cinema product.

In the normal days before the producer turned to getting the rental and the gross as well, the women played almost the entire part in keeping the theatre out of the loss columns. Over 75 per cent of every theatre's gross was from women. But since the hasty retrenchment and hurried schedules the women have been almost entirely overlooked, and the gross figures have been shrinking accordingly. When the producers find out that they can't make pictures for men and don't expect every animal picture to be "Trader Horn," or every gang picture to be a "Little Caesar," and get a few more of the type of "Smilin' Through" and other product that appeals to the fair sex, the sooner the troubles of the theatre will be over.

The premier task of the leaders of this industry at this time is to get them back into the habit of attending the theatres. With them the industry will survive and prosper, without them it is doomed to oblivion and closed doors.—F. M. A. Litchard, Morse Theatre, Franklin, Mass.

UNION PROTESTS ADMISSION TAXES

To the Editor of the Herald:

The executive board of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Machine Operators' Union of the State of Ohio wishes to voice their opposition, through your publication, "to any form of admission tax to amusements and nuisance taxes of any kind."

We feel that in times like these the public should have every opportunity for amusement and the forgetting of troubles. The motion picture theatre, especially, is about the only medium of relaxation within the reach of the average family.

Therefore, we feel that this means of mental escape should not be made more difficult, but rather encouraged.—Harry E. Coleman, Executive Secretary.

1,500-FOOT REELS AS A SAVING

To the Editor of the Herald:

Having personally operated a booth for 17 years, I would say that the sooner all producers adopt reels of 1,500 feet, the better it would be for all concerned.

It would prevent the menace of all times—doubling up reels—thereby giving a longer life to all prints and a great saving to all exchanges. It would cost money for the change, but it would be money well spent.

Fifteen hundred foot reels would be just right for exchanges to handle and just nice to run in a projector; 2,000 feet are too large to handle; never adopt this size.—William Bosse, Jr., Projectionist, Valley Falls, R. I.

DOUBLE FEATURES AND MEMPHIS

To the Editor of the Herald:

Re double-feature story in March 25 issue of your splendid sheet. And, as Al Smith says, "Let's look at the record."

[The Memphis situation was summarized as follows in the article: "Downtown theatres ended dual featuring last month by agreement. Neighborhood exhibitors, led by M. A. Lightman, MPTOA president, thereby won their fight. The independent neighborhoods had threatened to cancel contracts."—Ed.]

On a check of the subsequent run houses in Memphis, which you mention, I find that Mr. M. A. Lightman was running double features, and in addition a style show. This was the case in another house under his control and operation. On Saturday every neighborhood theatre, including the six in Memphis operated by the Great Lightman, all run double feature.

It is true that the double feature was discontinued by the downtown first run theatres, but by agreement of the Loew and Warner offices, not through any threats by the neighborhood groups, as the exchanges will receive more in rentals in one day from their downtown run than they will from the entire subsequent runs.

M. A. Lightman is a great little guy, but for the sake of good reporting, let's keep the record straight.—Howard Waugh, Manager Warner Bros. Theatre, Memphis.

Mr. Lightman, asked concerning the Memphis situation in the light of the observations of Mr. Waugh, commented in part as follows:

The practice of double featuring was unknown in this territory until the Warner theatre started it about two years ago. Remember, Warners is a first-run downtown theatre. . . . Warners continued this practice for several months before the neighborhood theatres started doing so in self-defense. In fairness to Mr. Waugh, I do not think he was in sympathy with this policy. (It was started before he came.) . . .

When it seemed that the practice would become serious, we had a meeting and finally reached an agreement that we neighborhood exhibitors would double-feature on Saturday only. . . .

A few months ago, Warners again announced that they were going to double-feature. Loew's Theatres, Inc., operators of the Palace and State theatres, two of the leading downtown theatres here, naturally resented this act and without warning and in order to beat Warners to the punch, started double-featuring in their Loew's State Theatre. . . . We protested vigorously. We have never made any claims that our protest had anything to do with breaking up the arrangement. . . .

Suffice it to say, the downtown theatres did not continue the policy and are now operating on a single feature basis and the neighborhood theatres are not double-featuring any day except on Saturdays, on which day we advance our prices in practically every house. But two of the theatres have been double-featuring one extra day per week. These theatres are neither operated nor controlled by us. . . . We have been very careful about double-featuring and have avoided doing so with the one exception that my good friend, Waugh, saw fit to refer to.

We had booked a style show weeks in advance of the date referred to in his letter. . . . When the date got right down upon us, we realized that we had booked a picture with it that was on last year's contract. . . . One of the opposition houses booked this particular picture to be shown on his double bill. Therefore in self-defense we concluded that the only thing we could do was to double-feature this one picture. . . .

I think Howard Waugh is an excellent manager and Warners is fortunate in having him here and I take no exception to anything he said in his letter. Howard is high-powered and should be allowed to blow off a little steam now and then. My only reason for writing this letter is because you requested that I do so.—M. A. Lightman, Malco Theatres, Memphis, Tenn.

TIME TO PULL HARD

To the Editor of the Herald:

Will you please enter my subscription to Motion Picture Herald for one year and also send the last week's copy. Please bill and mail to this address. Reference: The writer is a checker since '29, and can refer you to any distributor in the Milwaukee area.

At this time may I say that our trade is indeed lucky to have a trade journal that has the brainy resources that your editorials emanate from.

We have the best business in the world, but it has stopped running itself, and it now is time for every one to get down and pull hard.—Vernon R. Rogers, 155 Wright Street, Oshkosh, Wis.

TECHNOLOGICAL

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 169.—(A) Name the various reasons why a good film splicer is essential. (B) Give us your idea of how to keep film cement in good condition. (Don't tell us the Bluebook way unless you are using it.) (C) Tell us what various things will tend to injure film cement. (D) Tell us why too little or too much cement makes a poor splice. (E) Is it possible to splice inflammable and "non-flam" film together?

Answer to Question No. 162

Bluebook School Question No. 162 was: (A) What in your opinion constitutes an ideal film splicer? (B) What do you regard as the best width for film splices? (C) Do you find very narrow splices desirable or objectionable? (D) Tell us, in detail, just how emulsion should be scraped off.

I was a bit surprised at the large number of really excellent answers to these questions. Those sending them were G. E. Doe, S. Evans and C. Rau, Dale Danielson, H. Edwards, K. Dowling, B. Doe, T. Van Vaulkenburg, D. Holler and B. Eilers, C. D. Dodson, W. Ostrum, D. L. Bentley and E. O. Olliver, W. D. Lalley, P. Hadley and D. L. Solomon, F. D. Prindley, D. Johnson and A. Lomberg, E. Parkinson, M. McGuire, L. V. Smolley and K. L. Knight, B. T. Sampson and G. C. Hendrie, P. L. Davis and P. Buckstone, R. G. McGillis and T. Hollender, R. and L. M. Eright, B. M. May, L. T. Shaver, T. L. Shelton and M. H. Sanders, F. Daniels and U. L. Banning and T. N. Billings and D. Sanders, M. L. Timlinson, A. Bailey, D. L. McIntire and J. Schultz, J. M. McKinzie, S. G. Goss and P. Lambert, H. B. Coates, P. L. Mangan and D. U. Tomms, T. Gaitsley and B. R. Compton, C. Humphries, G. L. Thompson and D. Lilley, D. Donahue and L. Petersen, D. Adamson and L. Simmons, L. U. Jumel, T. H. Samuels and D. Samuels, A. Altman and D. H. Holmes, R. E. Baiss and A. E. Wyatt, D. L. Stanhope, L. Cranlo and G. Deckson, N. Gault, T. B. Cudmore and J. L. Richards, I. E. Rayner, L. S. Marksley and J. S. Bischoff, B. Diglah and O. Garling, P. L. Janns, W. S. Andrus, G. Lombard and J. Ahrenson, T. Blueder, R. Digmat and P. L. Algy, H. Steele and P. Potter, M. Donahue, M. R. Wining and L. N. Daniels, G. Thompson, D. E. Ellis and T. R. MacAllen, F. D. Samuels, D. Tilson, H. D. Cylor and H. D. Davis, W. A. Andres, D. R. Donoldson, G. G. Creston, H. B. Jenkins, H. Anderson, T. L. Ramsley, L. Torr and P. L. Davis, G. M. Marksley, D. L. Markham, D. G. Peterson, M. S. O'Brien, B. T. Lomberg, D. B. Bates and J. L. Major, L. T. Chotes and B. L. Buckley, H. Anderson, B. R. Thompson, D. Golding, H. M. Evans, J. S. Henderson, D. N. Peters, F. B. Gamble, G. L. B. R. Thompson and D. U. Shelton, F. H. Banning and D. E. Pratt, L. N. Ceylor and J. Ganns, B. L. Legrand and, finally, J. C. Lawby and P. N. Weigand.

I think we will listen to our old friend, G. E. Doe, on Section A (though there were many excellent replies). He says, "A good film splicer must be solidly constructed. It must be compact, since very often there is no superabundance of room on the rewind table. It should be well finished to the end that it present a decent appearance, though that is, of course, not essential to excellence of performance. It must be provided with means for rigid attachment to the rewind table, and in such way that a man does not have to expend half an hour of labor and many naughty words to get it loose upon occasion. It must have the following parts: pilot pins so coated that they will not rust if left unused for a period of time, a clamp which will embrace not less than four sprocket holes (and the film between, of course) and exert plenty of pressure evenly distributed upon the full length of the splice (the same being automatically adjustable, a cutting knife and a scraping knife and a tool for scraping. It must be simple, easily and quickly operated, to the end that even the man who won't do a job right if he may do it poorly with a little less expenditure of time, will be willing to use it instead of his clumsy fingers. It may with advantage be supplied with two suitable receptacles, one for cement and one for sound splice lacquer, and a depression to hold shears and scraper."

(B) Evans and Rau say, "We regard one-eighth of an inch as the best splice width," in which opinion I find many "students" to concur. Also many favor three-sixteenths of an inch, roughly, as the best width. Careful examination discloses the fact that fifty-two men favor one-eighth to one-quarter of an inch as best, with which conclusions I am obliged to disagree entirely. I regard anything exceeding one-eighth of an inch as bad practice.

(C) Evans and Rau say, "Very narrow splices have, in our experience, been found objectionable. They have not the strength to stand up under the strain of repeated projections. Sooner or later, unless carefully watched, they pull apart, either during projection or rewinding. The projectionist therefore cannot depend upon the reliability of such splices."

(D) H. D. Cylor and H. D. Davis answer, "With straight-edge in place on frame line, wet emulsion with a brush dipped in water. Before removing straight-edge, scrape off all emulsion from the exposed stub end, being very careful to get it all off around the sprocket holes. In scraping it is necessary that the emulsion be all removed and the celluloid slightly roughened, but without removing any more material than is absolutely necessary. That last is important, since any unnecessary removal of celluloid, of course, weakens the film. Scraping is a matter for admixture of careful care and common sense. It is not a job to be too hastily done, except possibly in case of some emergency which compels speed."

DATA ON POWER COSTS WANTED

I would like to have as many projectionists as possible make a very careful computation of the cost of current per hour used at the projectors. I would like very much to have this for all classes of theatres, my purpose being to form an estimate of the average cost of projection current (motion picture projection only) in theatres of all classes, or sizes rather.

Please provide following data: (a) Kind and voltage of supply, (b) kind of rectifying device used, (c) cost of current per kw.-hour. (d) number of watts used at projector light source, (e) kind of projector light source, (f) number of hours theatre is open per day, (g) number of days theatre is open per week.

Please give this matter prompt attention. It is important. I would like as many replies as possible, but be careful to send data correct at all points. First, find out exact wattage taken from supply lines by your projector light source, which may be done by waiting until show is closed at night and reading service line wattmeter, if any, with everything but one projector light source turned off. If no service line wattmeter, then you may arrive at pretty accurate estimate by adding to wattage of projector light source 30 per cent for losses in current rectification. Not accurate, but will serve.—F.H.R.

JENKINS' COLYUM

Storm Lake, Iowa

DEAR HERALD:

Northwest Iowa is probably as fine a farming section as there is in the United States, but in all our travels we doubt if we have driven over a section that has been harder hit than this particular locality. Many towns are without a bank and we have found no less than 20 theatres closed during a week's travel, and many more running short time and wondering how long they can keep open.

During the days when corn was $2 and wheat $3 a bushel Farmer Jones bought a Buick, a tractor, and a truck, and his boys husked corn in $18 silk shirts. Today Farmer Jones drives to town in a Ford or hitches up old Fan and Jerry to the lumber wagon and the boys have gone to the city looking for a job.

Our entire nation became drunk with prosperity. "Conservatism," when properly applied, is the best word in the English language, and when properly applied the word "Depression" will become obsolete. Every generation has to learn by experience and experience teaches a lasting lesson, and today, Northwest Iowa is applying conservatism and that makes everything toughernhel out here, but she'll come out of it, for you can't keep these tall corn huskers down.

▽

We took on two schooners once and depleted our exchequer by 30 cents, and all we got out of it was a helluva headache, but maybe that was because there was too much sawdust in our gourd, you know some gourds are that way. When we get over in Wisconsin next week we hope some of those Badgers will ask us if we like pretzels. If they do, we are going to say "Boy, would a duck swim?"

▽

John Hoffsinger has just taken over the theatre at Woodbine. The Scott-Ballantyne Co. of Omaha were installing the Largen sound equipment when we called. John wanted the HERALD. John got it.

▽

Bill Bowker of Dunlap took us to dinner when we called. It's a habit Bill has of doing just such things as that. At the dinner table the subject drifted on to hunting. We told Bill that when we were a boy back on the Kankakee river in Indiana we killed seven Canadian geese out of one flock on the wing with a double barrel shotgun. Bill looked at us a moment and then coughed a little and said: "Well, I never hunted geese much, but out in Nebraska some years ago I shot 35 prairie chickens on the wing out of one flock with a 22 rifle." Just then Mrs. Bowker rapped on the table with her knife and said, "William, William," and we said, "Will you please pass the bread, Baron."

▽

When we drive along the highways and some fellow comes up behind us and reads the HERALD sign on our tire cover and honks his horn for us to stop, and then asks us to take his subscription to the HERALD for a couple of years, it makes us wonder whether it is Prosperity or the Millennium that is just around the corner. Of course, no one has done that yet, but maybe they will some time. We always go prepared.

▽

Harry Day at Ida Grove lays awake of nights trying to figure out something else he can add to his theatre that will enhance its beauty and comfort. We wouldn't want to say that he is getting nutty on that matter, but the authorities ought to keep an eye on him. If Harry is as nice as his wife thinks he is, he must be all right, but of course she don't know him as we do. Northwest Iowa should "point with pride" to Harry's theatre and Harry should thank us for calling on him.

Henry Hollander of Schleswig says he will keep his theatre open if he doesn't have a soupbone in the house. Henry came from the country where they make limburger cheese and wooden shoes, although Henry doesn't wear wooden shoes himself. There's a boy who will look Old Man Depression in the face and say "piffle on you." We wish this country had more folks who come from the same country Henry did.

▽

Herbert C. Larsen operates the theatre at Alta. There's another guy who came from the wooden shoe countries. And when their name is "Larsen" no further guarantee will be necessary. We never found one yet who wasn't on the level. The "Larsens" and "Olsons" are the people who help to make the Stars and Stripes stand for "Liberty and Justice."

▽

J. C. Eding operates the Community theatre at Aurelia and says he couldn't get along without the HERALD. No better evidence of sanity could be asked. When J. C. says he has a good picture the Aurelia folks know he has a good picture. That's why he is so popular in that community. If J. C. didn't wear wooden shoes when he was a boy we miss our guess.

▽

Mrs. Dudley Scott, together with Mr. Osborn, operates both theatres in Le Mars. We had a delightful visit with these people and had the pleasure of seeing George Arliss in "A King's Vacation," a picture that ranks well up to "Gabriel Over the White House," and when they rank well up with that picture it is plenty good enough. In fact, we never saw George Arliss in a poor one yet. Business was not what the picture deserved. It may be that "So This Is Africa" would have drawn better, but that would have proven the depraved tendency of the human race.

▽

It is just like going on a vacation to call on Mr. and Mrs. Johannsen of the Wonderland theatre at Paullina. We'd sooner hear Mrs. Johannsen and Ma Peterson of Genoa, Neb., laugh than to hear the Boston Symphony Orchestra play the "Sextet from Lucia." They want us to come back some time. We'll betcha we'll do it.

▽

Dale Goldie of the American theatre at Cherokee has his theatre front plastered all over with show paper. He posts bills on everything in town except the front door of the Methodist church. Gale is a Methodist (maybe), but a queen full and a watermelon patch looks good to Dale, so did the chorus in "42nd Street." Dale said it is only a short drive to Laverne, Minn., and he is going up there to soak up some "Prosperity."

▽

J. T. Stroud operates the Spencer theatre at Spencer and the one at Spirit Lake for Mr. Frankenstein. J. T. has had a world of experience in the theatre business, having managed houses at Minneapolis, Minn., Aberdeen, S. D., and Minot and Bismarck, N. D., besides other theatrical connections. We had only about five minutes with him, but we classed him A1. Farther than that deponent sayeth not at this time on account of space. Wisconsin "Prosperity," look out for us, we are on the way.

COLONEL J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD'S Vagabond Colyumnist

Warner Gets Four in Wheeling

Warner has acquired four theatres in the Pittsburgh area, the Capitol, Court, Liberty and Victoria in Wheeling, W. Va., representing a seating total of 8,500.

IN THE NEWS...

CARL MILLER of Fremont, Ohio, has taken over active management of the Madrid theatre at Port Clinton, Ohio. Since the death of FRED REICHERT several years ago the theatre had been operated by MRS. REICHERT and CHARLES PESCHEL. . . .

HURD MCCLELLAN, western representative of Universal News, was shot and critically injured while making French scenes at Universal City. . . .

SAM KATZ, SAM SPRING, who has moved to new offices at 444 Madison avenue, New York; MARCUS HEIMAN and MAX GORDON, all interested in Producing Artists Pictures, Inc., are in New York from the Coast to push plans of the producing company which has signed the Marx Brothers for its first picture. . . .

JOE COOK has resigned as production manager of Columbia after 10 years in that position. . . .

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTIONIST has purchased Projection Engineering from Bryan Davis Publishing Company, the two publications to be merged, with JAMES J. FINN continuing as editor. . . .

WILL HORWITZ, Houston, Texas, independent exhibitor, was presented with a gold life membership card in operators' union local 279, at a surprise dinner party. . . .

HENRY V. O'CONNOR, for 16 years Ontario branch manager of Regal Films, Ltd., of Toronto, is dead. . . .

LOMETTO SMITH is president, J. M. ULLMER vice president, R. S. WALLACE secretary, and MRS IRENE PATTERSON treasurer of Tri Theatres, Inc., formed to operate the Columbia, Morrison and Strand theatres at Alliance, Ohio. The Morrison formerly was a Warner house. . . .

CHARLES B. ELLIS, salesman for RKO Radio at Atlanta, died this week. He had joined FBO in 1922.

JACK DROY has been named RKO Radio branch manager at Calgary, Canada. . . .

TRI-ERGON'S patent suit against GENERAL TALKING PICTURES and DEFOREST PHONOFILM, is awaiting a decision by federal Judge John P. Nields at Wilmington. . . .

POWERS PICTURES' liabilities total $211,043 as against assets of $73,700, according to the filed schedules in the voluntary bankruptcy petition. They revealed also that Powers is instituting breach of contract action against British International Pictures, whose product Powers was to have distributed in America. P. A. Powers is the principal creditor, with a claim of $113,623 for loans. Among others are DeLuxe Trailers, Inc., $20,048, and Tooker Lithograph Company, $3,101. . . .

ELECTRICAL RESEARCH PRODUCTS, INC., has withdrawn its suit on defaults in payments against Central States Theatres of Des Moines, following an out-of-court settlement. . . .

UNIVERSAL plans to reissue Paul Whiteman's "King of Jazz," in line with the return of musicals to public favor. It will be re-cut and reprinted in full color, for release approximately May 1. . . .

BILLIE BURKE and W. A. MCGUIRE are writing a screen play of the career of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, Miss Burke's husband, with Universal to begin the filming as soon as the story is completed. . . .

Wurtzel Starts Production

Production has begun at Fox's Hollywood studio, recently reopened under the direction of Sol M. Wurtzel for the production of 26 features.

Wilson Quits Audio Cinema

Al Wilson has resigned his three-year position as vice-president of Audio Cinema company, New York.

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

IN this, the exhibitor's own department, the theatremen of the nation serve one another with information on the box office performance of product for their mutual benefit. It is a service of the exhibitor for the exhibitor. Address all communications to—

What the Picture Did for Me
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Columbia

MAN AGAINST WOMAN: Jack Holt—A new type gangster-police picture. Not a shot is fired in this picture. Story of a tough cop who used his fist instead of a gun to get his man and his woman. The crowd seemed to enjoy it. Drew less than average business. Holt not a popular star here. Played Mar. 4. Running time, 67 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

MAN AGAINST WOMAN: Jack Holt, Lillian Miles—Very good Saturday picture. Just the kind suited for Holt. Miles' singing is good. Played Apr. 1. Running time, 63 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

THAT'S MY BOY: Richard Cromwell, Dorothy Jordan, Mae Marsh—A good football story. One that will please. Running time, 71 minutes. Played Mar. 9-10-11.—Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

WHITE EAGLE: Buck Jones—Very good western. Columbia has the right idea about westerns. A western made nowadays has got to have a good story the same as any other production or it will not please. Played Mar. 24-25. Running time, 62 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

First National

CENTRAL PARK: Joan Blondell—It is a short picture, 58 minutes, but enough action and doings crammed into this for several pictures. The kind of doings that should please old and young, male and female. Drawing power above present day averages. —J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

FIREMAN SAVE MY CHILD: Joe E. Brown—Very good comedy with plenty of laughs. Played Apr. 2-3. Running time, 70 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

GRAND SLAM: Paul Lukas, Loretta Young—A great show for bridge players. A fair show for those who do not play bridge. We could not get the bridge players out to see this show, and all the others stayed home thinking they would not enjoy it because they did not enjoy bridge. The result was that we did the poorest Sunday and Monday in many months. This is good entertainment if you can sell it. We couldn't. Played Apr. 2-3. Running time, 68 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

LOVE IS A RACKET: Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Lee Tracy, Ann Dvorak—Here is a picture that shows how dumb the title writers are to use the word "love" in a picture that has some action and a fair story and would have had a chance to do, perhaps, what is a normal business in a time when there is no business to speak of. There is some romance but not enough to stress it in the title and ruin what little draw it might have had. If the producers would only wake up to the fact that titles with the word "love" in them don't have a chance with the small town audiences. They expect to see sophistication and the picture is not. Could not be with Lee Tracy in it. With the pictures that we have run with titles as "Born to Love," "Right to Love," my clientele shies away from them as if I had a smallpox sign on my door. They are hoping for pictures and will not take a chance on spending if they are not sure of what they will get.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

THE MATCH KING: Warren William—This one fails to get into the big feature class as they had a good story idea but it failed to come out big. It's just a program picture that will not cause any comment one way or another. We played it on our cheap admission night and it drew 25% under normal business and there was no kicks. Played Mar. 31. Running time, 75 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

THREE ON A MATCH: Joan Blondell, Warren Williams—Very good all around entertainment. You can make promises about it and satisfy the cash customers. Drawing power a little above average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

Fox

AFTER THE BALL: Esther Ralston—Wonder what the poor exhibitors ever done to Fox Film Corporation to have something like this one wished off on them? Another all English picture. If this is a sample—God save the King and the Queen and throw in the Prince of Wales for good measure. Recording terrible. With exception of Ralston, actors all foreign. Played Mar. 11. Running time, 70 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

BROADWAY BAD: Joan Blondell—This one don't have to go to Broadway to be bad, it was plenty bad here. The picture was bad and business was bad. What has gone wrong with Fox? Have they gone bad? We can't remember when we had a good picture from them. This one drew less than half average business. Wish we had shown it on our cheap admission nights. Played Apr. 5-6. Running time, 60 minutes. —Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

CALL HER SAVAGE: Clara Bow—This star stages a comeback and what a comeback. The picture may be episodic in spots but as a whole will satisfy all except the super critical. The best drawing picture in several weeks.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

CALL HER SAVAGE: Clara Bow—Our audience very much divided on this one. I think most of them came out to see how she stacked up with the modern stars that have come to the front since she left the screen. If she gets the right kind of stories she may come back, but they will have to be better than this one. Rather crudely directed. "Dynamite" they called her and she did the dynamite all right and then the inevitable child that dies to tear your heart out.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. Small town patronage.

THE GOLDEN WEST: George O'Brien — Usual western fans on hand to enjoy this. Played Apr. 8.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Mixed patronage.

HANDLE WITH CARE: James Dunn, Boots Mallory—An excellent show for Saturday or family. Clean as a hound's tooth and good entertainment for children and grownups. Not so interesting to the flappers. Mallory handled her part very creditably. The two little boys, with very prominent parts, are good. You that want clean entertainment, book this.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

HANDLE WITH CARE: James Dunn, Boots Mallory—It was a fair picture but Jimmy's laugh was too silly for words. When producers have a good team they seem to split them, which usually spells the star's doom. Played Feb. 19-20.—C. V. Martina, Playhouse Theatre, Clyde, N. Y. Small town patronage.

HANDLE WITH CARE: James Dunn, Boots Mallory—A mighty fine little show. Buster Phelps is darling. Running time, 76 minutes. Played Mar. 6-7-8.—Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

HANDLE WITH CARE: Boot Mallory , James Dunn—Excellent. One of the best all around pictures we have played for a long time. Clean, wholesome and entertaining from start to finish. Mallory wonderful and Dunn also good. I wish the producers would make more pictures of this type. Played Mar. 10-11. Running time, 70 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

HAT CHECK GIRL: Sally Eilers—Good picture. Played Mar. 26-27. Running time, 65 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

HUMANITY: Boots Mallory—Fine picture from Fox. Good for Sunday or any day. Nothing so extra big, but will please. Human story. Well acted by entire cast with Ralph Morgan carrying off the honors. Played Mar. 17. Running time, 75 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

HUMANITY: Boots Mallory, Alexander Kirkland—HO Hum—just a waste of time, energy and film. The title was appropriate for I don't see for Humanity's sake why they wasted time and money to release it unless to get our money and I guess that's the proper answer. Played March 30.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

HOT PEPPER: Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe—Too "hot" for small town patronage catering to respectable people and family trade. Every town has some who like them "hot," but they won't keep you in business. Running time, 76 minutes. Played Apr. 3-4-5.—Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

ME AND MY GAL: Spencer Tracy—Very good production. Well suited to the class of patrons of the Green Lantern. Quite funny, and pleased our people. Played Apr. 8.—George Lodge, Green Lantern Theatre, Claymont, Del. Small county patronage.

ME AND MY GAL: Joan Bennett, Spencer Tracy—Not bad, but coarse humor. Played Mar. 16-17-18. —Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

PLEASURE CRUISE: Roland Young, Genevieve Tobin—A very clever picture chock full of entertainment. Tobin was excellent, and Young delivered as usual. You can always count on Young. This makes a good two day picture. However, it's in the program class. Played Apr. 4-5.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

SMOKE LIGHTNING: George O'Brien, Nell O'Day, Betsy Ross—An excellent outdoor picture. Plenty of comedy and not much "hoss opera." Little Betsy Ross furnishes quite a bit of entertainment with her riding. Played Apr. 1.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

Majestic

THE UNWRITTEN LAW: Mary Brian, Lew Cody—Well, fellas, we're back in that grinding cycle again. This time the film is a story of betrayal and vengeance, motion picture studio as a background, with a supposedly new mystery angle. The majority of the cast have unconsequential roles and play them that way. Every possibility of the story has been taken advantage of, but no satisfactory results. Everything about the direction and producing, with the possible exception of the settings, has the brand of amateurism. The chief source of poor picture material lies in the fact that the producers of independent pictures have tried to pattern pictures after some successful feature released recently, giving the above results, with a few changes, of course. Its not like you, Majestic. It's best that you amend your methods. Just a fair picture. Played Apr. 10-11. Running time, 65 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

MGM

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy, James Gleason—A mighty poor one day picture. Tracy and Gleason tried hard enough to put it over. Too much Russia and Russians. Absolutely no entertainment in it. Tracy and Gleason both good, but they were unable to make it acceptable entertainment. Played Mar. 26-27. D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy—Shame on you, Leo. At a time when exhibitors are so desperately in need of good pictures you continue to release stuff like this. Mr. Joe Hewitt, the exhibitor from Robinson, Ill., says: "You have some good pictures up your sleeve." Don't know where Joe got this information, but if so—why the devil don't you shake them down. No business on this because it didn't deserve any. Leo hasn't made a dime for me this year. Played Apr. 5. Running time, 70 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

FAST LIFE: William Haines—This picture has everything from speed and thrills to a little romance. Haines and Madge Evans good, but Cliff Edwards steals the whole show. I don't see why they don't put him in more shows. Played Mar. 14-15. Running time, 76 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE: Walter Huston—Yes, it's all they claim for it. Truly a most remarkable picture. Every one of our patrons praised it immensely. However, some dyed-in-the-wool Republicans could not resist saying "Roosevelt" propaganda, so it's advisable to stress in your advertising that the story was written before election and in production at that time and finished before the inauguration, which fact belies any propaganda. We have always recognized Walter Huston for his wonderful ability, but this is his masterpiece. The whole cast is wonderful, and direction, dialogue, etc., of the best. I played this too new. Think I can bring it back later to good business. We have been cussing old Leo for getting lazy and careless. But this makes up for his past mistakes with a mighty roar. It's not a natural at the box office by any means. One reason being the younger set don't enthuse. But nevertheless, it is going to make history. Running time, 88 minutes. Played April 9-10.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

MEN MUST FIGHT: Diana Wynward, Lewis Stone—Just a little better than the average from Metro. But after all—just another picture. After a hard struggle I managed to get film rental out of it. This Wynward woman may be a swell actress, but she looks like all the rest of them to me. Played Mar. 30-31. Running time, 75 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

THE OUTSIDER: All English cast—Not good here. So much for small towns. Lay off. Played Apr. 3-4. —J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

SON DAUGHTER: Ramon Novarro, Helen Hayes—No good for small county patronage. It was a fairly good picture, however. Played Apr. 1.—George Lodge, Green Lantern Theatre, Claymont, Del. Small county patronage.

SON DAUGHTER: Helen Hayes, Ramon Novarro—Strictly a class picture, beautiful in theme, clean as a hound's tooth and one that your audience will be divided on in their opinions of it. But, when you get a picture that has the class that this one has, with all the clamor for clean pictures, you will find that they will not support it the second day. Hence, the picture did not do business. I give up; evidently the picture that has the off-color dialogue has the better chance of doing business. Helen Hayes is all they say of her as an actress and Novarro has the chance to use his voice in one song. The producer has come in for a lot of censorship in the past, but I am convinced after the experience with "Son Daughter" that they know what the public wants better than some of their critics. I hate to come to this conclusion and do it reluctantly, but the facts may as well be faced. They will support what is called snappy dialogue and give a picture like "Son Daughter" the run-around. —A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

WHAT! NO BEER: Buster Keaton, Jimmy Durante—Might have had a good picture had someone else had Durante's part. He's tiresome and patrons were not backward in telling me. Keaton good as usual. Durante is OK for bits but absolutely no good for a prominent part. Played Mar. 25.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

Paramount

THE BIG BROADCAST: Stuart Erwin, Bing Crosby—Still a good picture. It does almost as well now as when first released. We showed it four days to satisfactory business. Played Apr. 2-3-4-5.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. Small town patronage.

FROM HELL TO HEAVEN: Carole Lombard, Jack Oakie—A good picture. Pleased all. Paramount has put out some good shows this season. Played Mar. 29-30.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

HE LEARNED ABOUT WOMEN: Stuart Erwin, Alison Skipworth—Erwin well liked in this community. Merchants put on a final drawing for prizes (not connected in any way with theatre) which increased patronage to best in five months. Played Apr. 1.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Mixed patronage.

KING OF THE JUNGLE: Buster Crabbe, Frances Dee—Here's one mighty fine production, but owing to the eternal cycle of so-called jungle pictures, it is hard to get them in on this, and it's not to be classed as a jungle picture, either. Crabbe made a huge hit with the femmes and men as well. However, they should have shown more of his ability as a swimmer. Animal fights and circus fire climax exceptionally well done. Frances Dee as well as balance of cast superb. Try to offset the jungle angle in your advertising, as they are fed up on ugi-ugi's. Played Mar. 26.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

A LADY'S PROFESSION: Alison Skipworth, Ronald Young, Sari Maritza—Very clever. Lots of comedy. Good entertainment. Bordering on the sophisticated class. Played Mar. 28-29.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN: Thomas Meighan, Marion Nixon, Jack Oakie—Good picture. Played Mar. 25.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Mixed patronage.

NO MAN OF HER OWN: Clark Gable, Carole Lombard—Excellent light entertainment that is sure to please the ladies and there is plenty in it for the men also. Business on this was nothing to brag about.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

SIGN OF THE CROSS: Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudett Colbert—A good small town show. Pleased 90 per cent. Don't pass this up. Played Apr. 7-8.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

HUNTING FOR FILMS SHE CAN INDORSE

"Jaysee is right," says Mrs. G. C. Moore of the American theatre at Harlowton, Mont. "Too many exhibitors sit on the sidelines without expressing themselves, either to commend or criticize.

"For years I enjoyed reading exhibitors' 'What the Picture Did for Me'. I considered it one of the most valuable departments of your magazine. I welcome it back and in the future shall add to it occasionally." And she does. Her first reports will appear next week.

"What is the matter with the industry? How well every small exhibitor knows from his point of view," Mrs. Moore writes. "I often play percentage with local organizations. It isn't hard to find a picture for the Legion boys; they enjoy a snappy comedy and don't notice the raw spots, but try to select one for the Woman's Club, one you can recommend to them that they can recommend! I can't afford to give them the specials. I've played 'Tom Brown of Culver', which was excellent in moral tone. It does seem as if the producers could find some clever comedy-dramas or romances, as they call them now, without putting in something that you wish the censors would eliminate. I have booked the product of ten companies, and I can't find that kind of picture. I'm still reading press sheets and reviews to try to find one."

WOMAN ACCUSED: Cary Grant, Nancy Carroll—Here's good entertainment. It's different. Boost it a little more than usual. Your patrons won't be disappointed. Played Apr. 6-7.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

RKO

CAUGHT PLASTERED: Wheeler and Woolsey—Good comedy and good moral. I think if these birds would get better stories for their pictures they would draw better at the box office. A good many patrons are getting tired of so much nonsense and no story. Played Mar. 19-20. Running time, 60 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix, Ann Harding—An atmospheric picture that has been well produced and in normal times would have made money, but that evidently is a thing of the past. Nothing is getting any money except something like a "State Fair." This season they are few and far between. Just the ordinary run of program pictures that don't mean a thing to the public that is shopping.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix, Ann Harding—A mighty fine production. Dix, Harding, Edna May Oliver and Guy Kibbee are surely good. There were a few remarks that could have been cut out. Running time, 88 minutes. Played March 30-31 and Apr. 1.—Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

HALF NAKED TRUTH: Lee Tracy, Lupe Velez—Again this boy Tracy scores in a fast moving picture of barker at a side show that crashed Broadway. A lot of laughs and plenty to tell your public about. They will go for it strong and tell you about it when they come out. But RKO is not keeping up this average this year. I see by the trade papers that the westerns are losing favor. We have found that to be a fact from two reasons: one, that the farmer trade was the main support of this type of picture and has not now the income to attend many shows, and the other that they have all been cut over the same pattern, not much difference in story and the cast.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. Small town patronage.

HOLD 'EM JAIL: Wheeler and Woolsey—This is the regular Wheeler-Woolsey hokum, screamingly funny, but I do not judge it their best. Played Dec. 23-24. Running time, 74 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mitzi Green—Drew one of the best crowds of the year in spite of a heavy snow storm. Played Mar. 25.—George Lodge, Green Lantern Theatre, Claymont, Del. Small county patronage.

THIRTEEN WOMEN: Irene Dunne—Most audiences will not approve of this picture. Irene Dunne very good in her part. Ricardo Cortez and Myrna Loy also very good but there is no story to the picture. Played Apr. 2-3-4. Running time, 73 minutes. —George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

Tower

EXPOSURE: Lila Lee, Walter Byron—Mediocre newspaper yarn of rivalry existing between two local papers, and their struggle for supremacy, with Byron and Lee in the leading roles. Beautiful and attractive Lee is very good in handling some dramatic moments, but hasn't had an opportunity to display her acting talent since her comeback to the screen. Producers up to this time have not found a suitable role for Byron. Poor dialogue, negligent direction emphasizes the story's numerous improbabilities. Poor, unclean photography amateurish in every respect. Played Apr. 6. Running time, 64 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

United Artists

MR. ROBINSON CRUSOE: Douglas Fairbanks—This picture is most entertaining as well as very instructive. It is a relief from all the gangster picutres. Played Mar. 26-27-28. Running time, 72 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

Universal

THE FOURTH HORSEMAN: Tom Mix—Banking situation here probably responsible for smaller crowds than usually attend westerns. Mix gave usual satisfactory performance. Played Mar. 18.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Mixed patronage.

HIDDEN GOLD: Tom Mix—A very extraordinary picture of the type. It gets away with quite a lot of good comedy which is acceptable in times like this, and action is good, which keeps your interest. It may be gratifying to Mix to know we have been showing his pictures for 15 years, and he draws just as good today as he did in the silent days. Of course, you cannot get top admission, but who wants big admissions. I am getting along at present prices where they were when I started in the business. Played Mar. 30-31 and Apr. 1.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. Small town patronage.

MY PAL THE KING: Tom Mix—Good old Tom Mix. They say westerns are dead, and Tom has joined up with a circus, and Tony has been put on the pasture and we won't get any more of this sort. All of which may be true, but "My Pal the King" grossed just a few dollars less than "Forty-Second Street" and "Sign of the Cross." Stars may come and go, but there will never be another Tom Mix. Showing practically every picture he has ever made, covering a period of seventeen years and each picture making a profit is a pretty good record. So long Tom. Hope you live and prosper. Played Apr. 1. Running time, 60 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

NAGANA: Tala Birell, Melvyn Douglas—A good African picture. Advertise as same. You should get results. Played Apr. 5-6.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

THE OLD DARK HOUSE: Boris Karloff—Good program picture that pleased our patrons. Played Mar. 18.—George Lodge, Green Lantern Theatre, Claymont, Del. Small county patronage.

THE OLD DARK HOUSE: Boris Karloff, Lillian Bond—A good mystery drama that did not draw at this box office. It seems as if the public is fed up on this type of picture, too weird and gruesome in spots. In these trying times the public likes pictures more on the sunny order. Played Mar. 12-13. Running time, 72 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy, Gloria Stuart—Lots of entertainment in this if you can get them in. Tracy is a "wow." This is truly "the funny side of the war." Played Apr. 2-3.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy—An ideal picture to tie up with local American Legions. Tracy was at his best and you know what I mean by that. Some did not like the abrupt ending, but it was natural and did not change his character by having a lovey-dovey romance with some jane for the usual clutch at the end. Played March 29.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED: Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville—Here's a picture that drew and pleased three nights, which is rare nowadays. Universal doesn't pull the good ones out like most producers and their prices to exhibitors are live and let live, which is more than exhibitors can say about most producers. Played Mar. 14-15-16.—C. V. Martina, Playhouse Theatre, Clyde, N. Y. Small town patronage.

Warner

FORTY-SECOND STREET: Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, George Brent—This picture should do a wonderful business in every theatre. The old jinx rain storm just simply ruined it for me, but it's the best all around piece of entertainment from any company this season. Hope you all have better luck with the weather than I did. Played Mar. 23-24. Running time, 90 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

FORTY-SECOND STREET: Warner Baxter, George Brent, Bebe Daniels, Ruby Keeler—At last Warner's have heeded the pleas of the showmen and given us a musical show, and what a show. Gents, here you have an old fashioned rattlebox. Played during the first days of national banking holiday and rain both days. However, in spite of this did a nice business. The publicity of the special train plus the four song numbers plugged over the air has the show well sold before playdate. Write it in your book that Ruby Keeler is made, and if we may hazard a guess will outshine her famous husband. If we could only have a few more like this we would have no worry about banks. Played Mar. 5-6.—H. R. Hisey, State Theatre, Nashville, Ill. General patronage.

I AM A FUGITIVE FROM A CHAIN GANG: Paul Muni—A splendid picture. Comes up to all expectations. Hats off to Warner Brothers. Played Mar. 27-28.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

LAWYER MAN: William Powell, Joan Blondell—A good program picture. Did good business despite depression. Played Mar. 31-Apr. 1.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

TELEGRAPH TRAIL, THE: John Wayne, Marceline Day—This picture is a story of conquest of the west in 1860 and the struggle of pioneers to establish the first telegraph communications from post to post. Filled to the brim with laughter, high pressure thrills, action combining burning wagons, Indians on the warpath, cavalry, desperate battles, daredevil horsemanship, perilous spills, to give the thrill seeking fans all that is desired. A budding romance between Wayne, as the dashing young scout, and Day, prettier than ever, rendering their finest performance to date. A cavalcade of laughs by Frank McHugh, Warner's leading funster and doctor for the blues, is a panic by himself, but teamed with Otis Harlan, they are an unbeatable combination. Albert J. Smith and others balance the cast. We are now confronted with a problem. Latest reports indicate that westerns are on their way out. True there is a decline in market for westerns, but there is no satisfactory reason for eliminating them completely from releasing schedules of motion picture distribution. Peel Mitchel, production manager of Darmour Studios, attributes the decline to the advent of sound and declared it has a tendency to slow up action and lacks old time punch. Well, Mr. Mitchel should get a reserved seat and see "Telegraph Trail" and be convinced that it does not. Our way of looking at it, a more true to life reproduction results with the aid of sound, that increases excitement and thrills and builds up suspense. No hard feelings, Peel. Some producers are modernizing westerns. If they can do it and still retain all the action ncessary, more power to them. Our hat's off to Leon Schlesinger for this production and credit due to directing capability of Tenny Wright. Not a super special but guaranteed entertainment. Warner's leading the field. Played Apr. 7-8. Running time, 55 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

Short Features

Columbia

COLLEGE GIGOLOS: Sunrise Comedy—Not so hot these Sunrise comedies. Don't go over good here. Running time, 18 minutes.—P. G. Held, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

A MELON-DRAMA: Clark & McCullough—Good slapstick comedy. Running time, 17 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

SCRAPPY CARTOONS: Very good. Running time, 8 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

SHAVE IT WITH MUSIC: Very good two reel short. Good music and dancing.—Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

SNOW TIME: Krazy Kat—Very good. So far we haven't had a poor Krazy Kat. They are consistently good. Running time, 8 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

Educational

MICHIGAN: Spirit of the Campus—We like this series very much.—Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

AND JONES SENDS REPORTS REGULARLY

Somebody once had something to say about testing a pudding and concluded that eating it is about the best idea. P. S. Jones of the Star Theatre at North Brookfield, Mass., applies that thought to this department when he says:

"Am taking advantage of your pages "What the Picture Did for Me." This is good. About the best thing in your magazine. I look forward to it. Enclosed find reports."

TORCHY COMEDIES: These comedies are good. Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

Fox

BYWAYS OF FRANCE: Magic Carpet—Not much addition to your program. Just adds footage.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS No. 44-45 : Fox News are much better than they used to be. More and better news than they used to have.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

Master Art Products

RADIO STARS AND ORGANLOGUES: There is a short one reeler that I have seen no comments upon and that are the shorts from the Master Arts Products, Inc., consisting of various radio stars and organlogues. The Mills Bros. have one so far and the well known Radio Mountaineers, Singing Sam, The Street Singer, these are in my opinion the class of the show. Some are in cartoon work. The straight organlogues are not as well liked as the novelties. The best of them certainly fill the bill for a public that wants some sort of musicals instead of the general run of comedies. Many of them are in color. Which adds to their worth.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. Small town patronage.

MGM

BIRTHDAY BLUES: Dickie Moore—The best two reel comedies on the screen today. Moore always steals the pictures. Running time, 20 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

CUBA: FitzPatrick Traveltalk—A good subject of its kind. You will find it OK if your audience like this type of subject. Played Apr. 3-4. G. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

FORGOTTEN BABIES: A good comedy. Pleased young as well as old. Played Apr. 5-6. J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

OVER THE COUNTER: Franklin Pangborn—This is a most beautiful musical revue with pretty girls, snappy songs and lots of wisecracks. All in color. Running time, 18 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

OVER THE COUNTER: Colortone Musical Revue No. 661—Excellent. What more can I say. However, it's pretty "hot."—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

SCRAM: Laurel and Hardy—This is not as good as the rest of the Laurel-Hardy comedies and none of them are too good. Running time, 18 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

SNEAK EASILY: Zazu Pitts, Thelma Todd—Fair. Not as good as most of theirs.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

SNOW BIRDS: Pete Smith—This is a very entertaining reel with jokes by Smith. It shows skiing, skating, and all kinds of tricks done in the winter on the snow and ice. Running time, 12 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

TAXI FOR TWO: Taxi Boys series—This is a little better than some I have run in this series. Will get by.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

THEIR FIRST MISTAKE: Laurel and Hardy—Not their best, but very good. At that it got more laughs than "What! No Beer."—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

TWICE TWO: Laurel and Hardy—This comedy was not up to average from this pair. Played Mar. 31.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

WILD PEOPLE: All star—This musical revue is not as good as the first one in this series. If the rest are like this one, lay off them. All color. Running time, 18 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

RKO

BUGS AND BOOKS: Fables—Excellent cartoon. Music and singing.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

FISH FEATHERS: Edgar Kennedy—A very acceptable comedy. Best of this series we have run.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

THE GOLF CHUMP: Edgar Kennedy—My patrons enjoyed this slapstick comedy as they enjoy all the Kennedy series of comedies. Running time, 19 min-

USE AIR EXPRESS To Save Costly Delays

◆ Whenever a shipping problem leaves no allowance for slip-ups en route, you can depend on Air Express. This high-speed division of Railway Express Agency makes second-morning delivery between Los Angeles and eastern cities commonplace. Equally fast schedules are maintained over the major air lines connecting 85 important centers. ◆ Supplementing these airways are coordinated fast rail schedules to over 23,000 other Railway Express Agency points. Pick-up and delivery without extra charge in leading towns and duplicate receipts safeguard goods in transit. ◆ A 'phone call to your nearest Railway Express Agent will place the full facilities of this nation-wide organization at your disposal. He is familiar with the recently reduced rates and can show you how to take full advantage of Air Express service in reaching any point in the country.

AIR EXPRESS VIA RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY

AIR EXPRESS

Division · Railway Express Agency, Inc.

utes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

HIP ZIP HOORAY: Headliner Comedy No. 3.—Good; it got lots of laughs and that's what we want. —D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

MICKEY'S CHARITY: Mickey McGuire—All of Mickey's comedies are good. My patrons enjoy them. Little Billy is a scream. Running time, 19 minutes.—George W. Luce, Riviera Theatre, Gering, Neb. Small town patronage.

PANICKY PUP: Aesops Fables—Excellent addition to any program.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

United Artists

BABES IN THE WOOD: Silly Symphony.—Very good color short subject.—Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

BUILDING A BUILDING: Mickey Mouse cartoon —Very good.—Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

KING NEPTUNE: Silly Symphony—Didn't like this as well as others.—Boom and DuRand, Lyric Theatre, Ellendale, N. D. Small town patronage.

Universal

THE RADIO TRAIN: Morton Downey—Plenty good on any program.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

Warner Vitaphone

C'EST PARIS: Broadway Brevity—One of the best two reel subjects we have played so far. A small show in itself. Very entertaining. All in color. A credit to any show. Running time, 19 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

DANCING AROUND THE WORLD: Pretty good. Running time, 9 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

RADIO ROW No. 1: Kate Smith, Boswell Sisters—Good. Running time, 8 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

THE RED SHADOW: A good two reel subject. Should fit in on any program. Reaction good. Played Mar. 29-30.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

RIDE 'EM BOSKO: Looney Tune cartoon.—Good. Running time, 8 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

YOU ARE TOO CARELESS WITH YOUR KISSES: Merry Melody cartoon—Very good. The music is good. Running time, 8 minutes.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

Serials

RKO

LAST FRONTIER: Creighton Chaney—So far we have played the first five chapters and we find this serial good. It has a lot of action, fighting and horseback riding.—P. G. Held, New Strand Theatre, Griswold, Iowa. Neighborhood patronage.

San Salvador Exhibitor Reports

What the pictures have done for the Meardi-Hermanos circuit at far-away San Salvador, in El Salvador, Central America, is related by Mr. O. Beer, manager, who, from the Teatro Principal, in a previous letter had proposed a separate listing of reports from foreign exhibitors. Following is Mr. Beer's comment on a number of productions:

AMOR AUDAZ: Paramount all-Spanish version of "Slightly Scarlet," starring Adolphe Menjou—Fine picture. Did good business with it.

BRIDE OF THE REGIMENT, THE: First National, with Myrna Loy and Walter Pidgeon—We got an awful panning after that. Just the picture you want your competitors to release.

COMEDIANTE, EL: Paramount all-Spanish talking, with Ernesto Vilches, Barry Norton, Angelita Benitez—Vilches is great, but this picture was a failure, as our patrons don't want to see old fashions.

CAPTIVA RUBIA: Columbia's "The Blonde Captive"—Released this in the same week in which we had shown two other failures. Had a never-ceasing stream of walk-outs, most of them telling their opinion frankly. There is only one way to please with these pictures, to show them to showmen on the screen of their competitors.

CIMARRON: RKO Radio with Richard Dix, Estelle Taylor, Irene Dunne—Didn't show it. Sent it back. No picture for Latin-America (excepting Argentine). For a western picture not enough action. A place growing from nothing to a village is of no interest in countries which have never known such a thing as the westward-ho movement in U. S. A., except perhaps in Europe, where they like pictures which they don't understand.

CARNET AMARILLO, EL: Fox's dubbed version of "Yellow Ticket," with Lionel Barrymore and Elissa Landi.—Fairly good dialogue, but only average business, as they don't like dubbed versions.

CHAMP, THE: MGM, with Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper—Fine picture but only average business.

DR. JEKYLL and MR. HYDE: Paramount, with Fredric March—Good drawing power. Made considerable business in a dozen shows.

DIXIANA: RKO Radio with Wheeler and Woolsey—Got a lot of complaints on this one. They're tired of always seeing the same stunts.

GRAND HOTEL: MGM with Greta Garbo—Fine picture, but not the right stuff for general patronage in Spanish-America. A good draw the first night, then the nosedive.

HEARTBREAK: Fox, with Charles Farrell and Madge Evans—Fine picture. Pleased everyone.

HOMBRE QUE ASESINO, EL: Paramount all-Spanish talking, with Rosita Moreno, Ricardo Puga and Carlos San Martin—Fine picture. Everything OK, except not enough action to please our patrons.

INDISCREET: United Artists with Gloria Swanson—Didn't release this one. Gloria is no flapper any more, so we sent it back, which cost us some money but didn't hurt business.

LUCES DE BUENOS AIRES: Paramount, all-Spanish talking, with Carlos Cardel, Gloria Guzman and Sofia Bozan—A picture of good drawing power. We exhibit it every month several times and still get good results. In the ABC (Argentina, Brazil, Chile) states (northern Brazil excluded) this picture may be a failure, as it shows Argentina as people in Alaska think it must be, but north of ABC it is a hit.

LA LAY DEL HAREM: Fox all-Spanish talking with Jose Mojica, Maria Alba, Carmen Larrabeiti—One of the best Spanish pictures we ever got. Made good business with it. Will run it again next year.

MOROCCO: Paramount, with Marlene Dietrich—Fine picture. Good business.

MAN OF THE WORLD: Paramount, with William Powell and Carole Lombard—They didn't like it and they expressed their opinion quite frankly.

ONE HOUR WITH YOU: Paramount, with Maurice Chevalier—The best picture we've got from Paramount in the last six months. Pleased 100 per cent.

PLAY BOY OF PARIS: Paramount, with Maurice Chevalier—A good picture but pleased our patrons less than other Chevalier pictures.

PAGLIACCI: Audio-Cinema, with the San Carlo Opera Company—The opera. All-Italian singing. No drawing power. First night average, then the tumble.

PRINCIPE GONDOLERO, EL: Paramount all-Spanish talking, with Roberto Rey and Rosita Moreno —Rey had a good drawing power. They liked the picture, I do not know why.

ROMANCE: MGM with Greta Garbo—No picture for Latin countries. Too many cut-in titles destroy the little bit of interest it could arouse.

SKYLINE: Fox with Thomas Meighan and Maureen O'Sullivan—Both actors have fans at this end. The picture pleased everyone.

SURRENDER: Fox, with Leila Hyams and Ralph Bellamy—Fine picture. Pleased everyone.

SU INTIMO SECRETO: RKO Pathe with Ann Harding—Spanish dubbed version of "Her Private Affair." The worst dubbed version that anyone ever saw in this country and that is something. Why they make such trash instead of sending the English print I cannot understand.

SOMBRAS DE GLORIA: Paramount Spanish all-talking, with Jose Bohr and Mona Rico—Released it first on February 8, 1931, and still exhibit it once a month with good receipts.

SHANGHAI EXPRESS: Paramount with Clive Brook and Marlene Dietrich—Good business the first night, then fell off.

TOM SAWYER: Paramount with Jackie Coogan—Awful dull. Too dull for the kiddies.

VIDAS TRUNCUDAS: Fox Spanish version of "East Lynne," with Conrad Nagel, Ann Harding and Clive Brook—We cannot make any business with dubbed versions.

Improved Projection Carbon Is Offered by Noris Company

Noris Carbon Company has placed on the market a new product following the development of a specially constructed negative in its HI-LO and HI-Intensity carbons. Better light quality is claimed for the new projection carbon. Laboratory and field tests indicated improved amperage, burning hours and image visibility, according to company executives.

SIGNED . . .

Columbia

Richard Cromwell is given new contract. . . . Frank Borzage to direct "Man's Castle." . . . Barry Norton engaged for "Cocktail Hour." . . . "Chic" Sale signs for "Full Speed Ahead." . . . Claude Gillingwater and Edwin Stanley join "Ann Carver's Profession." . . . Gertrude Howard and Buck Moulton signed for "The Fighting Code." . . .

▽

Fox

Harvey Stephens and Henrietta Crosman given contracts. . . . Juliette Compton added to "Berkeley Square." . . . Russell Simpson, Frank Melton, Pat Hartigan, James Burke and Boris Snignoff engaged for "The Power and the Glory." . . . Warner Baxter loaned to Jesse Lasky for an untitled original. . . . Sally Eilers and James Dunn in "Arizona to Broadway," William Tingling to direct. . . . Laura Hope Crewes joins "I Loved You Wednesday," Henry King to direct. . . . Zita Johann and Spencer Tracy in "The American," Hamilton MacFadden to direct. . . .

▽

MGM

Stuart Erwin given new contract; to appear in "Strangers Return." . . . Ted Healy and his company signed for an untitled short subject. . . . Jean Harlow, Clark Gable and Stuart Erwin in "Black Orange Blossoms." . . .

▽

Monogram

Armand Schaeffer signed to direct "Fighting Texans." . . . Bob Steele and Arletta Duncan in "The Gallant Fool," R. N. Bradbury to direct. . . .

▽

Paramount

Mari Colman, player, and Boris Petroff, given contracts. . . . Rita LaRoy and Morgan Wallace added to "Song of Songs." . . . Greta Meyer signed for "Jennie Gerhardt." . . . Edward Nugent and Alberta Vaughn join "College Humor." . . . Noah Beery added to "Sunset Pass." . . . Stuart Walker to direct "The Eagle and the Hawk." . . .

▽

RKO Radio

Joel McCrea, Constance Bennett, Sam Hinds and Pert Kelton in "Bed of Roses." . . . John Marston signed for "Jamboree." . . . Joel McCrea and Dorothy Jordan assigned to "Three Came Unarmed." . . . Harry Gribbon and Joseph Cawthorn in "A Divorce Courtship," George Stevens directing (two reels). . . . Mary Carr, June Brewster, Eddie Borden and Garry Owen join "Flying Circus." . . . Elizabeth Allen borrowed from MGM for "Ad Man." . . . Edgar Kennedy and Frank Darien cast for "Careless." . . .

▽

Universal

Harry Pollard to direct "The Good Red Bricks." . . .

▽

Warner-First National

Frankie Darro signed for "Wild Boys of the Road." . . .

Goldstein Back from London With New Series of Features

Manny Goldstein, formerly of Universal, returned to New York last week from London, where he concluded arrangements whereby he will represent British and Dominions, Ltd., in the United States. Mr. Goldstein brought with him a series of 100 features for immediate release. He will make headquarters at 729 7th Avenue.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

BILL JOHNSTON REMEMBERS— AND FORECASTS

HALF a decade ago William A. Johnston, as editor and publisher of Motion Picture News, helped institute the Managers' Round Table Club, which has grown to include thousands of exhibitors in every part of the globe. No wonder that it "seems like old home week," as he terms it in his article as Guest Editor this week. From the days of 1913, when he entered the industry, Mr. Johnston tersely and picturesquely reviews the span of showmanship years and points several invaluable gleanings from that vast experience. And so is added another thought to those being expressed by our Guest Editors, and the "Welcome" sign heads the Department, for expression of showman opinion on this and all other pages of the Club section. To the swelling role of Guest Editors signed for the page we add these names this week: BEN COHEN, South Manchester, Conn.; PETE EGAN, Calgary, Alberta, Canada; E. M. HART, Plainfield, N. J.; JACK O'CONNELL, Toledo, Ohio; JAKE ROSENTHAL, Des Moines, Iowa; ANNA BELL WARD, Lexington, Ky.; DICK WRIGHT, Akron, Ohio; LEO YOUNG, Lynchburg, Va.

I HAVE been invited, as a guest editor, to send a message to the members of the Round Table Club; and the invitation is most welcome.

It seems like old home week.

It is some five years since I helped found the Club in the pages of Motion Picture News. And it is with great gratification that I have seen it grow into many members and many pages of useful and cordial interchange of ideas on the part of the up and coming personalities in the exhibitor body.

Since the Club was founded, much water, violent at times, has gone under the mill of our business. Today the stream seems low and muddy.

But it will clear and rise again. That is certain. The signs are in the skies.

And the miller—the right kind of miller—will be prosperous again.

I entered the picture business in 1913.

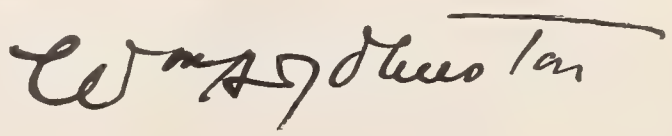
Looking back from today, I can see the business building from broad foundations up to a perilous peak—and now going back from that unsafe peak to the broad and secure foundations from which it arose.

The good and solid foundations of the business were these: independent exhibitors, independent exchanges, independent producers.

But consolidation went altogether too far. And the forces were not those of economic sanity: they were the human errors of selfishness, greed, vanity, extravagance.

Today we're getting back to earth—to the healthful and broad basis of individual operation, in which a good man can make good.

We lost a lot of good men in the spasm of consolidation. Now they're back—on the job, their shoulders to the wheel. I welcome such old and personal friends as E. V. Richards, W. S. Butterfield, R. B. Wilby, W. C. Quimby, E. J. Sparks, Karl Hoblitzell, A. H. Blank, Harry Arthur, Mike Comerford, Tom Saxe, John Harris, Mike Shea and along with them all that host of competent district and house managers, who have held their own against stiff odds.



The picture business has nothing whatever to fear except from itself. Television is several years off. Radio today, from a production standpoint, is just as crude in entertainment values as were motion pictures in their early days, when people couldn't forget that they were movies and see in them, as they do today, an expression of life itself.

But in any event, radio and television are not going to keep people home. On the contrary, they will whet the picture theatre appetite—if pictures and picture theatres only meet that appetite with attractive fare.

Speaking for Hollywood, where I have lived the past few years, I wish that the studios had more exhibitor contact—much more. Production heads ought to work shoulder to shoulder with those seasoned theatre men whose keen contact with the public tells them what stories and personalities the audience is alive to. There ought to be more such theatre men right at the studios.

And speaking for New York, where I have been the past few days, I wish there were something of the old time spirit when ideas popped overnight and the days were full of striving after some new stunt to keep the public intrigued and hold the picture banner to the fore.

Thanks, and good wishes.

DICK KIRSCHBAUM'S LOBBY LAFFS!

We suppose Earl's implication is that the lady in the cartoon is displaying about the same intelligence as the average movie goer.

VARIETY OF STUNTS WON SECOND AWARD FOR DAVID CANTOR

Stunts, cooperative tie-ups, contests, window and lobby displays, novelties and extensive use of special and newspaper advertising, featured the campaign that netted David Cantor, manager of the Aberdeen Theatre, Aberdeen, Wash., second award in the recent "Prosperity" campaign sponsored by the M-G-M exploitation department. A resume of his efforts follows:

Four days prior to playdate one-inch ads were spotted throughout the leading local paper. Copy was changed each day, as per "It's Just Around the Corner"; "Everyone Wants Prosperity"; "It's Here—'Prosperity.'" A classified tie-up was also promoted with cooperation of the local newspaper, in which readers were asked to assemble words in ads representing a complete sentence and participate in a guest ticket offer. Three 2x4 inch ads were secured gratis in connection with this.

The "Prosperity" contest as outlined in the press book was planted with another newspaper which published 10 cuts featuring Marie Dressler in scenes from former successes. Readers were asked to name the title of the pictures and the opposite players from which each scene was taken and share in awards of guest tickets. This stunt created a lot of valuable publicity.

In line with an agreement with one of the newspapers considerable gratis publicity was secured by the promotion of 250 inches of paid space from local merchants who clubbed together for the promotion of a co-op ad. Much of the free space obtained was devoted to "The Life of Marie Dressler," with 2-col. art and a copy of a proclamation made in behalf of "Prosperity" by the Mayor of Aberdeen.

After obtaining the proclamation from the Mayor permission was granted the theatre management to decorate the streets with electrolier standard shields three feet high, each one carrying a caricature head of Dressler and copy, "Prosperity Is Here."

Public announcements included daily broadcasts over a local radio station, embracing an anagram contest in which words were compiled from letters spelling the title; announcements from the local boxing arena ring, featuring "the battle of the century between the two foremost heavy-weight personalities, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran," and another announcement at a local fraternal gathering.

Since "wooden money" was actually in circulation in the Northwest, a quantity of very thin veneer was obtained gratis from a local lumber company cut to the exact size of the wooden currency and carried the copy: "Good for $1,000,000 in Laughs." Each piece was marked for identification in award of guest tickets.

Additional efforts included display of "Prosperity" snipes in empty store windows; display of special six-foot-high head of Dressler at "Prosperity" luncheons; display of locally created telegram from Dressler in Western Union window and additional blown-up copy for lobby; telephone campaign for all subscribers in directory; imprinting of soda fountain and restaurant menus, and use of trailer two weeks in advance.

It is evident that Cantor covered considerable ground when waging the campaign outlined above and here's the Club's congratulations for coming out second best in the M-G-M drive for best results on this picture.

HEAVY CAMPAIGN ON "OLIVER TWIST" AT BROADWAY PLAYHOUSE

Monogram Pictures Corporation, we are told by Mike Simmons, director of publicity, will execute a heavy exploitation campaign in behalf of "Oliver Twist," current feature at the Rivoli, New York City. The campaign will enlist the cooperative efforts of some 400 merchants in the city.

Through the offices of the Kaynee Company, manufacturers of Oliver Twist Suits, 300 shops will feature Rivoli window cards and stills of Dickie Moore. Saks' 34th Street store is sponsoring a free drawing for giveaways of suits and has taken 500-line display ads on the stunt in leading newspapers.

Grosset and Dunlap, publishers, are featuring "Oliver Twist" displays in 37 book shops. Sardi's Restaurant is serving a special "Oliver Twist" menu, with dishes named after various characters in the cast. The American News Co. has arranged for "Oliver Twist" Jig Saw Puzzle displays in various railroad depots in and around New York. Putnam's Book Shop, Fifth Avenue at 45th Street, is featuring a display of the original architectural drawings of the production sets. Each of the displays features the Rivoli credit and date of showing.

JOHN J. O'NEILL

well known showman of upper New York State and a former manager of the Eastman Theatre, Rochester, N. Y., has succeeded Harold Raives as manager of the Publix-Regent, also in Rochester. Raives has been recalled to New York City.

Showman's Calendar

MAY

1st to 7th	National Egg Week May Day—Child Health Day Dewey's Victory in Manila—1898
2nd	Stonewall Jackson Shot—1863
5th	Napoleon's Death—1821
6th	Robert Peary Born—1854 (Discoverer of North Pole)
7th	Lusitania Torpedoed by Germans—1915 Gary Cooper's Birthday
8th to 13th	National Raisin Week (Sponsored by California Raisin Festival Association) Arbor Day (R. I.)
9th	Commander Byrd at North Pole—1926 Richard Barthelmess' Birthday
10th	Confederate Memorial Day
11th	Minnesota Admitted to Union—1858

THESE PARKING TIE-UP IDEAS WILL WIN SPRING AUTO TRADE!

Importance of Catering To Auto Trade Is Now Recognized by All Live-Wire Showmen; Cash In On It Yourself!

INCREASED auto traffic that comes with warm weather makes parking a problem at many theatres.

Parking can prove a vital factor in grosses. If patrons find it difficult to leave their cars safely and conveniently near the theatre, many of them will stay away.

This is no idle theory, pulled out of the ozone. Actual experience of many exhibitors have found it to be true. In Chicago, for instance, several chain houses have actually gone to the expense of constructing huge parking lots nearby.

In most instances, however, this will not be necessary. A tie-up with a parking lot or garage in the vicinity can do the trick.

Tie-ups That Worked

Last year a manager in a Kentucky town successfully sold a garage on parking theatre patrons' cars for nothing during the early spring. The thought behind this arrangement was to get patrons of the theatre in the habit of parking their cars regularly at that garage. Later, the garage charged 25 cents and increased its parking grosses 500 per cent.

In any tie-up of this kind, the garage should be induced to charge theatre patrons half or less the usual price, provided they present a claim check stamped at the box-office.

Where it is impractical to ask patrons to pay for parking, the best plan is to arrange for the theatre to pay a few cents per car. A couple of Colorado chain houses found last year that this idea was worthwhile. They discovered that the average cost for parking 1,000 cars a week was between five and six cents each and that each car brought an average of three patrons. It is probable that many of those 3,000 patrons would have stayed away had it not been for the parking privilege.

Attendant

In most successful parking tie-ups, especially where the lot or garage is not located next to the theatre, it is always stipulated that the garage have a uniformed attendant in front of the theatre to drive patrons' cars away and bring them back.

Where this is not feasible because of traffic congestion, arrange to have the garage run a special auto of its own between the theatre and parking space.

At the very least, some such arrangement as this should be made for rainy days.

Publicity

The parking tie-up ought to be given plenty of publicity so that patrons can understand it fully.

Through pre-arranged interviews with the police or director of public safety, newspaper stories can be obtained along the line of that theatre, through its parking arrangement, in helping to relieve traffic congestion in crowded streets.

The garage or parking lot should put up signs announcing the tie-up and also current theatre attractions. From time to time the garage will find it worth while to run co-operative newspaper ads or distribute heralds.

The theatre might also find it profitable to run a trailer and a panel in its own ads.

If you put this over successfully and have any further ideas of your own, pass them along to us.

Parking can be made a valuable asset to every theatre with facilities to handle or look after patrons' cars. But to get the most out of the idea, you must know what it is all about. Here it is; read it through and then get busy.

Guest Tickets Slant

One theatre was able to make a parking tie-up on better than usual terms by throwing in a few guest tickets per week. Claim checks stamped by the cashier were numbered consecutively. Patrons holding claim checks with lucky numbers were given a guest ticket for the next week.

The advantage of this stunt lay not only in the word of mouth and interest built up, but also in the fact that the person holding the guest ticket would invariably drive in with friends when using the guest ticket.

Stamping Claim Check

Experience of various exhibitors with parking tie-ups has shown that it is important to have claim checks stamped by the theatre's cashier. Otherwise non-patrons will attempt to take advantage of the free parking or reduced rates. The claim check should be produced by the patron when purchasing tickets.

Source of Patronage

Parking tie-ups offer an invaluable chance for theatres to determine the source of their auto patronage. Many houses advertise current attractions in suburban communities without ever knowing just how many patrons this advertising attracts.

In one Chicago house the manager overcame this problem by having his doorman check numbers of license plates of cars driving up to the theatre. By checking back against the numbers of the plates he was able to determine the heaviest source of suburban patronage. Naturally, after that, he knew just where suburban advertising was most effective.

Another manager in the same city made a similar compilation. He found that 13 per cent of the cars came from villages and suburbs outside of Chicago, eight to 25 miles away. He supplemented this check with another from the records of his Lost and Found department, revealing that six and a half per cent of the claims were from people also residing in villages and suburbs outside city limits. This information was illuminating.

Here Are Many Ways of Tackling This Idea and Putting It Over Successfully; Now See What You Can Do With It!

If in your particular community, the car numbers will not reveal this valuable information, it can be obtained by asking patrons to write names and addresses on claim checks. This, by the way, will also help in building a suburban mailing list.

Advantages of Parking

It is worthwhile enumerating advantages to a theatre that provides parking:

1. Experience shows each car brings an average of three patrons. Every time the driver cannot find a place to put his car safely, the theatre loses not one patron, but three.
2. Parking facilities in congested traffic spots draws appreciable suburban trade.
3. Parking privileges build good will both of patrons and city officials by reducing traffic problems in the neighborhood of the theatre.
4. Seen as a service offered patrons, parking privileges increase the institutional merit of the theatre.
5. To be fully entertained, patrons must have peace of mind. A car-owner cannot enjoy the show if he is worried about the safety of his auto.

Selling Arguments

When approaching the garage or parking lot, use these slants to get best possible arrangements for the tie-up:

1. The theatre draws more people to the vicinity than any other business.
2. A theatre tie-up with trailer mention is excellent advertising for the garage.
3. People will get in the habit of using the garage or parking lot tied in, even when not coming to the theatre.
4. The arrangement will increase grosses of the garage not only through parking, but also by sale of gas, oil and auto accessories to the parkers.

AD MAT SERVICE

COMPLETE NEWSPAPER CAMPAIGNS (10 Ads) on all nationally released feature pictures sent from one source.

Also

A MONTHLY GENERAL SERVICE of seasonal and attention-getting borders, ads, miscellaneous slugs, etc.

Centralized Service insures Economy.. and Efficiency. . . New low service charge to meet reduced budgets.

Write to

UNITED THEATRE ADVERTISERS, Inc.
330 WEST 42nd STREET, NEW YORK CITY

BARNES' LIVE-WIRE BALLYHOO PARADE!

CONSIDERABLE of a campaign was waged on "Kid From Spain" by Frank Barnes, manager of the Booth Theatre, Independence, Kas. The following brief account will convey a pretty fair idea of the amount of ground he covered.

One week before opening the cashier, doorman and usherettes wore Spanish uniforms with ribbon across breasts reading, "The Kid From Spain," all promoted without cost to the theatre. One thousand heralds were distributed, 500 sent out on mailing list and the balance house-to-house. Ads and readers were carried in six country newspapers.

Tie-ups included two music stores for the plugging of the three songs featured in the picture; two book stores for the Hemingway bull fighting book, with special displays from the Scribner Publishing Company; taxi company for tire cover ads; drug store for "Eddie Cantor's New Game," with special displays from Parker Bros., Salem, Mass.; four window displays of lingerie worn by chorus in picture, from Modern Merchandising, New York; three restaurants and four drug stores for serving "Kid From Spain" specials, and a special window display from Greydberg, New York, for "Collo Ribbon" worn by leading lady.

Ballyhoos and other advance work included special Columbia records by Cantor for bally one week before opening; use of six-part radio program furnished by exchange by local broadcasting orchestra, with playdate announcements; special atmospheric lobby; Spanish dance on stage three days before opening with announcement on "Mike," all promoted free; street bally of man in Spanish costume and sign on picture; featuring of song hits by band act night before opening, with announcement by band leader.

The accompanying photo shows a scene from the parade staged one day prior to playdate, which was headed by the High School band and followed by cashier, doorman and usherettes in Spanish uniforms. Bringing up the rear a drum corps and a man leading a cow with signs on both sides reading "This Is no Bull—See Eddie Cantor in 'Kid From Spain,'" and another band. The drum corps also paraded in front of the theatre on opening night.

Without a doubt Barnes stepped out and worked up a corking campaign and he was justly rewarded by excellent business as the results of his efforts. Thanks to him for passing along the many good suggestions and we'll hope to set down a lot more information from this hustling showman out in Independence.

Abrahams Doing Good Work

Excellent ad layouts are being turned out by Sanford M. Abrahams, in charge of advertising for Warner theatres in Albany, N. Y., of which work done in connection with "20,000 Years in Sing Sing", was a good example. Taking advantage of the fact that mats of original ads turned out by the home office can be cut apart and used in many various sizes and shapes, Abrahams used this knowledge to excellent ends.

KATE SMITH POSTER MADE LARGEST JIG-SAW, SAYS BRENNER

That the jig-saw puzzle craze would be capitalized upon by many enterprising Club members is evidenced in each day's mails from different sections of the country. Here's one made from a three-sheet by Ray Brenner, manager of the Princess Theatre, Newcastle, Ind., and billed as the world's biggest jig-saw (it was a three-sheet of Kate Smith, in case any brother Round Tabler questions Ray's contention).

There's a gag in this one relates to guest tickets for those who put together sections of the picture, but to show patrons that the proper assembly could be made it was placed on display in the lobby, all pieces in place, for three days before mixing up the approximately 1,000 pieces. Incidentally, the newspaper carried a front-page story on this phase of the stunt.

All one had to do was to ask the doorman for the opportunity to try his or her skill on the puzzle and an envelope containing 10 sections was handed out, with the conditions that if all pieces were correctly assembled the patron was entitled to a guest ticket. As to eliminations, so as to not give out too many guest tickets, we'll leave it to Mr. Average Showman to dope out the solution. The same thing has been done many times in similar stunts and give-aways and doesn't call for any particular ingenuity. The ratio can be varied to suit the situation and most any one, two or three sheet on any picture can be adapted to the occasion. An attractive lobby display, such as used by Brenner to display the intact puzzle, should be easy to fashion and will materially help sell the idea.

As Brenner states, there are no receiverships at the present time in the jig-saw puzzle business; so take a tip from him and cash in on the gag before the public becomes tired of it and turns to a new form of amusement. Thanks to him for his contributions.

ROBB & ROWLEY'S UNIT SHOW TRUCK!

Photo above shows unit show truck used by the Robb and Rowley Circuit of Texas. When this shot was taken the vehicle was out doing its stuff on "Frisco Jenny" and, in addition to advertising copy, carried a large blow-up of a Ruth Chatterton still which attracted a great deal of attention. The announcer's advertising spiel came through a large amplifier atop the truck. Left to right in photo are: H. J. Ochs, manager of the Warner-Dallas branch; C. W. Jones, head booker for R. & R.; Leon Grandjean, publicity director and designer of the truck, and Delaney Sexton, assistant booker for the circuit.

DUKE HICKEY BUSY WITH MANAGERS IN MIDDLE WEST ZONE

Latest word concerning Duke Hickey, Universal exploiteer, discloses that this energetic showman has been working out in the middle West on "Nagana" and "Air Mail."

He and John Joseph, the latter with RKO, put over quite a flash and some special bally on the former picture. On top of the marquee of the State-Lake Theatre, Chicago, they rigged a life-size display after the manner of a sequence in the film showing a man protecting a girl and in the act of heaving a spear at a lion. The background consisted of a hut, forms of other animals and real palms. Again following out a sequence a real girl was tied to a tree underneath the marquee, with crocodile cut-out at her feet. When the weather was bad a cut-out of girl was substituted. The street bally consisted of man dressed in costume of a witch-doctor and girl in "safari" outfit. At times the two stood at either side of the box office and passed out literature.

When working with Manny Shure, manager of the Palace Theatre over in Cincinnati, Ohio, a special lobby and a number of window displays played an important part in the campaign waged on "Air Mail." All kinds of flying equipment, motor parts, propellers, etc., were exhibited in the lobby, while the windows were dressed with large cut-outs, miniature planes, stills and a collection of conceled air mail envelopes.

This is the first peep we've had from the Duke in several weeks and we're glad to know he's up and doing. As his stationery indicates, he is always "en route," so next time the Club reports on his activities it will undoubtedly concern some other distant point on the map.

Concerning "Rasputin"

The following activities have taken place in connection with exploitation on "Rasputin":

In Cleveland, Boston, Pittsburgh and Chicago a serial biography of the three Barrymores has been used to good effect, as well as a special radio drama prepared by the home office staff.

In these same cities libraries have prepared special lists of books dealing with the life of Rasputin; tie-ups made with dealers distributing the American Magazine, which has been running a series on the Barrymore family; Russian orchestras have been featured in lobbies; tie-ups made with transportation concerns for special excursion rates to witness picture; special window displays in prominent stores; identification contests; taxi tire cover tie-ups; advertising via banner trailed by 'plane, and we've already told you about a gag that was pulled in Washington, D. C., whereby a banner was placed across the entrance of the Russian Embassy during the late hours.

For Your Broadcaster!

Universal's exploitation department has prepared a fifteen minute radio script containing dramatic highlights of "Nagana." In this announcement from the home office it is suggested that the exhibitor cooperate with the local radio station in recruiting a home talent cast for the playlet, thus eliminating cost of professional services.

NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK!

(May 7th to 14th)

This annual event offers tremendous possibilities for live-wire showmen who are quick to grasp at every opportunity to capitalize on anything to stimulate interest in the theatre and its box office.

Tie-ups with various musical organizations, choral unions, community singing groups, local orchestra, school orchestra, etc., etc. Give over one night a week to furthering the local interest in music, but avoid anything in the popular field.

Appropriate short sbjects should be booked and advertised. All special stage events used in connection with this special week should also be well publicized. You'll find that it will go great with most of the folks in the town and especially the real music lovers.

SERRAO WAGED FINE CAMPAIGNS ON TWO CURRENT PICTURES

Two effective campaigns, one on "If I Had a Million" and the other on "Private Jones," were recently made by D. Serrao, manager of the Kittanning Theatre Company, Kittanning, Pa.

Work on the former featured an essay contest on what one would do if bequeathed a million dollars. Two passes, one good for thirty days, and two each for the next ten best essays, were awarded among the many who submitted answers not exceeding 100 words.

(Note cut out of Tracy over marquee)

Another stunt tied-up with the local newspaper, which ran a two-column story inviting readers to run through the ads, make a list of costliest items and send same to editor in order to participate in award of guest tickets for picking highest totals. A deep four-column ad plugged the idea.

Still another excellent plug was obtained through promotion of a deep three-column ad for a local bank, which carried the photo of a baby and sold the idea that all parents ought to start a savings account for their child or children. Copy also pointed out what amount one dollar would produce if compounded semi-annually for 20 years and guest tickets were offered to parents of children born that week.

The whereabouts of "Private Jones" was the main gag used to publicize that picture and we have Serrao's word for it that people all over town were stopping each other in stores of local merchants to tap the right man on the shoulder and get a free pair of tickets to the show. Tickets were left in most of the stores for this emergency.

The newspaper backed the gag up with generous publicity. Heralds in the form of a censored letter from "Jones" to his pal were given wide distribution. The accompanying photo will convey a fair idea of the effective lobby display and front that Serrao used. Note the huge cutout head surrounded by lights on upper portion of building.

Now that this Club member has completed his college course and is devoting full time to theatre duties we believe his fellow Round Tablers will be kept more regularly posted on his show-selling activities; at least, we have his word for this and will look forward to his next contribution.

OTTO MEISTER STILL GOING STRONG WITH SPECTACULAR FRONTS

With a reputation for never resorting to half-way measures when decorating the front of his theatre to advertise an attraction. Otto Meister, impresario of the Whitehouse Theatre, Milwaukee, built a large prison cage across the front on the occasion of playing "Penal Code." Two dummies dressed in convict uniforms were placed inside. Stone effect painted on compoboard placed in the several large panels of the front added more atmosphere.

We've shown you photos of Meister's house before so it will scarcely be news to let his fellow showmen know he built another spectacular front. They say Otto has a storeroom with almost as many props as in Cain's famous warehouse in New York City, and he drags them out as the occasion warrants.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS TO THESE MEMBERS!

W. H. Akin
James Anderson
Jack E. Alger
J. Noble Arnold
Jack E. Austin
Henry Bettendorf
Merle R. Blair
Ben Bloomfield
R. Borst
Walter B. Carroll
T. C. Clement
Loren S. Cooper
William E. Cooper
L. J. Dandeneau
Charles D. Denny
S. A. Gilman
Harry Greenman
Archie B. Holt
Victor E. Hudson
J. T. Hughes
Al Jacobs
Jack Johannson
J. J. Kalix
Gene Kearney
S. B. Lewis
Lou Lippmann
Lou Lautman
Leslie C. McEachern
J. E. McKinstry
J. P. Martin
J. S. MacNeill
Clarence F. Millett
Alberto Monroy
B. J. Ostrow
Leon Pickle
James G. Polak
O. B. Prickett
Frank Schellinger
Roger Scherer
Milton Schosberg
E. E. Seibel
H. B. Schuessler
George G. Seymour
Frank Shaffer
Max Silverwatch
Benjamin J. Smart
Martin G. Smith
Lou Stern
Robert W. Sullivan
Hazel Van Allen
Jack Van Borssum
J. H. Voerster
A. J. Wagner
Ben Weschner

personalities

HARRY POTTER
has been transferred from the B&K Granada (closed) to management of the State, Oak Park, Chicago, succeeding A. C. Binnenfield, who is now at the Essaness-Vogue.

SOL BRAGIN
formerly B&K booker of shorts for Famous-Canadian, is now at the helm of McVickers-Loop, Chicago.

MILTON LEVY
until recently with the B&K publicity force in Chicago, is now in charge of the Commercial Theatre, same city.

AL LEONRAD
has been transferred from the assistant manager's post at the Marbro Theatre, Chicago, to a similar job at the Berwyn, Berwyn, Ill.

DAVE BALABAN
of the B&K outfit, is again on the job after several weeks' illness.

HARRY ASHER
is managing the B&K Regal, de luxe colored house on Chicago's South Side.

SAM M. REICHBLUM
operator of theatres in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, recently acquired the Menlo Theatre, Charleroi, Pa.

TED STANFORD
has been named manager of the Warner-Egyptian Theatre, Milwaukee, succeeding Louis Lutz, who recently replaced Bubby Somers at Appleton, Wis.

WILLIAM MILLER
is in charge of the reopened Metropolitan Theatre, Cincinnati, Ohio.

BURTON LONDON
circuit operator, has reopened the Lincoln Square Theatre, Detroit.

CARL HELLMAN
and Joe Gresser recently contributed $400 to the Bandit's Relief Fund as the result of a hold-up.

JOSEPH HERMAN
until recently in charge of the Glenwood Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., has been transferred to the Embassy, same city. John Ward, former assistant manager and treasurer of the Glenwood, went with Herman.

BOB GARY
former manager of the Strand and Garden Theatres, Des Moines, has been transferred to the Paramount, Des Moines, taking Bill Mick's place. Art Farrell has been named assistant.

DON ALLEN has been appointed manager of the Strand, Des Moines, with Kermit Carr as assistant.

ROCKY NEWTON
is the new city manager of Publix houses in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Ted Emeson will have charge of the State Theatre here.

DON THORNBURG
owner-manager of the Family Theatre, Marshalltown, Iowa, has also taken lease on the Strand, formerly controlled by Publix, and will put the house on a first-run policy.

RUFUS BLAIR
has joined Joe Leo as publicity man for the Fox Theatre, San Francisco.

HERBERT GROVE
was recently appointed by Charles G. Branham, division manager, city manager for Publix in the cities of Davenport, Rock Island and Moline. George Bickford will manage the Fort Theatre, Rock Island; John Black, the Garden, Davenport; Emmett Lockhart, the Le Claire, Moline, and John McKay, the Spencer, Rock Island.

J. C. STAPEL
vice-president of the MPTO of Missouri-Kansas, has installed RCA equipment at his Paramount Theatre, Rockport, Mo.

EVERT PENNINGTON
manager of the Cozy, independent theatre, Topeka, Kan., has inaugurated a new policy of first-run pictures first four days of the week and second-run the latter half. Admission remains at 15 cents for adults and a nickel for the kiddies. Business is good with the new policy and low prices, it is said.

JOE NELSON
has reopened the Liberty at Webb City, Okla., with new sound equipment.

R. A. GILL
has opened his new theatre at Nacogdoches, Tex. The house is modern in every respect and equipped with the latest in modern sound apparatus.

G. E. CHRISTIANSON has taken over the operation of the Ritz at DeSmet, N. D., which was formerly operated by J. Eidelstein.

M. B. HAWLEY
has purchased the Cozy at Hope, N. D., from Ferguson and Thompson.

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

Please enroll me in the Club and send me my framed certificate.

NAME _____

POSITION _____

THEATRE _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

DATE OF BIRTH _____

(Mail to Managers' Round Table Club, 1790 Broadway, New York)

CHARLES ROTH
former manager of Warner's New Theatre, Staunton, Va., is now at the helm of the Virginia Theatre, Harrisburg, Va.

VERNON WOOTEN
assistant manager for Athen Theatres in Deland, Fla., opened up the house a short time ago and discovered that yeggs had decamped with two days' receipts.

JOHN GOMES
who has had wide experience in management of neighborhood houses, recently took over the De Luxe, San Francisco.

ESMUND PARKER
vice-president of the Consolidated Amusement Company, Honolulu, T. H., has returned home, following a business trip to San Francisco.

BOB HAZEL
long recognized for his fine work as manager of the Tulare Theatre, Tulare, Calif., and recently engaged in publicity work at San Francisco, has taken over the Premier Theatre, Santa Clara.

A. CHARLES HAYMAN
operator of the Lafayette Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., has taken back the Strand and Cataract in Niagara Falls, formerly operated by Fox-Skouras. The Strand will feature vaudeville and pictures and the Cataract will adhere to a straight picture policy.

C. T. PERRIN
formerly with Publix in Greeley, Colo., has replaced Paul Hendry at the helm of the Paramount Theatre, Provo, Utah. Hendry has been assigned assistant to Jack Marpole at the Paramount, Salt Lake City.

JOHN L. FRANCONI
who has been operating the Grand and Lyric Theatres, Ennis, Texas, for the past two years, has announced that the houses are being turned back to former owner, John M. Sayeg.

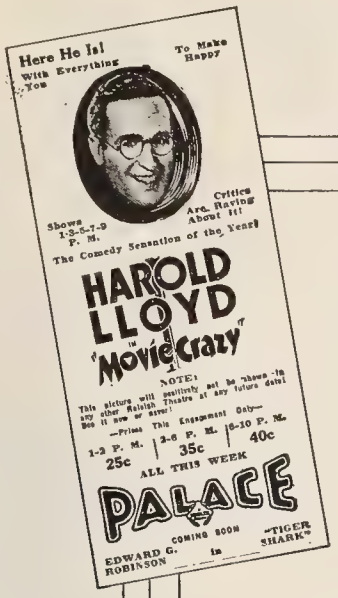
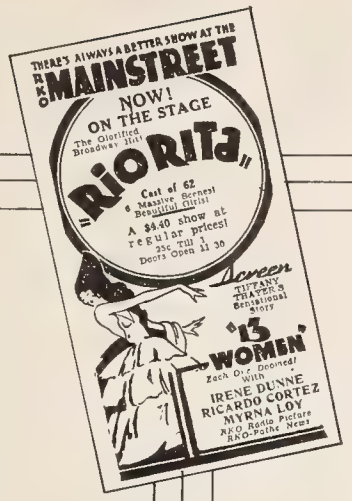
B. P. McCORMICK has leased the Jones Theatre, Canon City, Colo., from Fox Theatres.

E. J. SHULTE
owner-operator of three theatres in Caspar, Wyoming, was recently elected president of the Caspar Chamber of Commerce.

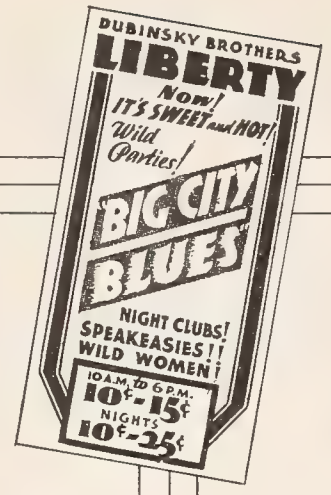
FRAN MILES
has reopened the Gem Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho, a house formerly operated by W. Stephens and dark for some time.



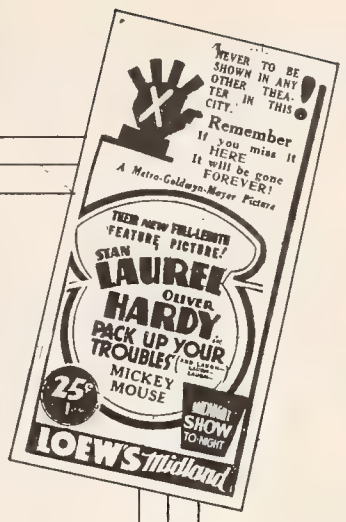
PHIL CHAKERES
head of the Chakeres-Warner chain of theatres, with headquarters at Springfield, Ohio, is personally looking after the Regent, a Springfield unit.



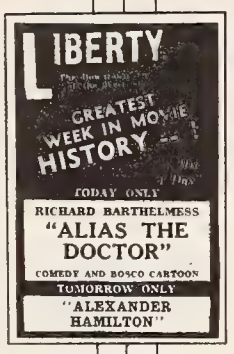
DON CONLEY
and Harry Sterans, former film salesmen, have reopened the Alhambra Theatre, Thermopolis, Wyo.



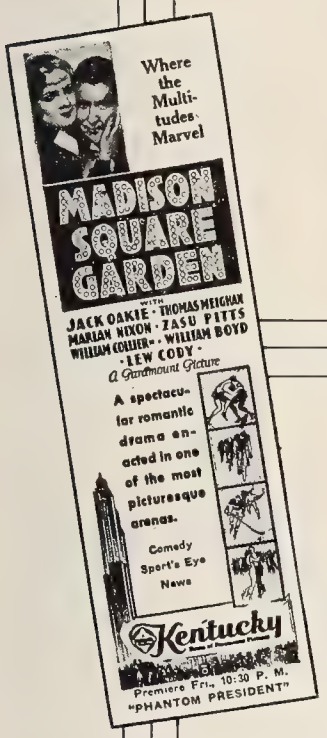
IRV' WATERSTREET
formerly divisional advertising manager for Publix in Omaha territory, has been assigned management of the Victory Theatre, Salt Lake City.

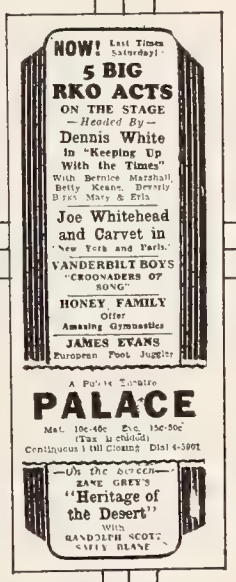


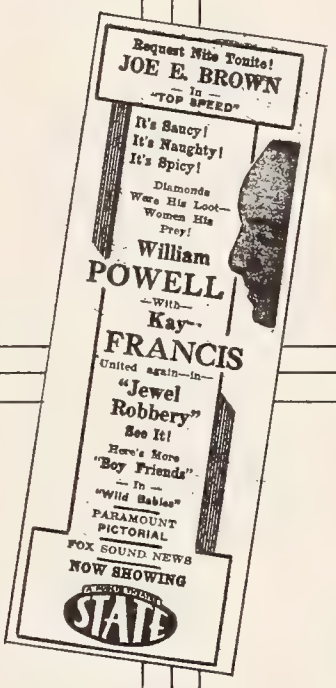
MARK SILVER
recently associated with Wilmer & Vincent interests in Pennsylvania, is now managing the Rex Thatre, East Rutherford, N. J.

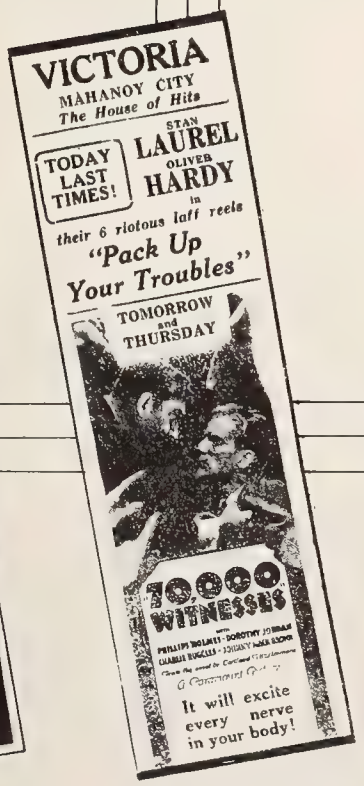


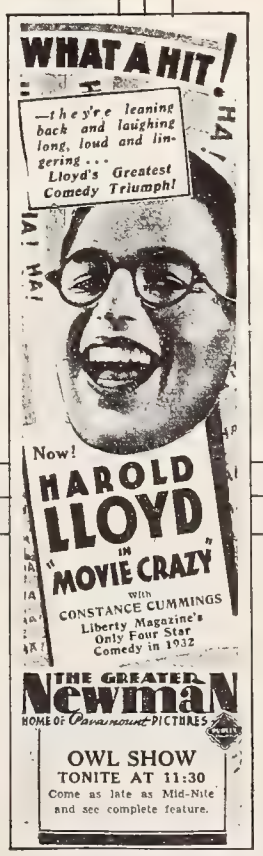
SMALL SPACE ADS MUST OF NECESSITY OCCUPY THE ATTENTION OF ALL SHOWMEN WHO HAVE TO MEET ABREVIATED BUDGETS OR BATTLE WITH HIGH SPACE-RATES. HERE IS A COLLECTION SELECTED AT RANDOM FROM LOCATIONS ALL OVER THE COUNTRY NOT BECAUSE THEY ARE PARTICULARLY OUTSTANDING BUT BECAUSE THEY ARE TYPICAL OF THE SMALL ADS BEING USED BY THOUSANDS OF THEATRES IN ALL SORTS OF SITUATIONS. LOOK THEM OVER AND GET AN IDEA OR TWO.











THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finshed or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1932, unless otherwise specified.

ALLIED PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cowboy Counsellor	Hoot Gibson-Sheila Manners	Oct. 15	63	Oct. 8
Eleventh Commandment	Marian Marsh-Theo. Von Eltz	Mar. 15,'33	64	Mar. 18,'33
Intruder, The	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Dec. 26	69	Jan. 14,'33
Iron Master, The	Lila Lee-Reginald Denny	Nov. 1	69	Dec. 10
Officer 13	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Nov. 26	67	Dec. 3
Parisian Romance, A	Lew Cody-Marian Shilling	Oct. 1	77	Sept. 17
Shriek in the Night, A	Ginger Rogers-Lyle Talbot	Apr. 15,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Anna Karenina
Beyond the Law
Boots of Destiny	Hoot Gibson		67
Cheaters
Davy Jones' Locker
Dude Bandit, The	Hoot Gibson-Gloria Shea	May 1,'33
Midnight Alarm
Nesters, The	Monte Blue
Open for Inspection
Pullman Car
Red Kisses
Scarlet Virgin, The Silk Trimmed
Slightly Used
Sphinx, The
Three Castles
Valley of Adventure, The	Monte Blue
Without Children

CHESTERFIELD

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten	June Clyde-Lee Kohlmar	Feb. 15,'33	65
King Murder, The	Conway Tearle	Sept. 15	64
Love Is Like That	Rochelle Hudson-John Warburton	Mar. 15,'33	65
Secrets of Wu Sin	Lois Wilson-Grant Withers	Dec. 15	65
Slightly Married	Evalyn Knapp-Walter Byron	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Strange People	Hale Hamilton-Gloria Shea-John Darrow	Jan. 15,'33	65
Thrill of Youth	June Clyde-Allan Vincent	Aug. 15	62	Sept. 10
Women Won't Tell	Sarah Padden-Gloria Shea	Nov. 15	67

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Hostess	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray-Thelma Todd	Jan. 15,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
As the Devil Commands	Alan Dinehart-Neil Hamilton-Mae Clarke	Dec. 24
Below the Sea	Ralph Bellamy-Fay Wray	Apr. 25,'33
Bitter Tea of General Yen	B. Stanwyck-Nils Asther	Jan. 6,'33	89	Nov. 26
California Trail, The	Buck Jones-Helen Mack	Mar. 24,'33
Child of Manhattan	John Boles-Nancy Carroll	Feb. 4,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Circus Queen Murder, The	Adolphe Menjou-Greta Nissen-Donald Cook	Apr. 10,'33
Deception	Leo Carrillo-Barbara Weeks-Nat Pendleton	Nov. 4	67	Jan. 14,'33
End of the Trail, The	Tim McCoy-Luana Walters	Dec. 19	59½
Fighting for Justice	Tim McCoy-Joyce Compton	Dec. 28	60½
Forbidden Trail	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Nov. 18	71
Man Against Woman	Jack Holt-Lillian Miles	Nov. 15	68	Dec. 10
Man of Action	Tim McCoy-Caryl Lincoln	Jan. 20,'33	57
Mussolini Speaks		Mar. 10,'33	76	Mar. 18,'33
No More Orchids	Carole Lombard-Lyle Talbot	Nov. 25	74	Nov. 19
Obey the Law	Leo Carrillo-Lois Wilson-Dickie Moore	Jan. 20,'33	69	Mar. 18,'33
Parole Girl	Mae Clarke-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 4,'33	67	Apr. 15,'33
Silent Man	Tim McCoy-Florence Britton	Mar. 3,'33	68
So This Is Africa	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey-Raquel Torres	Feb. 24,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Soldiers of the Storm	Regis Toomey-Anita Page	Apr. 4,'33
Speed Demon	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Joan Marsh	Nov. 5	65	Nov. 26
State Trooper	Regis Toomey-Evalyn Knapp	Feb. 10,'33	68	Apr. 1,'33
Sundown Rider, The	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Dec. 30	69
That's My Boy	R. Cromwell-Dorothy Jordan-Mae Marsh	Oct. 6	71	Dec. 3
Treason	Buck Jones-Shirley Grey	Feb. 10,'33	61½
Vanity Street	C. Bickford-Helen Chandler	Oct. 15	67	Oct. 29
Virtue	Carole Lombard-Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25	69	Nov. 5
Washington Merry-Go-Round	Lee Tracy-C. Cummings	Oct. 15	78	Oct. 1
When Strangers Marry	Jack Holt-Lilian Bond	Mar. 20,'33	68
Whirlwind, The	Tim McCoy-Alice Dahl	Apr. 14,'33
White Eagle	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Oct. 7	67	Oct. 1

Coming Feature Attractions

Ann Carver's Profession	Fay Wray-Gene Raymond
Biddy	Richard Cromwell
Cocktail Hour	Bebe Daniels-Sidney Blackmer-Randolph Scott
Fighting Code, The	Buck Jones-Diane Sinclair
Fighting Ranger, The	Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
King of the Wild Horses	Wm. Janney-Dorothy Appleby
Night of Terror	Bela Lugosi-Sally Blane
Open Road, The	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker
Rusty Rides Alone	Tim McCoy-Barbara Weeks
Thrill Hunter, The	Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Unknown Valley	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker	May 5,'33
Woman I Stole, The	Jack Holt-Raquel Torres-Fay Wray
Wrecker, The	Jack Holt

EQUITABLE PICTURES

[Distributed through Majestic]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheating Blondes	Thelma Todd-Rolfe Harolde	Apr. 1,'33
Gigolettes of Paris	Madge Bellamy-Gilbert Roland	Mar. 15,'33
What Price Decency?	Dorothy Burgess-Alan Hale-Walter Byron	Mar. 1,'33	60	Mar. 11,'33

FIRST DIVISION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Drive, The		Jan. 19,'33	91	Jan. 28,'33
Condemned to Death	Arthur Wontner	Oct. 10	78½	July 23
Goona Goona		Nov. 28	66	Aug. 27
Ringer, The	Franklyn Dyall	Oct. 30	60	June 11

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blondie Johnson	Joan Blondell-Chester Morris	Feb. 25,'33	69	Feb. 4,'33
Cabin the Cotton	Richard Barthelmess	Oct. 15	76	Sept. 10
Central Airport	Richard Barthelmess	Apr. 15,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Central Park	Joan Blondell	Dec. 10	55	Nov. 19
Elmer the Great	Joe E. Brown	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Employees Entrance	W. William-Loretta Young	Feb. 11,'33	75	Dec. 24
Frisco Jenny	Ruth Chatterton	Jan. 14,'33	76	Dec. 17
Grand Slam	Paul Lukas-Loretta Young	Mar. 18,'33	65	Jan. 14,'33
Life Begins	Loretta Young-Eric Linden	Oct. 1	72	Aug. 13
Match King, The	Warren William-Lili Damita	Dec. 31	79	Dec. 17
Mind Reader, The	Warren William	Apr. 1,'33	68	Feb. 25,'33
Silver Dollar	Edward G. Robinson	Dec. 24	78	Nov. 5
They Call It Sin	Loretta Young-Geo. Brent	Nov. 5	74	Sept. 3
Three on a Match	Blondell-William-Dvorak-Davis	Oct. 29	64	Oct. 1
20,000 Years in Sing Sing	Bette Davis-Spencer Tracy	Feb. 1,'33	81	Nov. 5
You Said a Mouthful	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 26	72	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Breadline	Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young
Captured!	Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Goodbye Again	W. William-Joan Blondell
Lilly Turner	Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent	May 13,'33
Little Giant, The	Edward G. Robinson	May 20,'33	74	Apr. 15,'33
She Had to Say Yes	Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
After the Ball	Esther Ralston-Basil Rathbone	Mar. 17,'33	69	Mar. 25,'33
Bondage	Dorothy Jordan-Alex. Kirkland	Mar. 31,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Broadway Bad	Joan Blondell-Ginger Rogers-Ricardo Cortez	Feb. 24,'33	59	Mar. 11,'33
Call Her Savage	Bow-Owsley-Todd-Roland	Nov. 27	88	Dec. 3
Cavalcade	Clive Brook-Diana Wynyard	Apr. 15,'33	110	Jan. 14,'33
Dangerously Yours	Miriam Jordan-Warner Baxter	Feb. 3,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33
Face in the Sky	Spencer Tracy-Marian Nixon-Stuart Erwin	Jan. 22,'33	77	Feb. 4,'33
Golden West, The	Geo. O'Brien-Janet Chandler-Marion Burns	Oct. 30	74	Oct. 15
Handle with Care	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Dec. 25	75	Dec. 24
Hello, Sister	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Apr. 14,'33
Hot Pepper	Victor McLaglen-Edmund Lowe-Lupe Velez-El Brendel	Jan. 22,'33	76	Jan. 28,'33
Humanity	Boots Mallory-A. Kirkland	Mar. 3,'33	70
Infernal Machine	Genevieve Tobin-Chester Morris	Feb. 10,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Me and My Gal	Joan Bennett-Spencer Tracy	Dec. 4	78	Dec. 17
Pleasure Cruise	Genevieve Tobin-Roland Young	Mar. 24,'33	72	Apr. 1,'33
Rackety Rax	Victor McLaglen-Greta Nissen-Nell O'Day	Oct. 23	75	Oct. 29
Robbers Roost	George O'Brien-Maureen O'Sullivan	Jan. 1,'33	64	Apr. 1,'33
Sailor's Luck	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Mar. 10,'33	78	Mar. 25,'33
Second Hand Wife	Sally Eilers-Ralph Bellamy	Jan. 1,'33	64	Jan. 21,'33
Sherlock Holmes	Clive Brook-Miriam Jordan	Nov. 6	69	Nov. 26
Six Hours to Live	Warner Baxter-John Boles-Miriam Jordan	Oct. 16	80	Oct. 29
Smoke Lightning	George O'Brien-Nell O'Day	Feb. 17,'33
State Fair	Janet Gaynor-Will Rogers-Lew Ayres-Sally Eilers-Norman Foster-Frank Craven	Feb. 10,'33	100	Feb. 4,'33
Tess of the Storm Country	Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell	Nov. 20	75	Nov. 26
Too Busy to Work	Will Rogers-Marian Nixon	Nov. 13	70	Nov. 12
Trick for Trick	Ralph Morgan-Victor Jory	Apr. 21,'33
Wild Girl	Joan Bennett-Charles Farrell-Ralph Bellamy	Oct. 9	74	Oct. 8

Coming Feature Attractions

Adorable	Janet Gaynor-Henry Garat	May 12,'33
Five Cents a Glass	Marian Nixon-"Buddy" Rogers	May 19,'33
Hold Me Tight	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	May 26,'33
I Loved You Wednesday	Warner Baxter-Elissa Landi	June 9,'33
It's Great to Be Alive	Edna May Oliver-Raul Roulien	June 2,'33
Man-Eater	Marion Burns-Kane Richmond
My Lips Betray	Lilian Harvey-John Boles
Pilgrimage	Marian Nixon-Norman Foster
Power and the Glory, The	Colleen Moore-Spencer Tracy
Warrior's Husband, The	Elissa Landi-Ernest Truex-David Manners	May 5,'33
Zoo in Budapest	Gene Raymond-Loretta Young	Apr. 28,'33

FREULER FILM ASSOCIATES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Fighting Gentleman, The	Wm. Collier, Jr. - Josephine Dunn-N. Moorhead	Oct. 7	65	Oct. 15
Forty-Niners, The	Tom Tyler	Oct. 28	59
Gambling Sex	Maria Alba-Walter Byron	Apr. 17,'33
Kiss of Araby	Ruth Hall-Grant Withers	Nov. 21	65
Penal Code, The	Regis Toomey-Helen Cohan	Dec. 23
Savage Girl, The	Rochelle Hudson-Walter Byron	Dec. 5
When a Man Rides Alone	Tom Tyler	Jan. 15,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Cat, The
Bulldog Edition
Deadwod Pass	Tom Tyler

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
East of Sudan
Easy Millions	Skeets Gallagher-Dorothy Burgess-Merna Kennedy
Green Paradise
My Wandering Boy
Red Man's Country
Silent Army, The Sisters of the Follies

MAJESTIC

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Crusader, The	Evelyn Brent-H. B. Warner	Oct.	1 ..72	Oct. 8
Gold	Jack Hoxie-Alice Day	Sept.	15 ..53
Gun Law	Jack Hoxie-Betty Boyd	Apr.	15,'33
Hearts of Humanity	Jean Hersholt-Jackie Searle	Sept.	1 ..70	Sept. 24
Law and Lawless	Jack Hoxie-Hilda Moreno	Nov.	30 ..62
Outlaw Justice	Jack Hoxie-Dorothy Gulliver	Oct.	1 ..61
Phantom Express, The	Sally Blane-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Sept.	15 ..70	Sept. 24
Sing, Sinner, Sing	Paul Lukas-Leila Hyams	Apr.	15,'33
Unwritten Law, The	Greta Nissen-Skeets Gallagher	Nov.	15 ..70	Jan. 4,'33
Vampire Bat, The	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Jan.	21,'33 ..67	Jan. 28,'33
Via Pony Express	Jack Hoxie-Marceline Day	Feb.	6,'33 ..62
World Gone Mad, The	Pat O'Brien-Evelyn Brent	Apr.	1,'33 ..80

Coming Feature Attractions

Buried Alive		June	1,'33
Curtain at Eight		May	1,'33
Trouble Buster	Jack Hoxie-Lane Chandler	May	15,'33
Woman in the Chair, The		May	15,'33

MAYFAIR PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Madness	Helen Chandler-Leon Waycoff	Apr.	1,'33
Behind Jury Doors	Helen Chandler-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Dec.	1 ..67
Heart Punch	Marion Shilling-L. Hughes	Oct.	15 ..64	Oct. 29
Her Mad Night	Irene Rich-Conway Tearle	Oct.	1 ..67	Oct. 29
Her Resale Value	June Clyde-George Lewis	Apr.	15,'33
Justice Takes a Holiday	Patricia O'Brien-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Malay Nights	John Mack Brown-D. Burgess-Ralph Ince	Nov.	1
Midnight Warning	William Boyd-Claudia Dell	Nov.	15
No Living Witness	Barbara Kent-Gilbert Roland	Sept.	15 ..65	Sept. 17
Revenge at Monte Carlo	June Collyer-Jose Crespo-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Sister to Judas	Claire Windsor-John Harron	Jan.	1,'33 ..75	Feb. 18,'33
Tangled Destinies	Lloyd Whitlock-Doris Hill	Sept.	1

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clear All Wires	Lee Tracy-Benita Hume	Feb.	24,'33 ..Feb.	18, 33
Faithless	T. Bankhead-R. Montgomery	Oct.	15 ..74	Oct. 15
Fast Life	William Haines-Madge Evans	Dec.	16 ..75	Dec. 10
Fast Workers	John Gilbert-Mae Clarke	Mar.	10,'33 ..66	Mar. 25,'33
Flesh	Wallace Beery-Karen Morley-Ricardo Cortez	Dec.	9 ..75	Dec. 17
Gabriel Over the White House	Walter Huston-Karen Morley	Mar.	31,'33 ..87	Apr. 8,'33
Kongo	Walter Huston-Lupe Velez	Oct.	1 ..86	Nov. 26
Mask of Fu Manchu, The	Boris Karloff	Nov.	5 ..67	Dec. 10
Men Must Fight	Phillips Holmes-Diana Wynyard	Feb.	17,'33 ..72	Mar. 18,'33
Outsider, The	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	Jan.	28,'33 ..90	May 2,'31
Payment Deferred	M. O'Sullivan-C. Laughton	Oct.	8 ..76	Sept. 24
Prosperity	Dressler-Moran	Nov.	18 ..76	Nov. 12
Rasputin and the Empress	Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore	Mar.	24,'33 ..127	Dec. 31
Secret of Madame Blanche, The	Irene Dunne-Phillips Holmes	Feb.	3,'33 ..78	Jan. 21,'33
Son Daughter	Helen Hayes-Ramon Novarro	Dec.	23 ..79	Jan. 7,'33
Strange Interlude	Norma Shearer-Clarke Gable	Dec.	30 ..112	Sept. 3
Today We Live	Joan Crawford-Gary Cooper	Apr.	21,'33 ..115
What! No Beer?	Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante	Feb.	10,'33 ..78	Feb. 11,'33
Whistling in the Dark	Ernest Truex-Una Merkel	Jan.	21,'33 ..78	Feb. 4,'33
White Sister, The	Helen Hayes-Clark Gable	Apr.	14,'33 ..101	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Accidents Wanted	Lee Tracy-Madge Evans	June	2,'33
Barbarian, The	Ramon Novarro-Myrna Loy	May	12,'33 ..74	Apr. 15,'33
Bombshell	Jean Harlow
Devil's Brother, The	Laurel and Hardy-Dennis King-Thelma Todd		..90	Apr. 8,'33
Dinner at Eight	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Lionel Barrymore-Jean Harlow-Madge Evans-Karen Morley-Franchot Tone-Lee Tracy-Jean Hersholt
Eskimo
Hell Below	Robt. Montgomery-Jimmy Durante-Robt. Young-Walter Huston-Madge Evans		..78	Apr. 15,'33
Lady of the Night	Loretta Young-Franchot Tone
Looking Forward	Lewis Stone-Benita Hume-Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	28,'33 ..83	Apr. 1,'33
(Reviewed under the title "The New Deal")
Made on Broadway	R. Montgomery-Sally Eilers	May	19,'33 ..68	Apr. 8,'33
Night Flight	H. Hayes-J. Barrymore-L. Barrymore-C. Gable
Peg O' My Heart	Marion Davies-Onslow Stevens	May	26,'33
Reunion in Vienna	John Barrymore-Diana Wynyard-Otto Kruger	May	5,'33
Tarzan and His Mate	J. Weissmuller-M. O'Sullivan
When Ladies Meet	Ann Harding-Alice Brady-Robt. Montgomery	June	9,'33

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Beauty	Alex. Kirkland-Esther Ralston	Apr.	1,'33
Breed of the Border	Bob Steele	Mar.	1,'33
Crashin' Broadway	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Diamond Trail, The	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Fighting Champ	Bob Steele	Dec.	15
Guilty or Not Guilty	Betty Compson-Tom Douglas	Nov.	15 .. 7 reels
Hidden Valley	Bob Steele	Oct.	10 .. 6 reels
Jungle Bride	Anita Page-Charles Starrett	Feb.	15,'33 ..63	Feb. 25,'33
Lucky Larrigan	Rex Bell-Helen Foster	Dec.	1
Man from Arizona, The	Rex Bell	Oct.	1 .. 6 reels
Oliver Twist	Dickie Moore-Irving Pichel-Jackie Searle	Feb.	28,'33 ..80	Mar. 4,'33
Phantom Broadcast	Ralph Forbes-Vivienne Osborne	Mar.	15,'33 ..68	Apr 8,'33
Self-Defense	Pauline Frederick	Dec.	15 ..68	Dec. 10
Strange Adventure	Regis Toomey-June Clyde	Nov.	20 .. 7 reels
West of Singapore	Betty Compson	Jan.	31,'33 ..68	Apr. 15,'33
Young Blood	Bob Steele	Nov.	5

Coming Feature Attractions

Casey Jones	All Star	Apr.	30,'33
Fighting Texans, The	Rex Bell	Apr.	30,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Bedtime Story	Maurice Chevalier-Helen Twelvetrees	Apr.	21,'33
Big Broadcast, The	Stuart Erwin-Bing Crosby-Kate Smith - Leila Hyams - Mills Bros. - Boswell Sisters - Cab Calloway - Vincent Lopez - Arthur Tracy - Sharon Lynn	Oct.	28 ..80	Oct. 8
Billion Dollar Scandal	Carole Lombard-Robt. Armstrong	Jan.	6,'33 ..78	Dec. 31
Crime of the Century	Stuart Erwin-Wynne Gibson	Feb.	24,'33 ..75	Mar. 4,'33
Devil Is Driving, The	Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson	Dec.	9 ..70	Dec. 10
Evenings for Sale	Herb Marshall-Sari Maritza	Nov.	11 ..65	Nov. 5
Farewell to Arms, A	Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper	Jan.	6,'33 ..78	Dec. 10
From Hell to Heaven	Carole Lombard-Jack Oakie	Feb.	24,'33 ..70	Feb. 18,'33
He Learned About Women	Stuart Erwin-A. Skipworth	Nov.	4
Hello, Everybody	Kate Smith	Feb.	17,'33 ..70	Jan. 14,'33
Hot Saturday	Nancy Carroll-Cary Grant	Oct.	28 ..73	Oct. 22
If I Had a Million	Gary Cooper - Wynne Gibson - Geo. Raft - Richard Bennett - Mary Robson	Nov.	..95	Nov. 12
Island of Lost Souls	Chas. Laughton-Richard Arlen-Leila Hyams	Dec.	..70	Dec. 10
King of the Jungle	Frances Dee-Buster Crabbe	Mar.	10,'33 ..74	Mar. 4,'33
Lady's Profession, A	Alison Skipworth-Roland Young	Mar.	3,'33 ..72	Feb. 25,'33
Luxury Liner	Geo. Brent-Zita Johann-Frank Morgan	Feb.	3,'33 ..70	Jan. 28,'33
Madame Butterfly	Sylvia Sidney-Cary Grant	Dec.	30 ..88	Dec. 31
Madison Square Garden	Jack Oakie-Marian Nixon	Oct.	7 ..74	Oct. 8
Murders in the Zoo	Charlie Ruggles-Lionel Atwill	Mar.	31,'33 ..55	Mar. 11,'33
Mysterious Rider, The	Kent Taylor-Lona André	Jan.	20,'33
Night After Night	Geo. Raft-C. Cummings	Oct.	14 ..70	Oct. 8
No Man of Her Own	Clark Gable-Carole Lombard	Dec.	..76	Dec. 24
Phantom President, The	Geo. M. Cohan-Claudette Colbert-Jimmy Durante	Oct.	7 ..78	Sept. 24
Pick Up	Sylvia Sidney-George Raft	Mar.	24,'33 ..75	Mar. 25,'33
She Done Him Wrong	Mae West-Owen Moore	Jan.	27,'33 ..66	Feb. 18,'33
Sign of the Cross	Fredric March-Elissa Landi-Claudette Colbert	Feb.	10,'33 ..123	Dec. 10
Strictly Personal	Marjorie Rambeau-Eddie Quillan-D. Jordan	Mar.	17,'33 ..70	Mar. 4,'33
Terror Aboard	Neil Hamilton - Chas. Ruggles - Verree Teasdale	Apr.	14,'33 ..65½
Tonight Is Ours	C. Colbert-Fredric March-Paul Cavanagh	Jan.	13,'33 ..76	Jan. 7,'33
Trouble in Paradise	Miriam Hopkins-H. Marshall-Kay Francis	Oct.	21 ..73	Oct. 29
Under Cover Man	Geo. Raft-Nancy Carroll	Dec.	2 ..74	Dec. 10
Under the Tonto Rim	Stuart Erwin-Verna Hillie	Apr.	7,'33
Wild Horse Mesa	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Nov.	25
Woman Accused, The	Cary Grant-Nancy Carroll-John Halliday-Lona André	Feb.	17,'33 ..73	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

College Humor	Bing Crosby-Jack Oakie
Cracked Ice	Four Marx Bros.
Dead on Arrival	James Dunn-Gloria Stuart	May	26,'33
Disgraced	Claudette Colbert-Wm. Harrigan
Eagle and the Hawk, The	F. March-C. Grant-J. Oakie	May	19,'33
Her Bodyguard	Wynne Gibson-Edmund Lowe
I Love That Man	Nancy Carroll-Edmund Lowe	May	5,'33
International House	Peggy Hopkins Joyce
Jennie Gerhardt	Sylvia Sidney-Donald Cook
Song of Songs	Mariene Dietrich-Brian Aherne
Song of the Eagle	Chas. Bickford - Mary Brian - Richard Arlen	Apr.	28,'33
Story of Temple Drake, The	Mirian Hopkins-Jack LaRue	Apr.	28,'33
Sunset Pass	Randolph Scott-Tom Keene	May	19,'33
Supernatural	C. Lombard - Randolph Scott - V. Osborne	May	12,'33

POWERS PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Limping Man, The	Franklin Dyall	Aug.	1 ..55	Aug. 27
Lucky Girl	Gene Gerrard-Molly Lamont	Sept.	1 ..69
Man Who Won, The	Henry Kendall-Heather Angel	Sept.	15 ..70	Mar. 4,'33
Woman Decides, The	Adrianne Allen-Owen Nares	Aug.	15 ..68

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Animal Kingdom	Leslie Howard-Ann Harding	Dec.	23 ..78	Dec. 10
Cheyenne Kid	Tom Keene	Jan.	20,'33 ..54½
Christopher Strong	K. Hepburn-Colin Clive-Billie Burke	Mar.	31,'33 ..72	Mar. 18,'33
Conquerors, The	Ann Harding-Richard Dix	Nov.	18 ..80	Nov. 19
Goldie Gets Along	Lili Damita-Chas. Morton	Jan.	27,'33 ..68
Great Jasper, The	Richard Dix	Mar.	3,'33 ..76	Feb. 11,'33
Half-Naked Truth, The	Lee Tracy-Lupe Velez	Dec.	16 ..77	Jan. 7,'33
King Kong	Fay Wray-Bruce Cabot	Apr.	7,'33 ..100	Feb. 25,'33
Little Orphan Annie	Mitzi Green-Buster Phelps	Nov.	4 ..70	Oct. 29
Lucky Devils	Bill Boyd-Bruce Cabot-William Gargan-D. Wilson	Feb.	3,'33 ..60	Dec. 31
Man Hunt	Junior Durkin - Mrs. Wallace Reid	Mar.	24,'33 ..68	Feb. 4,'33
(Reviewed under the title "A Successful Bunder")
Men Are Such Fools	Lee Carrillo-V. Osborne	Nov.	18 ..66
Men of America	Bill Boyd	Dec.	9 ..75	Nov. 12
Monkey's Paw, The	Ivan Simpson-Louise Carter	Jan.	13,'33 ..52	Oct. 1
No Other Woman	Irene Dunne-Chas. Bickford	Jan.	6,'33 ..58	Jan. 21,'33
Our Betters	Constance Bennett	Mar.	17,'33 ..72	Mar. 4,'33
Past of Mary Holmes, The	Helen MacKellar-Eric Linden	Jan.	20,'33 ..62
Penguin Pool Murder	Edna May Oliver-Jas. Gleason	Dec.	30 ..75	Nov. 12
Phantom of Crestwood	Ricardo Cortez-Karen Morley	Oct.	14 ..77	Oct. 22
Renegades of the West	Tom Keene	Nov.	25 ..55
Rockabye	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrae	Nov.	25 ..75	Nov. 26
Sailor Be Good	Jack Oakie-Vivienne Osborne	Feb.	10,'33 ..68	Mar. 4,'33
Scarlet River	Tom Keene-D. Wilson	Mar.	10,'33 ..57	Jan. 21,'33
Secrets of the French Police	Gwili Andre-Frank Morgan	Dec.	2 ..58	Dec. 17
Sport Parade, The	Joel McCrae-Marian Marsh	Nov.	11 ..65	Dec. 24
Strange Justice	Marian Marsh-R. Denny	Oct.	7 ..74	Aug. 27
Sweepings	Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	14,'33 ..80	Mar. 18,'33
Theft of the Mona Lisa, The	Willy Forst-Trude von Molo (Reviewed—German version)	Oct.	21 ..82	Apr. 9
Topaze	John Barrymore-Myrna Loy	Feb.	24,'33 ..78	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Bed of Roses	Constance Bennett
Black Ace, The	Chester Morris-Vivienne Osborne
Careless	Ginger Rogers-Norman Foster
Cross Fire	Tom Keene-Betty Furness	June	30,'33 ..55	Apr. 8,'33
Diplomaniacs	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey		..63	Apr. 15,'33
Emergency Call	Bill Boyd-Betty Furness
Flying Circus	Arline Judge-Bruce Cabot-Ralph Bellamy-Eric Linden
India Speaks	Richard Halliburten
Jamboree	Robt. Armstrong-Helen Mack
Maiden Cruise	Phil Harris-Helen Mack
Morning Glory, The	K. Hepburn-D. Fairbanks, Jr.
Rafter Romance	Joel McCrea-Dorothy Jordan
Silver Cord, The	Irene Dunne-Joel McCrea
Son of the Border	Tom Keene-Julie Hayden	May	5,'33 ..55

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bachelor Mother	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray	Goldsmith	Jan. 5,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Bal, Le	Andre Lefaur	Protex		80	Oct. 8
Blame the Woman	Adolphe Menjou-Benita Huma	Principal	Oct. 15	74	Nov. 5
Charlotte Lowenskold	Birgit Sergellius-Eric Barclay	Scandinavian
Contraband	Don Alvarado-Dorothy Sebastian	Hoffberg	Apr. 1,'33
Daring Daughters	Marian Marsh - Joan Marsh	Capital	Feb. '33	60	Apr. 15,'33
Devil's Playground, The		Principal	Jan. 1,'33	54
Eternal Jew, The	M. B. Samuylow	Jewish Talking Pictures
Face on the Barroom Floor, The	B. Fletcher	Invincible		66	Oct. 22
Forgotten Men		Jewel Productions	Feb. '33
Fourteenth of July, The	Annabella - Georges Rigaud	Tobis-Rene Clair		85	Jan. 28,'33
High Gear	James Murray - Joan Marsh	Hollywood	Apr. 14,'33	67
Hotel Variety	Hal Skelly - Olive Borden	Screencraft		68
House of Death	N. P. Chmelloff	Amkino	Aug. 12	76	Aug. 27
In the Days of the Crusaders	Alberto Pasquali	Monopole	Oct. 1	75	Oct. 15
Italy Speaks		Enrico Cutali			Feb. 25,'33
Jungle Gigolo		Principal	Feb. 15,'33	55
Jungle Killer	Carveth Wells	Century Productions	Dec.
Lady of the Night	Francesca Bertini	Portale Picts	Mar. 9,'33
Love and Passion		Yugoslavian Picts
Manhattan Tower	Mary Brian - Irene Rich-James Hall	Remington	Dec. 1	67	Nov. 19
Men and Jobs		Amkino	Jan. 1,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Moon Over Morocco	Rene Lefebvre-Rosine Derean	Protex	Jan. 21,'33	80	Feb. 25,'33
Out of Singapore	Noah Beery	Goldsmith Picts		61	Sept. 24
Potemkin		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'33	54	Apr. 15,'33
Piri Knows All	Margit Dayka	Arkay Film
Pride of the Legion	Sally Blane-B. Kent	Mascot	Oct. 10	70	Oct. 29
Red Haired Alibi	Merna Kennedy	Capital	Oct. 15	72	Oct. 29
Reform Girl	Dorothy Peterson - Skeets Gallagher	Capital	Mar. '33	70
Shadow Laughs, The	Hal Skelly-Rose Hobart	Invincible		67
Shame	Vladimir Gardin	Amkino	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Sniper, The		Amkino	Aug. 25	68	Sept. 3
Socko		Hoffberg		30
Soviets on Parade		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'31	60
Sucker Money	Mischa Auer	Hollywood	Apr. 5,'33	70	Apr. 15,'33
Virgins of Bali		Principal	Dec. 8	46	Dec. 17
With Williamson Beneath the Sea		Principal	Nov. 24	59	Dec. 3
Wives Beware!	Adolphe Menjou	Recent Picts
Woman in Chains	Owen Nares	Invincible		69	Aug. 13

(Reviewed under title "The Impassive Footman" — Assoc. Radio British)

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cynara	Ronald Colman-Kay Francis	Dec. 24	80	Nov. 5
Hallelujah, I'm a Bum	Al Jolson	Feb. 3,'33	82	Feb. 18,'33
Kid from Spain, The	Eddie Cantor	Nov. 17	90	Nov. 5
Magic Night	Jack Buchanan	Nov. 5	76	Nov. 12
Rain	Joan Crawford	Oct. 22	85	Sept. 17
Perfect Understanding	Gloria Swanson	Mar. 11,'33	84	Mar. 4,'33
Secrets	Mary Pickford-Leslie Howard	Apr. 16,'33	90	Feb. 18,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

I Cover the Waterfront	Claudette Colbert - Ben Lyon - Ernest Torrence
Joe Palooka	Jimmy Durante-Stuart Erwin
Masquerader, The	Ronald Colman-Elissa Landi			75	Feb. 25,'33
Yes, Mr. Brown	Jack Buchanan				Mar. 18,'33

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Afraid to Talk	Eric Linden-Sidney Fox	Nov. 17	76	Sept. 24
(Reviewed under title "Merry Go Round")
Air Mail	Pat O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Nov. 3	83	Oct. 8
All American, The	Richard Arlen-Gloria Stuart	Oct. 13	78	Sept. 24
Be Mine Tonight	Jan Kiepura-Magda Schneider	Mar. 23,'33	78	Feb. 18,'33
Big Cage, The	Anita Page-Clyde Beatty	Mar. 3,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Cohens and Kellys in Trouble	Chas. Murray-Geo. Sidney	Mar. 23,'33	69
Destination Unknown	Pat. O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 16,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Fighting President, The		Apr. 14,'33	50	Apr. 15,'33
Flaming Guns	Tom Mix-Ruth Hall	Dec. 22	57
Hidden Gold	Tom Mix	Nov. 3	56
Laughter in Hell	Pat O'Brien-Gloria Stuart	Jan. 12,'33	68	Jan. 7,'33
Lucky Dog	Charles "Chic" Sale	Apr. 20,'33
Mummy, The	Boris Karloff-Zita Johann	Dec. 22	78	Dec. 3
Nagana	Tala Birell-Melvyn Douglas	Jan. 26,'33	74	Jan. 7,'33
Old Dark House, The	Boris Karloff-L. Bend	Oct. 20	74	July 16
Out All Night	Summerville-Pitts	Apr. 13,'33	72	Mar. 11,'33
Private Jones	Lee Tracy-Gloria Stuart	Feb. 16,'33	89	Apr. 1,'33
Rome Express	Esther Ralston-Conrad Veidt	Feb. 16,'33	87	Jan. 21,'33
Rustler's Roundup	Tom Mix—Diane Sinclair	Mar. 16,'33
Terror Trail, The	Tom Mix	Feb. 2,'33	57	Feb. 18,'33
They Just Had to Get Married	Summerville-Pitts	Jan. 5,'33	75	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Pearl	Tala Birell
King of the Arena	Ken Maynard
Kiss Before the Mirror	Nancy Carroll-Paul Lukas	May 4,'33		67	Mar. 11,'33
Rebel, The	Vilma Banky-Luis Trenker
S. O. S. Iceberg	Rod La Roque-Gibson Gowland
When the Time Comes	Spencer Tracy

WARNER BROS.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Baby Face	Barbara Stanwyck	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Big Stampede, The	John Wayne	Oct. 8	54	Feb. 11,'33
Ex-Lady	Bette Davis	Apr. 8,'33	62	Feb. 18,'33
Forty-Second Street	Warner Baxter - Bebe Daniels - Geo. Brent	Mar. 11,'33	89	Mar. 18,'33
Girl Missing	Ben Lyon - Mary Brian - Peggy Shannon	Mar. 4,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
Hard to Handle	James Cagney	Jan. 28,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Haunted Gold	John Wayne	Dec. 17	58
I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang	Paul Muni	Nov. 19	90	Oct. 22
Keyhole, The	Kay Francis-George Brent	Mar. 25,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
King's Vacation, The	George Arliss	Feb. 25,'33	60	Jan. 28,'33
Ladies They Talk About	Barbara Stanwyck	Feb. 4,'33	64	Jan. 7,'33
Lawyer Man	Wm. Powell-Joan Blondell	Jan. 7,'33	72	Dec. 3
One Way Passage	Wm. Powell-Kay Francis	Oct. 22	69	July 30
Parachute Jumper	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	Jan. 28,'33	72	Dec. 31
Scarlet Dawn	D. Fairbanks, Jr. - Nancy Carroll	Nov. 12	58	Nov. 12
Telegraph Trail, The	John Wayne	Mar. 18,'33	55
Untamed Africa		Apr. 8,'33
Two Against the World	Constance Bennett	Sept. 3	71	July 30
Wax Museum, Mystery of the	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Feb. 18,'33	72	Jan. 7,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Gold Diggers of Broadway	Warren William-Joan Blondell-Aline MacMahon-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell
Life of Jimmy Dolan, The	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-Loretta Young			70
Man from Monterey, The	John Wayne-Ruth Hall
Mary Stevens, M.D.	Kay Francis
Mayor of Hell, The	James Cagney
Narrow Corner, The	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Picture Snatcher	James Cagney		May 6,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Private Detective 62	William Powell
Silk Express	Neil Hamilton-Sheila Terry
Somewhere in Sonora	John Wayne
Voltaire	George Arliss-Dorothy Kenyon
Working Man, The	George Arliss-Bette Davis		May 6,'33	73	Apr. 8,'33

(Reviewed under the title "The Adopted Father")

WORLD WIDE

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Between Fighting Men	Ken Maynard	Oct. 16	62
Breach of Promise	Chester Morris-Mae Clarke	Oct. 23	67
Constant Woman, The	Conrad Nagel-Leila Hyams	Mar. 18,'33	75	Mar. 3,'33
(Reviewed under the title "Auction in Souls")
Death Kiss, The	Adrienne Ames-David Manners-John Wray	Jan. 8,'33	75	Dec. 24
Drum Taps	Ken Maynard	Jan. 29,'33	61
False Faces	Lowell Sherman-Lila Lee	Oct. 13	83	Dec. 3
Fargo Express	Ken Maynard	Nov. 20	62
Hypnotized	Moran and Mack	Dec. 25	70	Dec. 24
Lone Avenger, The	Ken Maynard	Apr. 9,'33	61
Phantom Thunderbolt	Ken Maynard	Mar. 5,'33	62
Racetrack	Leo Carrillo	Feb. 25,'33	78	Mar. 11,'33
Study in Scarlet, A	Reginald Owen-June Clyde	Apr. 2,'33
Tombstone Canyon	Ken Maynard	Dec. 25	62
Trailing the Killer	(Special)	Dec. 4	68	Oct. 15
Uptown New York	Jack Oakie-Shirley Grey	Nov. 20	80	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Tarnished Youth	Jetta Goudal-Gilbert Roland

GERMAN

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Door Opens	Lily Rodien-Curt Lucas	Protex	Feb. 4,'33	70
A Night in Paradise	Anny Ondra-Herman Thimig	Kinematrade
Barberina, The King's Dancer	Lil Dagover	Capital	Oct. 25	87	Nov. 12
Beautiful Maneuver Time	Ida Wuest	World's Trade
Cadet, The	Frans Fiedler	Film Exchange		80	Apr. 8,'33
Captain of Koepenick, The	Max Adalbert	Kinematrade	Jan. 16,'33	93	Feb. 18,'33
Comradeship		Assoc. Cinema	Nov. 8	78	Dec. 10
Cruiser Emden		World's Trade Exchange	Sept. 8	85	Oct. 1
David Golder	Harry Baur	Protex		80	Oct. 29
Don't Tell Me Who You Are	Liane Haid-Gustav Froehlich	Interworld	Feb. 15,'33	91	Feb. 25,'33
Enchanted Escapade	Kaethe von Nagy	Protex	Dec. 7	83	Jan. 28,'33
Friederike	Mady Christians	Kinematrade	Feb. 25,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Gitta Discovers Her Heart	Gitta Alpar	Capital		91	Oct. 15
Gloria	Gustav Froehlich	Tobis	Oct. 27	87	Nov. 12
Hertha's Awakening	Toni Van Eyck	Protex	Mar. 10,'33	82	Mar. 25,'33
Herzblut	Renate Mueller	Cines-Pittaluga	Sept. 30	77	Oct. 15
His Majesty, King Ballyhoo	Hans Moser - Heinz Ruehmann	Capital	Nov. 15	86	Feb. 11,'33
Louise, Queen of Prussia	Henny Porten	Assoc. Cinemas	Oct. 4	92	Oct. 15
M	Peter Lorre	Foremco	Mar. 31,'33	96	Apr. 8,'33
Maedchen in Uniform	Hertha Thiele	John Krimsky - Gifford Cochran		110	Oct. 1
Man Without a Name, The	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 5	90	Dec. 17
1914		Capital	Sept. 3	73	Sept. 24
Party Does Not Answer, The	Dorothy Wieck	Capital	Nov. 29	76	Dec. 31
Ronny	Willy Fritsch-Kaethe von Nagy	Protex
Song of Life	Albert Mog - Margot Ferra	Tobis	Mar. 24,'33	66	Apr. 15,'33
Spell of Tatra, The		Protex	Feb. 17,'33	65	Feb. 25,'33
Two Hearts That Beat as One	Lilian Harvey	Ufa-Protex	Sept. 8	80	Sept. 24
Upright Sinner, The	Max Pallenberg-Dolly Haas	European Films	Mar. 28,'33	78	Apr. 15,'33
Victoria and Her Hussar	Michael Bohnen-Friedel Schuster	Kinematrade	Apr. 8,'33
Yorck	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 23	99	Dec. 10

OTHER PRODUCT

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Counsel's Opinion	Henry Kendall	London Film		71
Fires of Fate	Lester Matthews	British Int'l		72	Oct. 15
Flag Lieutenant, The	Henry Edwards-Anna Neagle	British and Dominions		85	Dec. 31
Flying Squad, The	Harold Huth	British Lion		79	Aug. 6
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-British		68	Feb. 25,'33
Good Companions, The	Jessie Matthews	Gaumont-British		96
Green Spot Mystery, The	Jack Lloyd	Mutual, London		66	Sept. 3
Here's George	George Clarke	P.D.C.-British		64	Nov. 5
Jack's the Boy	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-Gainsborough	Aug. 15	61	Sept. 24
Josser on the River	Ernest Lotinga	British Int'l		71	Sept. 17
Leap Year	Tom Walls - Anne Grey	British and Dominions		89	Dec. 17
Lodger, The	Ivor Novello	Twickenham		84	Oct. 15
Looking on the Bright Side	Gracie Fields	Assoc. Radio - British		82	Oct. 15
Love Contract, The	Owen Nares	British and Dominions		82	Aug. 27
Love in Morocco	Rex Ingram	Gaumont-British	Mar. 18,'33	67	Oct. 15
(Reviewed under the title "Baroud")
Love on Wheels	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-Gainsborough		87	Aug. 13
Maid of the Mountains, The	Harry Welchman - Nancy Brown	British Int'l		80
Man They Couldn't Arrest, The	Hugh Wakefield - Renee Clama	Gaumont-British	Mar. 11,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33
Marry Me	Renate Mueller-Geo. Robey	Gaumont-British		85
Mayor's Nest	Sydney Howard	British and Dominions		75	July 16
Men of Tomorrow	Maurice Braddell	Paramount-London Film		80	Apr. 15,'33
Private Wives	Claude Allister-Betty Astell	British Lion
Sally Bishop	Harold Huth - Joan Barry	British Lion		82	Dec. 10
Thark	Tom Walls - Ralph Lynn	British and Dominions		77	Aug. 27
There Goes the Bride	Jessie Matthews - Owen Nares	Gaumont-British		79	Mar. 11,'33
Wedding Rehearsal	Roland Young	London Film

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1932 unless otherwise stated]

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 237	Sept. 1	10	Sept. 24
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Broadway Malady
Bunnies and Bonnets	Mar. 29,'33
Crystal Gazabo	Nov. 7	1 reel
Lighthouse Keeping	Aug. 15	1 reel
Medicine Show	Feb. 7,'33	1 reel
Minstrel Show, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Prosperity Blues	Oct. 8
Seeing Stars	Sept. 12	8	Dec. 17
Snow Time	Nov. 30
Wedding Bells	Jan. 10,'33
Wooden Shoes	Feb. 25,'33	1 reel
LAMBS GAMBOLS
Hear 'Em and Weep
Ladies Not Allowed	Sept. 8	2 reels
Lambs All-Star Gambol	Dec. 20	21½
Mutual Man, The	Mar. 20,'33
Poor Fish, The (Tent.)
Shave It with Music	Sept. 30	19
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in Wildwest	Aug. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in India		1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Philippines	Nov. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among the Wide Open Faces	Oct. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among Dancing Nations	Dec. 23	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Wonders of the World	Dec. 13	1 reel
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Bad Genius, The	Dec. 1
Beer Parade, The	Mar. 4,'33
Camping Out	Aug. 10
False Alarm
Flop House	Nov. 9
Great Bird Mystery	Oct. 20
Sassy Cats	Jan. 25,'33
Scrappy's Party	Feb. 13,'33
Wolf at the Door, The	Dec. 29
SILLY SYMPHONIES
China Plate		7	Dec. 3
SUNRISE COMEDIES
Campus Codes	Jan. 19,'33	21
College Gigolos	Jan. 3,'33	18½
His Vacation	Sept. 8
I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Store	Feb. 11,'33
Mind Doesn't Matter	Nov. 21	19½
Partners Two	Jan. 19,'33	22
The Curse of a Broken Heart	Feb. 4,'33	18
The Strange Case of Poison Ivy	Mar. 23,'33
WORLD OF SPORT
All's Wet That Ends Wet
Good Old Winter Time
Horse Sense	Aug. 5
Rough Sport	Dec. 29
Throwing the Bull	Jan. 14,'33	11

EDUCATIONAL

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
A Fool About Women	Nov. 27	22
Artist's Muddles	Jan. 29,'33	20
Boy, Oh Boy!	Dec. 25	21
Feeling Rosy	Feb. 26,'33	21
Giddy Age, The	Sept. 25	21½	June 4
His Royal Shyness	Aug. 28	21	July 23
Loose Relations	Apr. 9,'33
She Dunked Him Wrong
Sunkissed Sweeties	Oct. 30	22
What a Life
BABY BURLESKS
Glad Rags to Riches	Feb. 5,'33	11	Dec. 31
Kid' in' Hollywood		11
Kid's Last Fight, The	Mar. 26,'33	11	Dec. 3
Pie-Covered Wagon	Oct. 30	10	Dec. 31
Polly Tix in Washington
War Babies	Sept. 18	10	Aug. 6
BATTLE FOR LIFE
Battle of the Centuries	Oct. 2	9
Desert Demons	Nov. 27	9
Killers	Oct. 30	10
The Sea	Dec. 25	9
BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
An Oregon Camera Hunt	Sept. 11	9
Giants of the North	Mar. 26,'33
Our Bird Citizens	Oct. 9	8	Dec. 10
Our Noble Ancestors	Dec. 4	9
Pirates of the Deep	Feb. 26,'33	9
Stable Manners	Nov. 6	7
Wild Company	Jan. 1,'33	10
Woodland Pals	Jan. 29,'33	1 reel
BROADWAY GOSSIP
No. 1	Sept. 25	11
No. 2	Dec. 11	9	Dec. 31
No. 3	Feb. 5,'33	11
No. 4	Mar. 5,'33	11
No. 5	Apr. 30,'33
CAMERA ADVENTURES
Taming the Wildcat	Jan. 15,'33	8
The Forgotten Island	Sept. 4	10
The Iceless Arctic	Nov. 6	11
Two Hundred Fathoms Deep	Mar. 19,'33	8

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
DO YOU REMEMBER
Gaslit Nineties, The	Nov. 27	8	Jan. 7,'33
Highlights of the Past	Apr. 9,'33	8
Old New York	Sept. 11	10	Jan. 14,'33
Puffs and Bustles	Mar. 12,'33	7
When Dad Was a Boy	Jan. 22,'33	8
GLEASON'S SPORT FEATURETTES
A Hockey Hick	Dec. 11	19
Always Kickin'	Oct. 9	20
Off His Base	Sept. 18	20
GREAT HOKUM MYSTERY
Burned at the Steak	Oct. 16	18
Evil Eye Conquers, The	Jan. 8,'33	14
Hypnotizing for Love	Aug. 21	16	Sept. 17
In the Clutches of Death	Nov. 13	14
On the Brink of Disaster	Feb. 19,'33
HODGE-PODGE
Across America in Ten Minutes	Jan. 1,'33	11
Animal Fair, The	Jan. 15,'33	10
Bubble Blowers	Sept. 11	10
Down on the Farm	Dec. 18	10
Little Thrills	Oct. 23	9
Skipping About the Universe	Feb. 12,'33	10
Traffic	Nov. 6	10
Women of Many Lands	Apr. 9,'33	9
Women's Work	Sept. 25	9	Mar. 11,'33
Wonder City, The	Nov. 20	9	Feb. 25,'33
MACK SENNETT COMEDIES
Neighbor Trouble Stone-Granger	Aug. 14	19
Young Onions Harvey-Granger	Sept. 18	19	Sept. 10
MERMAID COMEDIES
All Aboard Harry Langdon
Big Flash, The Harry Langdon	Nov. 6	22	Oct. 15
Hitch Hiker, The Harry Langdon	Feb. 12,'33	21
Knight Duty Harry Langdon	Mar. 26,'33	22
Tired Feet Harry Langdon	Jan. 1,'33	22
Vest with a Tale, The Tom Howard	Dec. 4	22
MORAN AND MACK COMEDIES
A Pair of Socks
As the Crows Fly	Feb. 5,'33	19
Hot Hoofs	Apr. 16,'33
Two Black Crows in Africa	Mar. 5,'33	20
OPERALOGUES
Brahmin's Daughter, A	Jan. 8,'33	22
Canteen Girl, The
Idol of Seville	Aug. 28	21	July 30
Walpurgis Night	Oct. 30	20
SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS (Reinald Werrenrath)
California	Mar. 5,'33	10
Cornell	Dec. 18	9	Dec. 17
Georgia Tech	Apr. 2,'33	9
Michigan	Dec. 4	8
Yale	Oct. 9	10
TERRY-TOONS
Burlesque	Sept. 4	6
College Spirit	Oct. 16	6
Down on the Levee	Mar. 5,'33	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Ape Girl	Aug. 7	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Birthday Party	Oct. 2	6	Dec. 3
Forty Thieves, The	Nov. 13	6
Hansel Und Gretel	Feb. 5,'33	6
Hollywood Diet	Dec. 11	6
Hook and Ladder No. 1	Oct. 30	7	Nov. 5
Ireland or Bust	Dec. 25	6
Jealous Lover	Jan. 8,'33	6
Oh! Susanna	Apr. 2,'33	6
Pirate Ship	Apr. 30,'33	6
Robin Hood	Jan. 22,'33	6
Romeo and Juliet	Apr. 16,'33	6
Sherman Was Right	Aug. 21	6
Southern Rhythm	Sept. 18	6
Tale of a Shirt, The	Feb. 19,'33	6
Toyland	Nov. 27	6	Dec. 17
Who Killed Cock Robin?	Mar. 19,'33	6
THREE-REEL SPECIAL
Krakatoa	Apr. 2,'33	26
TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
A Drug on the Market	Jan. 22,'33	11
The Acid Test	Nov. 27	11
The Mouse Trapper	Sept. 11	12
TORCHY COMEDIES (Ray Cooke)
Torchy's Big Lead (Tent.)
Torchy's Busy Day	Oct. 2	20
Torchy's Kitty Coup	Jan. 22,'33	21
Torchy's Loud Spooker	Apr. 23,'33
Torchy Rolls His Own	Nov. 20	21
Torchy Turns Turtle	Mar. 19,'33	21
VANITY COMEDIES
Hollywood Run-Around Monty Collins	Dec. 18	20	Mar. 25,'33
Honeymoon Beach Billy Bevan-Glenn Tryon	Oct. 23	21
Keyhole Katie Gale Seabrook-John T. Murray	Jan. 15,'33	20
Ship A-Hooey Glenn Tryon	Aug. 7	22
Techno-crazy Monty Collins-Billy Bevan	Mar. 12,'33	19

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Alpine Echoes	Aug. 14
2 Incredible India	Aug. 21	9
3 Big Game of the Sea	Aug. 28	8
4 The Tom-Tom Trail	Sept. 4	9
5 By-Ways of France	Sept. 11	9	Dec. 17
6 Manhattan Medley	Sept. 18	10
7 Rhineland Memories	Sept. 25	8
8 Fisherman's Fortune	Oct. 2	9
9 Zanzibar	Oct. 9	9
10 Belles of Bali	Oct. 16	8	Jan. 7,'33
11 Sailing a Square-Rigger	Oct. 23	10	Dec. 10
12 Venetian Holiday	Oct. 30	10	Nov. 12
13 Havana Ho!	Nov. 6	9
14 Paths in Palestine	Nov. 13	8
15 Ricksha Rhythm	Nov. 20
16 Pirate Isles	Nov. 27	9
17 From Kashmir to the Khyber	Dec. 4	9	Nov. 19
18 Silver Springs	Dec. 11
19 Desert Tripoli	Dec. 18
20 In the Guianas	Dec. 25	9
21 Mediterranean Memories	Jan. 1,'33
22 The Lure of the Orient	Jan. 8,'33	9
23 Here Comes the Circus	Jan. 15,'33
24 Sicilian Sunshine	Jan. 22,'33	10	Mar. 25,'33
25 Gorges of the Giants	Jan. 29,'33	9	Dec. 31
26 When in Rome	Feb. 5,'33
27 Berlin Medley	Feb. 12,'33	9	Nov. 26
28 Rhapsody of the Rails	Feb. 19,'33
29 Taking the Cure	Feb. 26,'33
30 Down from Vesuvius	Mar. 5,'33
31 Paris on Parade	Mar. 12,'33
32 Broadway by Day	Mar. 19,'33
33 The Iceberg Patrol
34 Mississippi Showboats
35 Sampans and Shadows
36 Boardwalks of New York
37 A Gondola Journey
38 Isles of the East Indies
39 Pagodas of Peiping

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLEY CHASE
Arabian Tights	June 3,'33	20
Fallen Arches	Feb. 4,'33	19
Girl Grief	Oct. 8	20
Mr. Bride	Dec. 24	19
Now We'll Tell One	Nov. 19	19	Oct. 22
Tarzan in the Wrong		20
Young Ironsides	Sept. 3	20
COLORTONE MUSICAL REVUES
Hollywood Premiere	Jan. 7,'33	18
Menu
Over the Counter		18	Feb. 25,'33
Wild People	Feb. 4,'33	18
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Barbados and Trinidad	Sept. 24	9
Big Ditch of Panama, The
Come Back to Erin		9	June 4
Cuba, Land of the Rhumba	Feb. 25,'33
Iceland	Jan. 14,'33	10	Feb. 11,'33
Leningrad	Dec. 17	9	Mar. 11,'33
Norway	Feb. 4,'33	9
Over the Seas to Borneo		9
Rio the Magnificent		9
Romantic Argentina	Aug. 27	9
World Dances, The		9
FLIP, THE FROG
Circus	Aug. 27
Cuckoo the Magician	Jan. 21,'33
Funny Face	Dec. 24	8
Lunchroom, The
Music Lesson, The	Oct. 29	8
Nursemaid, The	Nov. 26	7
Room Runners	Aug. 13
LAUREL & HARDY
Scram	Sept. 10	21	Oct. 15
Their First Mistake		21
Towed in a Hole	Dec. 31	21
Twice Two	Feb. 25,'33	21
ODDITIES
Chill and Chills	Sept. 10	9
Duck Hunter's Paradise	Dec. 31	10	Dec. 31
Microscopic Mysteries	Oct. 18	10	Apr. 8,'33
Sea Spiders	Aug. 13	9	Oct. 29
Toy Parade, The	Dec 3	7	Dec. 17
Whispering Bill	Dec. 31	10
OUR GANG
A Lad an' a Lamp	Dec. 17	17
Birthday Blues	Nov. 12	20
Fish Hooky	Jan. 28,'33	19
Forgotten Babies	Mar. 11,'33	17
Free Wheeling	Oct. 1	20
Hook and Ladder	Aug. 27	18
Kid from Borneo, The	Apr. 15,'33	19
Mush and Milk	May 27,'33
PITTS-TODD
Alum and Eve	Sept. 24	18	Aug. 13
Asleep in the Feet	Jan. 21,'33	19
Bargain of the Century		20
Maids a la Mode		18
Show Business	Aug. 20	20
Sneak Easily	Dec. 10	17
Soilers, The	Oct. 29	19
SPECIAL
Roosevelt, the Man of the Hour		18	Apr. 15,'33
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Allez Oop	Mar. 11,'33
Auto Racing	Apr. 1,'33
Blocks and Tackles	Nov. 5	12	Mar. 11,'33
Bone Crushers	Feb. 8,'33	8
Chalk Up	Dec. 10	10	Jan. 7,'33
Desert Regatta	Sept. 17	10
Football Footwork		12
Motorcycle Mania	Jan. 28,'33	9
Old Spanish Custom	Oct. 15	10	Mar. 11,'33
Pigskin	Oct. 22	12	Dec. 10
Snow Birds	Aug. 20	10
Swing High	Dec. 10	10	Dec. 17
TAXI BOYS
Bring 'Em Back a Wife	Jan. 14,'33	20
Call Her Sausage
Farewell to Legs
Hot Spot	Oct. 22	18	Oct. 1
Rummy, The		18
Strange Innertube	Sept. 22
Taxi Barons
Taxi for Two	Dec. 3	18
Thundering Taxis	June 24,'33	16
What Price Taxi	Aug. 13
Wreckety Wrecks	Feb. 18,'33	19	Mar. 25,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
HOLLWOOD ON PARADE
No. 1	Aug. 26	10	Aug. 13
No. 2	Sept. 23	1 reel
No. 3	Oct. 21	1 reel

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
No. 4	Nov.	18	1 reel
No. 5	Dec.	16	1 reel
No. 6	Jan.	13,'33	1 reel
No. 7	Feb.	10,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Mar.	10,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Apr.	7,'33	1 reel
No. 10	May	5,'33	1 reel
ONE REEL ACTS
Be Like Me Ethel Merman	Feb.	18,'33	1 reel
Breaking Even Tom Howard	Sept.	30
Hawaiian Fantasy Vincent Lopez	Jan.	20,'33	1 reel
Let's Dance Burns and Allen	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
Moonlight Fantasy Vincent Lopez	Apr.	14,'33	1 reel
Musical Doctor Rudy Vallee	Oct.	28	10 Oct. 1
Patents Pending Burns and Allen	Aug.	5
Rhapsody in Black and Blue Louis Armstrong	Sept.	2
Rookie, The Tom Howard	Dec.	23	1 reel
Walking the Baby Burns and Allen	May	12,'33	1 reel
Your Hat Burns and Allen	Nov.	25
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL—NEW SERIES
No. 1—Mists of the Morning—Temple Bells of Indo-China—Famous Radio Personalities	Aug.	12	1 reel
No. 2—Just Mentioning the Unmentionable — New England Sunsets—Famous Radio Personalities	Sept.	9	1 reel
No. 3—Making Friends in the Desert—The Fall of the Year — Radio Star-Maker	Oct.	7	1 reel
No. 4—Distinctive Hair for Distinctive Heads — The Blooming Desert — The Camels Are Coming	Nov.	4	1 reel
No. 5—John Mongol Comes to Town—Have a Little Ski—Meet Your Favorite Radio Personalities	Dec.	4	1 reel
No. 6—Land of Sun and Shine — La Rumba de Cuba—Big Shots of U.S. Navy	Dec.	30	1 reel
No. 7—This Is Ducky — Music from the Ancients —Bringing You the News	Jan.	27,'33	1 reel
No. 8—Glass Making at the Corning Glass Works — "Going Back Home" — Costuming the Earl Carroll Vanities	Feb.	24,'33	1 reel
No. 9—A Drama of the Northland — Paramount Pictorial Presents Amelia Earhart	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
No. 10—Birth of the Year — Laboratory Sleuth — Three X Sisters	Apr.	21,'33	1 reel
SCREEN SONGS
Ain't She Sweet Lillian Roth	Feb.	3,'33
Aloha Oe Royal Samoans	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
Dinah Mills Bros.	Jan.	13,'33	1 reel
Down Among the Sugar Cane Lillian Roth	Aug.	26
Just a Gigolo Irene Bordoni	Sept.	9
Peanut Vendor, The Armida	Apr.	28,'33
Popular Melodies Arthur Jarrett	Apr.	7,'33	1 reel
Reaching for the Moon	Feb.	24,'33	1 reel
Romantic Melodies The Street Singer	Oct.	21	1 reel
Rudy Vallee Melodies Rudy Vallee	Aug.	5	1 reel
School Days Gus Edwards	Sept.	30
Sing a Song James Melton	Dec.	2
Time on My Hands Ethel Merman	Dec.	23	7 Jan. 7,'33
When It's Sleepy Time Down South Boswell Sisters	Nov.	11	1 reel
SCREEN SOUVENIRS — NEW SERIES
No. 1	Aug.	5	1 reel
No. 2	Sept.	2	1 reel
No. 3	Sept.	30	10 Oct. 15
No. 4	Oct.	28	1 reel
No. 5	Nov.	25	1 reel
No. 6	Dec.	23	1 reel
No. 7	Jan.	20,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Feb.	17,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
No. 10	Apr.	14,'33	1 reel
No. 11	May	12,'33
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly
SPORTS EYE VIEW
Aggravatin' Bear, The	Apr.	28,'33	1 reel
Building Winners	Aug.	19	1 reel
Canine Thirlls	Feb.	3,'33	1 reel
Catch 'Em Young	Dec.	9	1 reel
Fighting Fins	Oct.	14	10 Oct. 15
Hot and Cold Thrills	Mar.	31,'33	1 reel
Jabs and Jolts	May	26,'33	1 reel
Over the Jumps	Jan.	6,'33	1 reel
Stuff on the Ball	Nov.	11	1 reel
Water Jamboree	Sept.	16	1 reel
Wonder Girl, The Babe Didrickson	Mar.	3,'33	1 reel
TALKARTOONS
Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle	Sept.	23
Betty Boop's Birthday Party	Apr.	21,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Bizzy Bee	Aug.	19	1 reel
Betty Boop's Crazy Inventions	Jan.	27,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop for President	Nov.	4	7 Oct. 1
Betty Boop's Ker-Choo	Jan.	6,'33	7 Dec. 10
Betty Boop, M.D.	Sept.	2	7 Dec. 10
Betty Boop's May Party	May	12,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Museum	Dec.	16	1 reel
Betty Boop's Ups & Downs	Oct.	14	1 reel
Betty Boop's Penthouse	Mar.	10,'33	6 Feb. 25,'33
Is My Palm Read	Feb.	17,'33	1 reel
Minding the Baby	Sept.	26	1 reel
Snow-White	Mar.	31,'33	1 reel
Stopping the Show	Aug.	12
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Blue of the Night Bing Crosby	Jan.	6,'33	20 Sept. 10
Bring 'Em Back Sober Sennett Star	Nov.	18	2 reels
Caliente Love Sennett Star	Mar.	10,'33	2 reels
Cook's Day Off, The Sennett Star
Courting Trouble Charles Murray	Oct.	28	19 Dec. 17
Dentist, The Sennett Star	Dec.	9	20 Dec. 3
Don't Play Bridge With Your Wife Sennett Star	Jan.	13,'33	2 reels
Druggist, The Sennett Star	Apr.	21,'33
Doubling in the Quickies Sennett Star	Dec.	16	2 reels
Easy On the Eyes Sennett Star	Feb.	17,'33	2 reels
False Impressions Sennett Star	Nov.	4	2 reels
Fatal Glass of Beer W. C. Fields	Mar.	3,'33	2 reels
His Perfect Day Sennett Star
Hollywood Double, A Sennett Star	Nov.	25	2 reels
Honeymoon Bridge Sennett Star
Hubby's Vacation Sennett Star
Human Fish Sennett Star	Dec.	30	2 reels
In the Bag Sennett Star
Lion and the House, The Sennett Star	Dec.	23	18
Ma's Pride and Joy Donald Novis	Oct.	14	18 Aug. 27
Morning After, The Sennett Star
Pharmacist, The Sennett Star	Apr.	21,'33	2 reels
Plumber and the Lady, The Sennett Star	Mar.	31,'33	2 reels
Prosperity Pays Tom Howard	Nov.	4
Shot for Love Sennett Star
Sing, Bing, Sing Bing Crosby	Mar.	24,'33	2 reels
Singing Boxer, The	Jan.	27,'33
Singing Plumber Donald Novis	Sept.	23
Sweet Cookie Sennett Star	Apr.	14,'33	2 reels
Temporary Butler Sennett Star
Too Many Highballs Sennett Star	Feb.	10,'33	2 reels
Uncle Jake Sennett Star	May	5,'33	2 reels
Wrestlers, The Sennett Star	Jan.	20,'33

POWERS PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Dream Flowers	Sept.	15	9
Dual Control (Capt. James A. Mollison and Amy Johnson)	Sept.	1	12
It All Depends on You	Nov.	1	8
Land of My Fathers			9
Light of Love	Oct.	15	9
Me and the Boy Friend	Oct.	1	8

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES (Re-Issues)
The Cure	Aug.	19	20
Easy Street	Sept.	30	19½ Dec. 17
The Floorwalker	Dec.	23	20½
The Pawnshop	Mar.	17,'33
The Rink	Nov.	11	20
The Vagabond	Feb.	3,'33	21
CLARK & McCULLOUGH SERIES
Druggist's Dilemma, The	May	5,'33	17
Hocus Focus	Mar.	3,'33	20
Ice Man's Ball	Aug.	12	20 Aug. 13
Jitters, The Butler	Dec.	30	20½ Aug. 20
Millionaire Cat, The	Oct.	21	21
HARRY SWEET COMEDIES
Firehouse Honeymoon	Oct.	28	18 Jan. 14,'33
Heave Two	Mar.	10,'33	20½
Just a Pain in a Parlor	Aug.	26	20
Loops, My Dear	Jan.	6,'33	17
Shakespeare With Tin Ears	June	30,'33	18½
Thrown Out of Joint	May	12,'33	21
HEADLINER SERIES
No. 1—Shampoo, the Magician Roscoe Ates-Hugh Herbert	Nov.	25	17
No. 2—Private Wives Skeets Gallagher W. Catlett	Jan.	27,'33	21
No. 3—Hip, Zip, Hooray Nat Carr	Mar.	31,'33	18½
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Abroad in Old Kentucky
Bride's Bereavement, The	Nov.	18	19
Lost in the Limehouse	Apr.	7,'33	20½
Through Thin and Thicket	Jan.	20,'33	17½
Two Lips and Juleps	Sept.	9	20
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Ape Man	Feb.	10,'33	18
Mickey's Big Broadcast
Mickey's Busy Day	Sept.	2	18 Aug. 6
Mickey's Charity	Dec.	2	18
Mickey's Disguise
Mickey's Race	Apr.	14,'33	18
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Art in the Raw	Feb.	24,'33	19
Fish Feathers	Dec.	16	18
Golf Chump, The	Aug.	5	20 Aug. 13
Inferior Decorations
Merchant of Menace, The	Apr.	21,'33	19½
Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath	Oct.	14	20½
PATHE NEWS
Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW
Released once a month
SPECIALS
So This Is Harris		28	Mar. 11,'33
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Barnyard Bunk	Sept.	16	6
Happy Hoboes	Mar.	31,'33
Jolly Fish	Aug.	19	6
Magic Mummy	Feb.	7,'33	7
Panicky Pup	Feb.	24,'33	7
Pencil Mania	Dec.	9	7
Piano Tooners	Nov.	11	7½
Spanish Twist, A	Oct.	14	6
Tight Rope Tricks	Jan.	6,'33	7

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ATLANTIC FILM
Playgrounds in the Sky		10	Nov. 5
Sportsmen s Paradise		10	July 30
CAESAR FILMS
Veneziana		1 reel
CENTRAL FILM
A Pilgrimage Through Palestine		10	Dec. 3
Boston Common—and Proper		10	Jan. 7,'33
Hula		3 reels
In Old New Orleans			May 28
Syria			May 21
F. M. S. CORP.
Newslaughs		7	Jan. 28,'33
IDEAL
Evolution		28	Sept. 3
INDUSTRIAL
The Silent Enemy		30
MARY WARNER
Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation		8
Berlin: Rhythm of a Metropolis		8	Apr. 8,'33
Glimpses of Germany		8
Green Heart of Germany, The		20
Springtime on the Rhine		7
The Mosel		8	Oct. 15
Trier, Oldest City in Germany		6
Vintagers' Festival in the Palatinate		10	Mar. 11,'33
Winter in the Bavarian Alps		1 reel
Young Germany Goes Ski-ing		1 reel
MASCOT
Technocracy		10	Jan. 7,'33
MASTER ART PRODUCTS
Melody Makers Series:
Sammy Fain		10	Dec. 24
Benny Davis		9
Cliff Friend		9
Night of Romance		7
PRINCIPAL
Beer Is Here
Get That Lion		29	Aug. 27
Isle of Desire		3 reels
Isle of Peril		32	July 16
Isles of Love		1 reel
Killing the Killer		11	July 30
Matto Grosso		24
New Western Front		25
Primitive		1 reel
Tiger Hunt, The		20	Dec. 31
Voodoo		36
WARD PRODUCTIONS
Your Technocracy and Mine		9½	Feb. 11,'33

UNITED ARTISTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MICKEY MOUSE
1. Mickey's Nightmare	Aug.	8	7½ Oct. 8
2. Trader Mickey	Aug.	26	7
3. The Whoopee Party	Sept.	16	7 Nov. 12
4. Touchdown Mickey	Oct.	7	6½
5. The Wayward Canary	Oct.	28	7¼
6. The Klondike Kid	Nov.	18
7. Mickey's Good Deed	Dec.	9	8
8. Building a Building	Dec.	20	7
9. The Mad Doctor	Jan.	20,'33	6
10. Mickey's Pal Pluto	Feb.	10,'33	7
11. The Mellerdrammer	Mar.	3,'33
12. Ye Olden Days	Mar.	24,'33
SILLY SYMPHONIES
1. Bears and Bees	July	15	6½
2. Just Dogs	Aug.	12	7
3. Flowers and Trees	Sept.	9	8 Oct. 15
4. Bugs in Love	Sept.	21	7
5. King Neptune	Oct.	7	7 Oct. 29
6. Babes in the Wood	Dec.	2	8 Apr. 1,'33
7. Santa's Workshop	Dec.	30	7 Dec. 24
8. Birds in the Spring	Dec.	30
9. Father Noah's Ark	Jan.	27,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Beau Best	May 22,'33	1 reel
Busy Barber	Sept. 12	1 reel
Carnival Capers	Oct. 10	1 reel
Day Nurse	Aug. 1	1 reel
Going to Blazes	Apr. 10,'33	1 reel
Ocean Hop (Reissue)	Apr. 24,'33	1 reel
Oswald, the Plumber	Jan. 30,'33	7
Shriek, The	Feb. 27,'33	7	Mar. 25,'33
Teacher's Pest	Dec. 19	7
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 21	1 reel
POOCH CARTOONS
Athlete, The	Aug. 29	8	Sept. 10
Butcher Boy, The	Sept. 26	7	Sept. 17
Cat and Dogs	Dec. 5	1 reel
Crowd Snores, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Lumber Champ, The	Mar. 13,'33	7	Apr. 8,'33
Merry Dog, The	Jan. 2,'33	1 reel
S. O. S. Icicle	May 8,'33
Terrible Troubador, The	Feb. 13,'33	1 reel
Underdog, The	Nov. 7	1 reel
RADIO STAR REELS
Morton Downey—No. 1 With Vincent Lopez	Oct. 31	2 reels
The Street Singer Nick Kenny—No. 1	Nov. 14	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 2 With Brown and Henderson	Nov. 28	2 reels
Art Jarrett Nick Kenny—No. 2	Dec. 12	2 reels
Down Memory Lane Louis Sobol—No. 1 With Texas Guinan	Dec. 26	1 reel
Married or Single Nick Kenny—No. 3 With Little Jack Little	Jan. 16,'33	21
I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket Walter Winchell—No. 1 With Paul Whiteman	Jan. 30,'33	21	Feb. 11,'33
Morton Downey—No. 3 The Holdup With Joe Young	Feb. 14,'33	2 reels
Radio Murder Mystery Louis Sobol—No. 2	Mar. 6,'33	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 4 My Pal the Prince	Apr. 17,'33	2 reels
SPECIAL
The Voice of the Vatican	Mar. 13,'33	10	Mar. 11,'33
Your Technocracy and Mine	Apr. 15,'33	1 reel
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 21—Novelty	Aug. 22	1 reel
No. 22—Novelty	Sept. 19	1 reel
No. 23—Novelty	Oct. 17	1 reel
No. 24—Novelty	Nov. 14	1 reel
No. 25—Novelty	Dec. 12	1 reel
No. 26—Novelty	Jan. 23,'33	1 reel
No. 27—Novelty	Mar. 20,'33	1 reel
No. 28—Novelty	Apr. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 29—Novelty	May 15,'33	1 reel
UNIVERSAL BREVITIES
Boo!	Dec. 26	1 reel
Dr. Jekyll's Hide	Sept. 26	9	Oct. 1
Good Old Days, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Greeks Had No Word for Them, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Lizzie Strata	Jan. 23,'33	10
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1932-33 SEASON)
A Quiet Night Bert Roach		21
Alias the Professor James Gleason	Mar. 8,'33	2 reels
Boys Will Be Boys Frank Albertson	Nov. 30	2 reels
Family Troubles Henry Armetta	Jan. 11,'33	21
Finishing Touch Skeets Gallagher June Clyde	Oct. 19	2 reels
Hesitating Love L. Fazenda-M. Prevost	Nov. 16	2 reels
Hunting Trouble Louise Fazenda	Feb. 8,'33	20	Mar. 11,'33
Kid Glove Kisses Slim Summerville	Sept. 21	2 reels
Lights Out James Gleason	Dec. 24	2 reels
Mister Mugg James Gleason	May 10,'33	21
My Operation Vince Barnett-June Clyde	Dec. 28	2 reels
Officer, Save My Child Slim Summerville	Nov. 2	2 reels
Pick Me Up Marie Prevost	Apr. 5,'33	19
Rockabye Cowboy James Gleason	Jan. 25,'33	2 reels
Room Mates Frank Albertson	Apr. 19,'33	20
Should Crooners Marry?	Feb. 22,'33	2 reels
Frank Albertson
Trial of Vince Barnett Vince Barnett	Mar. 22,'33
Union Wages Louise Fazenda	Aug. 30	20	Sept. 17
Who, Me Frank Albertson	Sept. 7	2 reels
Yoo Hoo! James Gleason	Oct. 5	21	Sept. 3

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ADVENTURES IN AFRICA		2 reels
BELIEVE IT OR NOT— ROBERT L. RIPLEY		1 reel
BIG V COMEDIES
No. 1—Sherlock's Home Jack Haley
No. 2—Here, Prince Joe Penner
No. 3—You Call It Madness Richy Craig, Jr.
No. 4—Hey, Pop Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 5—Then Came the Yawn Jack Haley
No. 6—The Run Around William Demarest
No. 7—Trouble Indemnity Codee and Orth
No. 8—The Build-Up Jack Haley
No. 9—Buzzin' Around Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 10—Wrongorilla Jack Haley
No. 11—How've You Bean? "Fatty" Arbuckle
No. 12—An Idle Roomer Jack Haley
BROADWAY BREVITIES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—C'est Paris Technicolor Musical	Sept. 3	17
No. 2—Passing the Buck Alexander Gray	Sept. 24	18
No. 3—Tee for Two Technicolor Musical	Oct. 8	17	Nov. 12
No. 4—Tip-Tap-Toe Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Oct. 22	19
No. 5—A Modern Cinderella Ruth Etting	Nov. 5	18
No. 6—Picking a Winner Technicolor Musical	Nov. 19	16	Nov. 19
No. 7—The Red Shadow Al Gray-Bernice Claire	Dec. 3	18
No. 8—Sky Symphony Stoopnagle & Budd	June 3,'33
No. 9—Poor Little Rich Boy Phil Baker	Dec. 24	18
No. 10—Hey, Hey, Westerner Technicolor Musical	Dec. 31	17	Oct. 15
No. 11—That Goes Double Russ Columbo	June 17,'33
No. 12—Bygones Ruth Etting	Jan. 14,'33	18
No. 13—Pleasure Island Technicolor Musical	Feb. 25,'33	18
No. 14—Yours Sincerely Lanny Ross	Mar. 11,'33	19
No. 15—Speaking of Operations Pick & Pat	Jan. 28,'33	18
No. 16—Northern Exposure Technicolor Musical	Apr. 8,'33	16
No. 17—Nothing Ever Happens Musical	Mar. 25,'33
No. 18—World's Champ Jack Dempsey	July 11,'33
No. 19—The Way of All Freshmen Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Apr. 22,'33
No. 20—Along Came Ruth Ruth Etting	May 6,'33
No. 21—Fifi V. Segal-Chas. Judels	May 20,'33
HOW TO BREAK 90 BOBBY JONES
No. 1—Hands and Grip	May 27,'33
No. 2—Position and Back Swing
No. 3—Hip Action
No. 4—Down Swing
No. 5—Impact
No. 6—Fine Points
LOONEY TUNES SERIES
No. 9—Bosko and Bruno	7	Dec. 10
No. 10—Bosko's Dog Race	8	July 8
No. 11—Bosko at the Beach	7	Nov. 5
No. 12—Bosko's Store	7
No. 13—Bosko the Lumberjack
LOONEY TUNES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Ride Him, Bosko
No. 2—Bosko the Drawback
No. 3—Bosko's Dizzy Date
No. 4—Bosko's Woodland Daze
No. 5—Bosko in Dutch
No. 6—Bosko in Person
No. 7—Bosko the Speed King
No. 8—Bosko's Knight Mare
MELODY MASTERS (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Music to My Ears Jack Denny and Band
No. 2—Municipal Band Wagon
No. 3—Smash Your Baggage Small's Paradise Band
No. 4—The Lease Breakers Aunt Jemima	9	Dec. 3
No. 5—The Yacht Party Roger Wolfe Kahn's Band
No. 6—Hot Competition The Continentals-Barris-Whiteman-Ted Husing
No. 7—Abe Lyman and Band	10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 8—"How's Tricks?" Jean Sargent-George Owen and Gang
No. 9—That's the Spirit Noble Sissle and Band
No. 10—The Alma Martyr Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians
MERRY MELODIES (New Series)
No. 1—You're Too Careless With Your Kisses	8	Dec. 17
No. 2—I Wish I Had Wings
No. 3—A Great Big Bunch of You
No. 4—Three's a Crowd
No. 5—Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives
No. 6—One Step Ahead of My Shadow
No. 7—Young and Healthy
No. 8—The Organ Grinder
No. 9—Wake Up the Gypsy in Me
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The Primo Carnera	2 reels
Gypsy Caravan Martinelli	1 reel
Handy Guy, The Earl Sande	2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City	1 reel
Season's Greetings, The Christmas Special	5
Trip to Tibet, A	1 reel
Washington, The Man and the Capitol Clarence Whitehill	18
ONE-REEL COMEDIES
Baby Face Victor Moore
Military Post, The Robert Guzman
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison
No Questions Asked Little Billy
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neill
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal	1 reel
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal	1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal	1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Moving In	2 reels
Rough Sailing	16
Stutterless Romance, A	1 reel
Where Men Are Men	2 reels
PEPPER POT (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 1
No. 2—Nickelette
No. 3—Contact
No. 4—If I'm Elected
No. 5—King Salmon
No. 6—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 2
No. 7—Babe O' Mine
No. 8—Dangerous Occupations
No. 9—Out of the Past
No. 10—Love Thy Neighbor
No. 11—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 3
No. 12—A Whale of a Yarn
No. 13—Africa Speaks—English
No. 14—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4
No. 15—Sea Devils
No. 16—Parades of Yesterday
No. 17—Breakwater
No. 18—Little White Lies
No. 19—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 5
No. 20—You're Killing Me
No. 21—Inklings
No. 22—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 6
No. 23—Around the World in 8 Minutes	8	Aug. 20
No. 24—Fishermen's Holiday
No. 25—Stuck, Stuck, Stucco
No. 26—Seeing Samoa
SPORT THRILLS SERIES TED HUSING
No. 1—
No. 2—
No. 3—
No. 4—Old Time Sport Thrills
No. 5—
No. 6—
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES (Donald Meek-John Hamilton)
No. 10—Campus Mystery, The
No. 11—Crane Poison Case, The
No. 12—Transatlantic Mystery, The	22	Sept. 19
TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
Freshman Love Ruth Etting
Old Lace Ruth Etting
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters	1 reel
No. 2—Southern India	9
No. 3—Road to Mandalay	1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean By-ways	9
No. 5—Javanese Journeys	9
No. 6—Northern India	1 reel
No. 7—Oberammergau	1 reel
No. 8—South American Journeys	9	June 25
No. 9—Soviet Russia	1 reel
No. 10—Paris Glimpses	9	July 30
No. 11—Dear Old London	1 reel
No. 12—When in Rome	9	June 18
No. 13—Berlin Today	9	Oct. 29
WORLD ADVENTURES E. M. NEWMAN (New Series)
No. 1—Dancing Around the World	1 reel
No. 2—Transportations of the World	1 reel
No. 3—An Original Cocktail	10	Oct. 8
No. 4—Curious Customs of the World	1 reel
No. 5—From Bethlehem to Jerusalem	10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 6—High Spots of the Far East	10	Sept. 10
No. 7—Main Streets	1 reel
No. 8—Beauty Spots of the World	1 reel
No. 9—Workers of the World	1 reel
No. 10—Wonder Spots of the World	1 reel
No. 11—Costumes of the World	1 reel
No. 12—Strange Ceremonies	1 reel
No. 13—Top of the World	1 reel

SERIALS

UNIVERSAL

(EACH SERIAL 12 EPISODES OF TWO REELS)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clancy of the Mounted Tom Tyler-Jacqueline Wells	Feb. 27,'33	20 (each)	Feb. 4,'33
Lost Special Frank Albertson	Dec. 5
Jungle Mystery Tom Tyler	Sept. 12	20 (each)
Phantom of the Air Tom Tyler-Gloria Shea	May 22,'33

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

the great national medium for showmen

Ten cents per word, money-order or check with copy. Count initials, box number and address. Minimum insertion, $1. Four insertions for the price of three. Contract rates on application. No borders or cuts. Forms close Mondays at 5 P.M. Publisher reserves right to reject any copy. Address correspondence, copy and checks to MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Classified Dept., 1790 Broadway, New York City

REPAIR SERVICE

BEST GRADE REPAIR WORK. PRICES RIGHT. Free relief heads. Prompt service. GUERCIO AND BARTHEL, 1018 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

USED EQUIPMENT

UNUSUAL BARGAINS IN USED OPERA Chairs, Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Spotlights, Stereopticons, etc. Projection Machines Repaired. Send for catalogue H. MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

HIGH GRADE LENSES, ALL SIZES; SELL OR trade. Cheap. BOX 288, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

PAIR SIMPLEX MACHINES REBUILT, GUARanteed, $350; Peerless low intensity lamps, $190. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 311 West 44th Street, New York.

BARGAINS RECONDITIONED ARTIC-NU-AIR blowers noiseless drives. Write for prices. SOUTHERN FAN CO., Box 440, Atlanta, Ga.

TRAILER SERVICE

SPECIAL SOUND TRAILERS MADE TO MEET your present budget. Send us copy and we will quote prices. BOX 130A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PRINTING SERVICE

1,000 BUSINESS CARDS 50c. KROY PRESS, 326 N. Queen, York, Pa.

NEW EQUIPMENT

CARBONS 60% DISCOUNT GENUINE NATIONAL AC types, reflector 8/12, 9/13. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

WANTED TO BUY

WILL PAY $10.00 CASH EACH FOR SIMPLEX pedestals, complete. BOX 292, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

THEATRES

FOR SALE OR LEASE, SEVERAL WORTHwhile propositions all over the country. If interested let us know your wants. BOX 128A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

SALE OR LEASE PAYING THEATRE. SMALL Ohio city. BOX 291, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PROJECTIONISTS UNIONS

THE NEW NATIONAL PROJECTIONISTS' Union—Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union. National Executive Offices, 3546 Vincent North, Minneapolis, Minn.

ENTERTAINERS MATERIAL

MONOLOGUES, DIALOGUES, SPECIALLY written. Dollar each. TIZZARD, 801-A Willoughby Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT

RCA-VICTOR LOUDSPEAKERS, RCA PHOTOphone Professional Projectors, Soundheads, Parts. Never lower. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

RECTIFIERS, 30 AMPERES, FOREST, $75; 15 amperes rectifiers, $25. Special prices for this month only. Act at once. Guaranteed. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 311 West 44th St., New York.

FILM EXCHANGES

INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES ALL OVER THE country wanted to act as local representative for independent productions handled on state right basis. State number of theatres servicing in territory together with list of producers you are now representing. BOX 134-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE

IF YOU WANT TO REPLACE ANY TYPE OF equipment with brand new material we will be glad to make an allowance on your old equipment and a better price on new equipment. Let us know what you need and what you want to exchange and we will send complete details on our proposition. EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE, c/o MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

POSITIONS WANTED

OPERATOR—ELECTRICIAN WANTS JOB. WALTER INGALLS, Ionia, Iowa.

MARRIED MAN, EXPERIENCED SOUND PROjectionist and capable of servicing equipment. Will go anywhere and accept any reasonable offer. Best references furnished. BOX 132A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

THEATRES WANTED

WILL RENT, LEASE OR BUY WORTHWHILE theatre properties all over the country. State seating capacity, value and population. Also state condition of theatre, how equipped and what competition. BOX 122A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

TECHNICAL BOOKS

"RICHARDSON'S HAND BOOKS OF PROJECtion" in three volumes. Universally accredited as the best and most practical. Aaron Nadell's "Projection Sound Pictures." Complete information on sound equipment. Both text books complete for $12.80. QUIGLEY BOOKSHOP, 1790 Broadway, New York.

TRAINING SCHOOLS

LEARN MODERN THEATRE MANAGEMENT. Approved home-study training. Free Catalog. THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 315 Washington St., Elmira, New York.

ATTRACTIONS

FIRST CLASS STAGE AND RADIO TALENT booked direct on easy terms. Will increase your business. Name your proposition. Interested in small guarantee or percentage. BOX 123A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

POSTERS

GOOD, CLEAN, USED ADVERTISING CHEAP. Liberal credits. Highest cash prices paid for paper on current releases. We pay transportation charges. ALABAMA POSTER EXCHANGE, 528 North 18th St., Birmingham, Ala.

HELP WANTED

FILM SALESMEN AND REPRESENTATIVES TO contact exhibitors and secure contracts and bookings for independent productions on a state right basis. State in first letter experience, etc. Those with car and interested in percentage basis preferred. BOX 133-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

BRANCH MANAGERS WANTED IN EVERY State. Knowledge of projection helpful but not necessary. Business consists of theatre supplies. BOX 280, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

CONFIRMED BY TIME

IT may have been fate that prompted the perfecting of the first Eastman motion picture film just when Edison's first projector demanded it.

But it was time's judgment of its merit that again and again confirmed Eastman film as a leader in the industry it helped to father.

Today it's Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative that points the way to new heights of accomplishment, in a new era of cinematography. Eastman Kodak Company (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors).

EASTMAN FILM

"SONG OF THE EAGLE"

A Paramount Picture

A Charles Rogers Production

▼ FIRST The first of the series of "beer" pictures . . . and by a long ways the best!

▼ TIMELY Today's headlines are the stuff this picture is made of . . . the absorbing struggle of the revived beer industry to fight off racketeering domination.

▼ DRAMATIC The exciting fight of the American people to keep their new-won freedom after 13 years effort.

▼ HUMAN The story of your generation . . . the thrilling annals of an American family from 1916 until now.

Directed by Ralph Murphy, director of "70,000 Witnesses" with Charles Bickford, Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Jean Hersholt, Louise Dresser, Andy Devine & George E. Stone

★ ★ ★ Cash in on the Timeliness of this Picture — NOW!

IF IT'S A PARAMOUNT PICTURE, IT'S THE BEST SHOW IN TOWN!

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

MOTION PICTURE DOLLAR AND HOW IT IS SPENT

Exhibition takes 74 cents of it, production 18.2 and distribution 7.8 cents. Graph tells entire story at a glance

THE ELECTRICS AND THE INDUSTRY IN GERMANY

Influence extends the entire range of the business, from licensing and participation in production to the theatre

NEXT WEEK: THE INDUSTRY'S UNFAIR INSURANCE BURDEN

... entered as second-class matter January 12, 1931, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Pub-

April 30, 1932

THE PROUDEST PAPA ON BROADWAY!

And he's got a flock of other bouncing box-office babies, including: "Today We Live" (Joan Crawford—Gary Cooper); "The White Sister" (Helen Hayes—Clark Gable); "Gabriel over the White House"; "Rasputin and the Empress"; "Peg O' My Heart" (Marion Davies); "The Barbarian" (Ramon Novarro); "Looking Forward (Lionel Barrymore), etc. IT'S A PLEASURE!

"Let me tell you about my OPERATION" –says Ike Libson

An actual photograph of Ike Libson signing a Warner contract for 1933-'34.

"I operate the Keith Theatre in Cincinnati.

"For the past year I've operated it exclusively with Warner Bros. pictures.

"I've proved that a theatre CAN operate profitably on a single company's product, provided that product is as outstanding as Warner Bros.'

"Warner Bros. are to be congratulated for providing leadership at a time when the industry needed a leader.

"Especially commendable is their action in making 'Gold Diggers of 1933' immediately available. Two pictures like '42nd Street' and 'Gold Diggers' within a few weeks of each other are the finest business stimulants possible for this business.

"Naturally, my operating policy for the future is going to be the same as last year. I know from experience that I can't go wrong with Warner Bros. pictures.

"I am signing a 1933-'34 Warner contract now because I have confidence in America, the Industry and

WARNER BROS."

VITAGRAPH, INC., DISTRIBUTORS

GOLD DIGGERS" PACKED WITH LAVISH SPECTACLE SCENES!

WHICH OF THEM DO YOU WANT US TO USE IN PUBLICITY ART AND PAPER?

Here's another phase of the "Gold Diggers" ad campaign that Warner Bros. want you to help plan! We can't use all of the unprecedented wealth of gorgeous production stills . . . So we want you to tell us on the coupon below which 6 of the 12 selected shots shown here will be most useful to you as scene cuts and in posters, lobby art, etc. Which from your experience will appeal most to editors and the public? Register your vote now in this second nation-wide "Gold Diggers" ad conference — and be on the lookout for the third next week!

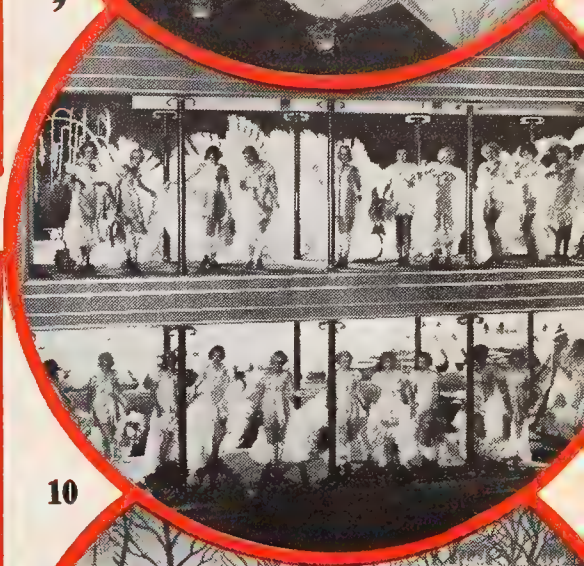
WARNER BROS.'

First 1933-'34 Production — Ready Soon for Pre-Release Engagements

GOLD DIGGERS OF 1933

With 13 Stars—The Most Beautiful Girls in the World—5 Song Hits

5



9

6

10

11

7

12

8

Here's your chance, boys to have a real say in planning the campaign you're going to use for The Show of the Century! Fill in and MAIL THIS BALLOT NOW to Warner Bros., Advertising Dept., 321 West 44th St., N. Y. C.

I think the following scenes will work out best for publicity art, posters, etc. (Vote for 6 only, by number.)

No._____ No._____

No._____ No._____

No._____ No._____

*Name*_____

*Theatre*_____

*City*_____ *State*_____

--M.P.H.

JUST LOOK AT THESE RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL FIGURES.

	(admissions)
FIRST WEEK	172,535
SECOND WEEK	172,064
TOTAL 2 W'KS	344,599

Can you blame Radio City for holding on to "Cavalcade"?

Practically no let up after two weeks of smashing every existing record in the 6,200-seat Radio City Music Hall. No wonder they booked it into the New Roxy.

A MOP-UP IN THESE SPOTS, TOO

Indianapolis
Pittsburgh
Buffalo
Philadelphia
Detroit
Baltimore
New Haven
Providence
Louisville, Ky.
Portland, Ore.

PICTURE of the GENERATION

CAVALCADE

Everywhere "Cavalcade" is proving the greatest popular-price smash in memory . . . a symbol of the FOX showmanship that is giving you the FOX May Festival hits. The eyes of the industry are on FOX as never before!

A FOX ACHIEVEMENT

APR 28 1933 ©CIB 188375

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. 111, No. 5 — April 29, 1933

EFFICIENCY DREAM

EVERY so often some enthusiast discovers again and proclaims the idea of "an Associated Press of the newsreels," meaning a central news negative gathering organization to cover all the world at one cost and supply all the competing reels. The idea has been discussed since 1916 and burst into flower again at the now historic Hollywood conferences of week before last.

The idea is as good as it ever was. It sounds important and the hallowed name of the "Associated Press" is accepted as a symbol of great meaning. There are, however, a number of things wrong with the idea. The first of them is that it will not work. The rest do not matter.

One of the most erroneous notions is that news is of importance to a newsreel. It has been amply demonstrated, and is demonstrated over and over again every week, that a newsreel needs only enough alleged news to save it from a charge of misbranding. Generally speaking, a newsreel cannot possibly present news, in competition with the telegraph and cable services of the press and the news transmissions of the radio. Negative and prints cannot travel faster than trains, ships and planes. The best a newsreel can do is to be the equivalent, with respect to the news, of a Sunday newspaper's rotogravure section.

Without detailed information, one wonders who brought the subject up in the Hollywood conferences. There were plenty of more immediately germane and important subjects that nothing was done about. Meanwhile the well-being of the industry does not require reductions of newsreel costs. The industry, however, could do with better newsreels, better sold, to both the exhibitor and to the public and supported in terms of both dollars and appreciation in a more adequate ratio to their existing and potential screen value.

△ △ △

OUR ANNIVERSARY

THREE publicity agents have within the week contributed articles announcing the thirty-ninth anniversary of the birth of the motion picture, based on the date of April 14, 1894, when the Edison peep show Kinetoscope Parlor was opened at 1155 Broadway, attributing the discovery variously to their "research departments" or the memory of their pioneer employers. The "research" and "memories" alike one suspects can be traced to Page 88, Volume I, of "A Million and One Nigths," a reference work for which the editor of this publication has the highest respect. The original correspondence and sundry accounts pertaining to that first peep show parlor were collected by the writer from Edison sources some years ago and now may be seen by researchers in the archives of the Business Historical Society, Harvard Graduate School of Business, Soldiers Field, Boston.

FOR AN AMERICAN PICTURE

MR. SHERWOOD ANDERSON, author of memorable "Winesburg, Ohio," able novelist and commentator, and of late publisher and editor of country newspapers, has come to town with a play manuscript under his arm. He has also submitted to interview by the New York Herald Tribune, announcing that he is convinced that books are "out of style" and that "the movie really reaches the people." Mr. Anderson thinks that he will try to do movies now and places his hope on "simple stories of life in this country."

"What the country needs is a great American movie and not a 'great American novel.' I am not sure that I believe in propaganda movies."

Mr. Anderson speaks with decided calmness in his sagacious observations. He is not one to be a-twitter about anything. One day his analysis of the business of expression and its market will be re-quoted as prophecy. Few writers have his perspective on their craft and its limitations of utility to the masses.

△ △ △

JUST LITTLE WORDS

THERE'S wisecracking to be had concerning the reported decision of Colonel Merian C. Cooper, production executive of RKO, to limit dialogue in that concern's pictures to Basic English, with a vocabulary of some 850 words, but it is none-the-less a plausible notion, and probably sound practice. A large proportion of the customers do not use that many words in their daily life. The effective vocabulary of radio is well within the limits of Basic. And Gracie Allen is nearer a type than a comedian. Since the screen must talk, let it say something simple. It is not a medium for thinking and thinkers, anyway. Mass entertainment must be basic, primitive, plain. The customers want to feel, and that's all.

△ △ △

CORRECTION

OUR editorial infallibility was invaded recently by an error we can't blame on a printer. Referring, in the issue of April 15, to the suppression of "Mad Moments of Youth," an erotically advertised quickie, it was erroneously stated that the projected showing was scheduled for the Central theatre, across the Hudson, when in fact it was the National theatre in Central avenue. The operating policy of the esteemed Central does not include such pictures or exploitation.

△ △ △

Mr. Elmer Rice, dramatist, is being widely quoted as saying "I would rather be controlled by Hitler, Mussolini or Stalin than Will Hays." As for us, we don't care who controls Mr. Rice.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD — MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone Circle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

THIS WEEK - - - -

INDEPENDENT PLAN

Intermittently booted about in larger production circles since last December, again recently at the Coast Conferences, the idea of merging physical distribution has seeped into the realm of independent production, finds a champion in Trem Carr, Monogram producer. Readiness in three to six months is seen by Producer Carr, preceded by a "number of conferences." Though Mr. Carr dares not, unofficial sources venture a figure of $1,000,000 as possible annual saving. Untouched would be existing sales organizations, the plan offering "appreciable economies in the shipping and handling of film." By the wayside has fallen the majors' idea; the independents' only budding. . . .

"BEST" PICTURE

To Pulitzer Prize Award annual "bests," including reporting, cartooning, novels, plays, biographies, etc., may yet be added talking pictures. That such an award be made each year was last week suggested to Columbia Journalism School's Dean Carl W. Ackerman by Warner's Major Albert Warner. Not unreceptive was Dean Ackerman, though he pointed out 1932 awards are already in. But he saw: "no reason why your proposal cannot be considered by the juries which pass upon productions of 1933." Thus perhaps greater recognition as an art form, a story-teller for the motion picture. . . .

FEARFUL SOLON

Annoyed, excited last week were film interests of Wellington, New Zealand, Australia, when one R. MacCallum, standing before the Legislative Assembly, urged unemployed to be sent from the cities, "away from picture shows and other attractions." Not completely clear is the Honorable MacCallum's purpose. Upon the Honorable, Wellington newspapers pounced editorially, verbally thumping his idea, him. . . .

OFFENSIVE DEFENSE

Raising the defensive cry of conspiracy, William Fox last week made his defensive an offensive in answering the suit brought against him by the Chicago Title and Trust Company for $1,000,000 involved in the sale of the old Roxy to Fox Theatres in March, 1927. The answer upheld by New York's supreme court, William Fox's attorneys, who ably earn their retainer, will call as new defendants Albert H. Wiggin, Frank O. Watts, Harley L. Clarke, individually and as voting trustees of Fox Theatres, Chase National, etc., claim they conspired to force Mr. Fox into the embarrassing position of having to pay the $1,000,000 due as a result of failure of a March, 1932, instalment, on the ground he had guaranteed payment. Fox counter attack: the defendants conspired to divert Fox Theatres assets so that it would be unable to continue the Roxy payments. Plaintiff efforts to strike out the charge failing, Mr. Fox scores heavily, wins first round. . . .

FATAL STUNT

To Hollywood film stunt man Hurd McLellan one day last week came an assignment of absurd simplicity—the demonstrating of a bullet-proof vest. Before a camera he stood calmly, while bullets were pumped at his chest, amply protected—he thought. Science, and the vest, failed stunt man McLellan. A bullet pierced the jacket, the resulting wound proved fatal. . . .

INFLATED DOLLARS

Anticipated is no serious disturbance to American motion picture production abroad as a result of President Roosevelt's controlled inflation maneuvers, opinionated last weekend United Artists' vice president Arthur Kelly. Rather optimistic were many film observers that a sufficient period of dollar inflation would benefit the industry, but few dared predict early favorable reaction, concrete evidence of gain. . . .

In This Issue

Hays lays down the law to studio practice in Hollywood — Page 9
The Motion Picture Dollar—How it is spent — Page 11
Electrics in Germany extend influence from production to the theatre — Page 13
Industry needs revamping, Society of Motion Picture Engineers is told — Page 12
Increased product and doubled budget keynote Monogram sales convention — Page 14

FEATURES

Editorial — Page 7
The Camera Reports — Page 15
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum — Page 36
Asides and Interludes — Page 23
Voice of the Industry — Page 40

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me — Page 37
Showmen's Reviews — Page 26
Managers Round Table — Page 41
Short Features — Page 53
Technological — Page 35
Chicago — Page 53
The Release Chart — Page 47
Box Office Receipts — Page 32
Classified Advertising — Page 54

HAIL'S COMMOTION

Intent was the large audience in the Baton Rouge, La., Paramount one night last week, on the feature picture before it. Suddenly with a deafening, frightening roar came a thundering of objects on the roof. Startled, panicky, the audience as one man rose, rushed for nearest exits. Those farther from the doors reached them to meet earlier exitees rushing back into the theatre. Finally the mass was untangled, the cause of the thunderous assault ascertained. Freakish southern atmospheric conditions had produced a vicious hail storm—hail stones as large as marbles. . . .

COMEDIANS' PROFIT

Comedians, but no fools, are the four almost inimitable Marx Brothers, whose screen exploits have been unquestionably financially gainful. For Sam Katz's new Producing Artists, Inc., will the Brothers make their future pictures, to be recompensed on a percentage basis. Declared "dumb" Harpo last week in Chicago: "We expect to make more on percentage . . . than we did on a flat figure." For "important people in Hollywood" there will "always be plenty of money," said Harpo, thus dismissing the salary spat of current repercussion. . . .

SUPER-SPEED

Amazed were Manhattan newsmen last week when, in the uptown projection room of Electrical Research Products, they saw the results of many months' work by many engineers of Erpi, Bell Telephone, Eastman Kodak. Demonstrated was a new super-speed camera, capable of taking up to 3,000 pictures a second, operating at 125 times normal film camera speed. Recorded is the time required for an object to move, thus: it required 26/100 second for a blindfolded person to jerk his hand from a burning cigarette, or a rubber balloon to explode after contact with a match; to wink takes 11/100 second. Practical value: study of high speed motion. Entertainment value: probably none. . . .

PASSING STAR

Rather deeply into the indestructible granite which is the lore of the American stage, had William Courtenay carved a niche since his first role in 1892 as a barnstorming college boy. Many years, many starring roles filled his career, until, in later years, he turned to the fertile motion picture. A year ago while playing in "The Inside Story," Mr. Courtenay strained his heart, an ailment from which he never fully recovered. In the seclusion of his Rye, N. Y., home, Crestlea, he last week passed away. . . .

WILL H. HAYS LAYS DOWN THE LAW TO STUDIO PRACTICE IN HOLLYWOOD

And lo, it has come to pass that at least something has happened in Hollywood. Mr. Will H. Hays, these several years the diplomatic exemplar of tact and patience, these several years the special pleader in behalf of a production community that had seceded from the United States, has stepped forward, cleared his voice, hammered on the table and raised hell, in terms, words and a tone of belligerency that have shocked the sons and daughters of that sunkissed strand west of the Sierras as they have never been shocked before. Mr. Hays has declared himself and the powers of the industry which he represents against the insular, esoteric, Latin Quarter school of production, in behalf of the box office of the American public. The Production Code has been declared in full force and effect, this time with teeth in it. He has named names and promises, not scoldings, not slaps on the wrist, but a good bust in the nose for deliberate violators —in other words, the barring from release and condemnation in toto, and loss at full cost, for productions which flagrantly dare transgression of common decency in dialogue or situation.

Further, the sector of Hollywood which does not like it, has been informed that Mr. Hays' present contract has three years to run, that he and his organization are secure in it and backed by the full approbation of the executive chiefs of the corporations which are represented by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc. Reports of a dissolution of the Hays office are branded as wish-children of unhappy Hollywood offenders.

It would, therefore, appear that leadership in refreshingly new terms promises to crystallize out of the motion picture's depression-chaos. There is clear promise that the oars are to be manned, that the motion picture industry is going to be run by somebody.

All these cheerful tidings are to be gathered from the dispatches of Mr. Red Kann, editor of Motion Picture Daily, who has been present in the front line on the Western Front this fortnight past. Mr. Kann views with enthusiasm, some questioning and a certain grim humor, what he has seen in Hollywood, as reflected and presented in the subjoined articles.—THE EDITOR.

by RED KANN, Editor of Motion Picture Daily

[Written in Hollywood]

Will H. Hays, from now on, may be expected to pack his punches with a wallop and to crack heads in Hollywood and in New York, when those heads refuse to pay attention to his mandates. For his powers have been widened by the major companies, banded together in the M.P.P.D.A., by a general understanding.

The understanding that this is the way matters stand was one important impression which Mr. Hays left behind him in Hollywood when he boarded the Chief Tuesday night, en route eastward after the industry conferences. New York executives, while attending to cost discussions, are understood to have informed their studio chiefs that Mr. Hays is the man they selected to guide them and who will carry out whatever program for industry good appears to him sound business to undertake.

If the men in charge of production propose ignoring his "clean up" campaign, Mr. Hays warned them their superiors in New York would find a group who would obey orders and added he made this statement with full consent of various company presidents in Hollywood and in New York.

Mr. Hays is understood to have a four-ply formula for the elimination of "dirt." It follows:

1. Objectionable pictures or dialogue or situations will be turned back.

2. If this fails to bring the desired result, appeal will be made to company heads in New York over the heads of Hollywood.

3. If company heads take no action, the third step proposes an appeal to the bankers as protection of their investments.

4. If Points 1, 2 and 3 fail, the issue will be placed before the public for decision.

Points 1 and 2 are reliably reported to have been worked out by Mr. Hays with company heads. Points 3 and 4, it is learned further, are advanced by Mr. Hays on his own and will constitute extreme measures "to save the business from itself," as one Hays member in Hollywood described them.

Some day, more Hollywood bigwigs will remember that making pictures for the public is the only reason why studios exist. When that idea grabs firmer hold, theatre grosses may turn a bit happier.

Tied in with Hollywood and the business of production today is a social system that plays an open and all-powerful part, in what many production executives do and why. Individualistic to an extreme that hurts far more than it helps, the Hollywood man and woman constantly seeks a new and brighter place in the local sun. What goes on outside of this community's boundary lines is of little concern to those who live within them.

The job of making pictures gives considerably over half of Hollywood's registered population its livelihood. With virtually no outside interests, little drama, little music to engage attention, it follows that film is the topic of conversation practically to the exclusion of all else.

At the parties which make up the chief form of divertissement, the goings on at all studios are common gossip. There appear to be no secrets in the scheme of operations. Everyone knows everybody else's activities, business and social alike, and the direct result has many studio policies framed over a cocktail.

Because it is common knowledge that nobody knows how long the Gold Coast will thrive, because importance is confused with ostentation, the competitive bidding for higher and higher caste starts at the studios, extends into the social whirl and percolates back to the studios again.

Many contracts are discussed in drawing rooms and many contracts smashed the same way. There is, for example, the condition, thriving on social mixing, which constantly does harm to some producer at

(Continued on following page, column 3)

Conversation, more rampant in Hollywood than elsewhere throughout the nation, that the large companies, members of the MPPDA, have contemplated or are contemplating a change in administration of the Hays organization, has been effectively spiked by the visit in Hollywood of the heads of the corporations, who gathered together two weeks ago to discuss economies.

Mr. Will H. Hays has three years to go under his present contract as president of the association. He will round out his term of office, backed strongly by his constituents.

Hollywood, full of loose talk at all times, and especially loaded with it now, because of the horizontal salary cut and the Artists Service Bureau, probably does not realize the situation, and, moreover, won't, even after the facts seep into its consciousness. Nevertheless, developments in Hollywood in the last 10 days, giving Mr. Hays added authority, are construed to separate trend from conjecture, to indicate definitely that New York has voiced its decision anew to stand four-square behind the man their own selection dictated.

Hollywood, or enough of it to lend ear to its belief, maintains Mr. Hays was responsible for the salary cut affecting earning power blanket-like with no regard for accomplishment or individual company financial standing. This same opinion lays blame for the breakdown of morale and its consequent bearing on product mediocrity, at the doorsteps of the producers and, thus, at Mr. Hays' feet.

The impression, voiced openly around the studio colony, has been that producers, therefore, had reason to question the Hays leadership and had concluded their interests were not being properly safeguarded.

An identical condition exists in connection with the Artists Service Bureau, which is regarded as tied in directly with Point 3 of Mr. Hays' five-point program and concerns itself with new talent, employed at prices below the current Hollywood salary level,

(Continued on following page, column 3)

ACADEMY UP IN ARMS OVER TALENT BUREAU

Thoroughly organized opposition of Hollywood's creative workers to the proposed Artists' Service Bureau for cataloguing and centrally controlling activities of players, writers and directors, appears to be the only concrete action taken to date on the first great gathering of eastern and western executives of the industry. Representatives of the leaders, in an official statement from Hollywood this week, requested that judgment on the bureau be reserved until some later date, when attempts will be made to convince the workers that the plan will be a good thing for the industry, possibly saving the studios $6,000,000 yearly in salaries of stock company players and of contract directors and writers. Obviously, this forms the basis of the opposition of workers.

Continuing the militant attitude against producers, which first became evident in arguments over salary cuts, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts has taken up the cudgels on behalf of workers in protesting the establishment of the new Artists Bureau. The net result to date is a split in the Academy's ranks and a new administration headed by J. Theodore Reed, who, as successor to President Conrad Nagel, is expected to uphold the Academy's new aggressive policies. Mr. Reed is an assistant to Benjamin Glazer, Paramount producer.

Academy spokesmen said a workable plan for such a bureau might be evolved, but it must be by conferences of those who pay and those who earn, with equal vote.

Producers Answer Critics

While attorneys in Hollywood were assigned to interpreting legal aspects of the bureau, Jesse L. Lasky and B. B. Kahane, for the producers, sent the following to the Committee on Agency Problems of the Academy:

"Many unfair and unfounded statements have been circulated as to the aims and purposes of the contemplated bureau. The accusation that the proposed bureau is a scheme to abolish competitive bidding for creative talent is entirely unjustified; nor is there any foundation whatever for the statements that a charge to agents or artists is contemplated. This service to agents and artists will be entirely free and all expenses in connection with the maintenance of the bureau will be borne entirely by the producers.

"The committee is endeavoring to evolve a plan for the operation of an Artists Service Bureau along purely service lines.

"With the studios located at different points at Hollywood, Culver City, Beverly Hills, Burbank, Universal City, etc., there is a great deal of lost motion and waste of time and effort in artists and agents contacting studios and studio representatives in contacting one another.

"As to agents, the proposed bureau will, of course, recognize all agents now licensed in the state. The only agents against whom there will be any restrictions are those who may resort to practices recognized as illegal or unethical.

"There are many advantages to all in a properly organized Artists' Service Bureau and we believe that the formation of such a bureau will benefit artists, producers and agents alike. We feel we have the right to ask from the industry that the plan be not pre-judged and condemned before it is formulated."

Academy factions which fought for termination of the wage cut and are now opposing the Artists' Bureau, immediately began discussing plans for complete reorganization. It was indicated in other Hollywood circles that the producers, who made the Academy financially possible, are seriously considering withdrawing from membership.

Committees were being formed by the actors' branch to effect a "new deal" in the Academy. Chester Morris, Warner Baxter, Hedda Hopper and Reginald Barlow met and named five contract players and five freelancers to confer with them. The contract workers are Fredric March, Kay Francis, Guy Kibbee, Spencer Tracy and Louise Closser Hale; the freelancers are Minna Gombel, Robert Emmett O'Connor, George Cawthorn, Lois Wilson and Alan Dinehart.

The Academy's actors branch was in meeting at press time to discuss reorganization. A revamped constitution is expected to be presented to all branches. If the producers withdraw and discontinue financial support, the members are expected to agree to individual assessment.

Under the new constitution, election would be vested in the directorate, comprising 15 members, and seven representatives each from the actors, technicians, directors, producers and writers branches.

Membership dues would also aid in building up a $1,000,000 "war chest," thereby making the Academy independent and the socalled "champion" of contract talent. Development of such a situation easily might establish the Academy as a form of Actors Equity.

The Academy leaders defied the producers to withdraw and planned to remodel the organization so that any producer moneys shall be placed in a separate treasury to continue important technical activities of the Research Council, apart from other Academy funds. Darryl Zanuck, who resigned from Warners over a dispute about restoring salaries, would administer these funds as council chairman.

Benjamin Glazer also resigned as Academy vice-president. John Cromwell, RKO director, fills this vacancy.

Specifically, the new financial reorganization would provide for the setting up of a reserve fund for each branch, to accrue through dues amounting to 1 per cent of each member's earnings. Three-fourths of the fund would be put in trust for the branch, with lending and insurance permitted. Also, branches of the Academy would be self-governing and would serve as units of an Academy Federation.

A producers' branch would be reorganized as a fifth talent branch, with no executive empowered to sign contracts eligible to office in the Academy. Corporations would be admitted to only associate membership, with no vote.

Negotiations with producers to have a compulsory arbitration clause in all contracts, with disputes to be umpired by the Academy, also was suggested, likewise a special class to be created for agents. Agents already have begun conversations with Academy representatives. They would be eligible only after signing a proposed artist-agent code of practice.

Economies through coordination of activities in various studio departments before cameras actually start grinding, was the important accomplishment of the east-and-west conferences, according to Adolph Zukor, of Paramount, who returned this week to New York. Mr. Hays also was expected in New York, following a second series of conferences with studio heads.

THE ANSWER

Al Finestone, Kansas City reporter for Motion Picture Herald, raced breathlessly down the platform of the Union Station, to catch the CHIEF and its load of picture people en route east. Adolph Zukor was aboard, and young Mr. Finestone proceeded to question him about the big happenings at the recent Hollywood conferences. "Paramount will concentrate on making pictures for the public," said Mr. Zukor.

Call Hays' Status Strongest Ever

(Continued from preceding page, Column 3)

which New York considers completely out of line with current conditions.

As a paralleling factor is the change in the national political situation, which, for the first time in 12 years, places the Democratic party in power. Hollywood, through circumspect and long-distance analysis, has drawn the conclusion that the switch in political fortunes has marked the end of Mr. Hays' influence on behalf of the film business.

Factor three hits at the vagaries of the practices of the producers themselves, more so than Mr. Hays. It is pointed out in Hollywood that the Production Code, a Hays plan to which all studios originally subscribed, has been made virtually ineffective by the failure of all producers, at various times, to live up to it.

But what has been overlooked by Hollywood, is the manner in which the New York executives have rallied around Hays' leadership.

Additionally, what has helped Mr. Hays on the Coast is the rapprochement effected on his recent visit with Louis B. Mayer. Reports had it that the MGM production head, as president of the Association of M. P. Producers, which is the western Hays affiliate, regarded himself in the West in a position analagous to that occupied by Mr. Hays in the East, and that Mr. Mayer did not always get along as completely and as amicably with Mr. Hays as might be desired.

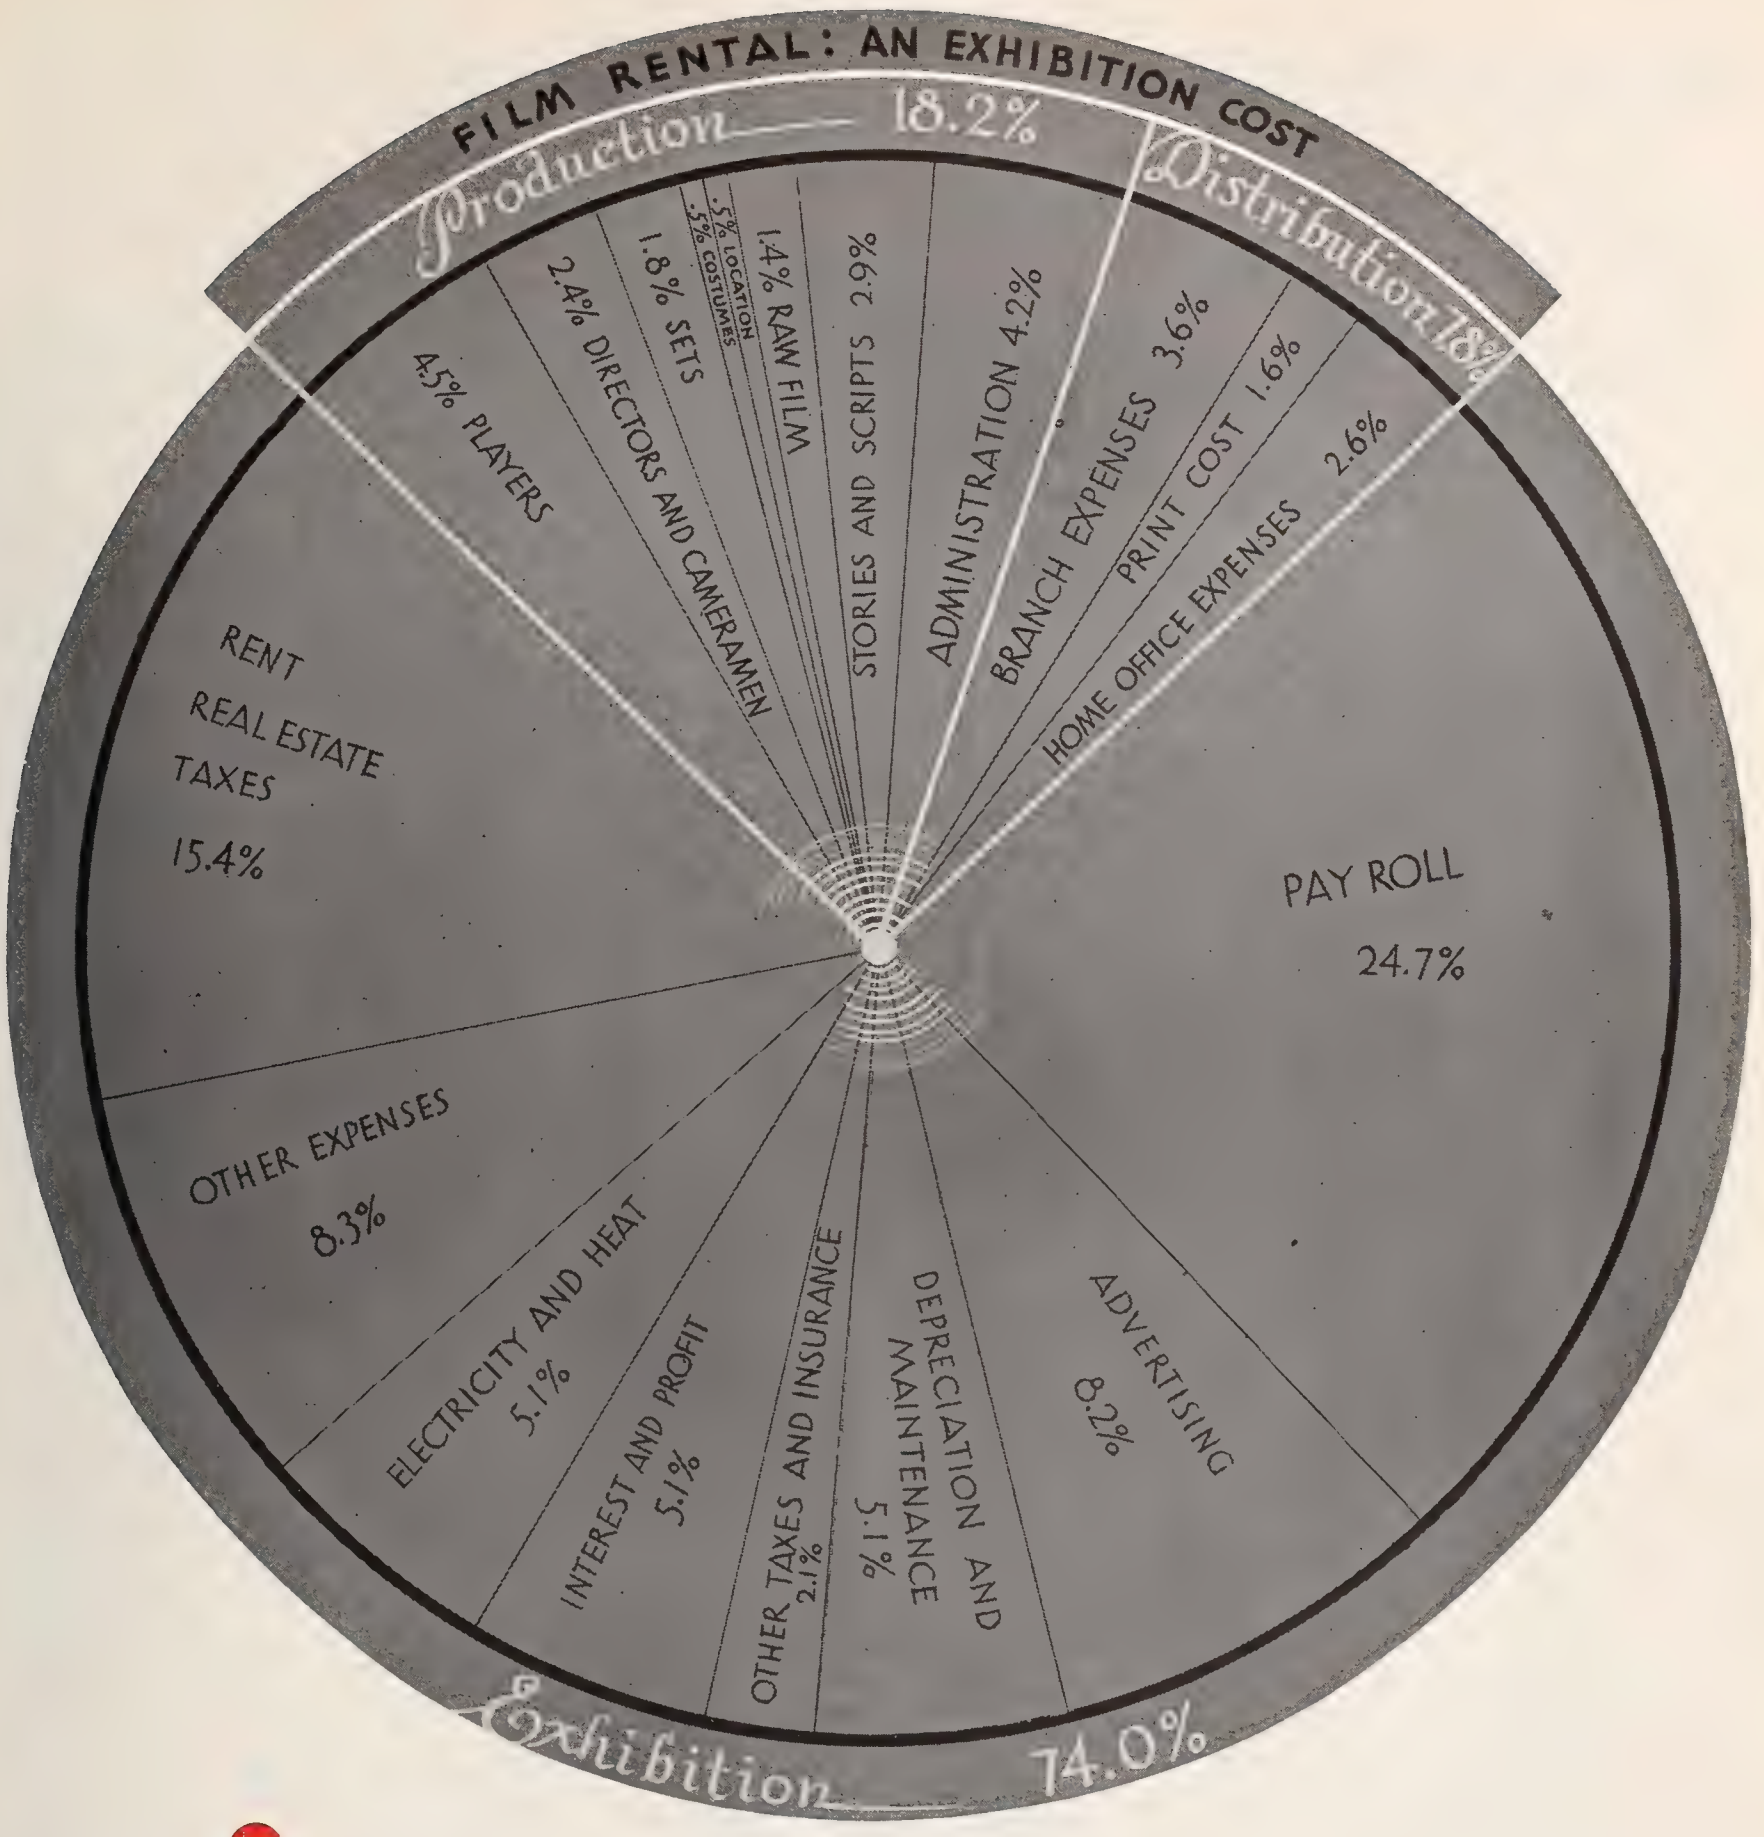
At any rate, it now seems quite clearly established that Mr. Mayer is prepared to work in harmony with Mr. Hays and under his leadership.

Leaders of the industry, in summing up the results of Mr. Hays' Hollywood trip, therefore, declare his position today is stronger than ever.

They see in the joint Hollywood meetings concluded a few days ago, a new and different attitude among studio executives, and describe this attitude as one that reflects the seriousness of the industry's present plight, plus a realization that economy measures, better management and more cooperation are necessary.

Whipsawing The Producer

(Continued from preceding page, column 2)



some studio somewhere along the line. A case:

Miss X, attractive and a pretty good actress, is employed by Y Productions. The head man at Z Productions thinks her a bet, but there is that contract. Z Productions is an important company and it's a prestige-builder to be employed on that lot. That makes it simple for a third party to tell Miss X casually that Mr. ——— of Z company thinks she was fine.

It's all very flattering tho the player. Then comes the crack that it is too bad Miss X is employed by Y, because Mr. ——— might be interested. He may be interested in landing her services or he may be on a rampage to weaken Y. At any rate, there are actual instances where players like Miss X have become dissatisfied sufficiently to vitiate her value as a performer with Y Productions because of unrest born of propaganda.

As another factor in a badly messed up situation, there is the agent, the fellow who is employed by talent to get all he can and wants to because his 10 per cent cut increases proportionately. The agent's tactics are not always clean, but he's after the end and is not interested so much in the means.

Under discussion is now a code governing agency activities. It is designed to cover chiselers of the above type and is a sorely needed something to help iron out one of the most fantastic of conditions on the West Coast.

THE MOTION PICTURE DOLLAR

Here are the essential economies of the motion picture industry, reduced to the simple terms of a comparative chart, a pictograph suggestive of a dollar, or even of a pie. As a dollar, however, it is intended—the Motion Picture Dollar. And with divisions based on percentages derived from Motion Picture Herald researches, is shown how this dollar is expended by the three basic divisions of the industry in the processes of manufacturing, wholesaling and retailing film product. Thus is shown that of each dollar spent in creating motion picture entertainment, Production's share is 18.2 per cent; Distribution's, 7.8 per cent; and Exhibition's, 74 per cent. In other words, the Theatre spends three times more money than the other two branches put together. Indeed, Exhibition spends the entire Motion Picture Dollar! Above our circle will be observed a band inscribed, "Film rental: an Exhibition cost." And this band embraces both Production and Distribution with their total of 26 per cent. This explains the absence of a slice of Exhibition labelled Film Rental. Film rental is that portion of Exhibition cost from which Production and Distribution get the revenue which they pay out in their own costs. Exhibition, of course, is the division that obtains the Motion Picture Dollar in the first place. From the Public.

INDUSTRY NEEDS A REVAMPING TO FIT PURPOSE, SMPE IS TOLD

Cracking Up of Super-Men and Super-Circuits Revealing Forgotten Exhibitor, Says Terry Ramsaye at Spring Meeting

by GEORGE SCHUTZ
Editor of Better Theatres

Reconstruction of the motion picture industry along lines more in keeping with the nature and purposes of the art and business, and new opportunities for the film both as an art and as a business, held prominent place among the discussions of the first 1933 convention of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, which opened with an attendance of 140 in New York on Monday. These subjects, discussed on the opening day by M. A. Lightman, Terry Ramsaye and William H. Short, the last named a director of the Motion Picture Research Council, rather identified the five-day meeting and associated it with its times.

"We have come to a great evolutionary period in the industry," Mr. Ramsaye pointed out at the inaugural luncheon. "We are in the process of making an overlap dissolve from the Dinosaur era, the era of the super-corporations, super-theatres, super-productions, super-circuits and supercilious 'super-men,' into the coming new order, in which it appears the industry is going to be broken up into units small enough so that they can be handled and operated.

"The Dinosaur was a brute so big that his tail never knew where his head was going. The receivers got him.

"And while the super-men and the super-circuits are cracking up, there comes now the promising discovery of that forgotten man, the exhibitor, the fellow who has to get from the public all the dollars with which the motion picture does business."

Lightman Urges Change

A similar point of view was taken by Mr. Lightman, MPTOA president, who spoke after Mr. Ramsaye. "This organization must take place," Mr. Lightman said, "even if it means kicking out the highest executives."

Mr. Short appeared before the first evening session in the Salle Modern of the Hotel Pennsylvania, where the Spring meeting was held. Reading a paper entitled "Unoccupied Motion Picture Fields," he went comprehensively into the work of the organization he represents, which, in conjunction with the Payne Fund Research, is seeking to establish a greater consciousness of the social significance of the motion picture. At the outset this group took the position that the motion picture was here to stay and that it had proved to be potentially a tremendous boon to the human race. Researches were instigated to determine to what extent civilization has in the film "a new tool of high intellectual and social potency." The findings, he said, showed the motion picture to have deep and far-flung influences upon the manners, culture and education of today.

"Even very young children take in to a remarkable degree what they see on the screen," he declared, describing experiments which revealed that children from seven to nine years old comprehend as much as 60 per cent of the matter in motion pictures understood by educated adults of both sexes. Heart beat studies definitely proved, he said, a terrific emotional reaction even in adults from socalled "shocker" films. The whole program of investigation Mr. Short described as having shown the motion picture peculiarly effective as a creator of profound individual and social reactions.

New Fields for Attention

"This data," he continued, "scientifically ascertained as it has been, leads me, and I believe that it will lead the public, to the inevitable conclusion that there are unoccupied fields for the exploitation of the motion picture of even greater importance than any that have yet been cultivated, that these fields demand immediate attention, and that the scope, the usefulness, the reputation and the business opportunities of the motion picture will be vastly enlarged thereby."

He described a number of such fields specifically. One was education, but Mr. Short would have the film educate, not in competition with text books, but by use of its special powers to stimulate the imagination and emotions.

"A glance at the vast organization and equipment used in the text book trade," he declared, "will show what this means for the film industry."

Similarly, Mr. Short indicated, the field of juvenile entertainment should offer new opportunities for the motion picture business. Investigation disclosed that "going to the movies" is almost a universal habit among children. While children and adolescents constitute but 31½ per cent of our total population, 37 per cent of the film's patronage is composed of this young group. Mr. Short cited findings that tended to show the majority of the present film product unsuited to children culturally. Yet another field is one he said the motion picture industry makes little or no effort to reach—that represented by the "adult adults."

"The motion picture industry has rung the changes on the assertion that the American people are a race of morons and that they are making pictures for unintellectual 14-year-olds. A generation has been spent in convincing this intelligent audience that there is little or nothing for them in the movies. Also, a careful study of motion picture advertising by the Payne Fund shows that the industry is not geared up to appeal to this audience.

Most Profitable Audience

"I am ready to defend the thesis that this intelligent group, which has heretofore been ignored or flouted, is the largest and most profitable audience in the United States for motion picture entertainment, that it has been alienated, and that it can be won back by the making and exhibiting of adult drama."

Papers read in the regular councils of the society were of their usual high caliber, and several brought forth new methods and discoveries of immediate promise to the industry in general. Economies in film consumption were discussed by both N. Levinson of Warner Brothers and Douglas Shearer of MGM. Among researches about to be realized in actual product of important bearing on practices and costs in the business is a projector carbon capable of taking alternating current, eliminating rectifiers or motor-generators. A transformer is inserted between the lamp and the power main. According to a paper read by A. C. Downes of the National Carbon Company, better illumination at lower cost is possible.

A new alternating current projection lamp was described by C. S. Ashcraft of the Imperial Electric & Manufacturing Company, while some of the problems to be met in overcoming image distortion were set forth by C. Tuttle of Eastman. F. H. Richardson of MOTION PICTURE HERALD declared in a paper on eye strain that the causes lay in unnecessary theatre practices with respect to seating, and in the film itself.

Equipment exhibits were fewer at this meeting than at other conventions. However, there were a number of interesting displays, though most of them consisted of apparatus previously revealed.

All sessions were presided over by President Alfred N. Goldsmith. Committee chairmen were:

New York local committee, Herbert Griffin; entertainment and amusements (no chairman, but following members), W. C. Kunzman, W. C. Hubbard, M. W. Palmer, P. H. Evans, Herbert Griffin, J. H. Kurlander, Harry Rubin and J. H. Spray; banquet arrangements, W. C. Hubbard; membership, H. T. Cowling; publicity, Will Whitmore. Hostesses were Mmes. E. I. Sponable, O. M. Glunt, M. C. Batsel, Herbert Griffin, W. M. Palmer and Miss Dorothy Hubbard.

Lightman Urges Reorganizing of Industry; W. H. Short of Research Council Points Out Unoccupied Fields for Films

New York Owners Form Association

New York exhibitors on Tuesday began formation of the Independent Theatre Owners' Protective Association at a meeting at the Hotel Astor. Harry Brandt presided, with 123 local theatres represented. Officers will be elected next Tuesday at another meeting, also planned for the Astor, when a charter is expected to be approved by state officials.

All exhibitors in the new organization have agreed to employ only Empire State union members as projectionists. Offices have been taken already at 341 West 44th street. Prominent local theatre operators among those present included Jack Springer, Sam Cocalis, A. H. Schwartz and Walter Reade. Mr. Springer indicated the reason for the establishment of the organizaiton as protection against "underworld influence which Local 306 is exerting on Empire State union."

TOBIS HOLD ON GERMAN INDUSTRY EXTENDS FROM STUDIO TO THEATRE

Electric Participates in Production Also Through Subsidiaries While Defending Sound Patents; Agreements Ironclad

by HANS TINTNER
Berlin Correspondent

Dependence of the film producers on the electrical industries, characterizing the film market since the beginning of the sound film, is nowhere so evident as in Germany. In no country of the world has the effect on the independent producer been so marked as that of the Tobis in Germany.

The general crisis in German's industry is said to be responsible for the numerous insolvencies and suspensions of payment of the German film companies. But more and more the opinion prevails that the payment of tribute of the German film producers to the Tobis is responsible for the situation in the German industry.

Income Reduced a Third

This last winter Film-Kurier stated that the German exhibitors dropped income by a third to approximately 200 million reichsmarks per year, thereby limiting the intakes of the distributors to nearly 50 million reichsmarks a year. This sum must be sufficient to finance and guarantee a film production of 180 to 200 feature films a year.

Sound production and the licenses take another 25 per cent, equal to eight to ten million reichsmarks a year from the aforementioned amount of money which is paid to the Tobis in a situation which, according to the opinion of leading German film experts, is unbearable.

The insolvencies of the last year, such as Emelka, Südfilm, D. L. S., Küchenmeister, are unfavorably loading the balance of the Tobis and have led to a diminution of the stock capital of the Tobis from twelve million reichsmarks to five million.

Competes with Independents

But it is not only in its licensing policy that the Tobis has shown its unrivaled position. In the form of various subsidiaries it acts as competitor to the independent German film producers. The Jofa Company has been charged with the recording and the sound production and Tobis holds 50 per cent of the stock of that company. By the newly established Europe Film Distribution the Tobis has entered the field of the film exchange. The Tobis itself devotes all its time to the defense and acknowledgment of its patents and to the license agreement without which no film can be produced in Germany. This combination of distribution with the studio and the licensing business is considered beyond endurance by the other German film companies.

Opinion prevails that the Tobis competes with those firms which, by its distribution branch, have come under its financial influence and are forced to use its recording system. The situation where the producer could independently determine the financial and production side of his work and got a recording set for every studio available, has reversed itself in the course of time and has forced the licensee of the Tobis to use only the Tobis studio at Johannisthal for his recording work.

Bound by Severe Agreements

While free competition in sound production among German, American and French recording systems is possible in Paris and, therefore, the French Tobis is working along more favorable conditions, and while in Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia the producers get their own recording sets, film production in Germany is bound by severe agreements and restrictions.

The Swedish film industry has severed its connections with the Tobis, claiming that the Tobis conditions will ruin the industry. The English group of the Tobis concern likewise did not develop successfully.

In consideration of this situation the German film producers prefer to make their pictures in Paris or London.

Austria is affected equally by the supremacy of the Tobis, which has prevented Sascha Film, leading Austrian film producer, from using its own recording system in the studios. As creditor of the Sascha Company the Tobis has succeeded in influencing the policy of Sascha Film Company.

By collaboration with Tri-Ergon, the Tobis has forced its way into the production branch of the industry, thereby completing its vertical sound film organization, with its own production via Tri-Ergon, its own film exchange in Europa Film Company, its own production center in Jofa, leasing of recording sets by Tiges and the granting of licenses by Tobis itself.

The independent German film producers consider this unrivaled supremacy over the entire sound film market as most severe competition and the greatest hardship. They hold that the essential premise for restoration of the industry in Germany requires free control of the producer over his own recording system, which he can redeem by letting it to other companies.

Newman Heads New Independents Group

Frank L. Newman is president of Evergreen State Amusement Corporation, second statewide group of independent theatres formed at Seattle in the last ten days. The new company includes approximately 20 theatres in Washington and Oregon. Albert Rosenberg is vice-president and Albert Finkelstein secretary-treasurer.

"Chain operation of these theatres by companies with headquarters in the East or South is a thing of the past," Mr. Newman said.

Seidel Sterling's Treasurer

Ira Seidel has been named treasurer and comptroller of Sterling Pictures Corporation. Mr. Seidel formerly was comptroller of Tiffany and Allied Pictures.

Rowson Proposes Film Division for British Industry

A British government department similar to the Motion Picture Division of the U. S. Department of Commerce, for dissemination of information regarding England's film industry, was proposed by Simeon Rowson, director of Gaumont-British Picture Corporation, in a recent address before the Royal Empire Society in London.

Mr. Rowson declared that "in Australia the British film has definitely ousted the American film from its erstwhile supremacy" and that "the same tale comes from Canada, South Africa and India."

He said that in 1932 the public paid into all cinemas in Great Britain a total of 43 million pounds, or 36 million pounds exclusive of the entertainment tax. The average admission, exclusive of the tax, was 9 pence, representing 960 million admissions a year or 18½ millions a week. Adding admissions in Ireland, the total, he estimated, was almost 20 millions a week throughout the British isles.

Terming the cinematograph films act of 1927 an unqualified success, Mr. Rowson pointed out that since January 1, 1928, nearly 500 British features have been registered at a production cost between six and seven million pounds; studios have been erected capable of producing 150 to 200 features a year, the studios and equipment costing at least 2,500,000 pounds; in the year ended March 31, 1932, there were 154 features registered at a production cost above two millions; "the public, the press and the exhibitor now are agreed that the average British film is more attractive and provides better entertainment for our own people than the average American film," and in the 1932-33 year since that report 150 more pictures have been produced at a cost exceeding two million pounds.

Court Denies Erpi Plea for Vitaphone Arbitration

Justice Penniwell, in chancery court, Wilmington, Del., this week overruled a plea filed by Erpi that the Vitaphone Corporation be stopped from prosecuting its suit against Erpi in this jurisdiction. Erpi recently filed a petition asking the suit go to arbitration under the terms of an agreement between the two litigants covering the manufacture and sale of equipment.

The court ruled that arbitration covenants similar to that involved do not grant immunity from a suit in this jurisdiction, and further indicated that if the case proceeds a master will probably be appointed to hold hearings in cities most convenient to the litigants.

MONOGRAM TO SPEND $2,000,000 ON 24 FEATURES; DROPS WESTERNS

Negative Costs Increased 30 Per Cent, Franchise Holders Are Told at Atlantic City Meeting; Johnston Presides

by FRED AYER

Monogram's "new deal" sales season officially got under way this week at Atlantic City, at the company's third annual convention.

Executives of the home office in New York and of the production division from Hollywood, assembled Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the large ballroom of the Ambassador hotel on the boardwalk, and outlined to two score franchise holders plans for a 30 per cent increase in negative costs, bringing the total budget to $2,000,000 to be spent on twenty-four features for release during 1933-34. The delegates departed sounding a new note of optimism for the entire independent field, and instructed to make a definite drive for first-run playdates. W. Ray Johnston presided.

For the first time, Monogram next season will not distribute westerns. This year, 12 features of this type are being marketed. The company's staffs of directors and writers will be augmented by Trem Carr, production chief.

All Officers Reelected

All officers were reelected, headed by Mr. Johnston, president, and including Harry Thomas, vice-president in charge of distribution; Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of production; J. V. Ritchey, vice-president in charge of foreign activities; J. P. Friedhoff, treasurer; M. S. White, secretary, and Edward A. Golden, general sales manager. Michael L. Simmons, in charge of advertising and publicity, completes the executive staff.

Directors elected, besides Messrs. Johnston, Ritchey, Thomas and Carr, include Robert Withers, Irving Mandel, Herman Rifkin, Floyd St. John and Arthur C. Bromberg and J. S. Jossey, who succeeded Nat Steinberg.

Mr. Golden said Monogram will sell next year's releases with campaigns "unprecedented" in the independent field. Claude Ezell, Dallas district manager, told the assembled delegates that independents now have their greatest opportunity. Other speakers were Mr. Ritchey, Mr. Johnston, Lou Ostrow, Mike Simmons, Mr. Thomas, Sam Flax, Mr. Carr and Irving Mandel.

To Make Dramas Only

Franchise holders were deadlocked Tuesday over the decision of executives to discontinue westerns. Provision probably will be made for their distribution under another banner, possibly through the formation of a group of franchise holders in territories still demanding westerns, like the southern states, and in Pittsburgh and Chicago. Trem Carr said the action was necessary because people who liked westerns either haven't got money for any pictures today or because children in those sections are getting too sophisticated.

Mr. Ostrow, executive producer, said he considered musicals only a cycle, but that Monogram will make one or two.

Monogram's new features will all be dramas. Much of the story material will be bought on the open market. Six books, three plays, five magazine stories, two novels have been definitely decided upon.

Mr. Golden said on Wednesday that picture makers, distributors and theatre owners should do their own jobs—not mix in things they know nothing about. "Manufacturers cannot be retailers," he said. "Under all adversities, Monogram has delivered everything offered or agreed to deliver from inception. What we need is a new deck of cards."

Mr. Golden said circuit buying and circuits have outlived their usefulness and he appealed to those independent exhibitors now approaching their first sign of real independence by acting kindly toward companies making independent pictures for independent exhibitors.

"One of the fads of the business today is decentralization," he said. "We have practised that from the start; in fact, independent business is built upon decentralization."

In his welcoming speech on Monday, Ray Johnston reported a substantial profit in the year's business. It was voted by the board to add last year's profits to the surplus account, probably to be used in intensive advertising.

Features already decided upon for 1933-34 include:

"Wine Women and Song," musical; "The Woman in White," novel by Wilkie Collins; "Two Little Arms," original; "Jane Eyre," Charlotte Bronte novel; "Moonstone Mystery"; "Chuck Connors, Mayor of Chinatown," by M. L. Simmons and B. R. Solomon; "The Avenger," novel; "Other Peoples Money"; "Mystery Liner," by Edgar Wallace; "Beggars in Ermine"; "Woman's Man," by Adela Rogers St. John; "Great God Fourflush"; "Numbers of Death," by E. Phillips Oppenheim; "Sixteen Fathoms Deep"; "The Loud Speaker," original by Tristram Tupper; "River Street Ditty"; "Sky Patrol"; "Manhattan Love Song," musical; "Hotel Register," original by Tupper; "He Couldn't Take It," by Albert Payson Terhune, and "City Limits."

Also on the program are four specials, titles to be announced concurrent with release.

Associate producers will probably be dropped and unit producers replacing them. It is expected to cut 15 per cent from production costs this way, and doubling costs of negatives.

With the Men of Monogram

Headquarters, Atlantic City

Ray Johnston elicited a chorus of ohs and ahs when he entered the dining room of Monogram's convention quarters at the Ambassador Hotel early Monday, attired in a dazzling ensemble of Oxford gray shirt, tie and handkerchief to match.

▽

Al Friedlander, returning across country from the west coast on a Goona Goona errand, didn't bother to stop in New York, where he has been particularly missed for the last four months, but made direct for convention headquarters at Atlantic City.

▽

Johnny Harrington, jack of all trades, must have had four doubles working for him at the convention. He seemed to be everywhere, doing everything and—for all we know—everybody. Johnny was particularly the soul of courtesy to the ladies.

▽

J. V. Ritchey, in pearl gray hat and impeccable walking stick, was the well-known cynosure of all eyes on the boardwalk.

▽

Madeleine White, serving two masters, the president and the publicity director, was pounding two typewriters to keep even with her multitudinous duties.

▽

Eddie Golden pulled the prize coup of the convention when he inveigled the two motorcycle cops who headed the convention parade to the Ambassador Hotel into a dice game and immediately proceeded to take away their hard earned week's pay. (They paid him in scrip.)

▽

Hollywood seekers in Atlantic City were shocked out of their sun-baked reveries when motorcycle police sirens and honking horns bade gangway for the Monogramites' Parade from Pennsy Station to the Ambassador hotel.

▽

A neat radio tieup achieved its climax when the executive automobiles, installed with radio sets, were tuned in and the loud speakers rendered welcome with the following air greeting from Station WPG: "We take pleasure at this moment to welcome the Men of Monogram and extend them the Key to Atlantic City and we wish every success to W. Ray Johnston and Harry Thomas in the conduct of the convention sessions."

▽

Morris Epstein was paged constantly. The boys suspected this was merely a frame on his part to start talk.

▽

Bill Underwood and Claude Ezell from down-Dallas-way, arrived just in time to miss the dulcet singing of quartets by Ray Johnston, two motorcycle policemen and Trem Carr.

▽

Jack Jossey and Mr. and Mrs. Nat Lefton, Mrs. J. V. Ritchey, Pete Friedhoff, and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Rosenbluh were discovered in front of the Steel Pier beaming upon the brilliantly lighted forty foot sign gleaming in the blue dusk, and announcing to all and sundry:

"WELCOME MEN OF MONOGRAM. THE CITY IS YOURS."

▽

Howard Stubbins, who made the trip from Los Angeles all by his lonesome, lit up with gratitude when a crowd of well-wishers welcomed him into the hotel.

▽

Mrs. W. Ray Johnston, resplendent in mink coat, was three steps ahead, sartorially, of the latest in fashions being displayed in the swank shops on the boardwalk.

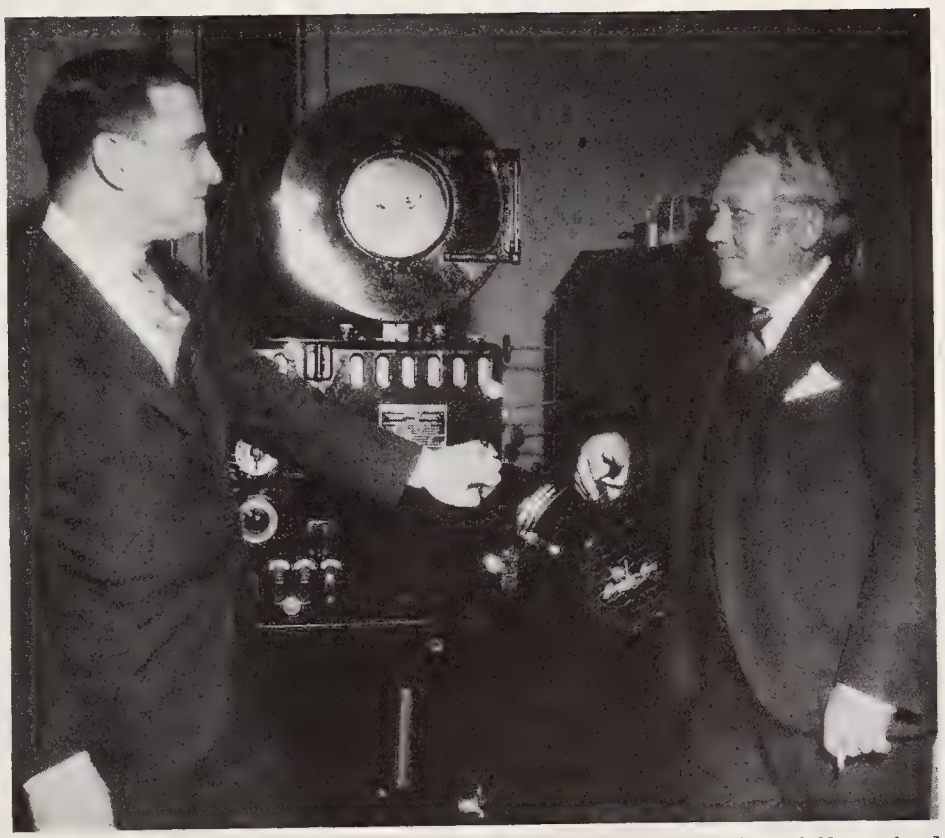
▽

Al Blofson, considered the convention right in his own backyard—and to carry out the spirit of his thought, commuted in his car between Ambassador hotel and the exchange in Philadelphia.

▽

At this writing, Bernie Mills, Sam Seplowin, Jack Berkowitz, Jim Alexander, Sam and Jake Flax, Bob Withers, Irving Mandel, L. W. Marriott, Arthur C. Bromberg, Carl Floyd, John Mangham and H. H. Everett were still en route to the convention.

THE CAMERA REPORTS



NEW EXCHANGE. Headquarters of British Empire Films (East), Ltd., new member of the film community of Singapore. The company, headed by Stuart F. Doyle, operates in the Orient.

PREPARING DEBUT. Henri Garat with Janet Gaynor at luncheon, camp style, while on location for Fox's "Adorable," in which Garat, European player, is co-starred with Miss Gaynor.

WINNER. A new personality at Educational, Virginia George. She won the Agfa company's contest seeking best photographic type.

[Central News photo]

FILM ENGINEERS CONVENE. With background signifying the nature of the event are shown Alfred N. Goldsmith, president of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, and Terry Ramsaye, editor of Motion Picture Herald, as the SMPE opened its 1933 spring meeting in New York Monday. Mr. Ramsaye addressed the convention on the opening day.

HER CHANCE. Was bit-part given Ruth Channing in MGM's "Made on Broadway." Now she is a player, promised important roles.

CITE TRADE GRIEVANCES. Members of a delegation who represented the Motion Picture Society of India before the government at New Delhi, presenting objections to practices in their trade. For the most part the group was composed of leaders in distribution.

RETURNING TO SCREEN. (Below) Ruth Clifford and Jimmy, her son to whom she has devoted her time rather than to continue her screen career. Now she's back again, working at Fox in "Pilgrimage."

SIGNED. (Left) Some justified exultance taking a whimsical turn to make a fetching new portrait of Fay Wray, in Columbia's "Below the Sea" and now signed by that company on a long-term contract. She is now working in "Ann Carver's Profession."

IN NEW FILM ROLE. Doris Kenyon, who mixes her screen career with concert appearances and who will be opposite Richard Dix in his next RKO Radio picture, tentatively titled "Ad Man."

TRIPLE EXPOSURE. That is to say, on this occasion at Warner Brothers, Bert Longworth, still photographer (seated extreme left), was shooting a scene of "Voltaire." Whereupon a brother still man stole a picture of Bert. And since the whole incident is here preserved, a third camera must have been in the offing. Also shown are Director John Adolfi and technicians.

WITHDRAWAL OF U. S. FILMS FROM GERMANY ON MAY 15 IS THREATENED

Hitler's Anti-Semitic Move Sets Back German Pictures' Progress in America; Films from Berlin Picketed in Belgium

Motion picture leaders in New York express dismay over the turn of events in the business in Germany. The market for American product is expected to be considerably curtailed soon unless the present drastic anti-Semitic policies of the Hitlerites are considerably lightened. Withdrawal of American films from Germany after May 15, unless Nazi activities change, was considered a logical action, although Major Fred Herron, in charge of foreign relations for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, this week denied such decision had been reached.

At the same time it appears likely that the weakening of the film market in Germany automatically will strengthen the American picture business in France. In order to encourage the movement, it is expected that steps will be taken shortly to eliminate or at least alleviate the French quota requirements, in line with the new trend.

Furthermore, the Hitler attitude has definitely set back German film progress in America. Although German pictures never did succeed in making wholesale inroads throughout the nation, they were the most successful of non-English speaking talkers.

Principal German films on the market here are Krimsky and Cochrane's "Maedchen in Uniform" and "M," which just played Broadway. "Maedchen," especially, has suffered from reactions of Jewish exhibitors in this country, even though the picture unfavorably presents German militarism. Paramount purchased "M" this week.

Dangerous To Talk

Clayton Sheehan, Fox foreign manager, just returned from Europe, said last week that "it would be dangerous to say anything publicly which might react upon our workers over there. The moment anything is said in the public prints in this country it is cabled back to Germany by Nazi agents."

Charles MacDonald, of Warner, called erroneous a previously published report that Philip Kauffman, Warner foreign representative in Germany, had been transferred from Berlin. "What actually happened," Mr. MacDonald explained, "was that Kauffman was ordered to leave Berlin. He returned last Monday, however, and we expect he will remain there."

Officials of RKO intimated their company was in no difficulties in Germany as yet. "However," one Radio executive said, "we actually do not know what is going on. There has been no definite word from Germany in weeks."

Generally, removal of American motion pictures from theatres in Germany is said to be regarded as certain by executives of foreign departments of American companies, unless the strict Nazi censorship is lifted within a month.

Any scene which depicts communism, or shows the gathering of crowds for demonstrations against any government, whether fictitious or real; all dialogue pertaining to immoralities and any film in which Jewish characters appear or presents a cheerful aspect of Jewish life, is removed by the Nazi censorship board. The result has been such a sharp reduction in income as to make it highly unprofitable for American concerns to continue operation under the Hitler banner, according to home office executives in New York.

American films comprise 30 per cent of all pictures shown in Germany.

The first ultimatum to American companies in Berlin was issued seven weeks ago, but it was generally disregarded. All negotiations between American film companies and the Nazi government have been handled through George B. Canty, U. S. trade commissioner in Berlin. It was by Mr. Canty's intervention that Jews employed by American film concerns were given a stay from the original Nazi edict.

The anti-Semitic movement has spread and is even more pronounced in countries south and east of Germany, according to reports from Hamburg.

Protest in Belgium

In Belgium, motion picture houses in Antwerp showing German-produced films have been picketed by Jews in protest against the anti-Jewish campaign in Germany. Box-office receipts swung downward sharply and programs were hurriedly changed.

Press reports from London indicated that 500 automobiles and motor trucks, carrying yellow posters reading "Boycott German Goods," and "Boycott German Films," toured the main streets in a demonstration organized by the World Alliance for Combating Anti-Semitism.

Trade Commissioner Canty's report to Washington last week indicated the Hitler regime intends to acquire and exercise complete control of the German film industry. The plan presented by Herr Hitler and passed automatically by his cabinet, calls for a special ministry for public information and propaganda, headed by Dr. Goebbels, chief of the Nazi party propaganda department. The bureau would include departments to handle all phases of publicity, particularly as to motion pictures, broadcasting and the press. The film department would probably require submission of contemplated productions in advance to be passed on by the board. The department might also take a hand in the economic situation of the industry, which concerns producers, distributors and exhibitors.

Three large film companies in Germany formed a union known as Cinema Aktiengesellschaft to handle combined production activities. The three companies were Tobis Tonbild-Syndikat Aktiengesellschaft, Europa-Filmverleih Aktiengesellschaft and Cinema Film-Vertriebs G. m. b. H.

Negotiations between the Reichsverband Deutscher Lichtspieltheaterbesitzer (Central

Strengthening of American Screen Market in France Is Expected; Hitler Policy Spreads Into Other Countries of Europe

Association of German Exhibitors) and the Schutzverband Deutscher Filmtheater (an exhibitor organization instituted by Ufa two or three years ago in opposition to the regular exhibitor association), have resulted in an agreement between the two organizations by which it was found advisable, under present conditions, for independent groups representing German exhibitors to join the Reichsverband.

Many of the star names billed in German pictures are foreigners and under the Hitler regime they must either leave their posts on compulsion or anticipate this by leaving the country voluntarily. The latest film stars to leave Berlin are Gitta Alpar and Gustav Froehlich, following others. They have gone to Vienna and are under contract to Bolvary.

Predicting an end of the quota system in Europe, Charles Delac, president of the French motion picture producers' association, who arrived in this country last week for conferences with MPPDA representatives, believes the socalled "friction" between American and French film interests will be straightened out shortly. Mr. Delac hopes to reopen the market abroad for American and other pictures.

Professor Ernest Perrin, of the College of the City of New York, predicted that France will open the back door to American films as Germany closes the front door. Prof. Perrin was at one time an actor and worked for Charles Frohman, Lee Shubert and others.

Cites Barriers

"The French people are more kindly disposed toward American films than ever before, but there are certain barriers, aside from the quota laws, which have considerably lessened their enjoyment of our product," Prof. Perrin said.

"A tremendous market for the interchange of films between both countries is now ripe," he said. "It therefore becomes important to think about what the French people do not like about American pictures. The Frenchman usually feels a deep sense of injury, even shock, over the way American films portray the laxity of social relationships."

Professor Perrin declared faulty casting of foreign types in American pictures makes them ridiculous in French eyes.

A survey of the French industry shows that American product was successful during the last year despite import difficulties, according to the Motion Picture Division of the Department of Commerce. Approximately 150 original American versions and 66 American films dubbed in French were shown in France.

Cinema receipts in France were satisfactory the first half, but are reported to have declined 30 per cent in the second half.

Swanson, Griffith Drop UA Interest

Gloria Swanson and D. W. Griffith have dropped their interest in United Artists Corporation and have withdrawn as founders and part-owners. Each had a one-eighth interest. The other six are Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Chaplin, Art Cinema, Joseph M. Schenck and Samuel Goldwyn.

It is expected, however, that any pictures Miss Swanson and Mr. Griffith make will be released through United Artists.

Their action has no effect on United Artists Studio Company in Hollywood. Neither has an interest in it, nor has Charles Chaplin, who has his own studio.

Universal Raises Its Program to 36

Universal is adding 10 features to make a total of 36 features to be distributed by the company next season, L. J. Schlaifer, general sales manager, said in Kansas City this week on his way to the Coast to confer with the Laemmles.

Decentralization Brings Increased Theatre Checking

Distributors have listed a great many more theatres for checking as a result of decentralization, according to Ross Federal Service, checking organization. More large theatres and fewer small houses are being checked now than ever before, the company reports.

Large circuit houses, although playing percentage, were seldom checked by distributors, but since the widespread breakdown of these circuits distributors began checking individual situations. The checking of fewer small houses is in line with the new policy of sales heads to sell small theatres on flat rental next season, with provision for playing a limited number on percentage.

Australian Film Dispute Placed Before the Courts

The dispute between distributors and General Theatres Corporation at Sydney, Australia, over block booking, rejection of pictures, and prices has been carried into court, with a new turn in a wrangle between the distributors, which resulted in Warner Brothers obtaining an injunction restraining Paramount and Radio from entering into any contracts with General Theatres.

Gainsborough Product for Australia Through Fox

Fox is to distribute Gainsborough product in Australia. British and Dominion formerly handled it, with physical distribution through Greater Australasian Films, which also handles the Columbia product. The deal will not affect the distribution of B. & D.'s own productions.

IN THE NEWS...

UNIVERSAL has decided not to take up the options of LEW AYRES and TALA BIRELL, players. . . .

EXHIBITORS of suburban Memphis are reviving their organization, with officers to be elected soon. . . .

JACK LYONS and BASIL BRADY have organized Buffalo Exchange, Inc., to handle 62 features and shorts produced by Tiffany. . . .

GOVERNOR LEHMAN of New York has signed the bill permitting distributors to make contracts for new pictures before they are produced and before they have been licensed.

The PALACE theatre, on Broadway, is reopening this week end with combined vaudeville and motion picture programs. . . .

JOSEPH KILGOUR, best known for his characterization of Willard Brockton, the Wall street man, in Eugene Walter's play, "The Easiest Way," died last week at Bay Shore, L. I. . . .

MAJESTIC PICTURES will move its home office May 1 to the RKO building in Radio City, from 1619 Broadway. . . .

MCCLELLAND BARCLAY, illustrator; FAITH BALDWIN, novelist, and BRYANT BAKER, sculptor, were named the committee to select 15 men and 15 women for Paramount's "A Search for Beauty." . . .

MISS HAZEL MYERS of Kansas City, Kan., has been named by Governor Landon as chairman of the Kansas state censor board. . . .

THEATRES of Southern California, including those of Fox West Coast, return to single feature programs Thursday. . . .

EDWARD SHELDON and MARGARET AYER BARNES are awaiting the court decision, as is MGM, in the infringement suit brought by them, charging that the company's picture, "Letty Lynton," infringed upon their stage play, "Dishonored Lady." Trial has been completed, but filing of briefs and final arguments are to come before the decision. . . .

GENERAL ELECTRIC and RCA must end their interlocking directorates May 5, Attorney General Cummings has ruled. OWEN D. YOUNG cannot retain the combined chairmanship, it was decided. . . .

JACK COOPER, formerly with Warner's press department, has joined Paramount as a unit press representative on the Coast. . . .

GRETA GARBO has been signed to a new contract by MGM, and will resume her picture work early in May. . . .

BERT ADLER, of the Fanchon and Marco staff, is publicity director of Actors Betterment Association, campaigning to eliminate the so-called "benefit racket." EDDIE DOWLING is president and RALPH WHITEHEAD is executive secretary. . . .

J. MAXWELL JOICE is to handle publicity for GINO DARO, of Italy's dance team, DARO and COSTA. . . .

J. A. WILSON, formerly of Universal's Winnipeg sales office, is now manager of the Calgary branch. . . .

JACK O'TOOLE and L. K. BRIN have acquired the Tiffany franchise in Chicago, Milwaukee and Minneapolis, with exchanges to be opened in the three cities. . . .

Admiral Productions Succeeds KBS Company

KBS Productions, Inc., is to be no more. In its place is being organized Admiral Productions, Inc., with the same ownership, Burt Kelly, Samuel Bischoff and William Saul. All KBS pictures are being distributed by Fox. The Radio distribution agreement is with Admiral Productions, according to H. William Fitelson of Fitelson and Mayers, attorneys for the three owners. The last KBS picture was "A Study in Scarlet."

12 Films from Zanuck-Schenck

Twelve pictures a year, at least, is the plan of the new producing company being organized by Darryl Zanuck and Joseph M. Schenck, and United Artists will release them.

Mr. Zanuck has taken over the old Caddo offices on the United Artists lot at Hollywood. William Dover, chosen as personnel manager, and Howard Smith, scenario editor, were formerly associated with him at Warner, where he was production executive under Jack Warner.

Amusement Industry To Honor Father John Kelly

Executives of motion picture companies in New York have joined with screen, stage, radio, musical and literary personalities, in formulating plans for a testimonial in honor of Father John B. Kelly, spiritual director of the Catholic Writers Guild of America, to be held May 21 at the Alvin theatre. Father Kelly is well known in motion picture circles in the east and frequently has denounced censorship. The occasion for the celebration is Father Kelly's 20th anniversary in the priesthood.

Dr. James J. Walsh, chairman of the executive committee, will be assisted in the arrangements by Mark Luescher, Charles E. McCarthy, Edward F. Finney, Mary Meighan, Jack Harrower, George Adrian, Edward Kelly, John J. Livingston and James McGurrin.

Sponsors of the event include Bishop Barry, Rex Beach, Major Edward Bowes, Irvin Cobb, Bishop Conroy, Archbishop Curley, Eddie Dowling, James J. Farley, Gen. James G. Harbord, Will H. Hays, Fannie Hurst, Otto H. Kahn, John J. Raskob, and seventy others.

Kansas Inquiry On Film Deals Ordered

A statewide inquiry into film deals of Fox theatres and large distributors has been ordered by Roland Boynton, Kansas attorney general, and an investigation by the Federal Trade Commission has been also asked by Roy Dunnuck, operator of the Madrid theatre at Atchison, Kan. Mr. Dunnuck charges an attempt to "freeze out" independent exhibitors in several cities.

The Kansas attorney general is seeking information from every county in the state where Fox operates to determine whether the state's anti trust laws are being violated. It is charged that where Fox operates two or more theatres, some independents are unable to obtain films, and that where product is sold to independents excessive protection is demanded.

Universal's Loss in Year Is $1,250,283

A net loss of $1,250,283 for the year ended Oct. 29, 1932, is reported by Universal Pictures, after taxes, royalties, film exhaustion and other charges. There was a consolidated net profit of $615,786 in the previous year.

Current assets were $8,208,207 as of Oct. 29, 1932, and current liabilities $2,708,189, comparing with $8,873,344 and $2,170,606, respectively, for the 1931 year.

'AND THE SCREEN HAS NO CORNELL!'

Mourns De Casseres, Weighing Screen Possibilities of "Alien Corn"; Other Plays Considered

by BENJAMIN DE CASSERES

ALIEN CORN

Mainly because of the glamorous, glowing personality of Katharine Cornell, "Alien Corn," by Sidney Howard, is a big hit.

The play is built around a character. There is not much plot or story; but there is considerable atmosphere and some good minor character parts.

This one dominating character in "Alien Corn" is Elsa Brandt, an instructress of music in Conway College, a mid-Western educational institution for women.

Elsa, of German birth, has ambitions beyond the reaches of the small American town and its pussy-willow professors and social stuffed shirts. She wants to get to Berlin or Vienna to study.

She has on her hands an irascible German father, a paralyzed ex-pianist, a cross between Jack Pearl and a drunken Bismarck.

Fluttering around Elsa in the big house where she rooms are a raft of fake Heidelbergian near-beer young male instructors and some old, wheezy cocks-o'-the-walk.

The high dramatic possibilities lie in the two men who are in love with Elsa. One is the young fellow who owns the college, a horsey, vacuum-topped social light, and the other a young neurotic professor who takes out his suppressed libido in pistol practice.

Elsa loves the boss of the college and pities the poor little dip of a pistol-toter (one of the most ridiculous creations on the current stage).

Well, here we are: Elsa hell-bent for Artistic Heights torn between Love and her Genius, with the nutty pistol-toter standing between Elsa and the village stuffed shirt.

The big climax to this piece of hooey comes when the young fellow commits suicide (laus Deo!) in the presence of Elsa and her lover.

That decides Elsa. She declares for Art. She'll be the female Mozart or bust! Curtain.

Only La Cornell could make this go. She's grand. And the screen has no Cornell!

Picture value, 50 per cent.

BEFORE MORNING

"Before Morning," by Albert Bannister and John G. Norman, is a clumsily conceived stage murder mystery, but is straight Hollywood stuff for a high-toned parlor crime cast.

It is laid in the hotel apartment of Elsie Manning, an actress who has on her loose string a married lover.

He's a soft fellow and would legally coalesce with Elsie if he were free.

Elsie, while still holding onto the married fellow, has promised to wed a Babbitt from Detroit. She needs his dough. There is also a theatrical producer who is after her. He's just comic relief.

Now, Nichols, her married lover, becomes suddenly ill in Elsie's apartment, lies down and passes forever beyond all bank moratoria.

Big scene: Two friends of Elsie carry the dead man out of the apartment as though he were drunk to avoid scandal—as in "Broadway."

He's taken to a sanitarium—dead, of course—and the doctor waiting for him tries blackmail on Elsie.

In the third act the mystery is solved. It was the wife of the dead man who killed him by putting "nicotine pills" in his pocket for his heart attacks.

The role of Sherlock Holmes is played by the stuffed shirt from Detroit.

Picture value, 80 per cent.

EVENSONG

There is always one sure-fire scene either on stage or screen. It is a catty scrap between two women singers, actresses or acrobats, one of whom is about to climb the Andes of her fortieth year and the other of whom may slip but does not yet climb, which means that she is fifteen years younger. In these scraps, we men lean back, light up a perfecto and smugly unbutton our vests for a grand haw! haw!

When "Evensong" gets to the films—and I think it will—this will be the big scene—the battle between Irela (who is really the late Madame Melba) and her alternate in the big singing roles, Baba Letoile.

The play, by Beverly Nichols and Edward Knoblock, from a novel by Nichols, is a splendid vehicle for a rather high-toned picture with a female star not too young (I could name just the lady, but I won't, for I want to go back to Hollywood as a booster—the dear things are all young!)

Irela is a splendid character study. It shows us the Artistic Temperament in all its transcendental nuttiness and its elemental infantility. In a word, it is ze grand belle-ache, which is what the Artistic Temperament comes to.

"Evensong" was a London success, but it fell down here in spite of the good work of Edith Evans as Irela.

There are an Archduke, society stilts-walkers, luxury sets to light a great conflagration in the soul of Eddy Goulding, a niece over whom Irela tyrannizes in the matter of love, the niece at last, coached by the Archduke (Irela's old lover), beating it with her boy friend. Then, too, there is an Archduchess. In the film version "Thais," "Manon Lescaut" or "Martha" would naturally be staged and sung.

Irela finally has a slight stroke. Baba Letoile is the rage. And the curtain descends with Irela, partial invalid, listening to her own voice—that was—on a phonograph.

There is a long cast with all the señors and señoras, Majors and other stuffed shirts that go to make up the atmosphere of these operatic dramas.

Now, if Ina Claire—but does she sing?

Picture value, 40 per cent.

BAD MANNERS

My Hollywood spies report to me that gang pictures will soon be sinking and the hot sex stuff is coming back.

If such is the lousy fact, here's a play in which none of the characters has anything at all above the shoulder-blades. Even Casanova and Elinor Glyn would feel singed in looking at it.

It is called "Bad Manners." It was written by Dana Burnett and William B. Jutte. Bert Lytell and Margaret Sullivan were in it.

It all starts in Craig Baldwin's apartment. He's an "architect." He's bouncing the girl he had in his seraglio all night, telling her to get out, with her kimono, to her own apartment. Old stuff to her.

But Marion (the push-over) wants to know why Craig has this sudden fit of virtue. Well, it's another girl called Lois, who is going to get welded to Craig's best friend.

So Lois rooms up with Craig to help him on some plans for Manhattan Center (there are even some backwash movie fans who will still believe this).

Now, Marion, who got the grand slam, stages a come-back. But Lois and Craig are going to do the legal.

There's some clever sexalogue. As a play it is pure bathtub gin.

Picture value, 13 per cent.

TWO STRANGE WOMEN

Jacqueline Logan, as handsome as ever, comes back to the stage in "Two Strange Women," by E. B. Self.

Laid in the backwoods of Kentucky, among the thar and I reckon natives, there is a lot of stuff in this play for a real thrilling picture.

The Big Menace is a 200-foot drop down to the River Dix as you step out of the side-door of the shack. And Jacquie Logan goes over the cliff at the end.

The Jenkins family consists of Great-grandma Jenkins, aged 100; Grandma Jenkins, "Pap" Jenkins and young "Mel" Jenkins. For neighbor—and good comedy relief—there is a happy drunkard of a county judge.

The drama begins to creep up when Grace, tired of both the husband and the secretary, tries to seduce "Mel" Jenkins, a virginal mountain boy and the pride of the family. The boy goes wild over her, takes her husband a-fishing at night and bumps him off as Clyde Griffiths did the trick in "An American Tragedy."

Left alone, with the old woman, Grace is about to make her getaway when the crone hynotizes her and forces her over the 200-foot drop to the place where all bad ladies go.

In spite of the old Biograph ending, I see a powerful, gripping picture in "Two Strange Women."

Picture value, 75 per cent.

Welcome the FOX salesman

he has good news for you

Have them tell you what the FOX May Festival means to your theatre . . . how this outstanding group of pictures insures you a solid month of profit . . . how the perfect balance of their entertainment values enables you to date them in one right after another. And if you had the pick of every producer's line-up, you could do no better!

YOUR PROFITS FOR MAY ARE COMING FROM FOX!

Excitingly different

A JESSE L. LASKY production

ZOO IN BUDAPEST

Loretta Young Gene Raymond

O. P. Heggie

Tuneful romance

JANET GAYNOR HENRY GARAT

in ADORABLE

Timely happiness

5c A GLASS

BUDDY ROGERS MARIAN NIXON

Rousing merriment

A JESSE L. LASKY production

The WARRIOR'S HUSBAND

ELISSA LANDI

Marjorie Rambeau Ernest Truex David Manners

Drama of youth

HOLD ME TIGHT

JAMES DUNN SALLY EILERS

Delightfully mellow

STATE FAIR

Year's biggest cast

Unparalleled smash

CAVALCADE

Picture of the generation

FOX May FESTIVAL

It's traditional — for years exhibitors have made extra money in May by playing more

Educational Pictures

And... this year... Educational Pictures are the ideal added attractions to supplement the big Fox features for the FOX MAY FESTIVAL, and for all Spring and Summer programs.

ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
"Feeling Rosy"

HARRY LANGDON in "MERMAID COMEDIES"
"Tired Feet"
"The Hitch Hiker"
"Knight Duty"

TERRY TOONS
"Who Killed Cock Robin?"
"Oh! Susanna"
"Romeo and Juliet"

MORAN and MACK COMEDIES
"As the Crows Fly"

BABY BURLESKS
"Pie Covered Wagon"
"Glad Rags to Riches"
"The Kid's Last Fight"

KRAKATOA
Natural Special

LET'S BE GAY IN MAY

-and June and July

TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
"The Mouse Trapper"
"The Acid Test"
"A Drag on the Market"

SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS with Reginald Wertenbaker
"Carnival" "California"
"Georgia Tech"

BATTLE FOR LIFE
"Killers"
"Desert Demons"
"The Sea"

HERE'S THE DISH FOR THESE SPRING DAYS. MORE PEP THAN A TONIC

It's the season for light diets and light, snappy entertainment. Salads instead of extra large steaks; variety programs, with plenty of comedy and novelty, instead of long double features.

. . AND HERE'S THE ENTERTAINMENT. LOTS OF LAUGHS. EVERYBODY HAPPY.

TOPICHY COMEDIES with Ray Cooke
"Topichy Rolls His Own"
"Topichy's Finny Coup"
"Topichy Turns Turtle"

VANITY COMEDIES
"Hollywood Runaround"
"Keystone Kops"
"Hot Rod Crazy"

CAMERA ADVENTURES
"The Iceless Arctic"
"Taming the Wild Cat"
"Two Hundred Fathoms Deep"

BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
"Wild Company"
"Woodland Pals"
"Pirates of the Deep"

Lyman H. Howe's
"HOUSEHOLDITE"
"The Ant-arctic East"
"Shooting Around the Universe"
"Nonsense of Merry Lands"

Kendall-de Vally
OPERALOGUES
"Idol of Seville"
"Walpurgis Night"
"A Brahmin's Daughter"

DO YOU REMEMBER?
"When Dad Was a Boy"
"Puffs and Bustles"
"Highlights of the Past"

BROADWAY GOSSIP
Columnist Newsreel

Educational Pictures
"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

DISTRIBUTED IN U. S. A. BY FOX FILM CORPORATION

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

MR. HAYS involuntarily was displaced last week in the chambers of the Administration at Washington. His picture no longer adorns the wall of the reception room of the postmaster general.

Formerly, the hundreds who called daily on Postmaster General Farley looked into the likenesses of three Republicans who at one time headed the postoffice department. These included Will H. Hays, Dr. Hubert Work and Harry New, postmasters general in the Harding and Coolidge administrations. Mr. Farley ordered all three from his Democratic sanctum and supplanted them with pictures of three good Democrats, Gideon Granger, who was head man under Jefferson, and Wilson Bissel and William Wilson, who were in charge when Cleveland was in office.

▽

The inevitable has happened: a baby in a Chevalier farce. Monsieur le Baby Le Roy, appearing with Maurice in "A Bedtime Story," is the talk of the town. He's a long moment of joy in a typical Chevalier grimace-and-knowing wink. Paramount brought the picture to Broadway last week at United Artists' Rivoli, where they dressed up the front to resemble the naughty exterior of a Parisian music hall, using covers from that saucy French Magazine, "La Vie Parisienne."

The covers depict young men and maidens in varying stages of conquest and submission. Even if one cannot read the enticing French captions, the magazine pictures are sufficiently graphic to get over the idea. The picture played to the largest opening day's business at the Rivoli in three years. Comprenez?

Babe Le Roy received a $1,000 bonus from Paramount, in addition to salary. His mother is now only 16 years. Monsieur le Baby, who is eight months old, could not sign the contract. Nor could his mother. Her mother officiated. The youngster has the makings of a great star. The very first day on the set he tore up the script.

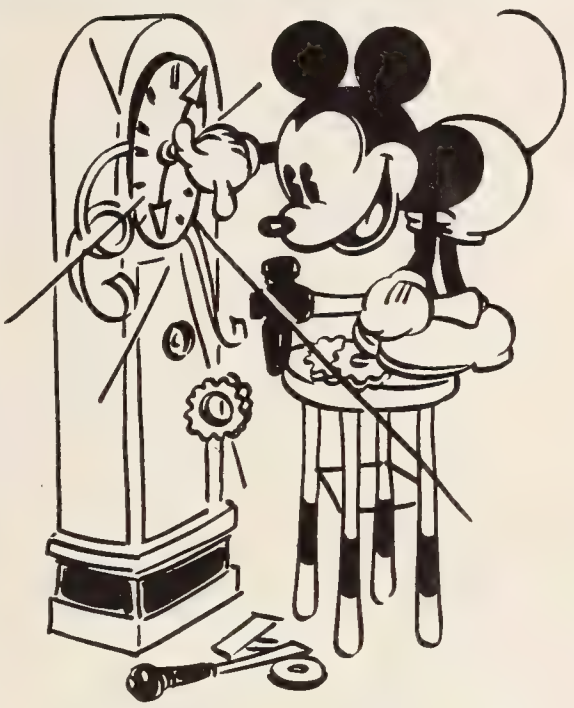
▽

O. O. McIntyre's personal nomination for the most effacing of modern composers, is Jerome Kern. Mr. Kern, by the way, sold his enormous collection of first editions—for which he paid $250,000*—for a million during the closing days of the big boom. Today it is not likely a buyer could be found for* $50,000. Mr. Kern wanted to provide an income that would establish him securely for life. We wonder how he came out.

▽

The trout season opened in Connecticut the other morning. The fishermen, according to H. I. Phillips, formed in columns of eight and marched upstream with as much order as could be expected, considering the absence of red and green lights. Contrary to expectations, Terry Ramsaye was not among them.

▽



These are halcyon days for animal owners in Hollywood. Practically every animal within a 50-mile radius of cinemaland has been photographed and rephotographed until zebras are reported to have Klieg eyes, snakes have actually acquired those hips, and elephants want screen credit.

▽

The recent Hollywood discussions about reduced negative costs reminded Harpo Marx about four writers who last year received an income aggregating $1,000,000, "while exhibitors were starving."

△

Profit and loss statement from Hollywood, reported by RKO via the publicity route: "Katharine Hepburn appears on the lot for 'Morning Glory' rehearsals garbed in a new pair of linen overalls . . . the tattered and torn pair she wore when she first came to Hollywood having finally given up the ghost."

ANTICIPATING the return Sunday morning to Daylight Saving, Mickey (Times Doesn't Count) Mouse took the situation in hand at the United Artists' home office, and, purposely or otherwise, removed from boss Al Lichtman's grandfather's clock, those elements which heretofore have held advertising chief Hal Horne behind his cluttered desk until the sound of the conventional 5:30 gong. The expected result is a deeper tan for the Horne facial features—and a much improved stroke for his mashie.

Meanwhile, exhibitors in 500 cities and towns throughout the nation were adjusting their operations to absorb the loss of 153 evening hours during the Daylight Saving period, which ends on September 30.

RICHARD HALLIBURTON'S "India Speaks" will be premiered this week by RKO. One sequence shows the intrepid Halliburton awakening one dark night in the heart of the Cambodian jungle to find a gigantic vampire bat securely fastened to his chest, and slowly but surely extracting his life blood. The mad king of Cambodia and his aids effected a timely rescue.

Any of the true vampires which actually suck the blood of animals, including men, belong to the family Phyllostomatidae. Their incisor and canine teeth are modified for cutting, the stomach is small and tubular, and the intestine very short, not being adapted for any food except blood. The Hindu superstitious believe that vampires are bloodsucking ghosts, which come from graves and wander about in the dark of night.

▽

The recent proposal of industry leaders to effect economies in newsreel operation by eliminating duplicate effort, was reported on at length in newspapers throughout the country. The trade and news press called it an "Associated Press" arrangement, but when U. P. got hold of the yarn, they made it a "United Press" plan.

▽

"Fighting Al" Steffes appears to have gone the way of all flash. Headlines announce that he is now a big theatre "mogul" in the west. Al gracefully, but quietly, bowed out of the militant circle some months ago, after having been an outstanding "scourge" of large circuits for years. Since then he has been buying up theatres in the midwest.

MOSCOW'S revenge for Hollywood's cinematic absurdities about Russia has emerged at last from the official Soviet studios, in the form of a feature motion picture, captioned "Prosperity"—which in itself is a bit too sarcastic. It was released at once to the hungry Russian public. For every Hollywood absurdity about Russia, "Prosperity" has two absurdities about America. And that's a lot of absurdities.

A fat capitalist, of course, is the villain. The hero is a bright-red Communist. Thugs hired by the millionaire to "get" the hero, ride around in Rolls-Royces. The capitalist's private office is a huge, bare futurist place fit for army maneuvers; his girl-friend's boudoir is large enough to hold all of Solomon's 1,000 wives. Clergymen travel around in cream-colored cars decorated with angels trumpeting to heaven. But there's no DeMille bathtub.

▽

To the public whose box-office fancies now ignore John Gilbert, the former Metro star offers this beau geste—"Oh, what the hell, they liked me once"—at a salary which was reputed to be $10,000 a week.

Gilbert arrived in New York last week from Hollywood, and in his Hotel Ambassador suite he told his story to Douglas Gilbert, local feature writer for Mr. Roy Howard. "You know what started all this—my so-called decline, if you care to put it that way—was the terribly unfortunate role in which I broke into the talkies," said Gilbert.

"The picture was 'His Glorious Night,' and I played a passionate love scene a la silent film stuff—you know, all gushing blahhhh. My God! The people just laughed out loud. You couldn't blame them."

▽

The nightshirts are out again. Ben Schwartz, manager of Warner's theatre at Lima, Ohio, continued operation last week under police guard, after four armed men entered his office and warned him to discontinue immediately the showing of "The White Sister," because, they declared, it favored Catholicism. The men claimed they represented the Ku Klux Klan.

Mr. Schwartz had better call Eddie Dowling out there.

▽

New York's dozen new fire department rescue wagons, on public display for the first time, went screeching down Broadway the other noon. When they passed film row near Times Square, we expected to hear a score or more film executives holler for help.

▽

When Erno Rapee, musical director of Mr. Rockefeller's Radio City theatres, landed at Hoboken from Hungary twenty years ago, as a very young piano virtuoso, he had to borrow five dollars from a compatriot for "head tax" in order to be permitted to disembark under the law. Thus Rapee came to America worth minus five dollars.

▽

"The company," said President Newcomb Carlton, of Western Union, "has learned to get along with less cash than was thought possible."

Even as you and I.

▽

Warners bought new carpets for the Broadway Strand in honor of the $200,000 grossed by "42nd Street" in eight weeks. Two more weeks and they'll be able to build an entire new showhouse. Or, as learned confidentially this week, give each employee two weeks' vacation, with full pay. Last year, Warner workers each got one week's vacation.

with

LUIS

TRENKER,

VILMA BANKY,

Victor Varconi. Directed by Curt Bernhard and Luis Trenker. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

A

UNIVERSAL

SPECIAL

R

"Great stuff for any audience anywhere," says Hollywood Herald . . . "Contains scenes that for vividness and realism take their place beside those in 'All Quiet,'" says New York Times.

The

EBEL

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS

This department deals with new product from the point of view of the exhibitor who is to purvey it to his own public

Song of the Eagle

(Paramount)

Drama

What a song this eagle sings! It is a saga of liberal Americanism triumphant. The story is accompanied by stirring martial music. It is topical and timely. But most important, it packs a punch of human interest. Half historic, half prophetic, its exciting story throws on the screen events, circulmstances and conditions that are familiar to everyone. It goes right to the heart of one of the conditions that so changed the course of American life, in colorful style. Always it is down the popular alley.

There is no propaganda in it. It mirrors a condition that began when wartime regulations closed down the breweries. Graphically it describes the growth of gangsterism, bootlegging, jazz madness, and brings its theme down to today, with gangsterism still striving to retain its grip. Then it turns prophetic, and logically seeks to point out one of the ways whereby law and order can come into its own.

The story of beer is told against the background of a Hoffman family, the prototype of all that was idealistic in 1916. The Hoffman brewery was a well conducted legitimate business. Then the war. The pathos of Mama and Papa is that of every American family that lost a boy, when August is reported killed in action. But Bill returns. Wartime regulations and the Eighteenth Amendment close all breweries. But Otto believes that once war hysteria subsides, when the boys get home, all that will be changed. It is not. Instead, gangsterism is born. Nails, Otto's old best driver, has become the city's big shot racketeer. The law-abiding Hoffman will never consent to any deal with Nails for his brewery as long as the law is in existence. The reign of terror starts. Transitions carry the story to 1933. With the signing of the Beer Bill, the Hoffman brewery reopens. But gangsterism becomes more menacing. Still unable to do business with Hoffman, Nails goes in for more violence. Stocks are destroyed, trucks wrecked, employees intimidated, Emil, the brewmaster, machine-gunned.

Thousands are out of work. Bill's wartime company is unemployed almost to a man. Papa Hoffman is killed. Gangsters raid the Hoffman home in search of Bill. Mrs. Hoffman meets Nails in his car, not knowing he is a racketeer. Later she learns the real purpose of Nails' visit. Going to his headquarters, her old home of happier days, she kills him. With the police impotent, but willing to let Bill have his way, he gets his ex-buddies together for one grand raid on Nails' citadel. The fight is sensational as the boys clean out the gangsters.

Where a picture so effectively combines so hip-hip-hoorah with extraordinary drama, and human interest there is only one
it. Indicate that it is big, that it is picture that no one can afford to y, the patriotic angle will be the way of rousing patron enthusi-has the right kind of ring. The nade of unusual local significance tieups. Veterans' organizations icted, and newspapers should be there is plenty of opportunity vertising, skip the temptation of making any direct tieup with breweries. Do not sell the picture as propaganda. Sell it as smashing, human entertainment that will give the every day American man, woman and child a new idea of himself.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. A Charles R. Rogers Production. Associate producer, Harry Joe Brown. Directed by Ralph Murphy. Original story by Gene Towne and Graham Baker. Screen play by Casey Robinson and Willard Mack. Photographed by Henry Sharp. Film Editor, Joseph Kane. Release date, April 28, 1933. Running time, 83 minutes.

CAST

"Nails" Anderson.....Charles Bickford
Bill Hoffman.....Richard Arlen
Elsa Kranzmeyer.....Mary Brian
Otto Hoffman.....Jean Hersholt
Emma Hoffman.....Louise Dresser
Mud.....Andy Devine
Gus.....George E. Stone
Charlie.....Gene Morgan
Emil Kranzmeyer.....Bert Sprotte
August.....George Meeker
Gretchen.....Julie Haydon
Nolly.....Harry Walker
Slats.....James Bradbury, Jr.

I Cover the Water Front

(United Artists)

Romantic Drama

This picture is based on the personal experiences of a waterfront reporter in a Pacific Coast city. It makes no attempt to follow the form of the popular book. But it has all the color, drama, romance, thrill, novelty, human interest and excitement. It has the peculiar appeal that made the book one of the year's best sellers. There is a unique novelty of conception and presentation. Likewise it possesses plenty of showmanship potentialities.

For picture purposes an entirely new story has been written. It is both romantic and dramatic but with a clever vein of natural comedy. There are many exciting scenes, the most spectacular of which pictures the capturing of elephant sharks.

Miller, the reporter, is suspicious that Eli Kirk is smuggling Chinese. He earns that man's hatred and the Coast Guardsmen think he is a nut. Likewise, his editor, Phelps, is losing his enthusiasm for his star water front reporter. Investigating a report that a girl is swimming nude in a secluded pool, he meets and falls in love with Julie, not knowing she is Kirk's daughter. Taking his friend McCoy, who supplies the comedy relief, on a tour of the red light district, he finds Julie in Madam Morgan's house. The love dream apparently goes glimmering. But when it develops she is there only to take her father home, the situation becomes complicated for Miller.

Miller believes a story is more important than anything—even love. Several romantic interludes add to Miller's quandary until he learns from Julie that her father is docking in the Chinese quarter that night. Sensing that this is the golden opportunity to get Eli, though it means finish with Julie, he prevails upon Phelps to round up the Coast Guard once more. But Eli who never has hesitated to drop his human cargo overboard when things get tough, is ready for the officers' visit. Searching the ship, they find nothing. Once more Miller is in wrong. At that moment, McCoy stepping upon a fish, forces a bottle from its mouth. A gigantic shark is hanging on the boat's davits.

As Miller slashes it, a Chinese falls out. Kirk is shot, but gets away. A Chinese tells Julie what has happened to her father. Going to his hideaway, she arrives just as Eli shoots Miller. She learns Miller is responsible for what happened to her father, but she cannot run away from the man she has loved. Old Eli has not long to live. He senses Julie's affection for his enemy, and aids her in saving Miller before he dies himself.

Sell it as a fascinating dramatic romance. Do not overlook the exploitation possibilities in the original book. Base advertising appeal on that old and popular "love versus duty" angle, endowing all your copy with a human interest twist, and "I Cover The Water Front" should be productive at the box office.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced by Edward Small. Distributed by United Artists. Directed by James Cruze. Based on the book by Max Miller. Screen play by Wells Root. Additional dialogue by Jack Jevne. Photographed by Ray June. Release date undetermined. Running time, 75 minutes.

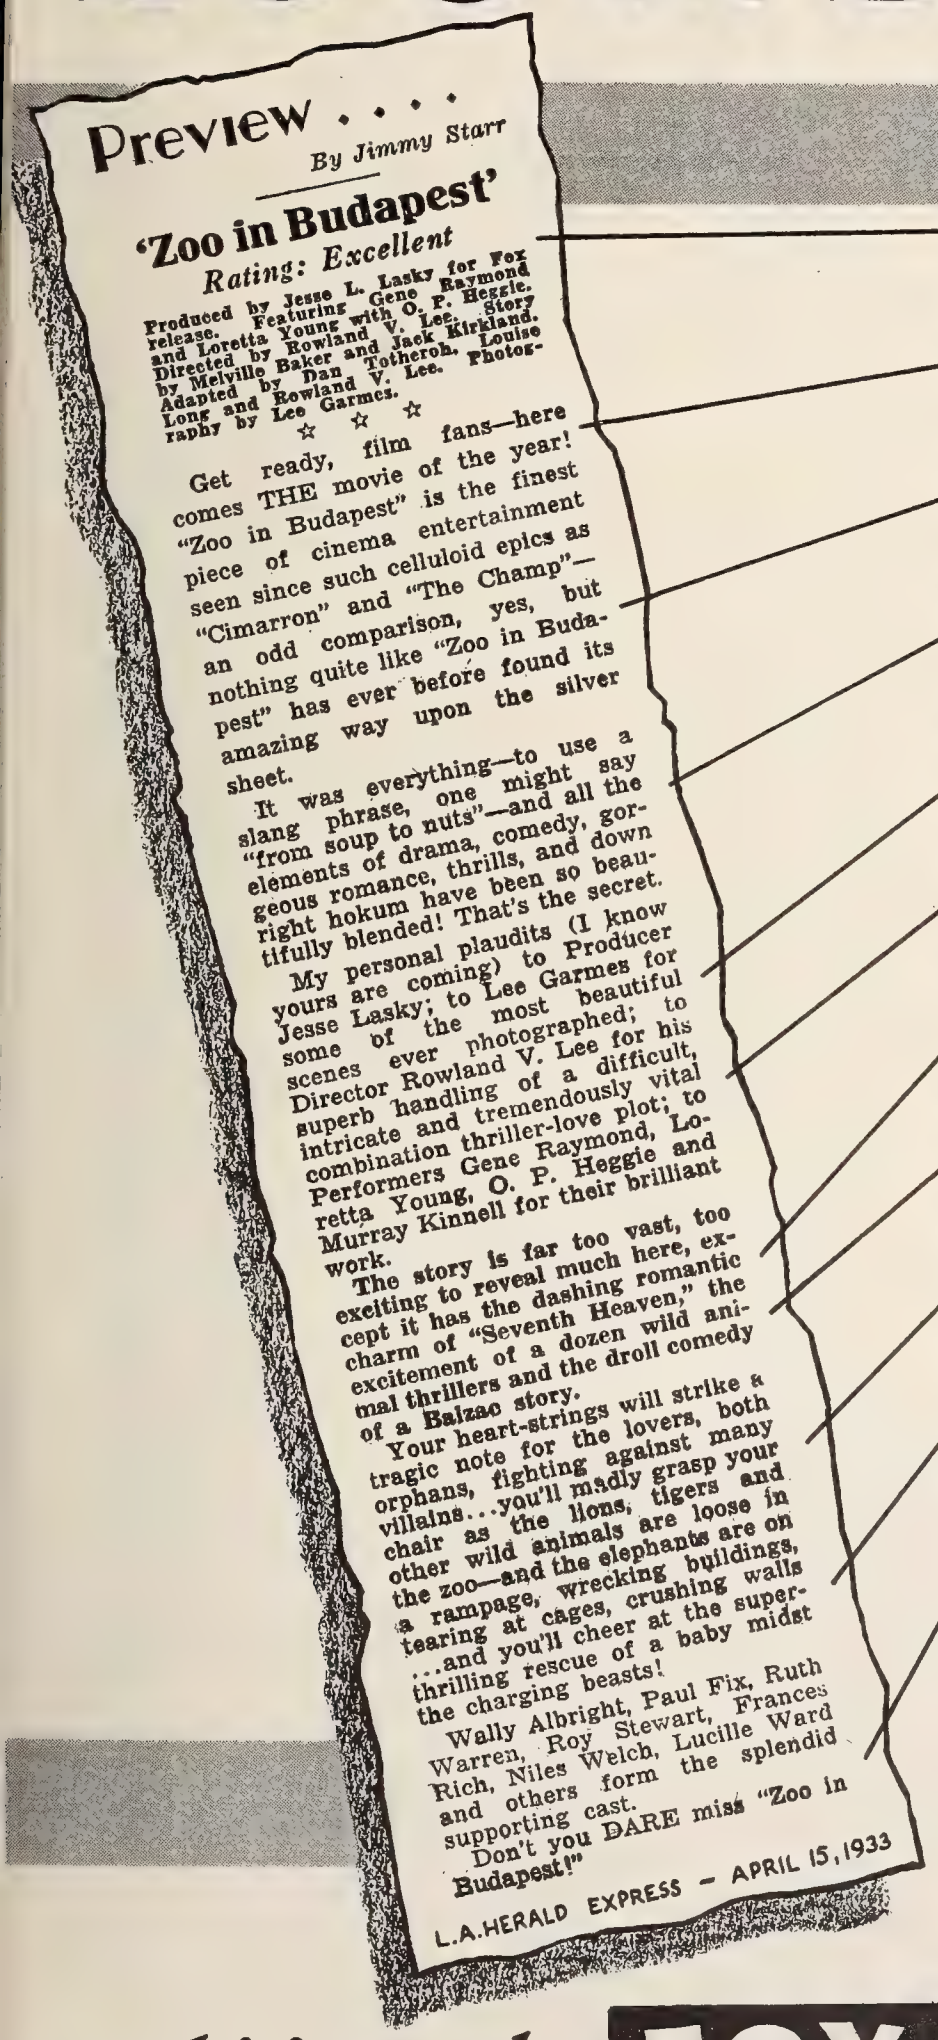
CAST

Julie Kirk.....Claudette Colbert
Joseph Miller.....Ben Lyon
Eli Kirk.....Ernest Torrance
McCoy.....Hobart Cavanaugh
Ortegus.....Maurice Black
Old Chris.....Harry Beresford
John Phelps.....Purnell Pratt
Silva.....George Humbert
Mrs. Silva.....Rosita Martini
Mother Morgan.....Claudia Coleman
Randall.....Wilfred Lucas

Lilly Turner

(First National)

Drama



Definitely a character study, it will be difficult to stir up much audience appreciation for "Lilly Turner." Similar pictures have suffered from that handicap. In this, because the star sinks lower and lower in audience sympathy, it is particularly true. Even the apparent happiness-sacrificing climax does not compensate for all that has gone before.

When the title and credits flashed on the screen, the preview audience broke into applause, an indication that they liked the star and found something intriguing in the title. As the picture progressed that enthusiasm cooled. Considerable restlessness indicated that the picture had failed to hold interest.

The story is for the most part depressing. In a glow of happiness, given an ominous tinge by the actions of Mrs. Turner, Lilly marries Rex. He is supposed to be a big time actor, but is just a gabby faker who makes life tough for Lilly the few months they are together. Running out on her when he learns that she is to have a baby, Lilly is glad to have the circus barker Dave sign a marriage certificate making her his wife. But the baby dies.

Then Lilly descends from carnival dancer, during which time she does not hesitate to cheat on Dave, to a member of Doc Magill's health store-show troupe. The strong man, Fritz, goes insane when Lilly repulses him. All the while, Dave continues as a drinking husband who never bothers his wife. When Fritz goes out, Bob is taken on for the strong man act and he and Lilly fall in love. Lilly doesn't care whether Dave likes it or not, but Bob sticks to the straight and narrow. Finally just as Lilly is planning to desert faithful old Dave, Fritz breaks out of the asylum, and catching up with the show, makes a maniacal play for Lilly which results in Dave being thrown out a

More PRAISE for ZOO IN BUDAPEST

Preview . . . .

By Jimmy Starr

'Zoo in Budapest'

Rating: Excellent

Produced by Jesse L. Lasky for Fox release. Featuring Gene Raymond and Loretta Young with O. P. Heggie. Directed by Rowland V. Lee. Story by Melville Baker and Jack Kirkland. Adapted by Dan Totheroh. Louise Long and Rowland V. Lee. Photography by Lee Garmes.

☆ ☆ ☆

Get ready, film fans—here comes THE movie of the year! "Zoo in Budapest" is the finest piece of cinema entertainment seen since such celluloid epics as "Cimarron" and "The Champ"—an odd comparison, yes, but nothing quite like "Zoo in Budapest" has ever before found its amazing way upon the silver sheet.

It was everything—to use a slang phrase, one might say "from soup to nuts"—and all the elements of drama, comedy, gorgeous romance, thrills, and down right hokum have been so beautifully blended! That's the secret.

My personal plaudits (I know yours are coming) to Producer Jesse Lasky; to Lee Garmes for some of the most beautiful scenes ever photographed; to Director Rowland V. Lee for his superb handling of a difficult, intricate and tremendously vital combination thriller-love plot; to Performers Gene Raymond, Loretta Young, O. P. Heggie and Murray Kinnell for their brilliant work.

The story is far too vast, too exciting to reveal much here, except it has the dashing romantic charm of "Seventh Heaven," the excitement of a dozen wild animal thrillers and the droll comedy of a Balzac story.

Your heart-strings will strike a tragic note for the lovers, both orphans, fighting against many villains...you'll madly grasp your chair as the lions, tigers and other wild animals are loose in the zoo—and the elephants are on a rampage, wrecking buildings, tearing at cages, crushing walls ...and you'll cheer at the super-thrilling rescue of a baby midst the charging beasts!

Wally Albright, Paul Fix, Ruth Warren, Roy Stewart, Frances Rich, Niles Welch, Lucille Ward and others form the splendid supporting cast.

Don't you DARE miss "Zoo in Budapest!"

L.A. HERALD EXPRESS – APRIL 15, 1933

In a nutshell:

Rating: Excellent

Get ready, film fans—here comes THE movie of the year

Nothing quite like it

All the elements of drama, comedy, gorgeous romance, thrills

Most beautiful scenes ever photographed

Tremendously vital thriller-love plot

The dashing romantic charm of "Seventh Heaven"

The excitement of a dozen wild animal thrillers

You'll madly grasp your chair

You'll cheer at the super-thrilling rescue

Don't you DARE miss "Zoo in Budapest"

A JESSE L. LASKY production

Loretta Young
Gene Raymond
O. P. Heggie

Directed by Rowland V. Lee

—and it's on the FOX May FESTIVAL

window, his back broken. The finale has Lilly deciding to stick by the stricken Dave while Bob goes on with the McGill show.

The picture can be sold by selling the star, intimation of its theme, praise of the cast and references to their previous popular pictures, rather than by declaration of the film's merit. Good advance advertising along these lines may intrigue your women patrons as well as the Chatterton fans, particularly if you impress them with the fact that it is the story of a woman whose husband's unfaithfulness caused her to become unfaithful herself, but who, despite her indiscretions, had the honesty to stick with her crippled mate when he needed her most.

The picture is of interest only to adults. There is nothing in it that would appeal to the youngsters and it lacks any kind of sparkle or glamour that might intrigue the adolescents.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by First National. Directed by William A. Wellman. Based on a play by Philip Dunning and George Abbott. Screen play by Gene Markey and Kathryn Scola. Film editor, James Morley. Photography by James Van Trees. Art director, Jack Okey. Release date, May 13, 1933. Running time, 64 minutes.

CAST

Lilly	Ruth Chatterton
Bob	George Brent
Dave	Frank McHugh
Doc McGill	Guy Kibbee
Rex	Gordon Wescott
Edna	Ruth Donnelly
Mrs. McGill	Marjorie Gateson
Fritz	Robert Barrat
Sam	Arthur Vinton
Dr. Hawley	Grant Mitchell
Mrs. Turner	Margaret Seddon
Earle	Hobart Cavanaugh
Mrs. Flint	Catherine Claire Ward
Mother	Lucille Ward
Hazel	Mae Busch

Humanity

(Fox)

Drama

Painstakingly eulogizing the old family doctor, the slum physician of the large city who has sacrificed riches and name for service and is fundamentally a great humanitarian, Fox has contrived a motion picture which has certain basic elements of mass drawing power and appeal. Though it contains a goodly portion of sentimentality, and has more of a tear than a laugh in its makeup, "Humanity" should find a response from the great bulk of motion picture patronage.

The title, built up in advertising with the picture's theme, its attendant story factors of a lifetime of healing without thought of financial gain or wide glory, may be made a strongly impressive selling point. Ralph Morgan, in the role of the elderly doctor, though perhaps not too well known as a box office personality, handles the part in definitely capable, if strictly orthodox, fashion. The best name in the cast, from the box office standpoint, is that of Boots Mallory, attractive and ingenuous, rather an impersonation of sentimentality, as the ward of the doctor; closely coupled with that of personable Alexander Kirkland. Irene Ware, Noel Madison, little Betty Jane Graham are probably familiar names.

Found as the basic plot conflict is the natural complication of the old school and the modern, exemplified in the conduct, and attitude, of Morgan and his son, Kirkland, just returned from medical study in Vienna and rather more imbued with the thought of financial success than of service to his fellow man. This conflict works its way through to a logical conclusion with the death of the father from shock as a result of personal sacrifice of his practice and profession to save his son from his own folly. Coincident is the romantic complication of Kirkland's engagement to Miss Ware, wealthy and with the financial conception of a practitioner's success, which leaves Miss Mallory fighting a losing battle for Kirkland's affection. This, too, carries to a coincidental conclusion, with the realization by Kirkland that the way of his father was best and that that way was Miss Mallory's, not Miss Ware's.

When Kirkland becomes involved with Noel Madison in illegitimate practice on criminals in order to acquire the wherewithal for a sumptuous practice, and becomes involved with the police, the pace quickens to the conclusion.

The father-son sacrifice angle is perhaps best for selling purposes, while that involving the opposite attitudes of the two girls offers a secondary phase. The element of the self-sacrificing physician should be made an appealing factor in the campaign. Nothing here is possibly objectionable for children, but neither will they be appreciative of the subject matter.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by John Francis Dillon. From the story "The Road to Heaven" by Harry Fried. Screen play by Bradley King. Photographed by L. W. O'Connell. Sound recorder, Eugene Grossman. Release date, March 3, 1933. Running time, 70 minutes.

CAST

Dr. William MacDonald	Ralph Morgan
Nancy Moore	Boots Mallory
Bill MacDonald	Alexander Kirkland
Olive Pelton	Irene Ware
Sam	Noel Madison
Farley	Wade Boteler
Schmiddy	Christian Rub
Rosie	Betty Jane Graham
Mrs. Bernstein	Ferike Boros
Dr. Van Buren	George Irving
Mr. Pelton	Crauford Kent
Mrs. Pelton	Nella Walker

A Bedtime Story

(Paramount)

Comedy-Drama

The indefatigable Maurice Chevalier, whose light touch and gay good humor is definitely infectious, has with him in this, his latest effort, a new leading supporter. This young and handsome player is practically a guarantee of feminine approval of the picture. His name is Baby Leroy. Chevalier attractively calls him "Monsieur le Bebe," and without the slightest histrionic effort one-year-old "Monsieur le Bebe" becomes the screen's most appealing infant. One can almost hear the echoes of the murmuring of adoration from the feminine contingent of the audience, and whether the men admit it or not, they will get a great kick out of baby.

Do not lose sight of the captivating baby in selling this amusing and entertaining Chevalier picture. If it is true that Maurice has lost some of that early sparkle for the exhibitor's patronage in some quarters, here is a splendid opportunity to make good use of the baby. The story does not particularly matter, though the baby is a motivating factor and the story has an element which other of Chevalier's have not had.

Maurice is still the gay and debonnair man-about-town in Paris, this time wealthy and with several attractive girls "on the string." Arriving in Paris, with song and laughter, stopping on the way home to greet his "friends" and make dates, the chauffeur finds a foundling baby in the car among the luggage. Maurice forgets his dates, and laughable and entertaining sequences follow as he and his valet, delightfully played by Edward Everett Horton, try to quiet its crying, put it to bed. Helen Twelvetrees, a new leading player for Chevalier, responds to a call for a nurse on a long chance, and on her pleading, Maurice engages her. Complications follow when Maurice arrives at the chateau of his fiancee, Gertrude Michael, with Miss Twelvetrees and the baby. They laugh, Maurice is hurt, Miss Michael storms, suspects Maurice, does not believe the foundling story, is jealous of Miss Twelvetrees, breaks the engagement. Not broken-hearted, Maurice is strangely happy, seeing visions of Maurice, the nurse, and baby together somewhere by the seashore. A former flame starts trouble again, and it is Miss Twelvetrees' turn to suspect. She returns to Paris with the baby, Maurice follows, and when there is danger of losing the baby, the skies clear rapidly, and the three are left together.

The music is tuneful, and Maurice renders the lyrics in his accustomed appealing style. Lightly, romantically, amusingly entertaining, "A Bedtime Story" is more than pleasant. The women should enjoy themselves to the full, and their pleasure should be communicated to the men. Sell the patrons a gay and tuneful Chevalier picture, with a completely delightful baby as a new and novel theme. Maurice tries to be a daddy—and falls in love with the nurse. It is clean and attractive, and highly enjoyable.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. Directed by Norman Taurog. Screen play by Waldemar Young and Nunnally Johnson. Adapted by Benjamin Glazer. From a novel by Roy Horniman. Music and lyrics by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin. Photographed by Charles Lang. Release date, April 21, 1933. Running time, 87 minutes.

CAST

René	Maurice Chevalier
Sally	Helen Twelvetrees
Victor	Edward Everett Horton
Paulette	Adrienne Ames
"Monsieur"	Baby Leroy
Max	Earle Foxe
Gabrielle	Leah Ray
Suzanne	Betty Lorraine
Louise	Gertrude Michael
Robert	Ernest Wood
General	Reginald Mason
Agent of Police	Henry Kolker
Henry Joudain	George MacQuarrie
Concierge	Paul Panzer

Black Beauty

(Monogram)

Drama

Modernizing this famous old tale, setting its locales in a Virginia plantation and an American city, retaining all the drama, romance, beauty, human interest and color of the classic story, the producers have evolved a show that should have an extraordinary audience appeal. Where the book has always been considered one that every child should read, the picture is not only splendid, clean and wholesome entertainment for the juveniles, but has the punch that should draw the interest of adults.

The story should be familiar to all. Black Beauty, the horse, is its real hero. The human element is only the necessary background against which the romantic and sometimes powerfully dramatic story is told. It is Beauty's life, Cameron's love for her, Leila's love for him. There are the menace of Jordan, Beauty being trained for the steeplechase upon which the fortunes of the Cameron estate depend, Beauty killing the vicious Jordan in an accident, and the thrilling chase where Cameron, astride Black Beauty, saves Leila as her horse runs away. Black Beauty is injured as he races for the doctor to tend the injured Cameron, and his racing days are finished before they start. The Cameron ranch goes under the hammer and Cameron goes to seek his fortune in the city. Beauty goes down the scale until she is the junkman's horse. Cameron finds him again and beats the junkman for beating the horse. He promises to buy, only to have Beauty sold to Renaldo, who exports nags for the bull-fighting rings of Spain. Leila and Bledsoe find the impoverished Cameron, and dash wildly to the docks to buy Black Beauty back from the wise Renaldo. Back on the old plantation, the Cameron fortunes restored, Leila and Cameron are married, while Black Beauty is destined for a life of unending happiness in the long grass.

There is a tremendous amount of human interest in this version of "Black Beauty." That should be its biggest selling point. It should be the peg upon which to hang every line of copy that details the romance, drama, thrill and atmospheric color of the picture. It is the story that surrounds Black Beauty that counts. Still, the horse is the real hero. Play up the relation between the man and his horse. Accentuate his glory and pride in Black Beauty. Stress the pathos of his parting with her. Emphasize the dramatic heart interest when he finds his old pride dragging a junk wagon. Build up the romance between Leila and Cameron that enables Black Beauty to come home again.

Do not be satisfied to confine your efforts to children. All sorts of school, book store, and newspaper contacts should insure capacity business from the youngsters. Go after the grownups. Sell them along the lines suggested. Do not hesitate to use lines similar to: "Here's the kind of picture you have been looking for." Get over the idea that the story has all the elements that all kinds of patrons look for in a modern picture. You can well afford to put in plenty of extra effort in selling "Black

Upholds Trustees In Paramount Case

Attempts to upset the Paramount-Publix receivership were blocked Wednesday by Judge Francis G. Caffey in federal court, New York, when he denied motions to set aside the first creditors' meeting at which Charles E. Hilles, Eugene W. Leake and Louis J. Horowitz were elected trustees in bankruptcy. Samuel Zirn, attorney representing minority bondholders, sought to have new trustees elected. This, too, was denied by Judge Caffey, who also refused Mr. Zirn's petition to remove referee Henry K. Davis from further consideration in the case.

The court, however, reserved decision on a motion to vacate the corporation's voluntary action for involuntary receivership. Judge Caffey indicated that he would enter an order authorizing proceedings under involuntary action if and when preferential transactions which are injurious to creditors become known and are proved. Attorneys for the Paramount trustees said in court that they would consent to an order to supplant the voluntary receivership with an involuntary one if it was to the best interests of creditors.

Mr. Zirn has figured in numerous attempts to upset the status of the Paramount-Publix receivership. In Wednesday's action Mr. Zirn represented Norman E. Bensinger, who is trustee for the holders of $25,000 of Paramount bonds.

Meetings of various nature were the subjects of much discussion at the Paramount office in New York during the week. The receivers decided there will be no meeting of stockholders this year, because of the general situation. Publix creditors again postponed their meeting, scheduled for April 20, to Thursday, while distribution officials put off until May 5, 6 and 7 a meeting of Paramount district managers for Atlantic City. Regional meetings of sales executives will follow.

New Deals on Publix Houses

While the trustees of the parent corporation were concentrating on management problems, Irving Trust Company, trustee for the bankrupt Publix subsidiary, continued dissolving theatre divisions, returning numerous properties to former owners.

M. A. Shea regained the Park at Westfield, Mass., and the Paramount at Fremont, Ohio. Negotiations whereby Louis Marcus will take back his holdings in Salt Lake City are expected to culminate in a deal next week. At Denver, Harry Nolan, manufacturers' representative, instituted foreclosure proceedings against Mountain States, a bankrupt Publix subsidiary, for the return of the Mesa at Grand Junction and the Rex in Greeley. Mountain States returned the America, Colorado Springs, to Tommy Tompkins.

Publix is understood to be negotiating for disposal of the Empress and Regent, at Norwalk, Conn., and has decided to withdraw from the Madison, at Mansfield, Ohio. If the Norwalk deal is not concluded, receivers will disaffirm the leases.

The Paramount, Palace and Rialto, at Hamilton, Ohio, on which leases were disaffirmed by A. E. Reuben, trustee, hereafter will be operated under a partnership arrangement with the Taft estate, Cincinnati, which controls the Paramount. Marc Wolf will be general manager. The Palace and Rialto will be managed by the landlords, Turberg and Silver, and John A. Schwalm, respectively.

Fox Returning Many Theatres

Untangling of bankrupt Fox theatre properties got under way this week in California, coincidentally with the decision of receivers to return numerous theatre properties found unprofitable.

The Tower and Oriental in Midwesco's Milwaukee group reverted to Annenberg Investment Co., and the Fox, Appleton, Wis., and the Fox, Sheboygan, Wis., also were returned to former owners. The Egyptian and Oriental, at North Denver, were dropped, raising the total abandoned in the Rocky Mountain subsidiary to ten.

Referee Samuel McNabb last week set about to unravel the maze of holding companies in the Fox West Coast bankruptcy. From headquarters at Los Angeles, Mr. McNabb arranged to return nine theatres to United Artists, which is expected to make a new deal with Fox West Coast to operate the properties. Meanwhile, examination of the financial structure of the parent FWC corporation, and of its numerous subsidiaries, continued.

In New York, executives of Fox Film Corporation decided to postpone the annual stockholders' meeting, scheduled for last week, to some time in June, when the new financial reorganization plan, now being formulated, will be announced.

Attorneys for M. B. Shanberg and H. M. Woolf at Kansas City, charging conspiracy by Chase Bank and Fox Film to defraud creditors of Fox Film and theatre subsidiaries, filed application Wednesday with the U. S. Court of Appeals for a writ of prohibition and mandamus to compel Judge Albert L. Reeves in federal district court to set aside the adjudication in bankruptcy of Fox Midland Theatre Company and dismiss the voluntary petitions filed March 8. Three judges of the appellate court will hear the application Saturday.

Referee McNabb granted permission to trustees of West Coast to restore salary cuts, retroactive to April 10.

Irving Trust Reports on Orpheum

A receiver's report on the Orpheum subsidiary of RKO was completed. Irving Trust Company, which filed the report with Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn, said it is also engaged in resetting Orpheum bond issues and in the reduction of interest and refunding of maturities of the bankrupt division.

Assets of Orpheum at the time of the bankruptcy, January 27, were $22,327,231, consisting principally of notes and mortgages of affiliated theatre companies. Of these and other assets, totaling $3,816, approximately $22,319,198 is pledged as security for Orpheum's mortgages payable to Keith-Albee-Orpheum. The Irving Trust report said "it is doubtful if the balance of the unpledged assets have any realizable value."

Orpheum owns the stock of 35 corporations controlling 52 theatres, of which 21 are closed. RKO owns 9,462 Orpheum shares of 63,840 preferred shares outstanding.

Named Zone Publicity Head

Lawrence S. Stein has been named director of advertising and publicity for Warner theatres in the Chicago zone, replacing A. E. Sobler, resigned.

ON BROADWAY

Week of April 22

PARAMOUNT

Uncle Jake — Paramount

RIALTO

Jabs and Jolts — Paramount
The Peanut Vendor — Paramount
The Pharmacist — Paramount

RKO MUSIC HALL

Father Noah's Ark — United Artists

ROXY

Ladies Not Allowed — Columbia
Night of Romance — Master Art Products

Paramount To Do 60 to 65 Features

Paramount has scheduled 60 to 65 features for next year and about the same number of shorts and features as last year, according to Adolph Zukor, president.

Mr. Zukor returned this week to New York from Hollywood.

Columbia Plans 32-36 Next Year

Columbia will produce between 32 and 36 features next season, Jack Cohen, vice-president, said on Tuesday. No westerns will be included, the company planning all product for "A" houses. The extent of short subject production has not been determined.

Plans for the company's annual sales convention are now in the making, with a possibility that the meeting will be held some time next month. The sales session was held in May last year.

Admission Tax Receipts Increase to $1,248,377

March receipts from the admission tax rose to $1,248,377.86 from the $1,089,767.71 in February, the Bureau of Internal Revenue at Washington announced this week. The February receipts (covering January admissions) were the lowest for any full month since enactment of the 1932 revenue act reducing the exemption to 40 cents.

Protective Group To Pay Equity Members $23,978

The Managers Protective Association will pay claims amounting to $23,978 held by members of Actors Equity Association against members of the protective group, in the arbitration settlement of differences between the two organizations. The decision did not affect the "basic agreement," which extends until May 12, 1934, and holds that in return for certain privileges granted by Equity the protective association is responsible for the debts of its members in Equity.

Cinema Patents Charges Infringement by Powers

Cinema Patents has filed suit against P. A. Powers, Jack T. Cosman and the Producers Laboratories, in U. S. district court for the southern district of New York, charging infringement of the Gaumont patents on account of the defendants' use of development machines formerly operated by Meyer-Rieger.

Guile, Atkins Named Pathe Directors at Annual Meeting

Henry J. Guile and Robert W. Atkins were elected to the directorate of Pathe Exchange, Inc., at the annual meeting of stockholders on Thursday. They succeed P. J. Scollard and Lester Burton. All other directors were re-elected. The meeting had been held over from Tuesday.

THEATRE RECEIPTS

The total of theatre receipts from 115 houses in 20 major cities of the country for the calendar week ended April 22, 1933, indicating a marked increase over the previous week's total, aggregated $1,258,229. With a total of $1,003,962 for 114 theatres in 20 cities for the week ended April 15, the gain reached $204,267. Indianapolis figures for the earlier week, which arrived too late for inclusion in last week's compilation, are now included. During the more recent period no new "highs" and only one new "low" were reported.

(Copyright, 1933: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to Motion Picture Herald expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Boston
Fenway	1,800	30c-50c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) and "Girl Missing" (W. B.)	11,000	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) and "Murders in the Zoo" (Para.)	9,500	.....
Keith's	3,500	30c-50c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	17,000	"Christopher Strong" (Radio) and "Man Hunt" (Radio)	16,500	High 12-5 "Frankenstein" 27,000 Low 3-9-33 "When Strangers Marry" 12,000
Keith-Boston	2,900	25c-50c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	17,000	"Rome Express" (U.)	15,000	High 4-9-32 "Steady Company" 26,000 Low 3-9-33 "Topaze" 11,000
Loew's State	3,700	25c-50c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	18,000	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.)	17,000	High 6-18-32—"Hell Divers," "Possessed" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet" 26,000 Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight" 11,000
Metropolitan	4,350	35c-65c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	33,000	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	29,000	High 1-31 "No Limit" 44,500 Low 3-9-33 "King of the Jungle" 26,500
Paramount	1,800	30c-50c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) and "Girl Missing" (W. B.)	13,500	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) and "Murders in the Zoo" (Para.)	10,500	.....
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-55c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	14,900	"Sweepings" (Radio)	12,200	High 3-28 "My Past" 39,500 Low 3-24-33 "Our Betters" 9,800
Century	3,000	25c	"Out All Night" (U.) and "Broadway Bad" (Fox)	7,200	"Secrets of the French Police" (Radio) and "Love Is Like That" (Chesterfield)	5,100	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 25,600 Low 3-24-33 "Hello, Everybody" and "Parachute Jumper" 4,700
Great Lakes	3,000	25c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	13,700	"Rome Express" (U.)	5,400	High 8-8 "Politics" 35,100 Low 4-14-33 "Rome Express" 5,400
Hippodrome	2,100	25c	"The Woman Accused" (Para.) and "Sailor Be Good" (Radio)	7,300	"Fast Workers" (MGM) and "Humanity" (Fox)	5,800	High 2-14 "Free Love" 26,300 Low 7-16-32 "New Morals for Old" 4,200
Lafayette	3,300	25c	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) and "Officer 13" (Allied)	8,100	"Parole Girl" (Col.) and "Self Defense" (Monogram)	5,300	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance" 24,100 Low 2-10-33 "Hypnotized" and "Trailing the Killer" 5,100
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-68c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	33,000	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	32,000	High 1-23-32 "Two Kinds of Women" 67,000 Low 12-22-32 "The Match King" 20,000
Oriental	3,940	35c-68c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	17,000	"The White Sister" (MGM) (3rd week)	7,000	High 3-7 "My Past" 46,750 Low 3-24-33 "The Big Cage" 12,000
Palace	2,509	35c-75c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	19,000	"Parole Girl" (Col.)	18,500	High 4-2-32 "Cheaters at Play" 33,000 Low 12-15-32 "False Faces" 14,000
Roosevelt	1,591	25c-50c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	6,800	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.)	7,500	High 4-11 "Dishonored" 30,350 Low 3-3-33 "Luxury Liner" 6,200
United Artists.	1,700	35c-68c	"Secrets" (U. A.)	11,500	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (2nd week)	11,000	High 3-21 "City Lights" 46,562 Low 3-17-33 "Perfect Understanding" 6,800
Cleveland
Allen	3,300	15c-35c	"Bondage" (Fox) and "Speed Demon" (Col.)	3,800	"Girl Missing" (W. B.) and "Penal Code" (Freuler)	3,000	High 1-30-32 "Hell Divers" 26,000 Low 3-3-33 "Infernal Machine" and "Exposure" 1,800
Mall	753	15c-25c	"Strictly Personal" (Para.)	1,750	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	1,200	.....
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio)	15,000	"Our Betters" (Radio)	10,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich" 40,000 Low 2-11-33 "Child of Manhattan" 8,000
State	3,400	25c-40c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	14,500	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	10,500	High 12-5 "Possessed" 30,000 Low 4-14-33 "Rasputin and the Empress" 10,500
Stillman	1,900	15c-35c	"The Woman Accused" (Para.) (25c-35c)	5,000	"What! No Beer?" (MGM)	4,300	.....
Warner's Lake	800	15c-40c	"Central Airport" (F. N.) (25c-40c)	5,800	"Women They Talk About" (W. B.) (15c-35c)	4,200	High 10-3 "Five Star Final" 15,000 Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl" 2,000
Denver
Aladdin	1,500	25c-40c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	4,000	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	3,200	.....
Denham	1,700	15c-25c	"Week-End Marriage" (F. N.)	2,850	"The Big Cage" (U.)	2,700	.....
Denver	2,500	25c-50c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	10,000	"Pick Up" (Para.)	8,000	High 8-8 "Politics" 25,000 Low 3-23-33 "Clear All Wires" 6,000
Orpheum	2,600	25c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (8 days)	9,000	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	7,200	.....
Paramount	2,000	25c-40c	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.)	5,500	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) (4 days) "Strictly Personal" (Para.) (3 days)	1,500 2,000	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels" 22,000 Low 3-23-33 "Grand Slam" and "Whistling in the Dark" 3,000
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-40c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	5,500	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	5,600	.....
Fisher	2,700	15c-40c	"Men Must Fight" (MGM)	6,100	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	10,300	.....
Fox	5,100	15c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	17,400	"After the Ball" (Fox) and "Afraid to Talk" (U.)	5,400	.....
Michigan	4,000	25c-50c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) and "Luxury Liner" (Para.)	10,200	"Ladies They Talk About" (W. B.) and "Under the Tonto Rim" (Para.)	13,200	.....
State	3,000	25c-50c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	10,700	.....		.....
United Artists	2,000	25c-50c	"Secrets" (U. A.)	6,200	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (2nd week)	7,200	.....

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Hollywood
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	25c-50c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	9,627	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	8,975	High 2-7 "Little Caesar" 30,000 Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family" 7,000
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	3,500	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	3,000	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs" 10,000 Low 3-10-33 "Topaze" 2,500
Circle	2,800	25c-40c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	5,000	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.)	4,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 13,000 Low 3-3-33 "Sign of the Cross" (Second run) 2,500
Indiana	3,300	25c-40c	"Child of Manhattan" (Col.)	7,000	"The Big Drive" (First Div.)	5,000	High 1-17 "Her Man" 25,000 Low 4-16-33 "The Big Drive" 5,000
Palace	2,800	25c-40c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	6,000	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.)	6,000	High 5-2 "Trader Horn" 22,000 Low 3-3-33 "Clear All Wires" 3,500
Kansas City
Mainstreet	3,049	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio)	9,000	"Private Jones" (U.) (5 days)	3,000	High 1-9-32 "Peach o' Reno" 25,500 Low 3-7-33 "The Great Jasper" 4,000 (Second week of straight film policy.)
Midland	4,000	25c	"The White Sister" (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	16,000	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.) (35c) (5 days and Sat. midnite show)	4,900	High 1-5-33 "Strange Interlude" 30,000 Low 12-8-32 "Man Against Woman" 6,000
Newman	2,000	25c-50c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,500	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) (5 days and Sat. midnite show)	4,000	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express" 25,000 Low 3-14-33 "King of the Jungle" 5,000
Uptown	2,000	25c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	5,000	"Broadway Bad" (Fox) (3 days)	1,700	High 1-10 "Girl of the Golden West" 8,000 Low 5-21-32 "Lena Rivers" 2,000
Los Angeles
Loew's State	2,416	25c-40c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	10,500	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	15,911	High 10-25 "Susan Lenox" 39,000 Low 3-5-32 "The Silent Witness" 6,963
Paramount	3,596	25c-40c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	18,500	"Murders in the Zoo" (Para.)	14,000	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor" 41,000 Low 2-6-32 "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" 7,500
RKO	2,700	25c-55c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	4,400	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) and "Man Hunt" (Radio)	3,500	.....
W. B. Downtown	2,400	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (5th week)	11,278	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (4th week)	12,452	High 2-7 "Little Caesar" 27,000 Low 4-23-32 "Destry Rides Again" 6,200
W. B. Western.	2,400	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	5,243	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (1st week)	6,422	.....
Minneapolis
Century	1,640	25c-40c	"Secrets" (U. A.)	5,500	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	5,000	.....
Lyric	1,238	25c-40c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)	2,000	"Cabin in the Cotton" (F. N.)	2,000	High 5-30 "Kiki" 4,000 Low 1-24 "Men on Call" 1,200
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"The Great Jasper" (Radio)	6,000	"King Kong" (Radio)	6,500	.....
State	2,300	25c-55c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	7,500	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	7,000	High 1-2-32 "Sooky" 10,000 Low 3-10-33 "King of the Jungle" 3,500
World	400	25c-75c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)	2,400	.....	.....	.....
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"Pick Up" (Para.) and "From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	11,500	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) and "Luxury Liner" (Para.)	9,000	High 1-10 "Just Imagine" 18,000 Low 12-23 "The Guardsman" and "The Tip Off" 8,000
Imperial	1,914	15c-50c	"Les Deux Orphelines" (French) (25c-60c)	3,000	"Allo, Mademoiselle" (French)	1,500	High 1-17 "Office Wife" 10,000 Low 4-14-33 "Allo, Mademoiselle" 1,500
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	13,500	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W. B.)	11,500	High 4-2-32 "Fireman, Save My Child" 16,500 Low 7-18 "Stepping Out" 9,000
Palace	2,600	25c-75c	"King Kong" (Radio)	13,500	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (2nd week)	9,000	High 4-2-32 "One Hour With You" 19,500 Low 12-23-32 "Life Begins" 8,500
Princess	2,272	25c-60c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) and "State Trooper" (Col.) (2nd week)	6,500	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) and "State Trooper" (Col.) (1st week)	7,000	High 4-1 "City Lights" 22,500 Low 12-23-32 "The Crusader" and "Hearts of Humanity" 6,000
New York
Astor	1,120	55c-$2.20	"The White Sister" (MGM) (5th week)	7,000	"The White Sister" (MGM) (4th week)	9,000	High 1-2-32 "Hell Divers" 24,216 Low 3-26-33 "The White Sister" 14,559
Cameo	549	25c-75c	"The Truth About Africa" (Alexander)	3,550	"King Kong" (Radio)	3,700	.....
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.65	"Today We Live" (MGM)	54,551	"Gabriel Over the White House" (2nd week)	38,881	High 1-9-32 "Mata Hari" 110,466 Low 2-2-33 "Whistling in the Dark" 23,600
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"M" (Foremco) (3rd week)	10,500	"M" (Foremco) (2nd week)	12,300	High 12-12 "Frankenstein" 53,800 Low 3-10-33 "Racetrack" 7,100
Palace	2,500	25c-75c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	6,750	"Parole Girl" (Col.)	4,500	.....
Paramount	3,700	35c-99c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (8 days)	25,600	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.)	18,200	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie" 85,900 Low 2-2-33 "Hello, Everybody" 15,600
Rialto	2,200	40c-65c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	9,200	"Destination Unknown" (U.) and "The Fighting President" (U.)	5,800	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express" 64,600 Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels" 4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-85c	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram)	11,500	"Secrets" (U. A.) (4th week)	10,200	High 1-9-32 "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" 67,100 Low 7-29-32 "Igloo" 8,000
RKO Music Hall	5,945	35c-$1.65	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (2nd week)	105,986	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (1st week)	107,761	.....
RKO Roxy	3,700	35c-$1.65	"The World Gone Mad" (Majestic)	30,873	"Out All Night" (U.)	24,371	.....
Roxy	6,200	25c-55c	"High Gear" (Goldsmith)	20,000	"Infernal Machine" (Fox)	19,500	High 1-1-32 "Delicious" 133,000 Low 1-26-33 "Air Hostess" 9,100
Strand	3,000	25c-85c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (6th week)	23,721	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (5th week)	21,232	High 1-17 "Little Caesar" 74,821 Low 4-2-32 "The Missing Rembrandt" 8,012
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-40c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	3,200	"Topaze" (Radio)	3,000	High 2-7 "Illicit" 11,000 Low 3-11-33 "From Hell to Heaven" 1,350
Criterion	1,700	10c-55c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	5,800	"Pick Up" (Para.)	5,300	High 2-21 "Cimarron" 15,500 Low 3-11-33 "Clear All Wires" 1,800
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Out All Night" (U.)	3,400	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) (4 days)	1,000	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion" 7,200 Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy" 900
					"Parole Girl" (Col.) (3 days)	1,000
Mid-West	1,500	10c-55c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	3,300	"The Big Cage" (U.)	1,900	High 9-19 "Young As You Feel" 11,000 Low 3-11-33 "Employees' Entrance" 1,400

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	20c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio)	8,500	"Maedchen in Uniform" (Krimsky & Cochran) and "Air Hostess" (Col.) (6 days)	6,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron" Low 4-8-33 "Christopher Strong" and "Lucky Devils"	25,550 6,500
Paramount	2,900	25c-50c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	7,000	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	7,500	High 4-23-32 "Tarzan, the Ape Man" Low 5-21-32 "Wet Parade" and "It's Tough to Be Famous"	13,750 4,000
State	1,200	15c-25c	"The King's Vacation" (F. N.) (4 days) "Strictly Personal" (Para.) (3 days)	1,000 800	"Under the Tonto Rim" (Para.) (4 days) "Humanity" (Fox) (3 days)	750 600	High 3-14 "Trader Horn" Low 2-10-33 "The Devil Is Driving" and "The Intruder"	10,000 1,000
World	2,500	25c-40c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) and "Clear All Wires" (MGM)	5,000	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) and "Ladies They Talk About" (W. B.)	6,500	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love" Low 11-28 "The Cisco Kid"	16,000 4,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	25c-50c	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.) (10 days) (2nd run)	7,560	"Luxury Liner" (Para.) (6 days) (2nd run)	2,000	High 12-17 "The Guardsman" Low 10-1-32 "Make Me a Star"	6,500 1,500
Boyd	2,400	40c-55c	"The White Sister" (MGM) (6 days)	16,000	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (2nd week-6 days)	10,000	.....
Earle	2,000	40c-66c	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.) (6 days)	17,000	"Fast Workers" (MGM) (6 days)	12,000	High 1-5-33 "Breach of Promise" Low 4-13-33 "Fast Workers"	29,000 12,000
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (6 days)	29,000	"Constant Woman" (World Wide) (6 days)	16,500	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back" Low 6-18-32 "Mystery Ranch"	40,000 15,000
Karlton	1,000	30c-50c	"Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio) (7 days)	3,200	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.) (6 days)	2,800	High 5-2 "City Lights" Low 3-23-33 "Air Hostess"	8,000 2,500
Keith's	2,000	15c-35c	"Trailing the Killer" (World Wide) (6 days)	6,700	"What Price Decency?" (Majestic) (6 days)	6,500	High 1-30-32 "Arrowsmith" Low 3-23-33 "Jungle Bride"	27,000 6,000
Locust	1,300	25c-55c	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) (6 days)	6,000	.....		.....
Stanley	3,700	40c-55c	"King Kong" (Radio) (7 days)	15,000	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U. A.)	9,000	High 12-19 "Frankenstein" Low 7-25 "Rebound"	31,000 8,000
Stanton	1,700	30c-55c	"Pick Up" (Para.) (6 days)	7,500	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM) (2nd week-6 days)	6,500	High 3-21 "Last Parade" Low 3-23-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble"	16,500 5,500
Portland, Ore.
Broadway	1,912	25c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	6,500	"Sherlock Holmes" (Fox)	5,000	High 1-10 "Min and Bill" Low 10-1-32 "The Crash"	21,000 2,800
Liberty	1,800	15c-25c	"Handle with Care" (Fox)	2,000	"Rackety Rax" (Fox)	1,800	.....
Music Box	1,600	15c-35c	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	2,300	"Night Club Lady" (Col.)	2,500	.....
Oriental	2,040	25c-35c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)	7,300	"The Big Cage" (U.)	2,300	.....
Rialto	1,500	15c-25c	"The Mysterious Rider" (Fox)	2,000	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)	2,000	High 3-21 "Trader Horn" Low 2-10-33 "Billion Dollar Scandal"	12,000 1,000
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-55c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	5,300	"Private Jones" (U.)	5,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron" Low 3-17-33 "Great Jasper"	20,000 4,000
United Artists	945	25c-50c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	4,700	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (3rd week)	4,700	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels" Low 3-10-33 "Madame Butterfly"	12,500 1,600
San Francisco
Embassy	1,380	25c-50c	"Magic Night" (U. A.)	3,500	"Love Sins" (State Rights) (2nd week-4 days)	3,000	.....
Filmarte	1,400	25c-50c	"Holzapfel Knows Everything" (Foreign)	1,300	"The Black Hussar" (Foreign)	1,300	.....
Fox	4,600	10c-25c	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) and "Self-Defense" (Monogram) (10c-35c)	11,500	"Goona Goona" (First Div.) and "Blame the Woman" (Principal)	15,000	High 1-3 "Lightning" Low 4-21-23 "Oliver Twist" and "Self-Defense"	70,000 11,500
Golden Gate	2,800	25c-65c	"King Kong" (Radio)	17,500	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	12,000	High 2-9-33 "The Mummy" Low 6-11-32 "Lena Rivers"	25,500 7,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-75c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	15,000	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W. B.)	13,000	High 1-9-32 "The Champ" Low 3-31-33 "The King's Vacation"	35,600 9,500
St. Francis	1,435	25c-50c	"Strictly Personal" (Para.) and "Secret of Madame Blanche" (MGM)	5,000	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.) and "Girl Missing" (W. B.)	4,500	.....
United Artists	1,200	25c-50c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)	10,000	"The Big Cage" (U.)	5,000	.....
Warfield	2,700	35c-90c	"Pick Up" (Para.) (6 days)	12,500	"The White Sister" (MGM)	16,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" Low 4-6-33 "Grand Slam"	28,000 12,000
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-50c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	3,000	"The Big Cage" (U.) (6 days)	3,000	.....
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-55c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	7,500	"Pick Up" (Para.)	5,500	High 7-30-32 "Million Dollar Legs" Low 3-18-33 "From Hell to Heaven" and "Secret of Madame Blanche"	18,500 5,000
Liberty	2,000	10c-25c	"Robbers' Roost" (Fox) (8 days)	4,250	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) (5 days)	2,500	High 1-10 "The Lash" Low 11-11-32 "Amazon Head Hunters"	11,500 3,000
Music Box	950	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	5,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	5,500	High 2-28 "City Lights" Low 11-25-32 "The Crooked Circle"	14,000 3,000
Paramount	3,050	25c-55c	"Heritage of the Desert" (Para.) and "The Mind Reader" (F. N.) (6 days)	4,000	"Clear All Wires" (MGM) and "Broadway Bad" (Fox)	4,500	High 1-10 "Paid" Low 4-15-33 "Clear All Wires" and "Broadway Bad"	18,000 4,500
Rex	1,500	25c-35c	"Parachute Jumper" (W. B.)	2,500	"Scarlet River" (Radio)	2,550	.....
Roxy	2,275	25c-50c	"A Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)	11,500	.....		.....
Washington
Columbia	1,232	25c-40c	"Humanity" (Fox)	2,500	"Vampire Bat" (Majestic)	2,800	.....
Earle	2,323	25c-66c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.)	16,000	"Air Hostess" (Col.)	19,000	.....
Fox	3,434	25c-66c	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	28,500	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	22,000	.....
Loew's Palace	2,363	35c-55c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	17,500	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.)	12,500	.....
Metropolitan	1,600	25c-55c	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram)	7,200	"Maedchen in Uniform" (Krimsky & Cochran)	6,250	.....
Rialto	1,900	25c-55c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)	9,000	"Virtue" (Col.)	3,200	.....
RKO Keith's	1,832	25c-55c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	8,000	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	8,200	.....

TECHNOLOGICAL

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 170.—(A) Give us your idea of the best method for storage of film while in the projection room. Be careful. This involves quite a lot, as we want to know the why and wherefore of each of your recommendations. (B) While moistening dry film does not ordinarily come within the scope of a projectionist's duties, still it is well he should have some understanding of the matter. Tell us how it may be done. (C) What damage is too-dry film subject to as compared with properly moistened film?

Answer to Question No. 163

Bluebook School Question No. 163 was: (A) Name some of the troubles encountered which may be charged directly to poorly made film splices. (B) Why is it of special importance that all emulsion be scraped away from around the sprocket holes when making splices? (C) Just how much cement should be used when making a splice? (D) Too little cement of course won't do. Is the use of too much cement objectionable, and if so, why?

Here are those who made good. Hope you all follow your own instructions! Incidentally, I'm a bit ashamed of you, taken as a whole. There should be at least ten thousand answers every week, and the average is only just above one-tenth of that number. What's the matter with the rest of you? Are you afraid you can't make good, or just too lazy to make the effort? Think it over.

G. E. Doe, C. Rau and S. Evans, T. Van Vaulkenburg, Dale Danielson, J. Wentworth, H. Edwards, Dale Danielson, K. Dowling, P. W. Edwards, E. Parkinson, W. Ostrum, A. Bailey, D. L. Solomon and P. Hadley, O. Garling and B. Diglah, D. Lilley and G. Thompson, W. D. Lalley, D. Johnson and A. Lomberg, B. T. Daniels, D. Golding, D. T. Holmes and A. Altman, I. E. Rayner, B. M. May, F. D. Prindley, G. M. Marksley, L. Cranlo and G. Deckson, C. D. Dodson and L. Dodson, T. Buckstone and P. L. Davis, M. R. Cass, H. B. Coates, P. L. Algy and R. Dinmat, T. B. Cudmore and J. L. Richards, T. Potter and H. Steele, L. T. Chotes and B. L. Buckley, R. D. Grimes, D. Holler and B. Eilers, S. Kay, R. E. Baiss and A. E. Wyatt, J. L. Major and D. B. Bates, L. Simmons and W. D. Adamson, G. Lombard and J. Ahrenson, B. T. Sampson and G. C. Hendrie, J. M. McKinzie, L. I. Tirgley and N. D. Salier, S. G. Goss and P. Lambert, D. N. Peters, M. H. Sanders and T. L. Shelton, J. S. Henderson, G. G. Breston, N. Gault, B. E. Olliver, M. Donahue, W. A. Andres, D. E. Ellis and T. R. MacAllen, W. S. Andrus, H. D. Davis, B. R. Compton and T. Gaitsley, H. M. Evans, D. U. Tomms and P. L. Mangan, H. D. Schofield, R. and M. L. Wright, H. D. Cylor, A. Lomberg, P. L. Talley and G. Akerson, D. R. Donolson, G. M. Johnson, K. L. Knight and L. V. Smolley, R. L. Henderson, L. S. Marksley and J. S. Bischoff, D. L. McIntire, L. N. Daniels and M. R. Wining, M. S. O'Brien, L. Peterson and D. Donahue, D. L. Stanhope, T. L. Shelton and M. H. Sanders, L. Torr and P. L. Davis, M. L. Tomlinson, D. L. Bentley and E. O. Olliver, L. Peterson, F. D. Samuels, H. B. Jenkins, L. R. Toll and B. I. Summers.

I think we may well hear what I. T. Chotes and R. L. Buckley have to say on section A: "Poorly made splices may be and very often are responsible for many kinds of trouble. If the splice is stiff, either because it is too wide or poor cement or too much cement is used, it is likely the screen image will move up or down, or both, as the splice goes through the projector. It may also be that a splice will cause the film to climb the sprocket, so that a long or short line of sprocket teeth impressions will be left in the film photographs, which will thereafter show on the screen at every projection. If the film climbs the sprocket it may be torn in two or perhaps split lengthwise for some distance. This is not likely to occur, but may, nevertheless.

"If the splice is so weak that it pulls in two it may stop the show, and if the break is between the aperture and intermittent sprocket, fire may result, with possibly very serious results. If the sprocket holes be not perfectly matched, they may clamp on the sprocket teeth, the film be carried around the sprocket, probably torn in two and certainly the show stopped. Fire may result from such a situation. If the splice be so made that the line of emulsion joinure is imperfect there may be a flash of white light on the screen and a most unpleasant sound from the sound projectors."

(B) Rau and Evans say: "It is especially important that all emulsion be scraped away from around the sprocket holes because the greatest amount of strain comes there. If any cement remains the film will not weld securely at that point, hence the splice will be seriously weakened."

(C) G. E. Doe says: "Too little cement will fail to weld the film ends together properly. Too much cement is objectionable. It represents waste; will not make as strong a splice as would the proper amount; may make a more or less stiff splice; may cause the splice to buckle. Also surplus cement is pressed out upon the film surface and has a decided tendency to deposit on aperture tension shoes, film traps and wherever the film rubs against anything under some pressure. Answering the question, just sufficient cement should be used to cover every portion of the stub end completly, with as little surplus as possible."

(D) I hesitated between several answers, especially those of Danielson and Rau and Evans. I think, however, the latter have a bit the best of it. Rau and Evans say: "The use of too much cement is objectionable because the surplus will collect on the film tracks, together with emulsion deposit, will harden there and scratch the film; also, in using too much cement there will be a tendency to rely upon the excess cement to 'stick' the film ends together instead of applying a good pressure on the splice so as to weld them, the latter being of course the better and more enduring splice; also, the excess cement will most likely be spread around the film in the vicinity of the splice, making a good catch-all for dirt and dust, and in the event of the splice having been made by hand, the imprints of thumb and finger-marks in the surplus cement will blur the picture, so that the fault will be actually noticeable on the screen; also, though the cost of cement is so small that even the closest manager would not consider this item, the use of unnecessary cement is not economical."

Note—Have been worried about our old friend and student Lester Borst, Rivoli theatre, Two Rivers, Wisconsin. Just heard from him. He has been absent from school because of a bad case of that "lovely" thing the flu. He is all right again. Just sent answer to questions 164 and 165.

Leaves General Electric

Albert G. Davis, vice-president of General Electric Company, in charge of patents, is retiring May 1 to enter the law firm of Pennie, Davis, Marvin and Edmonds, New York.

JENKINS' COLYUM

Independence, Iowa

DEAR HERALD:

Charles Hartsell of the Princess theatre at Odebolt is working overtime, including Sundays, in a desperate effort to keep open, but he says he will fight 'er out along the line if it takes him all summer. Charlie is a fighter, and it takes fighters in this business nowadays.

J. A. Richardson of the Strand at Wall Lake has a mighty fine helper in his daughter. She's a plucky girl with the tenacity of a bull dog and her slogan is "The old guard dies, it never surrenders," and that's the kind of pluck that will win. We had a delightful visit with them and hope the sun will soon shine on the Strand.

C. M. Anderson has taken over the Lomar theatre at Lohrville. He is operating only two nights a week and we judge that prospects are none too bright at this time and with not a very joyous outlook for the future, but if hard work will bring the answer C. M. will make it.

▽

The livest spot we have seen was at Storm Lake on last Sunday night. G. R. Norman of the Empire theatre had the chains up for the first time we have seen them in many months. He was playing "42nd Street" and the house was comfortably filled for the second show, which speaks mighty well for "42nd Street," also mighty well for Mr. and Mrs. Norman, who, by the way, are a couple of delightful people. We always enjoy our visit with them.

E. M. Tracy of the Princess theatre at Storm Lake is mighty popular with the kids. Maybe that's because he has a confectionery and soft drink stand in the lobby of the theatre. Candy and Buck Jones will draw them when nothing else will, but then E. M. is a pretty good drawing card himself. He says that with his popcorn, peanuts, candy and Buck, he thinks he'll weather the storm and worry through until the grass comes.

O. W. Tuel, who operates the Manson theatre at Manson, has operated seven days a week for two years. He has a policy of never changing his prices. His prices are ten and twenty-five cents no matter what the show. Big ones or little ones, the price is always the same. When they can operate every day in the week in a town as small as Manson there must be some reason, and the price may be the reason. Perhaps Mr. and Mrs. Tuel may be the reason, for they are very delightful folks.

▽

J. G. Fair of the Elite at Laurens bills seven towns around him that don't have shows. Most of these towns at one time had theatres, which would indicate that business is pretty bum. Now that the golf season will soon be here we expect J. G. will devote less time to billing and more time to golf, for he's a bug on golf; we found that out when we visited him two years ago. He licked the tar out of us.

M. J. Kuech of the Gem theatre at Charles City thought for a time this spring that he was going to be a sailor. His Gem theatre is located right on the bank of the Cedar river and the water was higher than it had been known in fifty years. It ran over the retaining wall and into his basement and put out the fire in his furance and thereby stopped the show for a couple of days. He says it looked for a time like he would be operating the "Show Boat" down on the Mississippi River. But M. J. is all right now, in fact he's all right all the time He's a HERALD fan.

M. R. Blair of the Regent theatre at Cedar Falls was playing George Arliss in "A King's Vacation" at the matinee when we called. He said he had just $2 in the house. Can you imagine a picture like that showing in a town of 5,000 with no opposition playing to only $2?

Mr. Blair used to sell us Universal service out of Omaha, and like a lot of other film boys we know, he treated us on the square, otherwise he couldn't have held his job with Uncle Carl. Of course, there are some exceptions which we won't note here.

▽

L. F. Wolcott still operates the Grand at Eldora. The theatre is well named, and not only well named, it is well managed. L. F. was under the weather when we called, just able to be down to the theatre for a few minutes, in fact. That's why we didn't get to visit with him very long.

And then there's another thing. Did you ever meet Mr. and Mrs. Earl Potter of the Firemans theatre at New Hampton? Well, that's too bad, you've missed something. Mrs. Potter is a Switzer and she put us up a Swiss lunch, if you know what we mean, and a Swiss lunch is something to write home about. If our wife would feed us Swiss lunches we doubt if we'd ever leave the premises, but she won't do it.

If Earl had been with Noah that time he'd have been the skipper of the boat, and he'd have had the commissary department well stocked, too.

He would have filled the rhino and hippo up on three and two-tenths per cent and had them do a love scene that would have pushed Clark Gable and Jean Harlow clear off the gangplank. That's the kind of a guy Earl is.

▽

Charlie Peterson at Hampton got into the habit of running good pictures a long time ago. His theory is that the best is none too good for his friends. He was playing "The Face In the Sky" with Spencer Tracy, Marion Nixon and Stuart Erwin, the night we called. And speaking of good pictures, "The Face in the Sky" is it. If they never make a worse picture than this they will never hear a squawk out of us. But they are not all as good as this one, in fact but few are, therefore occasionally we will have to squawk. We had a nice visit with Charlie and his whole family, including the bull dog. We made friends with the bull dog but we don't know how we came out with the family.

We are in receipt of a letter from Ray Musselman of Lincoln, Kansas, enclosing some poetry of a country dog in town. It is quite evident from this poetry that Kansas won't experience any drought this coming season.

Mr. Hagerman of the Grand theatre here in Independence is playing Will Rogers in "Too Busy to Work." For once they have cast Bill in a role where he doesn't have to do anything but act natural. Bill can do less and get more out of it than anybody we know.

▽

If they will make a rural comedy and have Spencer Tracy play the "City Slicker" out selling lightning rods; have Jimmy Gleason play the old farmer; Stuart Erwin play the hired man in love with the farmer's daughter, Zasu Pitts, and let these two dumb-bells do most of the chores, and have Jimmy knock the whey out of Spencer when he tries to run off with the daughter, they will have a comedy that will panic the whole herd. We'd like to go out to Hollywood and pair 'em up for a while.

▽

We note that Prof. Mordecai Ezekiel of the department of agriculture is going to apply birth control to the hog family. Good gosh, the hogs have troubles enough already, why pick on them? The Hollywood system ought to be plenty good enough.

When Mr. Hog and Mrs. Hog
Decide to travel double,
There'll be some guy
Behind a log
Who'll try to cause 'em trouble.

Adios, Adjea, Auf Wiedersehen (or something like that).

COLONEL J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD'S Vagabond Colyumnist

SIGNED . . .

Columbia

George B. Seitz engaged to direct "The Fighting Ranger." . . . Diane Sinclair assigned to "Full Speed Ahead," Lambert Hillyer to direct. . . . Frank Conroy and Robert Barret sign for "Ann Carver's Profession." . . . Warren William, Guy Kibbee and Glenda Farrell engaged for "Madame La Guimp," Frank Capra will direct. . . . Jessie Ralph given role in "Cocktail Hour." . . .

▽

Fox

Phillips Smalley, E. H. Calvert, Frank Boal and Thomas Ricketts signed for "The Power and the Glory" (Jesse L. Lasky). . . . Claire Trevor given contract. . . . Bodil Rosing added to "I Loved You Wednesday." . . .

▽

MGM

Greta Garbo and Nils Asther given new contracts. . . . Martha Sleeper, Andy Devine, Ivan Simpson, Robert Greir and Warren Hymer added to "Lady of the Night." . . . Leo McCarey will direct untitled picture starring Jack Pearl, Jimmy Durante and Mickey Mouse. . . .

▽

Monogram

Lionel Atwill signed for "The Sphinx." Phil Rosen will direct. . . .

▽

Paramount

Benita Hume borrowed from MGM and Glenda Farrell from Warner for "Gambling Ship." . . .

▽

RKO Radio

Ginger Rogers given new contract, and is assigned to "Careless." . . . Doris Kenyon, Paul Porcasi and Richard Carle added to "Ad Man." . . . C. Aubrey Smith, Fred Stanley, Pat O'Malley, Floyd Ingram and Marilyn Knowlden sign for "The Morning Glory." . . . Jane Darwell cast for "Bed of Roses." . . . Ann Harding in "Ann Vickers," John Cromwell to direct. . . . Mae Busch, June Brewster, Carol Tevis and Jerry Mandy added to the comedy, "A Divorce Courtship." . . .

▽

Universal

Karl Freund will direct "The Left Bank." . . . Vince Barnett and Bert Roach in "Their First Case," James Horne to direct (comedy). . . . June Knight assigned to "Lillies of Broadway." E. A. Dupont will direct. . . . Ken Maynard to direct himself in "Fiddlin' Buckaroo."

▽

Warner-First National

Charles Kengon and Polly Waters given contracts. . . .

Milestone and Del Ruth Join Columbia Directors

Lewis Milestone, who made "All Quiet on the Westrn Front" and "Front Page," and Roy Del Ruth, director of "Blessed Event," have been added to Columbia's directorial forces for the new season, joining Frank Borzage and Gilbert Miller, who also will act as a producer.

Freuler Films in India

Freuler Film Associates, Inc., has closed a deal with India Films, Ltd., for release of six Monarch features in India. Excellent Film Exchange of Canada has been established at Winnipeg to distribute Monarch products.

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

IN this, the exhibitor's own department, the theatremen of the nation serve one another with information on the box office performance of product for their mutual benefit. It is a service of the exhibitor for the exhibitor. Address all communications to—

What the Picture Did for Me
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Columbia

AIR HOSTESS: Evalyn Knapp—Just the type of picture for the average small town audience. Liked very much here.—L. G. Tewksbury, Opera House, Stonington, Me. Small town patronage.

AIR HOSTESS: Evalyn Knapp, James Murray—Good program picture.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

AMERICAN MADNESS: Walter Huston, Pat O'Brien—A lovely picture and played at the appropriate time. Bank holiday story. A bank run follows a holdup. Business fell off badly on the third night. Huston not as good as in the "Criminal Code." Played Mar. 13-14-15. Running time, 75 minutes.—V. W. Fisk, Blue Water Theatre, Kincardine, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

AS THE DEVIL COMMANDS: Alan Dinehart, Neil Hamilton—A very good program picture. They will not rave about it, but there will be no kicks. Does not have much drawing power at box office, and the story of the perfect crime has been done many times before. It's a clean picture suitable for any day in the week. Played Apr. 7. Running time, 70 minutes. Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

BITTER TEA OF GENERAL YEN: Barbara Stanwyck, Nils Asther—No good.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

DECEPTION: Leo Carrillo—A good program picture, but an extra good one for the men and boys, and the women who like sporting events. This is a grand expose of the present day wrestling game, and it has plenty of good wrestling matches in it that look like the real thing. If you sell this for what it is, a picture for wrestling fans and all others who like sporting events, it will do better than average business for you. The title means nothing, so you have to tell them what you have for sale. Played Apr. 11. Running time, 67 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

THE NIGHT MAYOR: Lee Tracy—Picture good and so is this boy Tracy. However, it failed to draw. Played Mar. 4-5.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

NO MORE ORCHIDS: Carole Lombard, Lyle Talbot—This is a splendid, entertaining picture. The star fine and cast extra good. Splendid story. We did not do business on this picture. We should, but no fault of the show. All we did get in were satisfied. Played Apr. 9-10.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

PAROLE GIRL: Ralph Bellamy, Mae Clark—Entire audience seemed satisfied.—L. G. Tewksbury, Opera House, Stonington, Me. Small town patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Wheeler and Woolsey—When college boys think a film vulgar, nothing more can be said about it. Played Mar. 21-22.—H. A. Griswold, Sewanee Union Theatre, Sewanee, Tenn. University town patronage.

THAT'S MY BOY: Richard Cromwell, Marion Marsh—This is an extra good football picture. Pleased them all and that I call a 100 per cent show.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

VIRTUE: Carole Lombard—This will make a very good program. Good sound and good acting. We were rained out on this, but picture is fine. Played Apr. 13-14. Running time, 68 minutes.—James Augustine, Spa Theatre, Hot Springs, Ark. General patronage.

WAR CORRESPONDENT: Jack Holt, Ralph Graves—Holt, a Chinese general of the air forces, and Graves, as the war correspondent in the Chinese war at Shanghai, together put up a fine program at any time, and especially this one. Sound and photography excellent. Interest is well maintained throughout. Business low first day, but almost tripled on second night, and third was as good as second. Played Mar. 2-3-4. Running time, 75 minutes.—V. W. Fisk, Blue Water Theatre, Kincardine, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

First National

CABIN IN THE COTTON: Richard Barthelmess—One of the finest pictures First National ever made. Plenty of compliments from patrons. They will never forget a picture like this. Now, Mr. Litsey, those shorts must be played, but we don't need shorts with pictures like this. Must admit they are good. Played Apr. 16-17. Running time, 75 minutes.—James Augustine, Spa Theatre, Hot Springs, Ark. General patronage

CENTRAL PARK: Joan Blondell—Good little picture. My patrons liked it fine. Played Apr. 6-7-8. Running time, 76 minutes.—G. A. Hart, Roxy Theatre, Stratford, Tex. Small town patronage.

THE CRASH: Ruth Chatterton, George Brent—This is a mighty good entertaining picture. Gave satisfaction. Played Mar. 4-5.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

EMPLOYEES' ENTRANCE: Warren William, Loretta Young—A lovely picture. It certainly gives William a chance to do his stuff. Young also was equal to the occasion. This was well like by everyone. Business above average. Played Mar. 9-10-11. Running time, 72 minutes.—V. W. Fisk, Blue Water Theatre, Kincardine, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

FRISCO JENNY: Ruth Chatterton—Great entertainment. Chatterton at her best. Donald Cook as Dan Reynolds very good. This picture has everything the small town wants. Not a happy ending. Played Apr. 1-2. Running time, 75 minutes.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

FRISCO JENNY: Ruth Chatterton—Hurray for First National and Warner Brothers for giving us a good Chatterton picture. This star was almost dead here, but "Frisco Jenny" will put her back where she left off with "Madam X." Here is an exceptionally fine picture, simply because it's a good story and well acted and directed. The song, "My Gal Sal," helps a great deal to put it over. Don't give all the credit to Ruth Chatterton. The fellow who wrote the story should be given as much credit as the stars. I paid for the last Chatterton picture without playing it, because it was worthless, on account of no story, but give this girl something to work on, and you will get a good picture. That's just what you have in "Frisco Jenny." Another sad ending, but O. K. at that. Play it up big. It's worth it.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

ILLEGAL: Margot Grahame, Isobel Elfon—I was rather afraid of this foreign-made picture. There is nothing big about it, but you won't have to hide when your patrons leave the theatre. If you use double features, would suggest you use this in that manner. But you can't except any extra business on this.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

SILVER DOLLAR: Edward G. Robinson—Good picture, but did not click here. Played Mar. 30-31-Apr. 1. Running time, 78 minutes.—G. A. Hart, Roxy Theatre, Stratford, Tex. Small town patronage.

SILVER DOLLAR: Edward G. Robinson—I class this as the greatest piece of work done this year. Robinson is a real actor, and this is his ace picture. The best from First National on the new lineup and that's saying a great deal. We struck a bad break on this picture, but under normal conditions it will be a money maker. It's excellent. Played Mar. 26-27-28.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

SILVER DOLLAR: Edward G. Robinson—Another First National hit. This picture has everything a small town theatre wants—history, comedy, pathos and drama. Robinson fine. Aline McMahon fast becoming a favorite here. Running time, 78 minutes. —Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

THEY CALL IT SIN: Loretta Young—A better than average program picture of a small town girl who goes to the big city. Una Merkel adds considerable to the picture. There is nothing very sinful in it. You can even play this on Sunday. Drawing power average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

THREE ON A MATCH: Joan Blondell, Warren William—This picture should have been rated as four stars. Pictures like this will bring them in any time. Pleased all. First National sure is hitting the mark this year. Played Apr. 2-3. Running time, 75 minutes.—James Augustine, Spa Theatre, Hot Springs, Ark. General patronage.

TIGER SHARK: Edward G. Robinson—Here is one you can't miss. One of Robinson's best. For the benefit of those who have not played it yet, go get it; it will do you a good business. Played Mar. 19-20. Running time, 80 minutes.—James Augustine, Spa Theatre, Hot Springs, Ark. General patronage.

20,000 YEARS IN SING SING: Bette Davis, Spencer Tracy—Here is a real picture. Life in Sing Sing well depicted. Tracy does some excellent acting with a free and easy style. His sweetheart, Davis, certainly did fine work, too. First National has reason to be proud of this one. Played Mar. 27-28-29. Running time, 77 minutes.—V. W. Fisk, Blue Water Theatre, Kincardine, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage..

YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL: Joe E. Brown—Chock full of hokum, but how they eat it up. One of the few pictures that left me a profit and pleased everyone. When Brown comes to town the people know they are going to get an evening's entertainment instead of one evening of agony. Keep 'em clean, Joe, and you will have Lloyd, Chaplin and all the rest backed off the map.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

Fox

BETWEEN FIGHTING MEN: Ken Maynard—A good little western picture. Lots of good action.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

CALL HER SAVAGE: Clara Bow—Clara from start to finish dominates the picture from beginning to end. Fair at the box office.—H. J. Altschwager, Rudalt Theatre, Columbus, Wis. Small town patronage.

DANGEROUSLY YOURS: Warner Baxter, Miriam Jordan—Drew unexpectedly well and an unusual number of people stopped to tell us how much they enjoyed it. Played Apr. 9-10.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

DOWN TO EARTH: Will Rogers—A good Rogers picture. Better than his two last ones. Did better than average business for these hard times. Should please any audience. Played Mar. 15-16. Running time, 80 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre. Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

DOWN TO EARTH: Will Rogers—Best gross on this for ten weeks, even though I played it nearly six months after release. Picture pleased very much and is most timely.—L. V. Bertgold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

FACE IN THE SKY: Spencer Tracy, Marion Nixon, Stuart Erwin—A little better than average program picture, that drew less than average business for two days. This trio of players can turn out a good picture if given the proper story and direction, but it seems that Fox does not have anything to offer their players or the exhibitor this year. This one will please most of your patrons if you don't oversell it. Played Apr. 9-10. Running time, 70 minutes. —Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

FACE IN THE SKY: Marion Nixon—This may not be the greatest picture Fox has produced this year, but it pleased my patrons better than anything I have received from this exchange. This girl Nixon is the swellest little star Fox has under contract. The story is good; the whole cast is good. I call it a great picture because it is human, because it is clean, and above all it is entertainment, and leaves you with a profit at the box office. Distributors won't have to worry about dividends if they will make pictures like this one. It has a pleasant ending, which is quite a change from a lot of pictures produced this year. When you play "Face in the Sky" tell the whole family to come out and spend an evening of high class entertainment.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

THE FIRST YEAR: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell —A very pleasing little romance that will go over almost anywhere. Partly due to road and weather conditions business was poor on this. This once famous combination, however, no longer have any unusual drawing power.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

THE GOLDEN WEST: George O'Brien—Not nearly up to expectations. O'Brien's hair would sicken a cat. Just a picture and not worthy of Zane Grey. Played Apr. 15.—H. J. Altschwager, Rudalt Theatre, Columbus, Wis. Small town patronage.

HANDLE WITH CARE: Jimmy Dunn, Boots Mallory—While Dunn is the featured player in this, the youngster Buster Phelps steals the picture. When patrons comment about it, they will talk about the children in this. The finish is a "wow." Make a big fuss about it. You are sure to please those who come. Business above average on this.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

ROBBERS' ROOST: Maureen O'Sullivan, George O'Brien—Better than average out-of-door drama. Made from Zane Grey tale. Clean, action and some marvelous protography. Played Apr. 14-15.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage

SMOKE LIGHTNING: George O'Brien—Good western. They are dolling these westerns up in shape nowadays. No more of the chaps and spurs, but more refined, and they do spruce up. Westerns don't draw anymore. Just a few years ago the name of Zane Grey attached to a one-sheet would fill the house, but "them days are gone forever."—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor—No town, regardless of how small, nor city, regardless of how large, will make a mistake in playing this. Students here represent a cross section of the country, from the smallest "burg" to the largest, and not one criticized adversely. Played Apr. 1-2-3. Running time, 110 minutes.—H. A. Griswold, Sewanee Union Theatre, Sewanee, Tenn. University town patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor—One of the best audience pictures that it has been my pleasure to show. Not a kick in a carload of patrons. Played Apr. 9-10-11.—H. J. Altschwager, Rudalt Theatre, Columbus, Wis. Small town patronage.

TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell—Our patrons liked this one. Some complained that Gaynor "did not dress up at all." It did fair business as business goes just now. Personally we did not think it up to some of the other pictures of these two. It was better than "First Year," however. Played Mar. 22-23. Running time, 78 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

TOO BUSY TO WORK: Will Rogers, Marion Nixon—Rogers always pleases my patrons, especially the men. Played family nights. Nixon gives a very pleasing performance. Played Mar. 29-30. Running time, 70 minutes.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

WOMAN IN ROOM 13: Elissa Landi—Not good. Leave it alone. Played Mar. 11-12.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

Majestic

UNWRITTEN LAW: Greta Nissen, Skeets Gallagher—A very good, entertaining picture.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

MGM

EMMA: Marie Dressler, Jean Hersholt—This is the kind of picture my folks like to see. It made them laugh and it made them cry, even on the children's matinee. A great picture. I would like to have more like it. Business, yes. No depression. Played Mar. 16-17-18. Running time, 70 minutes.—V. W. Fisk, Blue Water Theatre, Kincardine, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

FAST LIFE: William Haines—Very fine picture.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

FLESH: Wallace Beery—Good program picture.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

GRAND HOTEL: Lionel Barrymore, Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford—This picture drew well the first night owing to the wide circulation of the novel. Many had not read Vici Baum's work. They had difficulty in following the scheme. It reads much better than it plays, which is somewhat surprising, as in the novel it is dramatic in form and subject. The stock-jobbing part of the play was just as tiresome as in reading the novel. The one actor in that play who distinguished himself for real good acting was Lionel Barrymore. Every other star lost in reputation in the role he played. As for Greta Garbo—there are a lot of people in this "Benighted States" to whom "I tank I go home" will be a welcome sound. The general reaction of those who had read the book was one of disappointment—accentuated at the box office, especially the second night. Played Mar. 29-30.—A. J. Gibbons, Illinois Theatre, Metropolis, Ill. General patronage.

PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES: Laurel and Hardy—There is a laugh in this one from start to finish. Business well above the average and pleased all. Played Mar. 23-24-25. Running time, 67 minutes.—V. W. Fisk, Blue Water Theatre, Kincardine, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

RED DUST: Jean Harlow, Clark Gable—This picture would have drawn better, possibly, if we had booked it sooner. The fact that our Sunday-Monday was low is probably due more to many of our customers having seen it than lack of drawing power of the picture. Played Apr. 2-3.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

THE SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE: Irene Dunne, Phillips Holmes—Good picture.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

STRANGE INTERLUDE: Norma Shearer, Clark Gable—Very fine picture. Extra drawing power.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

STRANGE INTERLUDE: Norma Shearer, Clark Gable—Wonderful acting by Shearer, Gable and May Robson, but did not go over very well. Too long. Do not consider it a small town show. Only interested the highbrows. Not nearly as good as "Smilin' Through." Played Mar. 26-27. Running time, 112 minutes.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

WHAT! NO BEER: Jimmy Durante, Buster Keaton—One of the funniest pictures I ever saw. Durante stole the picture. It might have been a little overdrawn, but it made them all laugh, and that is something these times.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

WHAT! NO BEER: Jimmy Durante, Buster Keaton—If they like Keaton and Durante, O. K. Otherwise not so hot. Played Apr. 14-15.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK: Ernest Truex—A good picture of its kind, but with no pull at the box office. Who knows Truex in the small towns? Played Apr. 12.—H. J. Altschwager, Rudalt Theatre, Columbus, Wis. Small town patronage.

Monogram

GIRL FROM CALGARY: Fifi Dorsay—This picture had just about the rottenest sound we ever played. Ran it to an audience that went out disgusted. Result—an empty house Tuesday. Dorsay deserves better treatment. Why don't Monogram improve their sound—Amusu Theatre Company, Inman, S. C. General patronage.

Paramount

THE BIG BROADCAST: Stuart Erwin, Leila Hyams—Great. Pleased 100 per cent. Paramount is handing us good pictures this season. Played Mar. 18-19.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

BLONDE VENUS: Marlene Dietrich—It's good. Don't let anyone tell you it is not. Marlene was better liked in this than "Shanghai Express." Comments all good. No business, however. Played Apr. 1-2.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

FROM HELL TO HEAVEN: Carole Lombard, Jack Oakie—Just a fair picture. Good average program.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

HELLO, EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—Little extra business and pleased all. Miss Smith's singing splendid and the story clean and entertaining. Played Apr. 9-10.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

HELLO, EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—I did not see this picture, but those who did said it was good, and to my surprise, I made a profit the second night; so it must be O. K. I would call it satisfactory entertainment, and will draw above average.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

HERITAGE OF THE DESERT: Randolph Scott—This drew better than average business on bargain night, but can hardly be rated better than an average western.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

KING OF THE JUNGLE: Frances Dee, Buster Crabbe—Chock full of hokum, but they like it that way. The fight with the bull and the lion, and the tiger and the lion are the most thrilling wild animal scenes I ever saw on a film. These two scenes are the real thing and will give your patrons a great thrill. The kid business will treble, and the picture will satisfy. Played Apr. 9-10-11.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

KING OF THE JUNGLE: Buster Crabbe, Frances Dee—This picture, although well produced and enacted, failed to click here. It certainly drew the kids, though. The public is wise to these improbable jungle yarns. What they want is something more like everyday life happenings. Played Apr. 11-12-13. Running time, 72 minutes.—A. Fischer, Jr., Strand Theatre, Oconomowoc, Wis. General patronage.

A LADY'S PROFESSION: Ronald Young, Alison Skipworth—A very good program picture. Didn't do any extra business, but those who did see it were satisfied. Played Apr. 10-11.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

LUXURY LINER: George Brent, Zita Johann—A fine picture, with a list of stars that do justice to the story. Alice White, although not starred, steals the picture. A different type of story showing the different happenings on a luxurious ocean liner, from the steerage up to first class passage. Played Apr. 9-10. Running time, 68 minutes.—A. Fischer, Strand Theatre, Oconomowoc, Wis. General patronage.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN: James Gleason, Jack Oakie, Marion Nixon—This one pleased the sport fans mostly. Women did not fall for it so strong. Nevertheless it's a good picture. Failed to draw. Played Mar. 25-26.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

NIGHT OF JUNE 13: Clive Brook, Lila Lee—Very good. Pleased everyone. Drew fairly well. Played Feb. 25-26.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

PICK UP: Sylvia Sidney, George Raft—Sidney not so popular with students as she was a year ago. Raft never has been liked by my crowd. A good programmer, nevertheless. Played Mar. 28-29.—H. A. Griswold, Sewanee Union Theatre, Sewanee, Tenn. University town patronage.

70,000 WITNESSES: Phillips Holmes, Charles Ruggles—Here is one I had sidetracked several times, but finally obliged with a date on account of so much favorable comment in these columns. Pleased more than any picture I have run this year and that covers quite a field of shows. Ruggles almost steals the picture with his great comedy as the newspaperman. I note with alarm the diminishing of the "What the Picture Did for Me" department. Come on, boys!—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

TONIGHT IS OURS: Claudette Colbert, Fredric March—Romantic drama along lines of the old story, "Graustark," and it drew and pleased good weekend business. Played Apr. 7-8.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

TONIGHT IS OURS: Fredric March, Claudette Colbert—March and Colbert excellent. Good story with happy ending for a change. A little breezy in spots, but handled especially well. Patrons will get their money's worth, and the picture should draw a little above average.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

UNDER THE TONTO RIM: Stuart Erwin—A good western with Erwin. "Nuff sed." Played Apr. 12-13.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

THE WOMAN ACCUSED: Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant—Liberty Magazine story, on which ten authors collaborated. Made some changes in the picture version, which I think improved. Seemed to please our Sunday audience, and drew a shade extra business. Played Apr. 16-17.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage

RKO

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding, Leslie Howard—As far as acting and direction on this picture, it was fine. Story just rotten. Why waste such talent in this type of entertainment. These kind of pictures will bring a board of censors in every small town in the country. (Possibly it is over our heads). Played Apr. 2-3.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

THE BILL OF DIVORCEMENT: John Barrymore, Katharine Hepburn—From some standpoints one of the best pictures of the year, but it is not box office in a small town. This is a great women's show and will win approval from most of the older males.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

GOLDIE GETS ALONG: Lili Damita, Charles Morton—No good.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

KING KONG: Fay Wray, Bruce Cabot, King Kong—Here is something new for all those who have been howling that all pictures are alike, and it's a show. Make no mistake about this one. It should be a box office cleanup of the present season in the spots where there is any money left to spend for shows. All you hear as they leave the theatre is how in the world did they make that picture. The trick photography in this is the nearest thing to a miracle that Hollywood has ever shown on the screen. We ran into rain and the depression at its worst here and did not do anything big with "King Kong." But when you play it, get behind it and sell it with all the advertising possible. Here is a tip to other producers—one picture like this is all the public wants—make no more. Played Apr. 17-18-19. Running time, 100 minues.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

LUCKY DEVILS: Bill Boyd, Bruce Cabot—Fair program picture.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

MEN OF AMERICA: Bill Boyd—Good action program picture for Saturday showing. Less shooting would have made a better picture. Too much noise is irritating. Business about average, but average now is about one-fourth of normal business. Played Mar. 17-18. Running time, 57 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

OUR BETTERS: Constance Bennett—No good.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

THE PAST OF MARY HOLMES: Helen MacKeller, Eric Linden—Fair.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

PENGUIN POOL MURDER: Edna May Oliver, James Gleason—The best picture we have had from RKO in a long time. This one gave the customers plenty of laughs. Oliver and Gleason are swell in this. Give it extra advertising. It's a fine show. Played Apr. 14. Running time, 74 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

ROCKABYE: Constance Bennett—Everyone who saw this picture liked it very much. It showed it had been cut by the Virginia censor board, but this did not mar the entertainment. Many thought it the best Bennett picture in a long time. Paul Lukas received compliments for his work. Business fair. Good repeat. Played Mar. 20-21. Running time, 68 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

STATE'S ATTORNEY: John Barrymore—An excellent court scene picture and pleased well the ones that like a court picture, but fell on the third day. Sound, photography excellent. Played Mar. 20-21-22. Running time, 78 minutes.—V. W. Fisk, Blue Water Theatre, Kincardine, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

TOPAZE: John Barrymore, Myrna Loy—This is the most outstanding character work that Barrymore has done, but it seems as though it isn't the type of story the general public is looking for. Those who saw the picture raved, but our business was below par during the engagement. Played Apr. 4-5-6. Running time, 78 minutes.—A. Fischer, Jr., Strand Theatre, Oconomowoc, Wis. General patronage.

United Artists

HALLELUJAH, I'M A BUM: Al Jolson—A well written play. Revised and polished to the last rub. Dialogue clever and painstakingly poetic with much of it in rhyme. Music so directed that the play is a mere appendix to the music, with the acting synchronized to the music. The delivery in rhyme quite suggestive of school days in sixth grade. Story thin, not to hurt anybody's head. Fantastic motions synchronized to music takes the place of acting. Jolson good but not quite up to his standard. There is no hokum in this play; therefore, there was absent the usual noisy applause of common people in waving the flag and singing the national anthem (the flag was not waved) which is usual at a community gathering or corner stone laying. Instead, the idiotic expressions and idiotic faces, often seen in a mixed gathering, were brought out. Nobody missed the hokum but they did miss the patriotism and didn't like the substitute. The author is to be commended that he did not insert O. K. once, at least not while I was awake. The characterization is just the opposite of every standard play. Whereas such a novice as Shakespeare introduces only one freak in a play, in this case they are all freaks except the woman; and as a woman is a natural born freak anyway, the exception was not noticed. I again express my admiration for the work and finish of this play. But as to results: a good house the first night, with a number of walkouts. Second night: not enough people to keep from feeling lonely. Manager Jones just weepingly remarked "there will be nobody tonight." As to expressions heard in the lobby: "Nothing to it," "Another night gone to waste," "I waited and waited and nothing happened." Played Apr. 10-11.—A. J. Gibbons, Illinois Theatre, Metropolis, Ill. General patronage

Universal

AFRAID TO TALK: Eric Linden, Sidney Fox—A mighty good gangster picture. People are pretty well fed up on this kind of entertainment and they don't draw in this town. This one gave satisfaction to those we did get. Played Apr. 11-12.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

BACK STREET: Irene Dunne, John Boles—A good production. Miss Dunne's work in this is marvelous. Drew slightly above average. Played Apr. 8-9.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

LAUGHTER IN HELL: Pat O'Brien, Gloria Stuart—An honest effort made in this to make a good one, but it missed fire. Just one of those offerings that you wish you would have set just a western instead. There is very little entertainment value in it, and terribly depressing.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

LAUGHTER IN HELL: Pat O'Brien—This picture barely paid for itself. The men liked it and I heard no unfavorable comments. Played Apr. 7-8.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

THE MUMMY: Boris Karloff—This rates as entertainment for about 25 per cent. The other 75 per cent will consider it an evening more or less wasted. No walkouts for me, but plenty of unfavorable comment on the street following the engagement. People get so few laughs out of life nowadays, they seek and enjoy them from the screen. There isn't even a grin in this. Would not have played had I seen it first.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

MY PAL THE KING: Tom Mix—Kids sure pleased to see their old friend Mix again. Picture is O. K. Played Mar. 8-9.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

NAGANA: Tala Birell, Melvyn Douglas—There is no two ways about it. This picture has been made with a very definite idea to honestly produce the story as is, and you will find it is a wonderful production. Wild animal fighting is the best or worst that has ever been shown. Birell is a new type for the screen and a welcome one. I am sure there is a great future for her. I was not able to do average business with this picture with unusual promotion.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

ROME EXPRESS: Esther Ralston, Conrad Veidt—Worst of the worst. Pulled the second night. Did not satisfy anyone. Recording terrible, acting terrible. Cannot say anything good about the whole picture. Poorest business ever. Why Uncle Carl tried to put this one over is a mystery. Approximately 50% walked out on it. I can't understand what Motion Picture Herald saw to give the write-up they did, or any of the critics. I personally think some of the critics need an overhauling. Boys, wait until you run it, you'll be for me. Played Apr. 9.—Emmett F. Roche, Hart Theatre, Hart, Mich. General patronage.

TERROR TRAIL: Tom Mix—A mighty good western action picture. Mix never made better pictures than right now.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Warner

FORTY-SECOND STREET: All star—The younger generation influenced to an extent by the radio, want music and while there wasn't any too much in this picture there was enough to satisfy. Picture from story angle well conceived with enough variety to make it thoroughly entertaining. Money class. Played Apr. 7-8.—H. A. Griswold, Sewanee Union Theatre, Sewanne, Tenn. University town patronage.

THE KING'S VACATION: George Arliss — Another good, clean picture from the factory of George Arliss. It's extra good entertainment for all classes, but we cannot get our patrons to come out and see an Arliss picture. They have made up their minds that they do not like him as an actor and there does not seem to be any way to change them. This one drew less than nothing in two days. Played Apr. 12-13. Running time, 62 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

LAWYER MAN: William Powell—Clever picture. Well received. Played Apr. 13-14-15. Running time, 72 minutes.—G. A. Hart, Roxy Theatre, Stratford, Tex. Small town patronage.

A SUCCESSFUL CALAMITY: George Arliss—Is always good and especially in this one. Interest well maintained. A clean production. Business—yes. Second day doubled the first and the third doubled the second. The clergy turned out for this one and they thanked me for it. I highly recommend it. Played Mar. 6-7-8. Running time, 72 minutes.—V. W. Fisk, Blue Water Theatre, Kincardine, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

World Wide

UPTOWN NEW YORK: Jack Oakie, Shirley Grey—A very good program picture. Stars and cast fine. Story entertaining.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Short Features

Educational

FOOL ABOUT WOMEN: Andy Clyde—When Andy got going he brought out the laughs. It is real laughs we need now. Running time, 21 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

